Last week Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon gave their fiftieth performance in "Her Lord and Master" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, and they will continue at the Manhattan until May, closing on the third of that month one of the most successful engagements of the season. May 6 a very notable event at the Manhattan will be the reappearance of Mrs. Fiske, after one of the most successful tours of the larger cities of the country she ever has made. The return of Mrs. Fiske to the Manhattan for a short spring engagement will be made unusually popular by the revival by this great actress of several of her former successes. Clotilde de Lorde will be "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," in which Mrs. Fiske has not been seen in New York in several seasons. This revival will be notable, aside from the opportunity it will give the public to again see Mrs. Fiske in one of the greatest impersonations of the modern theatre, because her company for this event will include several of the distinguished actors that originally participated in the success of "Tess." Mrs. Fiske also will be seen for a few performances in Sardou's sparkling comedy, "Divorcons," also in Henrik Ibsen's remarkable play, "A Doll's House." These revivals will embody the most interesting feature of the closing theatrical season in New York. In the meantime, those that have not already done so shall avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to see Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon in Miss Morton's very clever comedy, "Her Lord and Master."

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cure such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Washington Park, are sojourning at Lakewood for a short time.

METUCHEN TALKS OF TOBACCO RAISING PLAN

Several of the Farmers of the Neighborhood Have Raised It With Much Success.

THE SOIL SEEMS RIGHT.

A PROPER DISTANCE FROM THE SEACOAST TO PERMIT PROPER CURING.

Possible to Make Net Profit of $300 With Comparatively Very Little Outlay for Machinery and Fertilizers.

The people of Metuchen, according to the Newark Call, are becoming enthusiastic over the possibility of that place becoming the centre of a great tobacco raising country. Last year some very successful experiments were made in raising this product, and the strong belief is developed that tobacco can be raised in that vicinity with results every bit as successful as those obtained in Connecticut and many other parts of the country. The soil thereabouts seems to be especially adapted for the growth of the plant and that location is just the right distance from the seacoast to permit proper curing.

Thomas Allen, who lives about a mile from Metuchen, was the first man to become interested in growing tobacco there. He had experience and success than any other person near there. He has been successful in cultivating it for three years past and has sold what he raised at good figures. This year he will put out more plants than ever before—60,000 in all. He says it is possible to realize a profit of $300 an acre on the product. And as the average a farmer makes on an acre of grain is about $35, it can readily be seen that there is money in the tobacco raising business. There are, of course, certain investments that must be made at the start for necessary machinery and fertilizers, etc., but they do not amount to a great deal.

A machine, which is drawn by two horses and operated by two boys and a man, is one of the chief requisites—and is called a transplanter. The plants themselves, which have been raised in hot beds, are planted in the ground by the boys as the machine goes along, and are watered and fertilized before being covered—all this being practically done in one operation.

J. W. R. Crawford, of Metuchen, secured a good figure for two and a half acres of tobacco which he raised last year. The purchaser was made by a London, England, firm. The price he got was $600 and the amount would have been more but for the fact that it was not raised by an experienced person. It was bought by the English firm for filling purposes for the reason that the tobacco were not quite good enough for wrappers, being thatched. Had the tobacco received proper care it could have been used for cigar wrappers and would have brought a much better figure.

This year Mr. Crawford will put in 50,000 plants. Several others are arranging to grow the weed, and it is likely that 500,000 plants will be put out this season.

ON FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich Received Appointment at Annual Convention.

The two days' session of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Congregational Association of New Jersey was ended at Jersey City Wednesday. It was a most successful convention throughout. At the afternoon session, Tuesday, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, was elected a member of the finance committee to serve until April, 1908. At the closing session Wednesday Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, gave an address on "The Genesis of Christianity."

OBJECT TO COWS.

West Enders Do Not Favor Them on Their Lawns.

The usual complaints are being received by the police from West Enders whose lawns suffer from the depredations of cows. This is a nuisance which is suffered by residents of that section of the city every summer and some of them demand that action be taken. People owning cows are wont to allow them to wander at will, thus saving the cost of pasturage at the expense of those who desire grassy lawns.

Relief Association Sale.

There will be a spring sale of household articles, clothing, shoes, etc., at the Relief Association rooms, 344 West Front street, May 7, 8 and 9, at 2 o'clock each afternoon.

Hit by Stone.

Miss Grace Clark, of Grandview avenue, received a severe bruise below the eye Thursday by being hit by a stone thrown by a small boy.

GOOD NEWS OF JERSEY CENTRAL

The General Passenger Agent Tells of Improvements to be Made in the Near Future.

NEW ROLLING STOCK

Two Old Trains, Heretofore Given Up, Are to be Put Back Into Service—Forty New Locomotives and Sixty New Passenger Cars to be Ready by June 1.

That the general service of the New Jersey Central is greatly improved is a fact recognized by everyone who has occasion to travel over the road. The commuters, as well as all others, who use the road, will be pleased to learn that there is to be further improvement within a short time. C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, in an interview with a Daily Press representative, last evening, gave assurances that when the improvements now under way are completed, the travelling public will have no cause to complain.

It is the purpose of the company to give the patrons of the road ideal service and nothing will be left undone until this is accomplished. Commencing June 1 the 8:37 early morning train will be put on again for the convenience of the market-men. Although this train to New York at that hour has always been run at a loss, the company believes that the persons who have used this train are to be considered. It will arrive in New York at 4:50 o'clock. This train starts from Dunellen and is sure to be run on time.

Some of the forty passenger locomotives ordered some time ago are now being delivered. Many of them are of the new suburban type, that is double ender, so that they can be run either way conveniently without being changed about. The new type will be used chiefly on the suburban traffic between Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth and Roselle. The first installment of the sixty passenger coaches has also been received. They will all be here by June 1.

Another change that will be greatly appreciated will be the renewal of the "owl" train out of New York, leaving at 1 o'clock in the morning. This will give everyone a chance to get home from the theatre at night and not hurry unnecessarily. Just as soon as the improvement of elevating the tracks in Newark is completed there will be a marked improvement in the entire service. Mr. Burt was most positive in his declaration that the interests of the patrons of the road are to be paramount in the future.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

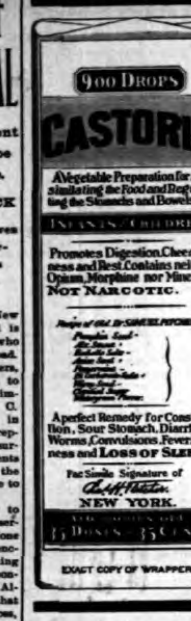
For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,

4 30 oaw 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

DRAKE IN CONTROL.

Chancellor Pitney Has Approved Sale of Remaining Lots at Lincoln.

Chancellor Pitney has approved the sale of fifty-five lots at Lincoln to the Drake interest. This gives to S. D. Drake entire control of the property at Lincoln and makes it possible for the issuance of guarantee titles. There is already a big boom in real estate at Lincoln and it promises to restore to that town its former activity in business.



CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

SCHOOL BOYS TAKE STAND

ACTION OF "SCOUT" HAS CAUSED CONSIDERABLE CRITICISM.

Many Boroughites Believe the Youth Editors Have Not Done Well to Write as They Have.

In the current number of a monthly publication conducted by pupils of the North Plainfield High School there is an article entitled "The point of view taken by the students on the consolidation of North Plainfield and Plainfield City," which has brought forth much severe criticism from men of standing in the borough. They place censure for allowing school boys and girls to use a publication issued in the interests of the schools to mix up in weighty affairs in this nature, specially so in the manner in which the article is couched.

Attention has been called to a single paragraph in the article, which one prominent citizen declares is mere twaddle. He says that while the logic of the whole contribution is that of a small boy, yet it bears evidence of revision by an older head. This paragraph is as follows:

"There are many things to be considered before such an important step is taken. It seems to be a 'political job' on the part of the Plainfielders to induce us to join ourselves to Plainfield City, in order that her heavy debt may be paid by us. We pay for having our roads and bridges made and built as we go along, but Plainfield gives no thought to the future. She rushes in head first, has a great amount of work done throughout the city; and when the money is due, where is she going to get it, and what is she going to do? Why, simply get some of her politicians together, who by schemes and stratagems, try to induce North Plainfield to become a part of their city and pay it for them, trying to make us believe that by so doing we will be taking a wise and advisable step."

This article has particularly incensed a man who in former years has given much of his time to promote the interests of the borough, while serving as a councilman, and he feels that his contribution to the support of the publication, which by the way is called "The Scout," was money poorly invested.

A FAITHFUL MEMBER.

Will Leave St. Joseph's Parish and Go to Catholic Home at Newark.

Mrs. Mary Reilly, of 308 East Front street, for many years one of the very faithful members of St. Joseph's church, has been obliged by reason of her age, to relinquish her duties at the church. She has received a very flattering letter from Rev. Father Miller attesting her true worth. This she has taken to the Catholic House for the Aged at Newark, where she will in the future make her home and have a chance to rest from her labors.

Pleasingly Entertained.

Miss Kittie Whalen, of Brook avenue, entertained a number of friends, Friday evening, dancing being the feature of the affair. Arthur Sherman rendered some vocal and instrumental selections.

ORGANIST FOR TWENTY YEARS

A. L. TITSWORTH CELEBRATED HIS ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY NIGHT.

Gave a Special Musical Service at Trinity Reformed Church—Assisted by Choir.

In recognition of the services of Arthur L. Titsworth, as organist of Trinity Reformed church for twenty years, a praise service with a fine programme was given in the church last Sunday under the direction of Mr. Titsworth. A significant decoration was a floral harp which stood near the platform.

The choir, Miss Ethel May Derby, soprano; Miss Minnie M. Williams, alto; Horace J. Martin, tenor, and Joseph C. Martin, bass, was assisted by Mrs. Geo. W. Sauns, violin and Elmer P. Wheeler, flute. The opening number was a prelude, "Largo in G," by the violin, flute and organ. The special numbers in the programme included a contralto solo, "O Rest in the Lord," by Miss Williams; an anthem, "Rock of Ages," by the choir; offertory, "The Lost Chord," by Miss Derby; anthem, "Hark! Hark! My Soul," by the choir, and the postlude, "Priest's March," from Athaliah, violin, flute and organ.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., made a short address on "Music in the Sanctuary," reviewing the history of music and referring specially to the long services of Mr. Titsworth. He congratulated Mr. Titsworth on behalf of the church and consistory.

At the close of the service Mr. Titsworth was presented with a purse of $30 in gold by Dr. Schenck in behalf of the consistory and a few of his church friends. He responded feelingly.

Mr. Titsworth has been organist of the church a period within two years of its history. He served in that capacity when Dr. Raymond was its pastor. During his entire service he has missed but a very few Sundays and his service has been a most willing one.

DROPPED DEAD.

Sudden Death of Thomas Flynn, One of Oldest Members of St. Marys' Parish, From Heart Disease.

Thomas Flynn, one of the oldest members of St. Mary's parish, dropped dead in his chair at his home on East Second street, Sunday, death being due to heart disease. He was seventy-seven years of age. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Michael F. DeCourcey, of East Second street.

He was born in county Roscommon, Ireland, and came to this country fifty years ago, settling in South Plainfield. Subsequently he removed to this city.

Sixty Years of Popularity is the record of Painkiller (Perry Davis') but the shops are full of imitations made to sell upon the great reputation of the genuine. In cautions, therefore, when you ask for a bottle to see that you get the genuine. An unfailing remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis.

Mundy Has Contract.

Walter J. Mundy has the contract for the cement work for C. H. Gulick's new house in South End Park. Mr. Gulick will do the carpenter work.

COLONEL KEPT VOW.

How Gen. Wilson Cured a Bibulous Fellow Officer.

Charming Story Told About the Gallant Soldier Who Will Represent the Army at the King Edward's Coronation.

When the late Charles A. Dana was assistant secretary of war he was commissioned to go to the front and, in semiofficial letters, to give us impressions of the officers of Grant's army for the purpose of assisting President Lincoln and Secretary Stanton in forming their judgment of military leaders.

Of Gen. James H. Wilson, one of the commissioners appointed by President Roosevelt to represent the United States at the coronation of King Edward, Mr. Dana wrote, under date of Cairo, Ill., July 13, 1863:

Lieut. Col. Wilson, inspector general, is a captain of engineers in the regular army, and has rendered valuable services in that capacity. . . . He has remarkable talents for administration, executive power, and will be heard from hereafter.

"Gen. Wilson abundantly fulfilled that prediction," said Brig. Gen. John C. Weston, formerly of the regular army. "I had the honor," continued Gen. Weston, "to serve on Gen. Wilson's staff during his famous cavalry campaign. In the opinion of his men and in the estimate of Grant himself, Gen. Wilson was a remarkably brilliant soldier. Gen. Wilson was very young when made a cavalry commander. In fact, he was but 27 years of age when he assisted in the final triumphs of the war."

An officer in the war department at Washington, in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, tells of an incident in which the youth and the still more youthful appearance of Gen. Wilson during the civil war are noted. He distinguished colonel to send in his resignation. "It is an interesting bit of unwritten history," said the officer who relates the story.

"Shortly after Grant had put Gen. Wilson in charge of a large force of cavalry and while his brilliant exploits were being heralded throughout the country, Col. —— was transferred from the army of the Potomac and assigned to duty under Gen. Wilson. The colonel knew a number of Wilson's officers personally and was popular among them. He was a cool and brave soldier on the battlefield, but in social hours was something of a Bohemian. On the night of his arrival at Gen. Wilson's camp the general was temporarily absent and the colonel and his staff officers celebrated their reunion.

GEN. JAMES H. WILSON.
(Will Represent Our Army at King Edward's Coronation.)

"The next morning the colonel went to the general's headquarters to report for duty. It was in August, and the general, in white duck, entirely divested of military emblems, was keeping cool in a hammock where he was diligently studying a topographical map. Somehow the colonel, who had never met Wilson, got it into his head that this youth was a newspaper correspondent, so he took a cigar and, without hesitation addressed him familiarly, saying that he had arrived only the night before and had, he feared, tarried too long at the wassail bowl.

"I understand," added the colonel, 'that Gen. Wilson is very strict about that sort of thing.'

"'The general,' replied Gen. Wilson, suppressing his amusement over the colonel's unwitting confession, 'seeks to impress his officers with the necessity of keeping their faculties clear for possible emergencies at any hour.'

"'Do you think,' persisted the hapless colonel, 'that my appearance would betray me?'

"'Only a practiced eye,' responded the general, 'but I should advise you to walk around a little while before reporting.'

"The colonel took his advice and after a while returned. When he discovers that the youth he had seen in the hammock was in reality the dashing cavalry leader, the colonel was in a worse condition than he had been the night before, but the general put him at his ease by telling him that he would not drink again, except on a physician's order, while the war lasted."

The vow was rigidly kept.

Poor Country for Deadbeats.

Debtors in Siam, when three months in arrears, can be seized by their creditors and compelled to work out their indebtedness. Should a debtor run away, his father, his wife or his children may be held in slavery until the debt is canceled.

Chinamen in Factories.

In San Francisco 570 Chinamen are employed in factories, making underwear for women and children. Girls are totally unable to compete with them.

TALK WITH MENELIK.

American Traveler Has an Interesting Social Half Hour with the King of Abyssinia.

Oscar T. Crosby contributes to the Century his "Personal Impressions of Menelik." Here is a resume of one of his conversations with the king:

He has never been outside of his own kingdom; has probably never seen a boat, save one of Marchand's, which lies in front of the palace, in sections, as borne there by porters; has never seen a wheeled vehicle, save a few small mountain guns; speaks no European language; and must devote most of his time to internal affairs. Such an expansive body of water as the ocean, I fancy, he cannot conceive; the rotundity of the earth has been explained to him, but was not grasped. He marveled when I told him of the difference in time between New York and Addis Abeba. Of New York he seemed not to have heard when I referred to it as the big city of my country. Pictures of great commercial buildings and views of cities made, I thought, rather a faint impression on him. The Brooklyn bridge was more effective, and he marveled at its height, though just how the interpreter translated figures and distances I do not know, since in ordinary transactions with Abyssinians no unit of length was discovered. The capitol at Washington, which was described as corresponding to his residence, made some impression on him when its size was explained.

HEAD OF MENELIK.
(Drawn by A. Bryant, for the Century, from an Abyssinian Coin.)

When the books were put aside, a new magazine plated which I had picked up in Paris came in for minute examination, and then took its place in a collection of small arms which must now be well-nigh complete.

Among the illustrations shown were some of the big New England cotton-mills. These I tried to identify to Menelik as the places in which were manufactured nearly all of the cotton goods which his subjects wore, a fact that I had learned with surprise and pleasure while on the coast. In other ways, also, I tried to make clear my nationality; but in the end he dictated, or his secretary wrote: "Mr. Crosby, the Englishman, has permission to go down the Blue Nile."

PRINCES OF CHURCH.

Entire College of Cardinals to Be Present at Jubilee Function at Rome Next June.

Cardinals Gibbons and Martinelli are to be invited to repair simultaneously to Rome to be present at a grandiose function in honor of the papal jubilee of Leo XIII. The event is to take place in the end of June, and is to consist of a gathering of the entire college of cardinals around the pope to offer in a body their congratulations and their hearty wishes ad multos annos.

The movement was started by the cardinals resident in Cura, those who live in Rome and are at the head of the sacred Roman congregations. They decided to invite all their non-resident brother princes of the church to convene in the eternal city as a symbol of the unity of the Catholic hierarchy and their devotion to the supreme pontiff.

MGR. OTTAVIO DE AVEZZOLO.
(Major Domo of the Pope's Household, in Charge of Conclave.)

The gathering will be almost unique in the history of the church. The cardinals heretofore have been assembled only for the holding of an ecumenical council or for a conclave on the death of a pope. The conclave is often held hurriedly, and cardinals residing at long distances from Rome have rarely any hope of being in time to personally cast their vote for the election of the new pope.

Alone of all members of the Catholic church the Cardinal Camerlingo is permitted to make provision before a reigning pope's death for the holding of the next conclave—the meeting of the college of cardinals to elect a pope, and such provision must be only of a material kind.

At the gathering of the cardinals next June no discussion of the subject will, of course, be made among those directly interested.

FRIEND OF AMERICA.

New Chilian Minister Is Persona Grata at Washington.

Senor Walker-Martinez, Cleverest of South American Diplomats, Began His Public Career as a Journalist.

The Chilian legation has long been a notable one at the American capital. The little republic, besides its mines and cattle, is rich in great men, and some of its most eminent sons have been sent as representatives to that greater republic which all the nations of South America are coming to regard as a kind of sympathetic older sister. The new Chilian minister, Don Joaquin Walker-Martinez, is one of the most noted statesmen of the country which he represents, and at the recent Pan-American congress in Mexico, to which he was a delegate, added to his reputation as a shrewd and sound legislator that of a brilliant debater.

Mr. Walker-Martinez began life, like so many of the successful politicians of the day, as a journalist, and by the vigor of his work, his high ideals, the stand he took on current questions, attracted the attention of his party, and he was made to stand as a delegate to the house of deputies, where, in 1891, he was one of the most active and devoted workers in the fight between President Balmaceda and the congress. For this efficient service he was appointed minister of finance of the recently created government board, which portfolio he later on exchanged for that of minister of war, being present at the hotly contested battles of Concon and Placilla, where his party triumphed.

Victory being assured, Mr. Walker-Martinez was one of the first of the ministers to return to the capital, where he assumed charge of the cabinet until the return of his colleagues from the seat of hostilities, and in the reestablishing and reorganizing of the government took an active and intelligent part. No official worked more zealously or with greater devotion for the credit of his party than Mr. Walker-Martinez at this crucial time, and his service was abundantly recognized by the grateful people, who presented the young statesman with a country home near the capital, whither he retired to enjoy a well deserved rest and to recuperate from the exacting work and the strain he had been under during the civil trouble.

SENOR WALKER-MARTINEZ.
(New Minister of the Republic of Chili at Washington.)

Mr. Walker-Martinez finally abandoned his retreat to establish a daily paper, El Constitutional, through whose columns he criticised the methods, policy and some of the acts of his former party associates, further marking his disapproval of their course by an alliance with the independent party. His diplomatic career began in 1896 with his appointment as minister to Brazil, a delicate post, since between the country to which he was accredited and that which he represented there had existed a coolness owing to the fact that Chili was supposed to sympathize with the dethroned emperor, Dom Pedro. With the tact and astuteness which had marked his whole official career, the new minister succeeded in reestablishing friendly relations between the two republics, and for this signal service was transferred to Argentina, where a like duty awaited him, the relations between Chili and that country having been strained almost to breaking.

His mission accomplished in Buenos Ayres, Mr. Walker-Martinez returned to his own country to become a candidate of the independent party for member of the house of deputies, to which place he was elected by an overwhelming majority. In that body his former successes were repeated, and shortly after his inauguration President Riesco appointed Mr. Walker-Martinez to the vacant post at Washington, naming him at the same time a delegate to the Pan-American congress, where he played a most important role, joining his colleagues in supporting the policy of the United States in the matter leading to the passing of the most satisfactory resolution regarding arbitration. The new minister from Chili is a handsome man of the Spanish type, between 40 and 50 years old. His bearing is gracious, his manners social and he is of honest knowledge, which will add to his usefulness in his work here. Mme. Walker-Martinez, a woman of many agreeable qualities, and his four children accompanied the minister to Washington, where he will shortly establish a legation.

Gas Obtained from Coal.

Coal yields on an average 10,000 feet of gas per ton. The best gas coal will yield 17,000 feet.

HOME BIBLE STUDENTS GATHERED AT CHURCH

First Quarterly Meeting of Trinity Reformed Home Department Held Friday

DEPARTMENT'S GROWTH

County Superintendent Webb, of Westfield, Was There and Spoke.

Told of Work Throughout the State and How Department Grows—Superintendent Smith Told of Growth There—A Programme.

The necessity of home study of the Bible, and the good to be derived therefrom, was the essence of the subjects discussed at the first quarterly meeting of the home department of Trinity Reformed church, held last Friday. There was an unusually good attendance, and the auditors were not only treated to valuable information regarding the home department and its aims and objects, but a fine musical programme was rendered, which was thoroughly appreciated. H. D. Webb, superintendent of the department for Union county, came over from Westfield and gave an interesting talk, in which he advocated increased energy on the part of the workers, and read statistics showing the present standing of the home department in the State of New Jersey. He stated that at the close of 1901 there were 14,580 members in the State, and during the year 6,153 lessons were studied. The contributions by the members amounted to $2,369.63 during the twelve months. "While the home department in Union county is comparatively young," said Mr. Webb, "there are already 1,134 divisions, and new additions are being made almost daily. It's a strange fact, but nevertheless true, that a man will applaud a theatrical performance that pleases, or yell himself hoarse at a baseball game, yet the same amount of energy be hesitates to expend for the cause of the church." He outlined the objects of the department, saying that the idea was to have the members pledge themselves to give at least a half hour during each week to the study of the International Sunday-school lesson, and to meet occasionally to review the work done by them as a result of the inspirations received from such study.

Superintendent F. E. Smith, of the Sunday-school, gave a short talk. He declared himself as much impressed with the lessons and from time to time which have in view the addition of students of the Bible and the increasing of church membership. The prediction was ventured by him that it is impossible to realize the exact scope of church and Sunday-school work because of such advancement of ideas, all of which seemed to be beneficial.

In giving the number of members now connected with the home department of Trinity church, Mr. Smith said that during the first quarter of 1902, under the leadership of Mrs. G. W. Sauns, president pro-tem, thirty-two new names were added to the membership list, and since April 1, fourteen had been enrolled, making a total membership of 104. The musical entertainment consisted of a trio, "The Poet and Peasant," by Mrs. J. H. Buckley, Mrs. G. W. Sauns and Elmer Wheeler; piano solos by Miss Kibbe, of New Brunswick; violin solo, Cory Adams; vocal solo, Miss Smith. The meeting closed with remarks by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

MR. STEPHENS' RECITAL.

Final Recital of Retiring Organist Was Much Enjoyed.

The third and final organ recital in the series given by Ward Stephens, the retiring organist and choirmaster of the Crescent Avenue church, took place Saturday evening. A large congregation of music lovers were entertained and edified by the majestic music, both vocal and instrumental.

Rya Thomas, the tenor, was the soloist and his splendid work added much to the success of the recital. The programme was: Fantasia et fuga, in G. minor, Bach; Angel Scene, from Hansel and Gretel, Humperdinck; solo, In Native Worth, Haydn, Mr. Thomas; Hommage a Handelssohn, Calkin; Toccata, Widor; Faust, Gounod-stephens; solo, Bizzi's Prayer, Wagner, and Allegro, from first sonaata, Guilmant.

PLACE OF HONOR.

Chief Doane in Centre of Group of New Jersey Fire Chiefs.

Excellent likenesses of the fire chiefs of New Jersey's principal cities adorn a special supplement of this week's issue of Fire and Water, a New York publication.

Chief T. O. Doane, of this city, is seen in the centre of the group of individual pictures. The other chiefs portrayed are those of Newark, Elizabeth, Trenton, Hoboken, Paterson, Camden, Ridgewood and Atlantic City.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1902. NO. 19.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Consent of the Union, as Well as Its Limitations as to Its Authorities."—Madison

SYNOD WAS IN SESSION HERE

The Particular Synod of New Brunswick Met in Trinity Reformed Church.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Meetings Began Tuesday Afternoon—Continued That Night and Yesterday—The Speakers and What They Said—Officer Were Elected — Delegates Present.

The Particular Synod of New Brunswick, Reformed Church in America, comprising the Classis of New Jersey, met Tuesday afternoon in Trinity Reformed church, continuing its session last evening and this morning. There were fifty delegates present from the various churches throughout the State. This is the first time in the history of the Synod that it has met in this city and, in consequence, considerable importance was attached to the gathering.

The Synod was called to order by Rev. John Hart, the retiring president, at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and from that hour until 4 o'clock the Lord's Supper was celebrated, Mr. Hart officiating. At the conclusion of this the business matters engaging the attention of the convening body were taken up.

The first matter was that of election of officers. Rev. Henry Ward, of Closter, N. J., was chosen president and immediately took the chair. Rev. Taber Knox, of Warwick, N. Y., was elected vice president, while Rev. Willard Conger, of Asbury Park, and Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, of Three Bridges, were elected temporary clerks. Rev. Dr. Isaac Brokaw, of Freehold, continues in his position, that of stated clerk.

The stated form of bequest, which has been read at every Synod meeting as well as at the Classis since 1814, was read by Rev. Willard Conger in accordance with custom.

In response to an invitation from the First Reformed church, of New Brunswick, the Synod voted to meet in 1903 with that church. It will have been nineteen years since the Synod has met in that church.

At this time the president announced a number of committees to look after the various departments of work. They reported at the closing session. Following the consideration of a few other minor details, the afternoon session adjourned at 5:30 o'clock, when the delegates were entertained at supper in the Sunday-school room by the reception committee from the Ladies' Christian Work Society. The women provided generously for the visitors and gave them a cordial reception. The various tables were attractively set and laden with all the good things the market affords.

Mrs. Seaman Williams was chairman of the committee and those assisting were Mrs. Henry VanName, Mrs. P. E. Stuart, Mrs. Henry Paul, Mrs. Mary J. Disbrough, Mrs. Anna Gillen, Mrs. Henry Pugh, Mrs. Salmon C. Baker, Mrs. Elias H. Bird, Mrs. Edward Cooley, Mrs. William A. Woodruff and Mrs. O. W. Dunham as waitresses. Those who had charge of affairs in the kitchen were Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. Emma VanDoren, Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver and Mrs. P. M. Demarest.

It was 8 o'clock when the evening session was called. The president, Rev. Mr. Ward, was in charge. Daniel E. Davis presided at the organ and H. J. Martin was the precentor. Rev. A. Vanneman, of Passaic, read the Scripture lesson and Rev. Mr. Wortman, of East Orange, offered prayer. Then followed a solo, "Calvary," by Miss Ethel May Derby.

Rev. John Hart, retiring president, then delivered his sermon. His text was "Without Me ye can do nothing." The chief thought advanced by the speaker was that in all things it is essentiatl and necessary to have the aid of Christ. This, Mr. Hart said, was being realized more and more every day by missionaries, ministers and all followers of Christ.

"It is God who gives a new heart and Christ's spirit inspires one to do good and lead the right kind of a life. You can lead a man to Christ, but you cannot bring him. It is Christ who cleanses the heart and we bear fruit through Him, Severed from Him we can do nothing."

The next speaker was Rev. W. H. Boocock, of Bayonne, who took up the thought of the preceding speaker and remarked: "May we not expect a higher organization in the Christian church? I mean a co-ordination with a view to increasing practical efficiency. A full life means an expansion of the organism."

Mr. Boocock believed that the church is today understanding its mission better. He argued against the divided condition of the church and said he believed the various members should be brought together, co-ordinated.

"If capital, railroads and steamship lines combine, why not the churches of God," said the speaker. "Why not have one mission board instead of ten," he argued. "The work of federation is growing." Continuing, the speaker referred to specialization in the work of the ministry and gave his views as to the duty of a minister of the gospel and his various requirements. He believed that the church needs better preaching.

Following the last discourse the evening session closed with the benediction by the president of the Synod. After the meeting the delegates were escorted to the homes of various families in the church, where they were entertained over night.

The following delegates from the Classis were reported as being present:

Classis of Bergen, Rev. Henry Ward, Rev. Wm. Manchee and Rev. John Rudolph and Elder M. J. Bogert.

South Classis of Bergen, Rev. O. L. P. Mohs, Elders Henry Hoersch and John VanHorne.

Classis of Monmouth, Rev. O. VanBoverhoudt. Rev. Willard Conger, Rev. Floyd Decker, Rev. Isaac P. Brokaw, Elders D. P. VanBraklo and V. P. Buck.

Classis of Newark, Elders Joseph S. Mundy, James Polk and Nelson Jacobus.

Classis of New Brunswick, Rev. A. S. VanDyck, Rev. Henry Lockwood, Rev. A. F. Todd, Rev. C. T. Anderson, Elders W. H. Ayres, V. M. W Suydam and A. J. Conover.

Classis of Paramus, Rev. Taber Knox, Rev. H. W. Brink, Rev. A. Vennema, Rev. N. H. VanArsdale, Elders Andrew Smith, H. P. Demarest, P. H. VanIderstine.

Classis of Passaic, Rev. J. S. Hogan.

Classis of Philadelphia, Rev. H. C. Willoughby, Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, Rev. Wm. Schmitz and Elder William Hamilton.

Classis of Raritan, Rev. W. E. Davis, Rev. H. T. Jones, Rev. P. M. Doolittle, Rev. Wm. Johnston and Elder Garrett Conover.

Yesterday's session opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Taber Knox, of Warwick, N. Y. After roll-call and the presentation of reports regarding the State religion in the churches of the Synod, a representative of the Disabled Ministers' Fund, Rev. Dr. Dennis Wortman, of East Orange, made a strong plea for that cause.

At his suggestion the Synod united with other Particular Synods in inviting President Roosevelt to be the guest of the General Synod at its next meeting.

The next speaker was Rev. Dr. C. L. Wells, of Flatbush, representing the Board of Foreign Missions. Dr. Wells was followed by a speaker in behalf of the Board of Domestic Missions, Rev. Dr. James S. Vance, of Newark. Rev. John G. Gebhard, of New York, spoke in behalf of the Board of Education. Christian education for the ministry was his subject.

Items of routine business occupied the remaining time until noon, when the Synod was adjourned. The meeting next year will be held in New Brunswick.

After the adjournment, luncheon was served to the delegates in the lecture room, by the women of the church.

RASORES CLUB OFFICERS.

The Annual Meeting of the Club Was Held Tuesday.

The annual meeting of the Rasores Club was held Tuesday when the following officers were selected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Horace Kimball; vice-presidents, Mrs. Israel C. Pierson and Mrs. William DeWitt Miller; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. H. R. Halloway.

Following the election there was a general discussion regarding topics for the coming year and a programme will be decided upon later. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were very encouraging.

Must Provide for Family.

Peter Sorenson, of this city, was arrested by Constable Eugene Chamberlain, of Westfield, Saturday, on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife. He was given a hearing before Justice Toncey, of Westfield, and was held in $200 bonds to provide for the family.

SIX MONTHS' EFFORTS OF THE CITY NURSE

Reports of Her Work Made to City Union of King's Daughters at Semi-Annual Meeting.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED.

MEETING HELD AT PARISH HOUSE OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

Nine Circles Were Represented—The Amounts Pledged by Circles for Support of City Nurse—The Reports of Officers Made.

Representatives from the various circles of King's Daughters' City Union met in semi-annual meeting at the parish house of Grace P. E. church Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Nine circles were represented at the meeting, Benevolent, Charity, Cheerful Workers, Daughters of the Cross, Whatsoever, of Trinity Reformed church, Whatsoever, of Park Avenue Baptist church, Golden Rule, Advance, Inasmuch Children's Circle.

Rev. E. M. Bodman opened the proceedings by reading Scripture and offering prayer. An address was delivered by Rev. J. H. Wilson, curate of Grace church. He spoke on the necessity of courtesy and kindness to be displayed by the members in carrying out their work.

The treasurer's report showed the total receipts were $608.37, expenditures, $440.82, leaving a balance on hand of $167.45.

Reports were read from the different circles represented and amounts were pledged for the work of the city nurse committee as follows: Benevolent, $100; Charity, $100; Cheerful Workers, $50; Daughters of the Cross, $75; Whatsoever, Trinity Reformed, $30; Golden Rule, $25; Advance, $50; Inasmuch Children's Circle, $50. Many of these sums will be increased by November.

The report of the nurse committee, read by Miss Emily B. Tracy, was a most interesting document. It showed that since the semi-annual meeting in November Miss Anderson, the nurse, had been kept unusually busy, sometimes making fifty or more calls a week. Three weeks ago, on account of her arduous labors, it was found necessary to give her a rest. After two weeks' vacation she has returned to her duties.

The nurse committee has met each week to hear the nurse's report and to consult with her over peculiar cases. Visitors from the circles were also asked to attend these meetings but not all have complied with the request. Some suggestions and instruction followed for the guiding of members while visiting the sick and indigent.

At one time this winter the committee was called upon to furnish a nurse for a woman very ill with pneumonia, a widow with three little children who needed constant care and attention. The woman recovered and is now earning her own living. The money for this was supplied by outside friends.

When Plainfield was threatened with small-pox last winter, the Board of Health asked the assistance of the King's Daughters' nurse to help with the free vaccination offered those unable to pay. Miss Anderson gave considerable time to this work for which the city paid into the treasury $6.50.

The report concluded by stating that the funds were low while demands were constantly increasing. An appeal was made to the circles not to let the good work suffer.

Miss Anderson, the nurse, made 878 calls in the last six months, making a total of 1,778 for the year. The committee reported ten operations and three deaths.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Lillian A. Force; vice president, Mrs. Chas. A. Read; recording secretary, Miss Catherine Glen; corresponding secretary, Miss Edith Little; treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Krom.

Before adjournment, Miss Force thanked the meeting for the honor of being re-elected president. She felt that the coming year would be a prosperous one, chiefly because new circles had entered, and the president was especially happy to welcome into the union the children's circles. The baby camp work is about to be taken up and support is expected from the people of Plainfield in general as well as from the circles.

—Nauman Brothers have received a shipment of extra superior olive oil, their own importation from France.

ANNUAL MUSICALE AT SEVENTH-DAY CHURCH

Fine Programme Successfully Rendered Before a Large Audience Last Tuesday.

THE PROGRAMME GIVEN.

WAS ARRANGED BY THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY OF THE CHURCH.

Solos by Miss Harris, Selections by Double Male Quartette and Mixed Chorus and Instrumental Numbers—Those Who Took Part.

The eighth annual musicale of the Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor Society was successfully given Tuesday in the church, before a very large and appreciative audience.

The evening opened with the stirring music of Weber's "Der Freischutz" overture, rendered by five musicians; Miss Mabel Maxson and Miss Grace VanSickel, first piano; Mrs. W. C. Hubbard and Mrs. F. J. Hubbard, second piano; and Miss Jessie M. Utter, organ. The three movements of Jensen's exquisite "Wedding Music" were also given by two pianos and organ, later in the programme.

Another enjoyable instrumental number was a trio for violin, piano and organ. This was Saint Saens' "Prelude du Deluge," given by Prof. Ludwig Conde, Miss Jessie M. Utter, and A. L. Titsworth. Mr. Conde also won much applause by his spirited and sympathetic rendering of the Andante and Finale from Mendelssohn's "Concerto."

The vocal music was also most acceptably rendered. The soloist of the evening was Miss Luella C. Harris, whose clear voice and ease and finish of execution made her two numbers, "The Sky-lark," by Schnecker, and "An Open Secret," by Woodman, very enjoyable.

The part of the programme which was received by the audience with the greatest enthusiasm was that presented by a double quartette of male voices. The singers were Edward Maxwell Hoagland, Elmer D. Cutting, R. W. Wright, Dr. Otis B. Whitford, David E. Titsworth, Stacy Reynolds, F. S. Cutter and Henry Baldwin Drake. Their two numbers were "More and More," by Seifert, and Dudley Buck's arrangement of "Annie Laurie." They sang without instrumental accompaniment, but with unity and sympathy.

A very pleasing number was the rendering of Gade's "Spring's Message" by a chorus of sixteen voices, with piano and organ accompaniment. D. E. Titsworth acted as conductor. The singers were Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, Mrs. G. L. Homan and Miss Nellie Miller, sopranos; Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Alice Carroll, Mrs. James Everett Kimball and Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, altos; E. Maxwell Hoagland, Elmer D. Cutting, R. W. Wright and Dr. Otis B. Whitford, tenors; F. S. Cutter, Henry B. Drake, Stacy Reynolds and E. C. Martin, basses.

During the evening a silver offering was received. An organ solo, a dainty "Serenade," by Taft, was played by A. L. Titsworth, as offertory, with skill and delicacy.

The last number on the programme was a graceful little cantata by Greger, entitled "Spring and Love." It was presented by the chorus of sixteen voices, with solo parts by Miss Harris, Mr. Honeyman and Mr. Cutting. Mr. Titsworth acted as conductor. The chorus work was well done, and the solos were very acceptably rendered.

TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH.

Hope Y. M. A. Begins to Make the Plans for That Day.

At last Tuesday's meeting of the Y. M. A. of Hope chapel Gedge E. Firstbrook was elected secretary in place of Percy Hand, resigned. The membership limit was increased to 105. There were four applicants admitted and three propositions were received.

It was decided to have a celebration on Hope Common Independence Day. A committee was appointed consisting of George E. Firstbrook, chairman, William N. Runyon, John H. Cose, Thomas Muir and David B. Martin.

Trackmen Struck.

There was a short strike of the trackmen on the Jersey Central yesterday. They demanded a raise from $1.90 per day to $1.50. After being assured that such an increase was already planned the men returned to work.

"ANTIS" HAVE THEIR TURN

Opponents of Greater Plainfield Held Mass-Meeting at Saengerbund Hall.

PRESENTED ARGUMENTS

A. V. D. Honeyman and W. W. Howland Were the Speakers—Chairman Was C. W. McCutchen—Hall Was Crowded—Newspapers Criticized—Varied Reasons.

Every seat was taken and standing room was at a premium at the anti-annexation meeting in Saengerbund hall Tuesday evening. Present in the audience were a large number of ardent supporters and promoters of the proposed annexation and consolidation as well as those who are putting forth their exertion to prevent any such union. A contingent of the fair sex occupied seats in the gallery.

Prominent among those on the stage were Dr. J. H. Buchanan, J. H. VanWinkle, Dr. W. E. Honeyman, A. V. D. Honeyman, Committman Chas. L. Nichols, Isaac P. Rouine, Dr. J. H. Cooley besides a great many others.

Chairman Chas. W. McCutchen, in opening the proceedings, explained the purpose of the meeting. He had lived in the borough of North Plainfield twenty-two years, and never during that all that time he had never taken part in any political meeting nor made a speech from a political platform. He asked the audience to be indulgent towards his maiden effort. Never had so momentous a question been presented to the people of North Plainfield as this present one. The attitude of the people of the borough to their neighbors in the city was in no wise unfriendly. But they could like their neighbor without marrying that neighbor. No doubt it is a homogeneous community but consolidation, he declared, is not necessary, indeed, not wise. Although he appreciated the sacrifice made by some of the political leaders of the borough, and their elevation to public affairs with possible neglect of their own, yet he was somewhat disappointed with them of late. He refused, he said, to be a party to the scheme of consolidation, not that he loved Plainfield less but that he loved North Plainfield more. He introduced A. V. D. Honeyman.

Mr. Honeyman said that there were certain times when the majesty of American institutions is superb. This is one of these occasions—when the people come together to hear discussed problems that vitally interest them. He was glad to see so many of the enemy there, but thought a good many of them were like the man in the famous allegory who kept on descending till he reached the quagmire.

"I have no political axe to grind," said Mr. Honeyman. He had been asked why he was in the opposition. Not he, but the other party, was the opposition, he explained. In the natural order of things, all burden of proof rested on those in favor of annexation. "The noblest motive is the highest good," sufficiently explained his own position.

No attempt, he continued, was ever made in the history of New Jersey to change county boundaries without some understanding as to benefits and detriments. These were some estimable citizens who wanted to go over to Plainfield. He objected to their compelling their neighbors to go over also. The desire he characterized as only the desire of a few—not the multitude.

Mr. Honeyman criticised the press. They presented only one side of the story and he thought it strange that the local newspapers were so harmonious on this question. The same ideas in individual language appeared in both papers each evening, evidently an "output of the library bureau recently established."

Neither he nor Mr. McCutchen had been interviewed by either paper. The press being closed to them, they found it necessary to get the public ear through the medium of the platform.

It was in 1899 that consolidation was first discussed with the result that it was decided to leave the matter to the people. An election showed 265 against and 183 in favor of the proposal. From that time there was no ripple of discussion till the recent bills were advertised. The bills were passed, but at the present—he would refrain from discussing the manner in which they were passed. Everyone thought, his opponents included, that the proposition would be submitted to the people.

At this juncture the speaker dealt with some of the arguments of the annexationists. The first cry is that the people demand annexation. Senator Reed had said: "Every time there has been talk about a new engine house or a sewer, the people have demanded to know what is being done about annexation." There was absolutely no such demand said Mr. Honeyman, there had been no articles in the press; no public discussion; no borough resolution. There was no popular sentiment either way. It was the Senator's argument that the public demanded it.

In answer to the argument that from the time North Plainfield was set off from the township of Warren it never had a county office, except for one Democrat bill. Mr. Reed was elected, Mr. Honeyman quoted from records to disprove the statement.

To obliterate jealousy between Somerville and North Plainfield was another reason advanced by his opponents for their support of the annexation scheme. He had never heard of any jealousy except between politicians, and he had recently made inquiries in that direction.

Mr. Honeyman here read an article from the New York Tribune, on consolidation. Combatting the statement in that paper regarding the names on the protest to the Governor, he characterized as untrue the assertion that the list was padded and that signatures had been obtained in saloons—and more than once from the same persons—and presented a copy of the original petition in support of his contention. The petition showed 876 names, 506 of whom are voters and twenty non-resident tax payers. It would be interesting to get at the inner facts concerning the counter petition he declared.

The assessment arguments were dealt with, and French's carriage repository, situated half on each side of the line, and assessed in both counties for equal amounts, was cited as demolishing the contention that assessments are high in North Plainfield. Other minor arguments that have from time to time appeared in the press were also handled.

As a real substantial reason against consolidation Mr. Honeyman thought the people of Somerset would be selling themselves too cheaply; that they would mortgage themselves too heavily; that valuable local officials would be removed. He couldn't understand why the present mayor wanted to legislate himself out of office. Join Plainfield and give up everything, schools, fire department and water works. If, as is urged, the schools did not come up to the standard they had the power to remedy. In Plainfield they would have practically no voice in the government. Regarding saloons it had always been his opinion that license were a matter for the courts, not politicans; if different laws exist relative to saloons on either side of the line the Senator might easily have remedied any grievance of the people by introducing a bill at Trenton. They would lose control over street railway, over schools, over nuisances, if united. He spoke of the increased cost of school maintenance in North Plainfield and urged that annexation would not make education cheaper, quoting statistics to support his stand. He read a statement of taxes to show the rate was less in North Plainfield than in Plainfield. Borough government was far better than city government, and the borough of Phillipsburg was cited as an example. In conclusion Mr. Honeyman read a letter he had written to the Governor on April 17 urging an early election. Also the reply upon which he based special stress.

State of New Jersey,
Executive Department.
Trenton, April 24, 1902.

My dear Sir:—

Answering your inquiry of April 17th, I beg to say that Senator Reed informed me that they were willing to have an election any time. I told him that your friends desired to have an early expression of opinion and he said there was no objection to that whatever.

Yours very truly,
Franklin Murphy.

Senator Reed, who was sitting in a front seat, remarked he had no objection to that now.

Mr. Howland was introduced. When a community desires to make a change, he began, the arrangements are discussed and there is some objection in the press. Today there was nothing of that sort. A few citizens of North Plainfield had assumed they were the people and got the president of the North Plainfield Water Company to draft bills for the proposed

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

YOUNG JAHN BURNED ALIVE

Gasolene Explosion Resulted in Boy's Death and Fatal Injury of Father, Robt. Jahn.

LEAKY BARREL DID IT.

John's Metal Working Shop at Scotch Plains Was Scene of This Double Fatality Tuesday—The Father Tried to Save Son—Caught by Flames—Died Yesterday.

Scotch Plains, May 7—A headless charred trunk is all that remains of little Herman Jahn, the five-year-old son of Robert Jahn, whose metal working shop is located on Park avenue, near Westfield avenue. Robert Jahn died at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, this morning, his body a mass of burns. Both were victims of an explosion of gasolene which occurred in Jahn's shop shortly after 8 o'clock last evening.

As is his custom, Jahn went out to the shop in the rear of his home to see all was right. He carried a lantern. His little son accompanied him. They entered the building together. Without warning, there came a blinding flash and crash. Jahn managed to get outside but could not find his son. So he plunged into the flames which now filled the interior. In another moment, he rushed forth his clothing all ablaze.

Alarmed by the explosion, some of the neighbors gathered. Before they could extinguish the flaming clothing, Jahn had been horribly burned. He was taken to the house and the ambulance was summoned by telephone. He was taken to the hospital at 9:30 o'clock in great agony. He was attended by Dr. Westcott. He died at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Scotch Plains fire department was called out but had considerable difficulty in extinguishing the fire in the shop, owing to the difficulty in obtaining water. After the fire was out, the search for the boy's body began. It was finally found at 10:30 o'clock in a corner under a heap of charred hay. The head and feet had been burned off and the remainder of the body charred beyond recognition.

It is generally believed that there was a leak in a barrel of gasolene which stood in the shop and that the fumes caught fire from the lantern Mr. Jahn carried. This caused the explosion. The shop was badly damaged. Mr. Jahn had been working on a large contract for a Plainfield builder.

Mrs. Jahn became frantic when she learned of the fatality and it was feared that her mind would become affected. She is still in a critical condition.

Jahn had been a resident of this village for fifteen years, coming here from Bayonne. He was a metal cornice worker by trade and had built up a successful business, in which he was helped by his sons. The little fellow who perished yesterday was one of eleven children, none of whom are over twenty-five years of age. He also leaves a widow.

He was a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., and Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., of Plainfield, which organization will conduct the funeral services. They will be held Friday afternoon together with those of his little son.

CUT BY BOTTLE.

Fred Donavan Had Hand Badly Cut by Breaking of Bottle.

Fred Donavan, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, is carrying his right hand in a sling, the result of an accident at the store Tuesday. He was putting stoppers in bottles containing hair tonic, when one of the bottles broke.

Mr. Donavan's hand came in contact with the broken glass and two fingers, together with other parts of the hand were badly lacerated. Dr. Pittis was summoned at once and gave proper treatment. Mr. Donavan will be unable to use his hand for some time.

Excuses to Meet.

The members of the Exempt Firemen's Association are requested to meet at their rooms Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock for the purpose of attending in a body the funeral of their late brother, E. N. Spencer. A full attendance is desired.

—Fred Willis, of Hunters Point, L. I., is the guest of West End relatives.

FAMOUS OLD PRISON.

Passing of The Tombs Of Notes Celebrated Landmark

Within the Walls of New York's Old Jail Some of the World's Most Noted Criminals Have Held Brief Sway.

[Special New York Letter.]

THE one remaining wing of The Tombs, the old city prison of New York, will soon be razed to the ground to give place to the new structure, the greater part of which has already been erected on Center street. The passing of The Tombs, like the passing of Old Newgate prison in London, means the obliteration of one of the most famous landmarks in the world's chronicle of crime.

CONTRABAND GOODS.

The Tombs has held within its gloomy walls some of the most notorious criminals of two hemispheres. Murderers, forgerers and politicians alike have trend the stone flags of its dark and damp corridors.

"Boss" Tweed, while in the height of his rule of Tammany Hall, was cast behind its iron bars. Richard Croker, who recently relinquished the leadership of the same organization and is one of the most remarkable characters in modern politics, was there on charge of murder. Roland B. Molineux, awaiting his second trial for the murder of Mrs. Adams, and Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer from Texas, indicted on the charge of slaying aged William M. Rice to get his millions through an alleged forged will, walk arm in arm during the daily hour of exercise granted to them.

Not only is The Tombs an historic building, but it stands on historic ground. Over 200 years before the great stone walls, grand in their very somberness, were placed one on the other, the site where they stood was the scene of a murder and the ground was baptized in blood—a fitting prelude to the long days and dreary nights of misery and woe that have been dragged out by the unhappy men and women whose crimes placed them behind the strong, steel prison bars.

It was in 1626, soon after Peter Minuit, with his stately Dutch ideas of justice, arrived in New Amsterdam, that three of his own servants were set to work filling the ground surrounding the site of the present city prison. Where the prison now stands was a clear lake 40 feet deep. It was called the Kolk, which was Dutch for whirlpool, but in later years was corrupted into Collect. An old Indian and his nephew, a boy of 12, passed, loaded down with beaver pelts. Minuit's servants murdered the old Indian and stole his beaver skins, but the boy escaped. He vowed vengeance, and, true to the characteristics of his race, returned in 16 years and murdered a white man. This act led up to a general Indian war.

THE TOMBS SHYSTER.

In the old Kolk, or lake, John Fitch sailed the first steamboat in the presence of the inventor, Robert Fulton, and a great crowd of people. Before the war of 1812 the lake was filled up at the present junction of Centre and Pearl streets, dumping into it the refuse of the city and the ground from excavations for buildings. For some time the open space was used as a commons and through it ran the old post road to Boston, afterwards Chatham street and now Park row. Public executions took place there long before a prison on the site was thought of, so the price of blood money was paid there prior to this time of building of The Tombs.

The very surroundings seem to have marked the place as a proper site for a criminal institution. All roads of crime led to The Tombs. West of it is the Bowery, and then old Chatham street, with its memories of the vicious Whyo gangs and its vendettas. Then Cherry hill, with its unnatural mixture of races, its infamous alleys, its slatternly women, its ragged, hungry children, its fiery whisky, its brawling men and its utter degradation. So much for the old surroundings. But as the years went by tall buildings grew to the west and the north and the south and blotted out the sunbeams that once slanted through the bars. And then came the modern demand for a new building and the old gray walls made way for the towering new structure of white granite that stands a monument of beauty, to the east of the last vestige of the old prison that soon, too, will pass away.

The Tombs was begun in 1835 and was completed in 1838. It was modeled after a famous tomb in Egypt—hence its name—and was the best modern specimen of Egyptian architecture in the world. The front of the building on Centre street was torn away over three years ago, but the new structure has not yet been completed and the prisoners are still kept in what is called the old prison. There are four tiers of cells there. On the first tier is "murderers' row." On the second tier the prisoners charged with homicide, forgery and burglary are confined. The third and fourth tiers are used for grand larceny prisoners. There are 127 cells in the old prison and 300 in the new building. On an average 400 prisoners are confined there. Out of this number at present less than 40 are women. About 300 are generally incarcerated for minor offenses. In addition to the cells there is a dormitory accommodating 70 women who are sentenced to the workhouse by the city magistrates, and instead of being sent to Blackwell's island are turned over to Warden Flynn to do the work about the prison.

Prior to the passage of the act requiring all executions in New York state to be performed by electricity the hangings in New York county took place at the jail. The first man hanged there was Edward Coleman, who murdered his wife, known as "The Pretty Hot Corn Girl." He was executed January 12, 1830. "Smuffy Joe" Bernard and Andrew Morrison were the first prisoners in The Tombs. The last man hanged in the prison was "Handsome Harry" Carlton, who was executed becember 16, 1889, for killing a policeman. On August 25 preceding four men were hanged all for murdering women.

GRADUATED FROM THE TOMBS.

Warden William Flynn says The Tombs is like a miniature world. Every type of human character is found there. There are social distinctions just the same as in the busy world outside. Refined prisoners seek the society of refined companions and the low and vicious meet their level.

The vagaries of humanity are brought out the strongest when the visitors are being searched. The men who go there to see friends are examined by a keeper and the women by a matron. Whisky is the most common contraband article that is found on the visitors. We know that a big bottle of liquor cannot possibly escape the sharp eyes and nimble fingers of the guards, yet many of the visitors try again and again to smuggle it in, and again and again it is intercepted.

The "shyster" lawyer is another queer specimen of humanity that haunts the vicinity of The Tombs. He is not allowed inside, but he awaits at the entrance and gives his card to the prisoner as he is taken inside. The "shyster" will take the last dime from a man whose case is hopeless.

The novice and the old timer who has worn stripes at Sing Sing are easily distinguishable. There is no need of the state prison garb to tell which is the convict. All phases of life are represented behind those cruel walls and within the narrow confines of stone and mortar and steel, the ambitions, the hopes, the fears and the despair of man grow bright, flicker and die away.

With the passing of The Tombs the old name passes with it. Would that God in his mercy might decree that the effect which made the old prison a necessity should pass away with the crumbling walls.

FREDERICK BOYD STEVENSON.

Genesis of Life Insurance.

The first assurance on a life of which there is positive legal record was made on the life of Sir Robert Howard for one year from the 1st of September, 1667, and it is a singular fact, and one that the building of the future of life assurance that for payment of the claim was made on Sir Robert died on the exact anniversary of the date and none of the policy, but Lord Holt, who knew the case was tried, ruled that the wording of the policy—"from the day of the date" excluded that day itself, thus advancing the term of the policy one day beyond the date of the death of the assured, and gave judgment accordingly. The underwriter in this case appears to have been a merchant, and the policy was probably obtained for temporary or contingent security.

THE NEW SKIRTS.

Plainer Effects Are Now Being Adopted.

The skirt of the moment shows many improvements, for it is free from exaggeration of all kinds. It is no longer strained tightly across the back, which mode was so dreadfully unbecoming to the stout woman.

Then there is a certain amount of free from round the feet, which is most becoming. There is a greater tendency than ever to shorten the waist at the back and to lengthen it in front. To have this effect the skirt has to be slightly lifted at the back, which is infinitely preferable to the inward curve so often taken by the old tight skirt just below the waist.

OF TUCKED YEILING.

With the skirt and waistband raised at the back we have evinced a craze for the short coat which is ever so smart and really becoming to those who are fairly slight. These little coats have a peculiar cachet when worn by the right woman. They must be accompanied by a large fanciful collar; otherwise they are apt to have a skimpy appearance.

Surely the collar like the waistband, plays a very important part in the fashions of the hour. Some searchers after novelty predicted the disappearance of the lace and embroidered muslin collar, but events have proved them wrong, for never was the collar more popular and, after all, what a pretty fashion it is, giving an air of freshness to the oldest coat.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LACE COATS.

Elaborate Blouses and Lace Striped Muslins.

Delightful little short lace coats are seen, both for demitoilet and afternoon wear, on the Riviera. Some are made after the style of the Russian blouse and others of the short sack shape. The tendency is either for a Russian blouse, with the basque, or for a short coat worn with a wide band. Some women look delightful in both, but for the slight figure the short coat has a peculiar chic about it.

PINK CHIFFON AND ROSES.

These coats are not always made as plain sacks, but are very much improved specimens, falling in plaits or folds, which look charming in guipure and in the finer makes of lace.

Of course Irish crochet is the lace of the moment for day and also for evening wear, but lace of every make becomes daily more popular.

Fashion seems to be getting more elaborate, although the most beautiful gowns have an air of costly simplicity. After all, the simple frock requires more inventive ingenuity on the part of the wearer, as well as of the designer, to achieve success.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PARENTS Who Ruin Their CHILDREN

"THERE'S one thing I'm determined upon," said Mrs. Jones emphatically, "Mary is going to have all the advantages possible. Now I never had anything but just a common school education, but Mary will be different. She can play the piano quite well for a girl of her age, though I do have hard work to make her practice. This is her second year in drawing, and I have French and German teachers come here twice a week. I'd like awfully to have her play the violin, too, and I'm thinking of having her take lessons next year."

Aunt Susan Jones settled herself back a trifle farther in her easy chair and rocked vigorously. "Hm-m-m" she remarked. There was silence for a few moments, interrupted by the sound of the scale of A minor, which floated out dolefully from the parlor where Mary sat practicing. A succession of flats placed where they should not have been caused Aunt Susan to change her position with a slight shiver and resume the conversation.

A GIRL TOO GOOD TO WASH DISHES.

"What does she intend to do with all those accomplishments—teach?" she queried abruptly.

Mrs. Jones straightened herself up. "Teach!" she exclaimed. "The idea! No, of course not. I guess her father and I are able to do for her as long as we live without her having to go to work."

But Aunt Susan was relentless. "Can she cook? Can she housekeep? Can she make her own clothes?" she queried. "Can she do anything useful?"

Mrs. Jones flushed. "She needn't marry a poor man," she retorted. "When she gets the right age, her father and I are thinking of sending her to one of those fashionable seashore places, where she'll have a chance to meet the right sort of man, who can give her the sort of home she ought to have."

"The sort of home she ought to have!" Aunt Susan looked around her at the spotless kitchen, with its sunny windows filled with flowers, at the rooms beyond, simply furnished, but comfortable and in good taste; at the lawn outside, green and well kept, with its shade trees and pretty flower bed. She knew only too well what an expenditure of labor and what painstaking economy made the little home thus attractive, yet it was not good enough for the spoiled child in the parlor.

"Do you realize"—Aunt Susan spoke out loud now, and her voice was very grave—"that if your plans fail, if Mary loses her health or her looks, if her father should die—in a word, if she should be thrown upon her own resources—there isn't a thing she could do to support herself, and consequently, owing to your present extravagant ideas, she may absolutely come to want? Do you know," she pursued, not heeding the other's look of horror, "I think parents are the greatest hindrances to their children's development. The children are cosseted and petted and kept from harm, and then suddenly an accident of fate thrusts them, helpless and weak as blind kittens, out into the cruel world to make their own way for themselves. It is rare indeed that you see parents trying to form their children's character so that they may succeed in life.

"And in consequence the majority of boys and girls acquire real manhood and womanhood through hard and bitter experience with an unfeeling world, and it is not surprising how many are vanquished by the ordeal. If the mother who slaves because she thinks her daughter too good to wash dishes could realize the weight of future suffering she is calling down upon that daughter by making her selfish and helpless! If the mother and sister who scrimp and starve in order that the boy of the family may have fine clothes and go through college like a gentleman could appreciate how they are destroying his manhood and making him weak and inefficient! But they are blind and only realize the wrong they have done the child when it is too late."

MAUD ROBINSON.

SMART COATS.

The Blouses and Short Bolero Lead. Velvet Fashionable.

The Alhelines and hairy textures of the autumn and winter season are to give place to smooth fairies with the sheen of silk, and although embroidered spots will be used, yet so far the fancy is entirely for plain materials. All the smart woolens have some admixture of silk, and the limp, soft style of finish is universal.

Costres, blouses of the Russian type and the bolero will be quite the mode for spring toilets, but the smarter costume for bazaars, weddings and other special occasions will be made with a Louis coat, of which there are endless variations. Large collars are indispensable, and the Richelieu shape is copied to match the coat and is applpiqued with lace and silk passementerie.

CHINA SILK DRESS.

Velvet is very fashionable used in applique fashion, and there are scrolls and sprays of cut velvet introduced over lace, silk and plaited gauze with charming effect. Very handsome trimmings are composed of diamonds, medallions and scrolls cut out in velvet and placed on the material to outline the edges or make borders or bands. The velvet figures are then outlined with lace or passementerie.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE SPRING HATS.

The Turban Has Quite Eclipsed the Sailor Shape.

The turban has quite eclipsed the sailor hat and is altogether more modish even when adorned in the simplest fashion. Toques and hats generally are worn very forward and quite close at the back. There are a few styles which are immensely popular, and of these is the tricorne, made wider and more decided in front and invariably finished with a large bow of ribbon or velvet at the back.

Another model, similar to the tricorne, but rounded in front, has the back bow, or nice is draped round the brim and forms a little drooping cascade at the back. Many hats are made in the same style, with jet or sequin lace over the brim and finishing with the little tail at the back. Entire brims of small flowers or foliage are quite a feature in spring chapeaux.

Embroideries will be lavishly employed for smart day and evening

RUBE LACE WAIST.

gowns, and for the latter the raised applique designs in chiffon and ribbon work are as fragile as they are costly. There are, however, simple but effective embroideries which can be managed by those fond of fancy work, such as yokes, fronts and bands of satin or taffeta, worked with colored spots and tiny sprays, or bias strappings to place between stitched straps of the dress material can be of contrasting colored silk with spots and tiny floral sprays or single blossoms.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SILK GOWNS AND COATS.

The Effect of the Fashionable Straight Front Corset.

The fashionable figure seen en profile is undeniably large, but this is due to the straight fronted corsets now so generally worn by those who dress smartly. The Parisian corset, with straight front, is perfectly rigid, and the lower part of the figure disappears in a marvelous manner. A soft busk is perfectly useless with this type of corset and simply increases the size by standing out where it should draw in. Some of the best French corsetieres will not take an order unless they can rectify the corset once or twice during the first weeks of wear. So strangely is the figure influenced by the shape that the corset has to be reduced more than once.

LACE COAT.

Complete gowns of taffeta glace will be worn all spring, and those who require a useful black gown which is at the same time smart and adaptable should select taffeta with a bright glace finish and have it lined with nerve or sun's veiling to lengthen its days. For trimming there are handsome scrolls of silken gimp applique with velvet, or a combination of black lace and velvet laid over white or heliotrope glace gives a handsome finish.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

UP TO DATE MILLINERY.

All Black Hats Are Always Popular. Green Shades Liked.

Hats occupy the most important part in our toilets, and how vastly millinery has improved of late years! In fact, women of fashion today can tolerate nothing but headgear of the highest order, which is perfectly superb in its dashing designs and brilliant coloring.

The all black hat is always popular and far too becoming and useful to be utterly disregarded, but in spite of this colors are much to the fore, emerald green being de rigueur in Paris. Here, too, many of our burnt straws are trimmed with various shades of green glace ribbon and lilies of the valley with their own foliage. Very pretty are those toques the foundation of which is composed entirely of blue covered with a trellis work of tiny green leaves. In fact, I think we might almost say that green is the color of the moment.

MOURNING COSTUME.

There are all kinds of new straws, the prettiest being of a light, coarse make and very soft and pliable. A light hat is a necessity in these days, when many women of fashion spend the greater part of the twelve hours in their headgear. The tuscan straws to wear with tailor made and country frocks are simply delightful, trimmed with loops of glace or velvet ribbon and fantastic knots or bows.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE CHILD'S HAIR.

A Few Hints on How to Take Care of It Properly.

The features of a child cannot be changed, the luster of its eyes cannot be added to, but a child, however plain, can be made attractive by the mother paying attention to two details—its hair and its complexion. A beautiful skin will transform even the ugliest features, and a cloud of silky hair has given more than one woman the illusion of being beautiful. Most mothers are careful of a child's complexion, but neglect its hair; so it is on this subject I am going to speak.

In the first place, it is a great mistake to suppose that frequent washings are bad for the scalp and that children are apt to take cold from having their hair washed. If the soap is carefully rinsed out, no possible harm can be caused to the hair, no matter how often it is washed. Secondly, if the hair is carefully dried the child cannot possibly take cold, and indeed, the operation does much to lessen the tendency of some children to colds in the head and sore throat. The custom of wetting the hair before combing or brushing is one which ought to be thoroughly condemned. The hair should be brushed while it is dry until the electricity in it makes it crackle. This will insure a healthy and luxuriant growth more than any tonic in the world. The comb should be used sparingly on a child's tender head, and the use of a fine tooth comb ought to be relegated to a chamber of horrors.

THAT FORTIFYING FINE COMB.

The operation of brushing the hair can be made a very enjoyable one to the child by always associating it with a few pleasant words or a fairy tale. As soon as the child is old enough it should be taught to spend a certain number of minutes brushing its hair every night before going to bed.

The hair should be washed in at least three waters—one with soap and two to rinse with. A cake of pure castile or good tar soap is the only proper thing to use.

HELEN CLIFTON.

DAINTY BEDROOMS.

Cretonne Is Much Used Both In City and Country Houses.

An airy, cheerful appearance is one of the essentials of the modern bedroom. It must have large windows, light wood work and a general absence of the somber draped effects so dear to our mothers.

Cretonne in the heavily ribbed English variety is much used for sleeping apartments both in city and country houses. It is artistic as well as cheap. Very often it is used both to upholster the furniture and to cover the walls. The illustration shows a cretonne room and what is also known as a fitted bedroom. It is so called because it has seats and cupboards fitted into the walls. This is an excellent idea in a small room. The woodwork is white and the cretonne pink and pale green. On each side of the pretty fireplace there are three shelves for books. Instead of a frieze the wall has a series of niches holding graceful bits of jade green ware. To the right closets are built into the wall, and the door of one of these holds a full length mirror.

A FITTED BEDROOM.

Everything in this pretty room is planned to economize space.

MAIDGE MORAN.

The New Parasols.

Parasols are wonderfully made and ornamented with more frills and lace than may easily be mentioned. The Dolly Varden silks are among some of the fancy carriage affairs, and as this silk is mostly offered in thin qualities we see chiffon printed in these old fashioned designs edged with much lace. What did women ever do without lace? The prettiest of all the parasols are those where the body of the shade is of chiffon, with several floating flounces, while the whole of the top is overlaid with fine black thread lace. There are some exquisite ones made in this way. Others have black chiffon, with white lace applications.

Mr. Richard Mansfield in Monsieur Beaucaire

The Play Is a Disappointment to Those Who Have Read the Unusually Strong Story.

MONSIEUR BEAUCAIRE, the play, is not nearly so good as M. Beaucaire, the novel. In the endeavor to have everything turn out pleasantly for the virtuous and see to it that all the evil meet their just desserts, according to stage orthodoxy, we have a very good story weakened and are given a very lame ending. But perhaps folks would not attend in such numbers otherwise, so probably Mr. Mansfield and his manager understand their business better than we do, and it is presumptuous for us to criticise.

The play certainly is interesting, and Mr. Mansfield is given an opportunity to be, not the bright particular star of a group of planets, but the whole thing, the central sun in a solar system that has revolve about it no stellar objects of special magnitude. "M. Beaucaire is Beaucaire, as surely as "Hamlet" is Hamlet.

"M. Beaucaire" is divided into, or built up of, five acts. In the first act we are introduced to the pump room at Bath, that place where for generations the beauty and fashion of England were wont to congregate. Here we see Beaucaire, in reality a member of the royal family of France, but at present traveling incognito. Beaucaire had fled from France and come to England, leaving his native land for the reason that he had incurred his sovereign's displeasure by refusing to marry a lady of the sovereign had kindly chosen to be his bride. And the only excuse he had been able to offer was the paltry one that he did not love the girl. The idea of royalty listening to such nonsense!

RICHARD MANSFIELD.

The English, you know, are not given to overvaluation of things foreign, and when Beaucaire lands on their shores he is dubbed barber, and barber he lets it stand for awhile; long enough to allow of many amusing situations, and some daring adventures. The prince-barber, who, of course, is very well educated, astonishes the fashionables in the pump-room by his knowledge of the world, by his wit and repartee. They look on amazed, among them Lady Mary Carlisle, the proudest, haughtiest, most unapproachable beauty in all England. But what impudence, a barber to presume to consort with the nobility, to attempt to meet them on equal footing. So, Mr. Barber is publicly expelled from the pumproom. He adds still further to his impertinences by assuring the gentlemen if they wish to meet him at cards at any time, his lodgings are open to them.

And the swells do resort to the barber's lodgings. In the second act we find them there, trying to shun recognition, but eager to try their luck with the clever, if humble, newcomer, and win his money. Among them is the duke of Winterset, the villain of "M. Beaucaire." He and Beaucaire have no love for each other, and the latter lays a trap to ensnare the man he distrusts and dislikes. He leaves the room for a short time, giving Winterset an opportunity to arrange the cards, which he does, conveying some to that time-honored repository, a sleeve. The playing proceeds, and presently Beaucaire accuses the duke of cheating. The latter rages around, but finding Beaucaire insists in his accusation, asserts that no one will believe the barber's word against his own. Opportunity stand forth at this juncture, Beaucaire's two faithful friends; a gentleman of unquestioned reputation in the social world and a trusted servant. They have witnessed the whole scene, and the duke realizes he is caught.

Winterset asks Beaucaire " what bribe he will accept. The barber replies he wants the duke to take him to Lady Mary's ball, introduce him as his friend, and thereby procure for him entrance to the gay society of which he obtained a glimpse in the pumproom scene. Of course Winterset storms and tries to rebel, but in the end is forced to give in. The third scene shows us the ball-room filled with gentlemen with rich costumes and powdered wigs and ladies in gorgeous trappings. The last arrivals are the duke of Winterset and the duke of Chateaurien (Beaucaire). The duke of Chateaurien makes a most favorable impression, even Lady Mary succumbs and is not the minuet with him. Winterset also has an eye on Lady Mary, and tries to make way with the handsome barber by getting him engaged in a duel with a crack swordsman. As might have been expected of an wonderful an adventurer, Chateaurien wins, and is more of a hero than ever to Lady Mary.

The fourth act has for setting a garden at Squire Bantison's country seat, where Chateaurien and Lady Mary disport themselves in love-like manner. Lady Mary's coach, her cousin within, drives up and just as the two ladies are about to depart, out from ambush rushes a party of men and fall upon Chateaurien, about whom the duke has told the story that he is none other than the despised barber. Beaucaire gets in some dexterous sword-play, but receives a wound. His friend and the servant appear in time to save him further hurt, and he tries to conceal the injury he has suffered. The Lady Mary recognizes and denounces the cowards that have set upon him, but when the duke of Winterset tells her she is defending an impostor, the presumptuous barber, she seems no longer concerned in Beaucaire's welfare. She drives away, leaving him grief-stricken at her apparent unfaithfulness and pride. (The play presents Lady Mary as a more worthy woman than the novel; representing her as scornful, not of the barber, but of the deceit practiced upon her).

In the last act, which discloses the assembly room at Bath, everything gets straightened out. Some noble French visitors, who are to be given a royal welcome by the English, at sight of Beaucaire kneel at his feet, kiss his hand, and show in set and word the homage they consider due him, and their feelings of rejoicing at the discovery of his presence. Lady Mary looks on amazed, as do the rest of that society from which he was excluded. He magnanimously takes her by the hand, and introduces her as his future wife. And thus endeth "M. Beaucaire."

Frank Moulan, as Kiram, in the Sultan of Sulu, at the Studebaker, in Chicago, is providing mirth for all of that city by his humorous portrayal of the part. Mr. Beand, who played the part when the opera was first put on, is now filling the responsible position of stage manager, and shows quite as much ability in this as he did before the foootlights.

THE ASTROLOGER.

Turkish Women Like Red Hair.

In Turkey red hair is counted a great beauty, and the women dye their hair that tint.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM

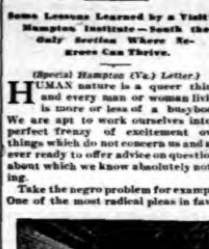
It Will Be Solved by Modern Industrial Education.

Some Lessons Learned by a Visit to Hampton Institute—South the Only Section Where Negroes Can Thrive.

(Special Hampton (Va.) Letter.)

HUMAN nature is a queer thing, and every man or woman living is more or less of a busybody. We are apt to work ourselves into a perfect frenzy of excitement over things which do not concern us and are ever ready to offer advice on questions about which we know absolutely nothing.

Take the negro problem for example. One of the most radical pleas in favor



AT HAMPTON INSTITUTE.
(Colored Students Receiving Instruction in Bricklaying.)

of political and social equality of negroes which the writer ever heard was uttered by a handsome little gentleman who had never been outside the state of Massachusetts and who, according to his own confession, had never met more than three representatives of the colored race—his barber, his neighbor's coachman and the family washerwoman. Personally he had no desire to associate with these estimable persons on an equal footing, yet he was honest in the belief that the people of the south should recognize the negroes as their equals. He believed the medicine he prescribed to be good, but his own stomach was not quite strong enough to swallow it. In summing up his argument he admitted — cautiously and reluctantly — that there were two sides to the question, his side and the wrong side.

Eventually, there can be no doubt, the negro problem will settle itself; but it is equally certain that well-meaning mischief makers will retard rather than advance its solution. The colored man is destined to work out his own salvation, in his own way and in his own time. The only aid which white agitators can give him is of an educational and financial nature. In a social way they can do absolutely nothing for him.

Persons who talk about colonizing negroes in the north are mistaken. The south is the only section of the country where the colored race can prosper and grow in thrift and influence. This fact is recognized by such men as Booker T. Washington and Paul Laurence Dunbar as well as by the heads of the various institutions of learning for colored youth. In the north the negro cannot find employment as a mechanic or at office work. He is not wanted as clerk in a store nor in an official capacity. For the educated colored man there are three openings; he may become a preacher, a doctor or a lawyer—among his own people. The uneducated man must either do manual labor, work for a railroad as porter, polish shoes, be a waiter or a barber. In the south, on the other hand, he can find employment as a carpenter, bricklayer, shoemaker, tailor, harnessmaker, stone mason, dairyman, farm overseer and in a score of other fairly lucrative occupations. He is not discriminated against on account of his color, and the southern cities it is not unusual to see the colored mechanics lay brick while white helpers carry the hod. Such a state of affairs would not be countenanced by northern trades unions for a single day. But the salvation of the negro lies not so much in trade as in agriculture, and by nature and inclination he is adapted to tilling southern soil. The great forward strides made by the race during the past decade can be ascribed to the fact that progressive colored men have turned their attention to general farming and have, in a comparatively short time, acquired much valuable property and a sense of independence which has taught them to respect their calling and their people.

AN OLD-TIME BARN.
(This Is the Way Negroes Used to Keep Their Stock.)

We hear in these days a great deal about the advancement of the southern negro, and most of it, let us record it with joy, is true; but we do not hear quite enough of the man who is primarily responsible for this happy state of affairs—Gen. S. C. Armstrong, who, in 1868, founded the Hampton Institute, near Hampton, Va., for the practical education of negro youth and devoted his life to the upbuilding of this institution from which proceeded Tuskegee, Calhoun and other industrial schools of a similar character. Gen. Armstrong's idea was a noble one and has borne rich fruit. His motto was "learning by doing." He did not want to make white men and women out of colored boys and girls. His one aim was to educate them systematically and teach them a trade so that they might be able to elevate their people along educational lines. While the academic features are not neglected at Hampton, the students are constantly kept in an atmosphere of busy industry and taught that labor is divine. His training at Hampton made Booker T. Washington what he is, and if the institution had turned out no other graduate but this truly great man its mission would still have been a great one.

Although originally founded as a school for colored youth, Indians have been admitted to Hampton since 1878. In 1878 Capt. Pratt brought 15 prisoners of war from St. Augustine to Hampton. He remained one year, bringing in the meantime other Indians from the west. So successful was this experiment in industrial education for the Indian that the now famous Carlisle school was established.

Some 6,000 young people of the negro and Indian races have had the advantages of Hampton's training, and have gone out as teachers, farmers, mechanics and business men to lift their people to a higher level and it is a fact universally recognized in the south that whole counties have been transformed by their work; tumble-down cabins have given place to cozy homes and dirty barnyards converted into neat, to-date dairies with silos and other modern improvements.

At the present time Hampton has about 500 negro scholars and 135 Indian boys and girls, who are under the supervision of 80 officers and teachers. Fifty-five buildings accommodate this busy army. These include dormitories, school buildings, library, church, hospital, gymnasiums, saw and planing mill, various shops, a well-equipped trade school and a large building for domestic science and agriculture. Military discipline is maintained and the boy students are required to wear the substitute uniform. They are divided into companies and battalions, have formed a band and glee, football and other clubs.

MODEL BARN WITH SILO.
(Built on His Farm by a Hampton Institute Graduate.)

The trade department includes thorough courses in carpentry, cabinet making, bricklaying, plastering, painting, wheelwrighting, blacksmithing, machine work, steam engineering, tailoring, shoe and harness making, tinsmithing and printing. A trade course occupies three years—the first in the trade school; the second in one of the production industries, to get an idea of the commercial value of the work, and the third again in the trade school, where the course is completed. The agricultural department is fully equipped for class-room, laboratory, farm-engineering, dairy and greenhouse work, and has several grain, vegetable and stock farms and orchards, on which the students have instruction and practice. The domestic science department furnishes instruction in sewing, dressmaking, laundering, cooking and housekeeping, thus preparing the girl graduates to teach their people the art of homemaking.

The impression has gained ground that Hampton institute is a government school. Such is not the case, however. The institution is a private corporate institution in character, controlled by 17 trustees and managed by Principal H. B. Frissell. Its income is derived from an endowment fund, which is just one-fourth as large as needed, from the sale of goods manufactured in the workshops, farm and dairy products and from the receipts of the glee clubs which visit the north during the winter season. For the deficit in running expenses, aggregating about $80,000 per year, the school is obliged to appeal to the public.

One thing which impresses the visitor to Hampton more than anything else is the self-reliance of the students. The young men and women are perfect in every department, courteous in manner, conscious of their man and womanhood, but never "fresh." They are the hope of their race and of far more value to the nation than the aggressive agitator. Hampton's negro whose display of learning usually is ludicrous, if not pathetic. They will also be mighty factors in the readjustment of southern politics and institutions; but they will never be accorded social equality in the south, where the prejudice against the negro is a social factor—let it be said in a Chicago whisper—is almost as strong as in the north.

G. W. WEIPPIERT.

Where the Moon Is Bright.

In Zululand, when the moon is at the full, objects are visible at a distance of seven miles. By starlight one can read with ease.

AN UNWILLING HEIR.

Prince William Ernest of Saxe-Weimar Who May Reign in the Kingdom of Holland.

Queen Wilhelmina's recent disappointment in the hope of an heir brings into prominence Prince William Ernest of Saxe-Weimar, who is at present the heir apparent to the throne of the Netherlands and who inherited from his grandmother, besides immense properties, a fortune amounting to $2,000,000.

It was rather an extraordinary chance that made this young man of 27 grand duke of one of the most important of the Saxon duchies, as well as next in succession to the girl queen of Holland, supposing, of course, that her majesty is not blessed with offspring. His mother was the daughter of King William II. of Holland and the sister of Queen Wilhelmina, father, William III. Probably nothing was further from the prince's mind than that one day a son of hers would become heir apparent to the throne, for, besides the king, she had another brother. Prince Henry, and before she married the eldest son of the grand duke of Saxe-Weimar and left Holland for Germany both her royal brother and Prince Henry had married and the king had an heir.

PRINCE WILLIAM ERNEST
(Saxe-Weimar Heir of Royalty Who May Be King of Holland.)

Perhaps the prince was born to play second fiddle. The [illegible] inherited [illegible] checkered career, and although Prince Henry married twice he had no children by either wife. So it happened that late in life the grand duchess of Saxe-Weimar found herself in the remarkable position of heiress presumptive to a little girl, her own niece, now Queen Wilhelmina.

Naturally the Dutch people, who for many years have been perplexed by the uncertain succession to the throne, would much prefer a son of their beloved queen as monarch to the grand duke, and of that young man himself is credited with hoping that his pretty cousin and her consort may be blessed with an heir.

MISS ISABELLE HAGNER.

Civil-Service Reformers Object to Her Acting as Social Secretary to the President's Wife.

Civil service reformers have discovered what they believe to be a clear evasion of the law in the fact that Miss Isabelle Hagner is carried on the rolls of the war department as a clerk at $840 per annum. She is detailed away from her desk to serve as the social part time secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Root.

The reformers, to whose attention this case has been called say that it might be proper and legal to detail Miss Hagner as the secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt, but they ask that warrant of law exists to supply her services in a similar capacity to the wife of the secretary of war.

MISS ISABELLE HAGNER.
(Social Secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Root.)

The art of successfully fulfilling the duties of private secretary is one that appeals to many gentlewomen, and many have incurred considerable expense fitting themselves for this work. These ladies resent the fact that Miss Hagner fills two such important posts on such a meager salary, and they have brought their grievances to the attention of some senators and representatives, who will investigate.

It is contended that the secretary who attends to the white house work should not receive less than $100 a month. They also consider that Miss Hagner should either remain at her desk at the war department or resign.

The experience of the past winter has taught Mrs. Roosevelt that she needs some one who can give her entire time to the labor. Miss Hagner, in addition to serving Mrs. Root, acts in a similar capacity for Mrs. Depew and Mrs. Hanna. There evidently will be much opposition to Miss Hagner's appointment to the white house if she is continued on the war department rolls.

What Is Said and Done in the World of Sports and Athletes

WESTERN COLLEGE outdoor rowing work began this season two weeks earlier than usual. The Badger candidates, under the direction of Coach Andy O'Dea, actually broke the ice in the lake at Madison, Wis., to get their pair-oared boats into the long stretches of clear water. There was too much ice for the shallow eight-oared shells, and in order not to be blamed for many duckings which certainly would have followed the "Washington-crossing-the-Delaware" experiences of the shells in the floating floes, the coach began outdoor work with the small boats.

Why this haste in getting college boys out in scanty clothing and thin sweaters? Wisconsin is one of the western universities that will send crews east this year, and with their hopes of success. The eastern crews have an advantage over the western eights. The former gets at least six weeks the best of the start in open water work. According to Coach O'Dea, the Badgers this season by their close application to work on the stationary glycerin machines in the gymnasium have succeeded in surmounting many difficulties, and have made up for the handicap of the late start.

"It does not hurt a candidate for the crew to row among ice floes," laughingly remarked O'Dea, while discussing the work of his oarsmen. "Before I came to this country I made a trip to the shores of Siberia and watched the young natives learning to paddle their skin-covered kyacks. The latter would have been punctured easily by the ice, but for the dexterity of the youths in warding off floating ice. In my opinion, if an undergraduate of a university takes enough interest in his alma mater to get out in the spring, as they did at Madison, row in icy waters and against biting north winds, he attains certain heights in character that will distinguish him in after life when battling against the world. In short, it takes nerve, stamina, grit and determination together with a big round of loyalty, to undergo the rigorous training required in early spring work for crew honors."

MEMORIES of billiards of 30 years ago were revived recently in the storeroom of a big billiard supply house when workmen rescued from the dark corner, a billiard table that had lain there covered with dust for three decades.

"What shall we do with this old table?" asked an employe.

"Oh, break it up and save the mahogany for veneers," was the reply. "Don't you want to see what a billiard crank of many years ago spent his money on?" the foreman asked. I was glad of the opportunity to do some investigating.

The table was brought out into the light. The material was as good as ever, but the cloth had long since faded and become threadbare. Built as near round as the expert cabinet makers of that day could strive for work, and equipped with a cushion that had to be made expressly for this style of table, it looked every inch a "veteran."

"Some time after the war," ventured the foreman, "a billiard student became possessed of the idea that great sport might be had with a circular table and cushion. Doubtless he was dreaming of some such thing as bulk line. He pressed his idea on the players of that time, but they all derided the plan. 'There'll be no angles,' was the one expert. 'You would never be able to make the same shot twice alike,' was the criticism of another. 'What's the matter with the four-cornered table?' asked another.

But the crank was not to be rebuffed that easily. He ordered the round table, and this house agreed to furnish it equipped as well as any table turned out. Everything went in the circular table had to be made to order, and of course that brought the price up to a fancy figure. But with the persistence of a man who expounds the Baconian theory, this billiard genius footed the bills and impatiently called for haste in getting the table ready for the exposition game.

"Well, the table was set up in the store and elegantly-printed invitations were sent out to all the leading billiard men and writers to attend the 'trial.' The latter, needless to say, was a failure. No one could make a good shot. There were no angles of incidence and of reflection, that is, none that any ordinary man could see, and the ball had the habit of ricochetting about the green cloth as if possessed of magic powers.

"To the good name of the forgotten crank it must be said that he paid all of the bills and, disheartened and subdued, left the city. The table was stored 'to be called for.' But as 30 years have passed, and no one has called for the table, it will be broken up."

A few minutes later the workman with a chisel and a mallet and with no sentiment in his soul, had torn off the moldings and was speedily dismantling the strange creation of wood, slate, rubber, etc.

IN THE great outdoor athletic meet of the best college athletes of the west there is to be a struggle for points in the pole vault that will cause little surprise if it results in a world's record. Jerome Magee, the wonderful vaulter of the University of Chicago, who recently dislocated his shoulder which may prevent his competing at the time, and Charles Dvorak, of Michigan, stand without equals in the western college world, say the critics. Each has his eye on the high mark set by Clapp, of Yale. Each athlete is credited with marks considerably over 11 feet in practice. Magee recently startled his fellow athletes by clearing the bar at 11 feet five inches. Dvorak was one of the athletes who went to Paris to compete in the Olympian games, and it is said of him that one reason for his great success in pole vaulting is that his heart is able to keep time with the tremendous swinging pressure of numerous trials without becoming troublesome.

Those who have watched Dvorak's work over the bar in outdoor meets say he has the strength of wrist that gives him an elevating jerk just as he is clearing the bar. Keene Fitzpatrick the Michigan trainer, they say, developed this requisite in the sturdy little fellow.

But Magee does not depend upon that slight, quick and jerky movement while the body is partially suspended over the bar. He has a style that seems to be distinctively his own. About six feet tall, he weighs when in fine training, about 165 pounds. He has an extremely well developed chest and great strength in his arms. Taking a long run before the take-off, he really is going much faster toward the uprights than the spectators think. Then, raising the pole slightly from the waist-high position, he plants it near the line of the uprights, and swinging up, throws his feet far above his head. As if for a moment, he seems to be poised in midair. Then the feet start downward and a wonderful twist of the trunk occurs. This side motion, given with the regularity of clockwork, raised the body the extra distance needed to clear the bar without striking it.

When the conference meet causes the greatest outpouring of college athletes the west has ever known, many will miss the treat of the meet—the pole vault—because of the constant raising of the bar to heights of ridiculous heights, necessitating monotonous work. All efforts to get the authorities who govern the annual college carnival to start the vault at, say ten feet, have failed. True this would shut out all but the best, but after all, it is only the man who succeeds in clearing the bar at the best marks that is considered in the records. The followers of athletics cheer the winner as they would cheer for the "base cana." On the other hand, there are none so willing to extend congratulations to the "dark horse" from some comparatively unknown team, who succeeds in lowering the colors of the crack athletes, as the followers of college sports.

R. G. WESTLAKE.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

Slowly but surely the four local baseball teams, which make up the city league, are rounding into proper form. While all the clubs manage to lose their initial games, the few weeks that the season has already been open has shown a change in the form. A few more weeks will bring even greater changes. When the league opens Memorial Day, there promises to be some of the hottest baseball ever seen on local diamonds.

There is no immediate prospect of a settlement between employers and employes in the building trades. The strike is still on and neither side seems willing to concede a single point from the position now held. In the end, somebody has got to win. The public would be benefited if both sides would agree to immediate arbitration so that building operations might not be further delayed.

Basket ball has been revived among the girls of the city High School. It is an excellent sport for the young women and is deserving of every encouragement. There is nothing unladylike or sensational in the game which should make it in any way objectional.

HINE FOR COLONEL.

Trolley Promoter Likely to Head the Fifth Regiment of the National Guards.

The new Fifth regiment of the National Guard will elect field officers in the near future. A commandant, a lieutenant-colonel, and several majors will be chosen.

Colonel Edwin W. Hine, of Orange, secretary of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is at present the only candidate for commandant. The candidates for lieutenant-colonel are Dr. Daniel A. Currie, Englewood; Major Francis D. Jackson, Hoboken; and Captain Hamilton M. Ross, Jr., of Passaic. The lieutenant-colonel, like the colonel and majors, is elected by all the line officers of the regiment, but the officers of each battalion are usually consulted in the selection of a commandant.

It is probable that if the new Fifth regiment is allowed to participate in the election of a commander for the First Brigade, the name of Colonel Hine will be presented. In that event a spirited three-cornered contest may be expected between Colonels Hine, Campbell and Smith.

MORE LIKE PICNIC.

Free Transportation, Lunch and Other Things at E. M. French's Auction Saturday.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock Elston M. French will offer by auction sale about one hundred lots of land situated on the main trolley line between Plainfield and Elizabeth. Uhas. H. Lyman, the auctioneer, will rattle off the property in his usual genial and brisk manner.

Every inducement is offered prospective purchasers and even those who have not buying intentions, to visit these lots. Mr. French will supply free trolley tickets for the round trip from all points between Roselle and Cranford. A brass band will be in attendance and free lunch will be provided. Altogether the affair will be more like a picnic than an auction.

The land offered is situated in desirable locality and each block will be sold without reservation. Contractors are now at work macadamizing the various streets on which the lots abut; the sidewalks are being flagged and curbed as rapidly as possible.

BRET HARTE DEAD.

His Wife and Daughters Were Residents Here for Many Years—Have Moved to New York.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Bret Harte, the popular story writer, which occurred at his home in London, Monday. The fact is of interest to Plainfielders aside from readers of his works, inasmuch as Mrs. Harte and her two daughters were residents of this city for many years and were socially prominent.

His eldest daughter, Jessamy, was married here to Willis Steel, of New York, and was well known as an artist and newspaper writer, having been employed by the Scribner's. Mrs. Harte and Miss Ethel Harte moved to New York from Plainfield four years ago.

New House for South End Park.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has issued a permit to G. E. Gulick, of 43 Lincoln place, for the erection of a house on Marion avenue, near Moffett avenue. Mr. Gulick will be his own architect and builder, and the masonry work will be performed by J. W. Mandy, of 43 Summit avenue. The structure will cost $4,000.

GOLFIACS DID NOT MIND THE WEATHER

Play on Both Local Courses Saturday Despite the Rain Which Fell at Intervals.

THE DAY'S WINNERS.

HONORS WENT TO KERRO KNOX, CHAS. STOVER AND SENATOR REED.

First Play for Boys' Cup at Hillside Course in the Morning'-Played for Golf Committee in Afternoon—President's Cup at Park.

Saturday was not exactly an ideal day for golf, but the local enthusiasts turned out in surprisingly large numbers for such an unpleasant day and the regular competitions at the local courses were, in consequence, well contested. At the Hillside Club, first honors went to Kerro Knox and Chas. Stover while Senator Charles A. Reed was winner at the Park Club.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The first play for the Boy's cup was the attraction on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday morning. The disagreeable weather had much to do with keeping many contestants away and only a few handed in their scores. Kerro Knox made low score, 88 with a handicap of 18. Wickham Corwin and H. Lapsley tied for second honors with a net score of 95 and each received a point and half. The scores are as follows:

	G	H	N
Kerro Knox	106	18	88
Wickham Corwin	110	15	95
H. Lapsley	113	18	95
W. Glenney	130	13	97
H. S. Browne	119	18	101

The standing for the cup at present is as follows:

	Points.
Kerro Knox	3
Wickham Corwin	1½
H. Lapsley	1½

In the afternoon there was the regular play for the Golf Committee cup. The scores were quite low considering the limited amount of practice that most of the players have had.

First honors were won by Charles Stover, who has improved his game much over last season. His net score was 81 with a handicap of 27. Roger F. Murray secured second honors with a net of 93, while Dudley H. Barrows won third honors with an 84 net. H. F. Baker, the winner of the three points a week ago, had his handicap of 15 cut in half and his score Saturday was 94 as against 85 on the previous Saturday.

Below will be found the scores for the Golf Committee cup:

	G	H	N
Charles Stover	108	27	81
R. F. Murray	90	7	83
D. H. Barrows	94	10	84
Olaf Sangstad	95	10	85
Walter Peterson	98	12	86
H. R. Stockton	97	10	87
H. deF. Wright	90	0	90
Boardman Wright	117	27	90
Frank Clark	104	14	90
H. M. Slasson	118	27	91
E. J. Patterson	111	18	93
S. D. Lounsbury	106	12	94
H. F. Baker	102	8	94
W. R. Richards	108	14	94
R. VanD. Hedges	102	6	96
S. H. Patterson	131	27	104

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	3
Charles Stover	3
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Barrows	1
E. T. Newkirk	½
C. W. Abbott	½

PARK CLUB.

Despite the rain, which fell at intervals during the afternoon, six of the golfers turned out at the Park Golf Club course Saturday afternoon and contested for points for the President's cup. First honors were won by Senator Charles A. Reed, who is now in the lead with four points with Charles W. McCutchen a close second. The other honors Saturday went to S. St. John McCutchen and Samuel Townsend.

Saturday's scores were:

	G	H	N
Charles A. Reed	121	26	95
S. St. J. McCutchen	130	22	108
Samuel Townsend	140	28	112

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles A. Reed	4
Charles W. McCutchen	3
S. St. J. McCutchen	2
William H. Richards	1
Samuel Townsend	1

A Few Seats Left.

There are a few seats left for "His Excellency, the Governor," for both Saturday and Monday evenings, May 10 and 12. They can be had at Randolph's pharmacy, corner of Watchung and North avenues, and at L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply a guide to every purchaser of a Rochester, genuine or not. The guide is not entirely photographic. Some of the pictures think "ROCHESTER" when you think "LAMP." But we don't suppose you are looking for any guide, and positively will not lose by a thinking. The name is not that of a chest but of a particular lamp. And your lamp will be the same whether you get it in not a real Rochester or NEW ROCHESTER. If the dealer sells or offers it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

YEAR AT CHILDREN'S HOME

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHILDREN'S HOME ASSOCIATION HELD.

Officers Elected and Reports Were Received—The Matron Was Re-engaged for the Term.

The annual meeting of the Children's Home Association was held Thursday afternoon when the work for the past year was reviewed.

The officers elected for the following year are as follows: President, Mrs. Horace Kimball; vice-presidents, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. Laura S. Gilbert; recording secretary, Miss Lucy H. Everett; treasurer, Miss Ella Serrell. Mrs. S. A. Hendrickson was engaged for another year as matron, and Dr. Edward Rushmore was again chosen visiting physician. The various committees will stand as they are until the June meeting.

The report of the treasurer was as follows:

RECEIPTS.

May 1, 1901, balance on hand	$ 746 07
1901-1902.
Cash received from sustaining members,	710 00
" " " annual subscriptions,	201 00
" " board	470 00
" " int. on investments	233 25
" " donations, $ 956 75
mort. pd off 1,000 25	1,956 75
" " Legacy from McDonald estate	500 00
Total receipts	$4,799 07

EXPENDITURES.

1901-1902.

Cash paid for services	$ 832 00
" " provisions	825 20
" " clothing	170 00
" " fuel	183 97
" " stationery and printing	8 25
" " expenses, furniture, etc	315 14
" " repairs on house	95 40
" " endowment fund investment	1 500 00
" " board (Willet's child)	46 00
Total expenditures	$3,895 47
Receipts	4,799 07
Expenditures	$3,895 47
Balance on hand May 1, 1902	$ 903 60
Amount in the City Nat. Bank	$903 60
Amount of cash on hand	$ 45 60
	$903.60

DEATH OF MRS. FAWCETT.

She Was Unable to Rally After An Operation Was Performed.

Another sudden death occurred last Monday, when Mrs. Lucas Fawcett, wife of Hughes Fawcett, passed away at her home on Rockview avenue about 8:30 o'clock. Monday afternoon she underwent an operation from the effects of which she was unable to rally.

Mrs. Fawcett was a daughter of the late Martin Cathcart. She leaves four children to mourn her loss, three sons, Martin, Reginald and Arthur, and one daughter, Lillian. Martin, the latter, is fifteen years old.

The funeral services were held at her late residence Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

To Repeat Entertainment.

"No illustrations on canvas were ever given in this city that brought forth as great praise. They were the most realistic and conveyed an impression upon the minds of those who saw the reality of Gospel hymns rendered in a most impressive way." The above is a quotation from George L. VanEmburgh and expresses the opinion of many in reference to the entertainment given in Trinity Reformed church, Tuesday evening, under the ahspices of the Willing Workers. Owing to the many requests, "Illuminated Sacred Songs" will again be presented Friday evening, this week, at Trinity Reformed church.

Funeral of Wm. Mills.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from his late residence, 66 Elm place, of W. J. Mills, son of Robert A. and Eliza Mills. There was a very large attendance of friends of the deceased. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, conducted the services. Interment was in the M. E. cemetery.

Knocked Down by Auto.

E. P. Williams, of West Seventh street, returned home Friday night from Philadelphia, where he had been visiting his brother. Mr. Williams was slightly injured by an automobile at the corner of Ninth and Clinton ave streets while absent in the Quaker City.

Secured Contract.

Woodhull & Martin have secured the contract for furnishing Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis' new cottage at Westerly, R. I., competing with John Wanamaker for the same.

MORMONISM AS A MENACE

PAPER PRESENTED AT MEETING OF YOUNG WOMEN OF TRINITY.

Told the Dangers to be Expected From That Sect—Mission Band Will Educate Girl in India.

"Mormonism as a Menace," was the subject of a very able paper prepared by Miss Grace Nevius and read by Mrs. F. S. Cutter at the regular meeting of the Young Womedn's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, Friday afternoon.

It was shown by the writer that the Mormons at present have a foothold in seven States and it is only necessary for them to obtain a standing in twelve States to secure a representative in Congress. They claim that the next President of the United States will either be a Mormon or a representative who will favor them and secure liberal legislation for them.

Another statement set was shown in the foothold that this class of people have already in the east. They are steadily gaining ground in the establishment of churches and converts. Those opposed to Mormonism and its teachings and principles have very little idea of the rapid strides being made by the Mormons. The paper had a tendency to arouse those present to great activity in efforts to thwart the purposes of this class of people in getting control of affairs.

The band decided at the meeting to support and educate a native girl at Ranipettai, India. This will cost $30 a year and the amount will be raised outside of all other amonts collected each year by the band. This additional work will bring to the members greater interest in the religious work now being carried on in India.

IN HEALTHY CONDITION.

Showing Made at Annual Meeting of Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was held Monday afternoon in the church parlor. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read showing the society to be in a very healthy condition. A paper on the habits and habits of the mountain whites, of Kentucky, was read by Mrs. A. L. Force.

The following officers were all re-elected: President, Mrs. E. A. Parse; first vice president, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; secretary, Mrs. T. A. VanZandt; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr.

The annual anniversary meeting of the society will be held in the sanctuary of the church Sunday evening, and besides the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's report for the year an address to the women will be delivered by the pastor.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Provide for an Addition to One Building and a New Store.

Building Inspector Doane has issued permits to Charles Graves, for a one story addition to the building at 210 Liberty street and George Derbrock, of Elizabeth, for the erection of a frame store building on the northwest corner of East Second and Jackson streets. John Dahl will do the carpentering for the latter building and Seaman Williams, the mason work.

Death Rate Decreased.

The statistics of Hackettstown, just issued, show that in spite of the epidemic of small-pox in that town, the death rate during the past year was thirty-one per thousand against forty-one during the previous year.

Received His Commission.

Elmore D. Moffett, who was re-elected a justice of the peace at the last election, has received his commission from Gov. Murphy' and is now adorns the wall of his office on Central avenue.

Pocketbook Stolen.

A pocketbook containing $30 was stolen from a closet at the home of Mrs. W. Snickle, of East Fifth street, Saturday. The matter was reported to the police.

Last of Dr. Cregar's Talks.

Dr. Peter B. Cregar gave the fifth and last of his "First Aid to the Injured" lectures, to the members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., Saturday morning.

THE MERITORIOUS PUPILS

LIST OF THOSE IN THE PISCATAWAY TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS.

Announcement Just Made by Supervisor Cathers for the Last Month's Record.

The following is a list of the meritorious pupils of the Piscataway township schools who have been present every day during the month of April, 1902:

New Market—High School department—Arvid Johnson, Frank Kelley, Bessie Beetham, Kittie Bays, Mary Conover.

Grammar department—Willie Dunz, Frank Burdick, Ethan Rogers, Harry Kenyon, Mary Naylor, Bertha Nelson, Catherine Krause.

Intermediate department — Edna Burdick, George Bisler, Helda Johnson, Claude Penrose, Annie Winkler, Frank Coriell, Maud Rupell, Ray Whitford, Rabel Whitford, Joe Penrore, Lena Wolter, George Coriell, Paul Whitford, Lester Nelson.

Primary department — Grace Burdick, Barbara Bisler, Annie Wingess, Gertrude Giles, Hannah Nelson, Carrie Smith, Edwin Johnson, Emile Nelson Carl Bisler, Robert Schworer, Willie Gallagher, Joe Gallagher.

South Plainfield—Grammar department—Mabel Arrowsmith, Lela Gano, Lillie Sage, Walter Connors, Maggie Geary, John McDonough, Marguerite McDonough, Eddie Horn, Fannie Ayers, Robin Horn.

Intermediate department — Patrick McDonough, May Gage, Andrew McDonough, Joseph Miller, Michael Saverd, John Reilley, Joseph Duffy, Thomas Duffy.

Primary department—Joseph Horn, Martin McDonough, John Miller, Norah McDonough, Francis McDonough, Rebecca Arrowsmith, Joseph Harlow, John McDonough.

Randolphville—Fannie Giles, Edith Giles, Nellie Millard.

Harris Lane — Millie Morecraft, Charlie Sebring, Johnnie Sebring, Bennie Giles, Frank Morecraft.

Raritan Landing—Mary Newman.

Union School — Merle Randolph, Leslie Randolph, Milton Randolph, Elston Randolph.

Fieldville—Elsie McCullough, Anna McCullough, Elmer McCullough.

Lincoln School — Gussie Brugger, Effie Hansen, Harry Gobel, Frankie Brugger, Henry Hansen.

H. C. Cathers,
Township Supervisor.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure advertising blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey R. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,
4 30 cow 3 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dr. Hu... ...'s

...cedies cure by acting directly upon the disease, without existing disorder in any other part of the system.

	PRICE.
1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5—Cramps, Colic, Stomachic	.25
6—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarse Cough	.25
12—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15—Piles, Blind or Bleeding, Itching	.25
16—Whooping-Cough	.25
17—Kidney Diseases	.25
18—Nervous Debility	1.00
19—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists, or sent free.
Dr. Humphreys' Specific Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William and John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER APR. 13, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—For Philadelphia, Broad Street Station, week days, Fastlikes Parlor Cars, 7.15, Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania, 7.15 a. m.—Western Express, daily, with Parlor Cars, 8.00 a. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Buffet Drawing Room Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo, 8.00 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman and Vestibuled

PLAYED BALL DESPITE RAIN

Three of the League Teams Played Saturday Afternoon and All Were Victorious.

SCHOOL TEAMS PLAYED.

Scotch Plains Opened the Season Saturday by Defeating Clinton Avenue Team—St. Mary's Had Easy Thing—Hot Game at Dunellen—Hopes Had No Trouble.

A cold wind and occasional rain did not help along baseball in Plainfield, Saturday afternoon. The crowds were, in consequence, quite small but several good exhibitions of baseball were seen. All the league teams except the Safe Works played and all came out victorious. The Safe Works game was called off on account of the threatening weather. Both local schools teams played, the boroughites meeting defeat at New Brunswick at the hands of the Rutgers Prep while the city school boys found Hasbrouck Institute, of Jersey City, an easy thing.

HOPES WON AGAIN.

Abounding in two and three-base hits and errors on the part of the colored contingent, the Hope-Cuban Giant baseball game furnished amusement for a fairly large crowd on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon. At no time was the result of the game in doubt as the Hopes drew ahead almost from the start and finished with thirteen runs against their opponent's four.

Montross was in the box for the Hopes and, with the exception of the seventh inning, pitched a fine game, striking out eleven men and letting five walk. He allowed but six safe hits, two of which were three-baggers and two two-baggers. The Hopes made thirteen hits off Davis, five of these for two bases.

The feature of the game was the home run made by "Tuna" Hewitt from a hot grounder to deep center. It was the first made on the field this season. Davy Gordon, the Hope's right fielder, put up a phenomenal game at the bat, pounding out two two-baggers and bringing home several runs. Perkins and Hopkins also did some great stick work.

The summary and line-up is as follows:

HOPE.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Smith, ss	5	2	0	0	0	0
Rowberry, cf	5	0	0	0	1	0
Martin, c	4	1	0	7	0	0
Gordon, rf	5	2	1	1	0	0
Hewitt, 3b	5	3	4	5	5	1
Dixon, 1b	5	0	0	9	0	0
Montross, p	5	0	0	0	4	0
Hartfelder, c	4	1	1	12	5	2
Magee, lf	4	1	0	0	0	0
	42	13	13	27	15	4

CUBAN GIANTS.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Hatchett, lf	4	1	0	0	0	2
Britton, c	4	0	1	10	0	1
Hopkins, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Johnson, 2b	4	0	1	1	3	2
E. Britton, ss	4	0	0	1	2	0
Davis, p	4	0	0	0	4	0
Perkins, 1b	4	1	1	8	1	0
Peterson, cf	4	1	0	1	0	0
Simmons, ss	4	1	0	2	2	3
	37	4	4	24	10	11

SCORE BY INNINGS.

Hope	0	2	5	0	0	0	5	1	0	0—13
C. G.	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	0—4

Summary—Two-base hits—Davis, 2; Two-base hits—Gordon, 2; Martin, Hewitt, Montross, E. Britton, 2. Three-base hits—Hopkins, Perkins. Home runs—Hewitt. Struck out—By Davis, 10; by Montross, 11. Passed balls—Hartfelder, 2; Britton, 2. Double plays—Montross, Hewitt and Dixon; Davis, Perkins and Britton. Earned runs—Hope, 5; Cuban Giants, 2. Left on base—Hope, 5; Cuban Giants, 7. Umpires—Randolph and McComb. Scorer—Walter F. Foster.

EASY FOR ST. MARY'S.

The Raritan baseball team suffered an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the St. Mary team, on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon. Failure to get acquainted with "Tommy" Keefe's curves was mostly responsible for the Raritans getting only five hits. The complete score was 10 to 1.

Throughout the game the St. Mary players conducted themselves in the manner which has made them dangerous foes to opposing teams. But one error was checked against them and that was an excusable one credited to Winn. Casey, the new player, did great work both in the field and at the bat. It was Keefe's first game this season and it showed he had lost none of his old strength and knowledge of curves. He struck out eleven men and allowed but one man on balls. Grogan, the Raritan pitcher, struck out nine men and allowed two to walk. There were a number of excellent double plays made by the St. Mary boys which called forth the cheers of the large crowd of rooters.

Following is the summary and line-up:

ST. MARY'S.	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Mack, ss	3	1	0	2	4	0
Scott, 1b	3	0	1	9	0	0
Keen, 3b	3	1	1	1	0	0
Casey, cf	4	0	0	2	1	0
Lederer, cf	0	0	0	1	0	0
Winn, 2b	4	0	0	0	1	1
Taylor, lf	4	1	1	1	0	0
Barry, c	4	1	1	12	0	0
Keefe, p	3	1	1	0	4	0
	30	5	5	27	9	1

RARITAN.	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Enright, 2b	4	0	0	4	3	0
Driscoll, ss	4	0	0	1	4	0
Garvie, lf	3	1	0	1	0	0
Creedon, c	4	0	1	9	0	0
Ryan, cf	4	0	0	2	0	0
Grogan, p	3	0	0	1	2	0
Wilman, 1b	3	0	1	8	0	0
Cunningham, 3b	3	0	0	2	0	1
Burns, rf	3	0	0	2	0	2
	31	1	2	30	9	3

SCORE BY INNINGS.

St. Mary's	1	0	2	1	0	1	0	0	0—5
Raritan R. R. C.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0—1

Base on errors—St. Mary's 4; Raritan, 1. Base on balls—Off Keefe, 11; off Grogan, 5. Two-base hits—Keen, Casey and Wilman. Sacrifice hit—Scott. Struck out—By Keefe, 10; by Grogan, 9. Hit by pitched ball—Keen. Double plays—Casey to Scott, Mack to Keen, Lederer to Scott, Enright to Wilman, and Enright unassisted. Umpire—J. Doyle.

IT BEGINS AT PLAINS.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, May 5—The threatening weather of Saturday afternoon failed to prevent the opening of the local baseball season in Scotch Plains, although it no doubt kept many at home. As it was over two hundred enthusiastic fans witnessed the home club's defeat of their old opponents, the Clinton Avenue team, of Plainfield, by a score of 11 to 8.

The day was hardly an ideal pitcher's one, and both Harvey, of the home team, and Kelly, of the visitors, were batted rather hard. Considering everything Scotch Plains folk were well satisfied with the showing made by the home club. The team went into the game with practically no team practice, the men never having played together before. The new men showed up well and greatly strengthened the batting, a spot in which the Scotch Plains has always been weak. That they will all be retained as permanent members is assured. As the season advances Scotch Plains will be able to put an article of ball that will keep that club in the front ranks among the clubs of the surrounding towns.

The full score will be found below:

CLINTON AVENUE.	AB.	H.	R.	E.
Kelley, p	3	3	3	0
Dolan, ss	5	2	1	0
Barkman, 1b	5	0	1	2
Perrin, 2b	5	0	0	0
Montross, lf	5	1	0	1
Dalley, c	5	1	0	2
Bohlmer, cf	4	0	1	2
Dodd, 3b	4	0	1	2
White, rf	4	1	1	2
	42	8	8	11

SCOTCH PLAINS.	AB.	H.	R.	E.
J. Flannery 3b	5	1	2	1
J. Alberts, 2b	5	2	3	2
H. Flannery, cf	5	1	2	0
Malie, c	5	2	0	0
Johnston, lf	5	2	0	1
Cruzier, ss	5	2	1	0
Harvey, p	5	1	0	0
Hand, 1b	5	1	0	0
Halbert, rf	5	2	1	0
	45	14	11	4

Score by innings:

Clinton Aves.	2	0	0	2	0	0	1	0	3—	8
S. Plains	2	0	0	1	3	2	0	x	—11

Struck out by Harvey, 6; by Kelley, 4.

HIGH SCHOOL WON.

Twenty-two to eight. That is the terse story of a defeat administered to Hasbrouck Institute when it crossed bats with Plainfield High School on Pittis field Saturday afternoon. As the score indicates play was somewhat loose. Even the home team was a little rocky at times, while Hasbrouck had only one staid interval in the whole game. This was from the second to the fifth inning when Plainfield batters found it difficult to discover the whereabouts of the ball delivered by the Hasbrouck twirlers, and consequently failed to accumulate runs. Apart from this short period, the Institute boys were "away off."

The home team, by piling up ten scores in short order, practically won the game in the first inning. Then Russel, of Hasbrouck, supplanted Horwood in the box. Plainfield was merciful to the leather for awhile, but in the last four innings the school boys slugged the sphere all over the field for an aggregate of twelve runs, making a total of twenty-two.

For Plainfield, VanAuken pitched one inning and then exchanged places with Moynihan, the catcher, who showed ability to hand out curves as well as grasp them. Within the catcher's limit VanAuken did not appear to boost of his element. Munro, at third base, caught two difficult foul flies, but it will be remembered that he also made some very costly errors. Dyer was not up to his usual good form on second base, but he made five hits in the course of the game. Waters was responsible for a two-base hit and a three bagger.

The attendance was small. A dull, threatening day and an atmosphere a little too cool to be called ideal ball weather were conditions contributing to a scarcity of fans, rooters and the less enthusiastic lovers of the national game.

P. H. S.	Hasbrouck Ins.
Munro, 3b.	Negus, lf.
Craig, ss.	Barret, ss.
Thompson, 1b.	Everitt, rf.
Dyer, 2b.	Russel, 2b and p.
Denton, cf.	Horwood, p and 2b.
Watters, rf.	Steiner, cf.
Moynihan, c., p.	Peterson, 3b.
VanAuken, p., c.	Schentz, c.
Ulrich, lf.	Muir, 1b.

Score by innings.

P. H. S.	10	0	0	0	1	2	5	4	x—	22
H. Ins.	0	1	2	0	2	3	0	0	0—	8

Errors—P. H. S., 10; H. I., 12. Base hits—P. H. S., 15; H. I., 5. Two-base hits—P. H. S., 1; H. I., 1. Bases on balls—VanAuken, 1; Moynihan, 8; Horwood, 1; Russel, 2. Struck out—VanAuken, 2; Moynihan, 7; Hawood, 1; Russel, 3. Double plays—P. H. S., 1. Umpire—W. M. Brown. Scorer—A. E. Moore. Attendance, 100.

VICTORY FOR RUTGERS.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team encountered a nine from Rutgers Preparatory School on the Neilson Field at New Brunswick Saturday morning.

Armstrong, the North Plainfield twirler, was taken ill in the first inning and retired from the game. His place in the box was ably filled by Stevens. Off his delivery the Rutgers boys succeeded in sending the ball but twice beyond the diamond. Notwithstanding general good playing errors at critical moments lost the day to North Plainfield.

For New Brunswick Hay pitched a star game and was finely held by VanVechten. Owing to the unfavorable weather only seven innings were played. following is the score by innings and batting order:

N. P. H. S.	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0—	1
Rutgers	0	0	1	2	1	2	x—	7

North Plainfield.	New Brunswick.
Woodland, 2b.	Mittag, 2b.
Conover, ss.	Cole, 2b.
Overton, 2b.	Green, 1b.
Armstrong, c.	VanVechten, c.
Stevens, p.	Hay, p.
Emmons, lf.	Bayley, ss.
Powers, cf.	Devan, lf.
Humble, rf.	Herbert, cf.
Hegeman rf.	Matzke, rf.
Messersmith, 1b.

THE GAME AT DUNELLEN

The Dunellen baseball team went down Saturday afternoon on its own grounds before the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Throughout the contest was a splendid exhibition only three errors being made in the nine innings, two by Dunellen, one by Y. M. C. A.

For Plainfield Burt and Eames were the battery. In the latter part of the game, Burt was relieved in the box by Percy Hand. Brown and Smith were the Dunellen battery.

Y. M. C. A.	Dunellen.
R. Schoomaker, p.	Giles, ss.
G. Schoomaker, 3b.	Giddis, ss.
Egan, rf.	Craig, 3b.
Bolsterli, 2b.	Ettinger, 2b, p.
Eames, c.	Giddis, cf.
Hand, If p..	Wyckoff, rf.
Egan, 1b.	Brown, c.
Burt, lf.	Hertick, lf.
W. Schoomaker, cf.	Smith, p, 2b.

Summary.

Bases on balls—Dunellen 5, Y. M. C. A. 5. Two base hits—Dunellen 1, Y. M. C. A. 3. Three base hits—Y. M. C. A. 2. Double plays—Y. M. C. A. 1. Hit by pitched ball—Dunellen 1, Y. M. C. A. 1. Struck out—Dunellen 8, Y. M. C. A. 10. Umpire—Miscrole. Scorer—R. J. Fisher.

The score by innings:

Y. M. C. A.	1	1	0	0	2	1	0	1	1—	7
Dunellen	1	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0—	4

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankeetown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to indorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

STRICKEN AT HIS OWN HOME

Sudden Death of H. Newton Spencer, Surrogate of Somerset County, at His Home.

HE DIED MONDAY NIGHT

Was An Old Resident of North Plainfield, Where He Spent Most of His Life—Was Active in Republican Circles—He Was Out Two Hours Before Death.

The death occurred very suddenly of Henry Newton Spencer, surrogate of Somerset county, at his home on Somerset street, Monday evening. Mr. Spencer died at 9 o'clock; two hours before he was out taking a walk in his garden. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, although he had been suffering previously from an attack of acute gastritis.

Tuesday Mr. Spencer attended to the duties of his office at Somerville, as usual. Sunday night, the family physician, Dr. M. B. Long, was called in but it was not until a few moments before his actual demise that he was considered to be in any immediate danger. He leaves a wife and family of two sons, and one daughter to mourn his loss.

The elder son, Alexander Gibbey Spencer, is assistant surrogate of Somerset county. Harry L. resides at home. The only daughter, Mrs. Wm. C. Force, lives in Plainfield. Mrs. Spencer is completely prief stricken at the sudden loss of her husband. She was Mary I. Gibbey, daughter of Judge Gibbey, of Rahway.

Mr. Spencer, at the time of his death, was a member of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, the Exempt Firemen's Association. At one period he was a director of the American Fire Insurance Company.

Henry Newton Spencer was born on September 18, 1842, at Washington valley, Union county, and is was fifty-nine years of age. He was a son of Jas. L. Spencer and Carolina B. Wilcox. After having been graduated from Wallace's Business College, Plainfield, in 1857, he entered the grocery business in the employ of his brother, Lewis C. Spencer. At the outbreak of the Civil War Lewis C. entered the army and Henry Newton conducted the business assisted by his father until 1866. About this time he opened a business at Rahway, and, in 1868, removed to North Plainfield, where he took charge of a store at 73 Somerset street, which he continued to conduct up to three years ago.

Mr. Spencer was a prominent Republican, having cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln. Ten years from 1886 to 1896 he represented his district on the county Republican executive committee and also for eight years about the same period served on the executive committee of the Republican State League. At one time he was a very active member of the Plainfield Reform Club, being president of that organization for a number of years. He held many political positions, having served several terms as township and district clerk; collector and treasurer of the borough of North Plainfield and at the time of his death was surrogate of Somerset county. In the course of his political activity he had some acute differences with members of his own party especially at the time of election to the surrogateship, but the majority of Republicans finally proved to be his staunch friends.

Mr. Spencer comes of French lineage, and his ancestor fought in the Revolutionary War. Col. Henry Spencer, great grandfather of the deceased, was a brave soldier killed at the battle of Elizabethtown in 1780. Wm. Spencer, grandfather of Newton Henry, was a resident of Chatham, Morris county, fifty years and was a prominent merchant of that place.

On his mother's side, Wm. Line, great great grandfather, was a captain of militia in the Continental Army and lived on a farm near Green Brook, Union county, for several years.

W. C. T. U. Social.

The W. C. T. U. is planning to hold an entertainment and social in the near future.

Bicycle Stolen.

A Wolf-American bicycle was stolen from J. W. Gavett, of Third place, last night. He offers a reward for its return.

The Finest Fabric

made by human skill is coarse compared with the lining of the bowels. When this tender membrane is irritated we have griping pains, diarrhoea and cholera morbus. Whatever be the cause of the trouble, take Perry Davis' Painkiller according to the directions with each bottle. Travelers in all climates carry Painkiller in their grips sacks. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

"ANTIS" HAVE THEIR TURN

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

union. These bills were taken to the Legislature and passed without any intention of consulting the people. Was that fair? A voice called "Not true." He hoped the people would resent such injustice at the ballot-box.

People complain that North Plainfield was never heard of. Perhaps the Ameer of Thibet or King Menelick never heard of them. A statesman said to the Governor that North Plainfield was in slavery and bondage. Slaves to whom? he asked, to Emperor Newton the first? Speaking of jealousy he knew of no jealousy except between office seekers. He had helped to nominate Senator Reed, but felt like apologizing for it now.

He took up the sewer argument. There was never any intention, he thought, on the part of Plainfield to allow the people of North Plainfield to connect with its system. The sewer is not large enough for both city and borough; it has not pitch enough for North Plainfield without a pumping station. Plainfield's system is only experimental, he declared.

Dealing with taxes he said the press only told half the truth. The property of Plainfield is three times greater than the borough, the assessment is three and a half times what it is in North Plainfield; the assessed valuation of Union county is only just double what it is in Somerset county, people could draw them over conclusions, as well as the newspapers could.

He compared last year's police, street and fire expenditure in Plainfield and North Plainfield. He had heard of a proposition to increase the salary of Plainfield firemen, and he was not against the proposition. The tax rate showed a difference of twenty-eight cents in favor of the borough. Last year's tax sale of the counties showed a difference of fourteen cents against the borough. This was unfairly exploited. Last year Somerset was visited by floods and much damage was done.

They spent $41,000 Union county spent only $17,000 but this year they would disburse from $80,000 to $90,000; it was unfair for one county. An abnormally low rate for ten years eliminating 1901 showed a margin of 9.1 for Somerset county, and twenty-one years margin of 15. The bonded indebtedness of Plainfield is $150,000, of the borough, not bonded, $12,000, and the borough is paying off $1,000 a year. Plainfield is about to issue $60,000 more of sewer bonds. The bonded debt of Union county is $441,000; of Somerset, not bonded, $75,000 A new court house in Elizabeth will cost $250,000 to be added to the already large debt of Union county. Is it good business to exchange a small debt for such an enormous debt? He quoted statistics, further and admonished the people that if they went into Union county and found they were bunooed they could not retrace their steps. He advised them to remain in the borough and county.

Chairman McCutcheon thanked the audience and announced that an organization had been formed known as the "North Plainfield Citizen's Association" for the purpose of combatting annexation. He had those desirous of joining to send their names to J. H. VanWinkle, Jr. Then the crowd went home to talk it over.

Engagement Is Announced.

The engagement of George Haring, of Somerset street, formerly of Somerville, to Miss Emilia Kielblock, of Myersville, has been announced.

Take Care of Your Roof.

Hawthorne's United States Roof Paint.

A Great Metal Protector

For sheet Iron Surfaces, Tarred Felt Roofs, Smoke Stacks, Iron Pipes, Iron Bridges, Railings, Shingle and Felt Roofs and all other Metallic Surfaces. It stops rust and will wear for many years. It has no equal. Call or address

WILLIAM F. CLARK, Somerville, N. J., Sole Agent for Somerset, Union, Middlesex and Monmouth Counties. Contracts taken. Only experienced men employed to put on roof work. This paint will last from ten to twenty years. All work guaranteed. Sell after two coats of this paint. It is both fire and water proof 4 29 tfm c

DIED.

BALDWIN—On Friday, May 2, 1902, Jane, widow of Wm. A. Baldwin, aged 60 years.

MILLS—In this city, Thursday, May 1, 1902, William J. Mills, aged 37 years, 2 months.

BRUUN—Suddenly, in this city, May 6, 1902, Peter Bruun, in his 56th year.

FLYNN—In this city, May 8, 1902, Patrick J. Flynn, in his 32nd year.

FAWCETT—On Monday, May 5, 1902, Susan, beloved wife of Hughes Fawcett and daughter of the late Martin Cathcart.

HAND—On Tuesday, May 6, 1902, W. Frank, son of William H. and Fannie Hand, aged 22 years.

ROBERTS—On Monday, May 5, 1902, Pamelia E., widow of Leander Roberts, aged 80 years.

FRANK HAND PASSED AWAY

END CAME AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS OF SIX MONTHS.

Well-Known Trackman and Member of Many Fraternal Orders In This City.

After six months of intense suffering with Brights disease, Frank Hand passed away at his home on East Second street shortly after 6 Tuesday morning. His death had been expected for some time and the members of his family were present at the end.

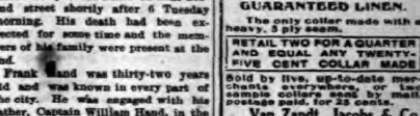
Frank Hand was thirty-two years old and was known in every part of the city. He was engaged with his father, Captain William Hand, in the trucking business and always took an active interest in the work until his illness began last December. He was a member of local lodges of the Free Masons, Jr. O. U. A. M., Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows, delegations from each of which will attend the funeral. Besides his parents he leaves a widow and two children and two brothers, Fred, of this city, and Milton, of Jersey City.

The funeral services will be held from his late home, this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Residences Painted.

The residences of Walter Scott and Mrs. Lawrence Myers on East Front street, and Dr. M. A. Carman, on North Franklin place, have just been painted by the New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue.

TWO NEW STYLES



Special inducements to Dealers

After Teachers' Certificates.

Miss May Conroy and Miss Alice Master were applicants from North Plainfield for teachers' certificates at the Somerville examination Friday and Saturday.

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, MD.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your invention, a full history of my case, to be used as you see fit, is at your disposition. I am now my hearing in this ear entirely.

I had been under the treatment for catarrh, for three months, without success, by of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of Chicago. I had also tried every known remedy for deafness, and was about ready to give up all hope, when I saw your invention mentioned in a newspaper. I sent for one, and, to my surprise and delight, found it was just what I needed. I procured one of the same, but the hearing in the affected ear seemed to be lost forever.

I then wrote you, and you kindly sent me a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day I can hear as well as ever. I have not been troubled with catarrh since you have carefully and kog to remember you. Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 1308 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOX, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 Y'EARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us in their own localities. Experience unnecessary; others for local work and traveling; salary and expenses. Send stamp for particulars. Manufacturers' reference. Permanent position. Address, old established house. Grand chance for ambitious man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Honest, business. No postals. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

PRINCETON BOYS WON FROM HIGH SCHOOL

Defeated Crack Nine of City High School by a Score of 14 to 9 April 30.

VISITORS BATTED HARD.

PRINCETON TEAM FOUND VERY LITTLE TROUBLE IN WINNING GAME.

High School Tried VanAuken and Moynihan in the Box—The Winners Used Football Tactics in the Running of Bases.

The baseball aggregation of the Valqueric club that came over from Princeton University April 30 played rings around the Plainfield High School nine, on Plainfield Field, back to their town a score of fourteen to nine in their favor. The majority of the players on the visiting team were big and husky, and their prowess in hitting the ball somewhat awed the local boys, so much so that several errors, which finally helped score runs, were made on comparatively easy hit balls.

The visitors at times showed an inclination to introduce football tactics into the game, Cole and Wright being the chief offenders. The former deliberately butted over Manser as third and the latter rammed his head into Moynihan's stomach while attempting to reach home. Thomas, who played second for the visitors, lives in Dunellen, and the smooth game he put up immensely pleased his friends on the bleachers.

Craig, the miniature shortstop on Plainfield, made a remarkable one-hand running stop of a ground hit in the sixth inning and also made a hit that brought in a run in the eighth. Cole lead in batting for both sides, getting a home run, a three bagger and a single. Denton knocked no less than eighteen flies during the game; he also made a fine running catch of a long hit fly from Long's bat in the fifth.

The fourth inning was most productive of runs. With three men on bases in that inning Cole knocked out his three bagger, came home on Kay's hit to Munro, who fielded the ball poorly, and the latter came home himself. Long on Wright's hit past short. In Plainfield's half of the same inning three runs were scored by bases on balls, a hit man and Dyer's hit to deep left. Considering that the visitors were much heavier than the High School boys the latter's showing was creditable.

The score:

VALQUERIO.	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Shafer, 3b	5	1	1	0	2	1
Thomas, 2b	5	1	1	5	3	0
Cole, c	5	4	4	7	0	1
Kays, 1b	5	1	3	12	0	2
Long, lf	5	1	2	1	0	0
Young, If	5	0	2	3	0	0
Wright, ss	4	1	1	0	2	1
Neal, cf	4	1	0	0	0	0
Weeks, rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Knox, cf	4	2	1	1	0	1
	41	12	15	27	7	5

HIGH SCHOOL.	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Manser, 3b	4	3	1	2	3	2
Craig, ss	4	1	1	1	2	0
Thompson, 1b	5	0	1	9	0	1
Dyer, 2b	5	0	1	2	4	2
Denton, cf	3	0	1	3	0	0
Watkins, rf	3	0	0	1	0	0
Moynihan, c and p	4	2	3	3	3	0
VanAuken, p and c	4	0	0	4	1	2
Quirck, lf	3	3	1	0	0	0
	35	9	9	25	13	7

SCORE BY INNINGS.

Valqueric	0	0	1	6	3	0	0	4	—	14
P. H. S.	0	0	0	2	1	0	3	1	2	— 9

Base on balls—VanAuken, 2; Long, 4. Hit by pitched ball—Long, 2; Moynihan, 1. Bases—Cole, 3; Shafer, Moynihan. Two-base hits—Cole, 2. Struck out—By VanAuken, 3; by Moynihan, 4; by Long, 7. Umpire—Arthur Ledever. Scorer—Alden E. Moore.

AUCTION SALE.

Given for the Benefit of the Swedish Pilgrim Church Friday Night.

Nearly $100 was cleared for the Swedish Pilgrim church by the sale of fancy articles made by the Sewing Circle, in the Congregational church, Friday. Rev. O. G. Norsen was in charge and, as auctioneer, he disposed of seventy garments, all of which brought fair prices. He was assisted in selling by Henry Brandt and Miss Matilda Gustavson.

Following the sale refreshments were served and a social hour followed. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Annette Brandt, Mrs. August Brandt and Mrs. Matilda Johnson.

On Enrollment Committee.

C. J. Baxter, of Plainfield, president of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, has appointed Caius Hoffman, of Somerset county, and M. D. Heyer, of Union, on the enrollment committee of the association.

Resurfacing Washington Street.

Street Commissioner Gawtry placed men at work, Saturday, resurfacing Washington street. The thoroughfare will be treated from Front to Seventh streets.

THEY MUST BE VACCINATED

PROMPT MEASURES TO PREVENT ANY POSSIBLE SPREAD IN SCHOOLS.

Children in the Bryant and Irving Schools Must be Vaccinated Or Stay Away.

For the general protection of the public health the pupils of the Bryant and Irving Schools have been vaccinated by Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the Board of Education. In some cases, however, pupils objected and consequently they were sent home by the teachers. The parents of these children have been informed that they will be barred from the privilege of attending school until vaccinated. In many instances, when the parents learned that it would be impossible to get their children reinstated otherwise, they immediately had the operation on the arm performed.

This speedy action has been taken by the Board of Education in order to prevent a possible outbreak of the disease among the school children. It was learned a few days ago that children of persons, now confined in the isolation hospital, had attended the sessions of the two schools recently. Although not alarmed the board believed in taking every precaution, an Dr. Probasco lost no time in carrying out the plan argued upon. First, however, he consulted counsel. He was informed that under the State law such a policy may be pursued, whenever there is likelihood of an epidemic.

Since the work has been accomplished Dr. Probasco has been in communication with the State Board of Health. He was informed by these authorities that his action was justified. The board endorses the work.

HIS CLASS THERE.

W. D. Williams Entertained His Sunday-School Class Friday.

The Sunday-school class of young women at Trinity Reformed church, taught by W. D. Williams, of West Fifth street, was entertained last Friday at the home of the teacher, when a very pleasant time was had by all.

Various games proved a source of amusement, while the host added to the pleasure of the evening by reading a story of interest and rendering one of his own compositions on the piano. There were also vocal and instrumental selections by Miss Florence Smalley and Miss Chauncey F. Colthar, which were well received. At the close of the programme refreshments were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams, Mrs. William Wyman, Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar, Miss Florence Smalley, Miss Louise Lunger, Miss Matie Force, Miss Lydia Wyman, Miss Laura Wikoff, Miss Erma Green, Miss Bessie Reusen and Miss Edith Huff.

TWO NEW INDUSTRIES.

Will Occupy the Old Oil Cloth Works in the Near Future—A Factory and a Foundry.

There is a scene of activity about the old oil cloth works, where in the near future there is to be established two new industries. One is a sash and blind factory and the other a brass foundry. J. G. Burdick will have the sash and blind factory and former Sheriff L. M. Codington, of Somerville, will operate the foundry.

Mr. Codington has been conducting a foundry business at Bound Brook, but is now moving his plant to this city. There is some talk of forming a stock company to conduct the two businesses on a large scale. In order to accommodate the two plants additions are being made to the building.

GIVEN UP HOTEL.

Albert Moffett, Victim of Trolley Accident, Has Taken to Farming.

Albert Moffett, well known to Plainfielders as the hotel keeper at Clark township, near Rahway, has disposed of his hostelry to engage in farming. He moved yesterday to a farm in Mountainside borough, back of Westfield, and will hereafter devote his time to tilling the soil. Mr. Moffett has only recently recovered from severe injuries sustained in the trolley accident at Westfield last spring, when a large car turned completely over in rounding a curve.

Improving Property.

Howard A. Pope has purchased of the Lantimer estate the house and lot, 114 East Fifth street, opposite his present residence, and after he gets through the extensive repairs he is making to the property it will be a credit to the neighborhood.

Charles Vail, of Valley, N. J., has returned after a visit with Plainfield relatives.

Miss Nellie Brown, of Dunellen, has been visiting Plainfield relatives for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman, of Plainfield, have been visiting friends at Somerville.

SPEED AND STOP CHECK.

An Ingenious Device That Helps Overburdened Truck Horses and Their Owners.

An ingenious little device that is proving a boon to overburdened horses and is bringing woe to many a careless, dilatory or brutal driver is to be seen nowadays on the delivery wagons of many big mercantile houses, breweries and trucking companies. In these days of sharp competition and good wages it is essential to the success of large business enterprises that the greatest possible service be obtained from men and horses alike, but wise employers, who take pride in their handsome delivery animals and pay tidy sums for ANTI-CRUELTY DEVICE.

(Designed to Give Relief to Overburdened Truck Horses.)

stanch horseflesh, find no economy in overworking their draught animals. But try as they would, the managers of many business concerns having 50 or 100 or more horses found it almost an impossibility to place the responsibility for abuses until the "speed and stop check," or indicator, of which there are several patterns, came into the market to aid the work of the Bergh society, delivery superintendents and stable bosses.

Now, if Fritz or Patrick stops at his favorite saloon to play a game of pinochle with his cronies and then compels his horses to make up the lost time afterward, it is all indicated on the "speed and stop check," modelled after the fashion of the cyclometer of bicycle fame. The indicator is about the shape of an ordinary alarm clock, with a face about five inches across and divided by minute and hour lines. A clock hand moves continuously, but another dial is so arranged that it records only while the wagon moves, stamping each quarter mile as it is wheeled off. The indicator is attached to a rear wheel, and if a driver stops the time hand goes on, but the distance marker does not. With the number of miles traveled, the time consumed and the stops all indicated, it is easy for the employer to tell at a glance if his horses have been overdriven and if the driver has been attending to duty promptly.

MISS VIVIAN SARTORIS.

Granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant Has Decided to Retire from the Social World.

Miss Vivian Sartoris, of Washington, D. C., the beautiful granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, has decided to withdraw completely from the social world and devote herself to an artistic and musical career. Miss Sartoris at present is in Paris, spending 12 hours a day in fitting herself for the examination to the Ecole des Beaux Arts. Miss Vivian is the eldest of the two daughters of Algernon and Mrs. Sartoris, her mother being the only daughter of Gen. Grant. She was one of the most beautiful and attractive girls of Washington society, and rumors of her engagement or marriage have been frequent.

MISS VIVIAN SARTORIS.
(Will Devote Her Life to Artistic and Musical Pursuits.)

In a recent letter to her mother Miss Sartoris explains that she believed herself in love with Mr. ——, four, but as the time of the wedding approached she discovered her unfitness to assume the responsibilities of matrimony. Mrs. Sartoris tells her friends she does not think her elder daughter will ever marry.

None of her relatives is surprised at the announcement of her absolute withdrawal from society and devoting her brilliant talents to art and music. A few of her friends believe that she will marry an operatic tenor, but her entrance to the Ecole des Beaux Arts would indicate that her ambition is to become a painter or sculptor.

Woman with a Bright Idea.

An Alton (Ill.) woman has started a crusade against men who will not work and support their families. She wants an ordinance passed requiring such men to be arrested and put at work on the rock pile with wages. The money she would turn over to the families for their support.

CLEVER LITTLE PLAYS WERE WELL PRODUCED

Pantomime "Mary Jane" and Play "Cranford" Were the Attractions.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

GIVEN IN PARISH HOUSE OF HOLY CROSS CHURCH APRIL 30.

All of the Participants Acquitted Themselves With Credit—A Decided Hit Made by "Judy" Townsend—The Committee in Charge.

In the parish house of Holy Cross church, April 30, a large audience witnessed the rendition of a delightful programme, consisting of pantomime and amateur theatricals. The latter was the three-act play, "Cranford," as adapted by Marguerite Merington from Mrs. Gaskill's familiar story. No better cast could have been chosen for its interpretation, the embryo actors acquitting themselves with an ease of manner which called for nothing but favorable comment.

The pantomime, which consisted of the usual reading and shadow pictures, was entitled "Mary Jane" and dealt with a love affair encountered by the young woman with a certain "Benjamin." George O. Stevens read the part while the characters were taken by J. G. Stevens, Miss Ida Davis and Archibald Brakeley. It was an amusing piece of nonsense which served to set the audience in good humor before the treat of the evening was produced.

"Cranford" abounds with comedy and timely situations which kept the spectators eagerly looking for more. Three acts seemed all too short so smoothly did the characters deliver their lines with their accompanying amusing gestures. To select any one as being especially prominent would be a difficult matter as each acted his or her part with a conscientiousness which manifested a desire to please.

The entire cast was as follows: "Miss Matilda Jenkins," Miss Mabel VanDeventer; "Mary Smith," Miss Alice Barlow; "Lady Glenmire," Miss Larra Long; "The Hon. Mrs. Jamieson," Mrs. George O. Stevens; "Mrs. Forrester," Miss Frankie Burr; "Mrs. Fitz-Adams," Miss Edna Moore; "Miss Betty Barker," Miss Long; "Miss Pole," Miss Stevens; "Martha," Miss Conant, and "Peter Marmaduke Arley Jenkins," Morgan T. Townsend.

As a mirth provoker, Morgan T. Townsend had an invaluable alley in "Judy" Townsend, who made her initial bow (wow) to the public, scoring an instantaneous "hit." "Judy" is a four-footed actress who owes her professional success to the carefully coaching bestowed upon her by Miss Margaret Townsend.

Following the rendition of the play, the audience showed its appreciation by lingering to personally compliment the participants on their success. During this time and throughout the evening music was rendered by the Woman's Orchestra, of Dunellen.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mrs. W. Montgomery Downey and Mrs. Samuel Townsend.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Elected and Reports Received at East Third Street Chapel Thursday Evening.

The annual meeting of the East Third street chapel was held last Thursday at the chapel. C. W. McCutchen presided over the meeting.

W. C. Conger was elected trustee for three years in place of Irving L. Brady, whose term expired. E. L. Bonney was re-elected trustee for three years. He was elected treasurer. There was a balance of $180 reported in the treasury and all bills are paid. There is yet due $66 from subscriptions.

L. W. Randolph was re-elected superintendent and he gave a detailed account of the work during the past year, showing marked progress. The present enrollment is 140. During the evening Mr. McCutchen, president of the board, congratulated the workers at the chapel, especially the superintendent.

Opening Up South End Park.

South End Park, situated on Park avenue just beyond Randolph road, is now being developed by Charles L. Mott and Cornelius E. Gulick. They are now opening and putting to grade three thousand feet of new street and starting several fine residences. This is a most attractive residential section of the city and it is predicted that within a short time it will be occupied with fine homes.

To Send a Delegate.

It is the purpose of the Loyal Temperance Legion of New Jersey to send a delegate to the National W. C. T. U. convention this year, and the Plainfield branch has been asked to assist in raising a sufficient sum to do this.

TRAVELS OF A CAT.

"Barney," Born at Sea, Has Sailed Many Voyages and Was Rescued from a Shipwreck.

"Barney" is the name of a remarkable cat, the property of Capt. O. W. Look, of Jonesport, Me. Barney was on the schooner E. L. White, which was wrecked off the Bahama islands a few weeks ago, and was saved and brought to Mansfield by Edward Wilson, steward of the boat, and shipped to Jonesport, where she will spend the winter with her mistress, the wife of Capt. Cook, going to sea again as soon as opportunity offers.

She was born on the ocean on board the schooner 4½ years ago, and has always been to sea.

The picture was taken on the voyage from the Canary Islands to Barbadoes. She has been to most all the West India islands, South America and several southern ports.

BARNEY ON HIS TRAVELS.

Twice in midocean has Capt. Look hove the vessel to and rescued her, she having fallen overboard, once from the spanker boom and once from the taffrail.

In speaking of the cat Mr. Wilson said to a Boston Globe reporter: "Barney' was the strangest acting cat I ever saw. She would not allow any cats or dogs to come aboard the boat while in port. She was what might be termed the monarch of all she surveyed.

"If we passed a steamboat at sea and the whistle was blown, 'Barney' would at once seek a hiding place. So frightened was she that at times she would remain in hiding two or more days.

"She is a great bird catcher, a fine mouser and will tackle a rat as large as herself."

TALK OF THE LODGE.

It Made Such an Impression That the Member Repeated It Partly in His Sleep.

Out in Kansas there are a good many Swedes, and very exemplary citizens they make. One of these representatives of this state's foreign population stayed out late one night and at breakfast the next morning his good wife Huldah demanded an explanation.

"Where were you last night?" she asked in a before-breakfast tone of voice.

"Ve haf a special meetin' of te lodge, Huldah, an' efferything for te gute of te order."

"Least night you were talking in your sleep and you said something about two-cent limit. What did you mean?"

"O, das var nodder feller's fault. Has var talkin' 'bout raisin' te assessment an' das mek me hot."

"WHERE WERE YOU LAST NIGHT?"

"And you said you 'was in.' What did that mean?"

"Vell, et meant dot Aye var member an' hat youst so motch to say as anybody."

"When you said: 'I'll open it,' what did you mean?"

"Some feller could not get onto the door, Aye tank. You see, dear vife, et is lock all tem."

"Once or twice I heard you say: 'It's a shame.' What does that mean?"

"Huldah, Aye haf no right to tal yo tings outside of te lodge, but Aye vill tal ye dis: Das means in lodge language: 'God bless mae home.'"

First of Canal Locks.

The first canal lock built in America is preserved as a relic near the present site of the Soo canal. It was built by the Northwestern Fur company in 1736. It is 38 feet long and eight feet nine inches wide. It had a lift of nine feet and a depth of 2½ feet. During the war of 1812 it was badly wrecked. The early fur companies used this little water way to lock down their small cargoes of valuable furs.

Oldest City in the World.

So ancient is the city of Damascus, in Syria, that there is no record of its origin in any written histories.

LOCAL SUFFRAGE WORKERS

ELECTED OFFICERS AND LISTENED TO INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Mrs. Mariana W. Chapman, State President, Spoke at Some Length on the Work.

An informal address on "Politics and the Home," I was given at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Women's Suffrage Society, by Mrs. Mariana W. Chapman, president of the New York State Woman's Suffrage Association, April 30. The session was held at the home of Mrs. David P. Hall, of Madison avenue, and was attended by seventy-five members of the local organization.

The lecturer spoke at some length on the great work women have accomplished in elevating the standard of orphan asylums, children's homes, jails, boards of education, and other institutions, all of which affected the home.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. David P. Hall; vice president, Mrs. Isaac Miller; recording secretary, Mrs. Harold Darar; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Patton; treasurer, Mrs. Samuel Huntington.

All the reports showed that the society is in excellent condition. Petitions were distributed for signatures relative to the matter of asking Congress to appoint a commission to investigate the results obtained by women's suffrage in Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Utah. The women of New Jersey will forward these petitions to their Congressmen in the several districts.

After the business session tea was served. In this feature of the affair the organization was assisted by the Misses Caroline Hall, Anna W. Miller, Viola Conklin, Kathleen Ryder and Wilhelmina Patton.

AIDING SCHOOL ATHLETICS

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY PUPILS OF THE BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL.

Clever Programme of Music and Recitations Was Well Rendered in School Hall.

The entertainment given last Friday by the pupils of the North Plainfield High School in aid of their athletic association was, from the viewpoint of an excellent and well executed programme, a decided success. But the boys and girls should certainly have been rewarded for their efforts by a larger house.

The first number on the card was a piano trio, the Misses Clara VanFleet, Minnie Green and Alberta E. Waterbury taking part. This was delightfully rendered so also was the smart chorus "Rock-a-bys" which immediately followed. Humorous sketches recited by Grover Kipsey received due praise. Miss Myra Lippincott and Edmund LaPorte acquitted themselves most favorably in a pretty duet.

A solo by Miss Agnes LaBoyteaux, with violin obligato, Miss Seal, elicited well deserved applause. Worthy of special mention was the lively chorus "My Sunflower Sue," in which seven boys and seven girls sang. The girls were robed in gowns of light green with a headgear of orange crepon designed so as to resemble the petals of a sunflower. This chorus was heartily encored. A violin solo by Miss Seal was of more than ordinary merit; as an elocutionist, Cornelia Dawson exhibited talent of no mean order. The Misses Bessie and Florence Wyckoff performed most satisfactorily in a piano duet and in the quartette "Uncle Ned," the Misses Winifred Carroll, Hazel Martin, Florence Lawson and Clyde Slater delighted the audience with an old favorite. Enjoyable and mirth provoking was "Hoo Doo Doo Man," a chorus and pickaninny caricature by seven of the younger students. Clarence Hand, Marshal Ward, Edwin Perrin, Harry Smith, Carroll Steiner and Sherman Harbelle. The entertainment closed with the chorus "Twilight."

BARBERS ELECT.

New Officers Chosen For Journeyman Barbers' Union Friday.

At the regular meeting of Journeyman Barbers' Union, No. 315, held Friday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Alexander Stills; vice president, John A. Powers; corresponding and financial secretary, Fred C. Tramm; treasurer, Albert Braun; recorder, William Palmer; trustee, Donato DiLonardo; by-law committee, William Palmer, H. G. Wentrick and William Griffin.

It was voted to retain the present meeting room in Trades Council Hall and at the next meeting plans will be discussed for properly observing the first anniversary of the organization which will be next month.

Miss Cora Hand, of Elmwood place, continues to improve from an attack of typhoid fever.

Paul V. Tunison, of this city, has returned from a visit with Abram Tunison, of Somerville.

LOCAL INSURANCE CO. WINDS UP AFFAIRS

Old Institution Has Finally Decided to Go Out of Business—No Patronage.

IT SENT NOTICES OUT.

FEAR OF HEAVY LOSSES HAS CAUSED POLICYHOLDERS TO WITHDRAW.

Company Has Been Conducted on Assessment Basis, and Policyholders Feared Assessments Would be Too Heavy.

Largely through an unaccountable fear of heavy losses which would result in large assessments, the policyholders of the American Mutual Fire Insurance Company have brought about the disbandment of the organization. The insurance company is a Plainfield concern and those whose risks are carried generally reside in this vicinity.

After fully considering the situation presented, the board of directors has decided to wind up the affairs of the company. Notice of this action has been sent to policyholders by Former Judge W. R. Codington, who is the secretary of the beneficial institution. Though losses by fire recently have not been especially great, a large percentage of those insured have declined to renew their policys on expiration. This has fallen heavily on the concern, the prosperity of which, as in all insurance companies, depends on the amount of business done. The plan of the company is mutual and hence assessments are called for from time to time to meet the losses sustained by members. Stock companies, where there is no liability for assessments, appear to have grown in favor, and this has had a tendency to draw business from the Plainfield concern.

So great has been the withdrawal from the company that at present there is only $175,000 in insurance carried. Beside this there are premium notes aggregating $30,000. The present indebtedness, it is said, is but $1,100. This amount is mostly represented by notes in bank. To meet the liabilities the directors have ordered an assessment of from four to five per cent., as may be deemed expedient. This assessment is made on all premium notes and is payable before Sunday, June 1. It is believed that the assessment will be promptly met and the concern relieved from further liability.

An arrangement has been made with the German-American Insurance Company, of New York, to carry all risks made by the company for a period of ninety days. The time set for the change in risk was April 10 and it will expire in July. This plan was devised to relieve the American Mutual Company from any risk while winding up its affairs. Before the expiration of the time limit the policy holders have been requested to cancel their insurance and reinsure in some other concern. The German-American Company is making an effort to attract the policy holders to that concern.

MUSICALE TO AID CHURCH

WAS GIVEN TO LARGE AUDIENCE AT SAENGERBUND HALL.

Under Auspices of the Consistory of German Reformed Church Last Friday—Those Who Took Part.

A concert and general entertainment was given under the auspices of the consistory of the German Reformed church, last Friday, the affair being held in Saengerbund Hall. The hall was crowded and the occasion proved to be both enjoyable and profitable.

The overture was played by A. Gaub, violinist, accompanied by F. Murray. Recitations were rendered by Mrs. Fred Bach, Miss Cara Weber and A. Wolf. The Misses Vordermeyer and Miss Windham played a piano trio and a zither duet was rendered by Miss M. Jellig and F. Jellig. Madame Menzeli Bartlett accompanied Mr. Gaub in a violin selection and a tenor solo was sung by H. Hoffman, accompanied by H. Eichhorn.

Among the others who contributed numbers on the programme were the Misses Ann Hartlaar and Jennie Dressell, and Otto Kelley, von Carl Haser, Henry Dressell Charles Drossell and Herman Klinsman. The Saengerbund Society rendered a number of vocal selections. Herman Eichhorn acted as musical director.

The small-pox patients at Korwin's Hotel have fully recovered and the quarantine has been raised. The place has been thoroughly cleaned and fumigated under the supervision of Health Officer Addis, of Plainfield.

A gathering of old people was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of William Dunham in honor of Mr. Dunham's birthday.

BRIDGE IN BOROUGH ACCEPTED BY COUNTY

Johnston's Drive Bridge, on Which Work Was Stopped, Has Been Completed.

INSPECTED BY BOARD.

STRUCTURE WAS BUILT BY W. T. KIRK & CO., OF THIS CITY.

The Somerset County Freeholders Visited Bridge Wednesday and Accepted It—Had Ordered Work Stopped, But Changed Minds.

The new bridge at Johnston's drive has been formally accepted by the Somerset county Board of Freeholders. A meeting was held at the bridge Wednesday afternoon and it was attended by all the members. Director William J. Logan presided.

W. T. Kirk & Co. were the contractors for the structure which is an up-to-date bridge in every particular. It is said that it has been much needed of late. Soon after the iron work was delivered on the job the board suddenly concluded to delay the structure's erection. They took the stand that North Plainfield would probably be annexed to Union county and that in such event, the Union county board, in their opinion, should pay half the cost. A resolution was passed ordering the work to cease, but Contractor Kirk having made all arrangements for the speedy completion of the structure went ahead with the work.

It was then that the board decided that the action would cause unfavorable criticism and hence revoked its resolution. The bridge was gotten ready for use some weeks ago, and it is said that it conforms with the contract in every particular. Saturday, May 10, the freeholders will meet in Bernards township, to view the bridge near Amerman's farm.

No action has yet been taken on the proposition to build a new bridge over Green brook on Girard avenue. The present bridge connects Union and Somerset county. The Union county Board of Freeholders has been anxious to erect a first-class bridge, replacing the present unsightly structure. This has been prevented by the Somerset county board which will not spend the money necessary to carry out the proposition. It is said that the Somerset county board is determined that the wishes of the board on this side of the brook be not carried out, and from present appearances the chances for the desired structure are slight.

A COMPARISON OF VALUES

PROPERTY ON THE COUNTY LINE IS ASSESSED IN BOTH COUNTIES.

Difference in Figures in City and Borough Are Clearly Shown by This Example.

Assessed valuations in North Plainfield are higher than in Plainfield. That means that a property of a given true value, say $1,000 or $5,000 or $10,000, or any other sum, is valued for assessment purposes higher in the borough than property of the same value is valued for assessment purposes in the city.

Take as an example the carriage repository on Somerset street, which is half in Union and half in Somerset county. The Plainfield assessor values the half in the city for assessment purposes at $1,000. The borough assessor values the half which is in Somerset county at $1,900. The tax rate in the city is $2.50 per hundred dollars, which makes the tax on the city half of the building $40. The borough tax rate is $2.42, which makes the tax on the borough half of the building $45.98.

This is a fair illustration of a condition which exists throughout the whole city and borough, and shows that while the tax rate is lower in the borough, the taxes are nearly fifteen per cent higher.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. E. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles was sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. R. W. Randolph.

NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY

SELECTION FROM THE LIST OF THOSE ADDED DURING APRIL.

Some of the Interesting Volumes Which Have Been Added to the Public Library.

The following is a selection from the list of books added to the Plainfield Public Library during the month of April:

Abbott, Lyman, Rights of man.
Allen, C. G. B., Florence.
Argyll, C. D. C., Duchess of; V. R. I. Queen Victoria.
Bacon, Lee, Our housebost on the Nile.
Booth, Mrs. M. B., Lights of childland.
Brandes, G., Main currents in 19th century literature.
Brooks, Noah, First across the continent.
Bryce, James, Studies in history and jurisprudence.
Canfield, J. E., College student.
Champney, Mrs. E. W., Romance of the feudal chateaux.
Chesnutt, C. W., Marrow of tradition.
Churchill booklet, v. 1.
Crowninshield, Mrs. M. B., Valencia's garden.
Davis, R. H., Her first appearance.
Ditchfield, P. H., English villages.
Dodge, M. A., Gail Hamilton's life in letters.
Ensign, H. L., Lady Lee.
Garden of a commuter's wife.
Gore, C., Bp., St. Paul's epistle to the Romans.
Green, J. R., Letters.
Hailmann, W. N., Kindergarten culture.
Hapgood, Norman, George Washington.
Harriott, Mrs. C. M., Life on the stage.
Hegan, A. C., Mrs. Wiggs of the cabbage patch.
Hillis, N. D., Influence of Christ in modern life.
Honeyman, A. V. D., Bright days in merrie England.
Hosmer, J. K., Mississippi valley.
Hough, F. M., Dutch life in town and country.
Hurll, E. M., Madonna in art.
Johnson, Clifton, Isle of the shamrock.
Lang, Andrew, Violet fairy book.
Lee, F. R., New Jersey as a colony and as a State.
League of American wheelmen, Road map of New Jersey.
Long, J. L., Prince of illusion.
Martin, E. S., Lucid intervals.
Mason, W., Memories of a musical life.
Munroe, C. K., Son of Satsuma.
Munsterberg, Hugo, American traits.
Palmer, F. H. E., Russian life in town and country.
Pittenger, W., Debater's treasury.
Powell, L. P., Historic towns of the western states.
Sedgwick, H. D., Life of Father Hecker.
Seley, Mrs. L., Cook book.
Singer, Isidore, Jewish encyclopaedia, v. 1.
Smith, A. H., China in convulsion.
Strong, J., Times and young men.
Swett, S., Cape Cod boy.
Thompson, S., Eugene Field.
Thurston, Mrs. I. T., Bishop's shadow.
Torrey, Bradford, Foot-path way.
Trent, W. P., Authority of criticism.
Viele, H. K., Last of the Knickerbockers.
Waters, Mrs. C. E. C., Angels in art.
Watson, T., Thomas Jefferson.
Westcott, B. F., Lessons from work.
Weyman, S. J., Count Hannibal.
Wiltse, S. E., Kindergarten stories and morning talks.
Wolfe, T. F., Literary rambles.

STANDARD FOR FOOD.

One Will Probably be Established by the State Board of Health.

The State Board of Health held a conference last week when the question of establishing a standard for food was discussed. The consideration of the subject was simply for the guidance of the board in prescribing fixed standards at some future date, and no definite action was taken.

The constituents of many articles of food were taken up, the aim of the board being to determine from a sanitary and commercial standpoint what adulterations should be prohibited in foodstuffs, and in what cases it should be insisted. The board was agreed that if there are adulterations the fact should be made known when goods are exposed for sale.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff for full amount and costs was rendered by Justice Hand, Friday, in the contract case of Bornman against Kleh. The plaintiff was represented by George Ball while the defendant appeared in his own behalf.

Fred Ward, of this place, has resigned the position he had in Westfield.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 11. "Annual Review"—Text, II Cor. xiii; Num. i, 2, 3; Ezek. iv, 6.

"Examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith. Prove your own selves."

The anniversary of the founding of the League naturally leads to a review of the progress made in these years since May 12, 1889, when in the little room in Cleveland, O., the Epworth League came into being. The gain in numbers has been beyond all expectation. Much was anticipated, but none could foresee the proportions to which the movement should attain. Who then could have believed the possibility of such great gatherings as the international conventions have been?

It is well to have a brief survey of the field and consider how far extended our forces are. Alaska and Hawaii, Japan, China and Korea, all have their chapters. The host in India is a great one. Africa in many places, South America, Mexico, all are mission fields. In Europe from Italy to Norway and Sweden and the islands of the West Indies are organized for work in the League.

But numbers are not the most important consideration in the service of Christ. The power lies in the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. Not wealth or talent is a matter of highest value. Our aim is to foster and develop intelligent piety among our young people. We do need scholarship. We need more knowledge of the Bible and all the good things which are open to human learning. Our people need to be growing more and more intelligent. There is no premium on ignorance, for "ignorance is not the mother of devotion," but of superstition. Bishop E. O. Haven used to say, "Christianity is learning and piety." We have got beyond the place where the two are supposed to be in opposition. But in all the getting of learning we must steadily hold in view the fact that it is valueless unless consecrated fully to the service of Jesus Christ. It may be very harmful indeed. If all the powers of mind and body are kept in healthy devotion to God, if one honestly means to do and be what God desires, then the more knowledge he gets, up to the measure of his ability to use it well, the better it will be. The same is true of money. These things can be helps or hindrances, wings or weights, depending on the way they are attached to us. What we can use well it is well to have. Beyond that we are burdened and hindered. Our aim should be the highest possible efficiency in God's service. This does not mean any more to one who is to be a minister or a deaconess than to one who is to be a laborer in shop, store, mill, mine or farm. All are to be in the league with the Holy Spirit. Our work every day is to do faithfully the task for that day in home, school, street and workshop. In the doing of the ordinary routine task we make character. In each shape comes the call to our destinies. That is the way Jesus did His life work. Few can be prominently learned or rich in great degree. Very few ought to be. There is a place for us. Let us find it and fit into it and fill it. Let us know all we ought to know, and get all we ought to get, and be strong enough to stop then and not weaken ourselves with straining for things beyond us. Above all things and in all getting let us get the wisdom of complete union with Jesus in spirit. "What with them have we to do?"

One Day of Life.

Neither a blind scramble for what we can get for as long as we are able to stand it nor a snatched fleeting moment torn from its proper connection, but a calm adoption of the Creator's own natural selection of one day of life and after that another! Something of all life present each day; each day with a completeness which may fairly express the motive and method of life as a whole. The gently returning dawn bringing with its renewal of physical light renewal also of the deep streams of the light of inner life. Opening as all life does in wonder—a wonder that, as the mist upon the hills disappears in ascending radiance, rises from the heart in aspirations of trust and hope. Every faculty and every highest aspiration and all one's best thoughts and noblest instincts will have a place to plant themselves in each such shape—and peeps of the vast infinite world over and around and about us will reach us better through the medium of that one day than through years of disarranged, hurrying, nervous, scattered existence. Such a day is worth living even in the rush and ceaseless turmoil of a superficial, restless age.—Christian Register.

The Christian Athlete.

The Christian athlete, "valiant for the truth upon the earth," is made such through faithfulness in inward conflicts with his soul's enemies, while feeling the good fight of faith casting down not human antagonists, but "imaginations and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God and bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ." So through the conflict and struggle for mastery and striving lawfully he learns how to put on the whole armor of God, the hope of salvation for a helmet, truth for his girdle, righteousness for a breastplate, the spirit and word of God for his faithful sword, faith for his shield, and then not always that he may fight, but (a still greater valor) that he may be equally strong to stand.—Friend.

Do Your Duty.

It is a great deal easier to do that which God gives us to do, no matter how hard it is, than to face the responsibility of not doing it. We have abundant assurance that we shall receive all the strength we need to perform any duty God allots to us.—J. R. Miller.

EVENING OF SCOTTISH BALLAD AND STORY

Annual Entertainment of the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino Last Friday.

SOCIETY FOLK THERE.

THE PROGRAMME WAS GIVEN BY MISS AMY MURRAY, A TALENTED ARTIST.

Sang the Songs of the Land of the Heather and She Related Quaint Stories of Scottish Wit—Old Folk Songs—Refreshments.

A brilliant array of society folk from both city and borough spent two delightful hours at the Casino, last Friday, as the guests of the Monday Afternoon Club on the occasion of its annual entertainment. It was termed "An Evening of Scottish Song" with Miss Amy Murray, of New York, the solo artist. In the winning manner peculiar to the lads and lassies from the land of the heather, Miss Murray sang the simple songs heard among the colonists and related quaint stories with just enough of the real Scotch humor in them to depict the Scot's ready wit. She was accompanied on the piano by Charles Edmund Wark.

Miss Murray's selections were taken from the writings of James Hogg, "The Ettrick Shepherd," Hector Mac Neil, "Bobbie" Burns, Sir Walter Scott, the songs used by the Jacobites in the rebellion of 1745 and the old folk songs. Eleven ballads were sheaved into one for the first part and they were interspersed with half as many descriptions as to their origin and something of the life of the author. In several Miss Murray accompanied herself with the ancient Celtic harp.

The second part consisted of two old folk songs, "Saw You Johnnie Comin? quo she," and "The Barrin' o'the Door" and she always pleasing "Caller Herrin" familiar to every true Scot. To carry out the proper effect in the latter Miss Murray appeared in the holiday dress of a Newhaven fishwife.

At the close of Miss Murray's programme, at her suggestion, the audience arose and hand in hand sang with fervor, "Auld Lang Syne." It was a fitting finale to the evening's entertainment.

Refreshments were served to the guests during the intermission and for a brief period informality reigned. The social committee of the club was in charge during the evening but the receiving was done by Mrs. R. R. Conklin, assisted by Mrs. Charles A. Reed and Mrs. Walter M. McGee. Pretty decorations of apple blossoms and plants had transformed the casino so that it was hardly recognizable.

MISS CODINGTON WEDDED.

Former Plainfield Young Woman Married in New York Wednesday.

Miss Mae Codington, daughter of S. A. Codington, of Somerville, and John Anderson F. Newton, of New York, were quietly married at the Church of the Transfiguration, in the latter city, Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

The bride was gowned in blue Foulard satin, and carried bride roses. She wore a picture hat. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Newton left for the south where they will spend three weeks. On their return they will reside in Brooklyn. Mrs. Newton formerly resided in this city and has many friends here.

HOLY TRINITY MUSICALE.

Arranged by Wm. E. MacClymont, of This City, Last Thursday.

"An Evening of Music" was given last Thursday in the parish house of Holy Trinity church, New York, by William E. MacClymont, organist of the church. Among those taking part were Miss May Vincent Whitney, pianist, of this city; W. Paulding DeNike, 'cellist; Mrs. R. W. Buckout, soprano; Hobart Smock and Edward Walker, tenors; Edwin H. Luckhart, bass. Mr. MacClymont presided at the piano. The programme was most attractive and was cordially received by a large audience.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Cures cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly." L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning May 11. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Jesus the living bread.—John vi, 25-35, 48-58.

It was the common custom of Christ to represent Himself and His work by apt and comprehensive figures. He calls Himself "the door," the "good shepherd," the "water of life," the way" and in the passage before us the "living bread." "I am the living bread which came down from heaven. If any man eat of the bread, he shall live forever, and the bread that I will give is My flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."

Christ's reference to Himself as "the bread of life" and "the living bread" occurred in connection with the feeding of the five thousand on the shores of the Galilean sea. The multitudes flocked around Him the next day, apparently hoping and expecting that He would continue to supply their physical needs. But this was not His mission upon the earth. While He did not underrate or ignore the importance of the body, His principal mission upon the earth was to save souls. Hence He used the opportunity presented in connection with the miracle to place this fact before the multitudes and to impress upon their minds the superior importance of that which supports eternal life rather than the present life. "Labor not," He says, "for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of Man shall give unto you. For him hath God the Father sealed." Christ in the discourse following He goes on to present Himself as the bread of life, or the one able to give and support spiritual eternal life, as bread or food does the physical life.

Christ became the living bread, or the bread able to give eternal life, by laying down His life for us on the cross. There His body was broken and His blood was shed for our salvation. By faith we partake of His body and blood, or the results of His sacrifice for us. The living bread is not to be bought. It is a gift of God. Bread that supports the physical life is purchasable, and there have been times when it was most expensive. But not so the living bread. God offers it to us as a free gift. It can be had without money and without price. This may seem to us incredible. It may be hard to realize that such a boon as eternal life could be had for the acceptance, but let us remember that Christ has paid the price for it, and God has declared that He is able to offer it to us as a free gift upon the condition of our acceptance of it.

Bread to be of use must be partaken of. Its mere existence will not keep us alive. We must actually eat of it and live. So we must actually partake of Christ by faith if we are to be saved. The living bread has been prepared, but we must eat to be saved. Let us therefore accept Christ's work in our behalf and be saved by what He has done for us.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxvi, 4-15; Deut. viii, 1-5; Isa. iv, 1-7; Matt. iv, 1-4; vi, 11; vii, 1-12; xxvi, 26-28; John xxi, 14-17; I Cor. x, 16.

Maintaining Moral Sentiment.

It takes line upon line and precept upon precept to form and maintain an exalted moral sentiment in a neighborhood. And sometimes labor in this direction seems lost. But when we hear our members speak in an account of the state of society in heathen lands, the utter lack of ideas and sentiments which seem so common with us as to be almost natural, we realize that these years of Christian teaching have borne fruits.

But we may not conclude that the children of even Christian parents will imbibe lofty ideals and possess stanch characters without right teaching and continuous care. But we have the promise that our work shall not be in vain in the Lord and that he that goeth forth weeping, sowing precious seed, shall doubtless come again rejoicing, bearing his sheaves with him.—American Friend.

Doing Good.

To do good and communicate forget not. The man who wants a chance so to act will soon find an opportunity. No one need go with his hand in his pocket for want of something to do for God and the good of humanity. There is work on every hand to which he is lovingly invited.—Philadelphia Methodist.

"To Sift Thee as Wheat."

Sifting is a slow process sometimes. It takes time to get down to the grain, and that is what God wants, the true and sweet kernel. We don't make bread of chaff.—Episcopal Recorder.

A True Way.

The true way of softening one's troubles is to relieve those of others.—Mme. de Maintenon.

Be Still.

O heart of mine, be calm and still
And ever trustful be;
Learn thou that God's almighty will
Is right and best for thee.
Though dark the future may appear
There stretch before
The raging billows of the sea.

And dost thou deem that He whose hand
Why, He who bade it sweep the shining strand
With thunder in its roar,
Hath not the power
To make it cower
And tremble to the very core?

He brought thee in His wisdom here
Upon its verge to stand,
With rising tide and tempest in the rear
And hills on every hand,
Thy faith to test;
Then let it rest.
For this is God's benign command.

Behold! The winds are beating back
The sullen, angry sea;
The billows fly and leave a track
That leads to liberty!
So, heart be still;
A higher will
Shall ever choose the best for thee.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

THEATRICAL.

"The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" continues its run at the Broadway Theatre but a short time longer. Everyone who misses seeing this marvelous spectacle will fail to witness one of the greatest contributions to stage art that has ever been presented in this country—a production that provides more real enjoyable amusement than any musical project ever conceived either by foreign or American management. Its coming withdrawal from the Broadway stage will mark the retirement of the most pronounced success New York has ever known. "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" pleases all. While artistic in very sense, it attracts both the eye and the ear and caters strongly to the humorous side of human nature by a plentiful display of clever and wholesome comical situations. In company and production it presents the very best that a most prodical outlay of money could provide.

Manager F. F. Proctor will prosecute a vigorous spring campaign at his seven beautiful playhouses. The introduction of full orchestras at three of his New York city theatres has added zest to the entertainments and the programmes of intermingled dramatic and vaudeville numbers are greatly enhanced thereby.

The souvenirs which are distributed at the daily matinees are attracting great throngs of women patrons to the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, Fifty-eighth Street and Newark theatres. Pin trays bearing photographs of Adelaide Thurston, Grace Montgomery, Edna Archer Crawford and Beatrice Morgan, the leading women of the Proctor Stock, and of Frederic Bond, general stage director, are now being distributed.

Mr. Bond and Miss Keim will head the Proctor Stock Company, which opens the summer season at Proctor's, Albany, at an early date. The Stock Company will have possession of the Fifty-eighth Street and the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street all summer, and Proctor's, Montreal, will, as usual, keep open uninterruptedly, the year round. Spring vaudeville, with revivals of the best successes of the New York dramatic season.

Continuous vaudeville will be presented at the Twenty-third Street for several more weeks, and the Fifth Avenue will keep open all summer, presenting the customary bills of dramatic and vaudeville interludes in continuous performance.

The Sunday concerts which are given at all of Manager Proctor's New York theatres will be continued, the specialties presented being of a musical and vocal character, in keeping with the character of the day and in full compliance with the letter of the law. The best acts are selected from the weekly programmes and many additional engagements are made for Sunday only, the performances being continuous at all houses.

The press of the metropolis has been wont to refer to the performance at Keith's Theatre, New York, as "the funniest show in town," and that criticism should be ably sustained next week, judging by the brilliant programme offered at "The Home of Vaudeville." Every act is an acknowledged "headliner" in its particular form of amusement, and combined they present an all-star aggregation of talent. Most prominent in the long list are Will M. Cressey and Blanche Dayne, who will present their greatest laughing success, "A Village Lawyer." Their act has won excellent criticism from press and public wherever produced, and as they use all their own special scenery and electric light effects, they should prove one of the delights of the season. Stephen Grattan and Maud White are the latest recruits to the vaudeville ranks from the Broadway Theatre, and their Monday comedy "Locked out at 5 a. m.," has earned for them one of the biggest hits recorded this year. York and Adams are great favorites in their funny Hebrew characters, and the Misses Melville and Stetson are acknowledged the cleverest comediennes upon the continuous stage. Others upon Keith's long programme who have "earned their tablets in the Halls of Fame," are Billy Van, favorite comedian; the DeForests, whirlwind dancers; Davenport and Lantell, original sketch artists; Brook Brothers, humanist; Steward Namon, novelty performers; and Louis Granasi, the famous whistler.

Officers Elected at State Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey, held Thursday at Red Bank, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, Elizabeth; fourteen vice presidents who are secretaries of associations throughout the State; recording secretary, Mrs. J. J. Jones, East Orange; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Plainfield.

Rev. J. A. Metz, of Somerville, who is in the hospital under treatment for his eyesight, is steadily improving.

MORE ABOUT CENTRAL'S CHANGES IN SERVICE

The General Passenger Agent is Quoted in Current Number of Railroad Employe.

GIVES MORE DETAILS.

EXPECTS A RECORD BREAKING SEA SON FOR THE CENTRAL.

How the Central is Planning to Meet It—Other Changes Now Being Made in the Jersey Central's Service.

In the current number of The Railroad Employe, appears a conversation lately held between a representative of that journal and General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt of the Jersey Central. What Mr. Burt has to say will be of general interest to the people of Plainfield.

He is reported as follows:

"We are anticipating the heaviest shore travel this coming season in the history of our company. We look for a largely increased traffic on our Sandy Hook boats which have been renovated and repainted during the past winter, and this service will be inaugurated on May 5.

"In anticipation of a greatly increased travel both to the seashore and Philadelphia, thirty new passenger coaches of the latest approved type have been ordered and their delivery in time for the early summer travel is guaranteed. In addition to the passenger coaches there are under construction one thousand box cars of 60,000 pounds, seven hundred and fifty steel coal cars of 80,000 pounds, five hundred steel gondolas of 80,000 pounds, and eight hundred refrigerator cars of 600,00 pounds capacity.

"A new ferryboat, a companion to the 'Lakewood' and 'Round Brook,' will be put in service on June 1.

"Commencing on May 11 trains will be run between New York and Philadelphia on an hourly schedule, leaving both cities simultaneously on the even hour during the day. These trains will be furnished with the most elegant of modern equipment and will service and depart direct from the Reading terminal station in Philadelphia. This service will commence at 7 o'clock in the morning, continuing until 7 o'clock in the evening. The schedule of the present express trains between the two cities will be changed to conform to this hourly schedule. This service will be entirely independent of the present Royal Blue Line trains, which will be continued as at present. The running time of the trains has not yet been definitely determined upon, but it is believed they will be scheduled to consume more than two hours and a half in covering the distance between the two cities, while the majority will be scheduled at two hours.

"To handle this additional service the immediate delivery is expected of three new locomotives of the Chautauqua type, and a like number of the Atlantic type. Previous to June 1 the delivery is expected of twelve specially designed engines for the suburban service, fifteen switch and twenty-seven wheel freight locomotives.

"The summer suburban train schedule will go into effect on Monday, May 26."

To be Ready September 1.

W. S. Butterfield, proprietor of Music Hall, states that the alterations on the present structure will commence June 1 and that the theatre will be formally opened during the first week in September.

Change in Office Hours.

There has been a slight change in the hours at the office of the Board of Health. On all days, except Saturday, the hours will be from 8 to 5 o'clock, and Saturdays, for the present, the hours will be from 8 to 1 o'clock.

—Sadie Randolph, of West Eighth street, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Baner, of Somerville.

—Mrs. Nichols, of Blawenburg, has sold her personal property and has taken up her residence in this city.

—Herman Klinsman, of Harrison avenue, has purchased a new horse to mate with "Duke," the fire horse of West End Company.

—The house on Rockview avenue, formerly owned by Wm. O. Worth, has been rented to Lieut. W. L. Murray, who moved in Thursday.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet Saturday, May 10, at the bridge near Alfred Amerman's in Bernards township.

—Mrs. Frank Kellar, of Harrison street, is confined at home by illness.

Harry Northrup, of this city, has been visiting Alvah Ammerman, of Somerville.

Jed Smalley, son of W. L. Smalley, Jr., of Somerset street, is convalescing after a recent illness.

ATTEMPT TO HURRY VOTE

Borough Council Defeated a Plan to Rush Forward Elections on Greater Plainfield.

HIGH WORDS PASSED.

Councilman Lee Fathered the Resolution Which Was Bitterly Denounced by the Mayor — Lost by Vote of Two to Three—It Was Laid on the Table.

A surprise was sprung at the regular meeting of the Borough Council, last Friday, when no attempt was made to secure the passage of a resolution to hold special elections this month on the question of annexation and consolidation, submitting the second proposition to the people before action be taken on the first. As from a clear sky, when all was going on serenely, the resolution, inroduced by Councilman Charles A. Lee, came as a thunder bolt. A stormy scene ensued, and finally on motion of Councilman Northrop the resolution was laid on the table.

From all appearances one would be led to believe that the session was going to be one of unusual importance for gathered there beside the borough fathers were leaders in the fight over the all important propositions. Among the distinguished citizens present were men enthusiastic over the idea of United Plainfield, such as William L. Saunders, Peter A. Emmons, Elston M. French, Frank Curtis, George T. Rogers, Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., and F. W. Iselin. On the other hand seated in the rear of the councilmanic chamber were Chas. Place, W. W. Howland and A. V. D. Honeyman, all opposed to annexation and consolidation. Senator Charles A. Reed attended the session in his official capacity as borough counsel. Other interested spectators were George F. Fairchild, William G. Debele, David Bodine and Thomas Dood.

The only absentee among the councilmen was Charles Nichols, who is said to be against the consolidation proposition. As soon as the meeting was about to adjourn, when Councilman Lee arose and submitted the following resolution:

Whereas, a certain act entitled "An act to unite and consolidate the municipal corporations known as the inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and the mayor and council of the borough of North Plainfield," and also "An act to annex the territory within the boundaries of the mayor and council of the borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset, to the county of Union," were approved by the governor April 16, 1909, and have, therefore become laws; and

Whereas by the enactment of these laws an unsettled state of affairs now exists, and, until elections thereunder, will retard certain important projects to the detriment of the inhabitants of this borough, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the mayor and Council of the borough of North Plainfield, deem it wise to hold, as speedily as possible, the special elections provided for in said acts for the settlement of the questions involved by the legal voters of the borough.

Resolved, That a special election be held in the borough of North Plainfield as provided for in section 2 of the act, entitled, "An act to unite and consolidate the municipal corporations known as the inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and the mayor and Council of the borough of North Plainfield," approved April 16, 1909, on Thursday, May 13, which said date is hereby fixed as the date of such election under the provision of said statute; and that the clerk of said borough is hereby directed to cause public notice of the time and places of holding said election, to be given by advertisements signed by himself and set up in at least ten public places in this borough and published in said city in The Weekly Review, a weekly newspaper of said borough, printed and circulating therein, and also the Daily Press and Courier News, daily newspapers of the city of Plainfield, on Saturday, May 3, and also on Saturday, May 10. The polls shall open and close on said day according to the provisions of the laws of the State, relating to elections, and the places for holding such election shall be in the rooms to be provided for by the clerk of the borough in the manner described in section eighty-five of the "Act to regulate elections" (Revision of 1898), and any supplements thereto.

Such election shall be conducted by the officers of such borough provided by law for the time being to conduct elections therein.

Charles A. Lee.

Mayor Smalley was taken completely by surprise and as soon as he could get to his feet he asked Councilman Lee if his resolution was intended to be taken seriously. He wanted to know whether Mr. Lee was in his right mind, to which he received reply that the latter was well aware of what he was doing. His Honor stigmatized the action as "outlandish to come up in that form" for, said he, the matter is too serious a proposition to be dealt with so speedily and lightly. Mr. Lee inquired if his resolution was not introduced in the proper way, to which the Mayor retorted that a resolution was proper, but the purpose in this case was ill advised.

Councilman Northrop moved that the resolution be referred to the borough counsel to decide upon its legality and also the technicalities in the proposition. A vote on Mr. Northrop's motion was about to be taken when Mr. Lee protested asking if it was right to sidetrack his resolution. "The people would be sidetracked if that resolution were passed," declared Mayor Smalley with much vehemence.

A discussion followed concerning which motion should be put, Mr. Lee stating that he had a right to offer the motion and that it should receive impartial attention. By request the counsel gave his opinion on the question stating a matter could be referred to him at any time.

Mayor Smalley then took another shot at the resolution declaring that in all fairness the action in introducing such a resolution was highly improper and gave vent to his feelings freely.

"Your remarks are out of order," said Mr. Lee.

"I wish to say right here, that the mayor is never out of order," was the response from the chair.

"I have rights here," shouted Mr Lee and then more arguments took place, the Mayor at one stage declaring that Mr. Lee was wrong in one of his statements. Councilman Northrop ended the discussion, which was very warm, by withdrawing his resolution and substituting that the resolution be laid on the table. Messrs. Arnold, Clark and Northrop voted "aye" and Messrs. Codington and Lee "nay," the chair deciding that the motion was carried.

Councilman Northrop then moved that the borough counsel prepare a proper resolution in the matter and that the Council itself at a future time set dates for the elections. Again the vote stood three to two, Codington and Lee voting in the negative.

Councilman Clark made some remarks concerning what he knew of the proposition to introduce the resolution, declaring that in his opinion sober public discussion would better serve the desired end at present. He moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of annexation and consolidation and to glean the opinion of the citizens in the matter. In voting on this motion the lines were drawn as they were on the two previous ones.

Mayor Smalley immediately named as a committee to ascertain the benefits and disadvantages Councilmen James H. Arnold, Charles Nichols and Robert Clark, Jr. A suggestion was then made by Mr. Lee that there might be some interested persons present who would like an opportunity to speak, at the same time facing A. V. D. Honeyman, Chas. Place and W. W. Howland. This proposition met with the approval of the chair and a general invitation was extended. After waiting for some time the Mayor saw that no one desired to take advantage of the offer, and the Council adjourned.

F. H. Jacobs Coming.

F. H. Jacobs, who was associated with William Phillips Hall and Rev. Theodore S. Henderson in the Gospel campaign meetings in this city in the spring of 1901, has consented to speak at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will also sing. Mr. Jacobs addressed the largest men's meeting ever held in Association Hall.

Red Men on the Diamond.

At their meeting Friday night Miantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., sent a challenge to Wetumpkah Tribe for a baseball game. The challenge will no doubt be accepted and the contest will probably take place Decoration Day.

New Postoffice.

Congressman Howell has made application for a new postoffice about one mile north of Somerville. The place will be known as Nowale.

New Fire Box.

A new fire box has been put in at the corner of Door street and Lincoln place in North Plainfield. The number is 148.

Half Holiday Granted.

Allan R. Laing, the electrician, has granted his men Saturday afternoon off half holiday for the rest of the season.

Men Will be Boys.

In the excitement of a livelyexercise like boat-racing or ball-playing, they will strain their muscles and go home limping and sore. Then they are glad they have Perry Davis' Painkiller on hand to soothe the quivering nerves; to penetrate the muscles with warmth and healing power. It has relieved the pain of two generations of Americans. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

two of the act entitled "An act to annex the territory within the boundaries of the mayor and Council of the borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset, to the county of Union," approved April 16, 1909, on Thursday, May 13, which said date is hereby fixed as the date of such election under the provisions of said statute; and that the clerk of said borough is hereby directed to cause public notice of the time and places of holding said election, to be given by advertisement signed by himself and set up in at least ten public places in this borough and published in said city in The Weekly Review, a weekly newspaper of said borough, printed and circulating therein, and also in The Daily Press and Courier News, daily newspapers of the city of Plainfield, on Saturday, May 10, and also on Saturday, May 17. The polls shall open and close on said day according to the provisions of the laws of the State relating to elections, and the places for holding such election shall be in the rooms to be provided for by the clerk in the borough in the manner described in section eighty-five, of the "Act to regulate elections," (Revision of 1898), and any supplements thereto. Such election shall be conducted by the officers of such borough provided by law for the time being to conduct elections therein.

Charles A. Lee.

Mayor Smalley was taken completely by surprise and as soon as he could get to his feet he asked Councilman Lee if his resolution was intended to be taken seriously. He wanted to know whether Mr. Lee was in his right mind, to which he received reply that the latter was well aware of what he was doing. His Honor stigmatized the action as "outlandish to come up in that form" for, said he, the matter is too serious a proposition to be dealt with so speedily and lightly. Mr. Lee inquired if his resolution was not introduced in the proper way, to which the Mayor retorted that a resolution was proper, but the purpose in this case was ill advised.

Councilman Northrop moved that the resolution be referred to the borough counsel to decide upon its legality and also the technicalities in the proposition. A vote on Mr. Northrop's motion was about to be taken when Mr. Lee protested asking if it was right to sidetrack his resolution. "The people would be sidetracked if that resolution were passed," declared Mayor Smalley with much vehemence.

A discussion followed concerning which motion should be put, Mr. Lee stating that he had a right to offer the motion and that it should receive impartial attention. By request the counsel gave his opinion on the question stating a matter could be referred to him at any time.

Mayor. Smalley then took another shot at the resolution declaring that in all fairness the action in introducing such a resolution was highly improper and gave vent to his feelings freely.

"Your remarks are out of order," said Mr. Lee.

"I wish to say right here, that the mayor is never out of order," was the response from the chair.

"I have rights here," shouted Mr Lee and then more arguments took place, the Mayor at one stage declaring that Mr. Lee was wrong in one of his statements. Councilman Northrop ended the discussion, which was very warm, by withdrawing his resolution and substituting that the resolution be laid on the table. Messrs. Arnold, Clark and Northrop voted "aye" and Messrs. Codington and Lee "nay," the chair deciding that the motion was carried.

Councilman Northrop then moved that the borough counsel prepare a proper resolution in the matter and that the Council itself at a future time set dates for the elections. Again the vote stood three to two, Codington and Lee voting in the negative.

Councilman Clark made some remarks concerning what he knew of the proposition to introduce the resolution, declaring that in his opinion sober public discussion would better serve the desired end at present. He moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of annexation and consolidation and to glean the opinion of the citizens in the matter. In voting on this motion the lines were drawn as they were on the two previous ones.

Mayor Smalley immediately named as a committee to ascertain the benefits and disadvantages Councilmen James H. Arnold, Charles Nichols and Robert Clark, Jr. A suggestion was then made by Mr. Lee that there might be some interested persons present who would like an opportunity to speak, at the same time facing A. V. D. Honeyman, Chas. Place and W. W. Howland. This proposition met with the approval of the chair and a general invitation was extended. After waiting for some time the Mayor saw that no one desired to take advantage of the offer, and the Council adjourned.

F. H. Jacobs Coming.

F. H. Jacobs, who was associated with William Phillips Hall and Rev. Theodore S. Henderson in the Gospel campaign meetings in this city in the spring of 1901, has consented to speak at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will also sing. Mr. Jacobs addressed the largest men's meeting ever held in Association Hall.

Red Men on the Diamond.

At their meeting Friday night Miantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., sent a challenge to Wetumpkah Tribe for a baseball game. The challenge will no doubt be accepted and the contest will probably take place Decoration Day.

New Postoffice.

Congressman Howell has made application for a new postoffice about one mile north of Somerville. The place will be known as Nowale.

New Fire Box.

A new fire box has been put in at the corner of Door street and Lincoln place in North Plainfield. The number is 148.

Half Holiday Granted.

Allan R. Laing, the electrician, has granted his men Saturday half holiday for the rest of the season.

Men Will be Boys.

In the excitement of a livelyexercise like boat-racing or ball-playing, they will strain their muscles and go home limping and sore. Then they are glad they have Perry Davis' Painkiller on hand to soothe the quivering nerves; to penetrate the muscles with warmth and healing power. It has relieved the pain of two generations of Americans. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

HAILED AS PROPHET.

Postmaster General Payne Considered an Infallible Political Prognosticator by His Friends.

Mr. Henry C. Payne, the new postmaster general, is a remarkable type of the modern political leader who dominates by the same kind of genius which builds vast fortunes. A sound capacity for organization; a shrewd judgment of men; an imperturbable mentality which accomplishes its purposes by means of intellectual instead of emotional processes—these are felt to be the principal characteristics of the man who is spoken of among the party leaders as the "political member" of President Roosevelt's cabinet.

No trait of Mr. Payne's character is more conspicuous than his political sagacity. Among newspaper men he is held to be a political prophet without a peer. The manner in which his reputation was earned is decidedly interesting. In the campaign of 1896 Mr. Payne declined to give out any estimates until a fortnight before election. Then the reporters were called into his room at national republican headquarters, and he read from a slip of paper a list of states which, in his opinion, would give their electoral votes for Mr. McKinley. Payne's estimate was printed in the newspapers of the west, and when the returns came in it was found that he had made a mistake in regard to only one state.

HON. HENRY C. PAYNE.
(Postmaster General of the United States and Party Leader.)

There is, however, another side to his nature known only to his most intimate friends. This, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, is his devotion to his wife, who has but recently escaped from a period of invalidism which extended over many years. For much of that time she was unable to leave her room and suffered the most intense agony. To lessen her pain and bring into her life gleams of brightness have formed the dominant purpose of his life. His devotion to her has been of a rarely tender and untiring kind.

PRINCE ADALBERT.

Third Son of Emperor William, a Bright Naval Cadet, May Visit New York Very Soon.

Among the 50 cadets on the German naval training ship Charlotte, which may arrive at New York toward the end of April, is Prince Adalbert, the third son of Emperor William II. He is a bright-faced boy of 18, and has been an officer in both the army and navy since his

PRINCE ADALBERT OF PRUSSIA.
(Third Son of Kaiser Wilhelm, About to Visit America.)

tenth birthday. On this account, although still a cadet in actual training, he enjoys all the privileges of an officer. It is not likely that the officers will accept many invitations during their visit, although it is possible that they will visit Washington. In that case Prince Adalbert will be presented to President Roosevelt by the German ambassador. The Charlotte is one of a fleet of training vessels maintained by the German navy. She is a similar vessel to the Moltke, which recently visited this country.

Dog Breaks Man's Leg.

David L. Black, of Middletown, N. Y., was the victim of a peculiar accident. He was standing on the sidewalk on Fulton street watching a horse that was being led to a shop to be shod. When a small dog began snapping at the horse's heels. Suddenly the horse kicked with both feet and sent the dog flying through the air with almost cannon ball force. Before Black could get out of the way the dog struck him on the leg below the knee, breaking both bones. The dog recovered, shook himself and trotted down the street, apparently unharmed.

CORA, THE COWGIRL.

A Unique and Daring Product of Western Civilization.

For Two Hours She "Shot Up" the Town of Santa Rosa, N. M.—Always Has Plenty of Money at Command.

"Cora, the cowgirl," as she is known to the Santa Rosa whites, or Cora Chiquita, or Senorita Chiquita, by the local Mexicans, has disappeared from Santa Rosa, N. M. She flitted between two days to avoid arrest for "shootin' up the town" during a sportive drunk, and whither her flight tended, or where it ended, is yet unknown. Not long, however, will her whereabouts be a mystery, for wherever Senorita tarryeth she is soon in active and abiding evidence.

La Chiquita is a quarter-blooded Cherokee Indian, and was a cowgirl on the Cherokee Indian cattle ranges from the time she was able to sit on a cow pony until seven years ago, when she transferred her range riding to the Texas Pan-Handle, and thence drifted, accompanied by Poker Paul, a well-known frontier card sharp, to the construction camps of the Rock Island-El Paso railroad.

Cora and Poker Paul opened a saloon and gambling house at the famous Rag Town grading Rock Island camp and remained there until she became jealous of a pretty Mexican girl, upon which La Chiquita promptly shot Paul and scratched the woman until she looked as if she had been in close and energetic communion with a first-class barbed wire fence. Cora then mounted her horse and rode to Santa Rosa.

Cora Chiquita is now about 23 years of age, is slight in form, and yet robust and agile, carries a handsome and haughty head crowned heavily with black hair. Her face is lighted with flashing black eyes and teeth of a dazzling white, and she presents a picture pretty in the extreme, done in deepest olive.

She dresses in nattiest frontier male attire, wears a bedumed and bespangled sombrero, carries a brace of revolvers at her trim waist, and a repeating carbine in her shapely and supple hand; she is a quick and dead shot; a fearless and finished rider; is unrivaled in the use of the lariat; and, as the mood takes her, a good natured, gentle hearted, and hand-helping woman, is fleet and daring desperado, before whose ready gun the most reckless cowboy or habitual "bad man" is glad, indeed, to hurriedly "hide out."

CORA ON THE RAMPAGE.

It was while being swayed by one of her periodical desperado outbreaks that La Chiquita Senorita earned her present exile from Santa Rosa. She had been drinking heavily, says the Chicago Tribune, during her horse into saloons, and "sittin' them up" to all hands. She became so drunk and disorderly that she was arrested and fined. With her wild heart aflame with mingled whisky and wrath, Chiquita once more mounted her horse, rode madly to her tent on the outskirts of the town, and before startled Santa Rosa could fairly catch its breath, was back on the main street, riding like a whirlwind, and shooting right and hanr at everything in or out of sight.

The town promptly hunted its hole, and for the two hours of daylight yet remaining, Cora Chiquita shot and rode as she listed. When the morning dawned the sulphurous stink of the smoke of La Senorita's revolvers still burdened Santa Rosa's otherwise balmy air, but the girl herself was missing.

While Cora Chiquita is no mystery, there has always been sufficient speculation as to where she procures the money with which she is always more than liberally supplied, a financial amount far beyond that of any source apparently at her command. This moneyed conundrum, together with the fact that the girl herself is from the Indian nation, once the breeding place and refuge of bandits of all clanes, has led to suspicion that Cora Chiquita may be the agent of advance and investigating agent of a bandit organization proposing bank and train robbery this winter along the line of the new Rock Island-El Paso railroad.

Austrian Kaiserin Versus.

Kangaroo farming is an important industry in Australia. The hides are valuable, and the tendons extremely fine; indeed, they are the best thing known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher then catgut.

First Mention of Gold.

The earliest book which mentions gold is the Bible. It occurs in Genesis 2-11.

WILL HEAD A CHURCH.

Samuel Fallows of Chicago, Chosen Presiding Bishop of Reformed Episcopal Denomination.

Bishop Fallows has won for himself the title of soldier, educator, orator, author, preacher and humanitarian. In the church he is Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, D. D., LL. D., bishop of the missionary district of the west and northwest of the Reformed Episcopal church. Samuel Fallows worked himself through the University of Wisconsin, graduating as valedictorian with the class of 1859. He was immediately elected vice president of Galesville university, in which office he served two years.

He then entered the Methodist ministry at Oshkosh, Wis. When the civil war broke out he became chaplain of the Thirty-second Wisconsin infantry. He was sent home sick at the end of a year, and when he recovered he organized the Fortieth Wisconsin regiment, of which he became colonel. Before he was mustered out he had been brevetted brigadier general for meritorious service.

BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS.
(Possible Head of the Reformed Episcopal Church of America.)

He then became pastor of Summerfield Methodist church in Milwaukee, and later of Spring Street church in the same city. In 1871 Gov. Fairchild appointed him state superintendent of public instruction for Wisconsin. He was twice reelected to the same office by the people. Lawrence university gave him the degree of doctor of divinity in 1873, and the next year he became president of Wesley university at Bloomington, Ill. He became allied with the Reformed Episcopal church in 1875 and accepted a call to St. Paul's church, West Adams street and Winchester avenue, Chicago.

Dr. Fallows was made bishop in 1876. As a literary man his best known works are "Synonyms and Antonyms," "Hand Book of Abbreviations," "Life of Samuel Adams," and the American articles in the Encyclopedia Britannica. Since 1901, when Gov. Pifer appointed him president of the trustees of Pontiac reform school, he has served in that capacity. During the world's fair he was at the head of the educational congress.

AMERICAN PRINCESS.

The First American Girl Entitled to Wear a Royal Title on Purely American Soil.

Princess Kawananakoa, formerly Miss Abigail Campbell, of San Jose, Cal., will return from Hawaii shortly to visit her mother and sisters in San Jose.

The romance of Prince David of Hawaii and Miss Campbell culminat-

PRINCESS KAWANANAKOA.
(This Strange Name Is Borne by a Pretty California Girl.)

ed a few months ago in a pretty wedding at a San Francisco hotel. To the first American girl who will wear her title on American soil," was the toast drank to the prince and his bride. After the charming Hawaiian custom the bridal parties were garlanded with "leis" wreaths of sweet-scented flowers instead of the usual showers of rice. They live in great state in Honolulu.

King Revives Snuff Habit.

King Edward has set the custom of snuff-taking, which as a result promises to be revived generally. At the Marlborough house dinners a Georgian silver snuff box, once used by the prince regent, is handed to his majesty at the beginning of dessert while the ladies are still at the table. The king helps himself liberally, sharing his pinches with favored guests.

Pigs Harnessed to Wagons.

In some of the farming districts of China pigs are harnessed to small wagons and made to draw them.

Butterflies in America.

No less than 185 species of butterflies are found in Mexico and Central America.

ROUTINE BUSINESS AT COUNCIL MEETING

Plans Ordered for New Borough Engineshouse—To Secure an Option on Site.

A NUMBER OF PETITIONS.

TALK OF OPENING UP THE UPPER END OF WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Franchise Taxes Received From Corporations in the Borough—The Usual Monthly Reports Received—New Engineshouse.

The Borough Council convened in regular monthly session last Friday, and with the exception of Charles P. Nichols the full body was present. A large amount of routine business was disposed of. There was a petition from the Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., asking for funds to defray the expenses of Decoration Day, for which an appropriation was granted.

Another petition was read from residents along Harrison street asking that the culverts be cleaned and that policeman be assigned to duty on that thoroughfare. This petition was referred to the proper committee.

The Mayor explained that according to law members of the police force should be citizens of the borough. The silk mill desires a night watchman and John Glatson was appointed by him a special marshal for the post. Although Glatson was not a citizen of North Plainfield, Mayor Smalley suggested the appointment be ratified. The Council complied.

On call for reports the following from Tax Collector Brown, a statement of taxes collected during April, was submitted: Taxes, interest and sidewalks, $1,227.93; board of health, $35.75; special school, $504.74; recorder, fines, $81; Frank Rowley, clerk, license, $17.50; sale of dirt, $2.50; Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, franchise tax, $208.21; New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, tax, $40.68; bills payable, note, $500; balance on hand, April 1, $2,449.56; total receipts, $5,198.87; disbursements, $3,250.11; cash on hand, $1,948.86.

Chairman Lee, of the police committee, reported ten arrests; collected in fines, $16; spent for meals, $10.

Chairman Arnold, of the street committee, reported expenditures: Macadamizing, $307.90; street sprinkling, $60.40; total, $368.30.

Chairman Clark presented the fire, water and lamps committee's report as follows: John Schenck, $12.50; Geo. J. Stewart, $25; Frank Mohse, $16; A. M. Griffen, $22.46; Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, $292.34; Plainfield Gas and Electric Company, $43.48; total, $779.82.

Councilman Northrop moved that the finance committee be authorized to borrow $500 to cover current expenses, which was passed.

The Mayor asked the corporation counsel the proper mode of procedure to open the upper end of Watchung avenue. Mr. Reed said that the abutting property owners should petition the Council and that there should be an assessment for benefits and damages.

Chairman Clark, of the fire, water and lamps committee, asked that $50 be appropriated to secure plans for a new engine house, and also to secure an option on a desirable site. The sum was granted and Borough Counsel Reed was instructed to draw up a proper petition for citizens to sign. Mayor Smalley was empowered to secure an option on a desirable site. At this stage of the proceedings Councilman Lee introduced a resolution relative to annexation. The resolution was the signal for lively time before the meeting adjourned. A full report of this discussion will be found in another column.

Approaching Wedding.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Minnie Trimmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Trimmer, of West Front street, to Ralph O. Runyan, of Clinton avenue. The affair will be celebrated Saturday, May 21, at the home of the bride's parents.

Sewing School Exhibit.

The sewing school under the direction of Miss Lucile Lovell gave an exhibition at Warren chapel Saturday morning. There was an attractive display, most creditable to the members of the school.

Final Freeholders Meeting.

The final meeting of the present Board of Freeholders of Somerset County will be held at Somerville, Tuesday, May 13. The new board will meet the day following and organize.

Sermon on Adam and Eve.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will preach a sermon next Sunday morning from the theme "Adam and Eve Real Personages, But How Far Responsible for Present Tears and Deaths."

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1902. NO. 20

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

"COUNTY FAIR" ON THE FOURTH

Hope Chapel Y. M. A. Makes Great Preparations for Celebrating Independence Day.

THE PLANS OUTLINED.

Wide Variety of Attractions Mapped Out by Committee and Approved at a Special Meeting of the Young Men's Association —What's to be Done.

Independence Day, or the glorious Fourth of July, will not be allowed to pass in this city this year without a demonstration befitting the occasion. At a special meeting of the Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, held Tuesday, a committee composed of William N. Runyon, chairman; George E. Firstbrook, John H. Cose, Thomas Muir and D. Brittin Martin, appointed one week ago for the purpose, reported that it had decided upon a public celebration.

The committee's idea is to hold a typical "county fair" on a small scale but with all the leading features, in connection with the two baseball games to be played on Hope common. The report of the committee was accepted by the association and preparations were at once made to execute the preliminary plans. Five committees of three members each will be appointed by Chairman Runyon today to assist in the work, the original committee continuing to have general supervision.

Among the attractions to be offered on the day are fakirs, lemonade, refreshments and candy butchers, a side show with vaudeville attractions forming a half hour's entertainment, throwing rings for canes and knives and other devices for catching the elusive nickel, a balloon ascension, speech making by prominent orators and many others yet to be decided upon.

One of the principal features will be the two ball games, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon between the Hope Y. M. A. nine and the strong Decatur team of New York. The latter nine is one of the foremost in the semi-professional ranks in the Metropolitan district and has been secured for the occasion by Manager Cose after much negotiating. As the strength of the Hope team is not to be underestimated, the contests are bound to be exciting. The day's fun will close with a grand finale in the evening, but just what the committee is not prepared to state at present. It will include a reception in honor of the visiting Decaturs and their friends who accompany them.

Hope Common is admirably suited for just such a demonstration and those who attend can remain all day. The common is bounded on the west side by a pretty wood, in the cool depths of which tables will be erected for basket parties and where refreshments can be served. The common itself is much larger than the ordinary circus lot and richly carpeted with grass. In fact there is every advantage on the side of the Y. M. A. in its plans and it needs but a large attendance to make the affair a success. The fact that the young men gave, last March, what is considered to be the best amateur minstrel entertainment ever seen in the city, demonstrates that the public will not be disappointed in expecting an enjoyable day.

Chairman Runyon announced the various committees today as follows:

Refreshment committee, Fred Wharton, chairman, H. D. Thompson, Harvey Moynihan; entertainment committee, George Cose, chairman, B. Collins Firstbrook, Arthur Fritts; athletic committee, Albert Grieb, chairman, Frank Whitley, Walter Foster; take committee, Matthew D. Sweeney, chairman, Archibald Hacquer, Alfred B. Marsh.

Made Favorable Impression.

Rev. Mr. Grol, the student from the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, will occupy the pulpit at the German Reformed church until next September, and he has already made a favorable impression. Last Sunday evening he preached in English and the edifice was filled with worshippers.

Camp Changes Hands.

Camp Champlain, which was last year conducted by the State Y. M. C. A. committee of New Jersey, will this year be in charge of the Montclair Y. M. C. A. with the approval of the State committee.

MUST KEEP OFF SIDEWALK

POLICE DETERMINED THAT THE CITY ORDINANCE SHALL BE OBEYED.

Great Trouble on LaGrande Avenue, Between Woodland Avenue and Richmond Street.

The two boys arraigned in the city court, Monday morning for riding their wheels on the sidewalk, are the first, the police declare, of many others unless the practice is stopped.

Complaints against the nuisance have been pouring in for several weeks, especially for the section where Monday's culprits were taken, LaGrande avenue from Woodland avenue to Richmond street. There is nothing the matter with the street, yet wheelmen have become so accustomed to riding on the sidewalk that they regard it as perfectly proper to race down it without regard to pedestrians. The police propose to alter their opinion.

Every patrolman has been instructed to watch out for just such offenders and accept no excuses. The police have been proud of the support of the city judge and when an arrest is made, it will not merely mean an entry in the court blotter but a heavy fine will serve to remind the offenders that sidewalks were not made for bicycles.

OUTING FOR REPUBLICANS

UNION COUNTY COMMITTEE APPOINTED COMMITTTEE TO CONSIDER IT.

Gift Received From the Congressman—Want County Organizations to Meet in One Place.

The Union county Republican executive committee met Tuesday at Elizabeth and transacted considerable business. A committee consisting of Charles N. Codding, Westfield; J. S. Tucker and W. E. Seymour, Elizabeth, to draft resolutions condemning the beef trust, was appointed.

The advisability of holding an outing this year in Union county was considered favorably and the following committee was appointed: J. S. Tucker, James White, Elizabeth; Wm. Brown, S. Rosling Ryno, Rahway; Chas. N. Codding, Westfield; Andrew McCardell and F. H. Smith, of Plainfield. The committe will hold its first meeting in Plainfield next week to arrange for the outing.

Another committee, consisting of Chas. N. Codding, of Westfield; George Ball, of Scotch Plains, and Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield, was appointed to arrange for one meeting place for the McKinley Club, of Union county, the Elizabeth central committee and the Union county committee.

Congressman Fowler presented the committee with a handsome coat of arms of the United States, framed, and the thanks of the committee were given to the Congressman. F. H. Smith nominated J. W. Murray, Jr., of this city, for a re-appointment to membership on the county board of elections, and Gov. Murphy will undoubtedly re-appoint him to the position.

BITTEN BY DOG.

Son of G. F. Watts Was Visiting at Warrenville Where It Happened.

The five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Watts, of Chatham street, was badly bitten by a dog last Thursday. Mr. Watts and the boy were visiting in Warrenville. The child was playing in the yard where a large dog grabbed him in the face, inflicting an ugly wound. He was brought hurriedly to Plainfield and taken to Dr. Tomlinson's home, where the wound was cauterized.

Street Work in Borough.

In addition to the street improvements already progressing in the borough, a much-needed crosswalk has been placed at the corner of Watchung and Manning avenues, opposite St. Joseph's church. Also a broken stone at the corner of Dover street and Park place, leading from the crosswalk to the curb over the gutter, has been removed and another put down.

Gaub Will Offered for Probate.

The will of the late Jacob Gaub was offered Tuesday for probate in the surrogate's office of Somerset county at Somerville. John Gaub, a son of the deceased, is made executor by the will and Francis J. Blatz is the counsel, representing the estate.

Celebrated Birthday.

Catherine, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Endress, of West Front street, celebrated her birthday Sunday in a quiet, but pleasant way. She was nicely remembered with gifts.

MANY BROKEN HEARTS AT TRINITY CHURCH

Such a State of Affairs Failed to Mar the Pleasure of Last Evening's Endeavor Social.

"BROKEN HEART" SOCIAL

DIVIDED HEARTS CONTAINED QUOTATIONS THAT HAD TO BE MATCHED.

Other Pleasurable Means of Divertisement Were Arranged by Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed Church for Affair of Tuesday.

Although there were many "broken hearts" at Trinity Reformed church last Tuesday, this did not interfere with the good time that the Christian Endeavor Society and its many friends had at the social given under the auspices of the social and reception committee of the society. It was a "broken heart" social and there were many features which combined to give everyone present a pleasant evening.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a guessing contest. Pictures representing twelve well-known American rivers, which were taken from The Ladies' Home Journal, were placed about the room and they afforded all much amusement. Nearly all guessed the correct names, with the assistance of one another. Following this portion of the programme two pleasing soprano solos were given by Miss Ethel Derby, accompanied by Miss Ida May Talfamy.

After a slight intermission the "broken heart" feature of the evening was introduced. There were a number of paper hearts cut in two and on each was written quotations corresponding in questions and answers. These were distributed among the young folks, the object being to mend the hearts by finding one's partner holding the part which matched the other half. Then on the blackboard read "Broken hearts mended, but lost hearts not recovered."

Another feature of the evening were the piano duets rendered on the piano by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan and Louis M. Hummer. They were obliged to respond to several encores.

The last part of the entertainment was another game entitled "Who Am I?" This consisted of the pinning of slips of paper on the back, the wearer being obliged to guess that which was written on the paper. On these papers were the names of well-known men and women. After successfully guessing the name the paper could then be pinned on the front of the dress of lapel of the coat.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way and glaces and cake were served by the committees in charge. Albert Utzinger and Fred Dunavan assisted in serving glaces.

The social committee consisted of Miss Nettie Kristling, chairman; Miss Bessie Martin, Miss Nettie Young, Miss Jessie Rockridge, Miss Kate Bedle, Miss Emma Lindsay and Fred Dunavan. The reception committee was composed of Charles M. Dolliver, chairman; Clarence Rittenhouse, Charles Zimmer, H. B. Dennis, Edgar F. Sheppard and Wm. M. Latourette.

HAVE OWN PLUMBERS.

Action Taken by the Pond Tool Works As a Result of Strike Among Local Plumbers.

As a development of the present strike among the plumbers, one local manufacturing firm has taken steps to protect itself against inconvenience from any such contingency in the future. As a result of the same strike Plainfield plumbers will hereafter be devoid of the work formerly supplied them by the firm referred to.

Last Thursday a plumber from Newark was employed doing some steam fitting in the Pond Tool Works. A delegation of local plumbers waited on the Newark man, and informed him to discontinue on the ground "that he should not come from an outside city to ply his trade in a place where a strike is in progress. The stranger threw down his tools, went back to Newark, resigned his position with his employers there, returned immediately to Plainfield and accepted a permanent situation with the Pond people. The man has had experience on machine work of a general kind, and when there is no steam fitting to be done he can utilize his time in another direction.

Previous to this occurrence the steam fitting and like work for the Pond Tool Works was done by A. M. Griffen.

ROBERT RUSHTON IS MISSING

HAS NOT BEEN SEEN IN THIS CITY SINCE LAST SATURDAY.

Had a Large Roll of Bills When Last Seen—Various Theories As to His Absence.

Friends of Robert Rushton, of the firm of Rushton & Hansen, are greatly worried over his protracted absence from business. He has not been seen in the city since Saturday and it has been stated by several people that he has gone to Europe, although they are unable to give their authority for the allegation.

Rushton was about the store of the firm on Saturday afternoon and he was seen by several to have a large roll of bills, topped off by a $100 dollar note. The theory of foul play is scouted, however, as he is a man not easily led into any trap.

He has been rather sick of late and it is thought he may have gone out of the city temporarily. His two children are in charge of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Thatcher, of West Front street.

MANUAL TRAINING QUESTION

SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL WIGHTMAN'S REPORT IS SUMMARIZED.

The School Journal's Account of Manual Training in North Plainfield.

The current number of the School Journal, a publication devoted mainly to school work, has taken some interesting excerpts from Supervising Principal Homer J. Wightman's annual report, submitted in March last. Mr. Wightman's report dealt with the progress of the past five years, teaching and teachers, and besides other matters, a most interesting section on manual training. It is in this latter portion of the report that the School Journal is especially interested.

Following is the condensation of Mr. Wightman's report as it appears in the School Journal:

"The old education gave us the three R's and the new gives us the three H's—the education of the head, the hand, and the heart. Manual training cultivates the genius for doing, and doing well, in his belief. It gives tact, adaptability, self-control, and a habit of doing things to meet any demand. It helps towards earning an honest living. Labor is dignified, the body is set to work, eye and hand and brain together. Judgment is cultivated. It develops those who are 'handy' and who have the power to grasp any occupation. An education which is wholly mental leaves out a most important part.

"In our theories as to what a school should be we are shifting over from a basis of How much do you know? to How much can you do? From an education that emphasizes information and bookishness to an education that gives a masterful acquaintance with action, with things.

"Principal Wightman says, in reviewing the progress of the last five years, that during this time an entirely new course of study has been gradually worked out. By the elimination of obsolete matter and the lessening of waste through faulty methods and commonplace teaching, the grading of North Plainfield has been raised at least one year so that the eighth grade now covers the ground formerly reached only by the ninth grade.

"An attractive building for manual training has been erected on the Vine street front of the high school lot. This building contains a kitchen, equipped with twenty-four individual outfits; a wood shop, with eighteen benches, lockers, and complete tool sets for sloyd, joinery, and carving; a laboratory with twelve individual desks for experimental work in chemistry and physics, and a large kindergarten room accommodating seventy pupils.

"The cooking department receives especial commendation from Mr. Wightman, as it is doing excellent work. The girls constituting the class are intelligent and enthusiastic. The work being done is fully appreciated in North Plainfield."

New House Planned.

Estimates are being taken for the erection of a two story frame building, 35x60 feet, to be erected by F. DeL. Hyde on Norwood avenue. The house will be built in the simple colonial style of architecture, having a portico with a colonnade of four columns in front. Walker & Morris, of New York, are the architects.

—All kinds of vegetables including Jersey asparagus, green beans, wax beans and fresh peas, at Neuman Brothers, every day.

VETERANS MADE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Winfield Scott Post Completed Arrangements At Its Meeting Last Tuesday.

THE PARADE PLANNED.

DETAILS WERE APPOINTED TO VISIT THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Details to Decorate Graves Will Soon be Announced—Flag Purchased to Wave Over Soldiers' Plot at Hillside Cemetery.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last Tuesday and furthered plans for the observance of Memorial Day and the day previous when the various public schools will be visited by veterans

Those appointed to visit the schools include W. C. Smith, William Hand, H. C. Smith, W. W. Correll, L. F. Randolph, W. D. W. Miller, Mason W. Tyler, M. C. Dobbins, J. N. Bogart, Charles F. Stephens, S. D. Reeve, S. W. Milliken and I. L. McVoy. The exercises at the schools will be held at 9 o'clock in the morning of May 29.

The officer-of-the-day will in a few days appoint details to visit the cemeteries and decorate the soldier's graves. J. Worth Coddington was appointed marshal of the day for May 30 and Commander J. F. Berg will issue his annual orders within a few days. The Post accepted an invitation from Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., to attend divine services at Trinity Reformed church the Sunday evening before Memorial Day, when Dr. Schenck will preach an appropriate sermon.

The Sons of Veterans, Company K and the High School cadets are requested to join the short parade to be held on the morning of May 30. It was reported that an American flag, 12x20 had been purchased for the soldiers' plot at Hillside cemetery. This flag will be displayed on Memorial Day and whenever a soldier is buried. It was decided to have a short parade this year and hold the principal exercises at some nearby cemetery, probably the one in North Plainfield.

VOTE ON CONSOLIDATION.

Panghcanghnaughtaque Tribe Will be First to Act on It.

Panghcanghnaughtaque Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, has issued notices to the members for a meeting to be held next Wednesday evening, when the vote on consolidating with the other two tribes will be taken. Miantonomo and Wetumpkah Tribes will take similar action very soon. There now seems to be no doubt but what all three tribes will consolidate and thus make a stronger organization.

FLOWERS STOLEN.

Residents on Mountain and Summit Avenues Have Been Suffering.

Residents on Mountain and Summit avenues in the borough are justly incensed over the depredations of flower thieves committed during the past week. Beds and plants arranged with great care have been ruthlessly destroyed for the sake of a few blossoms while the damage is irreparable. Complaint has been made to the borough police and it is purposed to keep a watch on the infested section.

Son Made Surrogate.

Trenton, May 14—Governor Murphy yesterday announced the appointment of Deputy Surrogate Spencer, of Somerset county, to succeed his father, the late Henry N. Spencer, as surrogate.

Little Brick Addition.

Building Inspector T. O. Donne has granted a permit to the Hibbard-Rockman-Ely Safe Company for the erection of a small brick addition, one story, on the centre of the lot at the corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street.

To Arrange for Anniversary.

A committee consisting of D. W. Litell, J. O'Keefe and Frederick J. Pope has been appointed by Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, to arrange for the twenty-fifth anniversary of the order on Monday evening, June 23.

Passed His Examinations.

Rev. F. E. Whiteside, of this city, has completed his first year as a student at Drew Theological Seminary, passing all his examinations with ease. He will spend his vacation in Plainfield and return in the fall.

REUNION AND MASS-MEETING

TO BE HELD BY THE COLORED PEOPLE OF THIS CITY IN REFORM HALL.

All Colored Churches and Organizations Will Unite—Will Have Representative Men to Speak.

The colored people of the city are making preparations for a reunion and mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall, next Tuesday. All the colored churches and organizations are to assist and will have large delegations present.

Representative men of the race will speak and there will be interesting addresses. Professor G. W. Hays, of Lynchburg, Va., will speak on "The Kind of Education for the Negro." G. L. P. Tallaferro, of Philadelphia, well known to Plainfielders, has promised to be present and deliver his famous address, "The Negro in Business." Mr. Tallaferro is himself a successful banker and business man. A chorus of forty voices will furnish music and Professor G. A. Morris, baritone, and "Black Hattie" soprano will contest for a gold medal.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, who is to have entire charge of the affair, states that a portion of the receipts will be donated to Mahlenberg hospital in return for the generous treatment accorded colored patients.

EXPRESS RATES ARE RAISED

CHANGES MADE TO SECURE UNIFORMITY FOR SUBURBAN BUSINESS.

Plainfield Gets an Increase—Comparison of the Old Rates and the New.

The officials of the United States Express Company have decided to readjust the rates on the suburban lines, thereby increasing them to some extent. In this adjustment Plainfield is affected and from May 1 and thereafter the new rates will be in effect. The old rate was packages from 1 to 20 pounds, 35 cents; 20 to 30 pounds, 40 cents; 30 to 40 pounds, 50 cents; 40 to 70 pounds, 75 cents; 70 to 100 pounds, 40 cents. The new rate is as follows: 1 to 5 pounds, 25 cents; 5 to 20 pounds, 30 cents; 20 to 30 pounds, 35 cents; 30 to 40 pounds, 40 cents; 40 to 45 pounds, 45 cents; 35 to 100 pounds, 50 cents.

A representative of this paper saw Manager Mills of the company this morning and was informed that the company had decided to readjust its rates to compare with Morristown, Rahway and New Brunswick, where the rate to New York is 50 cents a hundred. The new rate does not apply to produce, that rate still being the same.

FUNERAL OF W. W. WOODEN.

Held From the East Front Street Home Tuesday Afternoon.

Many relatives and friends and his comrades in the Exempt Firemen's Association attended the funeral services of William W. Wooden, which were held from his late residence on East Front street, Tuesday.

They were in charge of Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke impressively on his sterling worth and offered words of condolence to the bereaved relatives. During the service, two solos were rendered, "The Hymn of the Homeland" and "Abide With Me."

At the close of the obsequies the remains were taken to the North Plainfield cemetery for interment. Those who acted as pall bearers were D. W. Littell, Guillermo Thorn, William A. Woodruff, Edward Vermeule, Theodore French and E. M. Laing, all members of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Firemen Were Busy.

The local fire department was kept busy all last week answering alarms. In all nine were received at headquarters in the seven days, five box and four stills. One box alarm has already been received this week, and the firemen are wondering how long the busy spell is going to last.

Epworth League Social.

Arrangements have been made by the Epworth League of the First Methodist church for a social in Vincent chapel, Friday evening. It will be replete with the usual entertaining features.

Law Examinations.

Law examinations will be held at Trenton early in June and it is expected that several students from this city will try their luck.

Engagement Is Announced.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Mayme E. Donahoe, formerly of this city, and Joseph S. Hamilton, of New York.

FLAT THIEF HAD HEARING

Evidence Against Him Was Strong and He Was Held in $500 Bail for Grand Jury.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

John B. McGlinchey Was Positively Identified as Man Who Robbed Symons' Flat—Still Declared His Innocence—Conducted His Own Case—Said to be Clever Crook.

In the face of three witnesses whose testimony was unfaltering and straightforward John B. McGlinchey, the captured flat thief, stoutly maintained he was innocent of the charges preferred against him when he was given a hearing before Justice Nash, yesterday. He conducted his defense, assisted only as attempted to disconcert those who appeared against him by asking questions with the tact of a lawyer. His game of "bluff" failed to impress the court and he was held in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mrs. and Mrs. William Symons, of North avenue, from whose flat, McGlinchey is alleged to have taken several watches, rings, coins and a revolver on May 9, were the principal witnesses for the prosecution. Mr. Symons identified the articles as being those taken from his home and his wife related her unexpected meeting with McGlinchey in her front room and the manner in which he gained the stairway and access to the street. She positively indentified McGlinchey as the man.

Patrolman George Langer testified to his arresting McGlinchey from Mrs. Symons' description and also to finding the Symons jewelry and other trinkets on McGlinchey's person when that officer searched him at police headquarters.

McGlinchey cross-examined each of the witnesses in a manner which showed he had definitely mapped out his course and also that he has had some experience in the methods employed by criminal lawyers. In his own defense he coolly stated that he did not take the jewelry but he failed to explain how they came to be on his person. A mental affliction troubles him, he said, and his mission in this city was to secure signatures to a petition, for what he did not say. He did not deny being in the Symons flat.

In closing he bemoaned the fact that he was unfortunate in not having any of his friends in this city who could attest to his excellent character as he was positive they could clear him. They ball was fixed at his own request although he declared he couldn't furnish it.

Chief Kiely states that McGlinchey is an old "second-story man" and is acquainted with every branch of the craft. He landed in this city at 12 o'clock noon, the ciet says, and before 4 o'clock had arrested at 3 o'clock had visited ten flats at nearly all of which he got away with small articles. It is thought some of them were shipped away in a basket which he expressed to New York shortly before he entered the Symons flat. The chief has asked the express company to hold the basket for his inspection.

THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

J. Frank Hubbard Re-elected Director of Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

The Union county Board of Freeholders for last year held its final meeting at Elizabeth yesterday and this morning the new board met for organization at the same place. J. Frank Hubbar was re-elected director of the board for the thirty-fourth consecutive year, and C. Rosling Ryno was re-elected clerk. W. R. Cottington, of this city, was re-appointed attorney. All of the county papers were re-appointed, including The Daily Press. A strong effort was made to have The Elizabeth Times made a county paper, but the request was denied.

After the board re-organized, a dinner was given to the members by Clerk Ryno, when there was an exchange of good fellowship and several speeches were made.

Veranda and Vestibule.

Building Inspector T. O. Donne has granted a permit for the extension of the veranda and the erection of a vestibule to the house of Howard J. Runyon, of Rahway road. A. L. C. March is the architect.

That of Which the Foreign Lands Are Talking

Political, Industrial and Commercial Topics of Timely Interest from Other Countries.

Mineral Production of Canada Last Year.

THE mineral production of Canada during the year 1901, according to the statement of the geological survey, was valued at $69,467,631, of which $42,934,000 was metallic and $26,382,000 nonmetallic. The growth is equivalent to about eight per cent. over that of 1900—a rather moderate increase compared with what recent years have shown. There were various causes for this; a drop in the gold product of the Yukon and protracted labor troubles in British Columbia being among the number. The following from the records of the survey show how the industry has developed:

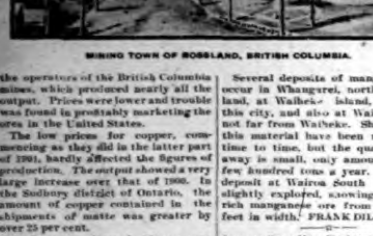
1896	$29,297,755
1897	34,762,262
1898	44,407,677
1899	55,466,667
1900	69,467,631

Gold, as a result of Yukon discoveries, occupies the first place, with $24,402,222, or more than a third of the whole; coal, with a value of $14,721,122, comes next. The metallic minerals, aside from gold, show a comparatively small figure in the table, all coming behind building materials in the total of their production; pig iron contributing only $1,212,313 from the product of home ore. Some of the branches of the industry have been established on a large scale only during the past few years. The values of the various metallic products were:

Description.	Value.
Copper	$2,562,764
Gold
Yukon	19,000,000
All other	5,402,222
Iron ore (exports)	767,784
Pig iron from Canadian ore	1,212,313
Lead	2,788,754
Nickel	4,781,125
Silver	2,982,400
Total	$42,934,426

In silver, while the increase in quantity is fair, there is less to record for the value on account of the lower prices.

In lead, the decrease is to be attributed to the difficulties encountered by the operators of the British Columbia mines, which produced nearly all the output. Prices were lower and trouble was found in profitably marketing the ores in the United States.



MINING TOWN OF ROSSLAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The low prices for copper, commencing as they did in the latter part of 1901, hardly affected the figures of production. The output showed a very large increase over that of 1900. In the Sudbury district of Ontario, the amount of copper contained in the shipments of matte was greater by over 25 per cent.

An increase of nearly 30 per cent. in production of nickel is recorded. The price, which from 1895 to 1898 ranged from 33 to 36 cents per pound, was quoted in the New York market throughout the year 1901 at from 50 to 60 cents per pound.

Owing to the exploitation of the large deposit of iron ore of the Helen mine at Michipicoten, in Ontario, a considerable growth is evident in the country's production of this mineral. Some of the product goes to furnaces in Ontario, but the larger part is exported. Only the exports are credited in the table under this heading, the rest appearing under the item "pig iron." Adding to the exports the 156,613 tons of Canadian ore, etc., charged to Canadian furnaces, there is shown a total production of 462,812 tons.

In the production of pig iron in Canadian furnaces an increase of over 184 per cent. in quantity is recorded, while the estimated production from Canadian ore alone increased nearly 135 per cent. These gains are due in a large measure to the completion of the furnaces of the Dominion Iron and Steel company at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

The value of the steel product is not included in the general table. There were made during the year 41,948 tons (of 2,000 pounds each) of steel ingots, etc., all of which was worked up into bars, etc.

A natural soap mine and a paint mine are two of the latest mineral discoveries in the northwest. Several soda lakes have been found in the foothills near Ashcroft, B. C. Their bottoms and shores are incrusted with a natural washing compound, containing borax and soda. No two analyses agree exactly as to the composition of the footprint; a New York analysis gives 30 per cent. borax, while a Montreal chemist, from the same sample, gives 38 per cent. borax. Tests prove the substance to be equal to the washing powders in combined use. Trials by blacksmiths and farm workmen show that it will remove grease and dirt quicker than soap. A syndicate of British Columbia men has been formed to put the product on the market. About 275 tons of the compound have been cut and taken out of the lake. It is handled precisely as ice is handled. The blocks are more than nine inches in thickness, are sawn into pieces of 15 by 18 inches, and weigh 50 pounds each. It is estimated that this lake alone contains 20,000 tons, proving that the industry, if successful, will reach large proportions.

JOHN L. BITTINGER.

Iron Ore in New Zealand.

NO IRON ore is worked in New Zealand, all attempts at forming companies having proved a failure, principally because freights on iron are so low from England to New Zealand that the English production would compete severely with colonial iron manufactures. Besides, pig iron is admitted duty free, as well as black iron sheets, which are galvanized and corrugated here, while the finished article is charged $6.72 per ton by way of protecting local manufacturers. Hematite iron ore occurs in several places in this colony. At Para Para, in the provincial district of Nelson, government reports state that 250,000 tons of this ore occurs on a hillside, with crystal limestone within a mile of it, and coal in close proximity, and Para Para is situated in Golden bay, in which all the navies of the world might ride at anchor.

Black titaniferous sand is also found in abundance on the west coast, principally near New Plymouth, of the Taranaki province. Attempts were made some years ago to work this, but they ended in failure. It is said that a company is being floated in London to work these black sands, but nothing definite is known.

Several deposits of manganese ore occur in Whangarei, north of Auckland, at Waiheke island, close to this city, and also at Wairoa South, not far from Waiheke. Shipments of this material have been made from time to time, but the quantity sent away is small, only amounting to a few hundred tons a year. One huge deposit at Wairoa South has been slightly explored, showing a lode of rich manganese ore from 16 to 17 feet in width.

FRANK DILLINGHAM.

Larger Canadian Customs Free List.

The Canadian government has recently transferred a number of articles heretofore dutiable to the free imports list, with a view to increasing their manufacture in this country. These articles, which will be admitted free only when imported by manufacturers for use in their own factories, are as follows:

Hemp-bleaching compound, for the manufacture of rope.

Silver tubing, for the manufacture of silverware.

Steel, for the manufacture of cutlery.

Yarn of jute, flax or hemp, for the manufacture of towels.

Steel forgings in the rough, for the manufacture of scissors and hand shears.

All articles entering into the construction and forming part of cream separators.

The reason for placing these articles on the free list is that their use will enable Canadian manufacturers to produce a better quality of goods.

An order in council has also been passed providing for the payment of a drawback of the duty on imported materials used in the manufacture of machinery and structural iron and steel for use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root.

By an amendment to the tariff last session, provision was made for the free entry of such machinery and structural iron and steel, and the object of this order is to place the Canadian manufacturer of these articles in an equal position as his foreign competitors. The time for the free admission of such machinery and steel expired on April 1, 1902. It is provided that the drawback regulation referred to shall apply only in respect of machinery and structural iron and steel manufactured and sold for use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root, during the time when the imported machinery and structural iron and steel are exempt from customs duty.

The dominion and provincial parliaments are ready at all times to give encouragement to the upbuilding of manufacturing industries in this country.

THE "HEAVENLY" HAT.

And Other New Creations In Millinery For Spring Wear.

Flowers are blooming this spring in good earnest on all the hats, and some even have the bud, blossom and ripe fruit on the same heavenly creation. One hat shown me yesterday and called "heavenly" had the body of very coarse white straw, with a band of black velvet ribbon around the crown, and this ended in the back with no end of loops of the same ribbon. Under the brim at the left side was a bunch of pink roses without foliage, and on the top was a branch of currant bush with tiny white blossoms and small green fruit and then a lot more in all stages of ripeness. I mention this particularly because it is a type of the curious admixture of fruit and bloom to be found on so many hats.

Hats made of coarse straw are often so covered with foliage that very little is left to the imagination as regards the foundation, for it is all hidden. One hat with a wide brim had the whole under part faced with green leaves, shaded to russet brown in some cases, and the crown was trimmed with a feather made of black tulle. And it was held in place by a big round pearl cabochon. These are very fashionable just now, and they are applied to almost all millinery, black, white or of mixed colors. The size of these flat, round affairs is generally about that of a trade dollar, and they are raised in the center.

NEW HATS FOR SPRING.

Quite pretty hats are made by plaiting in double box folds horsehair and straw braid, generally all black, but sometimes in a mixture of subdued colors. In fact, all hats really should have the foundation black, white or else very dark in color and depend on the trimming for the coloring. This style in one instance had an immense satin rose on the top of the crown and black velvet ribbon half an inch wide tied in many loops around the stems of the roses and buds and left hanging down in the back. This fashion of having things hanging down in the back is almost general. One hat had a wreath of pink, very pink, roses around the edge of the brim, leaving a small cardinal velvet to be twisted in with white point d'esprit lace. The lace extended all around the crown and spread down, nearly covering the flowers. It was also made into a tab at the back, and down the center of this the red velvet was extended. It reached nearly to the neck. Many others have lace arranged in a sort of jabot to hang down over the hair in the back.

A pretty bonnet, for such as prefer bonnets for church and other seamless occasions, is of black and white horsehair braid, made with a bell crown. The front is trimmed with black tulle and fine black spangles made into close bows. Directly in front is a large round pearl cabochon, and two others are placed at the back to hold the strings. The strings are of the tulle, and quite an innovation is seen in the strings, which are gathered at the sides to leave the hair free. Generally the strings covered the hair at the sides, and that does not always suit my lady.

Plaid in millinery is not often seen, but this season has given us some hats of plaided straw and some where the hat itself is of plaid material trimmed with plain goods, such as chiffon, mull or mallines, which is but another name for tulle. One shown in the illustration has the hat of plaid braid and the trimming of black tulle. It is a most becoming hat for a young woman.

Another hat much liked by the young is the pretty white straw, with the trimming save a band of white ribbon around the crown. Hats intended for warm weather and particularly for golfing have sweatbands in the inside, rather a new wear. Some of these have the straws slightly colored, which gives them a delicately iridescent effect. The only ornamentation permissible is the fancy hatpin.

In short, the spring and summer hats are complex affairs in design, trimming and shape. Some are short sailor as to the back and on the front anything that happens to come forth from the hands of the maker. Tricorne is a favorite, and when properly trimmed it can even be worn by quite elderly ladies without calling forth the reserves of the police force.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

PLUCKY BARNARD GIRLS.

How They Got in the Swim Despite the Efforts of "Dear Man."

The lesson on the woman question recently administered to the young men students of Columbia university is strenuous enough to last them the rest of their lives if they are possessed of average masculine sense. That it may so last them, that they may teach it in turn to their sons and grandsons, is the best one can wish for them. The lesson is this: The world was made for woman also, and she herself, not callow college boys, is to decide where her place in it shall be.

From the very beginning the young men of that institution of learning which is the pride of New York city have persecuted with persistent sex arrogance the girls of Barnard college, the hall designed for young women students. The men's college paper has even gone so far in its sex insolence as to assert that Columbia is not a coed school at all. The university authorities, being men who belong to the twentieth century, are on the side of the women. When recently these authorities granted to the Barnard girls for each Wednesday evening the use of the swimming pool of the university gymnasium, men students who enjoyed it all the rest of the time sent earthward and skyward a howl of foaming rage. They vowed by the Eternal, as it were, that they would rout the women out of that sacred he-tank or "bust." What was more, not even a female mosquito should buzz around the pie and doughnuts vended behind the college lunch counter. "We men always have been victorious in the battle of the sexes, and we'll be again," they said.

The Barnard girls were troubled, but not dismayed. They were receiving the mild final droppings of that shower which fifty years ago deluged Susan B. Anthony with dead cats and brickbats and feminine medical students with hisses and written missives of devilish insult. They continued on their way, saying not much, but working and thinking and willing tremendously. Then the mills of the gods that at length crush into powder brutality, persecution and all wrong done by one party to another began to grind. They ground out "scurvy" in this case, but quickly, the gods apparently deeming that here was an emergency requiring dispatch.

The story of the men's persecution of the women students was well ventilated in newspapers, and the sympathies of reporter and editor were in every case on the side of the girls, which was a great help to them. After a few weeks the returns began to come in. Columbia boys looked down their noses, and an expression of grimness overspread their faces when one morning lately it was announced that an endowment of an even $500,000 had been secured for the enemy on whose heck they had sought to set their collective foot—the girls of Barnard.

Thus had begun, but worse remained behind. Less than a week after Barnard got its half million endowment once more the newspapers took up the tale and told how a generous anonymous benefactor of the feminine sex had given a quarter million more to Columbia, magnificent donation of their own for the Barnard girls, with a swimming pool especially that was to rival the baths of Diocletian in size and luxuriousness of equipment, a pool to which the boys' tank would be even as a washtub.

BARNARD GIRLS IN THE SACRED HE-TANK, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY.

The Barnard gymnasium will be the handsomest and most thoroughly appointed of any such establishment in the world, and connected therewith will be a splendid restaurant, and into "meister" noe restaurant will ever a Columbia boy be allowed to set foot. So it is said.

But the crowning overthrow and rolling in the dust of the boys, the worstest worse, so to speak, is this: Adjacent to the college grounds is a plot which the Columbia Athletic club has been years trying to buy for an exercise field, and this now has actually been purchased under their noses for the young women of Barnard, where they may march, play ball and sport as their own sweet will. Between the college campus whence the men tried so persistently to drive the women students altogether and the new athletic field there is to be a very high grillwork fence, through which the girls may bite their thumbs at the boys and say:

"You may go to grass with your old Wednesday tanking."

Yes, decidedly the Barnard college girls are in the swim.

KATE SHARP.

GIRLS Who Blow GLASS

PRETTY GLASS BLOWER AT WORK.

THE wonder is that women did not take it up long ago, this fascinating, airy, fairy occupation of glass blowing. Many a time at expositions all the world has seen neat and graceful women puffing from rosy lips marvels of pretty trifles. All the world has admired their nimbleness and artistic skill. Yet, womanlike, the sex never seems to have taken up the business as a regular wage earning employment day by day till men suggested the idea and built a factory and set them down in it.

The glass blowing factory at Glendolden, near Philadelphia, is probably the only one in which the operatives are women, and even here a man is over them to teach and superintend them. Concerning his girl workmen this superintendent said to a reporter of The North American:

"I've been in this business from boyhood up, and I know what I am talking about when I say that no men can turn out such good work as these girls do. Glass blowers would be astonished if they looked in on this factory. The girls are infinitely more careful and painstaking than men have ever thought of being, and they are achieving results never before known to the trade."

Since the ice—the glass, rather—is thus broken at Glendolden probably there will quickly be other factories of glass working women.

There are two reasons why the Glendolden girls are so successful. One is that women's fingers are more delicate and nimble than men's, and the feminine eye is usually quicker than the masculine. Another reason is one special to the present case. The young women in this factory are persons of unusual intelligence—would be so anywhere. They belong to respectable families in the neighborhood, and some of them are high school graduates. They are paid by the piece, the swiftest operatives receiving as much as $12 a week, the slowest no more than $4, but even the lowest figure constitutes a fair income in a country village.

The girls are employed by a firm of manufacturing chemists who make their own vials and tubing. The work is of the finest and most delicate kind known to the trade, and perhaps that is why the women do so well at it. The occupation is a healthful one. A good pair of lungs is essential because of the blowing. It is certain that tight lacing does not "go" in that factory. The young women find the constant blowing expands their chests after a time.

Light cotton wash dresses are the prettiest of all, and the girl glass blowers wear a uniform of blue and white seersucker gowns and white aprons, immaculately clean. They are a pleasing sight as they sit at their tasks, each upon a stool, with the white hot gas flame burner in front of her. Here are two who are making the smallest tubing known to chemists and druggists—capillary tubing, it is called. For girl at the burner holds a section of larger tubing in the white hot flame till the glass is soft; then, as if the two were pulling molasses candy, while the girl at the burner holds one end of the soft tube another girl takes the other end and walks back with it, drawing it as she goes till she is at exactly the right distance to make it into a capillary tube.

There another girl sits and blows tiny glass bulbs. Upon another stool is a young woman making medicine vials; still another draws out tubing, cuts it off and closes it up at one end. It is neat, blow, manipulate, blow, manipulate, heat from morning till night, but the task is not so hard as housework or nearly so trying as schoolteaching. The factory is built upon a healthful and picturesque site in the country, and the workers in this new trade for women are well treated and happy.

When we measure out our medicine drop by drop from a glass tube whose contents have been drawn from a tiny vial, we shall know that both dropper and vial were made, or ought to have been, by the hands of a pretty girl in a blue and white seersucker gown.

MARY EDITH DAY.

TRIFLES OF DRESS.

Parasols, Silk Openwork Sleeves and Chiffon Bows.

Parasols this year are charming. With few exceptions they are on a simple order, with abnormally long sticks. Crooked handles appear to be the favorites, no doubt, because they are easier to carry. Later on there will be worn beautiful creations in lace and chiffon, but at this time of the year the glace parasol matching the costume is the smart thing.

Silk gloves this year will be worn more than ever. They come in three lengths—short, reaching to within an inch of the elbow and reaching just above the elbow—to meet the requirements of the different lengths of sleeve.

OF CREPE DE CHINE.

The latest ones show a broad band of openwork reaching for a little way above the hand.

Bons of accordion plaited chiffon or net thickly sewed with silk flower petals are very chic and add much to the appearance of a dress which is worn without a coat.

A smart evening gown of crepe de chine is shown in the illustration. The waist has satin shoulder straps and a bolero of guipure lace over turquoise blue silk. Below this the waist blouses into a belt of crushed white satin. The sleeves fall off the shoulders, allowing the bare arm to be seen for a little distance. They are of lace and chiffon. The skirt has panels of the lace and a fluffy effect around the bottom given by the many chiffon ruffles. Wherever the lace is used it is over the turquoise silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BELTS AND COLLARS.

The Wide Belt, the Du Barry Girdle, Chiffon Berthas.

Belts are being worn a trifle wider. They are made of soft satin or louisine ribbon folded over a boned foundation and run through jeweled slides. A pretty model shows two oval steel buckles, the longer in the back and the shorter in the front.

The Du Barry girdle, made of plaited ribbon, with long, knotted ends, can either be worn knotted at the left of the front or, sash fashion, in the back.

Berthas of black chiffon shirred and cut in toothed points are very smart when the toothed edges are ornamented with a narrow lace appliqué. Vandyke berthas of yellow lace embroidered in silk of the color of the gown are also dainty novelties.

PICTURE HAT.

The black or white tulle bow is as much in evidence as ever. It is worn clasped under the chin with a fancy pin.

Corset covers of colored lawn can be bought at all the department stores. They are meant to be worn under the transparent blouses made of lace or china silk banded with insertions.

The smart picture hat in the sketch is of white chiffon sewed with tiny black chantilly edging and trimmed with a narrow velvet band and two ostrich plumes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

... The ...

NEW WOMAN'S SPHERE

I HAVE scanned carefully the provisions of the great and generous will of Cecil Rhodes so far as these relate to the United States. Giving $10,000,000, a third of a man's whole fortune, toward university scholarships for youths of another country is something the like of which it is safe to say has not been conceived since the world began. Mr. Rhodes has mentioned that two persons from every state and territory in the Union shall be admitted annually by competitive examination as students at Oxford, "to whose glories," writes the effusive Mr. W. T. Stead, "the American descendants of the founders will share equally with those who still inhabit the old country." The will especially mentions that there shall be no race or religious discrimination in the awarding of these scholarships. Thus a new fish eating Eskimo of Alaska or a New Mexican greaser can share the benefits of this generous will if he can pass examination—all, everybody but a woman, no matter though she have "Lord Chatham's heart and Shakespeare's brain." These scholarships are every one in Oxford university, where Cecil Rhodes himself was graduated, and the "glories of Oxford" lack yet their brightest shining, for that university does not admit women students. He, while he believed himself to be doing a generous thing, while all the world blazons his broad mindedness and world patriotism, Cecil Rhodes has actually discriminated against half the human race. Which is to me of infinite sadness I read the provisions of the will. Of course Rhodes never thought of this feature of the case when he drew the testament, never thought of women, though he owed so much to one woman especially. When Stead, colonial editor of the London Times, was the individual who understood Rhodes' enterprises and created British public sentiment in favor of them.

* *

A woman may learn how to be happy though married, also how to be happy though single, simply by training herself to do the best she can with matters that are in her power and not fretting concerning matters that are out of her power. If married and her husband does mean by his acts what then let her leave him and go it alone cheerfully. If hopelessly single, let her remember that of the married women whom she knows at least a third wish they were single or were married to lasting duty men, and let them go it alone cheerfully. There is a lot of fun to be got out of life wherever you are if you determine that you will have it.

* *

Mrs. Margaret Daly is owner and manager of the First National bank of Butte, Mon. One of her first tasks on assuming ownership was to pay $70,000 which the former cashier had embezzled. It is high time women were becoming bank officials. There has never yet been a woman bank embezzler.

* *

Foot binding is to be done away with in China, but the equally barbarous custom of waist binding still prevails without any sign of letting up in civilized countries.

* *

The members of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution of New York City are at outs—worst of all, too, over a question of fashion. They have a building site for a house for the organization, but it is in a thoroughly unfashionable locality, and some of the high toned Sons vow they won't have the headquarters there. Is it only women's clubs that quarrel, is it?

* *

One can hope for and confidently expect any reform to be realized since the barbarous Chinese custom of foot binding is to be abolished. China was the last possible country in which the new woman would be looked for, yet here she bobs up serenely in the form of the dowager empress herself, who declares that foot binding is "an injury to the good order of creation." In an imperial edict officials throughout the empire are directed to use all their persuasion possible to abolish foot mutilation.

* *

Miss Wilkinson, landscape gardener of the London Public Gardens association, has done noble work in establishing tiny parks in the crowded parts of that city. Gardening will be in all its branches, vegetable, floral and landscape, is an occupation in which women are remarkably successful.

* *

Don't rave about the world's evils. Instruct the world to do and be better and begin on yourself.

* *

Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake is a woman who does things. Through a suit brought by a woman to recover damages for injuries Mrs. Blake found that under New York law a woman was the servant of her husband and not even entitled to her own earnings. Whereupon Mrs. Blake had a bill drafted and laid before the New York legislature giving a married woman who works for wages entire control over such wages. The act was passed and is now law. Let us hope those who receive the benefit of it will be grateful to Mrs. Blake.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

Useless Employes Devour Big Percentage of Our Revenue.

A State of Affairs for Which No Political Party Is Responsible, But Which Should Be Abolished at Once.

[Special Washington Letter.]

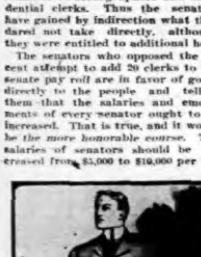
REVERTING to the thesis that imperialism exists in our republic, and has come to stay, there must be uttered the corollary that with developing imperialism there has developed extravagance in government expenditures which is naturally imperial in its nature and boundlessness.

One of the elements of extravagance long well known to experienced newspaper men has been the top-heavy rolls of the pay-rolls of the senate and house of representatives. The business of the congress might easily be transacted with one-half of the number of employes now on the pay roll. Competent men and women might also be obtained for smaller salaries; and each individual have a competence, with enough to "lay aside for a rainy day."

Only recently there came before the senate a resolution providing for the appointment of 20 additional clerks to the senate clerical force; and it would have been adopted but for the vigorous and determined opposition of Senator Allison, of Iowa, the chairman of the committee on appropriations. You must understand that each branch of the congress has a contingent fund, and out of that fund each house pays its employes regardless of what the other house may do. Neither the senate nor the house of representatives encroach upon the contingent fund of the other. Consequently, if the proposed resolution had been adopted, the contingent fund of the senate would have been increased and the additional clerks have been employed, while the general public would have known nothing of it whatever. Immediately thereafter, the house of representatives, looking after its own rights to the spoils of office, would have increased its contingent fund, and employed 20 additional clerks, although their work is not needed.

Now as to the effort to have 20 additional clerks appointed for the senate, there is one reason worthy of your attention. The senate pay roll has been increased from time to time, because the senators have so much required of them that they cannot attend to all of their duties without additional help. Instead of appealing direct to the people for additional help, the senators have anticipated that the people would object to direct additional expenditures; and so they have voted additional clerks, messengers and laborers for the senate. But those employes have not worked for the senate at all. They have worked for individual senators as stenographers and confidential clerks. Thus the senators have gained by indirection what they dared not take directly, although they were entitled to additional help.

The senators who opposed the recent attempt to add 20 clerks to the senate pay roll are in favor of going directly to the people and telling them that the salaries and emoluments of every senator ought to be increased. That is fine, and it would be the more honorable course. The salaries of senators should be increased from $5,000 to $10,000 per annum.



THE HUSKY CORRESPONDENT.
(Drew $900 a Month for Folding Imaginary Documents.)

Then they should also have $4,000 each additional for clerical assistance. That would not add one iota to the income of senators, but would increase their efficiency for the people.

Representatives receive $5,000 each per annum, and senators receive the same. Representatives are obliged to correspond with the people of their districts, while senators are obliged to maintain correspondence with the people of entire states. The difference is very great. For example, take the state of Illinois, with its 20 representatives and two senators. The 20 representatives draw $5,000 each per annum, which is an aggregate of $100,000. The two senators draw $5,000 each, which is an aggregate of $10,000 per annum. And yet, each senator has to correspond with the people of all of those districts, covering the entire state. If each senator received a salary of $10,000, he would be obliged to spend more than half of it for assistance in the performance of his duties to the state. There would be no profit in it.

Not many years ago the senate pay roll contained the name of a prominent newspaper correspondent, who was ostensibly employed in "the folding room," where he was reported as folding all the way from 60,000 to 100,000 documents per month, at one dollar per 1,000. That meant that he was drawing from $600 to $1000 per month from the contingent fund of the senate. It was known, however, that he never folded a single document, but simply drew the money on the cheques of the sergeant-at-arms of the senate.

At the same time there was a veteran newspaper man who has long

BLIND AND DECAYED.
(Was Down as a Blacksmith and Drew $75 per Month.)

been afflicted with granulated eyelids, whose sight has been so affected that he could scarcely see to read the daily papers. He was on the pay roll as a blacksmith at $75 per month, and he drew the money, although, of course, he never did any work for it. Col. Sterrett, of Texas, was here at the time and he said: "I can understand how an energetic fellow like this husky correspondent could fold 100 000 documents by working day and night all during the hot months of July and August, but I cannot understand how this blind old rascal shod any horses for the money." That is a sarcastic characterization of the looting which was flagrant and well known in the press galleries.

Now while senators need additional salaries and clerk hire there is extravagance beyond measure on the pay roll of the house of representatives. Every member of the majority party must have one appointment, no matter whether the house needs the services of a man or not. Then the older members of the house engage the work in an extra policeman or two, in order to provide places for their working constituents and political backers. There are messengers, watchmen and assistant doorkeepers galore, whose services might well be dispensed with; but they are on the pay roll because of their political pulls, and there they will remain until something like a political earthquake strikes the republic. Up to date, it doesn't seem to make any difference which party is in the majority, the loot goes on.

Twenty years ago, when we were 50,000,000 people, it cost an aggregate of $300,000,000 for the yearly expenses of the government. Now, with 70,000, 000 population, the expenses of government are ranging up towards the $800,000,000 point. It may be true, as the old song says, that "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm," but he is not rich enough to stand continual increase of expenditures out of proportion to the national growth.

Nobody needs to be niggardly in order to be economical. The government need not be niggardly to avoid extravagance. But it is not necessary to pay an army of men in the civil service salaries of from $2,000 to $5,000 per annum for services of less value and importance than are performed by men in ordinary business pursuits for approximately half of that amount.

One of the auditors of the treasury recently said to the writer: "There is a clerk here drawing $1,600 per annum who could not get more than $600 per annum in my factory at home, but he is dogging the life out of me for a promotion, and has been sending his senators after me. I won't stand it much longer, but will have him dismissed entirely for the good of the service. The work done by him is similar to work done in my factory and the employes all go to work at seven o'clock in the morning. They work until six in the evening, with an hour for dinner. They cheerfully put in ten hours of work every day. Here the clerks report for duty at nine in the morning, have half an hour for lunch at noon, and quit work very promptly at four in the afternoon. That is six and a half hours of work, but they usually loaf at least half an hour, so that they actually work only about six hours a day, and the one of them ever soils his fingers. Yet all want promotion, and a few are always fighting for it."

That is a fair characterization of the average disposition of the well-salaried government clerk. It also shows that the government is paying the maximum in salaries for the minimum in talent. It comes from a government official who is a successful business man, and whose common sense has not been warped by his temporary indulgence in office holding.

SMITH D. FRY.

CUBANS ARE HARD WORKERS.

Peculiarities of the People as Set Forth by the New President of the Island.

We have an island materially rich, *with a fertile soil and salubrious cli*mate. The people are industrious, especially those in the country districts, all that they ask is to have plenty of work at reasonable compensation. They are fond of home, and by nature are law-abiding. They love liberty and are brave, but relentless when stirred by oppression, says Thomas Estrada Palma, in Success. The Cubans are anxious for their children to be educated. One of the reasons assigned in the Declaration of the Ten Years' War was that Spain treated us so murderously in order to pay the standing army that is oppressed us, and would not furnish schools sufficient to educate our children. The Cuban people are singularly hospitable. A stranger, visiting a home, is not only treated with kindness, but is offered a cup of coffee as an evidence of good will. They have what is called the southern type of hospitality. Though our people are hard workers, they are not, as a rule, as provident as people of industrial habits ought to be. They have a free and easy way, spending their money on the present rather than saving for a rainy day. They are just and honest in their dealings and have faith in God.

TALKING AT SEA.

Two Ocean Liners Crossing in Opposite Directions Use the Wireless Method.

The marvels of wireless telegraphy are great enough to render a recent use of the system not sufficiently wonderful to be extraordinary, perhaps, yet the incident reported by Chambers' Journal is one which appeals to the imagination.

Two Cunard liners, the Lucania and the Campania, were crossing the Atlantic in opposite directions, both knowing the date of the other's sailing, could make a calculation as to the hour when they would most likely meet. When the hour came the vessels were too far apart to sight each other. Presently, however, the warning bell of the wireless telegraphic apparatus in the Campania tinkled, and the message was spelled out: "Are you there? —Lucania." And then the two vessels, still invisible to each other, and that was found, 36 miles apart, talked for some hours, exchanging experiences as to the weather, and finally parting with the word "good-by" when they were 140 miles asunder.

Such a conversation carried on between vessels in the open ocean, separated by such a vast stretch of water and out of sight of each other, is an impressive illustration of what wireless telegraphy means.

KILLING OF THE CHINCHILLA.

Fur Dealers in This Country Are Deeply Interested in Its Danger of Extermination.

Fur dealers are much interested in the news from Chili that the chinchilla has almost been exterminated by the natives there, and that stringent measures will have to be applied to prevent the extinction of the animal *there. In spite of laws for its pro*tection in Bolivia, the chinchilla has almost entirely disappeared from that republic, and furriers fear that it may disappear in Chili as well, reports the New York Sun.

According to customs reports the number of chinchilla pelts exported in 1900 was 695,300, more than double the exports of 1898.

A scientific society in Chili has already drafted a law forbidding the hunting of the chinchilla for four or five years in certain regions, and allowing hunting elsewhere for only half the year. It also forbids the use of firearms, dogs, fire and, in fact, everything except traps.

The fur dealers expect that the law will be enacted and predict that the price of chinchilla fur will soon be very much higher.

FIRST WAR IN HISTORY.

Inscriptions Lately Unearthed Reveal the Fact That Egypt Once Invaded France.

That Egypt and France held intercourse as early as 4000 B. C. is proved by the marked resemblance of inscriptions found in the two countries, says Mr. Philadelphia North American. The excavations of Prof. Flinders Petrie have brought to light evidence of an extremely ancient movement between the land of the Pharaohs and the countries bordering on the Mediterranean. This communication, like all other great invasions of history, had its origin in an effort at trade extension. The great wars of the eighteenth Egyptian dynasty were provoked by surrounding nations jealous of Egypt's growing wealth and power. In retaliation Egypt carried the campaign into Asia and Europe, and, judging from the inscriptions mentioned, must have pushed as far west as France.

Prof. Petrie has in his possession a series of figures found in Malta and neolithic remains from Brassempouy in France which are beyond chance of doubt the work of Egyptians. They establish intercourse long before the period which is generally recognized as the beginning of the history of the countries of Europe.

Breach of Promise in Japan.

One feature of western civilization has just made its first appearance in Japan, where a native woman has brought suit for a breach of promise, hitherto an unknown procedure in the land of the chrysanthemum.

POWER IN POLITICS.

Senator Gorman of Maryland Is a Born Leader of Men.

To His Followers There Is No Judgment so Reliable as His—History of a Dream Confirms This Broad Statement.

During his career in the United States senate, Mr. Arthur Pue Gorman, who has recently been reelected to that body, took conspicuous rank among national legislators. Among his constituents in Maryland Mr. Gorman was long known as "the Sphinx," and this title followed him to the senate, where he was both admired and feared.

"Day after day," said one of his old colleagues, "the grim Marylander would sit listening to a heated debate over some important measure. Even if the proposed bill were against the interests of his constituents he would not interrupt senators, either to ask questions or to combat their arguments, nor would he mingle in the conflict when his fellow-opponents combined to fight the measure. But when the whole subject had been threshed over, and the vote was about to be taken, Gorman would break his ominous silence. With calm and critical judgment he would review the entire subject, and then would stir the senate with an oratorical effort that would win the admiration of even his enemies.

*"This habit Gorman had of reserv*ing his fire," continued his former associate, "finally made him a formidable figure in the senate. At first his colleagues—some of them, at least—made the mistake of regarding his silence as an indication either of indifference or of inability to grapple with the issue. They knew that Gorman had once been a page in the senate induced some of the older members to regard him, early in his senatorial career, with indifference. But none of them made the mistake more than once. I remember congratulating a famous senator for his splendid efforts in behalf of a certain cause and he saying to him that triumph for his measure seemed certain.

ARTHUR PUE GORMAN.
(Democratic Leader and Senator from the State of Maryland.)

"'Let us not be over-sanguine,' he replied, 'for we must remember that Gorman hasn't yet been heard from.'"

Maj. James Albert Clark, who for many years as a republican editor in Maryland strenuously opposed Gorman, speaks in the highest terms of the senator. "Gorman," says Maj. Clark, "would have been at home in the Roman senate. We have not had so grim a statesman since Daniel Webster. I have known Gorman for nearly a quarter of a century and during all that time I never knew him to indulge in a laugh in public. No element of frivolity ever enters into his dealings with affairs of state. It is only in his home life, which is ideal, that he throws off his burdens. And no man ever loved home more than Gorman does. Seeing him there, at frolic with children, one would not imagine him to be the Jove of the senate, which he was, and, no doubt, will be again. It is said of Gorman," added the major, "that in all his public career he has never passed a Sunday away from his family."

Both the friends and opponents of Gorman acknowledge his masterly qualities as a leader. "Approbos of his strength in this regard to illustrate how completely his followers rely upon his judgment," said a Washington official, "one of his oldtime colleagues is fond of telling of a dream he had. He says he dreamed that a Maryland statesman died and in due time was ushered before the Ultimate Gate, before which all spirits stand to await St. Peter's verdict.

"Finally the gate swung open.

"'You may enter,' said the venerable saint.

"The shade from Maryland hesitated, and St. Peter desired to know the secret of his indecision.

"'Well,' replied the hesitating one, 'I suppose it's all right for me to go in, but before I take any step along the line I should greatly prefer to be able to confer with Senator Gorman, of Maryland.'"

Memorial for Aaron Burr.

A league has been formed in New Jersey to erect a memorial to Aaron Burr in Newark, where he was born and where his father preached. Subscriptions, as might be anticipated, are slow.

Vaccination in France.

Vaccination, under a new law, is compulsory in France only in the first year of a child's life, with revaccination at the ages of 11 and 21.

HERE'S A QUEER THING.

The "Morning Hour" in the Senate Begins at Noon and Lasts About Two Hours.

The "morning hour" is one of the queer things of the United States senate. In the first place the "morning hour" is two hours long, though it may be completed in ten or 15 minutes. In the second place, says the Washington Star, it never occurs in the morning, as a rule, but at 12 o'clock noon, except on the rare occasions when the senate meets at 10 or 11 o'clock. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is responsible for the elongation of the morning hour so as to make it cover 120 minutes. Prior to 14 years ago the "morning hour," while existing in the afternoon, was but an hour in length, but a resolution submitted by Mr. Hoar was adopted August 18, 1888, and that provided that the "morning hour" should be two hours in length or that it should end at two o'clock. This resolution provided *"that after to*day, unless otherwise ordered, the morning hour shall terminate at the expiration of two hours after the meeting of the senate." The morning hour is devoted to the presentation of petitions, the introduction of bills, reports of committees, etc., and is the time when all sorts of little matters of that kind are attended to. At two o'clock the presiding officer lays before the senate the bill on the calendar, which is set aside as having precedence over other measures, and that is generally the time for long speeches of all kinds unless unanimous consent is secured to consider pension bills for a specified time or unobjected bills on the calendar.

MONKEY MASCOT IN WAR.

A Simian Veteran of Philippine Strife Who Was in Many Engagements.

Fritz, the mascot of company H, Twenty-third regulars, and veteran of the Philippine war, is the envy of the rest of the company as "comrade," and to them he is away above the average of his kind.

Fritz enjoys the rare distinction of being the only one of 12 monkeys able to stand the long ocean voyage from Manila. Frank J. Knoffkey is his owner, and the soldier has never gone into an engagement since April 14, 1900, when Fritz was brought into camp, without the faithful monkey being at his soldier's side, trudging along close by his side. Fritz has been one every island in the Sulu archipelago and suffered without a murmur the long and trying campaigns.

When Knoffkey lay wounded on the field in Cebu the island his comrades in uniform pressed on, but his comrade Fritz nestled, close to his side and guarded him through the watches of the night.

On the regiment's forced march across Batey island, Fritz divided his time between walking and riding on the shoulders of the men along the line. It was on this occasion, says the New York Mail and Express, that he came near losing his life at the hands of several wild monkeys because he had no tail. A monkey loses his social standing in the Philippines when he is minus a tail. Fritz escaped from his indignant relatives only by leaping to the shoulders of his master.

AMERICA'S JEWEL MADNESS.

Prevailing Rage for Precious Stones Surpasses Anything Ever Before Seen in This Country.

The world has never seen, and it no other part of the world is there now to be seen, anything like America's jewel madness as shown by the conditions of to-day, when more than 300 New York establishments are engaged solely in the importation of precious stones, when agents of American dealers are searching Europe for the white gem and hopelessly endeavoring to supply American appeals for rubies and emeralds, and when 500 men in South Africa are busy toiling to obtain diamonds, more than half of which are to add to the beauty and happiness of the American woman. It is she that has caused the United States to become the greatest diamond market in the world, says Ainslee's Magazine. For her we have imported in a single year $26,000,000 worth of precious stones; for her, at one period, we smuggled them in at the rate of $7,000,000 a year; for her we annually buy something like $12,000,000 worth of diamonds, and thus, for her sake, heartlessly leave of the world's output of diamonds only some $8,000,000 worth to satisfy the vanity of all the rest of the women on earth. For her adornment we annually cause to be brought to this country diamonds weighing in the aggregate 1,200 pounds, a weight three times that of the total output of the famous Kimberley field, and practically the equal of that of the whole of South Africa, the world's greatest diamond mine.

Killing of Seals.

The increased value of sealskins in 1900 induced the Canadian Sealing Schooner Islands, the breeding grounds of the seal herds, to kill 13,000 two-year-old seals, whereas the rule has been not to kill any seal which has not reached the age of at least three years. If the killing of two-year-olds be allowed to continue it is certain that the seal herd will soon be exterminated.

Fattened Oysters.

Half-developed oysters and bivalves which are in poor flesh, as a stockman would say, are now kept in regular pens and fattened for the market, as if they were pigs or other live stock.

How Cows Lie Down.

A western cattleman says that all cows lie down on their left side and never on their right unless the left is lajured.

RUSSELL SAGE SUED.

Noted New York Capitalist Brought Into Court by the Charming Marchioness D'Ajuria.

Isabella D'Ajuria, who is suing Russell Sage in New York for $75,000 as the result of his alleged conduct toward her nearly eighteen years ago, is known to her friends as the widow of Marquis Gregorio D'Ajuria. She is one of the best known miniature painters in America. To many distinguished society folk in New York and Lakewood she has been known simply as Mme. Gregorio D'Ajuria. As the papers in her suit were filed in her maiden name, Isabella, not a few whose portraits she has painted did not at first identify the talented artist with the woman whose name is now so strangely linked with that of the aged capitalist.

MARCHIONESS D'AJURIA.
(She Has Brought Suit Against Russell Sage for $75,000.)

Mme. D'Ajuria, or Marchioness D'Ajuria, as she claims the right to call herself, flashed upon the fashionable colony of Lakewood, N. J., in the season of 1893. She appeared to be possessed of ample means and rented from George Gould for the season the handsome cottage known as Gray Gables. One of her new neighbors, says the Chicago Chronicle, was a man of large wealth who had recently become a widower, on returning from New York to his Lakewood home one evening he found awaiting him a perfumed note from Mme. D'Ajuria inviting him to call. He did so, and found her lavishly arrayed in a superb velvet evening gown. After some conversation and an exchange of neighborly courtesies Mme. D'Ajuria suggested that, as her caller was then living alone, she had thought it might be agreeable to him to become a boarder with her at Gray Gables. She would at the same time, she said, if such an arrangement were pleasing to him, utilize the opportunity to paint for him his portrait in miniature. Her neighbor replied that he must give up his own home and courteously declined to approve of such an arrangement.

Mme. D'Ajuria was well known at Lakewood also two years ago. At that time she rented expensive apartments in the leading hotel there on a scale of luxurious indulgence. With her was her only child, Oro, a daughter, then about 12 years old, and a young woman who acted as Oro's governess.

HIS ODD MONUMENT.

Memory of Man Who Rode First Bicycle in Scotland Perpetuated in Queer Way.

This unique monument was recently erected in Scotland over the grave of an old man who was reputed to have been the first to ride a bicycle in the north of Great Britain. For many years he rode over the country roads on a clumsy two-wheeled affair, and on days when he was not on his bicycle he was generally seen going along on a sturdy little pony, which was his inseparable companion for a long time.

BICYCLE AND PONY.
(Odd Monument Erected Over Grave of an Old Scotchman.)

Several extraordinary monuments have been erected in some of the graveyards in Italy during the last few years, but it is doubtful if among these latter him with the commercial and industrial conditions of the country, and by reason of this he is peculiarly fit for the discharge of the duties of the position. Apart from this, the president is alert in his business methods, and by his strict integrity he has a personal following which makes him a strong factor in his party. The president, says Leslie's Weekly, is said to be favorably disposed to Mr. Merriam's appointment not because of the latter's equipment for the position, but because such an appointment would strengthen the administration in the northwest.

Four Country for Wizards.

There are some astrologers in China, but not many, as astrology is a very perilous profession. When one of these so-called prophets predicts an event which does not occur, he loses his head.

Anti-Jewish Legislation.

Bavaria's legislature has passed a bill limiting the number of magistrates in the kingdom who may be Jews.

GOOD MAN FOR PLACE.

Mr. Philip Watts Appointed Director of Naval Construction to the British Admiralty.

Mr. Watts, F. R. S., who has been appointed to the office of director of British naval construction, in succession to Sir William White, F. R. S., who is retiring on account of ill-health, has been colonel of the First Northumberland volunteer artillery for many years, and our portrait is from a photograph in the uniform of his corps. When difficulties occurred in South Africa, he at once offered a battery, which was accepted by the government, and under the title of the Elswick battery did splendid service. A second battery was prepared by Mr. Watts, and PHILIP WATTS, F. R. S.

(New Director of Naval Construction at British Admiralty.)

could have been sent out if occasion required it. Mr. Watts is, of course, best known as a naval designer. He was trained in the service, passing through the college of naval architecture with high honors, and became a constructor at the admiralty, under Sir Nathaniel Barnaby. He left the service in 1885, and became naval architect to the distinguished firm of Sir W. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., when Mr. White, as he then was, vacated that post. During his stay at Elswick, he has built whole fleets of ships for more than one navy. In the war between Japan and China his ships fought on both sides in the fight, and those best able to judge have declared that they fulfilled all the conditions for which they were designed in a very high degree. Amongst other nations, Chili possesses many ships of Mr. Watts' design, and so does the Argentine Republic. From the first Mr. Watts' ships have been well shaped and have possessed well-balanced engines of great power; they have had greater speed than most other ships of similar construction and size and they have carried heavier armaments. Mr. Watts is 52 years of age. He is the chairman of the Federation of Shipbuilders in England, a good shot and rider, and a keen, all-round sportsman.

NEW CABINET POST.

Should Congress Create It, William R. Merriam May Be Selected to Fill It.

If the recommendation of President Roosevelt for the addition of one more member of the cabinet, to be known as the secretary of commerce, is adopted by the present congress, the first secretary will probably be the present director of the census, ex-Gov. William R. Merriam, of Minnesota. The probability rests upon the fact that no other name has thus far been prom-

WILLIAM R. MERRIAM.
(Suggested for Proposed New Secretaryship of Commerce.)

inently mentioned in connection with the position. A bill for the creation of the department has been introduced by Senator Nelson, of Minnesota. There seems to be no doubt of its passage by both houses of the present congress, and Mr. Merriam's appointment as head of the census bureau has familiar

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A HAPPY MEDIUM NEEDED.

For some unknown reason, the men in charge of the watering carts in this city seem to have considerable trouble in regulating the amount of water to be used in sprinkling the streets. Since these wagons have begun their regular trips, frequent complaints have reached our ears from those who have occasion to use the streets immediately after the passage of a watering cart. Wheelmen and drivers of smart equipages object seriously to ploughing through miniature ponds where the streets ought to be. While it is admittedly easier for the watering cart men to flood the streets twice a day than to sprinkle them at more frequent intervals, yet it has also been decided that the people who want to travel over the public thoroughfares are those whose wishes should be considered. It will be remembered that the Common Council even took official cognizance of the subject several years ago.

It will be well, therefore, for those who look after the sprinkling of the city streets to see that this subject receives careful attention. Dusty streets are certainly not to be desired, but neither are flooded ones. It may require a little experimenting to strike the happy medium whereby it shall not ran to one extreme or the other but it has been done in the past and why not now?

It is the opinion of an experienced advertiser, comments the Philadelphia Record, that when trade is active there is less need of strenuous advertising than at other seasons. In good times an establishment is sure to get a share of the business if it do any advertising, but when it fails to advertise in a dull season it surrenders to its rivals all the benefits of publicity.

A PRETTY AFTERNOON TEA

GIVEN BY MRS. FRANK W. FRENCH AND MISS HARRIET FRENCH.

Took Place at Home of Mrs. French — Pretty Decorations — Those Who Assisted the Hostesses.

A very pretty afternoon tea was given Friday by Mrs. Frank W. French and Miss Harriet French at the former's home on Craig place. Mrs. French and Miss French were assisted in receiving a large number of guests by Mrs. J. R. Whitney, of Brooklyn; Mrs. James W. Jackson, Mrs. P. M. French, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. Edward Howell, of Montclair, Mrs. James H. Robley, and Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen.

In the dining room, tea and ices were served by Mrs. Jas. R. Joy, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mrs. J. A. Hegeman, Jr., Mrs. Allan B. Wallace, of Summit. They were assisted by Miss Isabel Milne, Miss Elizabeth Valiant, Miss Persis Snodgrass, Miss Elsie Horne, Miss Gertrude Snodgrass, Miss Edith H. Dyer, Miss Elsie Brokaw and Miss Mary French. In the library, Mrs. Edward T. Wilson, assisted by Miss Helen Weir and Miss Edna French had charge of the lemonade bowl.

Floral decorations which adorned the parlor, dining room and library, were very bright and most tastefully arranged. The parlor was set off with a commingling of pink and white roses and pink azaleas. The dining room was hung with dogwood and apple blossoms, while the library was decorated with American beauty roses.

BARN BURNED.

Spark From Tramp's Pipe Caused a $3,000 Conflagration at Barn of A. A. Bowman.

A large barn and several smaller buildings on the premises of A. H. Bowman, of Dunellen avenue, were destroyed by fire Saturday evening, entailing a loss of $3,000.

Mr. Bowman's home was in close proximity to the flames but was saved by the firemen. The barn has been used only as a storehouse for some time and it is thought a tramp who had crawled into the place dropped a spark from his pipe, causing the blaze.

In the barn of saving chickens, Mr. Bowman and his family neglected to turn in an alarm. Box No. 82, half a mile away, was pulled by Patrolman Saunders, who saw the glare and concluded it was in his district. Martin Bowman, a young lad, saved two pet bantams at a great risk, rushing through flame and smoke to get to them.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. Frank A. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church, Somerville, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church, this city, Sunday morning and evening.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF CHRISTIAN EFFORT

Anniversary Observed by the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Church.

AT EVENING SERVICE.

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY REV. CORNELIUS SCHENCK, THE PASTOR.

Interesting Reports of Officers Were Read by Robert Clark, Jr.—Substance of Them—What the Society Has Done During Year.

The twenty-first anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was held in the church Sunday evening.

After the devotional exercises, the reports were read by Robert Clark, Jr. That of the secretary, Mrs. T. R. VanZandt showed an active membership of fifty-five with eight honorary members. At ten meetings there was an average attendance of 24. Six new members were received. The missionary committee collected $84.04 which was divided equally between the foreign and domestic boards of missions, $42.02 to each board. There was a special offering of $5 to the mountain whites and a special gift of $5 to a hospital in Arabia. The society also gave $10 to the student volunteers and $10 toward the erection of an orpanage at Fort Still.

Among the other donations were the following: W. C. T. U., $5; a box valued at $115 to Alto, Wise.; a barrel of clothing to the Schofield School, South Carolina; twenty garments sent 214 Scripture cards and 89 papers to Miss Dykens, of North Dakota.

The visiting committee made 177 calls during the year. The reception committee realized $51.72 from the strawberry festival held in June which was given toward painting the church. The annual turkey supper netted $149.8, of which $50 was given toward painting the church, making a total of $201.72 toward this object. In all $80 was given toward the piano fund. There were twenty-one articles sent to the Summer Sewing Guild. Two teas were given one at Mrs. Schenck's at which $5.35 was received, and one at Mrs. S. C. Peck's at which $6.60 was received.

The next report was that of the treasurer, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr. This was as follows: Receipts, general fund, $276.83; sewing fund, $16.65; missionary fund, $97. Disbursements, general fund, $226.78; sewing fund, $14.25; missionary fund, $6.65; balance on hand, general fund, $50.20; sewing fund, $2.40; missionary fund, 60 cents.

After the reading of the reports, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, made an address to the society, in the absence of Rev. Dr. C. H. Pool, of Somerville, who was detained by illness.

The pastor spoke briefly on the subject, "Evolution of Woman in Church Work." He said that twenty-five years ago there were no women organizations in the church and that when Christianity first found woman she was on a lower level than that intended for her. After Christianity found her there followed a co-operation and during the last century many organizations were found in the churches. In the opinion of Dr. Schenck women can do more work with less fuel than any organization in the church. Mr. Schenck said that what he had said was all true of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, and he praised the society highly for the earnest and fruitful endeavor of its members.

The floral display, under the direction of Mrs. H. C. VanName and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, was very much admired.

REDUCED RATES TO SAN FRANCISCO AND LOS ANGELES.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

On account of the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at San Francisco, Cal., June 10 to 14, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco or Los Angeles from all stations on its lines, from May 26 to June 7, inclusive, at greatly reduced rates. These tickets will be good for return passage within sixty days from date of sale when executed by joint agent at Los Angeles or San Francisco and payment of fifty cents made for this service. For specific rates apply to ticket agents.

5 12 2 c

Death of Mrs. Stewart.

The death occurred at 8 o'clock, this morning, at her home on Chatham street, of Mrs. Matilda A. Stewart, in the sixty-eighth year of her age. She was the widow of the late Abel Stewart, who died at few months ago. Mrs. Andrew Wilson, of Craig place, is a daughter of Mrs. Stewart.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to say, "I wish I had a new lamp," when you get it and keep good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good" —they may be, in some respects, but for all round goodness, there's only one. To make sure that lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stores too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

"The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" is nearing the beginning of its eighth month at the Broadway Theatre, New York, with the house packed to capacity at every performance. The success this great production has achieved is certainly very flattering to Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger, who hazarded a fortune on the belief that the public would respond to a great attraction with an enthusiastic generosity commensurate to its merit and importance. That they did not misjudge the public in this respect is shown by the results, which have proved greater than ever before experienced in connection with any amusement enterprise ever staged in this country. Miss Viola Gillette, the beautiful young woman who has made a sensation as "Prince Charming" in this production, has been re-engaged by Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger for the next two years. Arthur Collins, managing director of the Drury Lane Theatre of London, desires to secure her to take the principal role in "Sinbad," the Christmas spectacle for next year, but Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger refused to release her. At the end of the run of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" approaches, the advanced demand for seats increases. Therefore, all who plan to see this great spectacle will make no mistake in securing their seats at once, either by mail orders or purchase at the box office. Every indication points to crowded houses up to the last performance.

Unusual interest attaches to the reappearance of Mrs. Fiske at the Manhattan Theatre beginning this evening, for a short spring engagement, during which she will revive several of her notable plays. The first week will be devoted to "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," in which Mrs. Fiske won one of her most distinguished successes. All theatre-goers remember the sensation Mrs. Fiske caused by her original impersonation of "Tess" at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. She gave life to one of the strongest and most subtle characters in modern fiction. Hardy's powerful novel contains little at first glance that would suggest a play in which light and shade might be blended, as he develops little or nothing of what is known as "comedy" in the story. The dramatization of "Tess," however, shows an injection of rural scenes and types that, though not found in the book, furnish an agreeable relief from the tension that would result were the play made simply to represent the tragedy developed. In the main elements the play faithfully follows the novel, and the scenes in which the milk-maids and yokels figure in characteristic comedy and in which the father and mother of "Tess" and her little brother and sister appear are skillfully designed to qualify the prevailing seriousness. Mrs. Fiske happily will have the assistance of several actors who formerly appeared with her in this play. Frederic de Belleville will again play the part of "Alec D'Urberville," John Mack will again appear as "John Durbeyfield," and Mrs. Mary Barker as "Joan Durbeyfield." The picturesque and appropriate scenery of the original production has been renewed.

"The Hall of Fame," the big spectacular burlesque review, is now in its seventeenth week at the New York Theatre, New York, and from present indications promises to run well into hot weather. The cast contains many popular favorites, and the whole piece is replete with catchy music and bright lines. Mabel Gilman still continues to charm with her "Sunflower" song; Emma Carus in "Nancy" has easily the most popular number in the production; the Pajama Girls; the girl at The Black Cat Inn; and "Love is a Jailer," sung by Dan McAvoy, Georgia Kelly and Chas. Prince, are also frequently applauded. Marie Dressler, Josie Sadler, Ada Lewis, Louie Harrison and Eulah Lee are others who have scored individual hits in their respective characters. The scenery of "The Hall of Fame" is pretty throughout.

Proceedings to Resume.

The hearing in the case of R. I Tolles against L. A. Hammer, in supplemental proceedings will be resumed next Friday in the office of Robert M. Clark, counsel for the plaintiff.

JERSEY'S CLUB WOMEN MEET AT MONTCLAIR

Semi-Annual Meeting of New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs May 22.

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

SOME OF THE PROMINENT SPEAKERS WHO WILL BE THERE.

Arranged by Committee From Federation and Another From the Montclair Clubs—Sessions to be Held Morning and Afternoon.

The club women from all parts of New Jersey will be the guests of the several clubs in Montclair Thursday, May 22, when the semi-annual meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will take place.

The programme, which promises to be unusually interesting, has just been completed by the committee, which consists of Mrs. John L. Scudder, of Jersey City, chairman; Mrs. Stewart Hartshorn, the State president; Mrs. Charles Silvers, of Elizabeth; Mrs. Mary V. Kingsley, of Arlington, and Miss Charlotte Tuttle, of Summit, and those members of the Montclair clubs, acting with the Federation committee, Mrs. Clarence W. Butler, Mrs. Randal Spaulding, Mrs. Robert W. Boyd, Jr., and Miss Lena Schroeder.

The morning session will be held at 10 o'clock, and the invocation is to be by Rev. Amory Bradford, Mrs. C. W. Butler, president of the Town Improvement Association, of Montclair, will give the address of welcome, and Mrs. Hartshorn, the State president, will respond. The "Echoes from the Biennial" will be given by Mrs. C. T. Yardley and Mrs. Hartshorn, two of the delegates.

The Audubon Society and the Palisades League are each to be represented on the programme, and one of the unusual features of the morning will be a question box. This is a new feature of the programmes, and the committee anticipate that it will prove to be a benefit and pleasure. The music will be provided by Mrs. Grace Toombs and the Banjo Club of the Montclair High School.

How to utilize the summer months, or some ways of making the vacation time profitable, is the subtitle for the afternoon meeting, and the speakers are to be Mrs. Lillian Betts, Mrs. Eva D. Kellogg and Miss Louise Klein Miller. Among the subjects to be considered are "Vacation Houses," "Vacation Schools and Summer Study Classes" and "School Gardens."

ARGUMENTS FOR

Annexationists of North Plainfield Have Announced Date and the Speakers for Mass-Meeting.

The annexationists of North Plainfield have arranged to hold a mass meeting in Snongerbund Hall Thursday evening, May 22, when arguments in favor of annexation and consolidation will be presented by Senator Charles A. Reed, Former Mayors D. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Wm. I. Saunders and Councilman J. P. Northrop.

Mayor N. B. Smalley is actively engaged in support of a movement for fair play in arguing the matter pro and con and says that all persons who desire to listen to a fair presentation of the questions now engaging the attention of the boroughites will be cordially invited to the meeting.

Invitations for Wedding.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Mobus, of Craig place, to Clarence Bye, of Manning avenue. The wedding will take place Saturday at the home of Miss Mobus' aunt, Miss Goodman, of Manning avenue.

Physical Work in City Schools.

The physical work which Miss Addie Parker Jackson has been conducting in the Whittier School has been extended to the Bryant, Franklin and Irving Schools.

At French's Sale.

At the auction sale of lots conducted by Elston M. French, Saturday afternoon, ten blocks of land were sold. There was a fair crowd present, but the bidding was not heavy.

ALL SCOTCH PLAINS MOURNED HIS DEATH

Impressive Services at the Funeral of Robt. Jahn and His Little Son Friday.

HELD AT THE PLAINS.

FRATERNAL BROTHERS OF MR. JAHN CONDUCT SERVICE AT THE GRAVE.

Different Organizations of Which He Was a Member Turned Out in Force to Honor His Memory—Rev. G. M. Shott in Charge.

Scotch Plains, May 10—Not in many years has Scotch Plains witnessed a larger or more impressive funeral than that which took place, yesterday afternoon, when all that was mortal of Robert Jahn and his little son, Herman, was consigned to its last resting place. Every business house in the village was closed and three hundred mourners followed the bodies to the grave. Over half of this number were members of organizations to which Mr. Jahn belonged and as they formed a guard of honor in the funeral procession the spectacle was one long to be remembered.

The Baptist church was the scene of the service which was spoken over the remains of father and son, victims of a sudden and terrible accident. Rev. Gideon M. Shott was in charge. Following a prayer made by Rev. Dr. Park, he announced his text as being found in Kings, xix, 12, "And after a fire, a still small voice." The accident which deprives a happy home of a husband and father and son, he likened to an indication of God's powerful might. The summons is apt to come any time, he said, in one form or another and it remains for His people to heed His voice and be ready. This comprised the total service at the church, its very simpleness making it all the more impressive.

At the grave, the members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, P. of P., as sumed charge and their beautiful burial service was carried out under the leadership of George Leighs. The remainder of the mourners stood with bared heads while the casket containing the remains of both, was lowered by George Moorehouse, J. M. B. Pyatt, William Kitchen, Joseph schreiner, Charles Henckler and Bennett Britton, associates of Mr. Jahn in Goodwill Lodge, K. of P., before is was merged with Perseverance. The first few handfuls of earth were placed on top of the casket covering by the members of the Jahn family and the obsequies were over.

Beside Perseverance Lodge, delegations were present from the Master Mechanics' Association, the Sewing and Tarn Verein, and the Tinners and Plumbers Association, of Plainfield, and Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of Scotch Plains. All these and many individuals contributed floral emblems many of them being large set pieces.

ATTACKED ON STREET.

Miss Delia Cuddy Held Up by a Stranger on Westervelt Avenue.

Miss Delia Cuddy, a domestic in the employ of H. F. McCarthy, of Westervelt avenue, reported to the police, Saturday evening, that she had been stopped and partially choked by a rough man, as she was entering her employer's yard. She screamed and the fellow fled. She was unable to furnish a description of her assailant and the police have small hopes of capturing him.

Invitations Out.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Abel R. Manning, of 319 Grant avenue, for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Adeline Mabel Manning, to Luther Anthony, of Kingston, formerly of Lexington, to take place at the home of the bride's mother, Tuesday evening, May 20.

Miss Rose Frankel, of Dover street, spent Sunday at Bound Brook.

Dr. Hu[illegible]'s

...edies cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.		PRICE.
1	—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	—Malaria, Chills, Fevers and Ague	.50
15	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	—Whooping-Cough	.25
17	—Kidney Diseases	.25
18	—Nervous Debility	1.00
19	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist's, or sent free.
Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William and John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER MAY 10, 1903.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

For New York, Express, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

Washington Express, 2.40 a. m. Sundays, 2.40 a. m.

Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Philadelphia and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

For Washington, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1.35, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Atlantic City—1.35 a. m., (Sea Shore Limited, 1.35 p. m. through Vestibule Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Dining and Buffet Cars) 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Cape May—1.35 a. m. daily, 1.35 p. m. week-days.

For Delaware—1.35, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City, 9.40 a. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Intermediate points, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Bay Head, Point Pleasant and Intermediate points—7.40 a. m. week-days.

For New Brunswick—1.35, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Woodbridge—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.40 a. m., 3.40 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.40 a. m., 6.40 p. m.

For Easton, Allentown and Bethlehem—9.40 a. m., 3.40 p. m. week-days.

For Freehold and Intermediate Stations—2.40 p. m.

For Trenton and Intermediate Stations—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Junction—9.40 a. m., 12.40, 3.40 and 6.40 p. m. week-days.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.40 a. m., 3.40 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.40 a. m., 6.40 p. m.

For Freehold and Intermediate Stations—2.40 p. m.

For Toms River, Barnegat, Forked River, Manahawkin and Tuckerton—2.40 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Intermediate points, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Bay Head, Point Pleasant and Intermediate points—7.40 a. m. week-days.

For New Brunswick—1.35, 2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 4.30, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 a. m., 12.40, 1.40, 2.40, 3.40, 4.40, 5.40, 6.40, 7.40, 8.40, 9.40, 10.40 p. m.

For Woodbridge—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.40, 5.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.40, 3.40, 6.40, 11.40 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.40 a. m., 3.40 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.40 a. m., 6.40 p. m.

For Easton, Allentown and Bethlehem—9.40 a. m., 3.40 p. m. week-days

FINE DAY FOR NATIONAL GAME

Large Crowds Saw Some Good Baseball Played by the Local Nines Saturday Afternoon.

UNPLEASANT FEATURE.

Dunellen Team Quit in Ninth Inning as Account of Umpire's Decision —Hopes Won by One Run—Safe Works Lost Again—Easy for St. Mary's—The Scores.

Hope Y. M. A., 16; Garwood, 15. Scotch Plains, 15; Safe Works, 6. Y. M. C. A., 9; Dunellen A. C., 0. Plainfield, 12; Westerleigh C. I., 5. N. P. H. S., 7; Rutgers Prep., 11. Clinton Ave., 9; E. Y. M. C. A., 16. Westfield, 6; O. N. T., 8.

Crowds took advantage of the delightful weather Saturday afternoon to witness the variety of baseball contests which were offered by the local teams. Two of the league teams won their respective games, one of which gave Dunellen the opportunity to win undesirable reputation of being the first team to withdraw from the diamond on account of an umpire's decision. The City High School sustained its reputation by defeating the Westerleigh C. I. while the Borough High School made a plucky fight against the Rutgers Prep School boys. There were signs of improvement in the play of all the nines.

THE SAFE WORKS LOST.

For the second time this season, the exact Safe Works team went down in defeat on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon. But for all that losing the game was no disgrace as the members up a snappy fight against the supposedly Scotch Plains nine, which in reality was made up of four 'Plains men and five professional players from New York. The score was 15 to 6. An attendance larger than has been present at any baseball contest his season, was present, the number of people being estimated at 800.

For individual work, the Safe Works players were constantly distinguishing themselves. Cooney made a remarkable catch of a foul fly, leaning over the second tier of seats in the grand stand to do it. Gaston, Symons and Siegford also made brilliant plays. The Scotch Plains contingent distinguished itself at the bat, touching Finnerty up for nineteen hits, a number of them two and three baggers. Otherwise Finnerty was all right, striking out seven men to Malay's three. Seven errors were made by the Safe people and four by Scotch Plains.

Following is the summary and line-up:

SAFE WORKS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 2b	1	0	5	2	1
Jackson, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Booth, rf	1	1	3	0	0
Allen, c	0	0	6	1	2
Gaston, ss	1	1	0	5	1
Symons, 1b	3	1	10	0	1
Siegford, 3b	0	0	0	1	1
Ward, lf	0	1	1	0	1
Finnerty, p	0	3	1	5	0
	7	6	27	12	7

SCOTCH PLAINS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Anderson, 3b	1	2	3	3	2
Albert, lf	3	2	1	2	0
Malay, p	2	4	2	1	0
Bentley, 2b	1	4	4	3	0
H. Flannery, cf	2	3	0	0	0
Ashcroft, c	2	1	7	1	0
Hand, 1b	1	0	9	0	1
Cruzius, ss	3	1	1	4	1
Kirk, rf	2	2	0	0	1
	15	19	27	14	4

Score by innings:
Scotch Plains ..1 0 2 2 4 1 2 2 1—15
Safe Works.....0 2 1 1 0 1 1 0 0—6

Base on ball—Finnerty, 1; Malay, 7. Two-base hits—Ward, Malay, Albert. Three-base hit—Cruzius. Double play—Bentley to Hand. Hit by pitched ball—Malay, 2. Passed ball—Allen, 3. Stolen bases—Cooney (3), Booth (2), Gaston, Symons, Malay (2), Bentley, Flannery and Hand. Sacrifice hits—Cooney, Siegford, Flannery and Hand. Umpires — Doyle, Day and Sykes. Scorers—W. E. Buckley and G. R. Firstbrook. Time of game—2 hours. Attendance—700.

WON BY ONE RUN.

Victory perched on the banners of the Hope baseball team, Saturday afternoon, after a close game with the Garwood-A. C., at Garwood. Although the score was 16 to 15 the contest was not as rocky as the figures may imply. For the first half both pitchers were hit freely but after the sixth inning they settled down and not a run was made from then on.

Hope was first at the bat and touched up Hegeman for several hits and brought in two runs. Garwood retaliated and pounded Hewitt for five runs, only to stand by in the second and see the Hope players whirl around the bases for six more tallies. The Garwoods were shut out in the third but in the fourth with three men on base, Hewitt made an excusable but costly error which let all of them reach home. A. Garwood coacher with a uniform almost identical with that of the Hopes, stood a few feet from first base and mistaking him for Dixon, Hewitt threw a ball directly at him. The Garwood man jumped aside and the ball landed well out into the roadway.

The base running stopped in the seventh when both Hewitt and Hegeman began fanning men out. An especially brilliant inning was the last when the Hopes retired the Garwoods in one, two, three order. In this inning, "Chester" Magee made a beautiful catch after a long run in center field.

Players who distinguished themselves in the game were Martin, Gordon, Feiring, Smith and Montross in both field and stick work for the Hopes and Pae, Crier and Maloney for the Garwoods. Third baseman Smith, of the Garwoods, was very erratic and made several costly errors. Hegeman struck out eleven men and let three walk while Hewitt struck out six and let eight walk.

The summary and line-up follows:

HOPES.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Gordon, cf	1	1	1	1	0
Smith, 3b	4	2	3	0	0
Martin, ss	2	2	0	5	0
Hewitt, p	1	1	1	3	0
Feiring, rf	1	2	0	0	1
Dixon, 1b	1	1	8	1	1
Montross, 2b	1	2	5	3	1
Hartfelder, c	2	1	7	0	0
Magee, lf	3	0	2	0	0
	16	14	27	13	3

GARWOOD.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Berlin, 1b	4	2	11	1	3
Smith, 3b	1	3	1	1	3
Pace, ss	3	3	0	6	0
Hegeman, p	4	1	0	2	0
Natt, 2b	2	2	1	0	1
Colwell, c	0	2	12	0	2
Crier, cf	1	1	1	0	2
Maloney, lf	0	2	1	0	1
Hinding, rf	0	1	0	0	0
	15	17	27	10	11

Score by innings:
Hope.....2 6 1 6 1 0 0 0 0—16
Garwood .5 1 0 3 3 2 0 0 0—15

Bases on balls—Off Hewitt, 8; off Hegeman, 3. Two-base hits—Smith, 2, Gordon, C.L. Smith, Martin, Hewitt, Feiring, 2. Struck out—Hewitt, 6; Hegeman, 11. Umpires—Pine and McCombs. Scorer—W. P. Foster.

DUNELLEN WITHDREW.

The game of baseball on Pittis' diamond, Saturday afternoon, between Plainfield Y. M. C. A. and the Dunellen team, ended most unsatisfactorily. In the latter half of the ninth inning the Dunellens quit the field.

Before play was started two agreements were made by the captains of the opposing nines, one to the effect that when a ball was knocked out over the road only two bases would be allowed, and another stipulating that a man would always, owing to the nearness of the backstop, take a base on a passed ball that reached the backstop.

At one juncture of the game a Dunellen batter knocked out a ball which rolled over into the road. He took more than two bases and on the agreement, first referred to, being called to his attention, the Dunellens claimed that a fly ball was meant and not a grounder. The Y. M. C. A's acquiesced and gracefully acceded from their position. In the last inning with the score, 8 to 6 in Dunellen's favor, Y. M. C. A. had three men on bases and none out. Their best batters were on deck. When Dupee trotted in from third on a passed ball, Dunellen put up a strenuous kick. Dupee stopped half way and went back to third before coming home, and it was on this that the kick was made. Umpire Morris Sutphen duly declared him safe. Then the Dunellenites left the field. The umpire gave them ample time to reconsider, but they refused and the game was given to Y. M. C. A., 9 to 0.

Up to the time of this unhappy occurrence, the game was most interesting from a spectator's standpoint. The Y. M. C. A. outfield played well and gathered in almost everything in the line of flies.

Following is the batting order:

Y. M. C. A.	Dunellen.
R. Schoonmaker, p.	Giles, ss.
G. Schoonmaker, 3b.	F. Giddes, 1b.
G. Bolsterli, 2b.	Craig, 3b.
P. Hand, lf.	Brown, c.
W. Schoonmaker, cf.	Herlick, lf.
	Smalley, lf.
J. Eames, c.	Smith, 2b.
F. H. Dupee, p.
C. E. Burt, p.	G. Giddis, cf.
C. B. Egan, 1b.	Estlinger, p.
W. Corwin, rf.	Wyckoff, rf.

Score by innings:
Y. M. C. A.....3 1 1 0 1 0 0 0 x—9
Dunellen.....3 2 0 0 0 0 0 4 0—9

BEATEN AT ELIZABETH.

The Clinton Avenue baseball team journeyed to Elizabeth Saturday afternoon, and proved to be easy victims for the Y. M. C. A. nine of that place. The Plainfield team was defeated by a score of 16 to 9.

Kelley pitched for the Clinton Avenues and was touched up for ten safe hits. Brasefield, of the Elizabeths, proved to be a puzzler for the Plainfielders, only four men being able to find him for a hit. An even number of men were struck out by both. The line-up was as follows:

CLINTON AVENUE.	R.	BH.	PO.
Kelley, p	2	0	3
Dodd, ss	4	2	2
Dally, c	1	1	3
Perris, 2b	2	1	2
Dolan, 3b	1	1	3
Montross, lf	0	0	4
Beekman, 1b	0	0	3
VanArsdale, cf	1	0	3
Surrey, rf	0	0	4
	9	5	27

ELIZABETH Y. M. C. A.	R.	BH.	PO.
Freeland, 1b	2	2	2
Kipling, rf	1	2	4
Collins, ss	2	2	2
Devlin, cf	2	1	4
McMahon, 3b	3	0	2
Compton, 2b	2	1	2
Hibbard, c	1	0	3
Ely, lf	1	1	2
Brasefield, p	1	0	1
	16	10	24

Score by innings:
Elizabeth.....3 0 2 2 0 3 0 4 2—16
Clinton Avenue..2 1 0 0 0 0 5 0 1— 9

RUTGERS PREP. WON.

The game between North Plainfield High School and Rutger's Prep School on the North Plainfield grounds resulted in a victory for the Rutgers by a score of 11 to 7. Armstrong and Owens were the battery for the boroughites while Hay and VanVechten did similar honors for Rutgers.

For North Plainfield Overton the second baseman, played great ball. He had seven put-outs to his credit, two assists, and is responsible for three of the seven runs made by his side. It was not until the last inning at North Plainfield understood Hay, the Rutgers twirler, when they batted him out for four runs.

The batting order followed:

N. P. H. S.	RUTGERS PREP.
Overton, 2b	Mittag, 3b
Stevens, ss	Cole, 2b
Woodland, 3b	Green, 1b
Owens, c	VanVechten, c
Armstrong, p	Hay, p
Emmons, lf	Bagley, ss
Rumble, rf	Devan, lf
Power, cf	Herbert, cf
Messersmith, 1b	Matzke, rf

Score by innings:
N. P. H. S.....1 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 4—7
Rutgers.....3 0 2 1 2 0 2 0 0—11

Bases stolen—N. P. H. S., 15; Rutgers Prep., 15. Two-base hits—Rutgers Prep, 3. Bases on balls—Off Hay, 1; off Armstrong, 4. Struck out—By Hay, 13; by Armstrong, 5. Passed balls—VanVechten, 2; Owens, 1. Umpires—W. Hamilton and Prof. Burr.

LOST IN LAST INNING.

Westfield, May 12—The Clark O. N. T. baseball team met and defeated the Westfield team Saturday afternoon on the local diamond by a score of 8 to 6. Up to the ninth inning the score was 6 to 3 in favor of the home team, when the visitors batted out five runs and won.

EASY FOR HIGH SCHOOL.

The Plainfield High School nine met and defeated the Westerly Collegiate Institute team at West New Brighton Saturday afternoon by a score of 12 to 5.

VanAuken was in the box for Plainfield and he proved as difficult a proposition for the Westerly boys as he has been for many other batters this season. He was given magnificent support in the field. A feature of the game being a star catch of a difficult fly by Denton at centre field after a run of seventy-five yards. Thompson the first baseman, drove out a neat two-bagger. Throughout the whole game but two errors are tallied against Plainfield.

Moynihan caught VanAuken in usual good form. Fisher and Kiernan alternated in the box for Westerly, and W. Murray played behind the bat. Owing to the intense heat the game was called at the end of the seventh inning.

Following is the batting order:

P. H. S.	WESTERLY C. I.
Thompson, 1b	W. Murray, c
Dyer, 2b	Kiernan, p, 2b
Moynihan, c	Jones, lf
Munro, 2b	Fisher, p, 2b
Craig, ss	Manchem, ss
Denton, cf	Donovan, 2b
Walters, rf	Smith, lf
VanAuken, p	Vidol, rf
Ulrich, lf	R. Murray, 1b

P. H. S.....5 1 1 0 0 1 4—12
Westerly C. I.0 0 0 2 0 0 3—5

Bases on balls—Off Kiernan, 4; off Fisher, 2; off VanAuken, 4. Two-base hits—P. H. S., 1; Westerly, 0. Hit by pitched ball—P. H. S., 1. Struck out—By Fisher, 2; by VanAuken, 4. Umpire—A. E. Moore.

Dissord Among Smiths.

Some of the blacksmiths are complaining that a few members of the craft are not adhering to the agreement made to keep their shops closed on Saturday afternoon.

Correct Silverware

Correct in character, design and workmanship—is as necessary in dainty china or fine linen if you would have everything in good taste and harmony. Knives, forks, spoons and fancy pieces for table use will be correct if selected from goods stamped

"1847 Rogers Bros."

Handsome "1847," as there are imitations. For catalogue No. 6 address the makers International Silver Co. Norden, Conn.

JERSEY FISHING LAWS IN A SHORT FORM

Open and Closed Season for the Various Game Fish in This State.

FEW INTERESTING FACTS

IZAAK WALTON'S DISCIPLES IN PLAINFIELD MAY LEARN THE LAW.

Many Local Fishermen Are Not Fully Acquainted With All the Details—Regarding Size of Fish and Other Information.

While the disciples of Izaak Walton are numerous in Plainfield, there are many of them who are not at all acquainted with the limitations which the State Legislature has fixed upon their favorite pastime. For the benefit of such people throughout New Jersey, the Erie Railroad has prepared a booklet which includes a summary of the New Jersey fish laws as well as those of several other States. For the benefit of the Plainfield fishermen, the New Jersey summary is printed.

It is as follows:

Fishing, Except with Rod and Line, Prohibited—It shall be unlawful to take or attempt to take fish from any of the waters of this State by means of any contrivance whatsoever, except in the manner commonly known as angling with hand-line or with rod and line, under a penalty for each offense; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to the catching of eels, at any time, by means of wicker eel-baskets anchored on the bottom of streams and ponds, nor to the taking of eels by means of eel-weirs from the 15th day of September to the last day of October, both dates inclusive; provided, also, that it shall be lawful to take minnows and other bait fish with a seine not over fifty feet in length, in ponds and lakes which have an area of over one hundred acres, and in all other waters with a seine not over thirty feet in length; in every such case, however, all trout, pickerel, bass, pike and pike-perch captured therein shall be immediately released therefrom uninjured as far as practicable; provided, further, that it shall be lawful to take fish in any manner under the direction of or by permission given by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners for stocking purposes only.

Bass, Wall-Eyed Pike (Pike Perch), White Bass, Pike and Pickerel, Open Season.—It shall be unlawful to catch, kill, take or have in possession, any black bass, pike perch, or white bass, excepting only from the 15th day of June to the last day of November, both dates inclusive, of each year, or any pickerel or pike, except only from the 1st of May to the last day of November, both dates inclusive, of each year, under a penalty of $20 for each fish caught killed, taken or had in possession; and it shall be unlawful in any manner to take any trout, bass, pike perch, pike or pickerel between 9 o'clock in the evening and daylight of the morning following, under a penalty of $20 for each fish so taken.

Brook Trout, Open Season.—That it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, take or have in possession any brook trout, excepting only between and including the 1st day of April and the 15th day of July, both dates inclusive.

Size of Fish.—That it shall be unlawful to sell, sell, expose for sale or have in possession any black bass measuring less than nine inches in length, or any trout measuring less than six inches in length, or any pike, perch less than twelve inches in length, except for the use of stocking waters of this State therewith, and then only at the direction of the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners, or upon license, first obtained from such board, under a penalty of $60 for each fish so killed, sold, or exposed for sale, or had in possession. It shall be unlawful to put, place, use or maintain in any of the waters of this State inhabited by pike, pickerel, pike perch, black bass or trout, any set line, or set lines, or net upon a line for the taking of fish in such waters any contrivances having more than three hooks or more than one barr of three hooks attached thereto, under a penalty of $20 for each offense.

Trespassing.—It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to trespass upon the unoccupied lands of any other person or persons within the State for the purpose of hunting or fishing, killing or catching any of the game or fish enumerated in the statutes, without the consent of the owner or owners or persons in possession of such lands being first had and obtained, provided written or printed notice forbidding trespassing shall have been posted in at least four conspicuous places on said lands within three months next before the date of such trespass; and every person violating this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding ten days, or both, such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court before which such conviction is had.

Removal or Export of Game and Fish.—That it shall be unlawful at all times to remove or attempt to remove from this State any of the birds, game or fish whose capture is prohibited, or for which a close season is provided by any provisions of this act; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to birds, game or fish which may have been captured during such periods, as the provisions of this act make lawful for such capture, and that such removal shall not take place excepting within such periods; and provided that this act shall not apply to common carriers carrying from beyond the confines of this State in unbroken packages to some other point beyond the confines of this State any such birds, game or fish.

BRING SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey R. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

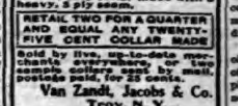
La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau, 4 30 ow 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

From Hot to Cold.

Dysentery is prevalent everywhere in summer and due to miasmatic poisons, and begins abruptly with inflammation of the mucous lining of the large bowel. In America the disease is common, but properly treated does not result as seriously as in the tropics. Perry Davis' Painkiller is the best known remedy and the most efficacious in the treatment of dysentery.

TWO NEW STYLES



Special inducements to Dealers

To Practice at Atlantic City.

Dr. Rolland Davis Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, has gone to Atlantic City, where he will practice. His office will be at the "LaGrand," Pacific and Kentucky avenues.

WELL-KNOWN WHEELMAN GONE

CHAS. C. LISTER DIED TUESDAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Was a Bicycle Dealer Here and Was Active in the Crescent Wheelmen During Its Existence.

The death of Charles C. Lister, one of the city's best-known men, occurred at his home on Willow avenue, Tuesday morning. He had been failing in health since last summer and had been confined to his home for the past five months. Pulmonary trouble was the direct cause of death.

Mr. Lister was thirty-eight years old and had lived in this city twelve of them, coming here from Philadelphia. He engaged in the bicycle business and continued it until his health compelled him to retire. He was an active member of the Crescent Wheelmen during its existence, and was also an Odd Fellow and a member of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M.

A widow and three children survive him. He also leaves four sisters and three brothers, most of whom live in or near Philadelphia. One brother, Harry, and one sister, Miss Frances Lister, reside in this city.

Located Permanently.

The friends of James T. Scott will be pleased to learn that he has located permanently at 37 and 39 Maiden lane, New York, under the firm name of J. T. Scott & Company, dealers in diamonds, watches, jewelry and silverware.

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, MD., March 15, 1902.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your invention, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

I was entirely deaf in my right ear from scarlet fever when I was a child, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I consulted a treasured list for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that my deafness could not be cured. Your invention has cured me entirely, and that I could not wish for more than I have received personally. But the kind words expressed by others in the same case would be too long to write.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your instrument. Only I had used it a few days when the noises in my head ceased entirely. One week more and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you, health and long to remain.

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupations.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 506 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN R. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $2,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BOCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FORT, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in case.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, state or local managers; salary $900 yearly, payable weekly; expenses advanced; position permanent; entire outfit free; previous experience not essential; old established house. Grand chance for earnest men or women to secure profitable employment. Reference, bond required. Address, with stamp, Superintendent, Box 1, Tribune Building, New York. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

DIED

JAHN—Suddenly, May 7, 1902, Robert Jahn, aged 67 years.

May 8, 1902, Herman, son of Robert and Rosina Jahn, aged 4 years and 5 months.

SPENCER—On Monday, May 5, 1902, Henry Newton Spencer, aged 68 years, 7 months, 18 days.

WOODEN—On Sunday, May 11, 1902, William W. Wooden.

VAN FLEET—Suddenly, on Friday, May 9, 1902, Isaac, son of Alexander and Phebe Van Fleet, deceased.

STEWART—In North Plainfield, Monday, May 12, 1902, Matilda Ann, widow of the late Abel Stewart, aged 67 years and 9 months.

LISTER—On Tuesday, May 13, 1902, Charles C. Lister, aged 38 years.

TRAIN — On Tuesday, May 13, 1902, Susanah Train.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

MR. M'CUTCHEN LEAVES BOARD OF EDUCATION

Resignation As a Member Accepted Reluctantly by the Borough School Board.

HAS BEEN PRESIDENT.

OTHER MINOR BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT THE ADJOURNED MEETING.

St. John McCutchen Had Been Unanimously Requested to Remain in Board, But Insisted on Resignation Being Accepted.

An adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education was held Thursday. With the exception of Mr. Hallock all the members of the board were present.

There was only one important matter before the meeting. This was the resignation of Samuel St. John McCutchen, which was finally accepted. Mr. McCutchen resigned as president of the board some time ago but retained his place as a member. Two or three weeks ago he handed in his complete resignation, but his brother members were very loath to lose the services of so valuable a man as Mr. McCutchen had proved himself to be. At the last meeting a petition was drawn up, signed by all the members, asking him to remain, but after careful consideration he found that it would be impossible to further attend to the duties involved.

Mr. McCutchen has been connected with the Board of Education for the past ten years, being president of the body up to a few months ago, and it was with great reluctance that the resignation was accepted. When he was elected last year Mr. McCutchen promised to act only on the stipulation that he would be allowed to retire on the completion of his term. John Valiant, former councilman, was unanimously called to fill the vacant place and was prevailed upon to accept.

Among other business transacted was a report from the book committee read and accepted. The committee on supplies had not been able to get complete settlement, and the matter was left over for the present.

The music committee presented a preliminary report and they were authorized to proceed and given the necessary power.

AMBOY'S NEW HOSPITAL.

Has Been Opened for Patients—Was Built by Private Subscription.

The new hospital at Perth Amboy has been opened for the reception of patients. Two physicians and two nurses are in charge of the institution. The building is provided with two wards, with six beds in each, and five private rooms. Dr. G. W. Tyrrell and Dr. F. C. Henry are the first two local physicians to volunteer their services and they will serve two months.

The hospital has been properly furnished by local societies and it is fully equipped with all the latest surgical appliances. The institution was built by private subscription and it is expected that aid will be received from Middlesex county. The cost thus far has been nearly $30,000, and the building is entirely free from debt.

INDIVIDUAL CUPS.

Contract Given Out by First Baptist Church to Woodhull & Martin.

The First Baptist church, having adopted the individual communion cups, has just closed a contract with Woodhull & Martin for the same. There will be nearly six hundred cups in all, made of glass. With the service there is an arrangement whereby all of the cups in the carrier can be filled at one time. In each pew there will be a receptacle for the cups, where they can be placed after use and collected after the service. The cups will be used for the first time at the communion service to be held in June.

Pigeon Owners to Organize.

Efforts are being made to organize a homing-pigeon flying club by some local bird fanciers interested in the sport. Several Plainfield men are the possessors of some fine homers, but the flocks are kept more for their beauty than for their racing qualities. Westfield has an association of this kind, and Plainfield boasted a club some years ago, but the sport here seems to have declined. Five members entitles a club to become a member of the National Association at Philadelphia.

A Ping-Pong Tournament.

At the regular meeting of Benevolent Council, No. 236, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, a committee, composed of Messrs. Honeyman, Trenchard and Clark, was appointed to secure a ping-pong set and arrange for a tournament to be played by the members. Games are to commence next Friday evening.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS TO MEET

NATIONAL BIENNIAL GATHERING TO BE HELD AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Great Preparations are Being Made for the Event by the People of California.

The National biennial gathering of the Knights of Pythias, which is to be held in San Francisco, August 10 to 20, is probably destined to become memorable as the greatest fraternal gathering in the history of this country, in point of numbers as well as in splendor. The people of San Francisco and of California are determined that it shall eclipse all similar conventions ever held in the United States. Never before was there such unanimity of action among all the people of the coast. It is not the members of the Order alone who take such a lively interest in the coming gathering of the hosts, but merchants, manufacturers, farmers and miners, all are interested to make the affair a glorious one for California and the most pleasant for the visitors.

It will be made the occasion for showing the famed beauties of this wonderland of the West. Every county and section of the State will bring its choicest products, and place them on exhibition. The city is to be transformed into a fairy land, and the night will be turned into day. Carloads of the choicest fruits will be sent each day from different sections for free distribution. The famous gardens of Santa Clara, Marin and Sonoma counties are to furnish the material for the grandest floral display ever seen. The giants of California's famous forests will be planted at convenient points for visitors to gaze at. Bearing trees from the citrus belt will be brought by the thousand and set along the curbs. Quarts and hydraulic mining will be in full operation as an object lesson to visitors, and oil wells will be bored to show the operation to those who cannot visit every section of the State to behold its wonders and glories.

Fifteen thousand Knights of the Uniform Rank will be in the parade, escorted by the National Guard of California and the troops of the United States Army stationed at the Government Reservation and the forts near the city. Trophies made of California gold and silver, the most valuable ever offered will be given by the citizens for the competitive drill. The temperature in August is mild, from 65 to 70 degrees, with a mild breeze from the ocean. The climate is the most agreeable that can be imagined.

There is ample accommodation in the city for 300,000 visitors—that has been demonstrated on two recent occasions, when fully that number of strangers visited this city at one time, and all were comfortably housed. Besides this, Congress has authorized the Secretary of War to issue 1,000 wall tents for use during the encampment, and as many more tents will be issued as may be required. These and the 5,000 bunks to be placed in the great pavilion, will be at the disposal of members of the Uniform Rank who prefer outdoor life during the camp.

REDUCED RATES TO HARRISBURG.

Via Pennsylvania R.R., Account German Baptist Brethren Conference.

For the German Baptist Brethren conference at Harrisburg, Pa., May 20 to 24, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Harrisburg on May 15 to 21, good to return until June 2, inclusive, from all stations on its lines, at rate of single fare for the round trip (minimum rate, 25 cents). An extension of return limit to June 30 will be granted if ticket is deposited with agent at Harrisburg on or before June 2, for which no additional charge will be made.

Holders of special excursion tickets for this event may obtain from the agent at Harrisburg, from May 21 to 24, excursion tickets to all points in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, good to return until June 2, inclusive, at rate of single fare for the round trip. Side-trip tickets sold to passengers having tickets to Harrisburg on deposit for extension, will be limited for return passage until June 30, inclusive.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Grovetown, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly." L. W. Randolph.

Miss Jackson's Pupils to Appear.

The annual recital of Miss Addie Parker Jackson's pupils will be given at the Casino on May 29.

MUST BE GERMANIZED.

Emperor William and Duchess of Albany at Outs Over Education of The Latter's Son.

Emperor William has been putting his rather Spartan ideas regarding the training of boys—particularly royal boys—into practice on the young duke of Saxe-Coburg with a thoroughness that has kindled wrath in the bosom of the young royal highness' proud mamma, the widowed duchess of Albany, King Edward's sister-in-law.

The young man, who is now just 18, and whose name is Leopold Charles Edward George Albert, will not assume control of the German grand duchy which he inherited from his uncle, the late duke, King Edward's brother, until he is 21. Meanwhile he is under the authority of the kaiser, who is anxious to make a capable man and a good German of him.

GRAND DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG. (His Mother Is Worried Over the Way the Kaiser Educates Him.)

To this end William II. not long ago prescribed for his young cousin a course of military training similar to that to which he has obliged his own sons to undergo, allowing him, however, to live with his mother at Potsdam. Now, however, the kaiser has insisted that his pupil leave the maternal roof altogether and come to live in Berlin.

The grand duke's mother has from the first been dead against the rather severe régime prescribed for her young hopeful and she took revenge by combating effectually the efforts of the pedagogues appointed by the emperor to instill German ideas into his head.

Anti-German tendencies on the part of the duchess, who was born under the double eagle, may seem rather surprising, but as the wife of the duke of Albany so great a part of her life was spent in England that her sympathies are now almost entirely English. However, no sooner had she been apprised by the duke's tutors that their attempts to Germanize him were being offset by his mother than the mailed fist came down with a thud and the young man was summoned to Berlin, where his education could be overseen by his imperial cousin.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

May Visit United States in October to Dedicate New York's New Chamber of Commerce.

The prince of Wales, who has been invited to dedicate the new chamber of commerce at New York next October, and for whom it is said King Edward has decided to accept the invitation of the committee, will not be an entire stranger on the American continent. It is only a few months since he and the princess completed a tour of the British possessions by crossing the continent through Canada. At that time many Americans assisted in his entertainment at Victoria, Ottawa and Montreal, and all seemed to be pleased with his dignified yet democratic bearing, as became a guest of liberal Canada. The prince, who was the duke of York until after his return from the long journey, is the second son of King Edward and the sailor prince of the realm. At a very early age he was sent to the sea, with a view to his ultimate command of the British navy, and his jolly, rollicking ways won for him the love of the tars. On the death of his elder brother, the duke of Clarence, he became heir apparent to the throne, and also fell heir to Clarence's affianced wife, to whom he was afterward married. It has been said that the marriage was the queen's command, and that neither of the young people's hearts was involved in the alliance. The prince has three sons and one daughter, the eldest of the children being Prince Edward, a manly little lad of eight years.

THE PRINCE OF WALES. (King Edward May Permit Him to Visit America Next Fall.)

Industrious French Women.

Fully one-third of the textile goods manufactured in France are the product of female labor.

GRIEG'S MUSIC PLAYED AND GRIEG DESCRIBED

First of Two Musical Lectures Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall by Mr. and Mrs. Gerritt Smith.

THE AUDIENCE PLEASED

HIS COMPOSITIONS WERE SUNG AND RENDERED ON THE PIANO.

Mr. Smith Talked on the Composer and His Works, Describing Them —Was Assisted by Mrs. Smith and Hans Kronold, 'Cellist.

The first of two musical lecture recitals, which are to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Gerritt Smith, of New York, took place in Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday. "Edward Greig, and His Music" was the subject. It was heard and appreciated by a small but select audience of music lovers.

Illustrations of Greig's compositions were given by Mrs. Smith, soprano; Hans Kronold, 'cellist; and Dr. Smith, piano. The programme was made up of eight numbers, comprising twenty-five of Greig's most characteristic pieces. Each one was prefaced by a short description of the theme striven for in the composition and many personal reminiscences gleaned by Dr. Smith during a visit to the composer at his home in Norway, last autumn.

Mr. Kronold's interpretation of the group of numbers allotted him stamped him as a genius. Every bar was colored as weirdly and fantastically as intended by the composer who delights in fanciful scenes. Mrs. Smith's rendition of some of his most beautiful songs was a treat in itself while the execution of six numbers on the piano by Dr. Smith demonstrated the carefulness and precision with which he has studied the great master.

The programme in detail was as follows:

Piano—Hochzeitstag Auf Troldhaugen, Op. 65, No. 6.
Songs—Im Herbstfelde.
Ein Schwan.
Morning Dew.
Eine Wiese Duft.
'Cello—Melodie. } Lyric Pieces.
Walzer. }
Elegie. }
Norwegisch. }
Piano—Solvejgs Lied. } From Op. 46.
Anitra's Tanz. }
In Da Grotte Des Bergkönigs. }
Songs—Zur Rosenzeit.
Frühlingsgesang.
From Monte Pincio.
Im Kahn.
Cradle Song.
With a Water Lily.
'Cello—Norwegischer Tanz. } From Peer Gynt Suite.
Solvejgs Lied. }
Piano—Elegie. } From Op. 43.
Vaglelat. }
Songs—Der Frühling.
Two Brown Eyes.
Waldwanderung.

Those who served as patronesses were Mrs. J. Kirtland Meyers, Mrs. D. F. Ginna, Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mrs. George A. Strong, Mrs. M. A. Carman, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Stephen Caboone, Mrs. James W. De-Graff, Mrs. Weir-Lewis, Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, Mrs. George S. Ring, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. I. H. Brown, Mrs. Josiah Browne, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. F. G. Mead, Mrs. Samuel Kimball, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Mrs. L. N. Lovell, Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, and the Misses Evans, Niles, Wells, Fitz-Randolph, Munger, Stewart, Whitney, Smith, Maxson, Ellis and VanBoskerck. The next recital will be given May 23.

CASH PRIZES OFFERED.

For Best Essays on the Probation Officer and His Duties.

Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of Hoboken, has offered through the columns of the Review, a paper published by the charities and correction department, prizes for the best essay on the probation officer. There will be a first prize of $25, a second of $15, and the best three essays will be published in the Review. An invitation to compete has been extended to all members of graduating classes of New Jersey preparatory schools. Circulars have been sent out to the schools and other places giving all desirable information.

SUIT AGAINST TROLLEY.

Captain Hand's Van Men Want Damages for Injuries They Received.

Andrew Dominick and Gordon Parsons, employes of Wm. Hand, the truckman, have retained Lawyer R. M. Clark to bring suit against the North Jersey Traction Company, of Newark, for injuries received May 2, when a trolley car ran into a truck which they were in charge of in Newark on the above date. Mr. Clark has commenced to adjust a settlement for the injuries received.

For Soldiers in Philippines.

The committee on soldier and sailor work from the W. C. T. U. is preparing a barrel of literature and comfort bags to be sent to the soldiers in the Philippines.

SPECIAL ENVOY TO SPAIN.

Dr. Curry to Represent President at the Coming of Age of King Alfonso Next May.

Dr. J. L. M. Curry has been appointed special envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to represent the president at the coming of age of the king of Spain. Dr. Curry is a native of Virginia and was formerly minister to Spain.

Dr. Jabez Lamar Monroe Curry was born in Lincoln county, Ga., June 5, 1825. He was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1843, and two years later received a degree from the law school of Harvard university. He was a member of the Alabama legislature in 1847-48, 1853-54 and 1855-56. He also served in congress from 1857 to 1861, and was a member of the confederate congress in 1861.

DR. J. L. M. CURRY. (Special Envoy at Coming of Age of King Alfonso of Spain.)

Dr. Curry was a soldier in the confederate army, holding the office of lieutenant colonel as well as aid on the staff of Gen. Joseph L. Johnston, and Joseph Wheeler. In 1866 he was elected president of Howard college, Alabama. Two years later he went to Richmond college, Virginia, as professor of English philosophy and constitutional and international law. There he remained until 1881.

From 1881 to 1885 Dr. Curry was United States minister to Spain. After his return he held the presidency of the board of foreign missions of the southern Baptist convention and of the board of trustees of the Richmond university. He was also at the head of the Southern Historical association and general agent of the Peabody education fund and the John F. Slater education fund. He is the author of "Constitutional Government in Spain," "William Ewart Gladstone," "The Southern States of the American Union in Their Relation to the Constitution and the Resulting Union," "The Establishment and Disestablishment of the United States," and "History of the Peabody Educational Fund."

MISS ESTELLE REEL.

Reappointed Superintendent of Indian Schools of the Country by President Roosevelt.

The honorable distinction of being the first woman appointed to an office by President Roosevelt belongs to Miss Estelle Reel, of Wyoming, who has been named as superintendent of Indian schools. Miss Reel is now the national superintendent of Indian schools from the Pacific coast and travels constantly over the length and breadth of the land visiting schools and organizing and establishing innovations in the line of manual training on the various reservations. Miss Reel is young and enthusiastic and has force enough for several women, but no more than she needs in her work of inspiring the red men to better living and a greater degree of industry. She traveled 24,-

MISS ESTELLE REEL. (Reappointed Superintendent of Indian Schools.)

000 miles last year—more than half of the distance by stage coach.

"My work is simply the extension of the work already done in the government schools and shops," she said, in speaking of her experiences among the Indians. "It requires the utmost persuasive power and plenty of devising and original thinking to do the work laid out for me. The fact that I have accomplished something in the west is apparent in comparing the life of Indians who live within a night's ride of Chicago with that of some who live in Oregon. The former are in as barbarous a condition as they were when America was discovered. Much of my work is far from being technical education. The girls must be taught the rudiments of home-making and the boys the trades, so that they can take their places in civilized life. When I find a school excelling I carry its work around to show some other school and in that way inspire to good work.

Miss Reel's success is a strong argument in favor of her sex occupying the high places in the ranks of education.

Increase in Population.

Such has been the increase in population in civilized countries that the space occupied by one person a century ago must now contain three.

UNION COUNTY HORSE SHOW

STEWARDS OF UNION COUNTY HOUNDS ARRANGING FOR IT.

Will be Held at Elizabeth Decoration Day—The Classes and Prizes.

The stewards of the Union County Hounds have made arrangements for the annual Decoration Day horse show, which will again be held at Elizabeth. The horses must be owned, ridden and driven by amateurs. A number of Plainfield entries have been promised.

The classes are:

Class 1, 11 a. m.—Single horses in harness. Cup offered by Lewis Hallock, Jr.

Class 2, 11:30 a. m.—Tandems. Cup offered by Mr. Plum and Mr. Lentz.

Class 3, 12 m.—Sporting Tandems. Cup offered by James Smith III.

Intermission.

Class 5, 1:30 p. m.—Polo Ponies. Cup offered by Herbert Ward.

Class 6—Single Horses in Harness. Cup offered by Chauncey Sayre.

Class 7—Hunters and Jumpers (over the regular course). Cup offered by Mr. Dodd and Mr. Stewart.

Class 8, 5 p. m.—Union County Hounds Championship. For horses who have been regularly hunted with the Union County Hounds twice over the bank, Liverpool and four-foot post and rail fence, once over the water. Cup offered by J. H. Davis.

BEACH HAVEN.

Jersey Central Will Make Connections for That Resort.

One of the most delightful places on the New Jersey coast is Beach Haven. It is separated from the main land insuring a continued coolness. The bathing has no equal and the sheltered coves make sailing a delight. The fishing is superb and likewise the shooting. The social characteristics are without comparison and in fact every services needed to make the resort ideal, has place at Beach Haven. The hotels are palatial homes rather than the ordinary houses, and with the exceptional train facilities the New Jersey Central has provided, there is little reason why Beach Haven shouldn't become one of the most popular resorts hereabouts. After May 10, the New Jersey Central's Atlantic City Express which leaves New York at 3:30 p. m., will make connection at Whitings for Beach Haven and the time consumed is but 2.55 minutes. If you are interested write to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York, for Beach Haven books.

NEW BAND MASTER.

Duss and His Band Will Make Their Debut at the Metropolitan Opera House.

At the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, Sunday evening, May 25, a new bandmaster and a band will be introduced to the New York public, the bandmaster's name is Duss. He is said to be a genius. He is from western Pennsylvania and the discovery was made by R. E. Johnston who presents him to the New York public.

Music is a hobby with Mr. Duss, he is a man worth many millions of dollars and his conducting of a band is mere pastime. Mr. Johnston has leased the St. Nicholas at Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue for the entire summer for this organization where it will open on the night after the Metropolitan's appearance.

The St. Nicholas will be turned into a veritable flower garden, several thousands will be spent on its decorations alone. The cold air system will be a great feature as Mr. Johnston guarantees the temperature of the St. Nicholas to be fifteen degrees cooler than the atmosphere outside on any evening it is necessary.

Programmes of great interest to both the music lover and the layman will be rendered by Mr. Duss and his band, and as Mr. Duss has a reputation of being looked upon as most fascinating, magnetic and sensational conductor of the time, a great season is looked forward to by the management.

BELATED ANNOUNCEMENT.

Miss Lillian Haberle and Lewis C. Beckman Wedded in November.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lillian Haberle, of the borough, to Lewis C. Beckman, of West Third street. It took place on November 20, at the home of Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, only several intimate friends being present. The young couple are now living with Mrs. Beckman's mother, Mrs. Frances Haberle, of Chatham street. Mr. Beckman is employed as a moulder at the Pond Tool Works.

Walk About Cemetery.

Alex Kane, the contractor, has just completed the laying of a flag walk about St. Mary's cemetery. Four hundred feet were laid on Beckman street and about the same amount on East Third street. The improvement is greatly appreciated by the residents in the vicinity.

PLANS FOR SCHOOL EXHIBIT THIS MONTH

Will be Largest Collective Exhibit Ever Given by the Plainfield Public Schools.

THE DATES ANNOUNCED.

SOMETHING ABOUT WHAT THE EXHIBIT WILL INCLUDE.

On Account of the Preparations for This Event, No Elaborate Memorial Day Exercises Will be Held—Dates and Hours.

Parents in every part of the city are greatly interested in the arrangements being made by Superintendent H. M. Maxson for an elaborate exhibit of school work. The pupils have entered heartily into the spirit of the project and are preparing a display which promises to surpass that forwarded to the Pan-American Exposition and which attracted so much attention there.

As planned by Mr. Maxson, exhibits will be held in each school on different dates during the latter part of this month. Every pupil will be given an opportunity to take part by contributing a specimen of his work in either drawing, composition or written work completed in class or at home. The exhibit will be neatly arranged by the teachers and will be open for inspection afternoons from 2:30 until 5 o'clock and evenings from 8 until 10 o'clock. Attendants will be constantly in charge to explain the course and systems.

This is the first collective exhibit that has been planned in five years and it will require much painstaking effort on the part of the pupils and teachers to make it successful. To give them as much time as possible in which to do the work, Superintendent Maxson secured permission from the Board of Education to have only simple exercises on Memorial Day. Heretofore it has been the custom to prepare lengthy programmes of songs, recitations and addresses to which the parents were invited. Now it is proposed to have only an address from a member of the G. A. R. Army post and a few songs and not seek for visitors.

As arranged at present the dates on which the exhibits will be held at the various local schools are as follows: Lincoln school, May 15; Washington school, May 21; Bryant school, May 22; Franklin school, May 23; Irving school, May 27; Whittier school, May 29.

A GREAT SCHEDULE.

The Reading's New Plan Has Caused a General Stir—About the Train Service.

The stir the New Jersey Central's recent announcement made in regard to its hourly trains between New York and Philadelphia was far reaching. Very few cities can boast of such a train schedule and the beauty of it is, that it's easily remembered—a train every hour on the even hour from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The locomotives, cars and Pullman cars are the most modern, the roadbed is rock ballasted, and as only hard coal is used there is no smoke or cinders. Every train runs direct to Reading Terminal, Philadelphia, without change and many of them cover the distance in two hours. The Reading Route by which the Philadelphia Line is often known, is not only a short way to Philadelphia, but it is likewise the scenic route. This service goes into effect May 18, but in no way does it impair the fast and elegant service of the Royal Blue Line which will run independently of the Philadelphia Line.

HIT BY HAMMER.

John W. Turner Has Brought Suit for Injuries He Received.

John W. Turner, of Somerset street, has brought suit against Ball & Wood, of Elizabethport, for $1,000 for injuries received at the firm's works on April 11 when he was struck in the head by a hammer in the hands of a helper. The suit has been brought in the Union County Circuit Court by Lawyer R. M. Clark, representing the plaintiff and the summons are returnable May 23.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt he improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. L. W. Randolph.

LOCAL SOCIETY SAW PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Carolyn Vail, of This City, and Dr. C. N. Cutler, of Boston, Mass.

AFTERNOON CEREMONY.

DR. AND MRS. CUTLER WILL TAKE UP THEIR RESIDENCE IN BOSTON.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Charming Gowns of the Bride and Her Attendants—The Ceremony Performed at 4:30.

A fashionable home wedding was that of Thursday afternoon when Miss Carolyn Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street, was united in marriage to Dr. Charles Newton Cutler, of Boston, Mass., in the presence of a large assemblage of people from this city and distant points who are prominent in the social and business world. The palatial home was lavishly decorated for the occasion with the choicest flowers of the season. The parlor, where the joyous event was celebrated, presented an attractive scene in green and white, and in the dining room there was a pretty combination of colors through the use of flowers.

The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock by Rev. Dr. William H. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Prior to the ceremony there was a rendition of several selections by an orchestra of six pieces. As the bridal party wended its way to the parlor the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played. The bride was accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage.

The bride was richly gowned in white moire Louisine silk, trimmed with old lace. She wore a veil of tulle fastened in the coiffure with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Charlotte Dwight, of Cincinnati, and Miss Grace L. Day, of White Plains. They were handsomely gowned in pink crepe de chine and lace over pink taffeta. They also wore hats of a pink shade and carried pink roses. The maid-of-honor was Miss Mazie L. Day, of this city, who wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine and lace over pink taffeta. Her hat was of white and pink roses and she also carried pink roses.

The best man was H. Harley Kennedy, of Albany, N. Y., while the ushers were C. Howard Hapgood, of Chicago; Dr. George Hall, Lawrence Fletcher and Dr. W. L. D. Rust, of Boston, Mass.

Following the ceremony from 5 to 7 o'clock a reception was given to Dr. and Mrs. Cutler, when the best wishes of all the guests were showered upon them and a delightful wedding feast was served. During the early part of the evening the bride and groom left Plainfield for an extended wedding journey. Upon their return they will reside in Boston, where the groom has a large practice.

There was a wealth of wedding tokens received by the bride from relatives and friends from near and distant points, including many articles of gold and silverware, cut glass, bric-a-brac.

ELIZABETH'S CAMPAIGN.

Health Board Will Battle Against the Mosquito Pest.

The Elizabeth Board of Health has appointed a committee to co-operate with the citizens in the work of exterminating the mosquitoes.

A week ago when Prof. Robinson and State Entomologist Smith visited the dumping grounds few mosquito larvae were to be seen. Today the water in the stagnant ponds and pools literally swarms with them. If some steps are not taken to mitigate the nuisance the city will be swarmed with mosquitoes by the million. Kerosene oil will be used to sprinkle the ponds and pools and all places that serve as a breeding ground for the wigglers.

RUTGERS CATALOGUE.

The New Spring Catalogue Has Just Been Issued.

The new catalogue of Rutgers College has been issued this spring, and it shows an increase of 11 per cent. in the number of students over last year. The senior examinations are to begin May 19 and the Seminary commencement is appointed for May 22.

The catalogue announces for the first time that provision has been made for a Latin scientific course, for the completion of which the degree of bachelor of letters will be conferred. There are now 234 students in the college, forty-eight of whom are in the senior class.

Charles VanMiddlesworth, who has been detained at his home in Chatham street, by illness, is much improved.

I. C. T. CLUB'S FIRST STAG

MEMBERS AND GUESTS WERE VERY PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED.

Two Professional Artists Were Assisted by Local Talent—Committee in Charge.

Thirty-five members and twenty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the I. C. T. Club at a stag entertainment given in its rooms, Thursday. It was one of the most successful affairs of the many this enterprising organization has given during the past winter.

A social committee, consisting of George L. Apgar, Bert Bilyeu, Clare Bickel, Charles Suhr and Hiram Humes, was in charge during the evening and saw to it that everyone felt at home. Under the direction of V. W. Nash, Jr., a lengthy and most enjoyable programme was rendered.

The features were the contributions of Charles Frain and J. W. Casey, two professional entertainers of New York city. Mr. Casey is a song writer of national reputation and sang some of his most successful compositions, "Sing Me a Song of the Sunny South."

It was followed by several others equally as popular. Mr. Frain gave a number of solos and evoked storms of applause and laughter by his humorous impersonations and monologues.

Other numbers on the programme were boxing contests by Charles Heardle and Charles Overbaugh, Leonce Texier and Bert Bilyeu, Joseph Robinson and Vernon Waters, a fencing contest between Hiram Humes and Vernon Waters, piano selections by Charles Frain, Charles Suhr and Clare Bicknel, vocal selections and specialties by Archibald Hacquer and Thomas Muir and Teutonic and Celtic impersonations by M. Dexheimer Sweeney. Refreshments and cigars served shortly before midnight brought the affair to a close.

LITERARY.

From its charming cover by Albert Herter to its last page the May issue of The Ladies' Home Journal excels in all ways. The most important new feature is the beginning of Ernest Thompson Seton's department for boys, which is written and illustrated by the famous naturalist-author-artist. Lindsay Denison, who knows President Roosevelt in a personal way, writes of "The Outdoor President," and Helen Keller continues the marvelous story of her life. The fiction features are Miss Porter's "Those Days in Old Virginia," and the first part of a delightful story by Grace S. Richmond called "The Indifference of Juliet." Nellie Blanchan tells "How the Birds Build Their Nests," and Will Bradley shows the boudoir of "The Bradley House." Mr. Bok's editorial is a fine bit of sarcasm aimed at the "New Yorkers," and Mr Mabie in his literary talk deals with the reading habit and several new books and writers of note. There's no end of good and helpful advice and interesting facts in the various departments, and the illustrations are conspicuously attractive. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents a copy; one dollar a year.

There are several notable pictoral features of peculiarly timely interest and also others of an artistic flavor in the magazine number of The Outlook for May. In the first class may be named that describing District Attorney Jerome's official home on the east side of New York, and that on the King of Spain, who this month becomes King in act as well as in name, by General Stewart L. Woodford, formerly United States Minister to Spain. Art and music are respectively represented by an article on the great Spanish painter Sorolla, written by one of his pupils and illustrated by reproductions of paintings and original sketches, and by a thoughtful critical and personal article on the work of Grieg by Daniel Gregory Mason. Western interest and commercial interests are brought to the front in Ray Stannard Baker's "The Commerce of the Great Lakes," which is as well informed as it is readable and is made picturesque by a dozen or more illustrations relating to the shipping and commerce of the Lakes. Articles relating to the spring season are, John Burroughs' little out-of-door essay and poem called "A Spray of Arbutus," and J. H. McFarland's "A Story of Some Maples," which is illustrated with many exceedingly beautiful photographs of trees and their flowers, taken by the author.

I. C. T. Is Growing.

At a special business meeting of the I. C. T. Club held Thursday evening, three applicants were elected to membership and four prepositions were received. The club is steadily growing and now numbers forty.

No More Seeds.

The supply of garden seeds furnished by the Government is exhausted and Senator Dryden announces that he will be unable to supply his friends with any more seeds for the present season.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning May 18 Announced by Rev. S. M. Doyle.

Topic.—Practical consecration. — Rom. xii. 1-21.

Paul was a theologian. He believed in the great fundamental doctrines of evangelical Christianity, and these doctrines have never had a more lucid expositor or a more courageous defender, yet at the same time Paul believed in applied Christianity. He made faith the foundation of works and theory the foundation of practice. This is strikingly illustrated in the epistle to the Romans. The first eleven chapters of the epistle logically and elaborately develop the doctrine that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to all who believe. Then on the basis of this great truth he appeals to all to consecrate themselves to God, to separate themselves from the world and to faithfully discharge the duties they owe to each other. The consecration demanded in the list of the previously presented and argued truths is certainly a practical consecration. "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

Practical consecration as set forth here involves a number of characteristics which it is well for us to remember.

1. Consecration should be grateful. "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God." Gratitude to God for His mercies to us in Christ should lead us to consecrate ourselves to God and should be a constant element in the performance of our vows of consecration.

2. Consecration should be voluntary. "Present your bodies," says the apostle. This expression suggests voluntariness. It has about it the atmosphere of the voluntary enlistment of the soldier in the service of his country. Voluntariness is a characteristic of true consecration to God. God delights in and desires the service and worship of volunteers, but has no place for the service of hirelings.

3. Consecration should be definite. Presentation is a definite act. The soldier presents himself once, and if accepted he is then enlisted. It is unnecessary for him to keep presenting himself daily. He has given himself once, and he cannot take himself back and do it over again. Consecration to God is a definite act. When rightly done, it is done once for all.

4. Consecration should be active. "Present your bodies a living sacrifice." "Your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." When we remember what God's relation to us is, what God in Christ has done for us and what is involved in our own service of Him, it is most reasonable that we should consecrate ourselves to God.

5. Consecration should be sincere. Having consecrated ourselves to God we should not be conformed to this world, but be transformed. Instead of fashioning our lives by the patterns of the world, we should be fashioned after divine ideals by the gracious influence of the Holy Ghost on our inner lives.

7. Consecration should be humanly directed. We should serve God by faithfully performing the mutual duties that devolve upon us as the people of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Eccl. ix. 10; Matt. v. 16; xxv. 31-46; John ii. 1-11; xxi. 1-6; Acts xiii. 1-3; 1 Cor. x. 31; xv. 58; Gal. vi. 1-9; Col. iii. 17.

A Harmonious Union.

Life in its perfect expression is the harmonious union of the physical, mental and spiritual, and man attains his highest attribute when he recognizes himself as an equal trinity of these three parts—master of all below, subject only to God, the all good, "in whom he lives and moves and has his being."

No wrong can result when this knowledge is thoroughly understood and established, for the human has united with the divine, its source. As the magnet to the knight steel, it forces, it way through every obstacle to the sea of the infinite. "The mortal has donned immortality," "the natural has become the supernatural," the Adam has been subjugated by the Christ and henceforth man becomes a divine conception, "thinketh no evil," because it can do none.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Salvation.

Salvation is not secured by obedience to a rite, by the observance of a code of rules or even by obedience to a creed pronounced orthodox. A man may be praised in all these and yet be under the wrath of God, and his character be scarred by passion and self-indulgence. The only condition of salvation is faith which believes in Him that justifies the ungodly and receives into the heart the very nature of Jesus to become the power of the new life. "He that hath the Son hath life."—F. B. Meyer.

Let Us Always Remember.

Let us always remember that God can modify our severe situations in life, that He can favorably move those who vex, perplex and try us and that He can raise up helpers for our benefit. Prayer offered up in Christ's name by His faithful, loving and trustful servants brings timely and adequate returns.—Presbyterian.

What Is Really Good.

May the Lord give me such an insight into what is really good that I may not rest contented with making Christianity a mere addendum to my pursuits or with tacking it as a fringe to my garments.—George Eliot.

PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

GRAND ARMY VETERANS ARE ARRANGING DETAILS FOR CELEBRATION.

Visits to Cemeteries in Morning and Exercises at Reform Hall in Afternoon.

The members and committees of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., are gradually arranging details for the observance of Memorial Day. Reform Hall has been engaged for the exercises to be held in the afternoon of that day. In the morning the various cemeteries will be visited by details from the Post.

The day before Memorial Day, Thursday, May 29, the public schools of the city and borough will be visited by details of veterans who will make short addresses.

The question of music has not yet been settled. It is likely that the Independent Fife and Drum Corps will be engaged for a portion of the day. The speaker for the afternoon exercises will be settled upon this week. All patriotic organizations will be invited to participate in the observance of the day, although the parade will be a very short one. At Reform Hall a number of children will sing patriotic songs, and there will be the usual service by the veterans.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

Summer Camp on Shores of Lake Wawayanda is Being Arranged.

The Y. M. C. A. boys are to have this season as usual the advantages of a summer camp. The shore of Lake Wawayanda is the chosen site, ideally situated in the midst of a healthy mountain district, and offering special opportunities to the lovers of out-door life.

The fundamental idea of the camp will be the cultivation of manly, Christian character. A day's programme will include a morning and afternoon period, morning Bible study and evening devotions. In the line of diversion there will be fishing, boating, and field sports a-plenty. Each group of boys will have an assistant leader, responsible for those under his care. Some rules have been formulated for the government of each group, but there is latitude enough for the most fastidious.

The camp will be well supplied with boats, bats, balls, quoits and everything required for the conduction of sports. The reading tent will also be an appreciated feature, provided, as is intended, with interesting books and periodicals, and containing accommodations for writing letters. Particulars may be obtained from J. H. Manning, at Y. M. C. A. building.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a meeting of the Plainfield Gesang und Turn Verein, the following resolutions of condolence were unanimously adopted on the death of John Gauh.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His all-wise providence to remove by death one of our beloved members, brother and friend, John Gauh, one who always took a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of our society, be it

Resolved, That we hereby tender to his bereaved widow and stricken family the assurance of our warmest regard and tender sympathy in their bereavement, under a blow so sudden that our faith in the divine love can say. "Thy will be done."

Resolved, That this preamble and resolutions be placed in full upon the minutes of our association, and that a copy be forwarded to the family and to the city papers for publication.

Herman Ilsen,
Christian Keller,
George Bremmer.

RECEPTION TO NEW OFFICER.

New Deputy Grand Master Tier Was Well-Treated by Central Lodge.

Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., gave a reception last Thursday in honor of Deputy Grand Master W. J. Tier, of Rahway, who has been but recently appointed to that office. A short but very enjoyable entertainment was provided, after which refreshments were served and cigars passed around.

At the meeting also a new master workman, William H. Lander, was elected to fill the place lately made vacant by the resignation of C. E. Hepburn. This caused all the other officers to be advanced a step and they were duly installed by Deputy Grand Master Tier.

Drawing for a Lamp.

Protective Conclave, 905 Improved Order Heptasophs, has purchased from Woodbull & Martin, a handsome parlor lamp to be valued at $5, which the Conclave will have a drawing for. The lamp is on exhibition at the store of the above firm.

Ornament and Protection.

An attractive addition to the city collector's office in the Smalley building are the brass guard bars that have been placed in front of his glass window. It is an ornament as well as a protection.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 18, "Practical Consecration." Text, Rom. xii, 1-21.

"That ye may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God."

Practical consecration must be based on real confidence, and that confidence must be in God as knowing what is good for us and as willing and working the good for us. Such trust does not come by chance, but by continued thinking, a sort of reasoning with oneself. There is a great deal of actual distrust of God among those who profess to love and serve Him. There is hesitation to take up a specified work or do a certain duty. Sometimes this shrinking arises from timidity, self distrust, but often it is from disguised indolence and a preference for ease. The suggested course seems disagreeable, and this weighs more than the fact of duty. What is needed then is to resolutely face the thing and find out if it ought to be done. No need of disguising or sugar coating the disagreeable part. Let that be clearly viewed and estimated at its full value. Then balance all the matters and let the value of right, duty, truth, have full weight.

Is there some cowardice in the matter? Is there preference of self before the approval of God?

Let the full force of God's love bear upon the heart. He knows what is good for us. He does guide safely. It is safe only to follow His guidance. We ought to commit all our ways to Him. As we hold our hearts close to His word and feel the power of the Holy Spirit He applies it clearly to our needs we find the will to follow as He leads.

How full of practical suggestions is this Scripture lesson. It has meaning for every one.

First, we need to learn that we are not all alike. Each differs from others, but all are needed to make the perfect body and perform the needed work. That fact realized will keep us from either pride or discouragement as we discover that we are unlike others and cannot do as they do. It will keep us from faultfinding and undue independence and aloofness from those with whom we should have companionship. We all are one body, so we all should work together or we will never get anywhere. And I must do my work well or I shall hinder all the rest. Do it not for their praise, but for the sake of Jesus, whether any one else appreciates it or not. Do it right. It should be simply, transparently and not in make believe fashion. That never means that I am to love a wrong thing or be friendly toward a bad thing. Love means a deep detestation of all falsity and evil and a whole souled sticking to the true and good. It is wholesome and clean and has no fellowship with tricks and subterfuges.

Practical consecration will take a back seat for one's self to let another take the better place. It will push another into honor rather than crowd him out to put self in. It is hopeful when things look black. It hangs on even when it hurts to hang on and helps others to keep on. It feels kindly to others. It honestly feels genuine kindness when they act meanly and try to injure. It shares joy and sorrow and feels with others and is not afraid or ashamed of such feelings. It makes manners and is withalmood genuinely noble and beautiful.

Tuned to Finer Issues.

Our spirits may always be tuned to finer issues. There is a kindly influence always around us that always awaits the receptive soul. It has been felt in all ages by the rarest spirits. The poets have felt it; artists have felt it; the good have always felt it and tuned it with sweet accord. The heroic have been turned toward it. It has been known and recognized and has been unknown and unrecognized. It has always been breaking in upon the best order of souls and noble lives of men with a sweet poise and rare sensibility. It has been an inspiration and help to countless souls as they have struggled with the vicissitudes and have felt the burden of this unintelligible world. What shall we call it? What more significant name than that of the Divine Spirit moving on the hearts of men to bring them into ultimate harmony with God, and thus to realize the great ends of a final and universal redemption?—Universalist Leader.

Prayer.

We ask for peace, O God!
Thy children ask Thy peace;
Not what the world calls rest,
That to the strong is ease.
That through bright sunny hours
Calm life should flee away
And tranquil night should fade
In shining day.
It is not for such peace that we would pray.

We ask for peace, O God!
Thou knowest care and fear and strife,
To light and guide us on
Through a long, struggling life,
While we encounter or gain
Shall cheer the desperate fight.
Or nerve what the world calls
Our useful might.
Yet pressing through the darkness to the light.

It is Thine own, O God,
When toil while others sleep;
Who sow, with lying care,
What other hands shall reap;
They know Thee, entrenched
In calm and perfect rest;
Give us that peace, O Lord,
Divine and blest.
Then inspect for those hearts that love Thee best.

—"The Changed Cross."

MANY HONORED FRANK HAND

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICE WAS HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich Was in Charge—Lodges Conducted Services at the Grave.

One of the largest funerals that has been held in this city in some time was that of Frank Hand, which took place at his late home on East Second street, Thursday afternoon. Not only was there an unusually large gathering of relatives and friends but delegates were present from Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., to all of which he belonged.

The obsequies were in charge of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, who delivered an impressive and earnest eulogy over the remains of the one whom all knew and loved. At the close he offered a heartfelt prayer which was echoed by all in attendance.

Following the service at the house, the remains were taken to the North Plainfield cemetery where further services were conducted by the lodges. The casket was lowered to its last resting place by four of the deceased's faithful employes, Andrew and William Parsons, James Hill and Ben Perkins.

During the march of the funeral cortege to the cemetery, a guard of honor was formed about the hearse by seventeen colored workmen who have been in the employ of Hand & Son for periods from ten to twenty-five years. It was a mark of respect which showed the regard held for the young man by all his workmen.

Floral tributes were extended by friends to such an extent that the casket was almost buried from sight. There were large set pieces, some of which were from the different organizations and many others from individuals.

Pennsylvania Railroad Reduced Rate to St. Paul or Minneapolis, Account National Baptist Anniversaries.

On account of the National Baptist anniversaries, at St. Paul, Minn., May 20 to 28, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all stations on its lines to St. Paul or Minneapolis, May 17 to 19, good to return not earlier than May 21, and not later than May 29, at greatly reduced rates. These tickets will be good for return passage only when executed by joint agent at St. Paul or Minneapolis and payment of twenty-five cents made for this service. By depositing ticket with Joint Agent not earlier than May 21 nor later than May 29, and payment of fifty cents at time of deposit, an extension of return limit may be obtained to leave St. Paul or Minneapolis not later than June 30.

Another Opportunity to Visit California.

First-class round trip tickets to California, $67, via the Jersey Central; tickets on sale May 26 to June 7, inclusive. Good returning within two months; stop-over privilege granted either going or coming. Choice of routes allowed. Another trip to Portland, Ore., good going on same days $72.36. For information apply to Ira E. Whyte, district passenger agent, Asbury Park, N. J., or C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York City.

HAS DONE WELL.

Annual Financial Report of Woman's Guild of Holy Cross Church.

Mrs. Samuel Townsend, as treasurer of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross, has just issued her annual statement. It shows a most gratifying condition of affairs in the society. The receipts for the year amounted to $709.98 and the expenditures $640.75, leaving a balance on hand of $69.23. The greatest amount received was $230.90 for the church and Sunday-school. The other amounts range from $1 to the church periodical committee to the large sum given the church and Sunday-school.

Vacation Pointers.

The Jersey Central Railroad has placed on sale at many of its stations Summer Excursion tickets good going May 1 to September 30, inclusive, and good for return until October 31. These excursion tickets cover points east and north including Montreal, and as far west as the Pacific coast. If you are interested send to the general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, New York City, for "Summer Excursions."

New Medical Director.

Dr. S. Wasson Jones, of Newark, has just been appointed supreme medical director for the Improved Order Heptasophs, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. J. H. Christian, of Baltimore, Md. This appointment gives New Jersey two of the best offices in the order, namely the supreme secretary and medical director. Protective Conclave, No. 905, of this city, is arranging to give Dr. Jones a reception in the near future.

PRISONER BROKE JAIL TO AVOID VACCINATION

When He Asked for a Night's Lodging at the Lockup He Didn't Fully Understand.

WAS CAPTURED AGAIN.

HELD UNTIL THIS MORNING WHEN HE WAS VACCINATED DESPITE PROTESTS.

James Langer, itinerant Sissors' Grinder, Was Given Lodging at City Jail—He Was Told of Vaccination, Then He Escaped.

While acting Night Sergeant McCarthy was making out reports in one part of police headquarters, Thursday a prisoner broke jail in another and made his escape. His freedom was short lived, however, as he returned to his cell within an hour, but not before several patrolmen had stirred themselves into more activity than they have displayed in many a night.

The prisoner, who was practically not a prisoner, was James Langer, an itinerant scissors grinder hailing from Grand Rapids, Mich. He is sixty years old and applied in the evening for a night's lodging. Since a small-pox suspect was confined in one of the cells several months ago, all applicants for a free board who are accommodated are considered prisoners until morning when they can be vaccinated by a physician. Langer was not informed of this fact until after he had been comfortably stretched out on the soft side of a cell bench and then he went into hysterics. He declared he had studied the vaccination question from all sides and in his opinion it was all "bunnyrot." He demanded to be let go but a deaf ear was turned to all entreaties.

He finally subsided and it was thought he had decided to make the best of the situation but not so. He carefully mapped out a plan of procedure and shortly after midnight settled down to work. The lock on his cell had not been fastened securely and by a little manipulating, he got it off the hasp without attracting any attention. He then tip-toed to the rear hall and thence to the back door, which is ordinarily fastened securely itself, but this night was open. Although feeble and anything but agile, the old man passed out into the yard and climbed two high board fences and reached Second street. He then lay down to rest in a front yard.

Soon after he had departed Sergeant McCarthy had occasion to pass the cells and saw that Langer was missing. He searched about the station and yard without meeting any success and then summoned Patrolmen Saffron and McGinley from their posts. They clambered over fences and roamed through backyards in the block bounded by Watchung and Park avenues and East Front and East Second streets, without finding any sign of the scissor grinder.

They were about to give up the search when as McGinley passed down Second street, Langer clambered over a fence almost in his arms. He was finally grasped and, on recognizing his captor, set up a howl that could be heard for blocks. He protested in all manner of ways but to no purpose and the unwilling prisoner was took him back to the cell he had left.

He was watched closely for the remainder of the night and this morning submitted with great reluctance to having his arm scraped. He left the station vowing he would forever-more give Plainfield a wide berth.

CHURCH OPENED.

Presbyterian Church at Liberty Corner Opened After Repairs.

The Presbyterian church at Liberty Corner, which for some time past has been undergoing extensive repairs, was opened for services Thursday. Addresses were made by Rev. Peter Gibb, of Millington; Rev. J. T. Reeve, of Basking Ridge; Rev. Samuel Parry, of Pluckemin; Rev. Lester M. Conrow, of Lamington, and Conover English, of Elizabeth, a grandson of the first pastor. There was special music by a large choir and the new organ was used for the first time.

NEW ROAD.

Soon to be Laid Out From Lincoln to East Round Brook.

Counsellor H. C. Snyder, of this city, has made application to the Middlesex county authorities for a new road in Piscataway township leading from Lincoln to East Round Brook. There is at present a road and bridge over this district, constructed by private enterprise but Mr. Snyder asked that the road be given legal status by being laid out by surveyors of the highway. The request has been granted and six surveyors appointed to meet at Fisher's Hotel, Lincoln, May 26, and lay out the road.

LOCAL SOCIETY SAW PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Carolyn Vail, of This City, and Dr. C. N. Cutler, of Boston, Mass.

AFTERNOON CEREMONY.

DR. AND MRS. CUTLER WILL TAKE UP THEIR RESIDENCE IN BOSTON.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Charming Gowns of the Bride and Her Attendants—The Ceremony Performed at 4:30.

A fashionable home wedding was that of Thursday afternoon when Miss Carolyn Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street, was united in marriage to Dr. Charles Newton Cutler, of Boston, Mass., in the presence of a large assemblage of people from this city and distant points who were prominent in the social and business world. The palatial home was lavishly decorated for the occasion with the choicest flowers of the season. The parlor, where the joyous event was celebrated, presented an attractive scene in green and white, and in the dining room there was a pretty combination of colors through the use of flowers.

The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Prior to the ceremony there was a rendition of several selections by an orchestra of six pieces. As the bridal party wended its way to the parlor the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played. The bride was accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage.

The bride was richly gowned in white moire Louisine silk, trimmed with old lace. She wore a veil of tulle fastened in the coiffure with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Charlotte Dwight, of Cincinnati, and Miss Grace L. Day, of White Plains. They were handsomely gowned in pink crepe de chine and lace over pink taffeta. They also wore hats of a pink shade and carried pink roses. The maid-of-honor was Miss Mattie L. Day, of this city, who wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine and lace over pink taffeta. Her hat was of white and pink roses and she also carried pink roses.

The best man was H. Harley Kennedy, of Albany, N. Y., while the ushers were C. Howard Hatgood, of Chicago; Dr. George Hall, Lawrence Fletcher and Dr. W. L. D. Rust, of Boston, Mass.

Following the ceremony from 5 to 7 o'clock a reception was given to Dr. and Mrs. Cutler, when the best wishes of all the guests were showered upon them and a delightful wedding feast was served. During the early part of the evening the bride and groom left Plainfield for an extended wedding journey. Upon their return they will reside in Boston, where the groom has a large practice.

There was a wealth of wedding tokens received by the bride from relatives and friends from near and distant points, including many articles of gold and silverware, cut glass, bric-a-brac.

ELIZABETH'S CAMPAIGN.

Health Board Will Unite Against the Mosquito Pest.

The Elizabeth Board of Health has appointed a committee to co-operate with the citizens in the work of exterminating the mosquitoes.

A week ago when Prof. Robinson and State Entomologist Smith visited the dumping grounds few mosquito larvae were to be seen. Today the water in the stagnant ponds and pools literally swarms with them. If some steps are not taken to mitigate the nuisance the city will be swarmed with mosquitoes by the million. Kerosene oil will be used to sprinkle the ponds and pools and all places that serve as a breeding ground for the wigglers.

RUTGERS CATALOGUE.

The New Spring Catalogue Has Just Been Issued.

The new catalogue of Rutgers College has been issued this spring, and it shows an increase of 11 per cent. in the number of students over last year. The senior examinations are to begin May 19 and the Seminary commencement is appointed for May 22.

The catalogue announces for the first time that provision has been made for a Latin scientific course, for the completion of which the degree of bachelor of letters will be conferred. There are now 224 students in the college, forty-eight of whom are in the senior class.

Charles VanMiddlesworth, who has been detained at his home in Chatham street, by illness, is much improved.

I. C. T. CLUB'S FIRST STAG

MEMBERS AND GUESTS WERE VERY PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED.

Two Professional Artists Were Assisted by Local Talent—Committee in Charge.

Thirty-five members and twenty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the I. C. T. Club at a stag entertainment given in its rooms, Thursday. It was one of the most successful affairs of the many this enterprising organization has given during the past winter.

A social committee, consisting of George L. Apgar, Bert Bilyeu, Clare Bickel, Charles Suhr and Hiram Humes, was in charge during the evening and saw to it that everyone feels at home. Under the direction of V. W. Nash, Jr., a lengthy and most enjoyable programme was rendered.

The features were the contributions of Charles Frain and J. W. Casey, two professional entertainers of New York city. Mr. Casey is a song writer of national reputation and sang some of his most successful compositions, "Sing Me a Song of the Sunny South."

It was followed by several others equally as popular. Mr. Frain gave a number of solos and evoked storms of applause and laughter by his humorous impersonations and monologues.

Other numbers on the programme were boxing contests by Charles Heardle and Charles Overbaugh, Leonce Terzier and Bert Bilyeu, Joseph Robinson and Vernon Waters, a fencing contest between Hiram Humes and Vernon Waters, piano selections by Charles Frain, Charles Suhr and Clare Bickael, vocal selections and specialties by Archibald Hacquer and Thomas Muir and Teutonic and Celtic impersonations by M. Dexheimer Sweeney. Refreshments and cigars served shortly before midnight brought the affair to a close.

LITERARY.

From its charming cover by Albert Herter to its last page the May issue of The Ladies' Home Journal excels in all ways. The most important new feature is the beginning of Ernest Thompson Seton's department for boys, which is written and illustrated by the famous naturalist-author-artist. Lindsay Denison, who knows President Roosevelt in a personal way, writes of "The Outdoor President," and Helen Keller continues the marvelous story of her life. The fiction features are Mary Porter's "Stolen Days" in Old Virginia," and the first part of a delightful story by Grace S. Richmond called "The Indifference of Juliet." Nellie Blanchan tells "How the Birds Build Their Nests," and Will Bradley shows the boudoir of "The Bradley House." Mr. Bok's editorial is a fine bit of sarcasm aimed at the wise New Yorkers, and Mr Mabie in his literary talk deals with the reading habit and several new books and writers of note. There's no end of good and helpful advice and interesting facts in the various department, and the illustrations are conspicuously attractive. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents a copy; one dollar a year.

There are several notable pictoral features of peculiarly timely interest and also others of an artistic flavor in the magazine number of The Outlook for May 16. The first class may be named that describing District Attorney Jerome's official home on the east side of New York, and that on the King of Spain, who this month becomes King in act as well as in name, by General Stewart L. Woodford, formerly United States Minister to Spain. Art and music are respectively represented by an article on the great Spanish painter Sorolla, written by one of his pupils and illustrated by reproductions of paintings and original sketches, and by a thoughtful critical and personal article on the work of Grieg by Daniel Gregory Mason. Western interest and commercial interests are brought to the front in Ray Stannard Baker's "The Commerce of the Great Lakes," which is as well informed as it is readable and is made picturesque by a dozen or more illustrations relating to the shipping and commerce of the Lakes. Articles relating to the spring season are, John Burroughs' little out-of-door essay and poem called "A Spray of Arbutus," and J. H. McFarland's "A Story of Some Maples," which is illustrated with many exceedingly beautiful photographs of trees and their flowers, taken by the author.

I. C. T. Is Growing.

At a special business meeting of the I. C. T. Club held Thursday evening, three applicants were elected to membership and four propositions were received. The club is steadily growing and now numbers forty.

No More Seeds.

The supply of garden seeds furnished by the Government is exhausted and Senator Dryden announces that he will be unable to supply his friends with any more seeds for the present season.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning May 15. Comment by Rev. S. R. Doyle.

Topic.—Practical consecration.—Rom. xii. 1-8.

Paul was a theologian. He believed in the great fundamental doctrines of evangelical Christianity, and these doctrines have never had a more lucid exposition or a more courageous defender, yet at the same time Paul believed in applied Christianity. He made faith the foundation of works and theory the foundation of practice. This is strikingly illustrated in the epistle to the Romans. The first eleven chapters of the epistle logically find elaborately develop the doctrine that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to all who believe. Then on the basis of this great truth he appeals to all to consecrate themselves to God, to separate themselves from the world and to faithfully discharge the duties they owe to each other. The consecration demanded in lieu of the previously presented and argued truths is certainly a practical consecration. "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

Practical consecration as set forth elsewhere will be a result of characteristics which it is well for us to remember.

1. Consecration should be grateful. "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God." Gratitude to God for His inestimable gifts should lead us to consecrate ourselves to God and should be a constant element in the performance of our vows of consecration.

2. Consecration should be voluntary. "Present your bodies." says the apostle. This expression suggests voluntariness. It has about it the atmosphere of the voluntary enlistment of the soldier in the service of his country. Voluntariness is a characteristic of true consecration to God. Christ should lead us to consecrate ourselves to God and should be a constant element in the performance of our vows of consecration.

2. Consecration should be voluntary. "Present your bodies," says the apostle. This expression suggests voluntariness. It has about it the atmosphere of the voluntary enlistment of the soldier in the service of his country. Voluntariness is a characteristic of true consecration to God. Christ should lead us to consecrate ourselves to God and should be a constant element in the performance of our vows of consecration.

3. Consecration should be definite. Presentation is a definite act. The soldier presents himself once, and if accepted he is then enlisted. It is unnecessary for him to keep presenting himself daily. He has given himself once, and he cannot take himself back and do it over again. Consecration to God is a definite act. When rightly done, it is done once for all.

4. Consecration should be active "Present your bodies a living sacrifice." A living sacrifice suggests an active service for God. We are saved to serve. We enlist for service, and we should be alive and active as good soldiers of our great King.

5. Consecration is reasonable. "Which is your reasonable service." When we consecrate ourselves to God we do what God in Christ has done for us and what is involved in our own service of Him. It is most reasonable that we should consecrate our lives to Him.

6. Consecration should be sincere. Having consecrated ourselves to God we should not be conformed to this world, but be transformed. Instead of fashioning our lives by the patterns of the world, they should be fashioned after divine ideals by the gracious influence of the Holy Ghost on our inner lives.

7. Consecration should be humanly directed. We should serve God by faithfully performing the mutual duties that devolve upon us as the people of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Eccl. ix. 10; Matt. v. 16; xxv. 31-36; John ii. 1-11; xxi. 1-6; Acts xiii. 1-3; 1 Cor. x. 31; xv. 58; Gal. vi. 1-9; Col. iii. 17.

A Harmonious Union.

Life in its perfect expression is the harmonious union of the physical, mental and spiritual, and man attains his highest attribute when he combines himself as an equal trinity of these three parts—master of all below, subject only to God, the all good, "in whom he lives and moves and has his being."

No wrong can result when this knowledge is thoroughly understood and established, for the human has united with the divine, its source, its strength, and, like a mighty stream, it forces, it way through every obstacle to the sea of the infinite. "The mortal has doomed immortality," "the natural has become the supernatural," the Adam has been subjugated by the Christ, and henceforth love becomes a divine conception, "thinketh no evil," because it can do none.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Salvation.

Salvation is not secured by obedience to a rite, by the observance of a code of rules or even by obedience to a creed prescribed by authority. A man may be praised in all these and yet be under the wrath of God, and his character be scarred by passion and self indulgence. The only condition of salvation is faith which believes in Him that justifies the ungodly and receives into the heart the very nature of Jesus to become the power of the new life. "He that hath the Son hath life."—F. B. Meyer.

Let Us Always Remember.

Let us always remember that God can modify our severe situations in life, that He can favorably move those who vex, perplex and try us and that He can raise up helpers for our benefit. Prayer ought to go up in Christ's name by His faithful, loving and trustful servants brings timely and adequate returns.—Presbyterian.

What Is Really Good.

May the Lord give me such an insight into what is really good that I may not rest contented with making Christianity a mere addendum to my pursuits or with tacking it as a fringe to my garments.—George Eliot.

PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

GRAND ARMY VETERANS ARE ARRANGING DETAILS FOR CELEBRATION.

Visits to Cemeteries in Morning and Exercises at Reform Hall in Afternoon.

The members and committees of Winfield Scott Post, No. 75, G. A. R., are gradually arranging details for the observance of Memorial Day. Reform Hall has been engaged for the exercises to be held in the afternoon of that day, and in the morning the various cemeteries will be visited by details from the Post.

The day before Memorial Day, Thursday, May 29, the public schools of the city and borough will be visited by details of veterans who will make short addresses.

The question of music has not yet been settled. It is likely that the Independent Fife and Drum Corps will be engaged for a portion of the day. The speaker for the afternoon exercises will be settled upon this week. All patriotic organizations will be invited to participate in the observance of the day, although the parade will be a very short one. At Reform Hall a number of children will sing patriotic songs, and there will be the usual service by the veterans.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

Summer Camp on Shores of Lake Wawayanda is Being Arranged.

The Y. M. C. A. boys are to have this season a camp. The shore of Lake Wawayanda is the chosen site, ideally situated in the midst of a healthy mountain district, and offering special opportunities to the lovers of out-door life.

The fundamental idea of the camp will be the cultivation of manly, Christian character. A day's programme will include a morning and afternoon swim, morning Bible study and evening devotions. In the line of diversion there will be fishing, boating, and field sports aplenty. Each group of boys will have an assistant leader, responsible for those under his care. Some rules have been formulated for the government of each group, but there is latitude enough for the most fastidious.

The camp will be well supplied with boats, bats, balls, quoits and everything required for the conducting of sports. The reading tent will also be an appreciated feature, provided, as is intended, with interesting books and periodicals, and containing accommodations for writing letters. Particulars may be obtained from J. H. Manning, at Y. M. C. A. building.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a meeting of the Plainfield Gesang und Turn Verein, the following resolutions of condolence were unanimously adopted on the death of John Gauh.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His all-wise providence to remove by death one of our beloved members, brother and friend, John Gauh, one who always took a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of our association; be it

Resolved, That we hereby tender to his bereaved widow and stricken family the assurance of our warmest regard and tender sympathy in their bereavement, under a blow so sudden that our faith in the divine love can say, "Thy will be done."

Resolved, That this preamble and resolutions be placed in full upon the minutes of our association, and that a copy be forwarded to the family and to the city papers for publication.

Herman Klinsman,
Christian Keller,
George Brenner.

RECEPTION TO NEW OFFICER.

New Deputy Grand Master Tier Was Well-Treated by Central Lodge.

Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., gave a reception last Thursday in honor of Deputy Grand Master W. I. Tier, of Rahway, who has been but recently appointed to the office. A short but very enjoyable entertainment was provided, after which refreshments were served and cigars passed around.

At the meeting also a new master workman, William H. Lunder, was elected to fill the place lately made vacant by the resignation of C. E. Hepburn. This caused all the other officers to be advanced at step and they were duly installed by Deputy Grand Master Tier.

Drawing for a Lamp.

Protective Conclave, 505 Improved Order Heptasophs, has purchased from Woodhull & Martin, a handsome parlor lamp valued at $15, which the Conclave will have a drawing for. The lamp is on exhibition at the store of the above firm.

Ornament and Protection.

An attractive addition to the city collector's office in the Smalley building are the brass guard bars that have been placed in front of his glass window. It is an ornament as well as a protection.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 15, "Practical Consecration." Text, Rom. xii. 1-21.

"That ye may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God."

Practical consecration must be based on real confidence, and that confidence must be in God as knowing what is good for us and as willing and working the good for us. Such trust does not come by chance, but by continued thinking, a sort of reasoning with oneself. There is a great deal of actual distrust of God among those who profess to love and serve Him. There is hesitation to take up a specified work or do a certain duty. Sometimes this shrinking arises from timidity, self distrust, but often it is from disguised indolence and a preference in case. The suggested course seems disagreeable, and this weighs more than the fact of duty. What is needed then is to resolutely face the thing and find out if it ought to be done. No need of dilatory action or waiting for the disagreeable part. Let that be clearly viewed and estimated at its full value. Then balance all the matters and let the value of right, duty, truth, have full weight.

Is there some cowardice in the matter? Is there preference of self before the approval of God?

Let the full force of God's love bear upon the heart. He knows what is good for us. He does guide safely. It is safe only to follow His guidance. We ought to commit all our ways to Him. As we hold our hearts close to His word and feel the power of the Holy Spirit as He applies it clearly to our needs we find the will to follow as He leads.

How full of practical suggestions is this Scripture lesson. It has meaning for every one.

First we need to learn that we are not all alike. Each differs from others, but all are needed to make the perfect body and perform the needed work. That fact realized will keep us from either pride or discouragement as we discover that we are unlike others and cannot do as they do. It will keep us from faultfinding and undue independence and aloofness from those with whom we should have companionship. We all are one body, so we all should work together or we will never get anywhere. If I am not in my right place or I shall hinder all the rest. Do it not for their praise, but for the sake of Jesus, whether any one else appreciates it or not. In doing it I should love simply, transparently and not in make believe fashion. That love means that I am to love a wrong thing or be friendly toward a bad thing. Love means a deep detestation of all falsity and evil and a whole souled sticking to the true and good. It is wholesome and strong and has no fellowship with tricks and subterfuges.

Practical consecration will take a back seat for self in order to let another take the better place. It will push the latter into honor or failing to crowd him out to put self in. It is hopeful when things look black. It hangs on even when it hurts to hang on and helps when it costs heavy. It feels kindly to others. It honestly feels and kindly shows it. It is true to duty and try to injure. It shares joy and sorrow and feels with others and is not afraid or ashamed of such feelings. It makes manhood and womanhood genuinely noble and beautiful.

Tuned to Finer Issues.

Our spirits may always be tuned to finer issues. There is a kindly influence above and around me that always awaits the receptive soul. It has been felt in all ages by the rarest spirits. The poets have felt it; artists have felt it; the good have always felt it and named it with some angelic name. The heroic have been turned toward it by the inspiration it has given and has been unknown and unrecognized. It has always been breaking in upon the best order of souls and noble leaders of men with a more open and rare sensibility. It has been an inspiration and help to countless souls as they have struggled with the vicissitudes and have felt the burden of this unintelligible world. What shall we call it? What more significant name than that of the Divine Spirit moving on the hearts of men to bring them into ultimate harmony with God, and thus to realize the great ends of a final and universal redemption?—Universalist Leader.

Prayer.

We ask for peace, O God!
The children ask thy peace;
Not what the world calls rest,
That toil and care should cease.
That strength's mete answer be
Calm life should flee away
And tranquil night should fade
In shining day.
It is not for such peace that we would pray.

We ask for peace, O God!
Yet not to stand secure,
Girt round with walls of gold.
Contented to endure;
Crushing the gentle strings
That human hearts would know;
Untouched by others' joys
Or others' woe.
Thou, O dear Lord, wilt never teach us so!

We ask Thy peace, O God,
Through storm and fear and strife,
To fight and guide us on
Through a long, struggling life,
While no success or gain
Shall cheer the battle fight.
Or nerve what the world calls
Our wasted might,
Yet pressing through the darkness to the light.

It is Thine own, O God,
Who toil while others sleep;
Who sow, with living care,
What other hands shall reap;
They lean on Thee, entranced
In calm and perfect rest;
Give us that peace, O Lord,
Divine and blest.
Then longest for those hearts that love Thee best.

—"The Changed Cross."

MANY HONORED FRANK HAND

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICE WAS HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich Was in Charge—Lodges Conducted Services at the Grave.

One of the largest funerals that has been held in this city in some time was that of Frank Hand, which took place at his late home on East Second street, Thursday afternoon. Not only was there an unusually large gathering of relatives and friends but delegations were present from Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., to all of which he belonged.

The obsequies were in charge of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, who delivered an impressive and earnest eulogy over the remains of the one whom all knew and loved. At the close he offered a heartfelt prayer which was echoed by all in attendance.

Following the service at the house, the remains were taken to the North Plainfield cemetery where further services were conducted by the lodges. The casket was lowered to its last resting place by four of the deceased's faithful employes, Andrew and William Parsons, James Hill and Ben Perkins.

During the march of the funeral cortege to the cemetery, a guard of honor was formed about the hearse by seventeen colored workmen who have been in the employ of Hand & Son for periods from ten to twenty-five years, a mark of respect which showed the regard held for the young man by all his workmen.

Floral tributes were extended by friends to such an extent that the casket was almost buried from sight. There were large set pieces, some of which were from the different organizations and many others from individuals.

Pennsylvania Railroad Reduced Rate to St. Paul or Minneapolis, Account National Baptist Anniversaries.

On account of the National Baptist anniversaries, at St. Paul, Minn., May 20 to 26, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all stations on its lines to St. Paul or Minneapolis, May 17 to 19, good to return not earlier than May 21, and not later than May 29, at greatly reduced rates. These tickets will be good for return passage only when executed by joint agent at St. Paul or Minneapolis and payment of twenty-five cents made for this service. By depositing ticket with Joint Agent not earlier than May 21 nor later than May 29, and payment of fifty cents at time of deposit, an extension of return limit may be obtained to leave St. Paul or Minneapolis not later than June 30.

Another Opportunity to Visit California.

First-class round trip tickets to California, $67, via the Jersey Central; tickets on sale May 26 to June 7, inclusive. Good returning within two months; stop-over privilege granted either going or coming. Choice of routes allowed. Another trip to Portland, Ore., good going on same days $72.50. For information apply to Ira E. Whyte, district passenger agent, Asbury Park, N. J., or C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York City.

HAS DONE WELL.

Annual Financial Report of Woman's Guild of Holy Cross Church.

Mrs. Samuel Townsend, as treasurer of the Women's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross, has just issued her annual statement. It shows a most gratifying condition of affairs in the society. The receipts for the year amounted to $709.98 and [the expenditures $640.75, leaving a balance on hand of $69.23. The greatest amount expended was $430.90 for the church and Sunday-school. The other amounts range from $1 to the church periodical committee to the large sum given the church and Sunday-school.

Vacation Pointers.

The Jersey Central Railroad has placed on sale at many of its stations Summer Excursion tickets good going May 1 to September 30, inclusive, and good for return until October 31. These excursion tickets cover points east and north including Montreal, and as far west as the Pacific coast. If you are interested send to the general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, New York City, for "Summer Excursions."

New Medical Director.

Dr. S. Wasson Jones, of Newark, has just been appointed supreme medical director for the Improved Order Heptasophs, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. J. H. Christian, of Baltimore, Md. This appointment gives New Jersey two of the best offices in the order, namely the supreme secretary and medical director. Protective Conclave, No. 505, of this city, is arranging to give Dr. Jones a reception in the near future.

PRISONER BROKE JAIL TO AVOID VAGGINATION

When He Asked for a Night's Lodging at the Lockup He Didn't Fully Understand.

WAS CAPTURED AGAIN.

HELD UNTIL THIS MORNING WHEN HE WAS VACCINATED DESPITE PROTESTS.

James Lunger, Itinerant Sissors' Grinder, Was Given Lodging at City Jail—He Was Told of Vaccination, Then He Escaped.

While acting Night Sergeant McCarthy was making out reports in one part of police headquarters, Thursday a prisoner broke jail in another and made his escape. His freedom was short lived, however, as he was returned to his cell within an hour, but not before several patrolmen had stirred themselves into more activity than they have displayed in many a night.

The prisoner, who was practically not a prisoner, was James Lunger, an itinerant scissors grinder hailing from Grand Rapids, Mich. He is sixty years old and applied in the evening for a night's lodging. Since a smallpox suspect was confined in one of the cells several months ago, all applicants for free board who are accommodated are considered prisoners until morning when they can be vaccinated by a physician. Lunger was informed of this fact until after he had been comfortably stretched out on the soft side of a cell bench and then he went into hysterics. He declared he had studied the vaccination question from all sides and in his opinion it was all "tommyrot." He demanded to be let go but a deaf ear was turned to all entreaties.

He finally subsided and it was thought he had decided to make the best of the situation but not so. He carefully mapped out a plan of procedure and shortly after midnight settled down to work. The lock on his cell had not been fastened securely and by a little manipulating, he got it off the hasp without attracting any attention. He then tip-toed to the rear hall and thence to the back door, which is ordinarily fastened securely but, on this occasion, was open. Although feeble and anything but agile, the old man passed out into the yard and climbed two high board fences and reached the second street. He then lay down to rest in a front yard.

Soon after he had departed Sergeant McCarthy had occasion to pass the cells and saw that Lunger was missing. He searched about the station and yard without meeting any success and then summoned Patrolmen Saffron and McGinley from their posts. They clambered over fences and roamed through backyards in the block bounded by Watchung and Park avenues and East Front and East Second streets, without finding any sign of the scissor grinder.

They were about to give up the search when, as McGinley passed down Second street, Lunger clambered over a fence almost in his arms. He was finally grasped and, on recognizing his captor, set up a howl that could be heard for blocks. He protested in all manner of ways but to no purpose and, the relentless binecost took him back to the cell he had left.

He was watched closely for the remainder of the night and this morning submitted with great reluctance to having his arm scraped. He left the station vowing he would forevermore give Plainfield a wide berth.

CHURCH OPENED.

Presbyterian Church at Liberty Corner Opened After Repairs.

The Presbyterian church at Liberty Corner, which for some time past has been undergoing extensive repairs, was opened for services Thursday. Addresses were made by Rev. Peter Gibb, of Millington; Rev. J. T. Beekley, of Basking Ridge; Rev. Samuel Parry, of Pluckemin; Rev. Lester M. Conrow, of Lamington, and Conover English, of Elizabeth, a grandson of the first pastor. There was special music by a large choir and the new organ was used for the first time.

NEW ROAD.

Soon to be Laid Out From Lincoln to East Bound Brook.

Counsellor H. C. Snydam, of this city, has made application to the Middlesex county authorities for a new road in Piscataway township leading from Lincoln to East Bound Brook. There is at present a road and bridge over this district, constructed by private enterprise but Mr. Snydam asked that the road be given legal status by being laid out by surveyors of the highway. The request has been granted and six surveyors appointed to meet at Fisher's Hotel, Lincoln, May 28, and lay out the road.

HONORED THE MEMORY OF SURROGATE SPENCER

Services Held From the Home and Church of Holy Cross Friday Afternoon.

WERE VERY IMPRESSIVE

EXEMPT FIREMEN TURNED OUT IN A BODY FOR THE FUNERAL.

Many Somerset County Officials and Politicians Were There—Beautiful Floral Tributes—Services Conducted at the Grave.

The funeral of H. Newton Spencer, which took place from his home on Somerset street Friday afternoon, was the largest that has been seen in North Plainfield for a long time. More than half a hundred carriages were in the cortege that followed the remains from the house to the church of the Holy Cross and afterwards to the last resting place in Hillside cemetery.

Besides the relatives and the immediate friends of Mr. Spencer, a large contingent of county officials and a body representing the Exempt Firemen's Association, were present to pay their last respects to the dead. The pall-bearers were Thos. Dond, Wm. H. Shotwell, ex-Mayor Place, Jacob Voehl, H. M. Fountain, Dr. J. H. Cooley.

The casket was covered with flowers, including many beautiful wreaths. There was a floral pillow from Royal Arcanum, No. 711, a wreath of galax leaves and calla lilies from Mrs. Robert D. Gibbey, Rahway, a crescent on a pedestal from the Exempt Firemen, besides tributes from the children, one from Mrs. Spencer, and several from friends.

It was 2:30 o'clock when the procession left the house and proceeded direct to the church. A guard of honor from the Exempt Firemen's Association walked on either side of the hearse. The president and vice president carried stemmed wreaths in a heavy crepe mourning cloth, as a marked symbol of regard for their former comrade. The guard was composed of L. E. Barkalow, president; S. A. Mumford, vice president; W. C. Smith, Gen. Ball, Valentine Unsinger, Postmaster Bird, I. D. TenEyck, Assistant Postmaster Jas. Martin. Other members of the Exempt Firemen attended in carriages.

The county officials of Somerset turned out in great force to honor the memory of their late colleague. In attendance from Somerville, were: Judge Schenck, Sheriff McMartry, Former Sheriff Wyckoff, Prosecutor J. W. Griggs, Assistant Prosecutor F. A. Pope, County Clerk Frank Somers, Former Collector N. Y. Dungan, Township Collector Vanderveer, Court Crier Bunn, County Engineer Dunphy, Assistant County Clerk Allen. Also present from Somerville were Job Coddington and Lawyers Anderson, Pope and Howard Coddington. Among others noticed were J. Wendell, J. Wendell, Jr., Former Assemblyman E. E. Cooper, of Warrenville, D. Campbell, of Martinville, and Rev. J. D. Cleaver, of Bound Brook.

At the Church of the Holy Cross the impressive Episcopalian burial rites were conducted by Rev. W. Montgomery Downey. Presiding at the organ was Choirmaster W. E. MacClymont, while he along with three others, E. E. Runyon, Morris C. VanArsdale, and Joseph C. Martin sang with a great amount of feeling "Asleep in Jesus," and "There is a Blessed Home." The church was filled to its capacity. After the obsequies were concluded, the majority of those assembled passed up the right aisle around the church to take a last view of the body.

At the grave the officiating clergyman was also Rev. Mr. Downey. The service consisted of the reading of the committal.

Resigned as Deacon.

E. E. Anthony, formerly of this city, but now of Fishkill, N. Y., has tendered his resignation as a deacon of Trinity Reformed church, on account of his removal from this city. Wednesday evening, May 21, a meeting will be held at Trinity Reformed church to elect his successor.

Endeavor Anniversary.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will celebrate its ninth anniversary Tuesday, May 27. It is the intention to invite Christian Endeavor Societies from some of the other churches to join in honoring the occasion in a befitting manner.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to indorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it." writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

ILLUSTRATED HYMNS AGAIN

ENTERTAINMENT WAS REPEATED AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Arranged by J. F. Billett, Under Auspices of the Willing Workers —Those Who Assisted.

In the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church last Friday, J. F. Billett repeated the entertainment of illuminated sacred songs which were given with success a week ago. The affair was given under the auspices of the Willing Workers, a society composed of Horace J. Martin's Sunday-school class. Mr. Billett was assisted in giving the entertainment by Charles E. Vail and his son, Horace Vail, who operated the lantern slides.

Those who sang were Miss Justina Smith, soprano; Miss Sadie Holmes and Miss Bessie Martin, alto; Horace J. Martin, tenor, and Joseph C. Martin, bass. Miss Lillian A. Force acted as accompanist. William H. Miller, of New York, rendered appropriate selections on the piano.

The programme included solos by Miss Justina Smith, who sang "The Holy City." There were also solos by H. J. Martin, J. C. Martin and Miss Edna Cole, while there were recitative parts by Miss Nettie Krietling and Miss Bessie Martin.

FRAMES ROTTED AWAY.

A Peculiar Discovery Made at a Local Pharmacy.

A peculiar discovery was made a few days ago by workmen engaged in scraping the old paint from the wooden window frames of the store formerly occupied by Hepburn & Company, pharmacists, in the Codington building, corner of Park avenue and West Second street. It was found that the wood from the surface through had completely rotted and liperally crumbled away at their touch.

In comparison with other buildings this framework can lay no special claim to age, but the wood is a black walnut, a variety very susceptible to the corroding action of water. No doubt rain and frequent window washing was the cause of the decay. A new frame will be substituted at once.

REDUCED RATES TO PORTLAND.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account National Convention, Travelers' Protective Association of America, and the Supreme Lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen.

On account of the national convention, Travelers' Protective Association of America, June 3 to 7, and the Supreme Lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen, June 10 to 20, at Portland, Ore., the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Portland from all stations on its lines, from May 26 to June 7, inclusive, at greatly reduced rates. These tickets will be good for return passage within sixty days from date of sale when executed by joint agent at Portland and payment of fifty cents made for this service. Apply to ticket agents.

5 14 2 w c

PEDLARS WERE ON PARADE

CHIEF FEATURE OF ENTERTAINMENT AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Arranged by the Epworth League—Programme Also Included Music and Recitations.

A large audience attended the entertainment and sale held under the auspices of the Epworth League in Grace M. E. church last Friday. The affair was a success in every particular.

During the evening excellent music was discovered by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra and Miss Gise, of Dunellen, recited most acceptably. A unique and novel feature with which the programme closed was the "peddlers' parade." This was participated in by several young people each one the vendor of some special article, from the saleable shoe string to the more popular but less useful ice cream.

The peddlers were Benj. Schenck, shoe strings; Misses Marion Major and Carrie Pangborn, popcorn; Miss Addie Carney, molasses candy; Charles Hurtt, sandwich man; Ralph Bullman and Ray Stevens, lemonade; Daniel Fairchild, fudge; Louis Hurtt, crullers; Miss Annis Hoagland, cookies; Miss Ella Benner, aprons; the Misses Belle and Jennie DeMott, salted peanuts and bananas; Miss Mary Hoagland, hair bows.

The programme carried out was in charge of the social committee, Miss Mary Stevens, chairman; Mrs. H. H. Green, Miss Della Voehl and Mrs. Annie Most, assisted by a literary committee, Ralph Bullman, Ray Stevens and Benj. Schenck.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and boisome troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankestown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Self Protection

demands that you be on the alert to see that you get Painkiller (Perry Davis'.) when you ask for it; some dealers will try and persuade you to take something else, claimed to be just as good; insist upon getting Painkiller, the remedy which has been the world's family doctor for sixty years; it never fails to stop diarrhoea, griping pains in the stomach or bowels, dysentery, etc. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

County Teachers' Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the Somerset County Teachers' Association at Bernardsville, Saturday. Principal Hoffman, of Bound Brook, will tell "How Teachers Can Keep Themselves Fit."

A Smoker for Exempts.

The Exempt Firemen's Association is arranging for a smoker and general good time to be held Monday evening, June 2. It will be an open affair and invitations will be issued to all the association's friends.

RECENT RUMOR DENIED.

President Will Not Appoint Special Commission to Treat with Philippine Friars.

The authoritative statement is made by the Washington Star that there is no foundation for a story from Sioux Falls, S. D., that Rt. Rev. Thomas O'Gorman, Catholic bishop of South Dakota, has received notification of his appointment by the president as a member of a commission to visit Rome and confer with the pope and other officials of the Roman church for the purchase of the lands in the Philippines owned by the friars. On the same authority the statement is made that the selection of such a commission has been proposed to the president and has been under consideration by him. He has not been able to take any action, however, owing to the fact that Judge Taft has been kept exceedingly busy and has had little time to talk over this matter with the president. When they do have time for a talk something definite may be determined upon by the president. The friars hold many thousand acres of the best lands in the Philippines, and this fact is recognized as a notable source of disturbance in the islands. It is generally conceded that such of the lands as are already the property of the monastic orders should be purchased after negotiations, but the necessity and the wisdom of sending a commission to Rome for this purpose are seriously questioned and vigorously disputed.

BISHOP THOMAS O'GORMAN.
(One of the Most Powerful Prelates of the American Church.)

Secretary Root is also authority for the statement that no commission or any similar body has been appointed by the president to confer with representatives for the purpose of negotiating with the pope at Rome or with anybody else for the purchase of the friars' land in the Philippines. He says that congress has been asked to provide for the purchase of these lands, and that whatever action is taken will be based entirely upon legislative authority. If congress makes the desired provision the lands will be purchased from the owners by the representatives of the Philippine government. The policy of the administration in this matter is embodied in the bill introduced by Representative Cooper, section 12 of which provides for the issue of bonds by the Philippine government for the acquirement of the land of the friars in that country. That bill is now pending in congress and nothing will be done in the matter until that body has declared its purpose respecting these lands.

CIGAR LIGHTER TRICK.

The Picture Shows How It Can Be Played Without Arousing Suspicion of Victim.

"If you have a niggardly uncle and you want to play a trick on him," says a German humorist, "just wait until he asks you to give him a light for his pipe or cigar.

CIGAR LIGHTER TRICK.
(Picture Shows Just How It Can Be Played Successfully.)

"Then get two strips of strong paper, of equal length, and twist each of them separately into a spiral form. Next you must twist the two together, taking care, however, that during the operation they do not lose any of their elasticity, and when this is done you must break off the two ends. When you hand it to your uncle he will think it an ordinary cigar light, but as soon as he lights his pipe, or cigar, he will find out the difference.

The picture shows clearly how this trick is played. If the strips of paper are twisted properly, one of them, as may be seen, will curl upward as soon as the upper end is lit, and the smoker's wrist is very likely to be scorched, if he does not quickly take it out of harm's way.

A Routine Lots of Help.

A fleet of two ocean steamships requires the services of about 120 firemen.

BAGGAGE RIGHTS OF CORPSE.

When Full Fare Is Paid for It the Ticket Carries with It the Regular Privilege.

A dead man has the same baggage rights as a living one. This question has been passed on by the chief baggage master of the Union depot, and it was done in a hurry, too, reports the Denver Post. There were five live persons and one dead man waiting for the decision. The coffin was placed in the baggage car and then the trunks of the five friends were weighed.

The weight exceeded the 150 pounds for each, but if the dead man were allowed baggage, this would solve the difficulty. The clerk had never heard of such a thing before. He refused to check a trunk on the dead man's ticket.

The train was almost ready to start. The five persons did not care to pay for the excess baggage, neither did they like to allow the body to go alone. The whistle of the train toosted its first warning.

Just then the chief baggage master arrived. He took in the situation at a glance.

"Check the trunks," he exclaimed, and the five hurried off in time to catch their train.

Then he explained to the clerk that the General Traffic Managers' association had passed on the question only a few days before. This organization decided that when a full fare ticket is paid for, for the transportation of a corpse, the ticket entitles with it the regular baggage privilege of "not to exceed 150 pounds."

THE ABYSSINIAN FORGIVES.

Poor People Who, Though Ignorant, Have Kept the Pith of Christian Morals.

M. Hugues Le Roux, now lecturing in America, contributes to Century a paper on "New Trails in Abyssinia," from which we take this odd passage:

It would be unfair not to mention in passing that these poor people, however ignorant they may be of the laws of the religion they profess, have at least kept the pith of Christian morals, the good which distinguishes them from Islamic teachings—the doctrine of forgiveness.

You cannot dismiss a servant, or, with regard to a culprit, take a stand which everyone believes just, without being visited by the friends and enemies of the delinquent.

They all come and entreat you: "You are a Christian; forgive him." And the humble do not ask merely that pardon shall be granted by their masters; they endeavor to practice it among themselves.

During the explorations that I made in the west, a rather good-for-nothing boy who was in my private service tried to kill my head servant. The victim demanded, as was his right, that the law of retaliation be applied; but the rest of the servants united in an appeal to the king, and the next day he came to me and said:

"I have forgiven the murderer; give him his freedom."

ANCIENT CHOIRISTERS.

An Old Men's Singing Club in California the Members of Which Are Over 65.

One of the most remarkable clubs of modern times has its headquarters in Alameda, Cal. It is known as the "Old Men's Singing club," no one being admitted to it who has not the gift of song, and who has not passed at least his sixty-fifth birthday. The club has 101 members, with an aggregate age of 6,666 years. The only woman artist was the Senora Benina Barrone, aged 103 years, who danced and sang "La Tolla." This old Spanish woman was born in Mexico in 1798. She danced in the Spanish City of Mexico while in the first blush of maidenhood, and the picturesque ravellers of those times paid her high rewards for the tinkling accompaniment of a guitar they sang love songs underneath her window. These, she says, were merry days. The weary feet, which at their owner's request danced once more in order that a worthy cause might be added to the fund for the poor, were as light as in the bygone days, and if the aged voice quavered, no one noticed it.

WHEN ABROAD SPEAK ENGLISH

He Who Attempts a Foreign Tongue May Get Into Such a Predicament Like This.

The English-speaking tourist who wastes half an hour of time, temper and energy in trying to make some dweller in a foreign land understand his bad French or Spanish, only to be shocked at length by some such a question as: "Can't you speak English?" is almost as common nowadays as the treelessness of Hindustan. This is a little story of his experience in Spain, as told by "The Dominie," in Ladies' House Journal:

"One day we all entered a little shop in Madrid and "The Captain" began to speak in Spanish to the girl who was behind the counter. She failed to understand and so he tried again. Once and again he tried and tried, and summoned up his whole vocabulary, at last in his attempt to make his meaning plain by illustration he drew from his pocket case a card, and with it stroked his chin. The girl fell into fits of laughter and in perfect English said: 'Oh! what you want is a fine-tooth comb.'"

To Utilize Wireless Telegraphy.

Wireless telegraphy is to be used to enable the meteorologist stationed at the top of Zugspitz, the highest summit of Germany, to communicate with the post office at Ehlsen, 6,870 feet below.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER.

Caught Their Friends—Into Becoming the Victims of Their Diabolical Practice.

If the average amateur photographer would not attempt to make portraits! It is bad enough to be misrepresented in an out-of-doors group, but when the snapshot man turns his attention to heads, and poses them near the camera it is too much, remarks the New York Times.

One of these mental torturers did this the other day. He cajoled a much-photographed neighbor to allow him to practice upon her for the full face. His mind have been an excellent lens, for nothing escaped it. It seemed to have X-ray qualities. It brought defects out of that poor woman's face of which she had never dreamed. There were big freckles which she had not seen since she was a child, wrinkles which made her 20 years older than she really was, savage lines about her mouth, and her hair was turned into broomcorn.

"There, I think that is a pretty good portrait," said the amateur, as he turned over the result of his efforts to the victim. "That is a good likeness."

It was a likeness, too. There was the same strong resemblance which the caricaturist puts into his sketches, and also the same hideous unlikeness, with not even the humorous excuse for it. It was all blank ugliness.

No one will know the blow it was to the woman to receive that awful thing as her picture. Her friends, only half guessed it when she timidly asked if they thought it looked very much like her. She had really believed the statement, sometimes wrongfully made, that the camera cannot lie. The camera is an unconscionable hypocrite.

THE ENGLISH WOMAN'S FOOT.

Takes a Shoe of Generous Proportions Because of Her Sensible Preference for Comfort.

A sprightly controversy has been going on for some time in the English newspapers relative to the somewhat intimate subject of the young English woman's foot, or, rather, her shoe, says a shoe journal. The modern English girl is tall—tall in a sense and to a degree not reached by women of the stately American girl do not even adumbrate. In the aristocratic set more often than not, she towers over the heads of foreign gentlemen. Long generations of descent from tall fathers and mothers and vigorous years of outdoor exercise have made her what she is—very occasionally a six-footer, and with hands and feet in due proportion.

The note of alarm has at last been sounded. It is held that "the daughters of Anak" are exercising too freely, if they would wear the dainty shoes that are women's traditional adornment. While the answer is made that the apparent size of the English girl's foot is due to her sensible preference for loose, easy shoes, it is admittedly an incomplete explanation. One reason for the growing popularity of the American shoe in London, is that it looks neater and trimmer and decidedly smaller than the English shoe of the same size.

FOR AN IDEAL SHAVE.

Ideal Regulations for Barbers May Be Adopted in the City of Washington.

Washington will be an ideal town in which to get shaved if a proposition submitted to the knights of the razor is adopted, says a report from that city. The regulations provide that barbers shall not annoy their customers by excessive conversation; that all shaving brushes shall be sterilized by immersion in boiling water or a five per cent. solution of carbolic acid; that razors shall be wiped with 95 per cent. alcohol after being used; order in the waiting room must be mopped with an antiseptic solution; that sanitary hair brushes must be used and regularly sterilized; that combs must be kept clean and never wiped off with the hand or blown upon with the breath; that a separate clean towel be used for each customer, and that clean towels or absorbent cotton shall be used in place of powder puffs. Barbers are also ordered to keep their teeth clean and their finger nails short and clean, and are directed to keep their mouths closed when being over a customer who is being shaved.

Duke Who Praises His Cook.

The duke of Cambridge is the only member of the royal family who employs a woman cook, and no one appreciates her very admirable cooking more than the royal highness. The duke frequently shows his appreciation of her culinary efforts in a very practical way, and before now has been known, after a dinner which has particularly pleased him, to go straight away to the kitchen and in a few kind words offer his congratulations to his cook.

An Orderly Family.

The gold medal offered by the Paris council for the most numerous and best behaved family of children has been won by a couple named Gallez, parents of 12 youngsters.

Tunes of the Terrible Turk.

The sultan of Turkey is an excellent pianist and spends five hours every day practicing. He devotes a couple of hours daily to teaching his daughter how to play.

CONCLUDING SESSION OF MISSION WORKERS

Addresses and Reports at the Final Session of Baptist Woman's Missionary Society.

A STATE ORGANIZATION.

MRS. ALONZO PETTIT, STATE PRESIDENT, GAVE AN ADDRESS.

Missionary Exercises in Which the Plainfield Women Assisted—The Newly-Elected Officers Introduced—195 Delegates Present.

The afternoon session of the Woman' Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, held Friday in the First Baptist church, proved to be of exceptional interest and attracted a largeer number of women than were present in the morning.

After the devotional exercises, Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, State president of the society, gave an admirable address on State work, also telling of the work being done in foreign fields. Following this talk there was a vocal solo by Miss Bessie Giles.

The next part of the programme was devoted to a missionary exercise conducted by Mrs. F. C. Foster, of Newark, who is State secretary of the Father Lights' Missionary Society. She was assisted by Miss Harriet Shreve, Miss Grace Yerkes, Miss Pauline Denton, Mrs. Herbert Holden, Miss Edith Cairns, Miss Elizabeth Wilson and Miss May Shreve. Mrs. Foster urged the formation of Father Lights' societies in all Baptist churches.

In the report of the treasurer, Miss Grace M. Davis, it was shown that the Women's Circles had given for the year $1,788.86, the Junior Societies, $404.12, and for educational work $134 was given.

During the afternoon, Mrs. J. A. Cubberley, the new president, and Miss Florence Bogert, the new recording secretary, were introduced to the society. A vote of thanks was extended to the women of the First Baptist church for the excellent dinner and entertainment provided.

The enrollment committee reported that 195 delegates had attended the meeting. After a prayer by Rev. Percy R. Ferris, of Perth Amboy, a hymn was sung and the benediction pronounced by Mr. Ferris. No announcements were made for a place of meeting next fall, the matter being left to a committee consisting of Mrs. A. H. Ackerson and Mrs. Peckham, of Newark.

COULD NOT SURVIVE SHOCK

WM. W. WOODEN DIED AT MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL AFTER AN OPERATION.

Was An Old Citizen of the Borough Where He Was Born Sixty-Five Years Ago.

The death of Wm. W. Wooden occurred at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at Muhlenberg hospital. Two weeks ago it was found necessary to amputate Mr. Wooden's right leg at the knee, on account of gangrene resulting from enlarged toe joints, from which he had been a sufferer for years. The operation was successful but heart failure caused death.

Mr. Wooden was a son of Ezra M. and Anna W. Wooden, and was sixty-five years of age last February. Both in the city and the borough he was well-known and highly respected.

He was born at the corner of Chatham and Warren streets and resided there for many years. At one time he conducted a bakery and confectionery business on West Front street in partnership with his brother, Lodlow. He was a Plainfield man all his life with the exception of twelve years spent in Newark and afterwards at Califon, Hunterdon county, where he conducted the Union Hotel.

Mr. Wooden is the possessor of considerable property, owning among other places the Schlief bakery site on Park avenue. He is a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

He leaves a wife and one son, William, twenty-one years of age, to mourn his loss. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery.

A brother, Martin E. Wooden, of New York, and a sister, Mrs. J. L. Bradley, of East Front street, this city, also survive him.

Change in Hours of Mass.

There has been a change in the hour of holding the early mass at St. Mary's R. C. church. During the past season the hour was 7:30 and this has been changed to 6 o'clock for the summer months. The 8:30 o'clock mass has been abolished and masses will be held at 7:00, 9 and 10:30. These hours are for Sunday morning.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1902. NO. 21

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

CHARMING BRIDE WEDS IN PLAINFIELD HOME

Marriage of Miss Adeline M. Manning to Luther Anthony, of Lammington, N. Y.

COUPLE UNATTENDED.

BRIDAL PARTY MADE UP OF FLOWER GIRL AND TWO USHERS.

Was Performed by Rev. L. Conrow, of the Lammington Presbyterian Church, Under Arch of Dogwood and Lilies of the Valley.

In the prettily decorated home of the bride's mother, Miss Adeline Mabelle Manning, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Manning, of Grant avenue, was united in marriage, last Tuesday, to Luther Anthony, of Lamington. One hundred guests from New York, Brooklyn, Lamington, Passaic, Millville, Bound Brook, Trenton and this city, witnessed the ceremony. Rev. Lester Conrow, pastor of the Lamington Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman.

Attired in a becoming gown of cream colored mousseline de soie, trimmed with lace, Miss Manning entered the parlor escorted by her brother and took her station beneath a floral arch of dog-wood blossoms and lilies of the valley. She was unattended but was preceded by her cousin, Miss Jane Johnson, of New York, who acted as flower girl. Carpenter's orchestra rendered the Lohengrin wedding march. Mr. Anthony was also unattended. The remainder of the party was made up of the ushers, Howard P. Manning and N. Douglass Drake.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served during which congratulations were extended bride and groom. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Anthony departed for Niagara Falls and other points making a trip of two weeks' duration. On returning they will take up their residence at Kingston, N. Y., where the groom is engaged in the retail grocery trade.

Many presents of silver, cut glass and bric-a-brac were received by both young people. Pretty gold pins with pearl settings were the groom's gift to the ushers.

WOULD BE POLICEMEN.

Four Candidates for Place on Force Are Being Examined.

Four aspirants for positions on the local police force are at present undergoing the preliminary examinations before their names are presented to the Common Council. Monday evening, they took a mental examination, and yesterday they were examined for physical defects by Physical Director C. E. A. Haywood, of the Y. M. C. A. As far as can be learned all passed creditably.

The names of the men are John Conrey, William Nichols, Moses Quass and Joseph Clark.

PLANS FOR BABCOCK BUILDING.

Reported That an Architect Has Prepared Plans for Alterations.

According to the current issue of the New Jersey Contractor and Real Estate Record, E. H. Gilbert, an Orange architect, has drawn plans for rebuilding the Babcock building at a cost of $80,000. The plans and specifications call for steam heat, electric lights, iron columns, tile roof and all modern improvements including a fine passenger elevator.

Another Man's License.

Ralph Luria was found on Richmond street, yesterday afternoon, by Patrolman McCarthy, doing a junkman's trade with the borrowed license of Nathan Silverberg. He pleaded not guilty to the charge this morning, in the city court, and trial was deferred until Saturday.

In Justice Nash's Court.

The contract case of Nitschwitz et als against Darby will be tried before Justice Nash May 26, and the landlord and tenant case of Young against Engelson will be tried in the same court May 23.

Paid Accident Policy.

W. V. Mundy, agent for the Travelers' Insurance Company, today, paid to Mrs. Robert Jahn $5,000 accident policy, which Mr. Jahn held with this company. Mr. Jahn was burned to death May 7.

Strawberry Festival.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will hold its annual ice cream and strawberry festival Wednesday and Thursday, June 4 and 5.

SOCIETY AT A MUSICALE

GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. JOHN F. HARMAN TUESDAY EVENING.

Selections by the Misses Harman and Others—Served to Renew Old Acquaintances.

Society folk of Plainfield and North Plainfield to the number of nearly one hundred and fifty enjoyed a delightful musicale given last Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harman, of West Eighth street. The home was most attractively decorated for the occasion with a profusion of dogwood, roses, pink carnations, ferns and lilies-of-the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harman received their guests, assisted by Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks and Mrs. D. S. Rowland.

During the evening there was a charming programme of vocal and instrumental music. There were selections on the piano by Miss Harman, violin selections by Miss Helen Harman and Otto Schill, of Newark, and vocal selections by Miss Katharine Pelton, of New York, accompanied by Miss Henrietta Webber, also of New York. Each number was well received by the guests and there were frequent encores.

Aside from the musicale the social features were greatly enjoyed by all present. Mr. and Mrs. Harman have been absent from the city for some time past and their return was the occasion for this pleasant gathering to renew former acquaintance.

WHY MEASURE WAS VETOED

GOV. MURPHY'S REASONS FOR KILLING ASSEMBLYMAN NEWCORN'S BILL.

Bill Allowed Supreme Court Justice to Review Proceedings of a Police Board.

Among the bills which Governor Murphy vetoed this year was the measure fathered by Assemblyman William Newcorn, of this city, permitting justices of the Supreme Court to review summarily the action of any board of police commissions in cases where any member of a police department is fined, suspended or dismissed from the force.

Despite the fact that police chiefs, captains and officers of departments in all parts of the State waited on the Governor and urged him to sign the measure, the Executive said that he could not quite understand the attitude of these police officials on this matter. To each official the Governor gave the same answer that in his opinion the act would be subversive of discipline in the police department.

Mr. Newcorn waited on the Governor and had a long conference over the measure. In the opinion of the Assemblyman he thought that the measure would give to each policeman a right he is entitled to and would not permit him to be summarily discharged without first having a hearing in his case.

Governor Murphy took exception to this. He believed that the bill is not a good one, that its acceptance as a law would tend to the destruction of discipline in the departments. For this reason he vetoed it. He expressed the belief that if policemen were accorded the right given in the proposed act it would tend to promote carelessness among the men, knowing that they would have a good chance of being retained after a hearing. Mr. Newcorn took just the opposite view of the matter.

Called to Account.

Supreme Court Justice Garretson has granted Lawyer R. M. Clark's petition for an order calling Justice D. D. Smalley to account for not delivering over certain papers in the case of R. I. Tolles against L. A. Hammer. Justice Smalley has until June 3 to adjust the case, and if he fails he will be placed under arrest and be compelled to show why he has ignored the order of the Supreme Court.

A Fine Team.

Dr. O'M Knott has just sold to Walter Scott, of East Front street, one of the finest pair of blood-red bays to be found in the city. The horses are sixteen hands high and are high steppers. They are New York State bred.

At Monroe Avenue Church.

The annual strawberry festival under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue church will be held Tuesday, June 3, at the church.

An Annual Event.

The women of the Seventh-Day Baptist church are planning to hold the annual strawberry and ice cream festival in the near future.

PAID ACCORDING TO SIZE OF FOOTGEAR

Unique Social of Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church Tuesday.

PLEASANT PROGRAMME.

THEN THE OLD WOMAN IN THE SHOE AND HER CHILDREN APPEARED.

After They Had Collected the Contributions of Their Guests, Refreshments Were Served and a Social Hour Followed.

A delightful entertainment was that given last Tuesday, under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church. The affair was quaintly designated a "shoe sociable" and the manner of making it such was even more novel than the name.

All present were previously supplied with a small envelope bearing the imprint of a shoe and enclosing small slips of paper upon which were printed these lines:

"The Ladies Christian Work Society
ask a favor of you,
That you come on Tuesday evening
and place within this shoe,
The number of your footgear multiplied by two."

On the platform was a massive shoe which, after a programme of vocal and instrumental music had been presented, played a prominent part in the proceedings. But first the programme.

Edson C. Martin sang a baritone solo that so pleased the audience that a second number by the same soloist was necessary. In a fantasia and afterwards in a lullaby, a response to an encore, Miss Zella D. Frost, on the violin, proved that she could wield the bow deftly; there is sentiment in Miss Frost's playing and her technique is excellent. Miss Cornelia Miller was heard in a soprano solo. She sang in good voice and in deference to applause favored the assembly with another song. A recitation, "The Horse Race," by Miss Ursula Krewson, highly deserved the plaudits that summoned her return to the platform. Another soprano solo by Miss Cornelia Miller and this part of the programme was concluded. Miss Lillian A. Force was the accompanist of the evening.

Sliding doors were then drawn revealing Miss Nettie Kreitling, as "grandmother," seated in the big black shoe. She had many children, but she knew what to do, and instead of giving them broth without any bread, whipping them soundly and sending them to bed, she read the following verses:

"This is the old woman that sits in the shoe
To receive large gifts from others and you.
The objects of these is at present not shown,
But when learned you will wish that your feet had grown.
These are my children not many you find
But plenty to gather your dollars and dimes,
And then we'll invite you all to remain
For 'Trinity's' closing is always the same.
Good cheer in the hand clasp or kindly word spoken
With something to eat as its visible token."

Then the children, Chas. Zimmer, Clarence VanDoren, Elmer P. Wheeler, Edgar F. Sheppard, Wm. H. Pope and Samuel Crouse were sent through the audience, with slippers in their hands, to collect the little envelopes and each envelope was supposed to contain a sum equal to "the number of your footgear multiplied by two."

Next were served the "visible tokens," and after a pleasant half hour spent in social intercourse the audience dispersed.

The committee in charge of the entertainment were Mrs. E. J. Cooley, Mrs. E. H. Bird, Mrs. H. Paul, Mrs. Mary Disborough, Mrs. E. VanDoren, Mrs. Seaman Williams, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. C. D. Baker, Mrs. J. H. VanDyke and Mrs. H. VanNamee were the decorating committee and, by the way, their work was done nicely. Large bunches of dogwood twined around the pillars, with a sparse but effective distribution of potted palms and ferns gave the room a pretty appearance, while the rear of the platform was set off with a vine-like arrangement of dogwood blossoms and leaves on a background of white.

The large shoe used on the occasion was patterned, made and painted by James Q. Miles. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to over $40.

TO INCREASE SPEED OF STEAM VESSELS

Invention Made By A Plainfielder Promises To Be Of Much Importance.

NEW SCREW PROPELLER

OF DIFFERENT DESIGN FOR WHICH GREAT CLAIMS ARE MADE.

A Cone-Shaped Hub to Which Are Clamped Heavy Blades—Has Had An Offer From Lewis Nixon, But Wants Better Price.

A patent has just been issued to Leander W. Hammond, of this city, for a screw propeller which it is predicted will revolutionize travel by water. Twenty-eight years of study and experiment were expended on the idea by the patentee before it was perfected, and patent office m n declare it is one of the most valuable inventions they have passed upon this year.

From numerous experiments made Mr. Hammond claims steamships for ocean travel fitted with his propeller can increase their speed one tenth more than they are making at present. Smaller vessels can travel twenty-three per cent. faster, or nearly one quarter more than that attained by the present screw. The effect of this increased speed means much to large steamship companies as thousands of dollars are spent annually experimenting to cut down the travelling time between the two continents.

The Plainfielder's invention differs from the present screw in many respects. Instead of being a solidly cast three bladed tapering propeller it is formed of a cone shaped hub to which are clamped three heavy blades. Where they are fastened, the spot where the tension is greatest, the thickness of metal is three times that of the old style blades, precluding all possibility of a break. In extreme cases if one should occur, it is but a matter of a few moments to unclamp the defective blade and insert a new one. The cone hub also prevents the formation of a vacuum about the screw and utilizes every particle of water in forcing the boat through the waves.

Mr. Hammond has already received a number of flattering offers for the product of his brain, one of which was from Lewis Nixon, of the Crescent Ship Yards at Elizabeth. Having been engaged on the idea for over a half century he has refused to sell it at the figures named and is confident of receiving a much higher price.

CRUSHED HIS THUMB.

George Wharton Edwards Met With a Painful Accident Recently.

A few days ago while George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, was leaving his home for the railroad station in D. carriage, he caught the thumb on his left hand in the door of the carriage. The injury was a severe one and, at first, it was thought the thumb would have to be amputated. Although the bone is fractured, the physician believes that the thumb will now be all right.

BIRD REAPPOINTED.

Plainfield's Postmaster Named for Another Term by the President.

Postmaster Elias H. Bird received word yesterday that he had been reappointed to his present position by President Roosevelt. This was not a surprise as Mr. Bird was the only candidate for the position. The people of Plainfield will congratulate Mr. Bird, however, for he has been a most efficient and painstaking official.

Died After Amputation.

Miss Mary Gorman, a young woman, died in Muhlenberg Hospital this morning, following the amputation of a leg ten days ago. Complications followed the operation which were the real cause of death. She leaves a sister and brother at Scotch Plains, where she made her home.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

The case of the Trenton Abattoir Company against Edward Mercier, and that of the same company against Edward Mercier and Sylvester B. Scribner came up in Justice Mattison's court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

New Postal Clerk Appointed.

The postal clerk authorities have granted Postmaster Bird's request for an additional clerk in the office on account of increasing business. W. H. Thorn, who has been serving as a substitute carrier has received the appointment.

DR. RICHARDS WILL CONSIDER THE CALL

No Call Extended Yet, But His Name is Now Being Considered for the Place.

A SUCCESSOR FOR DR. BABCOCK AT BRICK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Dr. Richards Has Been Pastor of Crescent Avenue Church for Eighteen Years—He is Prominent in His Denomination.

The reports to the effect that Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, is considered a possible successor to the late Rev. Malbie Babcock, as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, has caused considerable talk in church circles. Rev. Dr. Henry Van-Dyke, of Princeton, who has been acting pastor for some time past, is to announce the name of the new pastor on May 27, and it is generally believed that Dr. Richards will be the one.

Dr. Richards was seen at his home Tuesday in reference to the matter. He emphatically stated that no call had been extended to him, yet he admitted that he knew his name was being considered. He said that the New York pastorate should not be considered too lightly, as it was a most important post. He said that Dr. VanDyke and himself have been warm personal friends for a long time.

Dr. Richards has been pastor of the Crescent Avenue church eighteen years, having come to Plainfield from Bath, Me. He has frequently declined important calls, and was a possible candidate for the presidency of Yale University. He is a graduate of Yale and annually delivers sermons at that place. The New York University made him a D. D. ten years ago. Among his classmates in college were former United States Senator Patton, of Michigan, and Supreme Court Justice Jenks, of New York.

Dr. Richards says that he would be reluctant to leave his present pastorate, as he has a great many warm friends in the church as well as in Plainfield. There seems to be a general idea that Dr. Richards might be induced to accept the new pastor should a call be extended.

EAGERLY AWAITED.

Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith Will Appear for First Time This Season.

Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith's appearance at the First M. E. church, tomorrow evening, in connection with the Lotus Glee Club concert, has been eagerly awaited by her many friends and admirers. She is recognized as the foremost of artists in her particular line and naturalness and grace of manner are scarcely equalled by public readers on the platform today.

Her programme is entirely new and has proven to be one of the most satisfactory and successful she has ever given. It includes T. B. Aldrich's dramatic sketch, "Pauline Pavlovna" and Pauline Phelp's "Midnight Courtship" written especially for her.

PARK A. C. OFFICERS.

Organization Revived and Arrangements Made for a Sale.

At a meeting of the Park Athletic Club, held yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected: President, John Valiant, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Frank Curtis; manager of baseball team, Russell Pond; captain of team, Wm. Nischwitz.

Arrangements were also completed for holding a lemonade, cake and candy sale on the lawn of G. L. Howard, of Mercer avenue, Friday afternoon. The proceeds will be used to defray the expense of fitting the baseball team with uniforms and paraphernalia.

Four Days at Hopatcong.

E. S. F. Randolph and S. F. T. Wilber returned home yesterday after a four days' fishing trip at Lake Hopatcong. They brought with them eighty-six pounds of pickerel and bass. One of the latter weighed five and three-quarter pounds.

Must Lay Sidewalks.

The Councilmanic street committee will meet this week and consider several important matters, including that of stirring up delinquents who have failed to lay sidewalks as requested.

—The consecration meeting of the Young People's Society Christian Endeavor of the First Baptist church will be held Friday evening, topic, "Practical Consecration."

ANOTHER FRESH AIR CAMP

PLANS TO ESTABLISH ONE AT NETHERWOOD UNDER MISS CURRY'S CHARGE.

Understood That She Will Not Go to the Westfield Camp This Year, But Come Here.

Preparations are being made to open a fresh air camp at Netherwood under the direction of David M. Torrey and Miss Sarah Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, New York. For some time past plans for the camp have been under way, although it is not believed that it will interfere with the Westfield Fresh Air Camp. The new camp will be located on high ground and the sanitary conditions will be of the best. It is understood that David Hand, of Netherwood, who is greatly interested in the work, will furnish the ground upon which the camp will be located.

One thing that has tended to bring this camp to Netherwood is the very able support given by the Christian Endeavor Societies and Epworth League chapters of this city, while the support given from the other end of the county has been nominal. Recently, there was a meeting of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp people to discuss the work for the coming season. Miss Curry was not invited to this meeting, it is said, when her friends believed she should have been, as she has heretofore had charge of the work at the camp.

LAWN FETE TO BE GIVEN

ARRANGED FOR SATURDAY BY THE LENTEN SEWING CLASS.

Varied Attractions to be Seen on the Lawn of Evarts Tracy's Residence in Prospect Avenue.

A lawn fete will be given at the residence of Mrs. Evarts Tracy Saturday afternoon and evening from 3 to 9 o'clock. The grounds which are at the corner of Prospect and Hillside avenues, will be charmingly decorated for the occasion. A fifty encampment will occupy one portion of the lawn, while another part will be devoted to candies, useful articles, refreshments, booths and music.

The affair is being arranged by the members of the Lenten Sewing Class, which includes Mrs. L. W. Serrell, Mrs. R. M. VanBuren, Mrs. George S. Ring, Mrs. Otterson, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mrs. William Tyler, Mrs. James Blake, the Misses May Evans, May and Florence Waring, Anna Miller, Maude VanBoskerck, Mabel Pierson, May Rodman, Annie Murphy, May Holly, Tracy, Otterson, Stewart and Lee.

The proceeds of the affair will go towards sending the poor children, whose homes are in the tenament districts of New York city, to the country for a week or so. In case of rain the fete will be postponed to Monday, May 26.

PATRONESSES.

For Coming Concert of the Men's Choral Club at Casino.

The coming concert of the Men's Choral Club at the Casino Tuesday night, May 27 promises to be one of unusual interest. The next proceeds are to be given to the Women's Club, and the following named are patronesses, from whom tickets may be procured: Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, Mrs. Geo. H. Babcock, Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow, Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Edwin W. Conklin, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. Paul B. Cregar, Miss Carrie Dewey, Mrs. Chas. J. Fisk, Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. Stephen Hall, Mrs. Henry R. Hathaway, Mrs. Frank O. Herring, Mrs. Wm. Wallace Howland, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Edgar I. Hyatt, Mrs. Henry D. Janes, Miss Julia Ketchum, Mrs. J. Everett Kimball, Mrs. Rufus P. Lincoln, Mrs. L. N. Lovell, Mrs. John L. Ludlum, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Mrs. Chas. W. McCutchen, Mrs. Walter McGee, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. John Dosil Miller, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, Mrs. Wm. D. Murray, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. Joseph M. Myers, Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, Mrs. Isaac W. Renshawe, Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Mrs. Wm. H. Sampson, Mrs. Wm. L. Saunders, Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. I. N. VanSickel, Mrs. John M. Whiton, Mrs. Frederick H. Wills, Mrs. Emil Woltmann, Mrs. Francis Wood, Mrs. David W. Pond.

For Next Communion.

An effort will be made to secure the individual Communion service for the First Baptist church for the next regular Communion to be held the first Sunday in June.

LAST YEAR'S PAYMENTS FOR LIFE INSURANCE

Interesting Statistics on Subject From Today's Issue of Insurance Press.

IN NEW JERSEY CITIES.

THERE WAS PAID IN PLAINFIELD LAST YEAR $168,507.

Among Notable Payments Were Ones in Fanwood and Netherwood—Amounts Paid in Some of the Neighboring Towns.

The Insurance Press, a newspaper for insurers and insured, and considered to be the best authority on the subject of life insurance, in its issue of today, contains many statistics of value and interest to persons who make a study of the subject. It gives the life insurance payments made by the companies in 7,840 cities and towns. The amounts range from thousands to tens of millions. In 184 cities there was paid last year from $100,000 to $90,000,000.

Among the leading cities in New Jersey quoted in life insurance payments in 1901 are the following: Plainfield, $168,507; Elizabeth, $725,548; Morristown, $196,774. Among the other cities and towns in New Jersey quoted are the following:

Bound Brook, $85,251; Fanwood, $27,562; Metuchen, $21,415; Netherwood, $15,000; New Brunswick, $98,975; New Market, $1,500; North Plainfield, $4,200; Railway, $25,117; Roselle, $18,765; Somerville, $18,817; Summit, $54,250; Westfield, $16,148.

New Jersey again makes a notable showing in the number of and distribution of notable payments reported to The Insurance Press. Among these are $1,000 to Wood—Charles Kyte, $17,994; Netherwood—H. A. Osborne, $10,000, and New Brunswick—G. C. Ludlow, $15,107.

As far as The Insurance Press is able to ascertain there was in 1901 one million dollars paid to the people every business day. This large sum mainly represents payments made in the settlement of death claims or matured endowment policies, of which the old-line companies paid $136,000,000, the remainder being paid by various leading assessment and fraternal societies. These transactions are acceptably reported.

In addition to the $136,000,000 paid in claims, the old-line companies distributed $48,000,000 in dividends to policy holders and for settlements by the surrender of policies prior to the maturity of contracts, but it is not practicable to distribute all of these millions locally. Thus the total payments to policy holders by the old-line companies alone reached $184,000,000 on the basis of returns to the insurance department of the State of New York. Probably $6,000,000 or more was paid to policy holders by companies not reporting to this department. Hence it may fairly be said, in round numbers, that from $190,000,000 to $200,000,000 was distributed by the standard life insurance companies last year, and that the total payments by all companies, associations, societies and orders reached the $200,000,000 mark, this sum representing the aggregate amount distributed among the policy holders or members by all kinds and descriptions of life insurance organizations.

MEMORIAL DAY DETAILS.

Commander Berg Has Appointed Men to Go to Local Cemeteries.

Commander Berg, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 75, G. A. R., has arranged for details to visit the various cemeteries on Memorial Day and decorate the soldiers' graves. It is likely that a special service will be held in the North Plainfield cemetery.

The flowers to be used for decorating the graves will be furnished by school children and members of the Women's Relief Corps. They will be delivered at headquarters the night before Memorial Day, when they will be arranged properly for placing them on the various graves.

Want a Settlement.

Being somewhat impatient over the delay in the settlement of the loss by fire on the Babcock building the fire insurance companies have been communicated with by the estate for the purpose of ascertaining what is to be done. Thus far not a single intimation of what is being done can be learned and, under the present circumstances, the Babcock estate is obliged to stand a considerable loss each day.

MAY GOVERN MEXICO

Gen. Bernardo Reyes, President Diaz' Probable Successor.

At Present He Is Minister of War and One of the Strongest Political and Social Leaders of Our Sister Republic.

If Gen. Porfirio Diaz resigns the office of president of Mexico he will be succeeded by Gen. Bernardo Reyes, the present minister of war. If President Diaz should die suddenly while in office he would likewise be succeeded by Gen. Reyes. The accession to the presidency of Mexico, if accomplished by Gen. Reyes through the resignation of his chief, would be a comparatively peaceful event. Should he secure the office through the sudden death of the present incumbent he will do so under circumstances which will give rise to some alarms in foreign countries whose citizens are interested financially in Mexico maintaining her present political stability.

The story that President Diaz is about to resign has again gone the rounds of the press of the United States. It is a familiar story, and as it is based upon a perfectly logical outcome of the present situation in Mexico, it is readily accepted. It is not believed by those who know the president of Mexico that he is anxious to lay down the tremendous and autocratic power which he has exercised so wisely and so long. He realizes, however, that he is getting to be an old man. He also realizes that, owing to the peculiar character of his people and the despotic form of government which prevails in Mexico under the name of a republic, that the will of the people is not expressed at the ballot box, and that a new reign cannot be inaugurated as in the greater and freer republic to the north.

If President Diaz resigns it will be because the love of his country, which is strong within him, is greater than his desire to continue to wield the scepter.

Gen. Bernardo Reyes first came into political prominence as the govern-or of the Mexican state of Nueva Leon, of which Monterey, the most thoroughly Americanized Mexican city, is the prosperous capital. There are over 3,000 Americans living in Monterey or more than are to be found as permanent residents in the City of Mexico, although the latter is ten times as large as Monterey. Being near the northern boundary of Mexico, and in the zone of operations where American capital has found its freest outlet, the natives of Monterey are thoroughly familiar with the character and customs of the people of the United States. The latter have come to Monterey, paved the streets, put in electric light plants, built factories and planted orange groves in the suburbs, drained the city upon scientific principles, built handsome residences, extended the railroad facilities and made a specialty of entertaining tourists. The stores, the cafes, the banks, and, in fact, all of the industries of Monterey, have found their greatest profit in handling American trade.

GEN. BERNARDO REYES.
(Mr. Diaz' Probable Successor as President of Mexico.)

Gen. Reyes is short of stature, a typical Spanish-American in appearance, quick of action and rapid in speech. He has a magnetic personality, which especially appeals to the young men of his country, and he has long been their idol. As president of the Society of Students in the City of Mexico he has presided at many turbulent meetings, where 2,000 voices united in hailing him as the next president of the republic. Had he willed he could have turned his power to serious account in disturbing the present peaceful condition of his country, but with all his self-esteem, of which it is said he has considerable, his love of country never turned as to lead him into such deplorable folly.

It is said that President Diaz has informed himself well as to the details of this governor of Nueva Leon, and that the real reason for Gen. Reyes being made minister of war and being brought to the City of Mexico was to give him a better sense of perspective and to show him that there were others as well fitted as himself to place himself within the government circle. He has proved an apt pupil, however, and it is believed that his association with Gen. Diaz and others of great ability, like Limantour, the minister of finance, has brought wisdom to this fiery general and curbed his sentimental appreciation of his own merits.

He is not the same character of man, however, as President Diaz, says the Washington Star, and it is an extremely interesting possibility of the future that it may be found Mexico's stability has rested largely in the stability of the character and genius of the president who rules to-day.

BEES IN HIS PARLOR.

But Owner of the House Didn't Know It Until the Busy Insects Began to Sting Him.

For some time past bees have been annoying the family of James R. Clements, of Rochester, N. Y. Every day or so a bee would crawl out of the opening made for one of the sliding doors between the sitting-room and the parlor. Lastly poising itself, the bee would fly about the room until its career was cut short by a slap from the palm of Mr. Clements or somebody else in the house. But another bee would come forth to take the place of the slaughtered one.

It finally dawned upon Mr. Clements that he was keeping bees in his house. The discovery made no particular impression on him until the other day, when one of them stung him.

"HONEY! BUSHELS OF IT."

Hot water was thereupon procured and the spot whence the bees issued was deluged with it, but hot water was a failure so far as concerns the extermination of the bees. So were other devices for circumventing insect marauders in the homes of men.

While Mr. Clements was still hot upon the trail of the bees another member of the family came into contact with one of the small disturbers, and after a brief struggle, although the bee was destroyed, a couple of pieces of furniture were sacrificed and the happiness of the family was disturbed.

That night carpenters were sent for, and upon the day following there was a sound of loud hammering and ripping and tearing of wood. Mr. Clements, from another part of the house, directed the attack.

The workmen tore away a couple of partitions and then discovered that a whole swarm of bees had taken up its abode there. Many had perished, but still there was a large, active contingent, and they resisted the intrusion. But sweet were the fruits of victory.

"Honey! bushels of it!" shouted one of the carpenters, tearing into the room where Mr. Clements was sitting.

Further investigation, after the bees had been driven away, showed the presence of 20 pounds of delicious honey. It cost Mr. Clements $185 to put his house in repair.

NO BUSINESS DONE.

Life Insurance Man Meets a Bright Youngster and His Waterloo at the Same Time.

He was comparatively new at the business and had already found out that the life of an insurance agent is not all a bed of roses, but he was fully determined to make a good record in the small town he had selected for his operations. At one house his ring was answered by a comely young woman, who waited calmly for him to state his business.

"I HAVE NO HUSBAND."

"Is your husband insured, madam?" he began, in an ingratiating fashion.

"No," she responded.

"Indeed!" he answered, confident that he had found a bonanza. "Do you not think he should be insured?"

"No," with the same calmness.

This was a staggerer, but he promptly rallied.

"Why, madam, do you not think that he owes it as a sacred duty to you and his family that his life should be insured?"

"No; I do not."

"You do not! Will you please tell me why?"

"Certainly. I have no husband. Good morning." And the interview was closed.

Sad, But True.

Some people think they are entitled to a lot of praise for the things they don't do.

FIDDLER STEALS GIRL.

Determined Mother Gives Chase, However, and Captures Elopers After a Hard Run.

Mountain Lake, N. J., has been the scene of wild excitement, says the Chicago American.

The cause of the trouble was an old violin in the hands of a young man, who fiddled himself into the heart of a 16-year-old girl and charmed her away from home.

When Mrs. Emma Ammond, a widow of Mountain Lake, awoke on Saturday morning she looked into the room of her daughter Tessie and discovered that the young woman was not there.

A hasty search showed that Tessie had packed some of her clothes in a bag and had evidently left the house before the break of day.

SOUNDLY SPANKED THE GIRL.

On the night previous George Goarcke, from a farm four miles away, had stood under the window in the cold for an hour and played on his violin, and the mother remembered that her daughter has seemed entranced with the music.

Half an hour afterward Mrs. Ammond drew up in front of the Goarcke house, where George, who is 21, lives with his father and mother.

The good woman demanded to know wether her daughter had followed that "fool fiddler" over there. Mrs. Goarcke said she hadn't, and if she had she wouldn't have let her in.

After this outburst, Mrs. Ammond drove over to the lake, where the men were cutting ice, and reported that she had proof that Tessie had jumped in.

Investigation showed footprints in the snow leading down to a hole. The laborers quit work, and all day they poked the hole with a long pole, while the mother sat by a fire on the bank and directed the operations.

By night all Hope township knew of the affair, and the search kept up until George Devoe, who carries the mail between Belvidere and Free Union, reported that he had seen a face at the attic window in the Goarcke house which reminded him of Tessie.

Mrs. Arnold lost no time in getting to the Goarcke farm. Just as she drove around the corner of the barn she encountered George Goarcke and Tessie, seated in a buggy and evidently preparing for flight. For four miles she pursued the runaways and just in sight of the crowd on Mountain Lake she overtook them.

Mrs. Ammond reached over and pulled her daughter into the buggy Then she laid her over her knee, and amid jeers from the crowds she soundly spanked the girl.

HERMIT'S LOVE TALE.

Kentucky Wild Man, Caught by Hunters, Forced to Relate the Romance of His Life.

A wild man was seen in the cliffs of Devil's creek, seven miles from Campton, Ky., by some coon hunters. He wore no clothing, was covered with hair from head to foot and looked to be about 60 years old.

COMPELLED TO TALK.

He at first refused to talk, but when the hunters leveled their Winchester rifles at him he said that when he was 18 years old he fell in love with a girl of 16. He was engaged to marry her, but on the very day, and within ten minutes of the time appointed for the ceremony, she dropped dead.

He then decided to hide himself from the view of man forever, and went into the woods and cliffs of Devil's creek. Since then he had never seen a human being until last night, when he was discovered by the coon hunters. He had subsisted on roots, bark, berries and game, and after he had worn all his clothing out he barkened himself to the cold by degrees, until finally it did not have any effect upon him.

AN AFRICAN SHRINE.

"Long Ju-Ju," Mecca of the Slaves of Fetichism.

Gruesome Place Where Hundreds of Human Lives Are Sacrificed Every Year—Mysteries of the Retreat Revealed.

Fifty human lives are sacrificed every year at the "Long Ju-Ju," one of the many fetich centers that dot the jungles of central and western Africa, in order that evil spirits may be banished from the land and the wrath of the gods appeased. The "Long Ju-Ju" is one of the most notorious and most powerful meccas of the slaves of fetichism. It is here that hundreds of the superstitious natives pile up their material offerings to the spirits and journey in resolute bands to deposit the relics of Ju-Ju rites.

Some interesting figures concerning the "Long Ju-Ju" have just come out of the interior from a correspondent with the Aro expedition. It is estimated that every year 500 pilgrims journey to the sacred spot to receive the fetich decree and advice which is vouchsafed to them by the recognized powers. Most of them it is a dear experience. About 50 of them are sacrificed annually in order that their skulls may be offered to the gods, while fully 200 people are sold into slavery. The remainder are allowed to go away free.

The "Long Ju-Ju" is one of the most fascinating spots in western Africa to the curiously inclined explorer. On account of its sacred holdings it is closely guarded by the natives, and it is by no means easy of access, even when the traveler is accompanied by an experienced and licensed guide. The utmost secrecy is observed in approaching its entrance. In addition to the difficulties the conducting of a visitor to the Ju-Ju is a somewhat lengthy process. When he arrives in the immediate vicinity of the uneasny spot he is led by a circuitous route and finally is marched in hoodwinked.

The approach to the Ju-Ju is through dense bush, which gradually becomes thicker and thicker, until the entrance is reached. The Ju-Ju is an oval-shaped pit 70 feet deep, 60 yards long, and 50 yards wide. In entering the visitor climbs down the precipitous sides of rock into a narrow gorge and into running water. The water gushes forth from the solid rock in two large streams, which unite below a small island, on which are two altars, one made from many trade guns stuck muzzle downwards in the ground and topped with human skulls. The other is made of wood and supports more skulls, bones, feathers, blood, eggs and other votive offerings to the Ju-Ju, including the head of the last victim.

THE ISLAND ALTAR.
(Made from MANY Trade Guns and Topped with SKULLS.)

Over the rock from which the running water springs is a roof of human skulls with a curtain, the top part of which is composed of clothes and the lower part of native matting, screening the rock and hanging just out of the water's edge. The lower portions of the rock concealing the other sides of this crater are draped with mats only.

The sacrificial functions of the Ju-Ju are performed on the left side of the entrance, opposite the island, where a flat-topped ledge has been hewn out of the rock. The waters as well as the walls and whole interior of the channel-house abound in fetich lore. The pool is about 12 inches deep and abounds in tame, lazy-looking, gray-colored fish, about two feet in length. These fish have long suckers and glaring yellow eyes. The roof of the Ju-Ju is formed by a mass of densely interwined creepers.

At the left of the entrance, through which the visitor is escorted, rests the greatest evidence of the devotion of the native worshipers to their beloved fetich. Here lie the skulls of scores who have been sacrificed in order that the Ju-Ju rites might be fully administered and the spirit world communicated with through material offerings.

The natives in these fetich centers of West Africa believe that by venting their wrath upon human beings, animals and even inanimate objects they are enabled to worship the gods. If they are prosperous and succeed what they regard as misfortune, the objects of their devotion are petted, but if the reverse is true they minister the most excruciating punishment and cast some portion of the object in the Ju-Ju.

Bugs Eat Up a Church.

Bugs are eating the First Presbyterian church of Middletown, O. The insects are of the beetle species, and bore holes in the stones of which the edifice is composed. The stones are crumbling, and many of the holes are large enough to admit a lead pencil.

HEARD AT OLD POINT.

Interesting Debate on What the "Nigger" Likes to Eat, Which Ended in the First Round.

A man just returned from the south tells this story of a bet between two darkies of Old Point Comfort:

The traveler was seated on the gallery of the Hygeia hotel when he saw 'Eph" and a blacker companion walking toward the hotel. They were engaged in animated discussion and gesticulating expressively, soon getting near enough to be overheard.

"I kin name bit fust en' I kin name bit de quickes'," said Eph.

"Unh-um," injected the other, "you got to tell 'bout what a niggah likes

"STOP, NIGGAH!"
("Fo' de Lawd, You Ain' Let Nothin' fuh Me to Tell'")

tuh eat de bes' ob eberyting on de yearth—mighty slow an' partickiar so's yo' mouf water whiles you talkin'. It eain' be name whiles you floppin' up a nickel."

"Well—you jes go 'haid an' tell," dared Eph. "I bet you dis heah copper 'gin' a bo'k' of 'baccah dat when you gits thro' yo' gran' 'miration. I kin name what'll tickle a niggah's palate mo'n all de Belnezzar feasts."

The stakes were put up and the black man launched forth on the prize edible.

"You gits yo' dawg at sun down an' gits over de fence and you walks 'long twel you comes to de woods. Den you sings:

"Possum up de gum stump.
Coon down in de hollar.
Pretty gal at our house
Wat yo' she kin holler."

"Terrecly yo' dog run to sycamo' tree. You goes up dat tree an' you see a fat young possum. You gits dat possum down—(Eph began to look anxious), an' feels yo' way an' climb de fence. When yo' git back to yo' cabin you turn in an' bile some water in de pot en put ashes in bit. Den you tek an' turn in an' slaps dat possum in de pot. Den you tek him out, when he good en hot, an' you rub him an' scrape him an' scr-a-pe him. When yo' gits done scrapin', you hangs him out do'se an' freeze 'im all night. De nex' mawnin' you put him in de pot an' bile him twel he tender an' den yo' gits out a pan an' grease bit. Den you turn in an' tek sweetin'-taters an' put 'em all 'roun' on de youtside. Den yo' put in de possum an' tek an' turn in an' put sweetin-taters all on de inside an' set him on de oben. Preseny you smell him cookin' mighty nice an' juicy an'"—

"Stop, niggah!" shouted Eph, in despair. "Fo de Lawd, you ain't lef' nothin fuh me to tell!"

HOGG IS DEMOCRATIC.

Ex-Governor of Texas Positively Refuses to Wear Knee Breeches for King Edward.

A dispatch from London to the Chicago Tribune, tells of the emphatic refusal of ex-Gov. Hogg, of Texas, to attend a court levee to which he had been invited by the American ambassador when he found it would be necessary to wear the regulation dress of knee breeches, sword, etc. Mr. Hogg, who is six feet tall and weighs 400 pounds, said if he could not wear an ordinary dress suit he would forego the pleasure of meeting King Edward, and remarked that he "would cut a pretty figure in knee breeches."

JAMES S. HOGG.
(Ex-Governor of Texas Objects to Wearing Knee Breeches.)

Mr. Hogg is in London promoting a Texas oil deal. He was elected attorney general of Texas on the anti-trust platforms, and later, as governor, was the most bitter enemy in the country of trusts, driving the Standard Oil company out of Texas and originating stringent legislation against trusts. When he left the governor's chair seven years ago he is said to have had just $55, but since has amassed a fortune of $2,000,000 in oil lands.

Pneumatic Postal Tubes.

Pneumatic postal tubes make slow progress in this country. In London there are 23 pneumatic tubes for the dispatch of postal packets, and their aggregate length is 34 miles.

YOUTH OF MARQUIS ITO.

On His First Arrival in Europe the Great Japanese Statesman Had Just Two Dollars.

No student of oriental politics would to-day charge Marquis Ito with unprogressiveness. He is rightly considered as the creator of modern Japan. And yet, when he was a young man, he was bitterly opposed to the new-fangled ideas which his crack-brained countrymen were then busy importing from the occident. Because of his active opposition to the propaganda of the dominant party he was proscribed and forced to seek refuge in Europe. To an interviewer the marquis recently detailed the story of his emigration, in which he and young Count Inouye were companions.

THE MARQUIS ITO.
(Recognized Leader of the Progressive Element in Japan.)

"We two young fellows," the marquis said, "made for Nagasaki for the purpose of getting to England. The only word of English we knew was 'navigation.' At the office of the shipping company the man in charge asked what we wanted; all we could say was 'navigation.' He sent us aboard a vessel and imagine our surprise at finding we had been shipped as common sailors. All through the voyage we had to scrub decks and work just as the others did. The English sailors found out that we had money, and it was soon gambled away from us. But not all, for we kept two dollars carefully stowed away in an old stocking for emergencies."

With these two dollars Ito and his friend arrived one wet and stormy day at London docks. No one came to meet them and they were left alone, hungry and destitute in the great city. One of the dollars was tossed in the air, and on the cast Inouye, it was decided was to go and seek for food. He discovered a baker's shop, threw the dollar on the counter, seized a loaf of bread, and, without stopping for the change, rushed back to Ito, who, tired and ravenous, was waiting for him. Next day their friends came for them, and they were no longer alone. Such was Ito's first introduction to England and to western life.

TALLEST MAN ON EARTH.

Edward Beaupre Stands Ten Feet Eleven Inches High and Weighs Just 587 Pounds.

Dame Nature has apparently outdone herself in Edward Beaupre, the young French Canadian giant, who bids fair to outrival the fabled one-eyed giant Polyphemus, of Homer's time, while he overtops by several feet modern competitors.

Beaupre, therefore, enjoys the proud distinction of being the tall-

LONG AND SHORT OF IT.
(Edward Beaupre, the Giant, and a Man of Ordinary Size.)

est man on earth. He is 30 years old, tips the scales at 587 pounds, and stands ten feet 11 inches high, his hands measuring 19 inches, and his feet 24 inches by 12 wide. A two inch tape measure barely encircles his chest.

Each of his trousers legs can contain the figures of two ordinary persons, and there is sufficient cloth in one of his suits to outfit ten average men. The massive framework of each of his outstretched arms will bear the weight of three athletes. A man five feet ten inches by his side appears a mere pigmy.

One of the peculiarities about Beaupre is that his father and mother were of ordinary size. From youth he has been a great gymnast and has given much time to athletic sports.

Decrease in Whaling Fleet.

Since 1890 the number of ships in the American whaling fleet has decreased from 97 to 46. There is a steady falling off in the production of both sperm oil and whalebone.

OOM PAUL IN EXILE

Final Scenes in the Long Career of President Kruger.

How the Pious Old Man Lives in the Little Town of Hilversum, Holland—His Spirit Not Crushed by Reverses.

The final scenes in the long and adventurous career of the ex-president of the South African republic, better the point of absorptions in the British dominion, are being assisted at a little town named Hilversum, in Holland. According to the latest advices, his end cannot be very far off, and one of the most remarkable men of the last century will disappear forever from the stage of human affairs. Mr. Kruger inhabits a small, two-storied house, known as Casa Cara, similar in every way to the residence of the wealthy Dutch merchants, and of the usual type of country houses in Holland. There are grounds surrounding the building in which the president spends a good portion of each day.

Hilversum is a town of about 20,000 inhabitants, and is half an hour's ride by rail from Amsterdam. It is a favorite country residence of the Dutch, being very healthful and quiet. Oom Paul rises early, according to his lifelong custom, takes a cup of black coffee the first thing in the morning, and when dressed repairs to the garden, where he remains as a rule, till half past nine. During this time he goes through his mail, which has previously been classified for him by his private secretary. He always takes with him on these occasions his two inseparable companions, a large pipe and a large old-fashioned Bible with large metal clasps.

Although he knows the sacred books almost by heart, especially those of the Old Testament, and can always quote an appropriate passage from the Bible suitable for any given emergency, yet he, nevertheless, reads his Bible every day under the shade of al arge tree in the pleasant grounds of the villa. At noon precisely, for Mr. Kruger is nothing if not methodical, he takes a cold

CASA KARA, HILVERSUM.
(Mr. Kruger's Modest Home in One of the Oldest Dutch Towns.)

luncheon with his party, which, as a rule, consists of his nephew, Mr. Eloff, who is also his private secretary, and Mr. Van Boschoetzee, ex-chief of the Transvaal ministry. Messrs. Back van Ven and Breedel, who are in attendance on the aged ex-president. His faithful servitor, Happe, and a Belgian physician, Dr. Heymans, always accompany him. The latter has forbidden him the use of any wine or liquors, his only drink being mineral water. After luncheon Mr. Kruger takes a siesta, which lasts till four o'clock in the afternoon. He then goes for a drive in a carriage bearing the former arms and escutcheon of the Transvaal, and returns to the house by six o'clock. It pleases the old man greatly to observe the general respect which he meets with from all classes of the public, and all the children strike up the Boer national anthem, which every one knows in Holland, as he passes by. He takes supper at half past six, and retires invariably at eight p. m.

His undaunted spirit does not appear to be crushed by the reverses which have overtaken his beloved country, and from time to time he observes: "We are strong as ever we were; we can continue this fight right along, and will never admit defeat;" brave, but ill-considered expressions from the lips of this most remarkable old man whose name will undoubtedly drift down to the remotest posterity.

The Anointing of Kings.

The question as to whether King Edward should be anointed at his coronation and if so what part of the ceremony would take is bringing to light some interesting stories as to the way in which the rite was formerly performed. Edward VI., the boy king, had no difficulty than that of Richard Crookback, who was stripped to the waist. Edward VI. lay prostrate on the altar while Archbishop Cranmer rubbed his back with oil in such a way as wives rubbed embrocation on the backs of rheumatic husbands. In former days the holy oil with which the king was anointed was supposed to hedge him with divinity, so in those rough times it was natural that a king should hasten his coronation. Witches were forbidden to attend the ceremony.

Prussia Religious Service.

The Prussian prayer book enjoins that the whole of the service, including the sermon, shall not last above one hour.

PULL DID NOT WORK.

A Tammany Man's Experience with Mr. Lewis Nixon.

How Head of New York's Great Political Organization Has a Record That Is Not Pleasing to the Ward Bummers.

Mr. Lewis Nixon, the new leader of Tammany hall, represents the most pronounced departure from the traditions of that organization. Heretofore the Tammany leader has always been a man whose sole occupation was politics. From Tweed to Croker the boss depended for a living on the organization and the power that he wielded. Tweed made millions upon millions by robbing the city. John Kelly, who wrested the power from Tweed, though undoubtedly an honest man so far as the direct taking of money was concerned, went into the organization poor and died worth a quarter of a million. Richard Croker is reputed to be a millionaire several times over. Since he went actively into politics he has never been engaged in any pursuit that yielded an income except for short periods when he served as fire commissioner and city chamberlain.

Now comes a man whose record is such as to make it certain that instead of making money out of politics he will lose it. Mr. Nixon has coined his time into money at a rate that must seem fabulous to most men. Though very young, he has through his own exertions built up one of the most extensive shipbuilding enterprises in the country. At his yard at Elizabethport there is work under way of the value of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000. In addition he has gone extensively into the business of building automobiles. Outside of these pursuits he is also actively engaged as director in a number of other important enterprises.

He had the reputation, even before assuming the active leadership of Tammany hall, of being the busiest man in the metropolis. Every minute of every day was laid out carefully in advance, and he transacted his business on an exact time schedule. He moved about from place to place and from office to office with as much precision as a railroad train. By consulting his secretary it was possible always to strike him at any point at any time no matter in how wide a circle he moved. He generally began work at eight o'clock in the morning and kept steadily at it until seven in the evening, when he went home to dine.

HON. LEWIS NIXON.
(Executive Head of New York's Tammany Hall Democracy.)

Out of a day as compactly filled as this Mr. Nixon now devotes at least three hours in each 24 to the affairs of Tammany hall. At nine o'clock in the morning or at three in the afternoon he is to be found at his desk in the wigwam where, since his advent as chief, the chiefs of Tammany are once more transacted instead of at the Democratic club in upper Fifth avenue, which was the Tammany headquarters under the Croker regime.

Probably no other topic is proving of such extraordinary interest to the citizens of New York as the question of what Mr. Nixon will be able to accomplish in Tammany hall. He is opposed to everything for which the ruling powers in the wigwam have for many years stood. He is a man of high honor, and any one who should offer him a bribe, no matter how disguised, would probably not revive for several hours, for Mr. Nixon stands over six feet in his stockings and hits straight from the shoulder. The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post says that an interesting incident occurred while Mr. Nixon was at the head of the East River bridge commission, the body that had charge of planning and building the new bridge between New York and the eastern district of Brooklyn. A henchman of one of the most prominent men in Tammany hall had got into an ugly scrape. To help him out it was necessary to secure the influence of a man who stood high in the community. The Tammany politician concluded that Mr. Nixon would do, and he sought him out at the office of the bridge commission. He stated his mission in a manner which took it for granted that his wish would be complied with. Mr. Nixon heard him to the end and then turned on him fiercely.

"You have," thundered the irate young shipbuilder, thumping his desk until the ink-well jumped, "the most infernal impudence to come to me with such a request! This fellow is a blackguard and a scoundrel, and I hope he will get everything that is coming to him under the law!"

When the Tammany man had sufficiently recovered his breath he mumbled an apology and slunk away.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

What Is Considered Smart—A Useful Petticoat.

Patent leather shoes will continue to be the proper thing this summer. The shoes for ordinary wear have heavy soles and are ornamented with rows of fanciful stitching. For medium wear there are colonial slippers with heavy soles, walking heels and a long tongue of leather, held down by an oval buckle. Some dress shoes have velvet tops, and this has a tendency to make the foot look smaller.

The woman who is forced to practice economy will buy a pair of kid shoes having deep patent leather tips and smart, standing Cuban heels. These will outwear the patent leather shoes and yet present an almost equally smart appearance.

LACE AND POINT D'ESPRIT WAIST.

Petticoats of black china silk made with many ruffles edged with narrow black lace are pretty and serviceable to wear under veiling costumes having taffeta slips, because in that case no superfluous flare is desired.

The new stockings are of very fine pattern. A great deal of openwork effect will be worn.

The cut shows a lace and point d'esprit blouse made after the latest fashion. It has a bolero, upper sleeve and bertha of fine lace and tucking. Through the lap of the bertha narrow velvet ribbon is run, and this forms an irregular bow in front with long ends. A bunch of artificial violets completes the chic of this bow. The sleeves have very full puffs at the wrist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Smart Materials — Useful Three-quarter Length Coats.

Both for coat costumes and for separate coats smooth fabrics are popular, and there are exquisite tints in fawn, dove, pigeon gray, mastic, putty and the inevitable creamy whites, some of which are almost deep enough to be called biscuit color. Complete costumes of white cloth etamine and serge will be worn a great deal this summer.

LACE HOUSE JACKET.

Both modistes and tailors speak of the difficulty they have in getting their clients to accept the basque. The bolero which just escapes the waist line is undeniably a most becoming fashion with the present close fitting and trailing skirts. The only basque which so far has met with any success is the deep shaped one of the Louis coat or the tiny godet basque added to the costee and Russian blouse.

The sack coat of half and three-quarter length is its most dressy aspect is worn at race meetings, and it is accepted as a carriage wrap generally. It is so adaptable that it can be slipped over a bolero costume or a Russian blouse. These coats are only seen in light coloring when cloth is employed, but a few are shown in black peau de soie or moire with elaborate collars of lace or passementerie applique.

The smart house jacket shown is of all over lace. It has a sailor collar and the wide Japanese sleeve now so much in favor. The trimming consists of ribbon, bindings and bows of turquoise blue satin.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VICTIM OF JEALOUSY.

Paris Husband Imprisoned in a Cage Because His Wife Loved Him All Too Fondly.

Three days and three nights locked in a cage simply because his wife loved him all too fondly, have proved too much for M. Ravelote, a citizen of Paris, and he has applied to the courts for an absolute divorce.

According to M. Ravelote's story, the jealous rage of his wife caused her to have built in a distant room of the house a steel cage strong enough to hold a desert lion. He knew nothing of this until one day the wife, the concierge and a powerful maid servant pounced upon him and dragged him to this distant cell. He was thrust into it, the door slammed and locked, and he was held a prisoner there until the woman who so innocently had excited Mme. Ravelote's jealousy had left Paris.

CROCKERY BEGAN TO FLY.

Even then Ravelote says that he would not have been released had his brother not chanced to call and insist upon seeing him. In the long days and nights in which he was locked up the complainant says that he was left to sleep without covering, on the bare floors of the cage, while food was passed to him through the steel bars.

In his bill of complaint Ravelote admits the sincerity of his wife's affection. He insists only that its accompanying unreasonable jealousies are intolerable to him. The storm which led to the building of the steel cage, he says, burst three months ago. One morning he remarked at breakfast in the most casual way that a young woman whom he had known as a boy was coming to Paris. In an instant, he says, crockery began to fly all about the room, doing great damage and seriously endangering his life. Peace was made only after he had promised not to see the young woman while she was in the capital. The building of the cage and his imprisonment followed.

ROUTED BY SPARROWS.

Hundreds of Hungry Birds Have a Peck at an Aged New York Farmer's Bald Head.

According to a Middletown (N. Y.) correspondent, Theodore Davis, an aged farmer of Pitt's Hollow, is suffering from an onslaught of English sparrows, which inflicted numerous wounds about his head and face.

Davis was crossing a field some distance from his house when he encountered a large flock of the birds. They arose from the ground as the farmer made his appearance and circled about his head, obstructing his vision. Then the birds began pecking at Davis, and in his efforts to escape the flock his hat fell off, exposing his bald head, which also proved a target for the ferocious little creatures.

HIS HAT FELL OFF.

With blood issuing from the wounds on his head and face the aged farmer finally succeeded in making his escape, and, nearly exhausted from his experience, slowly made his way home, where his wounds were dressed.

Davis says it appeared to him as though there were many hundreds of the birds about him, and they were proof against all his attacks. He believes hunger caused them to make the attack.

There Are Falls and Falls.

An American traveler visited the Niagara skating rink, in London, not long ago. He watched the performance for some time, and then he turned to his companions and host. "Wa'al," he said, "I've seen our Niagara, and now I've seen yours. Our show is very fine and imposing, but I guess your falls are more amusing."

LACE NOVELTIES.

Irish Lace Is Combined With Thin Fabrics—New Shadings.

The summer evening gowns are decidedly picturesque with their fanciful incrustations of lace, frilled fichus and dainty bolero. Those who are not possessed of real lace can obtain beautiful imitations at moderate prices, and thus the majority can have even their inexpensive frocks trimmed with it.

The crane for Irish lace does not abate one jot. It is now used with the greatest effect on crepe de chine evening dresses. A mixture of this guipure-like lace with fine fabrics sounds incongruous, but incongruity is often effective when treated with skill.

The newest shade in lace is a tawny orange, and this is very pretty mingled with black and white chiffon. Ivory white lace is only used on white gowns, and not much at that. The yellowish and brownish tones are much to be preferred from the point of view of style.

AFTERNOON TOILET.

Lace scarfs are much used on hats, draped softly around and tied in a loose bow, with drooping ends.

The picture shows an afternoon gown of pale reseda green crepe de chine, trimmed with applications of black silk in net mounted over white silk. The waist is made with a deep square yoke, and the rest of the waist is accordion plaited. The skirt is also accordion plaited.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

COTTON GOWNS.

Pretty Models For Country and Warm Weather Wear.

Dainty morning gowns are made of silk, gingham, black china silk and pongee. The pongee gowns are made with tucked blouses pouched back and front and intersected with wide string colored insertions. The skirts are either tucked perpendicularly or they have from two to four flounces finished four or five soft folds. Ecru headings are run through with black velvet ribbons. This makes particularly pretty collars, elbow bands and sashes.

Gowns of scarlet linen will be much used for country wear. They are made shirt waist fashion, with strapped seams and tiny buttons for trimming.

FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

Grass linen bolero and skirt costumes are trimmed with touches of pale blue or pink in the shape of embroidery or soft china silk folds.

Pompadour challies, half silk and half wool, form dainty house gowns for warm weather.

For country wear nothing could be smarter than the red linen dress shown in the picture. The waist is made with a pointed yoke and three strappings held down by tiny gold buttons. The rest of the fullness is stitched into tiny tucks. The belt is of the material, with a gold buckle. The skirt is plain, with the exception of a line of strapping down the front.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SAVED BY RED COAT.

Engineer Mistook Baby's Cloak for Danger Signal and Stopped Train Just in Time.

Engineer David Whitsell was bringing Burlington train No. 166, Conductor Everett Dyer, from Lyons to Denver, Col., the other afternoon. It was a heavy freight carrying stone and coal. At a railroad crossing the engineer was guiding it to Lafayette. The grade permits of high speed and No. 166 was making time, flashing past mine buildings and a few houses scattered on the outskirts of the town.

Rounding a curve, W. J. Fickler, who was acting as brakeman and was riding in the cab, grabbed Whitsell's arm.

MOTHER SEIZED HER BABY.

From the cab window Fickler had seen a red flag, the signal of danger, waving down the track. The distance was probably 800 feet. The engineer with all haste applied the air and reversed the lever. The heavy train responded with a jar and rumble, and, sliding with ever-decreasing speed, came to a stop within 20 feet of a little child, a girl of about two years of age, wearing a red cloak with a lace collar.

The child was standing between the rails as if rooted there, gazing at the locomotive with the liveliest curiosity. It was the color of the cloak, a mere speck of red in the converging lines of steel, that had saved her from death under the wheels. As the train was slowing up, Whitsell gave the whistle brakes and with three screams and the bell tried to frighten the child into a realization of her danger. There was a horrible fear in the hearts of both men that the train would not stop in time.

The whistle attracted the attention of the inmates of a miner's house near the track. A woman ran swiftly to the track, seized the child in the red cloak, kissed it as she hugged it to her breast, burst into weeping as she carried her hastily crying burden down the slight embankment. She forgot to thank the train crew, but that didn't matter. They were used to stopping at danger signals.

SWAIN WAS BASHFUL.

Young Missourian Informs Preacher That He Was Bent on "Committing Matrimony."

"I want to commit matrimony!" Dr. R. L. Powell, in the Louisville Courier Journal, tells the story of a bashful Missouri swain who blurted out this sentence in one of his mad endeavors to make his desires known. It was in the early years of the ministry of Dr. Powell, when he had a charge in Missouri in the good old days before every Missourian had to be "shown." There came to his home one morning a gawky individual, who disjointed, so to speak, as he bowed himself into the presence of the preacher.

"I ER WANT ER—ER—ER!"

"I—er—want—er—er—" and he took a big swallow at the lump in his throat, but, like Banquo's ghost, it would not down.

Dr. Powell knew what was coming, but he gave his tall caller no encouragement.

The more the fellow tried to get out of the scrape the more entangled he became. He would lead up to the subject and would be on the verge of imparting the momentous information, when a break would come in his voice and he would shift his talk to weather. Finally in sheer desperation he managed to jerk out the words:

"Parson, I want to commit matrimony."

Then teeth came together with a gnash, as he hit off the last word. The sentence came as a climax.

A kindly twinkle in Dr. Powell's eye brought the bashful youth back to earth and terminated for the ceremony came forthwith made.

Dr. Powell says he has heard of committing murder, but committing matrimony was a new one on him.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Voiles, Eolienne and Etamines Lead the Fashion.

There is no denial that voile and eolienne, which is a silkier make of voile, are favorite materials for day wear, though the bagsackings and canvases are having great vogue with the tailors, while curious mixed tweeds and cloths are still in the fashion. Etamine, a material a cross between a crepon and a veiling, is very popular made up over shiny taffeta which can be discerned through the meshes. All the canvas and veiling gowns are trimmed with bands of moire or glace taffeta.

Blue in all shades is very stylish this spring, and the blue cheviot coat and skirt are universally becoming as well as smart for traveling. Alpaca will be worn later on, but it will be very much tucked and trimmed with heavy lace. Plain alpaca as a rule does not give a sufficiently rich effect. A fine, silky alpaca in one of the many shades of red makes a delightfully cool and smart gown for summer outings. Pin spotted and striped alpacas are among the novelties.

ETAMINE SUIT.

The etamine tailor made in the illustration is a good model. The jacket is blouse shaped, and the sleeves flare considerably at the wrist. It is trimmed with bands of moire held down by steel buttons. The skirt has perpendicular strappings and a herringbone effect of the moire strappings around the bottom.

The hat which goes with this is of black chiffon and white lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Attractive Little Dresses and Coat and Skirt Suits.

Children's dresses this summer are to be fluffier than ever. Like those of their elders, they will be made up of veilings and soft crepe de chines made over taffeta linings and embellished with many ruffles. The necks will be cut round, without collars, and with these will be worn light gold chains or single strings of fine artificial pearls. Some of the prettiest dresses are made entirely of fine ruffles and have narrow sashes of black velvet with embroidered ends.

Pongee is particularly useful as well as pretty for a child's dress, and with these little gowns ecru lace hats trimmed with scarfs of soft white louisine ribbon are pretty.

CHILD'S COSTUME.

Three-quarter length black taffeta coats which allow a peep of the fluffy skirts beneath are chic when they are livened up by large steel buttons and collars of fine lace.

For the older children little jacket and skirt costumes of cheviot are worn with soft white china silk and muslin waists trimmed with insertion.

The child's costume shown is of blue cheviot trimmed with stitched bands of black taffeta.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SKETCH OF MARCONI.

The Social Side of the Youthful Electrical Inventor.

Wants to Be Agreeable with Everyone, But Scientific Best Interference—Recognized by Princes and Savants.

One of the best friends of Marconi, the youthful Italian inventor, recently called him a most unsocial individual. The observation is interesting, but it is not quite true. Marconi is not social in the sense of being a devotee of pink teas, receptions and the like, but he is the sort of man who makes a good companion to his intimates who know how to keep within the range of his interests.

And his range of interests is not limited, by any means. There are few subjects in the line of physical science or invention which he has not studied, and he is acquainted with the work of many inventors in other subjects. He plays the piano fairly well, having studied under a master for several years of his childhood. He is an all-round athlete. He speaks several languages. Now, a man does not have to be all of these things in order to be a successful inventor of wireless telegraphy. He is a great man in more ways than one.

The fact is, says the Washington Star, Marconi really wants to be sociable toward everyone, but his scientific side does not allow him to carry out his inclinations.

"I should like to go away from all the work and worry, and stay among pleasant people for a month or so," he said one day, "but I know that I should no sooner be away from my work than I would begin to think that I ought to be back at it and that I was wasting my time. That's why I cannot take a rest. I even work as hard on an ocean voyage as I do when I'm at one of my experimental stations. But I guess I have as much fun out of my work

GUGLIELMO MARCONI.
(The Young Italian Inventor of the Wireless Telegraph.)

as most people do out of their social diversions."

Marconi likes American women, and, judging from the scores of invitations which he has received since his return to this country from leading society women of New York and other cities American women like him.

He is essentially a man of simple habits. He is an aristocrat of the common people, and, although he has always had more money than he cared to spend, he has never changed his style of living. He lives well, enjoys a good dinner, drinks a little wine and occasionally smokes a cigarette. The most important thing in the world to him is his work; the greatest affection he has for any person is for his mother. If he had his own way he would live a quiet life in some country place where he could work undisturbed by newspaper reporters or lion hunters. The glare of publicity has been on him so long that it is little wonder that he wearies of the attention, no matter how kindly meant it may all be.

To strangers, Marconi is a curious mixture of reserve, modesty, diffidence and indifference, if such a mixture of terms may be taken at one breath. He cares little for the praise of men, for the sake of the honeyed words themselves. He does care for the good opinions of the men who really understand his work and for the recognition of the leading men of the world.

He was asked one day what his outlook on life and his work was, and he replied:

"I feel that I must do the work that I am in, and that nothing shall stop me. When the work wins the commendation of those who understand it I am pleased. The one thing I do like about the success which I have attained is that it has brought me into close touch with the greatest living men of the world. That is worth something."

In that remark Marconi revealed all of the social ambition he has. He wants to know the leading men of the world, and for a man not yet 28 years of age one must admit he has made a good beginning. He is intimately acquainted with the King and Queen of Italy, with King Edward VII. of England and with many of the royal family. The king of the Belgians is an acquaintance, and scores of princes, dukes, counts, lords and knights are proud to claim this young man as their friend. Lord Kelvin, chief of England's most distinguished scientists, takes the highest interest in Marconi's work.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Ford, Editor and Proprietor

LONG IN SERVICE.

Among the public officials who make their home in Plainfield, there are few, indeed, who have served so long and faithfully as Captain J. Frank Hubbard, who has just been elected director of the Union county Board of Freeholders for the fourteenth year. It is his thirty-fourth year as a member of the board. Under his direction, the county has grown to be one of the most important in the State. While he has been the head of the controlling body of the county, one of the finest systems of good roads has been built and maintained at county expense. Today, Union county is famed throughout the State for its fine roads. Then, too, a progressive policy regarding bridges has been followed out.

For some reason, it is comparatively seldom that the public hears of Director Hubbard. He goes about his work quietly and, having done his duty, has but little to say. He has, however, many warm friends who know and appreciate the good work he has done since he has held that official position. There are few men who have the thorough knowledge of county affairs that he possesses, and so, for that reason particularly, he is a very important factor in the proceedings of the board.

Besides its re-election of Captain Hubbard, the Board of Freeholders returned to office two other men well and favorably known in Plainfield. Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, who is again county attorney, has already shown his ability to fill that office to the general satisfaction of all. As county physician, Dr. Westcott, of Fanwood, has been a very efficient official and all who have had any occasion to deal with him in the past will welcome the news of his re-election to that position.

THE TRUTH ABOUT IT.

One of the evidences of the difference of assessments in city and borough was the French carriage manufactory, on Somerset street, which is built directly over the brook and is divided between the two counties. This was originally assessed in North Plainfield $1,900, and in Plainfield for $1,600. That was when Dr. J. H. Cooley was the borough assessor. Then the attention of the Borough Council was called to the difference and, by order of the Council, the assessment was changed to conform with that on the city side.

Borough Assessor French says that without doubt the original assessment was correct on the basis on the method in vogue in that municipality. The members of the Borough Council were not, he says, acquainted with the basis on which borough property is assessed or else they would not have made the change. In order to conform with the others, it should be today $1,900.

The difference in the two assessments was given as an evidence in an argument in favor of consolidation. The "antis" denied it when their assessing was held without explaining that the change had recently been made. The facts of the case are those just given.

It is interesting to know that the financial standing of the city of Plainfield is higher than it ever was before. When bids were opened for the issue of sewer improvement bonds, the highest price offered was greater by a considerable figure than that ever offered before for city bonds. The price paid was 107.35, with accrued interest from May 1. It shows how well the city stands in the financial world. It is also an object lesson to the boroughites who have never been able to reach such a figure when they issued any bonds. While the successful bidder was a New York banking house, it is satisfactory to know that a local concern was second and only a little bit behind.

The troubles between the master and journeyman plumbers appear to be no nearer a settlement than they were the first day of the strike. Both sides appear to have declared war to the death and the contest for the survival of the fittest continues to wage while the public awaits, with such patience as it can muster, an end of the trouble and a resumption of business.

There seems to be some question as to whether or not the members of the North Plainfield Board of Health receive any compensation. As a matter of fact, the members do not but the secretary, Dr. W. E. Honeyman, receives $135 as secretary and $50 additional for recording the vital statistics of the borough.

Charles H. Herring, of New York, has been visiting his son, Rev. C. E. Herring, of Watchung avenue.

NEW JERSEY CENTRAL OFFICIAL IS POPULAR

Sketch of Career of Man at the Head of Passenger Department of Central Railroad.

STILL A YOUNG MAN.

ALTHOUGH C. M. BURT HAS BEEN IN RAILROAD BUSINESS 25 YEARS.

Succeeded H. P. Baldwin—He Has Made Several Important Improvements—Established a Publicity Bureau to Boom the Resorts.

The genial and affable manner of C. M. Burt, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, who lives in this city, is winning for him many friends. Mr. Burt has always been for such things as will improve the service of the New Jersey Central, believing that the people should be accommodated. Since taking up his residence in Plainfield he has made many friends by his efforts to please the patrons of the road.

Although a young man, Mr. Burt has been railroading twenty-five years, commencing as a clerk in the auditor's office of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad at Meadville, Pa., in 1879. He remained in this position until 1882, when he left the railway service to take a position with the quartermaster's department, U. S. A., at St. Louis. In 1883 Mr. Burt again entered railroad service as rate clerk in the general passenger office of the West Shore in New York City, and in 1888 he was made chief rate clerk in the Trunk Line Passenger Association. When the Joint Passenger Association was formed in 1896 he was placed in charge of the same, where he remained until its dissolution, caused by the unfavorable decision of the United States Supreme Court. On July 1, 1900, Mr. Burt was appointed general passenger agent of the Fitchburg Railroad in Boston, remaining in that position until its absorption by the Boston and Maine Railroad, when he was made assistant general passenger agent.

When General Passenger Agent Baldwin, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, died last April, Mr. Burt was called to his present position. Mr. Burt has made several improvements in the passenger department of the Central, the most noteworthy being the establishment of a publicity department for the purpose of advertising the many resorts on the line. This department has been placed in charge of Advertising Agent Hayden, who came from Boston with Mr. Burt last year.

OFFICIALLY ACCEPTED.

Second Lieutenant J. P. Mosher, of Company K, Has Resigned—Was Asked to Reconsider It.

It will be with regret that the members of Company K will learn of the resignation of Second Lieutenant John P Mosher, which was officially accepted yesterday by Adj.-Gen. Oliphant. For some time past Mr. Mosher has been considering the move and he was asked by the State officials to reconsider his resignation. This he did, after which he decided to withdraw from the company.

Mr Mosher does this reluctantly, but on account of his many business cares he is compelled to give up his commission in the company. It will probably be several days before his successor is chosen. There are two or three candidates for the position including R. M. Clark, Harry Kitchell, Dr. P. B. Cregar and Albert Littell.

JUNIORS INVITED.

Turned Out to Meeting of the Older Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed Church Last Monday.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church invited the Junior Endeavorers to meet with them last Monday. The little folks turned out in goodly numbers and helped to make the meeting one of considerable interest. Freddy Smith, president of the Junior Society, led the meeting, with the assistance of the superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier, who related in an interesting and impressive style the story of the life of Samuel.

After the introductory exercises the meeting was thrown open and many Juniors took part by reading selections on the subject. Altogether the meeting was a very profitable one for all.

Return to Former Method.

After due consideration it has been deemed advisable for the city missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, to continue their work under their former method, supported by voluntary contributions. While the ministers are interested and commend the work, only four churches contribute to their support.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Chapman, of Belle avenue, entertained their Sunday-school classes at their home Saturday evening.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "like" it, and all claimed to equal it, but "none were quite as fine" — improvements on it. One by one they have dropped out of the race, and for over four years only one lamp that is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

Is it worth while at that to spend $5 with having to a lamp, that is to smoke, and after all is not as good? Don't you want the best and not waste any money?

We can fill every want, and replace or replenish your wants, a new burner or chimney, an old one repaired or replaced for your lamp, a new lamp for your gas fixture, or a gas fixture for your lamp. ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you illustrations on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 30 Park Place, Cor. 20 Broadway, NEW YORK.

THEATRICAL.

Three monster shows, all combined into one continuous performance, from noon until 11 o'clock in the evening, will be the offering at Keith's Union Square Theatre in New York next week. During those eleven hours of constant amusement offered by the premiere vaudeville artists of America and Europe, but one admission is charged, and the audience is invited to remain as long as convenient. Eva William and Jac Tucker will present their petite skean classic entitled "Skinny's Finish," which embodies the choicest elements of comedy, cleverly interspiced with delicate pathos. Their offering is unique and displayed amidst brilliant scenic and electrical settings. Next of importance are Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds, a combination of pure comedy and feminine loveliness; Press Eldridge, universally known as "The Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Fun;" Swift and Huber, experts of musical comedy; Katherine Wells in her new and decidedly original monologue; Johnson, Davenport and Lorella in their familiar comedy sketch entitled "The Foot Ball Players and the Farmer;" Gorman and West, comedy sketchists; Delmore and Oneida in their thrilling aerial act; Watson and Ferguson, eccentriques; Fialkowski, the celebrated Russian mimic; and twenty other vaudeville stars of international fame.

At Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, the continuous performance of refined vaudeville will have Hill and Silviany's sensational bicycle exhibition as its topping feature. Jaques Inseoli, the "Human Arithmetic," will be an extra attraction presenting his wondrous display of mental mathematics. Up in Harlem the Proctor Stock Company will present a popular dramatization of "Carmen" with Edna Archer Crawford in the leading role. The Fifth Avenue stage will be occupied by the Proctor Stock Company in presentations of "Lord Chumley" with Wallace Erskin and Mabel Montgomery in leading roles. At Proctor's Pleasure vaudeville which keeps the performance continuous will have Picollo's Midgets and Ritter's dogs as features. Other entertainers will be Eddie De Foe, the Lovenberg Sisters and Kennedy and James. "Box and Cox" will be the curtain raiser. The Proctor Stock Company will present "The Deacon's Daughter" at the Fifty-eighth Street. The scenic effects have been especially executed and the Proctor players give a fine performance of this amusing piece. Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds will top the vaudeville section of the entertainment. At Proctor's Newark, will have an especially attractive bill. Esau, the man-spe, will be a novel feature and F. F Proctor's $20,000 production of Living Art Studies will be an extra attraction. Souvenirs are distributed at the daily matinees.

Mrs. Fiske's revival of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" has been received at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, with popular enthusiasm as pronounced as that which marked the original production of this play at the Fifth Avenue Theatre several years ago. The revival of "Tess" originally was intended to fill a week, in accordance with Mrs. Fiske's plan to appear in several of her former successes that have won fame in New York in some time. So large was the advance sale for "Tess" at the Manhattan, however—the house being practically all sold for the week before the first performance—that it was found to be necessary to extend the bill for a second week to meet the demand for seats. The Manhattan was crowded on the opening night by one of the most fashionable and brilliant audiences ever gathered in New York, and the theatre was handsomely decorated with flowers to signalize Mrs. Fiske's return to her New York headquarters after her successful tour. The auspices were inspiring, and it is doubtful if "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" was ever before performed in a better artistic spirit or with a more pronounced dramatic effect. Mrs. Fiske was at her best, and her picture of "Tess" was notably symathetic and moving. She was called before the curtain twenty-four times during the performance and greeted with cries of "Bravo!" Every supporting player was keyed to a high pitch, and the whole occasion had the aspect of a great original triumph rather than that of a revival.

LITERARY.

Apropos of the coronation, the June Century will have a double frontispiece consisting of portraits of the King and Queen, printed in tint, and a paper on "The Royal Family of England" by Prof. Oscar Browning, who, it is announced, writes from a forty years' personal acquaintance with the court, and records interesting characteristics of Queen Victoria, the Prince Consort, and the present rulers of England. Prof. Browning says that the Queen's papers are most methodically preserved by Her Majesty, while hardly a scrap relating to George III can be found. Prof. Browning's first recollection as a child is of the fireworks at Windsor on the evening of the Queen's marriage.

By special arrangement the Duke of Argyll contributes to Thursday's issue of The Youth's Companion an article on the approaching Coronation. He describes fully the ancient privileges enjoyed by certain families in connection with the Coronation; also the ceremonial itself—the annointing, the presenting of the scepter and orb, and the final crowning. It is significant of the feeling of warm friendship existing between the two great English-speaking peoples that the brother-in-law of England's King should be a regular contributor to the most representative family paper in America. Perhaps it was this thought of how much the two nations have in common—the same ancestry, the same speech, the same ideals under different forms of government — which suggested the closing lines of the Duke's article: "For both kings and presidents the real crown is the love of the people; the real anointing is the love of God; the real sceptre is the sense of duty; the real orb of empire is the verdict of history on their life and times."

"The Volcano's Deadly Work From the Fall of Pompeii to the Destruction of St. Pierre,"

by Prof. Charles Morris, LL. D. Most intensely interesting book ever published. Complete, thrilling and accurate account of greatest disaster that ever befell the human race—greater even than Pompeii. Tells how Martinique, one of the most beautiful islands in the world, was suddenly transformed into a veritable hell. About 500 pages, profusely illustrated with photographs taken before and after disaster. Practically only "Martinique" in the field, for every-one now insists on having Prof. Morris' book and no other. Best author, largest book, best illustrated, scientifically accurate. Price $1.50. Agents Wanted. Enormous profits for those who act quickly. Most liberal terms. Outfit 10 cents. Don't lose a minute. Send for outfit IMMEDIATELY and be at work. The chance of a life-time for making money.

Clark & Co., 222 S. 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 5 22 1 m

FUNERAL OF MRS. GODOWN.

Held From Her Mother's Home on West Second Street Monday.

The funeral services of Mrs. Grace Godown were held Monday afternoon from the residence of her mother, Mrs. E. T. DeForest, of West Second street. An impressive discourse was delivered by Rev. Dr. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and two hymns, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Lean On Me" were sung by Mrs. John Manley. Among the many floral offerings was one from the W. C. T. U., several from the family and a large bouquet of roses and carnations from the classmates of Hazel Godown in the Franklin School.

The pall bearers were William Campbell, John DeMoss, Charles Francisco, William Leland and Charles Lippincott. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Cottage and Stable.

Councilman George P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue, is building a cottage for his servants, and a stable to accommodate six horses and twelve carriages. The buildings will be erected on the property where his bungalow is situated.

At Rescue Mission.

Rev. J. H. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, had charge of the Rescue Mission meeting in the First Church of Christ Sunday. He delivered a most interesting address.

One More for Columbia.

At the meeting of Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., Friday, one application was received. There will be initiation at the next meeting.

THIRTY YEARS PASSED FOR T. A. B. SOCIETY

Anniversary of the Organization Was Duly Celebrated Monday Evening.

HELD AT T. A. B. HALL.

AFTER AN ENTERTAINMENT, DANCING OCCUPIED REMAINDER OF EVENING.

President Michael O'Keefe Made the Address of Welcome—Programme Followed—Now a Flourishing Society.

Just thirty years ago last Monday, the T. A. B. society, one of the most important organizations affiliated with St. Mary's church, began its career. The three decades have been one continuous round of advancement and success. The anniversary last night was marked by a public reception, given by the society in its hall on West Fourth street. Many invitations had been issued and they were responded to with such a will that the building was filled to the doors.

The fore part of the evening was devoted to an entertainment which followed an address of welcome made by Michael O'Keefe, president of the society. As rendered the programme consisted of vocal selections by Miss Irene Galvin, addresses by Revs. Father Egan and Miller, German comicities by Joseph H. Carney and selections by Suhr's full orchestra.

It is conclusion the room was cleared and dancing became the feature. The dancers held the floor until an early hour this morning, the only pause being at midnight when a collation was served.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Edward Lynch, chairman, Clinton Shannon, Michael O'Keefe, James J. Kane, Patrick Melvin, Clarence A. Waldron, David Doyle, Richard Birmingham, Michael R. Flynn, Thomas F. Carty, J. C. Carney and Bernard Clark.

TO PROMOTE ANNEXATION.

Union Association Has Been Organized and Officers Elected.

The Union Association of North Plainfield has been formed in North Plainfield for the purpose of promoting annexation sentiment. The following officers have been elected: President, Martin I. Cooley; vice president, B. A. Hegeman, Jr.,; treasurer, Samuel Townsend; secretary, Frank Curtis.

Thursday night, under the auspices of the association a mass meeting will be held in Saengerbund Hall. Some able exponents of annexation will then hold the platform and advance their reasons in behalf of the proposed union.

Funeral of Theodore Gillies.

Funeral services of a very simple nature were held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary B. Gillies, of Madison avenue, over the remains of her son, Theodore Gillies. They were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church. The body was laid to rest in the North Plainfield cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Nelson VanWinkle, Jacob Ryder, DeWitt Ryder and George Gillies.

Changed Positions.

Harvey L. Dayton has resigned his position in the men's furnishing goods department at Woodhull & Martin's store, and returned to his trade as pattern maker at the Pond Machine Tool Works. His place at the store will be taken by Charles Suhr, who formerly worked there.

Collided With Trolley Car.

John G. Stevens, the blacksmith, residing on Watchung avenue, collided with a trolley car on the outskirts of Newark, Sunday afternoon, while he was riding his wheel. At Muhlenberg Hospital an examination disclosed a fracture of the upper bone of the arm.

Dr. Hughan's S

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	Cures.	Prices.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammation	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Colic, Bilious	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facedache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	Whooping-Cough	.25
17	Kidney Diseases	.25
18	Nervous Debility	1.00
19	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
20	Sores, Ulcers	.25

Dr. Hughan's Vet. Manual of all Diseases of your Animals sent free. Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER MAY 18, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

For Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Columbus, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago Express, 2.40 p. m. daily.

For Chicago, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Indianapolis, 12.01 a. m., daily.

For Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Columbus, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, 10.07 a. m.

SURPRISES ON THE DIAMOND

Hot Games by Local Teams Saturday Attracted Many Baseball Enthusiasts.

RESULTS OF THE GAMES.

Hope Chapel Beaten by Dunellen—Rutgers Easy for Y. M. C. A.—St. Mary's Won Series From Rahway City High School Beat Boroughites—The Other Games.

Hope Y. M. C. A., 17; Dunellen, 18.
Y. M. C. A., 11; Rutgers Con., 5.
St. Mary's, 19; Rahway A. C., 14.
Plainfield H. S., 23; N. P. H. S., 9.
Clinton Ave., 3; Scotch Plains, 19.
Westfield, 6; Clark O. N. T., 1.

With real summer weather and good baseball, the local diamonds were surrounded by crowds of enthusiasts, Saturday afternoon. Surprises were numerous. The Dunellen A. C. played a return game with the Hope chapel Y. M. A. and won out by a single run. The Y. M. C. A. team swamped some of Rutgers College's best players. St. Marys won the deciding game in the series with Rahway. The City High School again triumphed over the Borough High School. Clinton Avenue proved an easy mark for the cracks from Scotch Plains. Westfield redeemed itself by defeating the Clark O. N. T. aggregation. The Safe Works team did not play. There were no unpleasant incidents to mark the day's play and some fine ball playing was seen.

ST. MARY'S WON RUBBER.

The third, or "rubber" game, between the St. Mary and Rahway Field Club baseball teams, played in this city, Saturday afternoon, proved a walkover for the local nine. It was a fairly good game until the seventh inning when the visitors seemingly went to pieces and the St. Mary players whirled around the bases in carousal fashion, making ten runs before they were retired. The final score was 19 to 14.

Doyle pitched for the home team but his arm was evidently as much out of gear as was Merten's. He was pounded for fifteen hits while the St. Marys secured sixteen off the Rahway twirler.

The line-up and summary is as follows:

ST. MARY'S.

	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Mack, as	5	2	2	0	5	2
Scott, 2b	6	2	2	2	1	3
Keen, 3b	5	3	1	2	1	1
Casey, rf	5	1	1	0	0	0
Leegerer, cf	5	2	2	1	1	0
Taylor, lf	5	3	4	3	0	0
Winn, 1b	3	2	0	6	0	0
Barry, c	4	1	1	12	0	1
Doyle, p	4	2	1	0	0	0
	41	19	15	27	8	7

RAHWAY F. C.

	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Fox, rf	6	2	3	0	0	2
Madden, lf	6	2	3	4	0	0
Clark, as	6	2	1	0	3	1
Potter, 3b	5	1	2	1	0	2
Leonard, cf	5	1	1	0	0	1
Crowell, 1b	4	0	1	0	10	2
Homan, 2b	5	1	1	2	2	1
Williams, c	5	2	2	7	2	0
Mertens, p	3	2	1	0	1	1
	46	14	15	24	8	10

Score by innings.

St. Mary's..... 3 0 1 2 0 3 1 0 9 x—19
Rahway..... 2 1 0 3 0 3 0 1 3—14

Y. M. C. A. BEAT RUTGERS.

The game between the Y. M. C. A. team and Rutgers' consolidated nine on Pittis field, Saturday afternoon, resulted in a victory for the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 11 to 5. It was a far better game than the score might seem to indicate.

Rutgers had a habit of putting two out, then getting a little rocky in the field and allowing their opponents to accumulate runs. But generally when the two out juncture was reached Y. M. C. A. sluggers were coming to the willow and they were in a large measure responsible for runs when a shutout seemed inevitable.

For the home team Dupee and Moore were the battery. In the latter half Moore was relieved by Ramos. Dupee pitched a remarkably good steady game for the whole nine innings. He struck out ten men, and made some valuable assists. His support in the field was the best, only one error being tallied in the game. Ramos caught well and at the bat he drove out a neat three bagger.

Howells and Neilson were the battery twain for the visitors. Rutgers fielded were a very alert lot of players. Neilson at second and Gowan at short stop handled successfully some hot grounders. Munro at third made a difficult catch of a foul fly after a long run.

The batting order and summary follows:

Y. M. C. A.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Schoonmaker, ss	2	1	1	0	0
Bolsterli, 1b	4	2	9	2	0
Egan, 2b	1	2	11	0	0
G. Schoonmaker, 3b	1	4	2	1	1
F. Rand, lf	1	2	1	0	0
Ennes, rf	1	1	2	0	0
W. Schoonmaker, cf	0	2	1	0	0
R. Moore, c rf	1	2	5	1	0
Dupee, p	1	1	0	2	0
	13	18	27	11	1

RUTGERS CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Howell, p	0	0	0	0	0
Neilson, 2b	0	1	5	2	2
Malvin, c	1	1	4	1	0
Weaver, cf	0	2	1	0	1
Mason, rf	2	0	1	0	0
Holstan, lf	1	0	3	0	2
Ford, 1b	1	0	9	0	0
Smith, 3b	0	0	2	0	1
Gowan, ss	0	1	0	2	1
	5	5	24	5	7

Two-base hits—Neilson, Bolsterli, Weaver. Three-base hits, Ennes. Bases on balls, off Howell, 2; off Dupee, 3. Struck out, by Howell 4; by Dupee 10. Time of game, 1:45. Scorer, R. B. Lane.

EASY FOR CITY SCHOOL.

The game of ball on the Myrtle avenue grounds Saturday afternoon between Plainfield High School and North Plainfield High School ended in an easy victory for the former by a score of 23 to 9.

For the locals VanAuken and Moynihan were the battery. It was just as difficult as ever to knock safe ones off VanAuken, although Overton, Emmons and Powers each touched him up for a two-bagger. His team gave him good support in the field. Armstrong did the twisting for North Plainfield and Owens held him to perfection. The batting order and summary follow:

PLAINFIELD HIGH.

	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Thompson, 1b	6	2	2	14	2	1
Dyer, 3b	7	1	1	3	3	0
Moynihan, c	7	2	1	3	2	0
Munro	6	5	5	5	1	3
Craig, ss	6	4	2	1	4	1
Deaton, cf	6	3	1	1	0	0
Walter, rf	5	2	0	1	0	0
VanAuken, p	6	4	4	0	3	0
Ulrich, lf	6	0	1	1	0	0
	55	23	17	27	15	5

NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH.

	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Overton, 2b	5	2	1	3	2	0
Conover, ss	5	0	0	0	1	1
Woodland, 3b	5	1	2	1	1	3
Owens, c	3	2	1	8	0	0
Armstrong, p	5	1	0	1	4	0
Emmons, lf	5	0	1	0	0	0
Humble, rf	5	0	0	1	0	2
Powers, cf	4	1	2	2	0	2
Messersmith, 1b	3	2	0	11	0	1
	43	9	8	27	8	7

Bases on balls, off Armstrong 8, off VanAuken 5; two-base hits, VanAuken and Munro, Powers, Emmons and Overton; double-play, Emmons and Overton; hit by pitched ball, Armstrong 4; struck out by Armstrong 6; by VanAuken 8; umpires, Hervey K. Doane and Howard George; scorer, A. E. Moore.

HOPE'S BAD STREAK.

After having practically won the game in the first few innings, the Hope team took on an erratic streak, Saturday afternoon, and lost the contest with the Dunellen A. C. by one run. In the third inning the score stood 12 to 11 in favor of the locals and yet with this lead the visitors won out.

Montross was in the box for seven innings when he was forced to retire on account of a split thumb. The Hopes were credited with many errors, most of which were made by the most reliable men.

The Dunellen's imported pitcher, Ethinger, went up in the air early in the game and remained there until the close.

The summary is as follows:

HOPES.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Rosseberry, cf	3	2	1	0	0
Smith, 3b	3	1	1	3	1
Martin, ss	3	2	1	6	1
Hewitt, 2b, p	3	2	1	1	3
Gordon, rf, 2b	1	1	1	1	0
Fairing, 1b	0	0	10	0	1
Montross, p, rf	1	2	2	1	0
Hartfelder, c	1	1	5	1	0
Magne, lf	3	3	2	0	4
	17	16	27	13	9

DUNELLEN.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Giles, ss	2	1	2	3	1
F. Giddis, 1b	1	4	8	0	3
Craig, 2b	2	1	1	2	2
Brown, c	3	1	9	0	2
Smalley, lf	3	1	3	0	0
F. Smith, 3b	3	4	3	1	1
A. Giddis, cf	1	1	0	0	1
Ethinger, p	1	1	0	2	1
Wyckoff, rf	1	1	1	0	0
	18	15	27	8	11

Score by innings.

Hope..... 2 2 5 2 0 0 2 0—17
Dunellen..... 1 0 0 9 0 0 0 4—18

Base on balls—Off Ethinger, 3; off Montross, 1; off Hewitt, 1. Two-base hits—F. Giddis, Craig, Rosseberry, Magne. Three base hits — Giles, Brown, Hewitt, Gordon, Magne. Double play—Martin, Gordon and Fairing; Giles and Giddis. Struck Out—By Ethinger, 7. Hits—Off Montross, in 8 innings, 8; off Hewitt, in 2 innings, 6. Double steals—Magne and Rosseberry; Martin and Hewitt.

EASY FOR PLAINS.

The Clinton Avenue baseball team was defeated by the Scotch Plains club, Saturday afternoon, on the former's grounds. It was a one sided game despite the fact that two scrubs had to be placed by the visitors. The score was 19 to 3.

GRACE'S RECTOR HAS RESIGNED

Resignation of E. M. Rodman Accepted With Regret—Was Made Rector Emeritus.

ANNOUNCED ON SUNDAY.

Has Served in That Capacity for Thirty-Two Years and Built Up a Large Congregation and a Handsome New Church—Last Appearance Next Sunday.

With many regrets, the resignation of Rev. Erskine M. Rodman as rector of Grace Episcopal church, was accepted Sunday when services his relationship with a congregation for which he has always had a loving solicitude.

Bishop Scarborough announced to the congregation at the morning service, that Rev. Mr. Rodman had placed in the hands of the vestry his resignation. It was as follows:

"To the Wardens and Vestry of Grace church.

"Gentlemen:—By reason of my advanced age, being now over seventy years old, and unable longer to perform the duties of the rectorship of this parish to the extent that is deemed desirable, I hereby reluctantly ask you to accept my resignation of the rectorship, to date from June 1, 1902, and respectfully request that you elect me rector emeritus of the parish.

"It is no easy matter to me thus to sever a tie of thirty or more years growth, but the belief that a younger man can more efficiently discharge the duties of this office, and to increase the interest of the parish and enable it the better to do its work for the glory of God and the benefit of those for whose advancement we are bound to labor, makes me willing to take this step. Commending you and yours and the whole congregation to the love and grace of God, I remain

"Yours very truly,

"Erskine M. Rodman."

The vestry presented a resolution to the effect that in deference to the wishes of Mr. Rodman the resignation was accepted and in view of the long and faithful services of upwards of thirty-one years, he was elected rector emeritus of the parish with a very generous annuity. The vestry expressed to Mr. Rodman the deep regret of the congregation and itself upon the resignation, and acknowledged with heartfelt gratitude his long and faithful services, wishing him joy and happiness in his new position.

The Bishop's address to the congregation affected them all deeply, as Mr. Rodman has peculiarly endeared himself to all.

Mr. Rodman has been with Grace church thirty-one years. By his own efforts the present handsome edifice was erected and by his untiring zeal the mortgage has materially been reduced. The church has grown from a small parish to its present large membership. Mr. Rodman has administered most faithfully to the congregation and with unflagging zeal has he striven for its interest and welfare. He has always been with the church in joy and sorrow.

Next Sunday will probably witness Mr. Rodman's last appearance as rector of Grace church parish. It is hoped by many friends both in and out of the congregation that he remain in Plainfield, as his departure from the city would be a distinct loss. The vestry realizes the profound task of securing a man to fill Mr. Rodman's place and until such a person is called, whom they believe will so fill it, nothing will be done. Rev. J. H. Wilson, the present curate, will no doubt be temporarily in charge of the parish.

Paid Their Fare Home.

Emma and May Kearns, aged twenty-four and twenty-two years, walking from New York to Manchester, Chunk, Pa., applied at the police station, Sunday night for a lodging. Patrolman Langer went among the the night shift and collected enough to pay the fare of both girls to their destination.

GOLFERS WERE OUT IN FORCE

Large Crowds and Interesting Competitions at the Hillside and Park Golf Clubs.

COMPETITIONS PLAYED.

Honors at Hillside West to Mrs. E. M. VanBuren, N. P. Rogers, Jr., and Thos. R. VanBoskerck—Dr. A. W. Anderson Low Man at Park—Present Standing.

Again the weather favored the golfers and the result was that both local courses were crowded Saturday afternoon. Three events attracted many competitors at the Hillside Club, the day's honors going to Mrs. E. M. Baren, N. P. Rogers Jr., and Thos. R. VanBoskerck. A technicality prevented from Morris J. Dumont from sharing so well. At the Park Golf Club, the weekly competition saw a large field, Dr. A. W. Anderson winning first honors.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

With fine weather and the course in the best of condition and very fast, the scores made in Saturday afternoon's competition for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club were all unusually high. Dr. A. W. Anderson, a newcomer this season, had things all his own way with the assistance of a fat handicap while the rest were well behind. Arthur H. Serrell's 109, the best gross score of the day, was good for second. The links were filled during the afternoon, nearly a score registering for the trophy play.

Senator Charles A. Reed still leads for the President's cup by half a point, with Charles B. Morse second and Charles W. McCutchen and Dr. A. W. Anderson tied for third place.

The scores better than 100 net were:

	G	H	N
A. W. Anderson	127	25	102
A. H. Serrell	109	13	96
J. L. Myers	126	29	97
C. B. Morse	117	20	97
S. St. J. McCutchen	128	30	98
C. L. Nichols	132	33	99
C. E. Marray	136	37	99

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles A. Reed	4
Charles B. Morse	3½
Charles W. McCutchen	3
Dr. A. W. Anderson	3
S. St. J. McCutchen	3
Arthur H. Serrell	3
William R. Richards	3
Frank Rogers	3
Samuel Townsend	1
Charles L. Nichols	1
Joseph L. Myers	½

HILLSIDE CLUB.

There was plenty of golf for all on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course last Saturday. With three events, the boys, men and women each had an opportunity to contest for cups. There was a very large number of players on the course the entire day and in the afternoon there was a shortage of caddies, many players being obliged to do their own caddying. It was a beautiful day for golf, and the course was in the best condition.

In the morning there was play for the Boys' cup and the first play for the Ackerman Handicap cup for women. The boys put up a good article of golf and low scores were the rule. N. P. Rogers, Jr. was the honors with an 81 net, while W. T. Glenney and Charles C. Perkins were given second and third honors.

The scores for the Boys' cup follow:

	G	H	N
N. P. Rogers, Jr.	81	0	81
W. T. Glenney	92	10	82
Charles C. Perkins	101	18	83
Arthur Peterson	110	25	85
Kerro Knox	94	8	86
Ray Biglow	114	25	89
Howard G. Lapsley	99	10	89
Gordon Abbott	102	12	90
E. M. Daniel	112	22	90
James Scott	101	10	91
S. W. Corwin	104	12	92
A. L. Willis	117	22	95
VanWyck Brooks	126	15	121
J. C. Martin	152	25	126

The other event of the morning was the play for the Ackerman Handicap cup. Mrs. Edward M. V. VanBuren scored the first win with a 102 net. This cup will be played for once a month, except in August, and the four winners will play off in October. The scores made in this competition are as follows:

	G	H	N
Mrs. E. M. VanBuren	127	25	102
Miss vanHarwerden	102	0	102
Miss M. VanBoskerck	124	12	112
Miss Mary Holly	130	18	112
Miss M. Goddard	125	12	113
Miss Helen L. Brown	151	35	116
Miss J. Lapsley	156	35	121
Mrs. George S. Ring	149	25	124
Miss M. Fleming	142	15	128
Miss Elsie Goddard	152	24	128

There was a sensational finish in the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup in the afternoon. Thomas R. VanBoskerck and Morris J. Dumont were tie with an 90 net for first honors but, as Dumont failed to post his name before beginning play, he did not share in the points for the cup. The three points go to VanBoskerck. W. L. Glenney and E. T. Newkirk tied for second honors and each receive a point and a-half. This gives Glenney a total of three points, making five in all who are tie for first position in the contest.

The scores for the cup are as follows:

	G	H	N
T. R. VanBoskerck	90	10	80
Morris J. Dumont	94	4	90
W. T. Glenney	91	10	81
E. T. Newkirk	101	20	81
Walter Peterson	94	12	82
Dudley H. Barrows	94	10	84
H. D. Hibbard	103	18	85
Robert Abbott	88	2	86
H. M. Slasson	113	27	86
H. F. Baker	96	8	88
Howard deP. Wright	88	0	88
William R. Richards	110	14	96
Evarts Tracy	119	23	97
J. Whitney Baker	99	0	99
Stuart H. Patterson	131	27	104

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	3
Charles Stover	3
Frank O. Reinhart	3
Thomas R. Boskerck	2
W. L. Glenney	2
R. F. Murray	2
E. T. Newkirk	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
D. H. Barrows	1
C. W. Abbott	½

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Cure will set you right. This cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly." L. W. Randolph.

At the Anniversary.

At the anniversary celebration of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church, Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Smith, of Somerville, will deliver an address. Among other numbers on the programme will be selections by Miss Mary A. Lackey, the elocutionist.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. L. W. Randolph.

Settled Without Trial.

Without allowing the case to come to trial, the North Jersey Street Railway Company made a satisfactory settlement with Mrs. Anna Harbinger, of Cranford, Thursday, through Counsellor George Ball, of this city. The plaintiff was injured by one of the company's cars several weeks ago and sued for damages.

Is Golf Catching

on to popular favor? It seems to be. A noticeable increase in sales of Painkiller comes from golf districts. The reason for this is clear, as Perry Davis' Painkiller is the oldest ball-beat remedy extant for sprains, strains, bruises and soreness, all of which are of common occurrence, either in vigorous play or otherwise, as everywhere the standard liniment and balm.

The newest and finest line of bicycles at Van Winkle's on North avenue. He can sell you a bike or let you one for a day's outing.

DIED.

THORN—On Wednesday, May 14, 1902, Edward M. Thorn, aged 73 years.

GODOWN—In this city, May 16, 1902, Grace DeForest, wife of W. W. Godown, aged 36 years, 1 months, 19 days.

NEWTON—On May 15, Mrs. Ellie S. Newton, aged 52.

O'NEILL—In this city, May 18, 1902, Richard O'Neill, in his 30th year.

Clifton Wharton, Jr., has returned home from a business trip to Pittsburg.

Willard Jamieson, of Canajoharie, N. Y., is the guest of West End relatives.

TENNIS AT THE PARK CLUB

ENTERTAINED PLAYERS FROM HILLSIDE CLUB SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

No Formal Contest—Pleasant Social Event in Connection With Tennis.

The Park Club entertained the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club at tennis Saturday afternoon on the club courts.

Those who played for Hillside were T. M. Day, Jr., Kenneth Bulkley, A. D. Beers, Frederick W. Goddard and Howard Huntington, while those representing the Park Club were Samuel Townsend, Morgan T. Townsend, William A. Townsend, Clifford W McGee, Dr. R. K. Carroll, Charles Dupee, Irwin Taylor and Wallace Guilford.

A delightful feature of the affair was the social side of the entertainment. The pagoda was attractively decorated with dogwood and greens, and here refreshments were served. At the tables were Mrs. Samuel Townsend, assisted by Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. Joseph H. Howell. The young women assisting were Miss Adelaide Ball, Miss Saldee Mae Howell, Miss Frances Weir and Miss Alice Barlow.

To Repeat "Emancipation."

The quartette choir of the First Presbyterian church will repeat the musical work, "Emancipation," by the late Dr. Maltbie Babcock, at the service Sunday evening.

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About four years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, caused by delivery of a child. I then noticed an article in a newspaper, in regard to your invention, and concluded that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment, and after I had used it a few days my hearing began to improve, and I can hear perfectly to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice FREE. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the Tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOYE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOYE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to invest small amount in stock, others for local work. Nothing like it ever offered before. Steady salary guaranteed. Expenses advanced. Position permanent. Entire new plan of operation. Unoccupied territory. Old established house. Manufacturing specialties. Mail or personal interview. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

WORK AT CITY SCHOOLS SHOWN

First of Series of Public School Exhibits Was Held at the Lincoln School Thursday.

THE WORK DISPLAYED.

Gave Some Idea of the Methods of Instruction Pursued and the Progress Made by the Children—Began With the Kindergarten and Continued Higher.

The first of the series of exhibits by the pupils of the various public schools of the city was given Thursday afternoon and evening in the Lincoln School. Aside from the fact that these will be the first exhibits of the kind held in recent years, it was the first ever held at the Lincoln School. For this reason there was a special interest in the affair. It was given under the direction of Miss Shattuck, principal of the Lincoln and Bryant Schools, assisted by the teachers of the former school.

The building presented an attractive appearance decorated with flowers, dogwood and American flags. Especially attractive was the hallway leading to the school rooms. The decorations here were the work of Joseph Morrison, the janitor, who spared no pains and effort in arranging the flowers. Directly overhead was an excellent likeness of Lincoln surrounded by an American flag.

The exhibits were among the best ever shown by children and universal praise was given by the large number of people who visited the school. Starting with the work in the kindergarten, which is in charge of Miss Mabel Powell, the every day efforts of the children, all under six years of age, is remarkable. The many simple, yet practical methods adopted to lead the young minds into proper channels for higher studies, is well worthy of attention. While their studies are more in the nature of play, yet they teach them how to think and lay a foundation for the other branches to follow. All of the work of these little ones showed progress and improvement. They are taught to make various things in paper and to combine colors so that they harmonize.

This follows the work of the first grade, which is taught by Miss Agnes E. Freeman. Here the studies are a little more advanced. As in the kindergarten the nature work is continued, while drawing from objects and study is a feature. The work of this class attracts much attention for it shows conclusively how well and how much with little effort the children can accomplish. The lessons are quickly grasped by them and their earlier training serves well for the next step.

The work of the second grade, which is in charge of Miss Lucia Wood, gives one a clear idea of rapid advancement. Here the children take up the advanced studies in nature work and they write compositions that are a credit to them. Each grade selects a country as a study for the year and in various ways the fruitful subjects are portrayed both in picture and composition.

Miss Agnes Morey has charge of the third grade, and while she has only had the class since March, the children have exhibited some clever work. In the preceding grade the children are taught ratio in a simple fashion, while in this grade it is more advanced and leads the child to compute easily and quickly. The sketch work is also worthy of special mention and the work of composition.

Miss Mildred Titsworth is the teacher of the fourth grade, the last in the primary department, and here there is a marked advancement in the various studies. The compositions on selected subjects are well put together and are written in a commendable manner. The method of teaching arithmetic is so simple and easy that the children have been able to do some difficult examples.

The fifth and sixth grades combined are in charge of Miss Caroline Lee. This teacher, as well as all the others, is very proud of the work of her class. The drawings in charcoal, ink and paints is some of the best yet shown and would do credit to persons much older. Miss Lee is fortunate in having in her class a born artist, Miss Eva Kelly. This pupil has executed the gem of elaborate lunch to her friends in honor of the event. Mrs. Rammel was the recipient of numerous congratulations and was presented with a beautiful rocking chair and a Persian rug.

For Young Women's Club.

The last proceeds of the Men's Choral Club concert, to be given at the Casino Tuesday evening, May 27, are to be given to the Young Women's Club, not Young Men's Club, as stated in issue of yesterday.

the hallway yesterday for the first. One represents "Hebe" and the other "Darcy." They were secured by Miss Shattuck after much effort and other statuary of the same types have been prize-winners.

Miss Shattuck as well as all of the teachers were highly complimented yesterday for the very excellent showing of the classes, and Superintendent Mazson took occasion to visit the school and express his gratification.

JUNIORS AIDED AT FUNERAL

SERVICES IN MEMORY OF CHAS. C. LISTER HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

After Short Service at the House, Others Were Held at First M. E. Church.

Following a short service at his late home on Willow avenue for the immediate family, obsequies over the remains of Charles C. Lister were held in the First M. E. church, Thursday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass who delivered an impressive sermon before a large gathering of relatives and friends.

William E. MacClymont presided at the organ. During the service two selections, "Asleep in Jesus," and "Abide With Me," were rendered by a quartette composed of George O. Stevens, E. E. Runyon, William E. MacClymont and William N. Runyon. Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M. attended in a body and after Dr. Snodgrass' address, the burial service of the order was read by Harry G. Adams. The remains were afterwood taken to Mylestown, Pa., where interment was made last Friday.

Those who acted as pall bearers were S. P. T. Wilbur, J. J. Kenney, Clarence E. Teel, Fred Vlewig, Nathan R. Titsworth and William N. Runyon.

QUIETLY WED AT CHURCH

MARRIAGE OF MRS. LILLIAN E. REEVES AND CARL D. PFENDER.

The Ceremony Took Place at Grace P. E. Church Thursday Afternoon.

In the presence of immediate friends and relatives a quiet but very pretty wedding was consummated in Grace P. E. church Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Lillian E. Reeves, of New York, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Carl Depew Pfender, son of Carl Pfender, of East Sixth street.

At sharp 3 o'clock, just as the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march began to fill the edifice, the bride and groom entered the church and walked slowly up the aisle. She was clad in a beautiful gown of light blue silk and carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. The only attendant was a page, the young son of Mrs. Reeves, Willie, dressed in white and bearing a bunch of white carnations.

After the nuptuals were complete, the newly married couple, to Mendelssohn's march, proceeded down the aisle again and left the church followed by the good wishes of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Pfender started last evening on an extended honeymoon trip to the south. On their return, they will board on Watchung avenue.

In honor of the event, the altar of the church was decorated with dogwood and white lilacs, and the lectum and pulpit were hung with the same flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman. Mrs. W. A. Freeman presided at the organ.

MEMORIAL WINDOW.

Will be Placed at Whittier House Social Settlement in Memory of Miss Gertrude Andrews.

The eighth annual meeting of the Whittier House Social Settlement, of Jersey City, in which many Plainfielders are interested, was held Wednesday evening. Reports for the year were read by the officers and all showed the organization to have had a prosperous year in its work.

Provision was made at the meeting for the placing of a memorial window in the Settlement building within the next few months, in honor of Miss Gertrude Andrews, of this city, who was a resident worker in the settlement up to the time of her death.

Remembered the Day.

At the regular weekly bowling contest in Seengerbund hall Thursday afternoon first prize was carried off by Mrs. Joseph Hazrand. It was the birthday of Mrs. Henry Rommell and she gave an elaborate lunch to her friends in honor of the event. Mrs. Rammel was the recipient of numerous congratulations and was presented with a beautiful rocking chair and a Persian rug.

For Young Women's Club.

The last proceeds of the Men's Choral Club concert, to be given at the Casino Tuesday evening, May 27, are to be given to the Young Women's Club, not Young Men's Club, as stated in issue of yesterday.

A TOWN'S RAPID GROWTH.

Population Jumped from 600 to 40,000 as a Result of Visit from President Hayes and Party.

Mr. George Clements, of Kansas City, a well-known knight of the sample case, is responsible for the following story, says the Baltimore News:

"Talk about the rapid growth of cities, why, Neosho Falls, Kan., holds the record. I think the town is still on the map, but I won't be sure. At any rate, I remember when the population jumped in one day from 600 to 40,000, and the next day jumped back again. This was merely occasioned by a row, and not a country fair at that, but simply a little crossroads celebration. It was just after President Hayes had been elected. He was touring the west at the time, and the citizens of Neosho Falls secured a promise from him to attend their fair. The town was fortunately on the line of a railroad, with a service of two trains a day, but when the company learned of the president's proposed visit a gang of workmen at once started to lay sidings. At least a dozen were constructed around the little frame station, together with a Y for the convenience of the engines. When the great day arrived the president was at hand, with several members of his cabinet and a military escort from Fort Riley. The railroad company estimated that 40,000 people visited Neosho Falls that day, and I dare say some of them are talking about it yet. The next day the visitors began to leave, for there were no hotel accommodations, and nothing to feed them with. The gang of workmen came back and tore up the sidings and the Y, and the town again resumed its normal placidity, just as though nothing had happened."

SOME COSTLY SMOKED MEATS.

Fine Hams and Bacon from Ireland That Rival the Product of Virginia.

"The costliest of all the smoked meats," said a dealer in such things, according to the Chicago Inter Ocean, "are the fine hams and bacon that come from Limerick, Ireland. The prices of these meats may vary slightly from time to time, the hams selling usually, however, at from 33 to 35 cents a pound, and the bacon at 32 or 33 cents a pound.

"These costly smoked meats are made from the hogs that are fed and tended with scrupulous care. The curing process is a secret. The result is shown in meats of such quality and flavor as to commend them most highly.

"Of course, there are fine hams produced here, also, notably those of Virginia, the finest of which bring 24 cents a pound. Included in the price of the Limerick hams and bacon is a duty of five cents a pound. If you were to add that to the price of the Virginia hams you would raise the cost of them to 29 cents, and adding further the cost of transportation from Europe would bring the Virginia hams pretty close to those of Limerick in price, so that in their original cost they are about the same.

"As to which is the better ham, that would be largely a matter of taste. The Virginia ham is a trifle juicy, the Virginia is of a more delicate flavor."

ENGLAND'S "WEDDING-RING."

Said to Signify a King Wedded to His People—Legend of the Royal Circlet.

"The wedding ring of England" is of plain gold, set with a large table ruby, on which the cross of St. George is engraved, says Lippincott's. Legend says that this ring belonged to Edward the Confessor, and that he bestowed it on an old beggar who asked an alms of him, he having nothing else at hand at the moment. Soon afterwards two English pilgrims lost their way in the Holy Land and were succored by a "fayre olde man," who on parting said to them? "I am Johan the Evangelyst; and saye ye vnto Edward your kyng that I grete him well by the token that he gaff to me, thys ringe, with kys one handes." Certain it is that James II., when detained by the fishermen of Sheerness on his first attempt to flee the country in 1688, contrived to hide a ring, called "the coronation ring," in his clothing. This was a favorite ring of Mary Queen of Scots, and was sent by her at her death to James I., finally coming into the possession of George IV. through the channel by which he obtained all the remaining papers of the house of Stuart.

The archbishop puts the ring on the fourth finger of his majesty's right hand, saying: "Receive this ring, the ensign of kingly dignity and of defense of the Catholic faith."

The President's Salary.

By the act of congress of September 24, 1789, and again on February 18, 1798, the salary of the president of the United States was fixed at $25,000 and that of the vice president at $5,000. That act was continued from the same until March 3, 1873, when it was raised to $50,000, at which time U. S. Grant was president. The salary of the vice president was raised to $8,000 in 1853, to $10,000 March 2, 1873, and January 25, 1874, it was again reduced to $8,000. The constitution of the United States says: "The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall be elected."

Cheap Railway Travel.

The Trans-Siberian railway gives the cheapest rates in the world. It is possible to buy an emigrant ticket, covering 4,000 miles, nearly three weeks' journey, for about three dollars.

POLITICAL GOSSIP IN LOCAL G. O. P. CIRCLES

As Viewed by the Plainfield Correspondent of the Newark Evening News.

AFTER COUNTY OFFICES

QUOTES FORMER MAYOR FISK AS TO THE SENATORIAL NOMINATION.

Names of Andrew McCardell and William N. Runyon Also Mentioned as Possibilities for County Nominations—Other Gossip.

The Plainfield correspondent of the Newark News has the following to say regarding Plainfield's participation in the coming campaign:

"Union county Republicans are going over the political field preparatory to the fall campaign, when candidates will be named for the offices of State senator, sheriff and surrogate. Interest has been centred on this city, which will fill at least one of the places. Various names have been connected with each office, but none have signified their willingness to accept a nomination.

"Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who has loomed up as a possible successor to State Senator Joseph Cross, is not pushing his claims, but his friends are active. When approached by a representative of the News, Mr. Fisk declared that he is not seeking party honors, and that inasmuch as the nomination has not been tendered to him, it is impossible for him to say anything. He remarked incidentally: 'Senator Cross has filled the office well and has the esteem and support of the entire county, and I see no reason why he should not be given a second term.'

"Andrew McCardell, who has figured prominently as a party boss, it is said, stands a good show of being made the shrievalty candidate. His friends say he would have practically no opposition at the convention, and that the local delegation would be solidly for him. The Pond Machine Tool Company, with which he is identified, it is said, is much opposed to the movement to nominate him, but how the company's wishes will influence him is not known. Should he be nominated the senatorship and surrogateship will go to the other end of the county.

"The only local man which has been mentioned in connection with the latter office is that of City Judge William N. Runyon. He absolutely declined to be the Assembly candidate from this district last fall, and it is thought likely that he would refuse the surrogateship were it offered him. The office pays about $10,000 per year in the five years' term.

"The present arrogate, George T. Parrott, it is believed, will be unanimously re-nominated."

MOTHERS HELD A MEETING

SECOND OF A SERIES HELD AT GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, the Curate, Had Something to Say on Training of Children.

The second of a series of mothers' meetings was held Friday afternoon in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church, under the auspices of a number of women of the church. There was a large attendance of mothers and the meeting proved mutually helpful.

During the afternoon there was an informal talk by Rev. Mr. Wilson, curate of the church. His chief thought was along the line of being broad minded in the training of children. He disapproved a general idea that the method of training one child will answer for other children. That which is nourishing food for one child might not agree with another child.

Mr. Wilson spoke words of encouragement to the mothers and cordially invited them to exchange ideas in the training of children. This the mothers have done and in this way more than one has been greatly assisted in her own particular case.

Following the address there was a social time and coffee and cake were served by women of the church. Mrs. Thomas Minford, who furnished gratis the most excellent coffee and cream used, was in charge, and she was assisted by Mrs. W. E. Lows, Miss Morgan, Mrs. Louis Bersem and several other women present.

Thieves Carted Away Shingles.

During thieves, accompanied by a truck, stole 1,000 shingles from the new residence, which George Walters is building at Gilletts, Thursday night. They had only been carted to the premises that day by employes of Boice, Runyon & Company, of this city. What the thieves expect to do with the large amount cannot be surmised.

BREAD AND BUTTER STATE.

The New Name Gained for Minnesota by Its Dairy Products and Flour.

Minnesota has heretofore been known as the Gopher state. Now it is beginning to be called the Bread and Butter state. The reason of the change becomes clear when it is said that last year its mills turned out 26,620,000 barrels of flour and there were churned in the state 50,000,000 pounds of butter.

In the product of spring wheat, Minnesota stands at the head of the states of the country and its flour mills are noted not only throughout the northwest but in foreign countries as well. The extensive development of its dairy interests is comparatively recent.

The combination of wheat and flour with milk and butter is more clearly marked in Minnesota than in any other state. New York and Illinois are important dairy states, but the value of the wheat crop in New York is less than one-third the value of its oat crop, wheat being now one of the minor agricultural products of New York, once the chief wheat state.

Illinois raises a fair amount of wheat, but the corn crop, which is of very much more importance, yields in a year eight dollars to every dollar received from the products of wheat.

A CHAFING DISH DUEL.

Two Experts Cook and Eat Against Each Other with Most Disastrous Result.

The queerest duel I ever heard of was recently fought by two friends of mine," said a clubman lately, reports the Galveston News. "The weapons were chafing dishes, and the result nearly proved fatal to both combatants. They both pride themselves on their knowledge of culinary art, and their arguments had become very wearying to the other members of the club. In order to put a stop to it we succeeded, by various innuendoes carried back and forth, in having one of the fellows challenge the other to combat. It was agreed that six dishes should be prepared by each and eaten by the cook in our presence. The six concoctions selected were lobster a la Newburg, Welsh rarebit, rum omelette, tripe and oysters, chicken livers saute and stewed terrapin. They started in enough ahead in high spirits. The contest, it was agreed, should not exceed two hours. Long before the time was up both were pale and haggard, but they stuck it out to the bitter end, and both are now in the hands of their physicians. If that doesn't cure them of the chafing dish habit I don't know what will."

ORNAMENTATION OF CARS.

Simplicity of Decoration Schemes and Smooth Surfaces Is Now the Rule in Fine Coaches.

To the traveler to day one of the significant changes in the construction of parlor and sleeping cars is the simplicity of their decoration schemes. Where intricate carvings, inlaid work, and delicate tracings were ornamented panels, doors, seats, and the sloping roofs of the cars, as formed by the bottoms of the upper berths, everything is now made as plain and polished as is possible. No unevenness of carving leaves room for dust and dirt. With the bringing out of the grain of the wood the builder is satisfied.

"Ten years ago, says the Chicago Tribune, the car builders were in the era of extravagance," said an old Pullman conductor. "Then the Pullman and Wagner companies were competing for favor, and spending money for decorations that never were of comfort to passengers. These ornamentations simply caught dust and dirt, and made cleaning almost impossible.

"With the merging of the two companies this extravagance ended. The newer cars now put the upper berth more nearly upright when it is closed in, and it is just a little higher, giving more room to the lower berth passengers. Nearly everybody riding in one of these new cars remarks its cleanliness and sensible design."

COURTING IN BROOKLYN.

Young Man Calls on Young Lady at 10:30 p. m. and Is Arrested Because So Late.

Brooklyn has long been known as nothing if not a city of rest. Co-habitles allege that no one ever goes there except to sleep. That the allegation possesses something of truth was shown recently when a young man, indecent of the town's habits, attempted at 10:30 p. m. to call on a subject of his devotion and got himself arrested for his indiscretion. The young lady in the case was "not at home at such an hour" explained the maid, who responded to the pull of the bell; and then, acting on the theory that the caller was a burglar, or he would not have called at such an hour, she followed and had him arrested. The magistrate lectured the prisoner on the evils of late hours and then discharged him, a wiser young man.

Big Lump of Gold.

A piece of virgin gold weighing 82.16 ounces troy was put in the melting pot of the United States assay office at Helena, Mont., recently, negotiations for its preservation in nugget form having failed because of the impossibility of an exact assay.

Fish Diseases.

The diseases of fishes are now being carefully and scientifically studied by a scientist under the direction of the government fish commission. Already he has found cures for several fish epidemics which prevail in hatching stations.

RECEPTION TO NEW RECTOR

GIVEN BY ST. STEPHEN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Reception Held at Reinhart Cottage —Those Who Assisted in Receiving the Guests.

The reception Thursday afternoon, given by the women of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, was one of the gala events of the season. The reception was tendered in honor of the new rector of St. Stephen's, Rev. Wm. Vincent Dawson.

Five hundred invitations had been sent out and during the three hours from 4 to 7 o'clock upwards of four hundred guests called at the Reinhart cottage on Belvidere avenue where the reception was held.

The guests were welcomed by a receiving committee upon which served Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, Mrs. R. S. Miller, Mrs. Hugh Knox, Miss Edith Clark, Mrs. A. J. Beal, Mrs. William Whelan and, Mrs. William Wheeler. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. P. Platt, Miss Clara Davison, Miss Florence R. Beal, Miss Blanche Miller. Those who served the tea were Miss Georgiana Smith, Miss Marguerite VanDeventer, Miss Frances VanDeventer, Miss Maida Hyde, Miss Grace Burke and Miss Charlotte Finch.

The rooms of the delightful cottage were elaborately decorated in honor of the occasion. Pink and white were the prevailing tints. Rich clusters of dogwood hung around the windows and on the mantel pieces both in the library and dining room, while other natural flowers effectively placed with a becoming distribution of palms, ferns and potted plants, completed the floral adornments.

Mrs. J. H Buckley at the piano, M. A. Korff and Dr. J. F. Berg, violinists, were an orchestral trio that during the afternoon regaled the guests with pleasant musical renditions.

JUNIORS ENTERTAINED.

Band From Monroe Avenue Church Guests at Grace M. E.

The juniors of the Epworth League of Monroe Avenue church paid a visit to the juniors of Grace M. E. church, Friday afternoon. They received a most hearty welcome, and an interesting programme had been prepared for the occasion.

Misses Edith Schenck, Myra Lippincott and Nettie Steiner were a trio that performed most pleasing on the piano. Recitations were given by Misses Bessie Conroy, Clarabel Runyon, Nettie Steiner, Myra Lippincott, Iola Schenck, Mary Ring, Stella Ring, and Hattie Law. There was a chorus by eight girls, Misses Edith Taft, Edith Major, Jennie and Alice DeMott, Janette Beckling, Rachel Decamp, Edith VanDyke and Rita Kline, an instrumental selection by Miss Lillian Tester; a duet by Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott, and the Grace juniors sang a chorus "Firmly on the Rock we Stand."

Rev. E. L. Earp delivered a short address to the juniors suitable to the occasion. At 5 o'clock refreshments were served by Misses Jessie Billett, Stella Vermule, Edith Major, Edith Taft, Katie Rutledge, Ethel Quipp, Mrs. E. L. Earp.

APPEAL FOR HOSPITAL.

Fiscal Year is Soon to End and There is a Deficit in the Hospital Account.

The Board [of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, through Ernest R. Ackerman, chairman of the finance committee, and W. G. Kinney, treasurer, has issued an appeal to the people of Plainfield to help in closing the fiscal year free of debt. To do this it will require $3,000. No one in Plainfield will question the usefulness of the hospital [for its practical utility for the past twenty years has been abundantly demonstrated.

During the last year 388 patients have been admitted and 190 operations have been performed. The present fiscal year began with a deficit of $675.32 the receipts amounted to $8,968.78 and the expenses amounted to $11,313.580. Any offering that the people collectively or individually care to make will be greatly appreciated and acknowledged.

Dangerous if Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. G. Hartly, Yankestown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. I. W. Randolph.

John Worth, of Grove street, only has the use of one eye for the present. A bag flew in the other eye and temporarily shut it up. Mr. Worth now wears a silk handkerchief over the eye as a protection.

JUROR THOUGHT THERE WERE TWO OF THEM

Told the Smooth-Faced Mr. Marsh That He Was as Good as His Brother With Beard.

IN CASE AT ELIZABETH.

FRENCH ESTATE-SCHOONMAKER SUIT WAS ADJOURNED AFTER ALL.

Juror Had a Back-Handed Compliment for Craig A. Marsh After Trial Was Ended—Case Comes Up Again in October Term.

An amusing incident occurred in the court room on the trial of P. M. French estate against Wm. H. Schoonmaker, before Judge VanSyckel, at Elizabeth, Thursday.

The French estate has been trying to get to trial for several terms of court. Craig A. Marsh, who is counsel for Mr. Schoonmaker, on the other hand, has been trying to put the trial off until Mr. Schoonmaker, who went abroad for over a year, could be present and testify on his own behalf or his disposition could be procured. He succeeded on one ground or another in putting it off until yesterday when Mr. Schoonmaker's disposition was received from Venice. The trail was then begun.

When Elston M. French was examined, Mr. Marsh raised technical objections which, after argument on both sides were sustained by the court, and the French estate was then driven to ask that the jury be discharged and the trial postponed to next October. This was consented to on condition that the French estate pay the costs, and the court so ordered. Mr. Schoonmaker will be back by that time.

One of the jurymen stepped up to Mr. Marsh and, in offering his congratulations, said:

"Why you are as good as your brother."

Mr. Marsh inquired what the juror meant and the latter replied:

"Why your brother who wears a beard and moustache, Craig Marsh."

Mr. Marsh and the by-standers laughed heartily as it was explained to the juror that he was addressing Craig Marsh who had parted with his moustache and beard. But the juror had the last laugh for he quickly retorted.

"Well, you used to be a good looking man, but I can't say so much for you now."

VETERANS' SONS ELECT.

Officers Chosen at Annual Convention of the State Division of the Sons of Veterans.

At the twentieth annual convention of the State Division of Sons of Veterans, held at Trenton Thursday, the following officers were elected: Commander, F. W. Cunningham, Atlantic City; junior vice-commander, R. F. Woerner, Hoboken; councillor, Geo. W. Pollitt, Paterson.

Commander Cunningham appointed the following staff: Chaplain, John A. Brown, Rahway; adjutant, H. E. Pennell, Atlantic City; quartermaster, Morris Parker, Atlantic City; judge advocate, John Bischoff, Egg Harbor; sergeant major, W. S. Epperson, Camden.

The convention next year will be held May 15 and 16 at Hoboken.

TO ISSUE FIRE BADGES.

Fire Committee Has Decided to Keep Outsiders Out Hereafter.

In order to prevent outsiders from catching on the fire apparatus when answering alarms, the fire committee of the Common Council has decided to issue badges to all those entitled to ride. This will include all assistants to the regulars, policemen and newspapermen. All others will be debarred and on refusal to remain away for many of the trucks or keep out of the fire lines, will be arrested.

May Move Fountain.

The chances are the public drinking fountain now on North avenue will soon be moved to a point opposite between the railroad station and Watchung avenue. It is then proposed to have running water. At present the fountain is not working.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Ball, of Myrtle avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarah Redell Ball, to Frank Howard Lowrie, of Bradford, Pa.

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to indorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. I. W. Randolph.

Mrs. T. A. Liebert, of Carteret, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Randolph Dunham, of Madison avenue.

MARTIN ACT MADE TROUBLE

But Common Council Finally Arranged for Sale of Portion of Martine Estate to Suit All.

THE SEWER BONDS SOLD.

Meeting Was Called to Dispose of Bonds, Which Was Done, But This Other Matter Threatened for a Time to Furnish Considerable Excitement.

There were ten bids received for the $41,000 4 per cent. sewer improvement bonds at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council May 14, and the bid of Parson, Leach & Company, of New York, was accepted. The bid was 107.25 on the bonds with accrued interest from May 1 last. The premium amounts to $43,972.50 and the bid is considered an exceedingly good one. The bonds were sold on about a 3.60 per cent. basis.

Among the other bids was those of Harvey Fisk & Sons, 106.777; Plainfield Dime Savings' Institution, 107.-325; Dick Brothers & Company, New York and Philadelphia, 103; Thompson, Tenney & Crawford, New York, 102.91; J. D. Everitt & Company, New York, par with accrued interest; W. B. Todd & Company, New York, 102.51; Ladenburg, Thalmann & Company, New York, 101.93; George C. White, Jr., New York, 104½; Lawrence, Cheeseman & Company, New York, 104.04. All of these bids included accrued interest.

After the bids were read by the city clerk, with the assistance of Councilmen Mellick and Tolles, who helped to open them, they were referred to the finance committee. A recess, which lasted nearly two hours, was then taken. During that time the Council decided to award the bonds to Parson, Leach & Company and they will be delivered at the City National Bank, as per resolution offered by Mr. Mellick which awarded the bonds to the successful firm. Mr. Warner represented the firm of Parson, Leach & Company, and he waited to get a certified copy of the resolution and a receipt for the firm's check, which accompanied the bid.

While the members of the Council were taking a recess there was another important matter being considered that proved to be far more difficult to settle. The Martin Act was responsible for this disturbance. It appears that about twenty-five acres of land formerly owned by James E. Martine and his sisters, the Misses Martine, who have an interest in it, were purchased on May 7 by Otto Arens under foreclosure proceedings under the Martin Act, the time for redeeming the property having expired. For this property, worth about $30,000, Mr. Arens paid $1,300. After purchasing the same Mr. Arens demanded a deed for the property.

In the meantime Mr. Martine saw Mayor Jenkins and secured a few days' grace. The matter was then referred to the Corporation Counsel, who stated that the deed had been out and it was up to Collector F. H. Smith to close the transaction. Mr. Smith, not wishing to involve himself in any trouble, held the matter up a few days preferring the wait until the Council meeting so that the matter might be referred to that body. In the interim the Council was communicated with, as was also the other interested parties.

Mr. Arens threatended to resort to mandamus proceedings to compel Mr. Smith to give the deed for the property, but this proceeding was not taken. Both Mr. Martine and Mr. Arens were written to and invited to be present in the Council chamber last evening, when an adjustment would be made of the matter.

As soon as the Council took a recess Mr. Martine retired to the anteroom and was holding a conference at least a half hour, while Mr. Arens was in waiting in the lobby. Presently, while in conversation with Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Mr. Arens very decidedly asserted himself and declared that he considered the action of the Council an insult to him in allowing an audience for Mr. Martine and barring him out. He requested Chief MacMurray to convey to Mr. Coriell, President of the Council, his sentiments that he considered the Council's action an insult and asked to be admitted to the ante-room.

Presently Mr. Mellick appeared and invited Mr. Arens to the ante-room. Then followed a heated argument, lasting another half-hour. At the end of that time, both Mr. Martine and Arens came out together, with every appearance of having adjusted their differences and they went off in a happy frame of mind.

When the Council reconvened, Mr. Mellick offered a resolution to the effect that Mr. Arens has agreed, verbally, to re-convey to the owners of the property, the property in question within one year upon the payment of the price he paid with 6 per cent. added as interest, provided the owners would give him a signed word of agreement that no objectionable building or nuisance would be put on the property thereafter. The resolution further provided that the Collector should be satisfied that the time of limitation whereby the property could be disposed of to Mr. Arens had expired. Upon the agreement that he would re-convey the property to the former owners, Mr. Arens demanded that a deed be given him for the property. This resolution was adopted.

A communication was received from C. E. Gulick asking that four fire hydrants be located in the vicinity of Park avenue and Randolph road, where several new houses are soon to be erected, and after the petition was referred to the proper committee, the Council adjourned.

BUILDING ANOTHER HUGE SAFE

HIBBARD-ROGMAN-ELY COMPANY HAS A MONSTER UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

It Will Weigh 192 Tons and is to be Shipped to California in Special Cars.

Although the seventy-five ton safe recently shipped from the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works was so large as to attract widespread attention, another one is now in course of construction which will make its predecessor in comparison look like a diminutive toy bank.

When completed it will aggregate the astounding weight of 192 tons, making it one of the largest ever built by any firm in this or any other country. It will be composed entirely of steel hardened by the Taylor and Hibbard process, impervious to anything but emery wheels.

To make matters more difficult, this monstrous vault has to go entirely across the continent before it reaches its destination. It is intended for a banking institution in San Francisco and the builders have guaranteed to transport it safely and erect it in as good condition as when it leaves the Plainfield factory.

It will be impossible to fit the huge pieces together before sending them out as no cars could be obtained to hold them. Neither are the western railroad bridges, or tracks either, for that matter, constructed to carry such a weight at one time. The parts will be evenly distributed over several specially constructed cars and will be in charge of competent men from the local factory all the way. The safe will not be ready for shipment yet for several months.

Low-Rate Tour to the Yellowstone Park via Pennsylvania Railroad.

On account of the annual convention of the National Educational Association at Minneapolis, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run a personally-conducted tour to Minneapolis and the Yellowstone Park, leaving New York July 5, and, returning, arriving New York July 20. Round-trip tickets covering all necessary expenses for the entire trip, will be sold at rate of $150 from all points on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg. Rate from Pittsburg $5 less. A special train of Pullman dining, sleeping, compartment, and observation cars will be used. Six days will be spent in the Yellowstone Park.

For itineraries and other information apply to ticket agents, Tourist agent, 1196 Broadway, New York; or George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Broad Street station, Philadelphia. 5 22 f

DEATH OF MRS. GODOWN.

Attack of Appendicitis Proved Fatal, Despite the Operation Performed.

The death of Mrs. William Godown, Muhlenberg hospital Friday morning of West Second street, occurred at noon. She was operated upon for appendicitis, Friday afternoon, but the disease was too far advanced when detected and she failed to rally.

Mrs. Godown was in her twenty-ninth year and is survive by a husband and two children. She also leaves a mother, Mrs. Newman and one brother, William Neuman, of West Second street.

BE PREPARED.

Have a Fire Extinguisher at Hand Ready in Case of Fire.

When a fire breaks out in your home, office or factory it is best to have a reliable extinguisher on hand. This may save you hundreds of dollars in damage. One of the simplest, cheapest and most reliable extinguishers is Seven's dry powder fire extinguisher. It will not harm the most delicate fabric. Recently a fire broke out in the composing room of The Daily Press building and one of these extinguishers quickly put the fire out even before the department arrived.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 28. Heroes of Modern Missionary Achievements"—Text, Rom. iv. 4; II Chron. xvi. 9; Ps. cxviii. 23; Matt. xxi. 42—Read Matt. v.

"Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

The last century saw more rapid and striking changes in the modes of life in many lands than any previous age with which we are acquainted. Methods of manufacture and distribution of goods were completely revolutionized. It has been thought that the church of Christ has not kept pace with the great advance in material interests. It is well to give some thought to the changes wrought in the religious aspects of the world by Christianity during the past century and see what advance has been made.

In the first place, the languages of the various sections of the earth have been learned, dictionaries made and the Christian Scriptures translated into them, printed and circulated by the millions of copies. The work of such men as William Carey should be recognized. The men who pioneered as missionaries and laid foundations for our present day ingathering of converts should never be forgotten, though their work may lack the thrilling interest and dramatic incidents connected with that in other departments. At one time Carey had in progress the translation into the Bible and twenty-six of the oriental languages. Similar labor on a less extensive scale has been done in all parts of the world. Such achievements have not been seen since the early missionary ages of Christianity, if ever before.

Another notable matter is the exploration by missionary effort of all lands of the globe. Geographical knowledge has been more enlarged in this way than in any other. To trace on the maps of the world the progress of discovery in the past hundred years is to follow the route of the missionaries' campfires through the lands of darkness. Vast tracts have by these means been opened to civilization.

The emergence of various peoples in widely separated lands, coming from savagery and barbarism to culture and enlightenment, shows the influence of Christian missions. Hawaii owes all its prosperity to this agency. Japan, Korea, Fiji and the south Pacific islands and great parts of Africa have felt the thrill of new life in response to evangelizing agencies.

What a change has passed over the spirit of the world in regard to financial matters! Not long since there was little or no interest in the welfare of any people beyond one's immediate vicinity. The salvation of the heathen world scarcely entered into the thought of even in the most active Christian communities. Now the great mass of the followers of Jesus are fully committed to the evangelization of the world. Even the young people give of their means to this end. The Christendom counts her annual contributions for this purpose by the scores of millions of dollars.

The workers have multiplied amazingly. An army of consecrated volunteers, with health, education and consecration, are in training or waiting to go forth. No day of earth ever before looked on such a sight.

The appliances are increased. Everything for care of bodies and enlightenment of mind and uplift of soul has been pressed into service with holy zeal.

A little while, since and one could know the details of most of the mission work of the world. Now it is so multiplied and complex that he can scarcely master the outlines of work in his own denomination.

The Motive Power.

I may not live in the petty, self centered life, because the love of Christ constraineth me to reach out and realize in my being all that He calls me to be. I may not dwell at ease in my narrow rest, for the love of Christ constraineth me to care for all who feel the weight of sin, the power of temptation, the press of struggle, the pain and bitterness of losses. I may not seek to perfect my own soul just for the joys of timeless hours, for the love of Christ constraineth me to find my joy in helping to bring the heavenly life into as many lives as possible. I may not wear a gloomy face or lose heart over the trials or evils of the present world, for the love of Christ constraineth me to enter into the joy of service, the victory of faith and the grandeur of life.—Rufus M. Jones.

You Will Never Be Sorry—

For living a godly life, for doing your level best, for your faith in humanity, for being kind to the poor, for looking before leaping, for hearing before judging, for being candid and frank, for thinking before speaking.

No Abiding Blessing.

Without Christ and vital fellowship with Him there may be activity enough to churn an ocean and work that can be piled mountain high, and yet no abiding blessing would be with it all.—Moravian.

An Ancient Inscription.

In the ancient cathedral of Aalseck, north Germany, there is an old slab bearing the admonitory inscription:

Thou speakest Christ our Lord to us:
Ye call Me Master and obey Me not;
Ye call Me Light and see Me not;
Ye call Me Way and walk Me not;
Ye call Me Life and desire Me not;
Ye call Me Wise and follow Me not;
Ye call Me Fair and love Me not;
Ye call Me Rich and ask Me not;
Ye call Me Eternal and seek Me not;
Ye call Me Gracious and trust Me not;
Ye call Me Noble and serve Me not;
Ye call Me Mighty and honor Me not;
Ye call Me Just and fear Me not;
If I condemn you, blame Me not.

—Pennsylvania School Journal.

TROLLEY RESORT ON BANKS OF RARITAN

The Middlesex and Somerset Traction Co. Has Elaborate Plans for a Summer Resort.

NEAR BOUND BROOK.

ALSO PLAN TO BUILD A SUMMER HOTEL ON SAME TRACT OF LAND.

Site Chosen Is at Five-Mile Lock, Just Below Bound Brook—Manager Walsh Outlines His Plans and Proposed Attractions.

Preparations are being made by the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company to locate at Five Mile Lock on the Raritan River, near Bound Brook, a picnic ground and summer resort that will exceed in largeness and attractions any similar enterprise in the State. Laborers are now at work preparing the site and it is hoped to open the grounds to the public by the middle of June. Manager Walsh, of the trolley company, said to a reporter in speaking of the project:

"The trolley company is to lay time has recognized the necessity of a place of public recreation and amusement in the summer in or near New Brunswick. Almost every day last summer we received calls on the telephone from people who wanted to know if we hadn't some place for a Sunday-school or family picnic. This year we have decided to start such a place. Our park will lie along the river on both sides of the dam. For the past ten days a force of men has been at work draining the land along the river, trimming the briars, etc. The land will now be filled in. If we had been able to start earlier we would have set out a thousand catalpa trees, which are rapid growers and give abundant shade, having leaves two feet long. They will be set out next fall.

"Above the dam we expect to have a dock for boating. In the park will be a summer theatre and one of the finest dancing pavilions in the State, measuring 95 by 110 feet. Under the pavilion on the ground floor will be space for tables for picnickers. The grounds will contain swings and a merry-go-round for the young people and such other booths and buildings as may be needed."

Besides giving this comprehensive description of the place, Mr. Walsh said that if the patronage warranted it there would be a band at the park every night in the week. On Sunday there will be sacred concerts, in any case. There will not be the slightest objectionable feature of any kind on the grounds, intoxicating drinks and no games of chance.

The theatre will be devoted to light opera and drama. Even vaudeville which might be called questionable will be eschewed. The company's aim is to make the park a place where anybody will feel safe at any and all times. Plans for the buildings are now being prepared by Architects Parsell and Blish, of New Brunswick, and work on the buildings will be begun at once. The buildings, of course, will not be very elaborate structures, although thoroughly suited to the purpose. They will be completed by June 15, Mr. Walsh says, when the park will be opened to the public. There will be no charge of admission to the grounds, but a nominal admission will be charged to the theatre and dancing pavilion. Refreshments, such as soda and other soft drinks will be sold.

The tract purchased by the Traction Company comprises sixty acres of what is known as the Woolsey farm, on both sides of the River road. The part on the river side will be devoted to the park, and next year, on the opposite side of the road, the company intends to erect a large summer hotel. The plans call for a large outlay of money and will mean a consequent heavy travel on the Bound Brook lines. Laborers are now at work on this road straightening it out and grading. By the time the park is opened Mr. Walsh expects to have all of the curves eliminated. At the park extra switches will be laid and there will be every facility for handling the crowds which are expected at the resort.

Many Honored Her Memory.

At the funeral services of Mrs. Matilda E. Stewart, held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Wilson, of Craig place, a large number of friends were present to pay the last marks of honors to the dead and some beautiful wreaths were placed on the casket. The pall-bearers were Harrison Codington, Wm. H. Combs, David D. Smalley, and George Sterret. Interment was in the Plainfield M. E. cemetery.

John Finnegan, of Newark, a former well-known resident of this city, is spending a few days at the home of Daniel Hibbits, of West Fifth street.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning May 28. Consecrated Men. R. H. Boyle.

Text:—Missions; our missionary boards. "A work for me and a work for you."—2 Cor. xii. 1-10.

Denominational loyalty has ever been a characteristic of Christian Endeavor. Interdenominational fellowship has been emphasized and practiced, but not at the expense of loyalty to one's own denomination. Endeavorer who proves disloyal to his own church is disloyal to Christian Endeavor, and, while he may have a name to live, he is dead.

The spirit of denominational loyalty taught and cultivated in the Christian Endeavor society should arouse the deepest kind of interest in the great benevolent boards of our church, especially the boards of home and foreign mission, by whatever name they may be known. The ignorance of the average church member concerning the great missionary agencies and enterprises of his own church is pathetic and inexcusable. And ignorance is never inspiring. It may sometimes be bliss, but it is never a promoter of good works. Ignorance begets indifference and apathy. How can we be interested unless we know? Yet how few do know! How few Endeavorers could name the benevolent agencies of their church, describe their aims, functions and fields of operation! Thousands of church members never saw a report of one of their church boards. Is it any wonder, then, that we are sometimes careless and indifferent in our attitude to the boards? Go to your pastor, obtain from him literature and reports of the missionary agencies of your church and make a special study of them. If you will do so, your interest in their work and support of it will soon increase.

The missionary boards of our churches should enlist the prayers, interest and hearty support of every one of us. Through them our church's work is done, and as the members of a church we should loyally support all its work. The boards are not private concerns for the committees that direct them or the chosen officials who administer their affairs. They belong to the whole church and in part to us as members of the church. We should therefore most heartily support them. They are wisely directed and economically administered. Many people have the impression that the church boards are most expensively operated, but this is false conception. All money is wisely spent. The least possible expense is incurred in applying all gifts to the purposes for which they are given. It is a positive misrepresentation and grossly unjust to make excuse for miserliness for people to say that the bulk of mission money is used in its distribution. Such is far from being the case, as a little investigation on the part of any one will show. Let us inform ourselves on the work of the boards and be loyal to them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. xiii, 6, 7; lii, 7; Mal. iii, 8-12; Matt. xxvii, 19, 20; Luke xv, 1-10; Rom. i, 14-16; x, 12-15; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. vi, 1-10; Rev. xxii, 17.

Not For Self.

There are many whose sole idea and one motive and principle in life is not to serve their generation, but their generation must serve them. They have no thought, no one thought for anything but self. The object to which everything else must bend is their own gratification and advancement and enrichment. The world is none the better, but the worse, for their having lived in it and all the better off when the grave covers them. We are none of us free from the obligations of serving our own generation. The responsibility rests on us in all its weight, and selfish worldliness is a curse to any community, to any church. A nation, a state, a community, a church, a family, an individual, soon tells the story whether it is serving its own generation according to the will of God or not.—William B. Smith.

An Unfailing Fountain.

Rarely does storm or sickness keep one of us from his daily work, but a very slight indisposition or a threatening cloud is often sufficient to prevent attendance where the only reward will be not dollars, but help to ourselves and others in the Christian life. If we will but gather all our flocks about the well, center all our affections about the glorious gospel of an opened word, revealing in every line the glorified Saviour and our duty to Him, the stone will be rolled away, so that our own hearts may be strengthened and nourished; so that the whole world may see in the opened word an unfailing fountain of the pure water of life.—Helper.

A Striking Summary.

Joseph Cook not long before his death wrote, at the request of the editor of The Christian Endeavor World, this characteristic message for Christian Endeavorers:

Man's life means
Tender teens,
Teachable twenties,
Tireless thirties,
Fiery forties,
Forcible fifties,
Serious sixties,
Sacred seventies,
Abiding eighties,
Blessing breath.
Death,
The rest,
God.

—Brooklyn Times.

Looking Upward.

If the sun is gone down, look up at the stars; if the earth is dark, keep your eyes on heaven. With God's presence and God's promise a man or a child may be cheerful.

A Great Mind.

There is nothing which more denotes a great mind than the abhorrence of envy and detraction.—Lutheran.

JERSEY GOLFERS TO DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP

New Jersey Golf Association Decided on June 5-7 for Its Annual Championship.

PROGRAMME IN DETAIL.

BESIDES INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIP THERE WILL BE A TEAM MATCH.

Events Are Announced—The Scheme of Competition is an Elaborate One—An Open Handicap is Also to be Held.

The executive committee of the New Jersey State Golf Association has decided on June 5, 6 and 7 for the association's third annual championship. This will bring it at a time when the Montclair course, which has been chosen for the tournament, will be at its best. All residents of the State of New Jersey who are members of golf clubs belonging to the associations, and all non-residents who belong to no clubs other than New Jersey golf clubs members of the association, are eligible to compete.

The programme has been arranged with the most careful attention to detail. Evidently the views which have been ventilated of late regarding the undesirability of too many matches in a championship contest have failed to impress the committee, for the scheme of competition is one of the most elaborate ever attempted in such a meet. It has been worked out with the most painstaking foresight, but though it looks attractive on paper its practical operation seems likely to involve some confusion.

The qualifying round is to be at eighteen holes, medal play, the first sixteen qualifying in one division and the second sixteen in another. These sixteens will be still further divided into eights, and each eight will compete separately at eighteen holes, match play, except in the finals, which will be at thirty-six holes. Besides these contests, there will be a team match for teams of four from each club in the league, and an open handicap at eighteen holes, medal play, with handicaps limited to eighteen strokes. In this latter affair the official ratings prepared by the State handicap committee will govern.

The prizes are as elaborate as the programme. The winner of the championship will receive outright a gold medal, while the club from which he enters will have the custody of the State Championship cup for the ensuing year. This cup is to go ultimately to the club whose players first win it three times. The runner up will have a gold medal, each of the members of the winning team will have another, and three more will be awarded, respectively, to the winner of the second eight of the first sixteen, the winner of the first eight of the second sixteen and to the winner of the second eight of the second sixteen. The handicap winner will have a silver cup, and a banner will be given to the club represented by the winners in the team match.

All entries should be made through the secretaries of the various clubs, and must be received by the secretary, H. H. Spies, at Montclair, on or before June 2. The executive committee which will have full charge of the affair consists of Lionel H. Graham, Paul Wilcox, C. F. Watson, R. Bage Kerr and B. F. Reinmund.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Permits Were Granted by Building Inspector Doane Yesterday for Four New Ones.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane Thursday admitted applications for four buildings to be erected in different sections of the city.

A permit was granted Jas. C. Manning, of Albert street, for the erection of a two-story dwelling on West Seventh street near Herbert avenue. A permit was issued to W. C. Chamberlain for the erection of a dwelling two and a half stories with slate roof to be built on East Third street, near Richmond street.

H. M. Manson, of West Seventh street, was allowed to proceed with the building of a storehouse for bicycles and tools on the rear of the site he at present occupies. Samuel Baldon, of Berckman street, was given permission to erect a barn on the rear of the lot at East Third and Berckman streets. Wednesday, a permit was issued to Jas. Wheeler for the erection of a barn on the rear of his lot on West Front street.

Ordination at St. Patrick's.

Invitations have been issued for the ordination services of Michael Gleason, of this city, which are to take place in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York, Saturday, May 24 St. Rev. Dr. John J. O'Connor will officiate. The young man will celebrate his first mass in St. Mary's church, this city, the following Sunday.

TOUR THROUGH JERSEY BY FIELD SECRETARY

Prominent Endeavorer is to Make a Trip Through This State Making Addresses.

ITINERARY PLANNED.

REV. C. B. EBERMAN, OF THE UNITED SOCIETY, COMING IN JUNE.

His Plans as Arranged by the State Executive Committee—He Will Speak at Union County Union Convention at Elizabeth June 2.

An event in which New Jersey Christian Endeavorers are taking much interest is the tour of this State to be made the first week in June by the United Society's field secretary, Rev. Clarence B. Eberman, who will be accompanied by Rev. W. T. S. Lambar, of Moorestown, president of the State Union.

Mr. Eberman, who was formerly president of the Pennsylvania State Union, was appointed to the newly-made office of field secretary last year, and since then has been visiting the various States addressing rallies of the societies and chairving conditions of the organization in different sections of the country. With his wife he is finishing a four months' tour in the Southern States, where he addressed large conventions, notably those in Florida, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia, and will begin his tour in this State Monday, June 3. The State executive committee, represented by President Lambar, Secretary Ida M. Stephens and Rev. Titus E. Davis, of Bound Brook, has arranged the itinerary of his trip through New Jersey.

Monday, June 3, Mr. Eberman will address an all-day rally in Elizabeth, when the Union county local union will hold its annual convention. Tuesday afternoon and evening he will meet the Hudson county Endeavorers in Jersey City and Hoboken. The Sussex and Warren county societies will greet him on Wednesday, when a rally is to be held at Hackettstown. Thursday will be devoted to a rally of the Mercer county societies to be held in Trenton. At New Brunswick, Friday, Mr. Eberman will speak to the Middlesex Endeavorers, and on Saturday he is expected to be in Camden. Sunday, the last day of his New Jersey trip, will be spent in Orange and East Orange, where he will address the East Orange societies in the morning in the First Congregational church, and at night will speak in the First Presbyterian church, Orange. The three of the Orange local Endeavor Union will probably arrange for a rally Sunday afternoon.

SECOND CONCERT.

Those Who Will Assist the Men's Choral Club at Casino, Tuesday, May 27.

Tuesday evening, May 27, the Men's Choral Club will give its second concert in the Casino. The club will be assisted on this occasion by the well-known tenor, H. Hobart Smock, who made such a notable hit at Miss Howell's musicale.

Miss Helen Reynolds, violinist, and Miss Mabel Reynolds, 'cellist, will add variety to the programme by some first class instrumental work.

The price of admission, which may appear a trifle high at first, will no doubt seem reasonable when it is known that the net proceeds from the concert will be given to the Young Women's Club, which lost its rooms and all its belongings in the recent Babcock blaze.

Tickets can be obtained at the drug stores, and from the patronesses, a list of whom will appear later.

GENEROUS GIFT.

Unknown Donor Gave $100 and Will Help Build Addition to Camp.

An unknown donor has forwarded to the Daughters of the Cross Circle, King's Daughters, $100 to be used in whatever way is thought best by the organization. The amount has been put in the general treasury of the City Union of King's Daughters. The same party has also agreed to bear part of the expense of adding another needed room to the baby camp cottage on the mountain and arrangements will be made soon to make the addition.

Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Club.

The bicycle season is now pretty well advanced and offers will be made soon by the Y. M. C. A. to organize the bicycle club. This is an excellent opportunity for those who like an afternoon's outing on the wheel.

To Locate at Lincoln.

The United States Soap Corporation has decided to locate at Lincoln, and land has been purchased on which will be erected a large building. The structure will be completed before October 1, 1903.

NEW TIME SCHEDULE ON JERSEY CENTRAL

Number of Changes Made Which Went Into Effect Sunday Morning.

WHAT CHANGES ARE.

DETAILS OF TRAINS WITH ALL TIME AND REVISED SCHEDULE.

No Important Ones Except to the Philadelphia Trains—Owl Train and Early Morning Local to New York Put Back.

A new time table for the summer was put in effect Sunday by the New Jersey Central.

The changes in the local east bound train service between Plainfield and New York include a new train at 3:37 in the morning. The 6:02 train leaves a minute later and the 8:13 leaves at 8:31 and connects for the Long Branch road. The 10:23 leaves at 10:26 and the 11:22 leaves at 11:25. The train, formerly leaving at 1:20 in the afternoon, now goes at 1:18 and there is a new train at 2:31 that connects with the Long Branch road. The 3:45 train leaves at 3:49 and the 3:56 train leaves at 3:54. The 5:59 train leaves a minute later.

To Philadelphia there is a new train at 7:44 and the 9:44 train has been taken off. There is a 9:14 train to Philadelphia and Washington and a new train at 9:44 to Trenton and Philadelphia. There is another new train for Trenton and Philadelphia [illegible] 11:44. The 3:16 afternoon train to Philadelphia is off and the only afternoon train to the Quaker City leaves at 3:44. One can go to Bound Brook at 5:34 and change there for Trenton, Philadelphia and Washington. The 5:59 train does not stop under the new schedule.

The new Harrisburg flyer leaves New York at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and stops at Plainfield at 5:45 to take on passengers for points south of Allentown on the Philadelphia and Reading or for points west of Manch Chunk on the main line. Returning this train only stops to let off passengers.

From Philadelphia the train arriving at 11:10 is taken off and there is another train at 11:30 which stops to let off passengers. The train arriving at 12:20 and a new train at 1:20 also stops to let off passengers. There is a new train at 2:43 which stops regularly and the 4:39 a new train stops to let off passengers. The 6:45 now leaves at 6:43. Another new train from Philadelphia arrives at 7:43 and is a regular stop. The 8:28 formerly from Washington now arrives at 8:36 and comes from Philadelphia.

The only Sunday change is in the 10:44 train for Trenton and Philadelphia. This train now leaves at 11:14.

The way train from Easton in the morning now arrives at 8:21 instead of 8:18, and the way train from Somerville arrives at 9:36 instead of 9:39. There are two Saturday specials from New York, one at 1:20 and the other at 2:20. The 4:40 from New York now stops at Grant avenue to let off New York passengers and the 5:43 from New York stops at Nothenwood to let off New York passengers. The latter train arrives at Plainfield 6:41 instead of 6:38. There is a 1 o'clock train in the morning from New York arriving at Plainfield 2:08.

RICHARD O'NEILL DEAD.

He Was Last Member of a Once Prominent Plainfield Family.

Richard O'Neill, the last member of a once prominent Plainfield family, died at his home on New street, last evening. He had been ill but nine days. He was fifty years old and was the son of the late Lawrence O'Neill, who owned considerable property in the vicinity of the Potter Press Works. A widow and six children survive him. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Factory at West Dunellen.

William A. Garrigoue, of this city, an iron and steel manufacturer, who recently purchased ten acres of land at West Dunellen, will erect a large plant thereon immediately. The work has already been started. It is expected that forty men will be employed at first. Mr. Garrigoue also has a plant in Philadelphia, where a large number of men are employed.

No More Steel Cars.

The New Jersey Central has decided not to purchase or build any more steel coal cars. It has been discovered that the sulphur from the coal eats large holes in the cars, making it too expensive. In the future wood will be used.

New Equipment.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., has selected its paraphernalia to replace that destroyed by the Babcock fire. It is very elaborate and has been pronounced the finest in the State.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

YOUNG FOLKS THERE.

Young People's Saturday Evening Social Was Entertained.

The young people's Saturday evening social was entertained Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Corwin at their home at 631 Madison avenue, Mrs. Howard Fleming and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks assisting.

Among those present were the Misses Edith Fisk, Florence Curtis, Marie Finch, Eleanor Stimpson, Jean Douglas, Dorothy Fleming, Elsie Goddard, Helen Lee, Ruth Titus, Margaret Leal, Wilhelmina Patton, Gladys Kaufman, Maixie Day, Eva Browne, Trott Smith, Winifred Haven and Harold Doiner, Max Parkins, Charles Perkins, Gordon Abbott, Robert Abbott, Effingham Pinto, Ralph Vail, Dudley H. Barrows, William Schoonmaker, Ralph Schoonmaker, Hartley Mellick, Jose Tweedy, VanWyck Brooks, Lucius Bigelow, Pendleton Rogers and Wickham Corwin.

A TERRIBLE WARNING.

Such Was Rev. Cornelius Schenck's View of Martinique's Destruction.

"The Destruction of a City," was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered in Trinity Reformed church Sunday evening by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck. His text was Gen. xix, 24-25, referring to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. He then spoke of the recent disaster in the island of Martinique.

In the case of Sodom and Gomorrah the people were warned, but they did not accept or heed it. He believed that the West India catastrophe should be taken as a warning by all and thus escape destruction by accepting Christ. He said that in every city there are elements that can wipe it out of existence. The pastor urged all to seek a full salvation and escape the cities of destruction by accepting and receiving Christ.

Singer of Ability.

Miss Josie Schaeffer, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, of Somerset street. Miss Schaeffer is an operatic singer of marked ability, having frequently appeared before New York's four hundred in such parts as Marguerite in Faust, also as Aida and Gioconda in the same opera. Miss Schaeffer is well known in Plainfield.

For the Chapels.

The annual subscription for the maintenance of the three chapels connected with the Crescent Avenue church, received last Sunday, amounted to $3,740.

Small Extension.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has issued a permit to Morris Abrams for the erection of a one-story extension to his dwelling on West Third street.

Change in Hour of Meeting.

The Sunday evening services at the First Baptist church will be held hereafter at 7:45 o'clock instead of at 7:30.

At No Time Is Man Secure From Attacks of such disorders of the stomach as cholera morbus, cramps and diarrhœa; but these complaints are common during the heated term, when it is dangerous to neglect them. Painkiller is a remedy that has never failed and the severest attacks have been cured by it. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

PRETTY WEDDING.

Miss Elizabeth S. Mobus Becomes Wife of Clarence S. Bye.

There was a very pretty wedding at the residence of Miss Martha Goodman, of Manning avenue, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening when her niece, Miss Elizabeth S. Mobus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Katherine Mobus, was united in marriage to Clarence Stevenson Bye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bye, of Craig place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church.

The groom was attended by John Mobus, a brother of the bride, and Miss Martha Rose was the maid of honor. The bride was gowned in Persian lawn, trimmed with Hibberty silk, and carried in her hand a large bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor was dressed in white organdie, trimmed with pink ribbon.

In honor of the event the parlor was beautifully decorated, pink and white being the prevailing tints in the floral hangings. There was a large dog-wood arch, beneath which the ceremony was performed.

Many guests were present from New York, Philadelphia, Statington, Pa., and Watchung, N. J., besides many from this city. The bride, who is very popular, was the recipient of many costly and useful presents. She is a member of Trinity Reformed church and has always been a most earnest worker in the Christian Endeavor Society of that church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bye left on a wedding trip to Philadelphia, and on their return will live in a house on Lee place, recently furnished by the bride.

NEW TRAIN.

Will Run Between New York and Harrisburg, Pa., via Allentown.

Arrangements was completed last week for the fast express train between Harrisburg, Pa., and New York over the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, by the way of Allentown. The new train was put on today. The run between the two cities will be made in four hours and forty minutes, eastbound, and five hours and ten minutes, westbound. The train leaves Harrisburg at 5 o'clock in the morning daily, stopping at Reading, Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton, arriving in New York at 12:40 in the afternoon. Returning it leaves New York at 5 o'clock in the evening and arrives at Harrisburg at 10:30.

His Final Orders.

Rev. Michael J. Glennon, son of Michael Glennon, of Elizabeth street, will receive his final orders for the priesthood at the hands of Bishop O'Connor in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Father Glennon will celebrate his first mass in St. Mary's church, Plainfield, at 10:30 o'clock Sunday.

Cadets Cannot Parade.

Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., has extended an invitation to the High School battalion to join in the celebration on Decoration Day. The battalion will be unable to accept the invitation.

Call for Dr. Richards.

Rev. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, has received a call from the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York.

HIS SINS FORGIVEN.

Boss Shepherd's Return to Washington Pleases the People.

He Has the Capital Three Years and Made a City of It—George Custard Him in 1874 and He Went to Mexico.

"Boss" Shepherd is coming back to Washington. He has made a great fortune in the silver mines of Mexico, and returns to his native city to spend his remaining days in peace. He is 67 years of age, and enjoys the distinction of being the best loved and best hated man that the capital city ever knew.

Alexander H. Shepherd's name will live in history as the originator of the new Washington. After all is said and done, the work of the experts who have planned the future Washington as a city of delight had the basis of "Boss" Shepherd's work to go upon. That is how he derived his sobriquet of "boss." For three years he was the absolute ruler of Washington, and in that time spent $20,000,000 in making it what it is today.

Alexander H. Shepherd, says the Philadelphia Press, is a native of Washington. He was born in the "forties" January 13, 1835. His parents were in ordinary circumstances. His ancestors for 150 years had lived in this country; some of them fought in the revolutionary war. Shepherd himself was for a time a soldier in the late war. His father became well-to-do before his death, which enabled the boy to obtain a pretty fair education. He entered Columbian university. But the executor of the estate, it is said, stole the money and young Alexander started to learn a trade to help support the family. Then he became a shoe salesman, and later learned to be a plumber and gas fitter. Within eight years of entering his apprenticeship he was a partner. Within the next 12 years he had built more than 400 houses in Washington.

His prominence in business led him into politics. He was a member of the board of common council of Washington before he was 25. Two years after, in 1862, he became president of the body. He was a member of the two houses of the territorial legislature and the District of Columbia into a territorial government. He was appointed governor of the district, and president of the board of public works. He had always borne the reputation of being a progressive, liberal, yet determined man.

ALEXANDER H. SHEPHERD.
(Has Just Returned to Washington After Long Exile.)

Washington at this time was a drowsy, half-southern, half-southern city. It had lived out on liberal lines but had never conformed to them. It had no adequate building laws. Its streets were mud holes in winter and dust distributors in summer. Shepherd determined to alter this. He had the power and he proceeded to use it. One morning the people of the old town wakened to find hundreds of men at work on the streets. It was the advance guard of "Boss" Shepherd's legions.

Within the next three years, from June 1, 1871, to June 24, 1874, "Boss" Shepherd ruled Washington with a rod of iron. Men who began by praising him ended by cursing him. As improvements grew taxes increased. Many men were literally ruined by the burdens imposed upon them. Newspapers in other cities were the only avenues for the maledictions of the citizens; the local papers were bound hand and foot by the influence of the "boss" or silenced by a knowledge that he was doing the right thing in improving Washington, although it was unpopular at the time.

Nothing halted his determination. The city became a hive of municipal industry. All streets of any importance underwent transformation. They were graded, sewered and paved, and it is now admitted that the work was well and admirably done. Some idea of the improvements that Shepherd made in Washington may be gleaned from these interesting figures. He planted more than 10,000 trees and paved 113 miles of streets, besides laying 297 miles of sidewalks. His army of men dug and carted away 3,340,000 cubic yards of earth. He had constructed 317,396 feet of pipe sewers of 12 to 15 inches in diameter; four miles of sewers from 18 to 20 feet in diameter and over five miles of sewers from 3 to 7 feet in diameter. He laid 30 miles of water pipe and nearly 60 miles of gas pipe. In addition to this he constructed 20 miles of roads in the suburbs of the city.

Pictures in Japanese Temples.

The native pictures (yema) or Japanese temples are an outgrowth of an old custom. In ancient times departed warriors were honored by offerings of sake and rice placed before their tablets and tombs. As the idea gained ground that their spirits hovered around their graves, besides food a certain number of fleetest white horses were provided with which these spiritual worthies might take recreation. So it became the custom in wealthy shinto temples to keep one of these sacred animals. There were many shrines that would not afford to buy a white horse, so the next best thing was to get a picture of one; hence the name yema (picture horse) from ye (a picture) and ma (a horse). The use of the yema was first confined to the shinto religion, but the Buddhists took kindly to the custom. The word yema has long lost its primitive meaning and has become a generic name for every picture hung up in Shinto shrines or Buddhistic temples.—Detroit Free Press.

No Time Wasted.

Probably since the world began there was never a period when men wasted their time as [illegible] they do now. Whether they use it well or ill, they at least do not let it slip away empty. Never was the fascination of work so potent as at the present moment, and never before were the same keenness and concentration displayed in the pursuit of distraction. Energy is the dominant quality of the Anglo-Saxon race, the quality they love to exercise, the quality they cannot choose but admire. Work is no longer regarded as a necessary evil or even wholly as a means to an end; it is valued for its own sake. The richest men in America work as hard as the poorest—or at least pretend to do so—lest the society in which they move should suppose them men of leisure, a supposition which would be, we understand, against an American, whatever his position in life.—London Spectator.

Easily Provided For.

A Washington woman who has a home that is in reality a small farm, in the suburbs close by this city, employs a colored youth as a man-of-all work around the place. He attended divine service recently and was evidently very much impressed with what he heard at church in reference to religious requirements during Lent. Returning home from the house of worship he literally took away the breath of his employer by announcing, in all seriousness:

"You needn't bother about me during Lent. Just give me a dozen eggs for breakfast every morning, and plenty of oysters and fish and I'll manage to get along very well without meat."—Washington Star.

Cheer Wrong State Flower.

It is dangerous for legislatures to dabble in botany. A few years ago the Minneapolis legislature appointed the moccasin flower, which is called Cypripedium colsecalus, state flower. The ladies of the St. Anthony Study Circle declare that the variety appointed by the legislature doesn't grow in Minnesota, and that the name of the moccasin flower that does is Cypradelium reginæ. So the Gophers have been smelling of the wrong flowers, and the legislature is expected to depose cypripelium and put cypraedium in the seat of honor.—N. Y. Sun.

Women and Music.

We all know with what enthusiastic, even religious, devotion women have loved music in all ages, and particularly in this age; one may almost say music would have perished but for the active sympathy of women for the art and its artists; and we all know, further, what brilliant heights of excellence have been attained by women as executive musicians, both in vocal and instrumental kinds; yet no woman has ever yet composed any great music.—Sidney Lanier, in Lippincott's Magazine.

The Mail of Rulers.

A statistician has been comparing the daily mail of sovereigns, and finds the pope receives the most—some 25,000 letters a day. In the words of the old college song: "Oh, no, I would not be the pope." He has, however, 24 secretaries to help him. King Edward has 1,000 letters and 3,000 newspapers a day, the czar and the kaiser 700 letters each, the king of Italy 500 and the young queen of Holland from 100 to 150.—Springfield Republican.

Between the Girls.

Miss Ann Teek—I hope you expressed to Miss Sharp my regret at being unable to call upon her.

Miss Gadlie—Yes, and she said she couldn't understand it at all.

"But didn't you tell her I had the chicken pox?"

"That was just it. She said you never had no chicken."—Philadelphia Press.

Never Pleasing.

Mrs. Mitford—What do you think of Mr. Vivisection upon question? It must be awful to have to work and [illegible].

Mrs. Graham—Yes; and it is awful to be cut dead, as I was by one of my dearest friends last evening.—Boston Transcript.

One Man's Theory.

Dixon—I wonder why some folks think the moon has anything to do with making people crazy?

Dixon—Probably the idea originated with some man during his honeymoon.—Chicago Daily News.

Different Ways of Doing It.

The snow is never too deep for a woman to attack with a broom, and never so light that a man doesn't think he has to have a shovel. — Atchison Globe.

BABY IN A PUMPKIN.

Vegetables Raised in Santa Clara Valley Afford Shelter and Play Room for Children.

Nowhere else in the world do pumpkins and melons and squashes flourish and assume such proportions as in southern California. The last season has been an unusually good one for the product of the vine, and some remarkable specimens, probably never before equaled, have been grown. Great fields are literally covered with pumpkins, and in the young walnut orchards they litter the grounds as though hauled there in carloads.

Ventura county is responsible for an extraordinary specimen of the common California pumpkin which weighed a trifle less than 400 pounds and was converted into a calf barn. A window and door were cut in the ends of the giant, and the calf, which was six weeks old and large for its size, found plenty of room inside. The circumference of the pumpkin in the center was exactly ten feet.

GIRL IN THE PUMPKIN.
(Vegetable of Vast Proportions Grown in California.)

The other curiosity was raised in the same county and was on exhibition at Santa Paula until a few weeks ago, when the hot weather caused decay. This pumpkin, though it weighs only 230 pounds, is even more distinguished than its neighbor, because it is the head of what undoubtedly is the most extensive family of its kind that ever sprung up. On this vine, which grew in the middle of a large walnut orchard without fertilizing or special cultivation, were 12 other pumpkins, each weighing an average of 180 pounds. A little calculation shows that there was over a ton of pumpkins on one vine—2,390 pounds, to be exact. From this the possibilities of a field of a hundred acres, such as are common, may be judged for productiveness.

The little girl—probably the only woman who ever lived in a pumpkin—is Miss Rolls, granddaughter, of Rev. G. F. Stewart, of Santa Paula, and she is four years old. She is seated on an ordinary child's chair, also inside of the pumpkin. This pumpkin measures seven feet eight inches around the "waist," and ten feet eight inches in circumference lengthwise. Standing on end, as here shown, it is three feet nine inches in height. It was raised by C. C. Teague, manager of the Blanchard ranch, in the South Santa Clara valley.

KERVY BOER OFFICER.

Commandant Smoenberg's Unique Attempt to Escape from Prison at St. Helena.

A Boer officer, a prisoner on parole at Deadwood camp, St. Helena, made an extraordinary attempt recently to escape from captivity on board one of the Union Castle liners. He had himself inclosed in an innocent-looking case addressed to a captain of the Fourth Gloucester regiment, and this was put on board the steamer.

BOER'S MEANS OF ESCAPE.
(Box in Which Burgher Commandant Fled from St. Helena.)

That the ex-commandant allowed himself no easy time of it is evident from the fact that the case measured four feet three inches by two feet four inches. It was of three-quarter-inch deal.

After three days at sea the man was discovered and was unpacked in a very thin and shaken condition, declaring that his experiences had been worse than a sojourn in the nether regions. He turned out to be Commandant Smoenberg, and on being brought before Col. Evans said that he had intended, if he had reached England, undiscovered, to get out of the case at night and make his escape to Holland.

Before his detection he had once left the box to stretch himself.

Did Smith Write Burns?

The latest literary quip is an argument that the poems of Robert Burns were really written by Adam Smith, author of "The Wealth of Nations." It is as plausible as most of the books on the Baconian origin of Shakespeare's plays.

COMPANY K INSPECTED BY STATE OFFICERS

Local Company of National Guard Made a Good Showing at Its Annual Inspection.

ALL PRESENT BUT ONE.

ASSISTANT INSPECTOR GENERAL WAS PRESENT TO SEE THE DRILL.

Says There Is the Making of a Fine Company—Company Was Drilled Under the Direction of Captain W. Kempton Browning.

The annual muster and inspection of Company K took place Friday evening in Saengerbund Hall under the direction of Lieut.-Col. Louis T. Bryant, of Atlantic City, assistant inspector general. In view of the fact that this was the first event of the kind since the organization of the company, considerable interest was attached. The gallery was filled with spectators, relatives and friends of members of the company and all watched closely the inspection as well as the drill. Every member but one was present, and the absent one, Clerk Floyd M. Letson, will be called to account.

The company acquitted itself creditably, although there is room for improvement. No doubt there was an evident desire to do the very best and in this effort some mistakes were made. Captain W. Kempton Browning drilled the company under the direction of Lt. Col. Bryant, and practically everything in the manual of arms was given. In the various formations the company did well, and as remarked afterward by the inspecting officer, "there is the making of a fine company." Allowances have to be made for the fact that the company is the youngest in the State.

The members passed the inspection of arms most satisfactorily, there being only two whose guns were not up to the high standard. Altogether the members have every reason to be encouraged and it was the general opinion that after another trip to Sea Girt there would be a vast improvement. During the evening Major Nelson W. Dungan, of Somerville, and Col. Collins, of Elizabeth, were present and watched with interest the work of Company K.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which Is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Waterboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

I. La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American House at Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,

4 30 caw 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

TEACHERS' MET.

Somerset County Teachers' Association Held Annual Meeting.

The teachers of Somerset county met in annual convention at Bernardsville Saturday. More than one hundred and fifty teachers were present, including twenty-seven from North Plainfield.

Following are the officers elected for the ensuing year: President, Gains Hoffman, Bound Brook; secretary, Miss Olivia Bartlett, Bound Brook; treasurer, Miss S. S. Higgins, East Millstone.

To Prevent Accident.

Councilman Lee's idea in having the trolley cars on the Arlington avenue line stop at Fifth street, when going in either direction, is that quite often Chief T. O. Doane's wagon goes through that street at a high rate of speed, and by having the cars stop at that point a serious accident may be averted.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1902. NO. 22.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Consent of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

GOOD REASONS FOR UNION OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH

Former Mayor Wm. L. Saunders' Able Address at the Mass-Meeting of the Union Association.

CLEAR EXPOSITION OF SITUATION.

SKETCHED THE HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT WHICH AIMED TO FORM A GREATER PLAINFIELD.

Plain Statement of Facts Concerning What is to be Gained by the Borough in Becoming a Part of Union County and Uniting With the City of Plainfield—Advantage of One Set of Officials—The Saloon Question—The Sewers—Interests of Two Places Are One and Government Should, Therefore, be the Same.

The promise was made a few days ago that the able speech delivered by W. L. Saunders at the annexation meeting would be reproduced in this paper in full. Today it is duly presented.

The speech was not delivered exactly as follows, since owing to the lateness of the hour, the less striking portions were omitted. The strongest part of Mr. Saunders' address was the elaborate presentation of reasons and figures in graphic diagrams, but lack of space prevents their publication today. However, these figures have been reproduced in a pamphlet entitled "Thirty Reasons for Annexation and Consolidation," which may be obtained by applying to this office.

Following is the substance of Mr. Saunder's speech:

"As I was coming home on the train the other day thinking of this meeting, I read a little story in the Commercial Advertiser. Perhaps it will serve to introduce me to this audience. A colored man was in court, and someone turned to him and said, 'Are you the defendant?' 'No, sah,' he replied, 'I ain't done nuffin to be called names like dat, as my lawyer he does de talkin.' 'Well then, who are you?' he was asked, and Sam replied, 'I've only de gentleman wat stole de chickens.' This is my first apology for addressing you tonight. My second and last is a serious one. I want to express my regret that during the past six years of earnest effort on behalf of consolidation some one more capable and influential than I should not have taken hold with equal enthusiasm. One might almost conclude that a cause so worthy, so issue so plainly in the public interest, a result so logical and so certain would come to pass of its own accord; that the public and especially the taxpayers would rise in a body and consolidate.

"History, my friends, does not record an instance where changes of great public importance and which bring happiness, prosperity or liberty to the people are initiated in any other way than by one or two individuals, perhaps obscure and unknown, yet willing to do the work that must be done in order to begin. 'If we would remove mountains we must begin on grains of sand.' The engine will not start until the little spark has kindled the flame under the boiler. 'What is everybody's business, is nobody's business.'

"It was the poor, fanatical John Brown who precipitated a conflict that settled for all time the preeminence of this Nation over the States, and made plain the truth expressed in the motto, 'In union there is strength.'

"Shortly after these bills had been introduced in the House of Assembly, a discussion took place at Senator Reed's house between the Senator, Mr. Henry McGee, and myself on the merits of the case. Mr. McGee said that criticisms had been made that one or two individuals had attempted to do that which belonged to the people as a whole, but he added, 'I told them that no great change of public importance was ever brought about until (turning to me) somebody has gone crazy over it.' But it does seem that entirely too much importance is given to individuals in this matter. Of what consequence is it who suggests a plan of action when the plan in all its details is before the public for discussion and action? Does anybody remember who the individual was who started the movement to incorporate this borough out of the township? Somebody must have started it, it could not start itself. Progressive movements in the world are not sudden and spontaneous uprisings like volcanic eruptions. Perhaps it was the chairman of the Anti-Progressionists meeting the other night who started it. I am told that he supported this robbery of a poor rural township by taking the borough away from it! But I would do him justice and say frankly that I do not believe it. He is too good a Baptist, and too rural in his inclinations and sympathies. 'Thou canst not say, I did it,' I was not here. They tell me that there was a referendum in this case of kidnapping, just as there is in the consolidation crime, and I believe it went to vote once and was defeated, just as consolidation was. Yet they had the audacity to bring it up again, they held public meetings just as we are doing, and it won just as we will win. Of course it won because it was a wise progressive measure, a business proposition opposed by sentiment. It was probably supported by a gang of 'Scheming Politicians' just like the Consolidation measure. It would be interesting to know how the vice presidents of the recent 'Anti' meeting stood on that borough incorporation. I think you will find many of their names on the opposition list. Pass a bill to give a ten dollar note to each man in the State and you will get opposition. You will surely have that there is a political scheme in it. Any new thing is always looked upon with suspicion until it is understood. Throw the full light of public criticism upon a measure, get down to every root and branch of it, and if there is any rottenness there it will show up. If the real facts and figures bear logically against it, the structure will fall. As a firm believer in Consolidation, and with reasons for my belief, there is nothing which I more earnestly desire than public discussion. Begin as far far back as you will, ask any question that are in your mind, put me on the witness stand as the defendant if you wish and while I may not be able to answer all questions, because my knowledge is limited, yet you should know that so far as within me lies, I will tell you the truth and the whole truth. Let me briefly review the history of this movement.

"In 1896 thirty-two people signed a paper which began with these words: 'The undersigned, citizens of North Plainfield, favor the consolidation of city and borough.' Early in 1897 a meeting was held and an organization affected. A circular, a copy of which is before me, was printed and distributed, about the borough, a second distribution was made about two years later. There were numerous contributions to the newspapers, and editorials appeared from time to time discussing the pros and cons of the matter. In 1898 the Board of Trade after discussion and approval of consolidation, requested the Mayors of Plainfield and North Plainfield to each appoint a committee of three to act with a committee from the Board as a joint committee on Consolidation. This committee held several meetings, and among the resolutions which were passed, with but one dissenting vote were the following.

"Resolved, 'That Consolidation is desirable.'

"Resolved, 'That a Committee be appointed to prepare and submit to the Legislature a bill which will provide for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield.'

"It was decided to test sentiment in the borough, and the broad question of consolidation was put on the regular ballot, and through the efforts of Mr. Smalley, Senator Reed and the solid Republican organization, it was defeated. Less than half of the voters expressed themselves on the subject. The friends of the movement were not discouraged. Discussions went on in the newspapers, and among individuals. It became plain that the subject was so complex and so many impractical plans were proposed, that it was decided to frame a legal basis for consolidation by presenting a concrete plan to the Legislature, so that after the passage of the necessary laws, the people might have the opportunity to consolidate if they wanted to. Three years had elapsed since the question had been voted on. Some who had voted against it did so because no legal basis had been outlined. Taxes had been going up, there was a strong sentiment for sewers. The Plainfield system had stood the test, and sentiment for consolidation had grown. A few of the active friends of the movement decided to prepare the necessary bills and make an effort to get legislation.

"A referendum was always attached to the consolidation bill. It was there when the bill was first presented to the Assembly. In order to cover the legal and the practical points involved it was thought wise to provide a separate bill changing the county line, so that when the proper time came for Plainfield and North Plainfield to confer and vote upon the question of consolidation, the obstacles of county differences would have been removed, so that the terms and conditions of consolidation might be agreed upon. There was no referendum attached to this county line bill until it was put there by Senator Reed, when the bill went before the Senate Committee. County lines are mere political divisions of States. They are created by Legislatures and are changed from time to time to meet changed conditions. Who, but an office-holder cared what county he lives in? It is the duty of the Legislature as the representative body of the people to give a hearing, to listen to and weigh objections which might be raised to a proposed act, and it is the privilege of every citizen to go to Trenton and protest. A referendum is unprecedented in a bill changing a county line; but it is a fair proposition and the friends of this movement have never had the slightest objection to it, because we set out only to make a legal platform for the people to stand on if they wished to do so, and these laws as they are presented to you are to the fullest extent, Democratic laws dependant upon action by the people. The issue is absolutely in your hands, and I am not here to plead with you to vote for or against this proposition, but to present to you in a plain business like manner the facts and figures which bear upon the question, and which have so forcibly convinced me as a citizen and taxpayer that the true destiny of our beautiful borough is with Plainfield and Union county. No one proposes that you should move either from the county or the borough; Union county and Plainfield are to come to us. We will remain exactly where we are. The only move that we will make is one of forward progress. If I do not prove that consolidation is wise, that the facts and figures and the plain logic of the situation are with us, then I will step down and out, because I am like you, seeking only that which is best, for my home, my property and my fellow citizens. But before we begin, I want to ask you to remove from your minds all sentiment and prejudice. Drop the personal side of this case. Free your minds from the idea that there is anything dishonest about drawing the line of Union county around this property of yours. Don't be fooled by the holier-than-thou Prophets who would imply that the fifty vice presidents of this meeting would lend their names to a measure which is not above reproach. Next, let sentiment take second place, when weighing this business proposition. I confess to a great dislike for the sentimental side of things. I once tried poetry but found that it didn't pay. Only the wealthy can afford to put sentiment ahead of hard business economy in this world. There are too many people [of moderate means in

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5.1

FINE SHOWING AT THE IRVING

Excellent Exhibit of Pupils' Work Held at Irving School For Two Days.

ART WORK A FEATURE.

Each Class Gave a Comprehensive Exhibit of the Work Done and Made a Special Feature of Some Particular Line—Miss Petrie, Principal, is Ably Assisted.

Exceeding the most sanguine expectations of the host of visitors who visited the Irving school, Tuesday afternoon and evening the pupils exhibit at that building was a marvel of educational work. Beyond a doubt it was the most artistically and attractively arranged of any display in the school series and was a revelation to all.

The assembly hall had been set aside for the exhibition and its beautiful permanent wall decorations of casts and paintings formed a most appropriate background for the vari-colored class displays. Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal of the school, supervised the reception of visitors and her corps of teachers explained minutely each grade's work. They were ably helped by Miss Daisy Gilbert and Miss Hedwig Grotman, who registered all comers, and Masters Walter Gray, Ralph Taylor, George Fisher, John Fritts, Willie Briggs and John Rittenhouse who acted as ushers.

Art work predominated in the entire exhibit and it demonstrated the amount of ability capable of being displayed by pupils when the proper pressure is brought to bear upon them. Much of it would reflect credit on many adults and that most of it was executed by childish hands averaging ten years seems impossible. All was free hand object drawing and the color scheme, accomplished by brushes, would be hard to improve upon.

Each grade's display was a general one, embracing the class curriculum, but in most cases the teachers had brought out prominently some feature in which a group of pupils excelled. None were neglected, however, each child having some exercise on view. Beginning with the kindergarten, taught by Miss Lilian Glen and Miss Bessy Fitz-Randolph, there was a large display of elaborate mounted work, with an added attraction in the form of pretty booklets prepared by Miss Glen.

The first grade A, one of the half day classes at this school owing to the limited room, taught by Miss Mary Griswold and Miss Mary Buckle, had one of the largest and prettiest displays of any in the school exhibits. It consisted of construction work from dictation, measurements, original drawings, picture colorings and free hand cutting. Some passepartout work showed much aptness and pretty embroidered silk winders, pin trays, handkerchiefs and waste baskets revealed to a small extent the patience possessed by the nimble fingers of the manual training pupils. Arthur Briggs, Willie Thompson, Felix Janke and Mary Wilson had remarkably good designs in this group.

Construction work was the feature of the first year B grade in charge of Miss Harriet Filmer, where a whole set of parlor furniture was seen. The drawing was original and the cutting was of great interest. The best art work was that of May Rhodes, Robert Scott, Emma Edmunds, Hans and John Apgar. Miss Lecia Wood had charge of the first year C work and had a great variety of drawing in ink and color and some very good writing. In construction work there was a whole set of bedroom and dining room furniture made by the pupils from cardboard. Edson Woodhull and Jamie Manning were the originators of some pretty designs in this display.

Class work in general was shown by Miss Louise Egan in her display of first grade A designs. The construction work was novel, embracing a set of kitchen furniture, trains of cars and other attractive articles made by the pupils. Finely illustrated papers, attractive notes and picture frames, were some of the useful articles seen in the second year B in charge of Miss Lucy Brown. Some results of raphia work, or weaving, which begins in this grade, were greatly admired.

Third grade A display, supervised by Miss Ada Clark, featured some neatly illustrated papers showing the general work of the grade. A more elaborate showing of raphia work was seen in this section. Miss Alice Lee, teacher of the third year B, showed some very beautifully illustrated written papers, especially in language and geography. The construction work here was very attractive, both for its excellence and variety. The raphia work was very well done and showed neatness and skill on the part of the pupils.

Neatly written papers were also prominent in the fourth year B, in charge of Miss Lottie B. Stillams, those in language being the best. Creditable illustrations were appended to each exercise. The manual work and napkin rings made from raphia were very much admired. Among the pupils having excellent work were Clarence Hoffman, Grace Mundy, Phillip Mosher, Arthur Stryker, Lizzie Porter and Harold Schenck.

Miss Florence M. Hughes had realm to be proud of the fourth year B exhibit, as nearly every visitor lingered over the beautiful art work and paused to admire its arrangement. The drawing was original and attractive especially in the way of designs of color and the attention was called also by original compositions, neat arithmetic papers and map drawings. In this class was seen some very attractive hats, mats and various articles made from braided raphia. Pupils worthy of mention were Archie Thompson, Arthur Anderson, Jack Hallard, Claude Kingslow, Nellie Squire, Agnes Hendry and Florence Brown.

Excellent language papers with illustrations, were prominent in the fifth year grade, Miss Frances E. Cory, teacher. The drawing in this grade especially the free work, was very well done, while the pen and ink work was conceded to be the best in the exhibit. Special mention for excellence in this department is due Miss Hedwig Grotman and Harold Miner. Miss Grotman's work was of a high order and by following the proper course she will undoubtedly make a name for herself.

The exhibit concluded with the sixth grade display which was extensive itself. Miss Anna W. Watson was in charge and she had made a specialty of enlarged drawings which were indeed remarkable. To many they passed as the work of experienced artists. The drawing was executed in connection with the study of Greek and Roman architecture and consisted of small pictures enlarged nine times, by Ralph Taylor, John Fritts, George Fisher, Fred Gray and Walter Gray. John Fritts had two admirable pictures done in charcoal. In this display also was a varied display of basket work which called for many favorable comments form the visitors.

TO DEWEY PARK.

Aluminum Press and Plate Works Will be Moved From This City in a Short Time.

The deal was closed Tuesday afternoon whereby the entire plant of the Aluminum Press and Plate Works is to be moved from this city to Dewey Park, where the company has purchased ten acres of land. Work will be started just as soon as possible to erect large commodious buildings for the company. The idea in moving from this city is that the company desire ten acres of land, with the privilege of getting more if necessary.

The company has orders ahead which will keep the works running steady for fifteen months and an era of prosperity is predicted for this concern. The site chosen at Dewey Park is one of the finest and it was obtained through S. D. Drake, who is always wide-awake and doing something.

VALUABLE PROPERTY.

Offered for Sale in East End by Elston M. French.

A number of building lots in the eastern section of the city are being offered at private sale by Elston M. French. The lots are situated at the corner of East Second street and Terrill road, on the main trolley line. The street, on which the land abuts, is macadamized and the sidewalks are flagged and curbed. The terms of sale are ten per cent. down, with five per cent. monthly payments. Special inducements will be given to cash buyers.

New Ladder Received.

A new thirty-foot ladder was received at fire headquarters yesterday to replace the one destroyed in the Babcock fire. The frame of the ladder is made of ash, while the rungs are of oak. It is much easier to handle than the old one, although it is less than half its weight.

MARKED NINTH YEAR OF ENDEAVOR SOCIETY

The Anniversary Observed at the First Baptist Church Tuesday Evening.

GEO. F. BROWN PRESIDED.

ADDRESS OF EVENING WAS MADE BY REV. F. SMITH, OF SOMERVILLE.

Talked on "The Value of Volunteer Service," and Impressed His Hearers With Need of Spiritual and Spontaneous Work.

In a pleasing and appropriate manner the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church celebrated its ninth anniversary Tuesday night, when members from the various Endeavor societies and Epworth Leagues of the city and borough were present to join in the happy event. The affair was held in the Sunday-school room of the church which was attractively decorated with palms, ferns, flowers and an American flag, while the Endeavor colors, green and white, were given a prominent position.

In the absence of Dr. Norman H. Probasco, president of the society, George F. Brown took charge of the programme and gave the visiting young people a cordial welcome.

Rev. Frank Smith was introduced and made an interesting address on the "Value of Volunteer Service." Mr. Smith said that if service for Christ is to amount to anything it must be spontaneous. The speaker characterized apathy as superified laziness. The second important point noted by Mr. Smith was that service must be sacrificial. Lastly, the speaker said that one must be spiritual to be successful in serving Christ. This he said was most essential.

After the address, there was a soprano solo by Mrs. Robert Gildea, accompanied on the piano by Miss Buckley, followed with a banjo solo by Herbert J. DuBois, accompanied by Mrs. Buckley. There were several recitations by Miss Mary Adelaide Lackley, which were well received, and mandolin solos by Fred Kamm, also accompanied by Mrs. Buckley.

This concluded the programme and the rest of the evening was devoted to social features, during which refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee, Herbert J. DuBois, chairman. Miss Ella H. Serrill, Miss Grace Yerkes and N. Douglass Drake.

MOORE WILL UPHELD.

Sustained by Final Decision of the Prerogative Court Given Out Tuesday—Victory for Lawyer.

Vice Ordinary Alfred Reed, of the Prerogative court, at Trenton, filed a decision, Tuesday, sustaining the will of the late George W. Moore and affirming the order of Judge Vail of the Orphan's court at Elizabeth.

The decision comprises eight folios and upholds Councillor George Ball, of this city, appearing for the executors and heirs, in all his argument.

The will was drawn by Councillor Ball and defended by him from the start. The case was taken to the Prerogative court on appeal from Judge Vail's opinion rendered in December, 1901. Counsellor W. S. Anglesman appeared for the widow and contestant, Alletta S. Moore.

Through this decision the following heirs will receive their bequests: Edward H. Moore, Caroline Bangs, Charles Dodd, Jr., and John Hand Camp, Sons of Veterans.

OUTING FOR INSURANCE MEN.

Sept. Ball, of Prudential Company, Will Give One to His Staff.

As a reward for faithful services, Superintendent Charles E. Ball, of the Prudential Insurance Company, will give his staff and a few of their friends a pleasant outing on Memorial Day. He has engaged a special car on the New Jersey Central and will take the staff to Manch Chunk. The party will comprise about sixty people and everything will be arranged for the entertainment of the party going and coming.

Addition to Borough.

Tax Collector Brown, North Plainfield, has rented to Judge Stewart, auditor of the American Smelting and Refining Company, of New York, the house on Mercer avenue owned by Oscar S. Teale. Judge Stewart will make his home in Plainfield.

—Newman Brothers have the largest display of fresh vegetables to be seen in this city. Consignments received daily.

DR. RICHARDS WAS CALLED

Unanimous Call Extended by Brick Presbyterian Church, of New York, Tuesday.

IS NOW CONSIDERING IT.

Generally Believed That Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards Will Give Up the Pastorate of the Crescent Avenue Church to Accept the Call to the Big New York Church.

As was generally expected by those who have known the situation, a unanimous call has been extended to Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, to become the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, at a salary of $12,000 a year. This call was extended to Dr. Richards at a meeting of the congregation of the Brick church held in New York Tuesday, when three hundred and fifty out of the 750 members of the church were present at a meeting presided over by Dr. Henry vanDyke. The latter, as previously stated, announced the name of Dr. Richards and in doing so said that he could make no better recommendation and he was sure that Dr. Richards would accept the call.

"I have known Dr. Richards for a great many years," he said, "He is a man of strong personality, attractive to young people, a favorite preacher in the colleges, a courteous gentleman and a splendid preacher. I know of no better thing that I can say of him than that he was selected by the congregation of the late Dr. Babcock's church, to succeed him, when Dr. Babcock became your minister. I earnestly recommend that he be called to the pulpit of the Brick Presbyterian church."

When Dr. vanDyke then sat down there was applause, and John E. Parsons rose and moved that a call be sent to Dr. Richards. Mr. Parsons said that he had known Dr. Richards for twenty-six years, and knew his family and that there was nothing against him, save that he had two brothers who were lawyers.

William Henry Harrison Moore seconded Mr. Parson's motion, and other speeches in favor of making a call on Dr. Richards were made by Adam Campbell, Dr. W. W. Amerbury, Henry L. Smith, J. Cleveland Cady and Morris K. Jessup. After the unanimous vote to call Dr. Richards, a vote of thanks was given to Dr. vanDyke for assistance he had rendered the church.

Dr. vanDyke appointed John E. Parsons, J. Cleveland Cady and Morris K. Jessup a committee to sign the call on behalf of the congregation, and Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, Alexander Maitland and William H. H. Moore, a committee to act with Messrs. Parsons, Cady and Jessup in presenting the call to Dr. Richards and prosecuting the call before the Presbytery of New York.

Dr. Richards was seen yesterday by a representative of this paper and he admitted that a call has been extended to him. However, he denied emphatically the statement in one of the New York morning papers that he had decided to accept the call in accordance with a conference alleged to have been held between him and trustees of the Brick Presbyterian church. Dr. Richards said that now that a call has been given he will take sufficient time to consider it. He said that he would first have a conference with his own people and other friends preparatory to giving his decision in the matter. There are many interests in the Crescent Avenue church to be considered before Dr. Richards will give an answer to the call, and until they have been so considered no response will be made.

However, it is generally understood that Dr. Richards will probably accept the call to New York. As expressed by one of the most prominent members of the Crescent Avenue church, this morning, the members of the Brick Presbyterian church would not place themselves in a position to be turned down after extending a call to Dr. Richards. This member said that it was perfectly safe to believing that the members of the Brick church were sure of their position in the matter and that in extending a call to Dr. Richards it was believed that he would accept after due deliberation.

J. L. Horne, of Metuchen, spent yesterday in town on business.

The "RAPID" Woman

WHEN this phrase appeared on the blackboard at the meeting of the Society For the Studying of Character (S. F. S. C.), there was universal consternation.

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed little Mrs. Prim disapprovingly.

But the speaker for the day put them all at their ease. "You mistake, ladies," she remarked suavely. "The rapid woman need not necessarily be loud or—or—objectionable in her ways. She is, in fact, an ordinary respectable woman like you and myself and is simply a product of the twentieth century who is suffering with stressuitis or an overdose of energy."

"A sort of a female rapidtoadlerum?" ventured one of the members, referring to a rapid transit machine invented by a New York humorous artist.

"Exactly," continued the speaker. Then she cleared her throat and went on. "The rapid woman is made, not born. From earliest childhood she has had up to date parents who have continually dinned into her ears that the main thing in life is 'to get there' and that not to 'get there' is the depth of miserable failure. Armed with the firm determination of 'getting there,' the rapid woman rushes through life at a dizzy rate. Time is all too short for her many schemes. She no sooner begins one plan than she feels compelled to drop it for another which looks to her more promising than the first. In the same manner she rushes from friend to friend and from acquaintance to acquaintance, using them for all they are worth and then dropping them like so many sucked oranges. The rapid woman studies art today and music tomorrow. She no sooner makes a success in one line than she abandons it for another.

"In her feelings, too, she lives in a perpetual rush. Today she loves, tomorrow she hates, and on the next day she will be utterly indifferent. If a man pays the slightest attention to the rapid woman, she immediately jumps to conclusions. After she has seen him twice she falls violently in love with him and watches anxiously for signs indicating that he returns her affection. She magnifies everything he says, tortures herself with the thought of what this or that phrase on his part could have meant or what he was thinking of when he looked at her in a certain way. When she next meets him, she naturally finds him slow compared to the mental image of him she has been creating. Never mind. She helps him along, fairly makes love to him in her wild efforts to bring him along to the point faster; indeed, the rapid woman has even been known to propose when exasperated by the slowness of the man with whom she had to deal. In this way she loses many chances by her heedless rush of forcing things. No man, or woman for the matter of that, likes to be rushed and hustled—yes, that's the word, hustled—along, and earnest love, like friendship, takes no own time to growing."

SHE FAINTLY MAKES LOVE TO THE MAN.

"But does the rapid woman succeed?" asked Billy Mrs. Prim anxiously.

"Not unless she changes her disposition," returned the speaker. "As long as she rushes through life at that rate she misses the best things in it. She does nothing thoroughly, but wants to get through with it almost before it is begun. She is incapable of good work, incapable of honest love, incapable of enduring friendship, and those around her hate it and are afraid of her. She suffers, too—suffers more than people imagine, because no one can keep up with the rapidity of her thought, the restlessness of her nature, and consequently she feels by herself. A wretched existence. Altogether the rapid woman is one of the most unhappy creatures in the world, and unfortunately, thanks to the modern trend of things, her number is increasing every day."

MAUD ROBINSON.

EVENING GOWNS.

Dyed Lace Perpendicular Trimmings—Ribbon Insertions.

Lace dyed in pale shades makes a rich evening gown. A recent importation was of pale blue silk lace made high neck and elbow sleeves and trimmed with fanciful applications of pale blue liberty satin. The sleeves had voluminous chiffon ruffles looped up at the elbows with pearl clasps.

The perpendicular style of trimming is still the vogue, varied with bias tuckings and strappings. The bottoms of the evening skirts are masses of tiny ruffings and insertions.

OF LACE AND RIBBON.

Ribbon is used a great deal in trimming evening gowns, particularly Persian and fancy ribbon. This is laid in stripes after the manner of insertions, and sometimes it is cut up into lozenges or odd shaped appliques.

Either sleeves dropping off the shoulders are seen on many of the new gowns. They are usually made of some sheer material, lace or chiffon ruffings, and the dress itself is held on by ribbon straps over the shoulders.

The evening dress in the picture is of Limerick lace trimmed with pompadour ribbon in shades of pink and blue. It is made up over white liberty satin.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER MILLINERY.

Irregular Outlines and Simple Trimmings.

The fascinations of millinery this year are sufficient to tempt any woman beyond her purse. However, she who has clever fingers may buy one of the many pretty shapes which are sold for so little and trim it herself. For instance, a picture hat made up of tiny plaited chiffon ruffles needs no further decoration than a bunch of black silk poppies and a velvet hair bow.

CHIFFON HAT.

The drooping bow is a necessary feature of the smart summer hat. The latest thing, however, is to have the ribbon narrow and falling in soft cascades.

All black and all white hats are considered very smart; also hats made of lace and trimmed with lace scarfs passed through jeweled buckles. Hats made of roses and violet leaves and trimmed with knots of soft lemoine ribbon are smart, but not always becoming to those with irregular features.

In general, one can say about the hats of the year that they are distinguished by the irregularity of their outlines and the simplicity of their trimmings.

The hat shown is of white chiffon laid in stitchings. The underbrim is of tucked black chiffon. The hat is trimmed with a wreath of white roses, from which on the left side run sprays of black velvet ribbon, which are brought over the brim and knotted into a bow close to the hair.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WOULD YOU LIKE THIS?

How the Daughter of a Pork Monger Pleases Herself.

You would like to be rich, would you—the wife or daughter or sister of a railway emperor or a pork and bean king? You wish you had a rope of pearls and diamonds that went around your neck six times and then hung down to your knees over a silk and lace gown worth $5,000, and that you had your part of a "pull" whereby you could go to Europe and attend the coronation of King Edward. You would be perfectly happy if you could afford all the gowns you want, so you could be "dressed up" continually. Well, would you, now? Would you enjoy being on dress parade every minute of your waking hours, with not a second to lop down and feel at ease?

Mrs. Millions is one of the richest women in America. Her palatial residence—that is what the newspapers call it—is of the costliest build. Mrs. Millions is fond of automobiling. She goes out in her splendid horseless coach almost every fine morning about 11 o'clock. Here is what happens when Mrs. Millions goes automobiling. It is a regular outdoor circus repeated every morning:

MRS. MILLIONS GOES AUTOMOBILING.

The magnificent glittering velvet cushioned vehicle glides noiselessly to the curbstone opposite the Millions' front door at half past 10. The motorman and the footman in plum colored livery, the token that they are the servants of the Millions. The footman descends to the sidewalk stiffly and solemnly. He looks like the undertaker at a funeral. It would not be good form for him to smile or appear to notice anything, and he has been properly broken to his business.

Quarter to 11. The bronze doors of the Millions palace are flung open. Two house lackeys in white livery descend the marble steps with a roll of rich carpet. They move like automatons; they swing their arms like automatons or the toy animals that wag their heads when you pull a wire. Moving like wooden dolls, the two lackeys in white spread the carpet down the front steps. An infinitesimal wrinkle in it would cost them their place. They take their stand one each side the entrance, like two mutes at a funeral or two living images.

Newsboys and dirty faced street urchins gather in a ring to see the show. They know what it is, but it has a fascination for them every day anew. The women who live opposite and at each side of the Millions mansion cluster behind their respective curtains invisible and peep out through opera glasses to see what Mrs. Millions has on. Occasionally a policeman stops to see that there is no disturbance in the crowd.

The crowd is tiered wait anxiously agape; the moment grows tense. The servants at the entrance, the servant on the sidewalk stand like tobacco signs and give no sign. A rustle in the great hall. Without the winking of his tobacco sign eye the servant upon the sidewalk swoops the laprobe from the carriage seat and holds it upon his tobacco sign arm. Mrs. Millions descends the steps, her long peacock train spread out behind her just so every time. Arrived at the middle step, she pauses and turns her head. This is the supreme moment. The women with the opera glasses behind the curtains almost forget to breathe in their anxiety to study the styles. Mrs. Millions stands upon the steps ten minutes or so giving orders to the two tobacco signs at the door and the other two in charge of the auto. She enters the carriage. The tobacco sign with the laprobe lays it with a flourish around her. He mounts the box beside the motorman, there is a stupendous pause of two minutes and then a motion. Mrs. Millions is off.

At 1 o'clock she returns. The play with the tobacco signs is repeated to a gaping audience free, except that a different strip of carpet from that used in the morning is spread upon the front steps.

Mrs. Millions finds on her return an invitation waiting her to visit her friend, Mrs. Diamond Shoes, at her country place thirty miles away. She accepts. Next day the Millions' special car rolls from the station bearing Mrs. Millions, her luggage and lackeys. lackeys, lackeys everywhere, in the midst of another gaping crowd of ragamuffins and common people. This is the American republic.

KATE SHARP.

RULED BY CURIOSITY.

Why Americans Seemingly Go Crazy Over Royal Visitors from Old-World Monarchies.

Foreign critics of America and Americans find something incongruous in the almost universal curiosity of our democratic countrymen in the persons, the habits, the characters and the acts of those who inherit the right to rule, and of their wives, sons, daughters, sisters and cousins and aunts.

One cannot deny the fact, however it may be explained, nor however contradictory to democratic principles it may be. Moreover, says the Youth's Companion, the country has just given a most conspicuous illustration of the QUEEN MARGHERITE OF ITALY.

(Rumor Has That She Will Visit the United States.)

trait. Upon one point it is easy for the unusual foreign observer to err. He may fancy that he detects here a longing for royalty and a dissatisfaction with republican simplicity; but every American knows that the desire to see a lion does not imply a wish to own one.

The trait manifests itself in many ways. The desire of the American girl traveling abroad to be present at court and the willingness of her father to provide the appropriate raiment are expressions of it. What matter if the conscientious citizen who sorrowfully bore to her native place a special distinction because of her bow in court costume to the queen of England or Italy does add a certain attraction to the experience?

But as the woman who has been presented becomes each year a more familiar object, so the royal visitor bids fair to lose his "rarity value." It is now reported that the king of Belgium, the dowager queen of Italy and the crown prince of Siam, to cite only the best-founded reports, are laying plans for American tours.

Meanwhile the king of England gives special audiences to American bankers and other men of the business world. It may be that a healthy curiosity—corresponding to that which our royal visitors provoke—exists in more than one palace concerning the men whose energy and brains have won them well-nigh kingly powers of control. Indeed, it need not be feared that either the palace or the American city will suffer through gratifying so natural an instinct.

REV. JOSEPH PARKER.

London Preacher Who Rebuked King Edward for Brewing Beer and Sabbath Breaking.

There was a striking scene in the City temple of London, when, during the course of a sermon, Rev. Joseph Parker, D. D., administered a pointed rebuke to King Edward, which was loudly applauded by the congregation. Having alluded to public houses as "trapdoors of hell," Dr. Parker referred to the King's recent brewing of beer while visiting Lord Burton.

"Pray for me," said the divine, "that I may speak delicately, loyally. If the

REV. JOSEPH PARKER.
(Most Eminent Non-Conformist Clergyman in England.)

king brews beer what can he wrong in the subject drinking it? What the king does is likely to be imitated by others. His majesty is more than a man and must regard all questions from a kingly point of view. If the king goes on brewing beer, as he did recently, he deals a deadly blow to the Englishman's Sunday. The king cannot attend a nonconformist place of worship, but he can go to the Sunday concert."

This remark called forth cries of "Shame," and Dr. Parker continued:

"If the king, who is the head of the church and defender of the faith, can violate the English Sunday, what can the people do but follow in his steps? I would rather give a great sum of gold than appear to be disloyal; but I cannot be disloyal to Christ, and it is better that these things should be said."

Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker is a Congregationalist, and has been pastor since 1848. He is noted for his frank utterances. He once startled Christendom by calling on God to damn the sultan. "I say," he exclaimed, "God damn the sultan!"

COATS LONG AND SHORT.

Moire and Taffeta Are Made Up In a Variety of Ways.

The silk coats are very smart. There is no doubt that moire leads from the point of view of style. Unlined moire coats reaching to the bottom of the dress skirt wear well and can be used both for evening and dress occasions. Coats of this description are usually made with three strapped seams and a circular ruffle, if desired. The sleeves are of the bishop type, and there is a wide collar of fine needlework edged with lace applique. Black mousseline de soie fagotting is very pretty for these collars, and a smarter effect is gained if the garment is kept all black.

TAFFETA COAT.

The "frocks and frills" coats are a fad of the moment. They are full, little, box plaited empire jackets reaching not quite to the waist line in the back, but falling considerably below it in front. They are made unlined both of taffeta and moire and are trimmed with wide collars edged with lace and embroidery.

The new blouses and Etons have greater fullness of sleeve and are finished with tabs and pointlion effects.

In the illustration is a coat of black taffeta trimmed with ecru applique. It has the triple collar and triple cuff effect, a fad just now.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE NEW STYLES.

Differences Between This Year and Last Year's Dresses.

The pointed effect in the front of waists is not so decided as formerly, and the effect is gained rather by shortening the center of the back. This shortening of the center of the back gives a rounded look to the hips and is almost universally becoming. The skirts are built up higher in the back to allow for this peculiarity.

Last year's dresses may be worn with very little alteration this summer,

WHITE DIAMOND SUIT.

The principal differences occur in the sleeves, which are a trifle fuller below the elbow and in the increased length of the trains. Almost all the smart sleeves are now made elbow length and finished with soft ruffles or puffs.

Long waisted women should take advantage of the wide folded belt which decreases down to nothing in the front. When this is made to meet a short bolero, the effect is very smart. Nothing is so passe as to present a long waisted appearance in the back.

The white stamine suit here shown will prove dainty for warm weather. The jacket is bloused, opening with a strapped effect over a black and white embroidered vest. The fullness is confined at the shoulders by stitched tucks. The skirt has a strapped yoke, and the fullness, except in the front gore, is laid into stitched box plaits and tiny tucks.

The hat is of white straw trimmed with white roses and black tulle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FIVE O'CLOCK TEA TABLE.

Some Suggestions For Its Artistic Arrangement.

No home should be without a tea table. Let it be placed in a prominent position or tucked away as you will, but let it be ready for the coming guest. Nothing is so hospitable, nothing is a greater aid to conversation. The tea table is for all times of the year. Just now it supports a boiling brass or copper kettle and a tea service; later on ices and lemonades can be dispensed from it. After all, a cup of tea, a glass of lemonade and a few little cakes that can easily be made at home are small items in the household expense book, and yet they make all the difference in the world in a woman's popularity. Now, as regards the table itself: It should be broad and low, either round or one of the pretty artistic Turkish shapes. Some definite scheme of color harmonizing with the room should be chosen, either blue and white, pink and gold, green and yellow, and china and embroidered cloths should conform to it. An embroidered cloth to fit the outlines of the table is a necessity; next comes a copper or brass kettle over a tiny alcohol flame. The china sets usually comprise half a dozen or a dozen cups and saucers, bread and butter plates, a receptacle for lump and for powdered sugar, a cracker jar, a cream pitcher and a teapot. One or sometimes two candlesticks are pretty additions and light up the table artistically. They can be either of the china or of silver, and they are prettiest with flower shades. A small jar for tea with a double cover and a cut glass or silver dish for bonbons are useful additions.

A FIVE O'CLOCK TEA TABLE.

Charming sets of Wedgwood blue are sold to go with white tables and blue and white tencloths. Empire sets of pink and gold and white and gold have the conventional wreaths and miniatures, while the ever dainty flowered Dresden china is also a favorite.

In addition to the simple sandwiches cut in fancy shapes, toasted crumpets, candied fruits and nuts are also suitable for the 5 o'clock tea table.

HELEN CLIPTON.

AN ART NOUVEAU CORNER.

An Example of the Recent Craze In Interior Decoration.

Furniture dealers at large have gone art nouveau mad. On all furniture you may see evidences of the so called return to nature. Woods are tinted moss greens and browns, and the shadings of summer foliage are to be found in the tables and chairs. Inlaying of all kinds is in great favor, especially that which represents flowers and leaves.

The illustration shows an art nouveau corner. It is done in plain wood stained grass green. The fireplace has a cupboard with square panes of green opalescent glass. Two shelves are below this; one carries china and jade ware, the other books and pictures. There is a seat upholstered in green leather ornamented with red and gold conventional figures. Above this is a long, narrow picture forming a frieze. The shelf below this picture is handy for books. To carry out the green and red scheme there are a palm in a red pot and a green and a red rug on the floor.

GREEN AND RED.

R. DE LA BAUME.

What the New Woman Is About

If women had the power, they would all vote just the way their men told them to." Would they, then? Read the story of the recent school board election in Cleveland and find out whether they would. In Cleveland school suffrage for women has for once entirely knocked out party politics and resulted in the election to the board of education of Rev. Starr Cadwallader, who is at the head of a social settlement in the most congested district of the city. He is an honest man, a brainy and eloquent man and a "striking personality." The striking personality no doubt helped elect him. It is a quality the ordinary political candidate is conspicuously lacking in. There has been dissatisfaction with the management of the Cleveland public schools for some time. An impression was on that they must be taken out of politics, so far as was possible to imperfect human nature. Mrs. May Hanna, ex-daughter-in-law of Senator Hanna, had her share in rousing the women before the election. An enthusiasm not previously observed prevailed among both Republican and Democratic women. The large registration of 15,000 female voters was recorded. A woman's Republican league was first formed, then a Democratic one. Both "hustled" for their candidates in the liveliest manner. Cadwallader was on the Democratic ticket. The Republican candidate was a man of high standing, but a strict party man, which Cadwallader was not. Cadwallader appealed to the women voters as the other man did not, although many of the ladies were the wives of prominent and influential Republicans. So many of the Republican ladies voted for Cadwallader, because they considered his election best for the public schools of the city, that he ran far ahead of his ticket and reached the goal triumphant. Women attended the political meetings during this exciting campaign as they never had done before and listened and learned.

* *

Farmers' wives have not too much fun in their lives. Here is something that will make girls of their souls: Near Waukegan, Ill., a farm woman had prepared a fine basket of eggs for market. Her husband, like too many husbands, took it for granted that what was hers was his and what was his was his own, grabbed the basket of eggs and even snatched off with them to sell them for himself and keep the money. The wife, resolved that he should not do it if she could prevent, forcibly seized and attacked him to keep him from taking her basket of eggs. The result was that the judge in the matter into court. There the judge, evidently in favor of the new woman, decided that the wife was quite justified in her attack on the man and that the man had no right in law to take the eggs. The eggs upon a farm, said the judge, belong to the farm woman for her pin money. Hear ye, hear ye! The eggs produced upon a farm belong by law to the farm woman for her pin money!

* *

Some women enjoy their sorrows more than they do their pleasures.

* *

I have lately seen a newspaper picture of the last graduating class of the admirable Pennsylvania State Dairy school. There are forty-five likely young men in the class and not a woman, not one. How is this? Why is this? Dairywomen are apt to be neater and more skillful in their methods than dairymen.

* *

Upon the gravestone of Jane Grey Swisshelm, near Pittsburg, are inscribed these beautiful, significant words: "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward." Yes, "that they go forward!"

* *

The secretary of that admirable organization, the Women's International Horticultural union, is Miss Powell of Surrey, England.

* *

One of the eminent naturalists of the United States is a woman, a Norwegian at that. She is Miss Thora Steinager, who has studied animals all her life. She now has charge of the classifying of all the animals received at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

* *

By special charter thirteen New York state cities whose population is under 50,000 give women taxpayers the right to vote on questions of municipal taxation, but they may not vote on questions of taxation in any of the large cities. Isn't it about time for the big cities to get in line?

* *

Mrs. May Preston Slosson is the regularly appointed physician of the Wyoming penitentiary at Laramie.

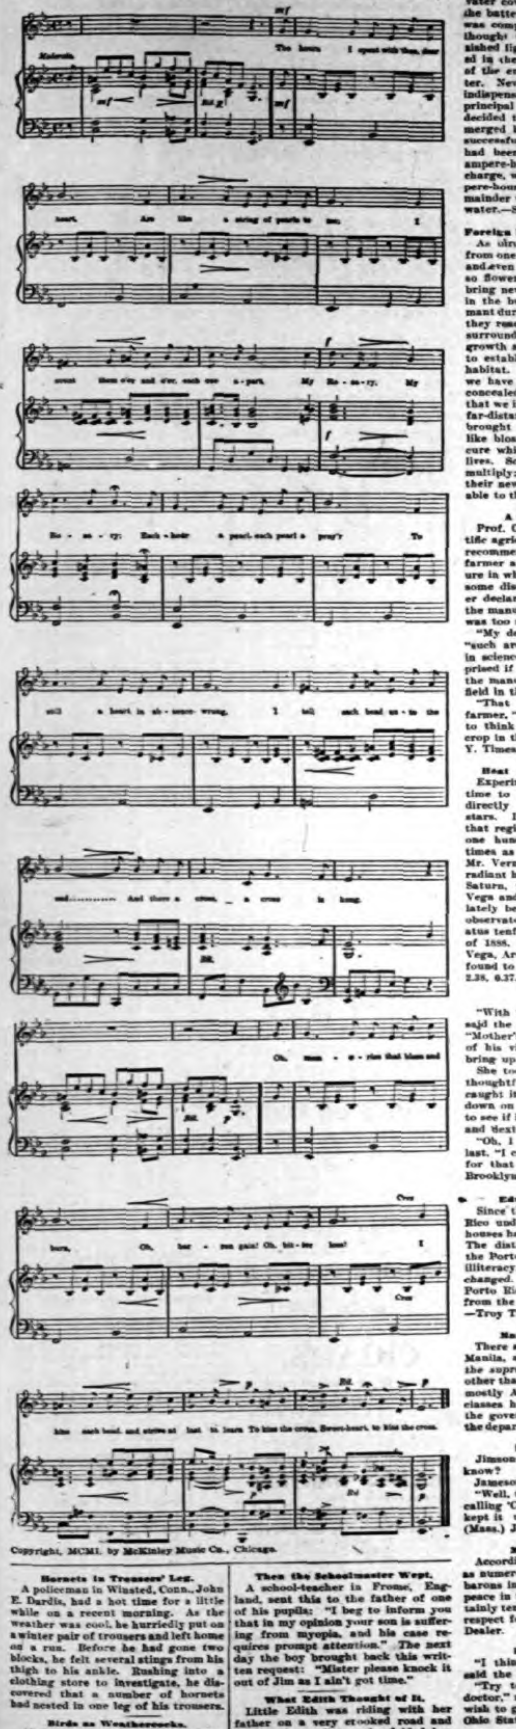
* *

New York city has at length a woman ambulance surgeon, Dr. Emily Dunning. She is attached to Gouverneur hospital and received her appointment because in a competitive examination for the place she stood highest among twenty applicants, mostly men. She is a graduate in letters of Cornell university as well as a physician. She says of her new post, "I expect to do ambulance or any other kind of work."

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

MY ROSARY.

Words by Cameron Rogers. Music by Charles Bishop.



Copyright, MCMI. by McKinley Music Co., Chicago.

Hornets in Trousers' Leg.

A policeman in Winsted, Conn., John E. Dardis, had a hot time for a little while on a recent morning. As the weather was cool, he hurriedly put on a winter pair of trousers and left home on a run. Before he had gone two blocks, he felt several stings from his thigh to his ankle. Rushing into a clothing store to investigate, he discovered that a number of hornets had nested in one leg of his trousers.

Birds as Weathercocks.

All birds serve as weathercocks when they are perched on trees or bushes, as they almost invariably face the wind.

Then the Schoolmaster Wept.

A school-teacher in Frome, England, sent this to the father of one of his pupils: "I beg to inform you that in my opinion your son is suffering from myopia, and his case requires prompt attention." The next day the boy brought back this written request: "Mister please knock it out of Jim as I ain't got time."

What Edith Thought of It.

Little Edith was riding with her father on a very crooked road and after a long silence she folded her small hands in seeming resignation and said: "Well, honestly, I never saw such a curly road in all my life!"

Batteries Under Water.

A remarkable instance of a battery of accumulators working under water was recently given in Munich. The station is situated on an island in the Isar, and during the flood the water covered the batteries. One of the batteries which ran the car lines was completely cut out, and it was thought that the other, which furnished light, would have to be treated in the same way. The fly-wheels of the engines were half in the water. Nevertheless, as it was almost indispensable to light at least the principal streets of the city, it was decided to try to operate the submerged battery. The attempt was successful, and the battery, which had been constructed to give 6,000 ampere-hours with a 50-ampere discharge, was able to furnish 4,000 ampere-hours during the night. The remainder was lost in discharges in the water.—Scientific American.

Foreign Flowers Bring New Insects.

As ships carry the seeds of plants from one part of a country to another, and even from one country to another, so flowers and plants from countries bring new insects to this. Concealed in the bud or blossom, they lie dormant during the long voyage, but when they reach land, where climate and surroundings are congenial to their growth and activity, they come forth to establish themselves in their new habitat. From Bermuda, for example, we have brought hundreds of lizards concealed in the beautiful Easter lillies that we import by the shipload. From far-distant parts of the world we have brought strange insects in the cup-like blossoms of rare orchids, to secure which buyers have risked their lives. Some of these insects live and multiply; others soon die because their new surroundings are not favorable to their survival.—Nature.

A Glance at the Future.

Prof. Collins, Pennsylvania's scientific agriculturist, some time ago was recommending to a Berks county farmer a powerfully fertilizing manure in which he was interested. After some discussion the sagacious farmer declared that he had no faith in the manure, as the proposed quantity was too small to be of any use.

"My dear sir," said the professor, "such are the wonderful discoveries in science that I should not be surprised if in the near future we carry the manure for acres of land to the field in the pocket of our coat."

"That may be so," replied the farmer, "but in that case I'm inclined to think you would carry back the crop in the pocket of your vest."—N. Y. Times.

Heat from Stars and Planets.

Experiments have been made from time to time since 1869 to measure directly the heat radiating from stars. In 1880, with an apparatus that registered a heat radiation one-one hundred and fifty thousand times as small as that of the moon, Mr. Vernon Boys found no trace of radiant heat from Venus, Jupiter and Saturn, nor from the bright stars Vega and Arcturus. The subject has lately been taken up at the Yerkes observatory of Chicago with apparatus tenfold more sensitive than that of 1880. The relative intensities of Vega, Arcturus, Jupiter, Saturn were found to be as the numbers 0.51, 1.14, 2.38, 6.37.—N. Y. Sun.

Her View of It.

"With the aid of this little book," said the canvasser, he produced a "Mother's Guide" for the inspection of his victim, "you will be able to bring up your children properly."

She took the book and weighed it thoughtfully in her hand. Then she caught it by the edge and brought it down on the palm of her hand, as if to see if it could be handled with ease and dexterity.

"Oh, I don't know," she said at last. "I can't see that it's any better for that purpose than a slipper."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Educating Porto Ricans.

Since the United States took Porto Rico under its wing 625 new schoolhouses have been opened on the island. The distinguishing characteristic of the Porto Rican population used to be illiteracy, but all that is to be changed. And it is doubtful if the Porto Ricans will benefit a bit more from the change than will Americans. —Troy Times.

Manila Has 154 Lawyers.

There are 154 lawyers in the city of Manila, as shown by the register in the supreme court. Of these 59 are other than Spanish and Filipino, being mostly Americans. Many of both classes hold salaried positions under the government in the legal work of the departments.—Washington Star.

Her Perpetual Cry.

Jimson—He married a saleslady, you know?

Jameson—Yes.

"Well, the very next day she began calling 'Ca-a-sh!' and he says she has kept it up ever since."—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

More's Many Sultans.

According to Gov. Taft, sultans are as numerous in the islands of Moro as barons in Germany and justices of the peace in the United States. This certainly tends to still further reduce our respect for the title.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hint to Physicians.

"I think I can pull you through," said the physician, sagely.

"Try to pull both legs uniformly, doctor," replied the patient. "I don't wish to go through life deformed."—Ohio State Journal.

Folly.

It is folly to kick against the inevitable.—Chicago Daily News.

CRAZE FOR PING-PONG.

New Yorkers in a Fever Over the New Game, and Dealers Pressed for Outfits.

New York has gone ping-pong crazy. A good ping-pong set is hard to buy because the demand is far ahead of the supply, and one enterprising New Yorker is trying to get up a corner on ping-pong balls, states the World.

In England there is a regular little Tennis association to promote the interests of the sport and to arrange for championship meets.

The smartest of New York clubs are given over to ping-pong. It was accepted at first. Now those who cannot or scoff remain to play. Ping-pong parties for valuable prizes are held in dozens of fashionable houses every night.

The Crescent Athletic club of Brooklyn claims the honor of having introduced ping-pong. It has some crack players, by its rules. The Calumet club of Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street has surrendered its dignified atmosphere to the delights of ping-pong. It is said that the best players in New York got their skill there.

At the big Yale club an entire room is given over to six ping-pong tables. Attendants keep the tables busy as they do in the billiard rooms, and a regular charge is made for playing.

The big interior of the Stuyvesant new clubhouse is filled with ping-pong tables, and the click of the little balls hopping back and forth is heard till late at night.

Some writing matches have been played there.

"We don't know where to get ping-pong balls fast enough to fill our orders," said a sporting goods dealer.

KIT HENS RUN BY CITY.

Successful Operation of Institution for Feeding the Poor in Nantes, France.

The city of Nantes, France, has evolved an inexpensive method for supplying food to the destitute. For several years the city has maintained kitchens where persons without money may present tickets and procure a warm meal. A dormitory has been added to one of the buildings where about 50 people can be accommodated. For three nights these beds are free to the same persons, when they must make way for others. During the stay at the dormitory each one is given two meal tickets a day.

The kitchens themselves are only open from October 15 to April 15 each year round. Tickets entitling the holder to anything on the bill of fare are placed in the bakeries and tobacco shops throughout the city, where they can be purchased by charitably inclined persons to be handed to the applicants for aid. Meats, fish and eggs on the bill of fare cost two cents a plate. Beans, rice, etc., are one cent.

The expense of these kitchens has been growing less each year, says the Municipal Journal and Engineer. The total expense for last year was about $9,264, and the receipts $7,726. The privilege of taking meals in these kitchens is not restricted to the destitute, but many workmen take their meals there on account of the moderate prices. A moderate substantial meal can be obtained for five cents.

NO EIGHT-FOOT MEN.

A Doubting Thomas Who Would Not Believe in Their Existence Makes Inquiry.

To decide a wager a Frankfort man writes to the Philadelphia Record as follows: "Editor of Record Dear Sir I noticed in last sundays paper an account of a young man and woman out west he 8 foot tall and she 8 foot 2 inches and weighs 400 lbs. I was telling a neighbor and old man and one supposed to be well booked up in matters and things and he said it was a lie and a fraud then I told him I saw a young lady in Barnums Museum N. Y. some years ago that was 8 foot and he said that was a lie to then I told him I saw one in the dime museum in Phil 8 foot and he said that was a lie also. Then I told him I saw in the Record a few years ago of a young man from out west 25 years old 8 foot 2 inches and weighed 365 pounds named Lewis Wilkins who has now grown to the height of 107 inches ⅝ of an inch less than 9 feet then he said he didnt believe a word of it then I asked him if he would bet money on it and he said yes any amount up to $100.

"Now which is right he or me. He said there has never been a man or woman born this last 100 years 8 foot."

Birds for Fashion's Sake.

Last year in Venezuela alone 2,000,000 birds were killed for fashion's sake. One London dealer admitted 12 years ago, long before the fashion was so pitiless as now, that he sold 2,000,000 small birds every 12 months. Three recent consignments to London included 10,000 birds of paradise, nearly 800 packages of osprey feathers, 6,700 crested pigeons, 3,500 Impeyan pheasants, 500 bird skins, 270 cases of peacock feathers, 1,300 Argus pheasants and 500 various other small birds.

New Style of Balloon.

A Parisian aeronaut is building a balloon which is to carry both a refrigerating plant and a heating apparatus. By pressing a lever on the refrigerator he will decrease the temperature of the gas, condensing it and causing the balloon to descend. By heating the hydrogen gas it expands and the balloon rises.

Cost of Ammunition.

The quarterly target practice of the North Atlantic squadron costs $178,960 for ammunition.

Sun and Skin.

A physician has been investigating some of the effects of direct sunlight on the skin. Painting a band on his arm with India ink, he exposed the member to a scorching sun. The usual painful effects followed, except beneath the band, where the skin remained white and unaffected. He suggests that the tan which continued exposure produces upon the skin is a step a corner on ping-pong balls, states the World.

In England there is a regular little Tennis association to promote the interests of the sport and to arrange for championship meets.

The smartest of New York's clubs are given over to ping-pong. It was accepted at first. Now those who cannot or scoff remain to play. Ping-pong parties for valuable prizes are held in dozens of fashionable houses every night.

The Crescent Athletic club of Brooklyn claims the honor of having introduced ping-pong. It has some crack players, by its rules. The Calumet club of Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street has surrendered its dignified atmosphere to the delights of ping-pong. It is said that the best players in New York got their skill there.

At the big Yale club an entire room is given over to six ping-pong tables. Attendants keep the tables busy as they do in the billiard rooms, and a regular charge is made for playing.

The big interior of the Stuyvesant new clubhouse is filled with ping-pong tables, and the click of the little balls hopping back and forth is heard till late at night.

Some writing matches have been played there.

"We don't know where to get ping-pong balls fast enough to fill our orders," said a sporting goods dealer.

KIT HENS RUN BY CITY.

Successful Operation of Institution for Feeding the Poor in Nantes, France.

The city of Nantes, France, has evolved an inexpensive method for supplying food to the destitute. For several years the city has maintained kitchens where persons without money may present tickets and procure a warm meal. A dormitory has been added to one of the buildings where about 50 people can be accommodated. For three nights these beds are free to the same persons, when they must make way for others. During the stay at the dormitory each one is given two meal tickets a day.

The kitchens themselves are only open from October 15 to April 15 each year round. Tickets entitling the holder to anything on the bill of fare are placed in the bakeries and tobacco shops throughout the city, where they can be purchased by charitably inclined persons to be handed to the applicants for aid. Meats, fish and eggs on the bill of fare cost two cents a plate. Beans, rice, etc., are one cent.

The expense of these kitchens has been growing less each year, says the Municipal Journal and Engineer. The total expense for last year was about $9,264, and the receipts $7,726. The privilege of taking meals in these kitchens is not restricted to the destitute, but many workmen take their meals there on account of the moderate prices. A moderate substantial meal can be obtained for five cents.

NO EIGHT-FOOT MEN.

A Doubting Thomas Who Would Not Believe in Their Existence Makes Inquiry.

To decide a wager a Frankfort man writes to the Philadelphia Record as follows: "Editor of Record Dear Sir I noticed in last sundays paper an account of a young man and woman out west he 8 foot tall and she 8 foot 2 inches and weighs 400 lbs. I was telling a neighbor and old man and one supposed to be well booked up in matters and things and he said it was a lie and a fraud then I told him I saw a young lady in Barnums Museum N. Y. some years ago that was 8 foot and he said that was a lie to then I told him I saw one in the dime museum in Phil 8 foot and he said that was a lie also. Then I told him I saw in the Record a few years ago of a young man from out west 25 years old 8 foot 2 inches and weighed 365 pounds named Lewis Wilkins who has now grown to the height of 107 inches ⅝ of an inch less than 9 feet then he said he didnt believe a word of it then I asked him if he would bet money on it and he said yes any amount up to $100.

"Now which is right he or me. He said there has never been a man or woman born this last 100 years 8 foot."

Birds for Fashion's Sake.

Last year in Venezuela alone 2,000,000 birds were killed for fashion's sake. One London dealer admitted 12 years ago, long before the fashion was so pitiless as now, that he sold 2,000,000 small birds every 12 months. Three recent consignments to London included 10,000 birds of paradise, nearly 800 packages of osprey feathers, 6,700 crested pigeons, 3,500 Impeyan pheasants, 500 bird skins, 270 cases of peacock feathers, 1,300 Argus pheasants and 500 various other small birds.

New Style of Balloon.

A Parisian aeronaut is building a balloon which is to carry both a refrigerating plant and a heating apparatus. By pressing a lever on the refrigerator he will decrease the temperature of the gas, condensing it and causing the balloon to descend. By heating the hydrogen gas it expands and the balloon rises.

Cost of Ammunition.

The quarterly target practice of the North Atlantic squadron costs $178,960 for ammunition.

Sun and Skin.

A physician has been investigating some of the effects of direct sunlight on the skin. Painting a band on his arm with India ink, he exposed the member to a scorching sun. The usual painful effects followed, except beneath the band, where the skin remained white and unaffected. He suggests that the tan which continued exposure produces upon the skin is a protective effect. If further experiments establish this interference, a further hypothesis will be rendered probable, namely, that the power required by the human skin in the tropics of secreting a pigment as a really protective of its lower and functionally active layers. Offhand one would be apt to conclude that a black skin ought to increase the heat effects of the solar radiance. We are required both to learn whether the harm is really done by the heat rays, for electricity it may be due to any other of the diverse sorts of vibration of which that radiance is now known to be a highly complex phenomenon.—Buenos Ayres Herald.

London's Afflicted.

London has its due proportion of those who are crippled by loss of sight or hearing. Of the former there are 2,353, which marks a slight increase since 1901, a tendency which is more marked in the case of the deaf —and, therefore, dumb—whose number 2,607. About a quarter of the former, so great have been the strides made in the instruction of persons thus afflicted, are able to engage in some occupation, while half of the deaf are in a similarly fortunate position. Of the blind, 122 were workers in willow, cane or rush, 90 were musicians, 76 costermongers, 49 brush or broom makers and 45 musical instrument makers or tuners. Of the deaf and dumb, 94 were tailors, 72 boot and shoe makers and 71 dressmakers; 55 were engaged in laundry and washing service, 44 were domestic indoor servants and 40 bookbinders.—Detroit Free Press.

Mosquitoes and the Winds.

As the result of studies on New Jersey mosquitoes last summer, Prof. John B. Smith, of Rutgers college, says that not only will the insects travel long distances from their breeding place, but on favorable evenings large swarms rise and are carried during the night by winds. The direction in which they go is often unheard. Swarms have been met 15 miles from the shore, and they are common five miles from shore. Migration of mosquitoes with the aid of the winds Prof. Smith regards as of much importance, and as rendering the control of the mosquito nuisance a state rather than a local affair. The Anopheles mosquitoes continue to breed long after frost has set in, and even a covering of ice on ponds is not fatal to their larvae and pupae.—Youth's Companion.

Souvenir Collecting.

The carrying off of any small portable article from one's friends' houses or from hotels is reaching such proportions, under the name of "souvenir collecting," that soon chairs and tables and other pieces of heavy furniture will be the only things left untouched. Many women, so it seems, think nothing of bearing away a spoon, liquor glass or even a sugar basin, to add to their collection—one might say, of loot—which are triumphantly shown to their friends in cabinets especially made for this purpose.—London King

What Had Been Done for Us.

Mud, that so often gets credit so unsightly, is in truth the annual blessing of the lowlands to which it is being borne. We sometimes feel impatient at the way in which sediment closes the mouths of our rivers and impedes navigation. If we could see a map of our country, with a red line surrounding all the portions that have been built out of this silt, I think we would startle most of us to recognize how much of our best land is the gift of these muddy streams.—Prof. S. C. Schmucker, in Ladies' Home Journal.

A Source of Joy.

"I suppose, of course, you disapprove of the way women are copying men's fashions."

"Disapprove of it! Great Scott, no! I wouldn't have it different for the world. Why, it was as good as a circus this morning to watch and listen to my wife when her collar button rolled under the dresser."—Chicago Post.

Her Excuse.

Aunt Mary—Now! You don't mean to tell me that you actually proposed to Tom?

Mabel—Certainly, aunty. If I did wrong you are to blame for it.

"I fail to see why."

"You taught me the golden rule."—Chicago Daily News.

Hard to Please.

"Do the new neighbors annoy you as much by borrowing as their predecessors did?" asked Mr. Blykins.

"No," answered his wife, "They haven't run over to borrow a thing. I never saw anybody quite so haughty and unsociable."—Washington Star.

Forgetful Nathee.

Teacher—Why didn't you attend school yesterday?

Wilhelm—Please, sir mother has written a note to you about it.

"What was the matter with you?"

"Please, I don't know. Father wrote the note.—Fliegende Blatter.

His Downward Course.

First Monkey—And man was once our equal.

Second Monkey—Yes, but look at him now. Long ago he lost his tail, and he frequently loses his head.—Smart Set.

SPORTS AND ATHLETES

GOSSIP OF SEVERAL LINES THAT IS OF TIMELY INTEREST JUST NOW.

GENTLEMAN IN APPEARANCE

WILLIAM H. ROTHWELL.

IT IS part of the publicity plan of the modern champion prize fighter to give huge orders for photographs and conduct a bureau for supplying thousands of papers and periodicals with pictures, gossip and pugilistic news. Since it has been definitely arranged that the battle for the featherweight championship of the world shall be fought October 15 between Champion William H. Rothwell (Young Corbett) and former Champion Terry McGovern, the "bureau of publicity" of the two athletes have been busy flooding the cities with Filterature and photographs. One of the pictures of the Denver lad who gained a fortune by defeating McGovern recently found its way into a club the membership of which is composed exclusively of college men. There were millionaires—financial kings of the stock market—professional men, clerks, salesmen, etc., in the group that sat in the library when one of the young men produced the photograph of the champion pugilist.

"See how good you fellows are at character study," remarked the old Yale man, cutting off the name from the photograph and exposing the features of a smooth-shaven, square-jawed and determined-looking well-dressed young man. There was nothing about the photograph to indicate the prize ring votary.

"That young man has character stamped on his face," said a well-known lawyer.

"He reminds me of the boy we had playing quarter on our team when I was trying for the varsity," said a Harvard man.

"Almost an image of Art Curtis, who used to captain the Wisconsin eleven," said another.

"Reminds me of a civil engineer course student at Illinois who went to New York to install the electric system of the Manhattan railroad," was the opinion of another.

"Might be Pitcher Mathewson when he was twirling for Bucknell college," said another.

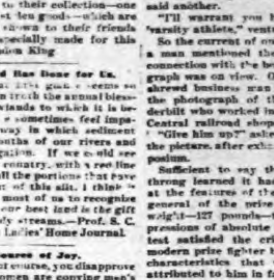
"I'll warrant you he's a trim-cut 'varsity athlete," ventured another.

So the current of opinion ran. Not a man mentioned the prize ring in connection with the boy whose photograph was on view. One particularly shrewd business man thought it was the photograph of the young Vanderbilt who worked in the New York Central railroad shops.

"Give him up?" asked the owner of the picture, after exhausting the symposium.

Sufficient to say that when the throng learned it had been looking at the features of the greatest little general of the prize ring at his weight—127 pounds—there were expressions of absolute surprise. This test satisfied the critics that the modern prize fighter bore few of the characteristics that were generally attributed to him in fanciful newspaper sketches.

A WATER HAZARD.



THERE is a better chance this year for a western golfer to capture championship honors than ever since the memorable tournament at Morris county, N. J., when Walter E. Smith, a young western schoolboy, came close to premier honors, lasting to the finals with Findlay Douglas. To avoid the charge of injustice and unfairness to the west and to promote the national interests of golf, the U. S. G. A. recently decided upon the Glenview Golf club's links at Golf, Ill., for the amateur championship of the United States. This victory for the west after the east steadily had adopted the policy of keeping the championship journeys in its own locality indefinitely was gained only after the hardest and most spectacular fight ever waged for a championship.

Why should the voices of Champion W. J. Travis and his great rival, former Champion Findlay S. Douglas, be raised against the western course? That is the query that was asked when it became generally known that these golfers had opposed Glenview and had declared it not a championship course. Both Douglas and Travis have played on courses abroad and fear little in the way of bunkers or water hazards, yet they are cautious enough to realize that the element of uncertainty on a course which crosses a big reservoir once and the meandering river five times is too great not to be regarded as a handicap for the men of the east. Furthermore, the greatest golf writer played by any man in the United States was put up on the Glenview course when William Holabird, Jr., now attending Poststown school in preparation for Yale, defeated Lawrence Auchenbaugh, the western professional champion, and made the 18 holes in 71, or 12 strokes under "bogey."

EARLY TRAINING IN THE SOUTH.

AS REGULARLY as the season roll by come the reports of the early work of race horses that annually are quartered in tent colonies horse shows—Montgomery Park, near Memphis, Tenn., New Orleans winter racing, outside its one classic — the Crescent City Derby—is not generally recognized as the beginning of the thoroughbred's season of activity. Men who follow the horses "on the line" from the Little Rock to the Chicago race meetings wait for Memphis to open before they begin to plan on stake victories. The Montgomery Handicap and the Tennessee Derby mark the beginning of the stake season, which also has the Kentucky and Latonia Derbies and the old American "blue ribbon event," the original Derby of Washington park.

Reports from horsemen in Tennessee during the past week generally estimate with trials of Derby candidates. Trainers have all sorts of tryouts, and many a stake is won by the owners and "rail birds," who sit on the fence and watch the workouts. This year has been the most backward season in the south noted in many seasons. Because of the severity of the winter and the presence of snow and mud many a valuable colt and filly depended upon for large earnings this year has been deprived of opportunities to show fast quarters and start all sorts of gossip in the haunts of the winter bookmakers.

Costly indeed are the early spring operations of a big stable. The owner foots big bills that the public has no idea of. If the season is backward and the trainers are unable to report satisfactory progress in preparing horses for racing, the financial backers of the stables are likely to storm and fret. The conservative owners, however, nonchalantly accept the conditions and hope for weather in the spring meetings that will compensate for the bad spells. J. W. Schoor, one of the representative turfmen of the south, recently declared that as long as he had been conducting a stable he had made no profit from it. His animals are first to make the mud fly at Montgomery park, yet both he and Sam Hildreth, who owns Meadowcroft, considered it be a great factor in the Kentucky Derby and other stakes, realized this year the futility of trying to give their animals early preparation when the weather was more suitable to gentle exercising than to training. "As the ole is cast in the early days, it will remain through the season" said to be an adage with the turfmen. But the latter have departed from that belief. They will not move their animals further south next year, but will take the early spring weather as it comes.

E. G. WHITLAKE.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... proprietor

WHO WILL ACT?

The arrival of the really warm weather again brings to mind the need of making some provision for open air concerts in Plainfield this summer. The people, particularly those who are unable to hurry away to mountains and seashore as soon as the warm weather settles down, are ready and anxious for them. There is a good band available for the musical part of it. All that is required is the funds to meet the actual expenses of such a series.

By dint of persistent effort, Mr. LaVere and his assistants were able last year to collect enough subscriptions to meet the expenses of a few concerts. It was not pleasant work, however, and actually resulted in a pecuniary loss to the leader of the musical organization who took the initiative. He is as willing as ever to arrange and give the concerts but he shares that he will make no further efforts to collect the funds.

Surely there ought to be enough public spirited men of means in Plainfield who will take the matter up and see that the people get a musical treat in the open air once a week or a fortnight, at least. The City Park offers a very satisfactory place for these concerts and they would be a means of furnishing healthful enjoyment for many at a comparatively small cost. Here is the opportunity. Are there any who will avail themselves of it?

MORE CARS NEEDED.

Now that the warm weather is here, the traffic on the trolley cars is growing with rapid bounds. The open cars are on duty once more and they are again a popular place for those who are anxious to keep cool. While the better of the old "open cars are still in service on the local lines, the new double trolley cars which were put into service late last season, are running on the through trip to Elizabeth. Then there is a promise of more new cars in the near future.

The present administration of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company has shown a desire to improve its service. It has promised a number of things which will materially advance the local service. Among these are quick and shorter headway during the rush hours. If these promises are kept, the local trolley system will stand well in comparison with those of other cities, a thing which it certainly has not done in the past.

Trolley rides have already been proven a very popular and inexpensive means of enjoyment. Thousands from this city found much pleasure in them last season and there is every reason to believe that they will be more popular than ever this summer. Several parks are to be open this summer along the line of the trolley, where they can be reached by cars from this city and they will serve to attract more people than ever on the open cars.

If the traction company, that owns the local lines, is really anxious to cater to the desires of the public, it will provide the best possible cars and run them at frequent enough intervals to accommodate the traffic. A trolley ride is a very pleasant thing but half the enjoyment is gone if the passenger is compelled to hang on to a step with a crowd of other people. There are times when it is to be expected that the cars will be overcrowded but additional cars will very often relieve the overcrowding and induce many others to join in the pleasure, and incidentally help to swell the coffers of the trolley company.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

Auditing Department of Jersey Central Has Moved to Philadelphia.

Officials and clerks of the New Jersey Central to the number of 2175, arrived in Philadelphia Friday, with the department accounts and paraphernalia, and took up its new quarters provided for them on the sixth floor of the Reading Terminal building. This is the auditing department, and everything was in readiness the next morning for business.

With the removal of this department the entire auditing force of the Jersey Central, including that of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company, is now domiciled in the Terminal building. D. Jones, controller of the Philadelphia and Reading, will have supervisory charge of these departments.

Children's Day.

The second Sunday in June will be generally observed as children's day by most of the local churches. Following that day, the custom of holding the services of the Sunday-school in the morning will be followed in many of the churches.

LOCAL TEAMS PLAYED WELL

Y. M. C. A. Met Its First Defeat at Scotch Plains—Hope Boys Beat High School.

ST. MARYS WON EASILY.

Safe Works Carried Victory Into Camp of Dunellen A. C.—A Fine Exhibition of Baseball at Westfield—Hopes Turned Tables on the City High School Nine.

Y. M. C. A., 7; Scotch Plains, 9. Hope Y. M. A., 12; Plainfield H. S., 1. St. Mary's, 19; Cathedral A. C., 9. Safe Works, 8; Dunellen, 5. Westfield, 4; New York A. C., 3.

Saturday afternoon's conflicts on the local diamonds furnished much of interest for the local enthusiasts. The hitherto invincible Y. M. C. A. nine met defeat at the hands of the Scotch Plains contingent. The Hopes administered a sound rubbing to the City High School boys in memory of their former defeat. St. Marys won from the Cathedral A. C. of New York. The Safe Works boys demonstrated their ability by taking a game from Dunellen after a hot fight. A splendid exhibition of baseball was seen at Westfield where the home team defeated the New York A. C. by a single run.

Although the afternoon was warm and sultry, good crowds witnessed all the games and the excitement ran high. All the League teams showed good form and gave promise of some exciting games when they meet.

EASY FOR ST. MARY'S.

In no game that the St. Mary team has played this season has there been such heavy batting as in the contest with the Cathedral A. C., of New York, Saturday afternoon. The St. Marys boys seemed to be possessed of unusual perception and strength and touched the crack New York twirler up for eighteen hits, bringing in nineteen runs. Half as many hits were garnered by the visitors off Doyle and they secured nine runs.

From the first inning the home team pounded the leather all over the lot and the Cathedral fielders were kept busy chasing as far as Fourth street and Spooner avenue for it. Keen and Casey both made pretty three base hits, as did Carr, of the visitors. Carr also made one of the longest drives ever seen on the field. The ball landed in Spooner avenue beyond left field and he could have made a home run but for a pause on third. He then started for the plate but was nailed by Barry.

The Cathedrals are rated as a first class team but if so they must have had an off day. Their fielding was miserable and errors came almost as frequently as the St. Mary hits. On the other hand, the St. Marys played a good field game, making a total of only three errors. Doyle struck out ten men against his opponents two.

The summary is as follows:

ST. MARY'S.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mack, ss	3	1	0	5	2
Scott, 3b	3	4	2	1	1
Keen, 3b	4	2	1	0	0
Casey, rf	3	2	0	0	0
Lederer, cf	3	2	1	0	0
Taylor, lf	1	3	5	1	1
Winn, 1b	2	1	7	0	0
Barry, c	3	2	11	1	0
Doyle, p	2	1	0	1	0
	19	18	27	9	4

CATHEDRAL A. C.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Kiernan, lf	0	0	1	1	0
Kirk, 3b	0	1	2	2	3
Mahn, 1b	1	0	5	0	0
Carr, p	3	1	1	0	0
Steinert, cf	1	2	2	0	1
Monahan, ss	1	1	1	2	2
Arpold, c	1	1	7	3	2
Churchill, 2b	1	2	5	0	1
Scott, rf	1	1	0	1	1
	9	9	24	9	12

Score by innings.

St Mary's	5	4	1	2	4	0	0	2	*	—19
C. A. A.	2	1	0	1	0	2	0	2	0	— 9

Stolen bases—Scott, 2; Winn, 1; Lederer, Taylor, Winn, Doyle, Churchill, Carr. Two-base hits—Mack, Scott, Casey, Taylor, Barry. Three-base hits—Keen, Casey, Carr. Double plays—Barry to Scott, Scott to Winn. Hits—Off Doyle, 9, off Carr, 14; off Warts, 4. Struck out—By Doyle, 10; by Carr, 3; by Warts, 2. Base on balls—Doyle, 1; Carr, 3; Warts, 2. Hit by pitched ball—Barry. First base on errors—Off St. Marys, 3; off Cathedrals, 8.

Y.M.C.A.'S FIRST DEFEAT.

The Y. M. C. A. team suffered its first reverse of the season at the hands of the Scotch Plains nine Saturday afternoon at Scotch Plains, by a score of 9 to 7. It was a close well contested game, both sides having put up excellent ball.

Only in two innings did either team score, in making runs, Scotch Plains having secured four in the fourth and five in the fifth, while the Y. M. C. A. made five in the fifth and two in the eighth. Shut outs were the order in the rest of the game.

For the Y. M. C. A. Ralph Schoonmaker played brilliant ball at short stop. He made six valuable assists, and at the bat touched up Harvey, the Plains twirler, for three base hits. The pitchers on both sides were batted quite freely.

Burt and Dupee did the pitching for Y. M. C. A., with Eames and Moore behind the bat. Harvey and Ashcroft were the Scotch Plains battery.

The Y. M. C. A.'s feel confident that they can defeat Scotch Plains at their next encounter. They lost their balance somewhat in the fourth and fifth innings Saturday, allowing their opponents to obtain a big lead.

The detailed summary follows:

Y. M. C. A.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Schoo'm'k'r, ss	2	3	1	6	0
Bolsterli, 2b	1	0	2	3	1
R. Eames, 1b	0	2	14	0	1
G. Sc'oo'm'k'r, 3b	0	1	1	3	1
H. Moore, c, rf	0	0	3	0	1
Eames, rf c	0	0	1	0	0
Hand, lf	1	0	1	1	0
W. Sc'oo'm'k'r, cf	1	0	1	0	0
Burt, p	1	0	0	0	1
Dupee, p	1	2	0	0	0
	7	8	24	13	4

SCOTCH PLAINS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
J. Albert, lf	0	0	1	0	0
G. Cruzins, ss	0	0	4	5	1
C. Malay, 3b	2	2	0	4	5
Ashcroft, c	1	1	6	1	2
Flannery, cf	2	2	1	0	0
G. Johnson, rf	2	2	0	0	0
Baldwin, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Dove, 2b	1	1	2	1	0
E. Hand, 1b	1	1	13	0	0
Harvey, p	0	1	0	1	0
	9	10	27	12	8

Score by innings.

Scotch Plains	0	0	0	4	5	0	0	0	*	—9
Y. M. C. A.	0	0	0	0	5	0	2	0	—	7

Bases on balls—Off Harvey, 1; off Burt, 0; off Dupee, 1. Struck out—By Harvey, 4; by Burt, 0; by Dupee, 3. Hit by pitched ball—By Burt, 1. Umpires—C. Mumford, R. Townley. Scorers—G. Collins, R. S. Lane. Time of game—2 hours.

HOPE'S WON THIS TIME.

An overwhelming defeat was administered the Plainfield High School team by the Hope nine, on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon. It was in marked contrast to the game played five weeks previous when the school team won out after a hot game by a score of 7 to 4. Saturday's game was a one sided contest from start to finish and but for one error on Magee's part in the ninth inning, the Hopes would have shut their opponents out altogether. The score was 12 to 1, the loose egg line on the P. H. S. side being broken in the ninth when Magee, who was filling the catcher's position for Hartfelder, let a swift ball pass him, bringing Denton in from third.

It was up to the Hopes to retrieve themselves for the results of the first game and they did it in proper fashion. Every man played in League style and but two errors were made by them in the nine innings. The other was checked against Hewitt who failed to stop a red hot grounder. Brilliant plays were numerous especially in the outfield where Roseberry, George Cone and "Teddy" Overton, did some great work. Feiring did very well on first stopping a hot liner that called for applause, and Magee performed some good stunts behind the bat. It was his first attempt at this position and his work was a surprise.

Munro on third for the High School covered the base in great shape and proved a hard problem for the Hope base runners. Denton and Dyer did some good stick work but the former was a little off color in the field. Van Auken pitched in his usual good style, striking out nine men and letting but three walk. The Hopes were able to touch up his delivery better than in the first game.

The summary is as follows:

HOPES.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, cf	2	2	2	1	0
Smith, 3b	1	0	1	1	0
Martin, ss	2	3	1	3	0
Hewitt, p	1	1	0	2	1
Overton, cf	3	2	0	0	0
Feiring, 1b	1	1	11	0	0
Montross, 2b	1	1	2	2	0
G. Cone, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Magee, c	0	0	9	2	1
	12	10	27	10	2

P. H. S.

	R	BH	PO.	A	E.
Thompson, 1b	0	1	9	0	1
Dyer, 2b	0	2	1	2	0
Moynihan, c	0	1	10	1	1
Munro, 3b	0	0	0	5	2
Craig, ss	0	0	2	0	3
Denton, rf, cf	1	2	0	0	0
Walters, cf, rf	0	1	2	0	0
VanAuken, p	0	0	0	2	0
Ulrich, lf	0	0	0	0	0
	1	7	27	11	6

Score by innings.

Hope Chapel	0	0	0	0	0	3	2	2	1	—12
High School	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	— 1

Base on balls—VanAuken, 3; Hewitt, 2. Two-base hits—Martin, Montross. Three-base hits—Roseberry, 2. Struck out—VanAuken, 9; Hewitt, 7. Passed balls—Magee, 1; Moynihan. Umpires—George McComb and Lindsey Best. Scorer—W. P. Foster.

DUNELLEN'S DEFEAT.

The Dunellen A. C. was defeated by a score of 8 to 5 in its game with the Safe Works team, on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon. It was one of the best of the day's games and was witnessed by a very large crowd.

Booth was in the box for the Safe Works and pitched a superb game. He proved to be one of the hardest propositions the Dunellenites have been up against this season. He was touched for only four hits, and struck out twelve men. The batting of Jackson, who made three hits, was another feature on the Safe Work's side of the game.

Ethinger allowed nine hits and puzzled five of the Safe men enough to make them fan. The visitors' playing was good in general, the basemen being most noticeable.

The summary follows:

SAFE WORKS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b	1	0	0	2	1
Jackson, lf	2	3	1	0	0
Setley, 2b	2	1	1	1	0
Connors, rf	1	2	0	0	0
Allen, c	1	1	10	0	0
Ward, cf	0	1	0	0	0
Symons, 1b	0	1	12	0	1
Booth, p	0	0	0	2	0
Siegfried, ss	1	0	0	3	1
	8	9	24	6	3

DUNELLEN.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Smith, ss	1	0	2	0	2
Ethinger, p	1	0	1	0	0
Craig, 3b	1	1	1	1	0
Kuldesbes, 2b	1	0	2	0	0
Smalley, lf	1	1	3	0	1
Brown, c	0	1	5	0	1
Gorlell, rf	0	1	2	0	0
Glidden, cf	0	0	1	0	1
Carpenter, 1b	0	0	10	0	1
	5	4	27	0	7

Score by innings.

Safe Works	3	0	1	0	2	0	0	2	*	—8
Dunellen	3	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	—	5

Bases on balls—Off Booth, 2; off Ethinger, 4. Two-base hit—Ward. Three-base hit—Eames. Struck out—Booth, 10; Ethinger, 5. Umpire — Charles Pearson; scorer—Ward.

CAPTURED A COW.

Patrolman Myers' Early Training Stood Him in Good Stead.

Patrolman Myers' early training among the steers in the Williamsburg clockyards stood him in good stead when he ran afoul of a vicious cow at Lee place and West Sixth street, late Friday night. The bovine was incidined to be saucy but with the dexterity of a Texas plainsman, Nick lassoed her with a piece of clothes line and proudly drove her into town. She was tethered in a stall at Cole's livery and Saturday an owner put in a claim. He informed the police that the animal had broken from his yard.

We want You to know Us not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER, THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD, but also as headquarters for all lamp interests. We will cheerfully refer to points, whereby trying to Rochester is to see. Our catalogue and personal guidance will help you to select the right lamp for your home. If we don't want you to consider us as all lamps are, and every customer a lamp in a Rochester. The name is not that of a class but of a particular lamp, the highest quality lamp in the world. It is not a real Rochester or NEW ROCHESTER. If the dealer sells or offers it as such he is trying to deceive you, and you, of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

ARCANUM'S BIRTHDAY.

Quarter of a Century Anniversary Will Soon be Celebrated.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Royal Arcanum will be celebrated by all of the councils in the United States on Monday, June 23. Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, is planning to celebrate the affair on an elaborate scale It proposes to have one of the division celebrations in Plainfield and there will probably be twelve councils along the line of the New Jersey Central and vicinity to join in the affair. It has not yet been decided just where the celebration will be held, but some suitable place will be secured.

TO INCREASE MEMBERSHIP.

Grand Master Workman Nash Has Plan Which Will Work Well.

With the idea of introducing novel features into the work of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in this State, Grand Master Workman W. W. Nash has originated a plan whereby every member of the order will receive a handsome watch-charm bearing the insignia of the order as a reward for securing one new member. Details regarding the contest will be announced a little later. This scheme together with the classified assessment plan is calculated to swell the membership of the order materially.

"The Volcano's Deadly Work From the Fall of Pompeii to the Destruction of St. Pierre," by Prof. Charles Morris, LL. D. Most timely interesting book just published. Complete, thrilling and accurate account of greatest disaster that ever befell the human race—greater even than Pelee's new Martinique, one of the most beautiful islands in the world, was suddenly transformed into a veritible hell. About 500 pages, profusely illustrated with photographs taken before and after disaster. Practically only "Martinique Book" in the field, for everyone now insists on having Prof. Morris' book and no other. Best author, largest book, best illustrated, scientifically accurate. Price $1.50. Agents Wanted. Enormous profits for those who act quickly. Most liberal terms. Outfit 10 cents. Don't lose a minute. Hurry. Address, ZEIGLER, McCURDY & Co., Chicago.

Clark & Co., 222 S. 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 5 22 1 m

Funeral of Lewis F. Randolph.

Funeral services were held in the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church, Friday afternoon, over the remains of Lewis F. Randolph, of Park avenue. Three ministers, Rev. A. B. Mitchell, E. J. Crudup and J. Berg, of this city, took part. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. Those who acted as pallbearers were George Randolph, William Randolph, James Scott and Raleigh Crouse.

Came East With Athletes.

Walter Christie has returned to his home in California after a visit to friends in Plainfield. Mr. Christie came east with a contingent of athletes from the University of California who will take part in the intercollegiate contests in New York next Saturday.

More for State Camp.

Five applications Friday and one Saturday were forwarded to the State Y. M. C. A. secretary for accommodations at Camp Wawayanda. Efforts will be made to accommodate all others who intend going to the camp, if they send in their application within the next few days.

To Wed at Milltown.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth M Dahmer, of Milltown, and Harry Pound, of West Front street. The affair will be celebrated Wednesday afternoon, June 11, at 4 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. John H. Kuhlthau, of Milltown.

To Aid a Cripple.

Mrs. G. L. Howard, of Myrtle avenue, will give a fair on her lawn, Saturday afternoon, with the assistance of a number of Washington Park residents. The proceeds will be for the benefit of a cripple boy.

Pension Granted.

Through the efforts of H. C. Runyon, a pension of $8 per month has been granted Mrs. Joseph T. Dunham, of Park avenue. She is also allowed back pension from June, 1900.

Dr. Humphreys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

no.	disease.	price.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammation	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.50
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
31	Sore, Throat, Quinsy	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or sent free.

Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER MAY 25, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

For Washington, 7.08, 8.15 a. m., 12.02 noon, 1.58, 3.32, 4.34, 5.45, 7.08 p. m. Limited, 8.15 p. m. Washington Parlor Cars, for Philadelphia and Washington, Southern and Eastern Points.

For Philadelphia, 7.08, 8.15 a. m., 12.02 noon, 1.58, 3.32, 4.34, 5.45, 7.08 p. m. Limited, 8.15 p. m. Washington Parlor Cars, for Philadelphia and Washington, Southern and Eastern Points.

For Trenton, 7.08, 8.15 a. m., 12.02 noon, 1.58, 3.32, 4.34, 5.45, 7.08 p. m. Limited, 8.15 p. m. Washington Parlor Cars, for Philadelphia and Washington, Southern and Eastern Points.

For Newark and New York—6.06, 6.24, 6.42, 7.12, 7.36, 7.54, 8.06, 8.18, 8.36, 8.54, 9.06, 9.24, 9.42, 10.06, 10.24, 10.42, 11.06, 11.24 a. m., 12.06, 12.24, 12.42, 1.06, 1.24, 1.42, 2.06, 2.24, 2.42, 3.06, 3.24, 3.42, 4.06, 4.24, 4.42, 5.06, 5.24, 5.42, 6.06, 6.24, 6.42, 7.06, 7.24, 7.42, 8.06, 8.24, 8.42, 9.06, 9.24, 9.42, 10.06, 10.24, 10.42 and 11.06 p. m. Sundays—6.06, 6.24, 6.42, 7.12, 7.36, 7.54, 8.06, 8.18, 8.36, 8.54, 9.06, 9.24, 9.42, 10.06, 10.24, 10.42, 11.06, 11.24 a. m., 12.06, 12.24, 12.42, 1.06, 1.24, 1.42, 2.06, 2.24, 2.42, 3.06, 3.24, 3.42, 4.06, 4.24, 4.42, 5.06, 5.24, 5.42, 6.06, 6.24, 6.42, 7.06, 7.24, 7.42, 8.06, 8.24, 8.42, 9.06, 9.24, 9.42, 10.06, 10.24, 10.42, 11.06 and 11.24 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1.27 p. m. to Atlantic City and Ocean City.

For Atlantic City—1.08 a. m., 1.34 p. m., 12.12 midnight. Through Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car (Dinner) from Cape May, Sunday only.

For Cape May—1.08 a. m. daily, 1.27 p. m. weekdays. 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For Asbury Park—1.08, 6.24 a. m., 7.36 a. m. (6.5 miles only) 1.34, 4.42 p. m. (Saturdays only) 7.54, 11.24 p. m. (Saturdays only) 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean Grove—1.08, 6.24 a. m., 7.36 a. m. (6.5 miles only) 1.34, 4.42 p. m. (Saturdays only) 7.54, 11.24 p. m. (Saturdays only) 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For Long Branch—1.08, 6.24 a. m., 7.36 a. m. (6.5 miles only) 1.34, 4.42 p. m. (Saturdays only) 7.54, 11.24 p. m. (Saturdays only) 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For Point Pleasant—1.08, 6.24 a. m., 7.36 a. m. (6.5 miles only) 1.34, 4.42 p. m. (Saturdays only) 7.54, 11.24 p. m. (Saturdays only) 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For Bay Head—1.08, 6.24 a. m., 7.36 a. m. (6.5 miles only) 1.34, 4.42 p. m. (Saturdays only) 7.54, 11.24 p. m. (Saturdays only) 1.08 a. m. Sundays.

For New Brunswick—2.05, 5.05, 7.35, 8.06, 9.07, 9.37, 11.07 a. m., 12.07, 1.07 (Saturdays only) 2.06, 3.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.07, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—2.05, 4.37, 8.06, 9.07, 10.07, 11.07 a. m., 12.07, 1.07, 2.06, 3.07, 4.07, 5.07, 6.07, 7.07, 8.07, 9.07, 10.07, 11.07 p. m.

For Trenton—1.08, 4.05, 7.20, 7.50, 8.05, 8.37, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—1.08, 4.37, 8.05, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Princeton—1.08 a. m., 12.35 p. m. and 6.37 p. m. Sundays—12.35 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 9.37 a. m., 12.35 p. m., 6.37 p. m. and 8.37 p. m. Sundays—12.35 p. m. and 6.37 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch Sea Shore R. R., 8.37 a. m., 12.35 p. m. and week-days, 6.37 p. m. Sundays—9.37 a. m., and 12.35 p. m. Stop at Elizabeth for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Rocky Hill, N. J.—All through trains connect at Jamesburg for Freehold and Intermediate Points, affording direct transfer to Pennsylvania Railroad Trains for Keyport, Perth Amboy and Jersey Shore.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. From Cortlandt street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. From Desbrosses street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. From Jersey City, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Sundays—1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.30 a. m. Local for Rahway, 1.30 a. m. night.

For time from Cranford and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be posted at stations.

J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. J. E. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Send for particulars and our illustrated catalogue (64 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,
114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS OF MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profits for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 328 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2t

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J., or at my house in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Stations.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MAY. 18, 1902.

For New York—6.35, 7.07, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 12.35, 1.05, 1.35, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 12.35, 1.05, 1.35, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 p. m.

For Somerville—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Bound Brook—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Manhattan Transfer and Secaucus—6.35, 8.05, 9.35 a. m., 2.05, 4.35, 6.35, 8.35, 10.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown, Allentown and Wauch Chunk—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Williamsburg and Scranton—6.35, 8.35 a. m., 2.05 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Mauch Chunk, Pottsville, Williamsburg, etc.—6.35, 11.35 a. m., 2.05, 4.35, 6.35 p. m.

For Allentown—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown and Saturday only—11.35 p. m. (Wednesday and Saturday only).

For Harrisburg, Williamsport and Renovo—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown, Allentown and Wauch Chunk—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Williamsburg and Scranton—6.35, 8.35 a. m., 2.05 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Mauch Chunk, Pottsville, Williamsburg, etc.—6.35, 11.35 a. m., 2.05, 4.35, 6.35 p. m.

For Allentown—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown and Saturday only—11.35 p. m. (Wednesday and Saturday only).

For Harrisburg, Williamsport and Renovo—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Allentown, Allentown and Wauch Chunk—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Williamsburg and Scranton—6.35, 8.35 a. m., 2.05 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For Mauch Chunk, Pottsville, Williamsburg, etc.—6.35, 11.35 a. m., 2.05, 4.35, 6.35 p. m.

For Allentown—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m. Sundays—8.35 a. m., 4.35 p. m.

For All

PLAINFIELD'S FIRST HOUSE OF WORSHIP AND ITS OLDEST MEMBERS

MRS. MARY L. FORCE.

MRS. SARAH CLIFFTON.

The Newark News recently published a picture of the old Quaker meeting house in this city, together with photo-engravures of Mrs. Mary L. Force and Mrs. Sarah Clifton, two of the oldest members of the Friends in Plainfield. As far back as 1746, when Plainfield was still in the lists of things to be, there was a Friends' meeting house in this vicinity. It was located in the fields and somehow they named the place Plain Field, a title which clung to the village which sprung up in later years. The building stood on the Metuchen road, south of the Plainfield of today.

Friends came there to worship from all directions and soon the rough looking structure was too small to accommodate the people. A more suitable edifice was planned and the old Rahway road, at present Watchung avenue, at the point where it is now intersected by East Third street was chosen as the site. In meeting the following committee were selected: Hugh Webster, William Shotwell, Edward Moore, Mortimer Marsh, David Vail, Edward Randolph, Benjamin Vail, Elijah Pound, John Laing, E. James Haydock, William Marsh, Joseph Shotwell, and Richard Dell. Work was begun in 1787, and in August of the following year was completed the building that still stands there today—a quaint relic of the century that witnessed the revolution and a silent reminder of the sturdy men of the colonial era.

The heavy timbers, which are visible from the interior, are fastened together by strong wooden pegs. In the rear, facing the small front doors, are two rows of benches, one elevated above the other, and on these sat the ministers and elders. Carved in the wood of these benches are the initials of many who attended the meeting in years gone by. The galleries surrounding the interior still remain, and likewise the peculiar wooden latches on the doors. In the centre of the room is the old stove and about it are placed more benches.

There was no other place of worship here then; in fact, there was only one general store, and it also was the postoffice. People journeyed overland to Elizabethport, and there took the vessel for New York. Beyond the meeting house to the east, is the graveyard, studded with simple headstones.

The meeting flourished and in its palmy days had more than two hundred members. Surviving still are some who were regular attendants in the early part of the nineteenth century. Among these is Sarah Clifton, whose maiden name was Sarah Vail. She is now ninety-one years of age, and has possession of all her faculties. Every Sunday she attends meeting dressed in the plain garb of the society.

The next eldest member is Mrs. Mary L. Force, eighty-seven years of age. Phoebe Vail and Catherine Webster, each seventy-eight years of age, and Sydney Vail and Mary Laing, each eighty-one years old, are others of these days. The galleries surrounding the interior still remain, and likewise the peculiar wooden latches on the doors. In the centre of the room is the old stove and about it are placed more benches.

There was no other place of worship here then; in fact, there was only one general store, and it also was the postoffice. People journeyed overland to Elizabethport, and there took the vessel for New York. Beyond the meeting house to the east, is the graveyard, studded with simple headstones.

The meeting flourished and in its palmy days had more than two hundred members. Surviving still are some who were regular attendants in the early part of the nineteenth century. Among these is Sarah Clifton, whose maiden name was Sarah Vail. She is now ninety-one years of age, and has possession of all her faculties. Every Sunday she attends meeting dressed in the plain garb of the society.

The next eldest member is Mrs. Mary L. Force, eighty-seven years of age. Phoebe Vail and Catherine Webster, each seventy-eight years of age, and Sydney Vail and Mary Laing, each eighty-one years old, are others

GOOD REASONS FOR UNITING

Enthusiastic Mass - Meeting Held in Saengerbund Hall Last Thursday.

STRONG POINTS MADE.

Crowded With Those Who Went to Hear Arguments for Annexation and Consolidation—Senator Reed and Former Mayor Saunders Chief Speakers.

The annexationists gathered in force in Saengerbund Hall Thursday to pour hot shot into the camp of their opponents. There was a large crowd present, larger than at the previous meeting held there by the anti-progressionists, as they were dubbed by W. L. Saunders in the course of his speech.

It was a good-humored, patient and enthusiastic gathering. A great number stood in the aisles and around the doors until Senator C. A. Reed and Former Mayor Saunders had concluded speaking, and it was then 11 o'clock. A large crowd still remained to hear short addresses by Mayor Smalley and J. O. Osgood. The speeches were argumentative, yet eloquent, frequently punctuated by rounds of applause and by outbursts of laughter.

Martin I. Cooley was chairman of the meeting and on the stage were a large number of the vice presidents, whose names were attached to the advertised notice of the meeting. In the audience, a small representation of the more active anti-progressionists occupied seats. The gallery held a goodly contingent of the fair sex, and a few were sprinkled throughout the audience.

Martin I. Cooley, in opening the meeting, said the object of the gathering was to consider the benefits of annexation and consolidation. Annexation was not a political scheme, it was a stern, business proposition. It was a progressive movement. Some years ago they drew away from the township and became a borough. He did not consider this a violation of the mandate "Thou shall not steal;" neither did he think they would be breaking that commandment if they now decided to become a city. Union would make a happy and prosperous community. He introduced Senator Reed.

Senator Reed expressed his pleasure at meeting so large an assembly. He read an extract from the Somerville Unionist-Gazette, containing a statement that might point a moral or adorn a tale. The story, he said, might illustrate that what you see in the papers or hear is not always true. He didn't mind being called a robber or even a politician but he objected to being designated a blithering idiot. He had never said that only three men were opposed to consolidation in North Plainfield; nor did he say that the people demanded consolidation. But he did say that it was a most important question, and one that always came up when there was a question about sewers or other expenditures—it came up in the Council and in the homes. People didn't want to stand the expense if they were going to consolidate.

The history of the bill was briefly sketched. The statement was true that it contained no referendum at first, but he was in favor of a referendum. He stood for the people of North Plainfield and when a question arose between North Plainfield and some other place he was always for North Plainfield.

"Thou shalt not steal," was one reason by C. W. McCutchen as against putting part of Somerset into Union county. In 1872, the township of North Plainfield as set off from Warren without any referendum—the choicest pearl was taken; sixteen or seventeen years ago the borough was set off from the township. The throne itself was gone, and Chas. W. McCutchen was one of the chief pirates. Have the rules changed of late?—at any rate the penitent thief has not returned the stolen goods.

It mattered little to the rich man who came from New York, where he lived. Years ago he built in the woods and he cares not whether property enhances in value or not. But how many are in that position? It makes a great difference to the poor man whether the tax rate goes up or goes down. Here they were next door to Plainfield, a city continually growing about; if they fell behind the process also their property would decrease in value; if they made the improvements their tax rate would soar above Plainfield's and their property would likewise decrease. Today they couldn't go to the train, the bank, the express office, or the hospital without paying to Plainfield, "by your leave."

The speaker here read from documents to show that county lines in New Jersey had been changed time and time again and in no case was the matter referred to the people. Up to 1850, the city of New Brunswick had been one half in Somerset county. It was taken from Somerset county without any referendum, without any compensation, to allow the people to live in one town and one county. Mr. Reed read extracts from a letter by A. V. D. Honeyman in The Press in March last on the subject of consolidation. He wanted a referendum. The referendum was granted and the Somerville Unionist-Gazette editorially stated that the "sting of the serpent was eliminated." Speaking of the resolution introduced at the last meeting of the Borough Council for an election on May 14 on annexation and consolidation a week later Senator Reed said it was a ruse.

"Oh, if you had only passed that resolution we had you," said a prominent anti-progressionist. No decision could have been reached without the stated time. The Supreme Court would have been appealed to in case they took further action. Did they not have an opportunity for an election and allowed it to slip between their fingers? would be the argument of the opponents. Again referring to the question of politics in the scheme as charged by Mr. Honeyman, he declared that at one time Mr. Honeyman was the biggest politician in the county when there were so many politicians in the county that if they were taken out, there would not be enough people left to man a Sunday-school excursion.

In conclusion Senator Reed furnished statistics to prove the falsity of statements advanced by Mr. Howland at the last meeting, and showed that he had quoted wrongly—perhaps not intentionally, but through ignorance—from records.

Mr. Saunders was the next speaker. He spoke eloquently and convincingly for more than an hour. He reviewed the history of the bill, the early opposition encountered and how it had been overcome; how the Board of Trade had approved of consolidation and annexation and committees had been appointed by both Plainfield and the Borough Councils to consider the question. This is not a matter of sentiment; it is a business proposition. The only move that they will make is one of progress. If he did not prove that consolidation was wise, that facts and figures and plain logic were with them, he was ready to step down and out. You have a railroad station, banks, factories, at present all by the grace of Plainfield. The people of the borough are as much a part of Plainfield and the dependent on it as the arm is a part of the body. The city is responsible for the borough's growth. Without Plainfield, the borough would have no more life than Fanwood or Dunellen.

Mr. Saunders here by the aid of carefully prepared diagrams showed how the tax rate had increased in North Plainfield while property had declined, while an exactly opposite condition existed in Plainfield. This plainly unnatural condition of things can go on if one wants to pay for it. Mr. McCutchen said it wasn't necessary to consolidate. It didn't matter to wealthy, rural Mr. McCutchen whether he spends a few hundred dollars a year more to keep up his environment; he is only spending his surplus revenue. He knew about the pay-roll? An increase of taxes means a sum taken not from the business but from the necessities of life.

Mr. Saunders speech was an able and thorough review of the question and will be published in full in The Daily Press at a later date.

Mr. Osgood spoke for a few moments on the sewers, and showed the people could have a system and save $40,000 or $50,000 by uniting with Plainfield. The Plainfield main is only carrying 60,000 gallons a day with a capacity for 4,000,000.

Mayor Smalley dealt with the "hotels" so-called. They are to a man against consolidation, because the license is cheaper, and they have no hours for closing their bars except on Sunday. At one minute to twelve last Saturday night they said to the men in the bar: "Here, get out now, you haven't signed the register or taken a room; it's twelve o'clock; we can't keep open on Sunday." Were these hotels, he asked. Meeting then closed with cheers.

Honor for High School Graduate.

In the award of commencement honors at Rutgers College, Elwood Linnell Davis, of Bound Brook, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, has received third honors in the Scientific School.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth Tompkins Ginna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, to A. Erickson Perkins, of Rochester, N. Y.

Next Council Meeting.

It is not likely that the Common Council will meet until the regular time, Monday evening, June 2. There is nothing of any great importance to engage their attention prior to that time.

INTELLIGENCE OF ANIMALS.

A Few Peculiarities That Have Been Noticed in Elephants, Cats and Birds.

Elephants are among the most severely drilled of animals; their intelligence does not have free play in consequence. But all English trainers agree that there is great difference in capacity between them, and that some will learn and remember a lesson far more quickly than others. Cats have very flexed brains and are too self-centered and self-contained, as a rule, to show the distinctions which exist between them. Their strongest instinct is toward a kind of domestic comfort not exactly shared with human beings, but enjoyed in their company, to which they readily adapt themselves, says the London Spectator. Yet there are misanthropic cats which make no secret of their dislike and contempt for mankind in general, only come into the house under protest and will prefer to sleep in a coal cellar to taking their nap in good society. These are the exceptions in the cat world, but every one has met with them. Birds are usually regarded as possessing brains in "classes," not as individuals, the origin of the belief being probably the fact that birds of one species usually build exactly the same kind of nest. The generalization is not correct. The same species may have brains of all capacities.

THE PORT OF LONDON.

Wharves Are Redolent of Merchandise That Comes from the Orient and the Tropics.

From Australia come hides, the pelts of sheep, and bales of wool; there are iron-bound cotton bales from Peru, casks of fat shoulders from Spain, and of nigger-toes from Brazil; there are pipes of wine from Madeira and Oporto. The wharves that line the docks are redolent of the tropics and of the Orient, says Scribner's. Here is a shed covering acres, in the lofty twilight of which are piled huge roughly squared logs of mahogany from the West Indies, and logs of teakwood from the East Indies, to be used in the building of iron clads. In the spacious dusk of the warehouse beyond gunny sacks rise symmetrically to the very rafters, wafting a faint, rich perfume, while in the cellars beneath, brown hogsheads of sugar, whose lion's heads, oozing treacle that gathers in black pools on the sticky floor. There are mats of dates, figs, and prunellas, hogsheads of prunes, bales of cinnamon, olives and alligator pears. The sky overhead is sodden and grey, perhaps, and a film of mist swimps up on the water, but under the spell of this riot of incense the loitering redsailed barges are like Venetian galleys.

INK AS A SOUVENIR.

Queer Performance at Canadian School-Teachers' Reminiscence of Royalty.

This story comes from Canada. It is told of Canadian schoolgirls after the visit of the duke and duchess of York. It is probable that some one this side of the border could match it with a tale anent Prince Henry's flying trip, says the Chicago Post. In the scramble for souvenirs of the royal visit some things happened which ought not to be repeated on a future occasion. At Niagara, after the departure of the duke and duchess, there was a hunt for pins, which might or might not have been worn or long worn by royalty. In Toronto some overenthusiastic young persons filled their pockets with pebbles from a gravel road over which the royal pair had driven. But the less to be admired of all was a section of the schools whose classroom was visited by the duchess. Her royal highness graciously wrote her name in the school register. After her departure the teacher passed around the ink bottle in order that the pupils might dip a finger in the ink into which a princess had dipped a pen.

Tree That Turns to Stone.

There is a tree that grows in Mexico called the "chiljol," or stone tree. It is of enormous proportions, both in circumference and height. It has a number of branches spreading out widely and carrying leaves of a yellowish-green color. The wood is extremely fine and easily worked in a green state. It is not given to either warping or splitting. The most remarkable thing about it is that after being cut the wood gets gradually harder, and in the course of a few years it is absolutely petrified, whether left in the open air or buried in the earth. Some of the houses that have been built that would in a few years become completely fireproof, and would last as though built of stone.

Beating the Bookmakers.

A clandestine betting agent of Paris, prosecuted for gambling, tells a delightful story of his customers swindled him. One of them received the result of the races by pigeon post and then rushed to an organ grinder stationed under the windows of a betting agency. Each horse in the race was represented by a tune and the winner was thus easily indicated, while an accomplice in the agency backed it before the bookmaker received his telegram giving the result of the race.

Patriotism in Berlin.

An ingenious method of obtaining a reputation for patriotism has been invented by certain Berlin publicans. On their shop fronts they hang legends to this effect: "So long as the war in South Africa lasts I forbid an Englishman to enter my premises."

HOW NEW EXAMINATION FOR LAWYERS WORKS

Plan, Which Tests Candidates' Academic Knowledge, Succeeds Throughout State.

IN TWELVE COUNTIES.

REGARDED AS HIGHLY SATISFACTORY BY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

It Evidently Frightened Some of the Would-be Lawyers, Because the Number Examined Was Much Smaller Than Usual Classes.

The novel plan of having young men who are seeking admission to the bar passing an academic examination on the same level with the school teachers has produced some good results, but it has evidently frightened some of the prospective limbs of the law.

The State Board of Bar Examiners, appointed by the Supreme Court for the June term, established a new precedent which provided that law students must produce a certificate for a certain amount of academic accomplishments. The new rules as promulgated require that each candidate must be examined by six of ten studies outlined by the county examiners for school teachers. These studies are: History of the United States, general history, arithmetic, elementary algebra, grammar, geography, civics, physics, Latin and French.

The recent examination was suddenly announced, and few of the applicants were prepared for the ordeal, but so far the returns that have been made to the State Superintendent of Education, C. E. Baxter, it shows that twelve counties of the twenty-one were represented. Twenty-three passed the academic examination out of a group of twenty-eight. Superintendent Baxter states that the reports are coming in daily, and they show a strong average, all of them over ninety on the academic study, and he is preparing to issue the proper certificate.

The certificates, however, are only good for the year 1902, and is in an open question whether they are good for any subsequent period beyond the period of issue. It is generally presumed that the purpose of the certificate is to establish the academic record of the student, and that even should he fail to come up for regular bar examination at the term subsequent to that of the academic examination, the certificate will have force for subsequent examination. There is, however, doubt about this, because the circular of the State Board of Examiners announces that the certificates are good only for the June examination, and that those students who fail to appear for the June examination, must be re-examined or get their certificates indorsed. This means that the students who does not follow his academic examination, will have to be re-examined, subject to the orders of the State Board of Examiners.

The returns from the recent examination is regarded by Superintendent Baxter as highly satisfactory because of the proficiency shown. From a legal standpoint it is figured that the number examined was very light for the June class, being about one-third of the usual number. This is, to the mind of the older lawyers, as indicative of some fear on the part of students for the academic examination.

FRESH AIR CAMP.

Will be Opened at Netherwood Next Month by Miss Sara Curry, Who Was at Westfield.

During the month of June Miss Sara Curry will bring the little children of her Little Missionary Day Nursery, 28 St. Marks place, New York, to their new summer home in Netherwood. Miss Curry, so well-known in Plainfield and surrounding towns, needs no introduction and it is firmly believed that she will have the support of many in the endeavor to give her little ones the benefit of the fine country air and wholesome food.

Many will recall Miss Curry's devoted efforts to help the work at the fresh air camp at Westfield and her success in coping with disease while there. The work will be confined to the small children ranging in age from six months to five years. Some of the influential citizens have already appointed an interest in the work and donations toward the object may be sent to J. Wesley Johnson, of La Grande avenue. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. David M. Runyon, of Arlington avenue.

Interesting Pamphlets.

After the meeting in Saengerbund Hall Thursday pamphlets were distributed on the floor giving thirty reasons for annexation and consolidation. It also contains a number of maps showing the relative value of property and tax rates in the borough and city.

Heredity.

To account for the transmissibility of ancestral types Darwin in his work on "Pangenesis" promulgated a theory that each cell threw off what are designated "gemmules," which formed the nuclei of another series of cells whose sole destiny in the economy of nature was the propagation of its species. These "gemmules" formed the blastema, in which was contained an exceedingly microscopical impression of the animal which might ultimately be called into being. If this were the case, we should be able to submit the miniature image to our investigation by means of the microscope. But strong microscopes are wanted. The red corbuscles of human blood have been measured and the diameter is found to be about one-four-thousandth part of an inch. The number of these red corpuscles which would adhere to the point of a needle would not be less than 1,000,000. Theory teaches that the final division of matter is the atom and the atom has been measured. It is calculated that in a cube of water one-thirty-thousandth part of an inch wide there are 20,000,000,000 atoms.—London Science Gossip.

When You Are in Rome.

Everybody who comes to Rome must expect to be swindled and disappointed. There are many illusions, and you will be pretty disappointed when you approach them and they fade away. You will be swindled by shopkeepers, hackmen, peddlers, and everybody that you have anything to do with, and you will be annoyed with their persistence like the fakirs and flower girls that follow you upon the street, but all this is part of the experience of everybody who comes here; only such annoyances are greater in Rome than in most other cities. Begging is a profession, as in every other Italian city, and the profits are much larger, because there are more strangers to appeal to. None but inexperienced persons are ever appealed to, however, because they know it is useless, but they save all their energy and pathos for strangers, particularly Americans and English, whom they follow with the most persistent importunities.—William E. Curtis, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Drive Disease Into Trees.

A very curious superstition appears to be gaining ground in Berlin and is claiming a large number of supporters. Three "doctors" have established a reputation for eradicating disease from men and beasts and driving it into trees. The cures are effected at night on Tuesdays and Fridays of the week of full moon. A needle is stuck into the skin over the affected part of the body and remains there until a few drops of blood appear. The blood is soaked in a piece of paper, and the paper is rolled in the shape of a pill. The "doctor" then goes in a wood alone, carrying the pill, selects a tree, and inoculates the bark with the pill. The process of blood letting is repeated three times.—Health.

White Mice for Submarines.

Gasoline is, it appears, the fuel most suitable for submarines, but human sensations give no more warning when its collected fumes are becoming dangerous. White mice, however, are said to be extremely sensitive to this poison, and perish unconsciously before human beings begin to suffer the slightest ill effects. So in all submarines of the future cages full of white mice are to be kept on the floor, whence the heavy emanations gradually rise, and it will always be one's early duty to go around and see how the mice are getting on.—Country Life.

When Snow Is Smoke.

When Prof. James Dewar inserted a small jet of flaming hydrogen into a vessel of liquid oxygen, the hydrogen continued to burn, giving off snow instead of smoke. The snow was formed by the instantaneous freezing of the water vapor by the intense radiation of the burning hydrogen with the oxygen enclosing it. When he cooled liquid air until it became semi-solid he found he could draw the oxygen out of the mass with a magnet, leaving a jelly of pure nitrogen.—Science.

The Western Peril.

America, at an epoch not far distant, will constitute the common danger which will unite the members of the European family. The attempt to monopolize the traffic between America and Europe is an initial step. When the Americans are masters of the ocean they will soon be seized with the desire to force their productions upon us.—Paris Matin.

Coming to the Point.

Mr. Grogan—What a power o' funerals they do be havin' at the church these days! Shure, it's shtarted me thinking.

Mrs. Casey—Thinkin' av what?

"That when it come toime fur my fooneral they do be wishin' me the widdy?"—Philadelphia Press.

Misunderstood.

"And we have one baby," said the meek man who was applying for board. "Will you take it?"

"Mind it?" snapped the thin-faced landlady. "Of course not. Do you think I'm a nurse?"—Chicago Daily News.

Matter of Doubt.

Miles—Did you see Jaggsby at the reception last night?

Giles—Yes.

"Was he intoxicated?"

"Well, he was in full dress."—Chicago Daily News.

Something Lacking.

"Why didn't you shave the ice?" demanded the proprietor of the soda-water counter.

"Because I couldn't find a razor, sir," replied the green clerk.—Chicago Daily News.

MEMORIAL DAY OF PYTHIANS

PROCLAMATION SENT OUT BY GREAT CHANCELLOR P. HALL PACKER.

Day Set is Tuesday, June 10, But Local Lodge Will Probably Change the Date.

A proclamation has been sent out from the office of the grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, located in Seabright, N. J., requesting the many lodges in the State to observe Memorial Day Tuesday, June 10. The various lodges in this city have all received copies of the proclamation.

The proclamation is addressed to the subordinate lodges, and reads as follows: Brothren—It is to be hoped and expected that each lodge in this great domain will observe Memorial Day Tuesday, June 10. Let us remember our dead brothers by placing flowers on their graves or holding a memorial service in their memory.

The following, from the supreme statutes is appended:

Tuesday following the second Sunday in June in each year is hereby set apart and established as the Memorial Day of the order of Knights of Pythias, and all bodies of the order are hereby requested and authorized to meet in their respective localities upon said day in each year, whenever practicable and convenient, for the purpose of engaging in such services and exercises as may be appropriate to the occasion; provided, that a subordinate lodge may select a different day for such services when the circumstances render it desirable.

The above statute gives all lodges the privilege to hold this service on another day if they so desire and it is more convenient. Hoping that our brothers will observe the day, I remain,

P. Hall Packer,
Grand Chancellor.

It has been the custom for the local lodges to observe the third Sunday in June as memorial day.

THEATRICAL.

Martha Morton's successful comedy "The Diplomat," with William Collier in the leading part, is entering its last weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and lovers of real comedy, who have not as yet witnessed a performance of this enjoyable farce, would do well to avail themselves of an evening of delightful mirth and endless laughter before the end of the season. Admirers of Mr. Collier's quaint fun making find huge amusement in his work in this new farce. He is seen at his best in the role of Nick Sportwick, a young New York clubman. He keeps his audience in roars of laughter from the moment he enters until the final curtain. This will be Mr. Collier's last season as an individual star, at least for the present, as next year he will become a member of Weber & Field's company, and playgoers should not miss seeing "The Diplomat," in which his talents have unlimited scope and his versatility is allowed full sway. It is doubtful if there ever has been produced on the metropolitan stage a comedy that has been so eminently successful as this amusing comedy by Martha Morton. No more amusing farce has been produced in recent years, and it is unquestionably the comedy hit of the season. Mr. Collier is delightfully droll in a part that fits him like the proverbial glove and his followers are legion. He has earned his success by strict attention to the business in hand and his disregard for many of the conventions of the stage. Matinees are given at the Madison Square Theatre on Wednesday and Saturday.

MR. MEREDITH'S WORK.

Annual Report of Schools of Nutley, Where He is the Superintendent.

The annual report of the Board of Education of Franklin township, Essex county, which includes Nutley, has just been issued and a perusal of it shows that the schools of that township are in a flourishing as well as a sound financial condition. A. B. Meredith, formerly science instructor at the Plainfield High School, is supervising principal and principal of the Nutley High School, and his work at the above place has been of a high order, giving entire satisfaction. The course of study has been revised and the progress made by the pupils is marked.

The Lehigh's New Summer Book.

The 1902 Summer Resort Book of the Lehigh Valley Railroad is out, and contains the usual complete information found in the summer book of that company, of resorts located along its lines, and resorts that may be reached via that line. The book is filled with illustrations of prominent and pleasant summering places, and is reliable guide for those seeking information about summer resorts.

Temperance Societies to Meet.

There will be a convention of Catholic temperance societies of New Jersey at Somerville Memorial Day. It is expected that there will be a large delegation in attendance from this city.

MOVEMENT TO SECURE A NEW ENGINEHOUSE

What Must be Done in Order for Borough to Get the Necessary Funds.

THE PETITIONS NOW OUT.

AFTER ALL THE REST, THE QUESTION MUST BE PUT TO A VOTE.

Seems to be a Feeling in Favor of Such a Building—Said That the Borough Would Really Save Money by the Arrangement.

At the last meeting of the Borough Council the amount of $30 was set aside for the purpose of securing a desirable option on a site for the erection of a new engine house. Petitions are now being circulated throughout the borough with a view to ascertaining how many people are in favor of providing the taxpayers of North Plainfield with adequate fire protection. Julius J. Stahl, Geo. H. Fairchild, David Bodine and W. G. Debele have each a copy of the document and are soliciting the names of property-holders.

This present petition will have no final effect on the proposed idea of building. There is an abundance of red tape to be unravelled before any definite progress can be made. Then when twenty-five per cent. of the taxpayers have signified their willingness to have work began on the new construction, the petition will be presented to the Council through the fire, water and lamps committee.

When the council is convinced that a favorable sentiment exists, that body may order an issuance of bonds to cover the cost, but not before another petition, under its auspices, has been circulated and received the required number of signatures.

The matter does not end even here. Before the consummation of the scheme—no doubt by this time decently wished for—a special election must be held and a majority of voters must register their desires for or against the proposition before the new engine house may be looked upon as an established fact or a defeated project.

The circulators of the petition report that great success is rewarding their efforts. There can be no doubt but that those who are signing the paper will also sign the one to be circulated later by the mayor and Council. No decided opposition has cropped up from any quarter.

The erection of the new engine house is not calculated to increase the running expenses of the borough. True, an engineer and hostler will be necessary, but at the present time, $300 or $400 a year is disbursed in rent, besides expenditures for storage and like purposes. The money that is now swallowed up in this manner could be applied to paying the interest on the bonds and the borough would have a valuable asset to the good.

It is not likely that the question of annexation or consolidation will be allowed to influence the scheme in any way. Many men of different minds on the matter of union are a unit in the belief that a new engine house is a needed improvement. As architect is now drawing up plans, but the cost of the structure has not yet been estimated nor has the site been definitely selected.

FINE RESIDENCE.

Work Started on Elaborate Home on Watchung Avenue to be Occupied by Daniel Ginna.

One of the most beautiful residences in Plainfield, when completed, will be that upon which work was begun yesterday at the corner of Watchung and Kensington avenues. The structure will cost in the vicinity of $25,000 and the owner is Stephen A. Ginna, and when completed, it will be occupied by his son, Daniel Ginna.

It will be built in the colonial style of architecture, with a piazza and colonnade of four columns in the front. On the west elevation there will also be a long piazza with a row of six fluted columns, while the east is set off by a small portico, at one of the entrances.

A glance at the plans shows that on the ground flood provision is made for a large reception room, library, oval shaped dining room, a billiard hall, opening on a cosy den, an entrance hall and a spacious side hall, besides the kitchen, butlers closet and the pastry kitchen. On the second floor are fine large chambers, three bath rooms, a rear hall and a large central hall leading out to a balcony. The attic contains four bed rooms, one bath, two store rooms, and a hall in the centre. In the basement besides the central cellar quarter, there is a boiler room, store room, coal bin and laundry. The inside furnishings will be the most gorgeous, and the woodwork decorations of the highest quality.

SEASON IS BACKWARD AT LAKE HOPATCONG

But All Will be Ready for Business As Soon as the Warm Weather Arrives.

PLANS FOR THE SEASON.

MOST OF THE LAKE HOTELS ARE PLANNING TO OPEN JUNE 1.

Some Anglers Are at the Lake Now, But Bass Season Does Not Begin Until June 15—Lake Passenger Fleet is Being Overhauled.

Business at the resorts around Jersey's favorite Lake Hopatcong is still backward, the recent chilly weather operating against lake travel, and none but cottage owners, who come to inspect their houses and grounds, and anglers put in an appearance.

The various hotels have undergone their annual spring renovation. Nearly all of the lake hotels will open for summer business about June 1. The Breslin and Lake View will open some time during the week commencing June 15. The Westmoreland, at Landing; the Hotel Villa, at Mt. Arlington, and the Lake Pavillion, at Nolan's Point, are open the year around, of course, with a large reduction of household help during the winter. These houses are convenient for anglers just now.

The new building of the Mt. Arlington Hotel was burned on April 24. The work of rebuilding will be commenced early in the fall. To accommodate patrons who have heretofore made this house their summer home, the lessee, Mr. Levy, who managed the house last year, is having a large dining room added to the lower annex, and, with the two annexes and cottages, he will be enabled to accommodate about 100 patrons, half the number he carried last year. This house will be opened for the season on Memorial Day.

It is reported that the Raccoon Island House, which was sold a few months ago to settle an estate, will be open this year, but no definite information can be obtained. Most of the rentable cottages about the lake have been engaged.

Pickerel and perch fishing is reported as fairly good, the choice places at present being in the vicinity of Bertrand Island and Nolan's Point. The bass season does not commence until June 15.

The lake passenger fleets are being overhauled. At present but one boat, the large cabin steam yacht Ada of the White Line, is running on irregular trips, principally for freighting purposes. Her cargoes consist largely of new furniture and supplies for the various hotels and cottages. The Crescent of the same line is also held in readiness for passengers who have business along the lake. The boats of this line are being thoroughly overhauled.

Owners of cottages have been making short visits to inspect their buildings and grounds, noting what ravages have been made by the winter storms, and making provision for such repairs as may be needed.

The Lake Hopatcong Realty Company, with "office at Landing, Morris county, owns more than 1,000 acres of land about the lake, which afford fully a hundred ideal camping sites. Running the plan in vogue last season, the company offers to reputable applicants these sites free for the season, merely stipulating that no wanton injury shall be done to the property. First come, first served.

Perseverance's Anniversary.

June 13 will mark the thirtieth anniversary of the organization of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P. The occasion will be observed by an entertainment and general good time for the members. A committee composed of Samuel Robinson, William H. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Thomas Muir and Jacob Blimm is making arrangements for the affair.

A Former Press Man.

William A. Stimpson, formerly of The Daily Press staff, is now assistant editor of the Asbury Park Daily Press, where he is doing excellent work. During the past year Mr. Stimpson has contributed a number of interesting articles for several leading magazines and his literary work is winning praise for his effort in this direction.

Another News Stand Probable.

The patrons of the New Jersey Central in this city will be pleased to learn that Alfred Lacey, the agent at the station for the Union News Company, has been given permission to place his stock on sale at the new station. This permission was granted by General Manager W. G. Besler, who is now a resident of North Plainfield. In all probability a news stand will be erected on that side of the tracks very soon.

COUNTY ENDEAVOR MEETING

ANNUAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT ELIZABETH, JUNE 2.

The Field Secretary of the United Society Will Be the Chief Speaker —The Programme in Detail.

Union county Christian Endeavorers are looking forward with much interest to the annual county convention to be held in the Third Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, June 2, both afternoon and evening.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Eberman, field secretary of the United Society, will be the principal speaker. He will come to New Jersey after a tour of nearly two months through the south and west, where he has been addressing large audiences and has been receiving an enthusiastic reception wherever he has spoken. F. H. Jacobs, the noted gospel singer, will also be present and add to the interest and power of the convention.

The schedule of meetings is as follows: At 4:30, conference and open parliament on Christian Endeavor methods conducted by Dr. Eberman; 4:15, Junior rally, in charge of the junior department of the Elizabeth Union, with an address by Rev. Dr. Eberman. Between 5:30 and 7 o'clock refreshments will be served to out of town delegates.

At 7 o'clock, annual business meeting of the Union; 7:45, grand rally, beginning with song service led by Mr. Jacobs, followed by addresses by Dr. Eberman and Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union. The convention will close with a short consecration service.

FRIENDS WALKED IN.

Appeared at Home of Miss Sadie M. Searing, When They Were Not Expected.

On returning to her home, May 21, Miss Sadie M. Searing, of Orchard place, found thirty friends awaiting her coming. She was taken greatly by surprise but only for a moment and was soon assisting in the merrymaking for which all had gathered.

Informal sociability reigned with music and games the features. The evening's enjoyment terminated at 11 o'clock when all were served with refreshments.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kurzhals, Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. George Townley, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Searing, Mrs. Theodore Martin, the Misses Dollie Bolsterli, Annie Martin, Anna A. Searing, Mabel Kenney, Dora Kennett, Margaret Lindsay, Emma Lindsay, Jennie Martin, Reta Galway, Ethel A. Searing, and Frank Bach, George Zimmer, Charles Zimmer, William Lindsay, William Letourette, Frank Egers, Charles Marsh, James Lindsay and James H. Searing.

DEACON CHOSEN.

B. R. Force Elected to Fill Unexpired Term of E. E. Anthony.

After the prayer-meeting at Trinity Reformed church May 21, the meeting resolved itself into a business session for the purpose of electing a deacon to fill the unexpired term of E. E. Anthony, who recently removed from the city. O. W. Dunham, was chosen chairman of the meeting and F. E. Smith secretary. There were two names presented for the office, B. R. Force and H. W. Marshall. Mr. Marshall declined the honor in favor of Mr. Force and the latter was unanimously chosen.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankestown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Another Change.

Effective May 18 on the new schedule of the New Jersey Central all trains on Tamaqua branch will run through coaches from Mauch Chunk to Pottsville, and parlor car, formerly running between New York and Tamaqua, will run through to Pottsville. c

Wants Others to Know.

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to indorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. L. W. Randolph.

Engagement Is Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Edwin C. Fancher, of Fanwood, and Miss Laura E. Hardgrove, of Somerville.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning June 2. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—The purpose of the coming—Matt. xviii, 11; John x. 10.

The mission of Jesus Christ on the earth was to seek and to save the lost. He Himself thus describes His mission when he says, "The Son of Man is come to save that which was lost." The mission of Christ on the earth is also the mission of the church. The church exists to carry out His mission and to do the work that He came to do. After His ascension He sent the Holy Ghost as His representative to guide the church in its important work. And under the direction of the Spirit the purpose of the church's existence is to seek and save the lost. Like the mission of Christ, it is not to kill and to destroy, but to give life, eternal life, and it more abundantly.

The mission of Christ being still the mission of His church and His people, we may well study His motives and methods in fulfilling His mission as our model and inspiration in continuing His work.

Christ was actuated in His mission by at least two great facts: (1) He realized the value of the soul. Had He not known that the soul was of infinite value, more valuable than all the world, He would have left heaven not to come to earth to die for it. But He realized the soul's value and hence was willing to do so. We also must have a realization of the value of the soul if we are to fulfill Christ's mission to our utmost ability. (2) Christ realized that the soul away from God in sin is lost. He sought it because He knew it was lost. The lostness of the soul must impress us before we will seek it that we may save it. The shepherd left the lost sheep not until he knew it was lost. How little today we realize the lost condition of the soul! We do not see sin as God sees it in its awful character and consequences or we would be on fire to seek and to save men from eternal death and to eternal life.

The methods of Christ in fulfilling His mission should be ours in continuing it. (1) Christ was prayerful in His work. He prayed to God for the safety of Peter and of others. So we must pray if we would be soul winners. (2) Christ was tactful in His mission work. He used judgment and intelligence in His times and ways of presenting the truth, and so we must be wise as serpents if we become successful fishers of men. (3) Christ was unconventional in His methods. (4) Christ ignored all class distinctions in seeking to save men. (5) Christ practiced self denial in fulfilling His mission. He died on the cross that He might give life, and give it more abundantly. Let us be willing to spend and be spent in continuing His mission on earth.

BIBLE READINGS.

Dan. xii, 1-3; Matt. iv, 17-20; Luke xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; Acts ii, 37-47; iii, 1-10; viii, 26-40; Rom. xi, 13, 14; I Cor. vii, 16; Jas. v, 20.

Our Naval Chaplains.

At the recent session of the New York Methodist preachers the Rev. E. G. Strobridge of Stamford, Conn., made the following statements concerning the treatment of the United States navy chaplains: "There are some who do not know that the office of chaplain has long since arrived when the people of this country and their lawmakers should know that the chaplains of the United States navy are the victims of an invidious discrimination as compared with the other officers of the service. This abuse relates to their support, their uniform and their general treatment. The pay of a chaplain is $2,800, with $100 ration money. This is his salary, however, only when he is at sea. When detailed for shore duty, his support is reduced to $2,300 and "waiting orders" is $1,500. Out of this insignificant and jealously curtailed salary the chaplain must pay an average of $200 per month mess bill, support the establishment of his family on shore and meet the expensive outlay necessary to his station on shipboard. This latter item is no fiction. The officers, as a rule, live high, and, although the chaplain may not live in like fashion and moderate in his habits, he is constantly taxed to contribute his share to meet the demands of his extravagant environment.

"Now, it is true that we treat our chaplains better than any other nation does, but, then, we treat all our officers better than other nations do, but not all our officers we treat the chaplains the worst. The mistakes, frailties and shortcomings of the chaplains simply loom up larger than in other officers. If these aberrations are more severely criticised in them than in any of their associates. Although an occasional chaplain in the history of the navy may have dishonored his office, the navy has, to a greater degree, in every other corps, and, at the same time, the chaplains have less encouragement in well doing than any other class of officers. The large majority of the chaplains, considering opportunity, would have been as faithful and efficient in their work as the representative ministers anywhere to be found, and the record of many of them is such as no Christian minister need be ashamed of. Such of them as have proved unworthy did not fail through so lg reason of their connection with the navy, but had shown themselves undeserving of confidence beforehand."

No Sin Shall Remain Unforgiven.

God will never forgive any sin—it remains unpardonable—as long as we continue unto ward, refractory; as long as we close up our minds and hearts to the powers which operate for good, the influences which spreads abroad in heaven and love. But no sin shall remain unforgiven when we in contrition humble ourselves before our Father and God.—Universalist.

BOROUGH HIGH WON GAME

BATTED THE LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL'S PITCHER ALL OVER THE FIELD.

Won Game by Score of 13 to 9 —Played a Very Clean and Snappy Game.

North Plainfield High School May 21 defeated Lincoln High School, of Westfield, by the score of 13 to 9.

The North Plainfield nine played winning ball from the start and always kept well in the lead of their opponents. Their batting and fielding were superior and they showed a marked improvement over other games this season. Stevens was in the box this time and he pitched a good steady game. Owen was between the catcher's lines. For the Lincoln Myer and Clark were the battery.

Following is the summary:

NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH.	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Woodland, 3b	6	2	5	1	0	0
Conover, ss	6	2	5	1	3	2
Emmons, 1b	5	2	0	5	0	0
Owens, c	5	1	3	9	0	0
Armstrong, lb	5	1	2	3	2	1
Humble, lf	5	2	3	1	0	0
Powers, cf	5	2	3	1	0	0
Stevens, p	5	0	2	0	1	1
Hegeman, rf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Ackor, rf	3	1	2	0	0	0
	46	13	30	27	6	3

LINCOLN HIGH.	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Gilmore, 3b	5	2	3	7	2	3
Myer, p	5	2	3	1	3	1
Cartlib, lf	5	2	2	2	0	0
Clark, cf	5	1	1	3	0	2
Adams, ss	5	0	0	1	2	2
Aanis, 2b	4	0	0	4	0	6
Dewey, cf	4	1	1	3	0	0
Ketcham, rf	4	0	2	0	0	0
Decker, lb	4	1	2	6	0	1
	41	9	14	27	7	14

Score by innings.

N.P.H.S.	1	0	2	0	1	2	3	1	3	—13
Lincoln	1	0	1	0	0	2	0	4	1	— 9

Bases stolen—North Plainfield, 16; Lincoln High, 6. Two-base hits—N. P., 2; L. H., 1. Double plays—Woodland to Conover. Bases on balls—Stevens, 0; Myer, 1. Struck out—By Stevens, 1; by Myer, 2. Umpire—Hamilton. Scorer—S. O. Bruce.

STOLE A PIANO.

That is What Richmond Authorities Claim McGlinchey Did There.

Continuing their investigations, the local police are daily learning more of the past history of John B. McGlinchey, at present awaiting trial at Elizabeth for flat robbing in this city. The last comes from Richmond, Va., where the authorities claim he performed the Hurculean task of stealing a piano and placing it in pawn. No explanation is given as to how he removed the instrument and as from McGlinchey's physical appearance he could not lift a hand organ, the fact remains a mystery.

MRS. HEGEMAN'S LUNCHEON.

Charming Affair at Her Home on Myrtle Avenue May 21.

A charming green and white luncheon was given May 21, by Mrs. Benjamin Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., at her home on Myrtle avenue. The house was prettily decorated for the event with daisies, dogwood and some of the season's choicest flowers. The following guests were present to enjoy the hospitality of the hostess: Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Miss Elizabeth Cock, Mrs. George Wharton Edwards and Mrs. John Doul Miller.

TOBIN GETS CONTRACT.

For Steam Heating in New Building for Reformatory.

Bids were opened Thursday for the domestic building of the New Jersey State reformatory at Rahway. The contract was awarded to Joseph Jewkes & Son, of Jersey City, as follows: Subdivision No. 1, general construction, $60,000; subdivision No. 2, general construction, $47,000; subdivision No. 3, iron work, $108,000.

George J. Tobin, of this city, was the lowest bidder on steam heating. His bid called for $11,951.

WHERE GRADUATES GO.

Plans of Graduate Nurses From the Hospital Training School.

Miss Nellie B. Smith, one of the trained nurses graduated from Muhlenberg Hospital Thursday night, is now taking a three months' course in New York, which will complete her entire course. Miss McGrath, another graduate, completed her course at Muhlenberg Hospital some time ago. She is now doing private nursing in Plainfield. Miss VanDampen, the third graduate, will also do private nursing in Plainfield.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

In Justice Mattison's court Thursday afternoon judgment was rendered in favor of Wm. and Peter Schlicker in two cases, one against Edward Mercier, the other against Edward Mercier and Sylvester B. Berliner.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 3. "The Purpose of His Coming." Text. Matt. xviii, 11; John x. 10.

"I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

The Scriptures ever represent man as lost. The purpose of Jesus in coming to earth was to seek and save the lost.

Our experience shows the correctness of the Bible view of the condition of men. None is exempt from sin. Everywhere men have been seeking for joy by every possible device. Bodies are diseased. Truth is unknown. Evil and enmity rule the soul. Life is strife and torment. Where is the power to deliver? Who shall show us the way out? Hope of a deliverer in human form has been our unlikely lot.

Whoever he be, whenever and wherever he appears his task must be appalling. He can expect little or no cooperation from those he comes to help. Because they have lost the true idea and ideal of life and all impulse and relish for the pure and gentle and are diseased in all their nature they will oppose him and resist his efforts to save them. Only as he can make the saved life more attractive than the lost one can there be any expectation that he can reach and lift them.

This is just what Jesus does. His miracles of healing were not intended merely to relieve for the time being the bodily sufferings of those whose diseases He cured. They were signs of His life giving power and purpose. Real health, abounding life, even of the physical nature, lies in the close contact and harmonious working of all the powers under God's divine guidance. Disease is always a sign of a break in the circuit, an imperfection which is unnecessary, a derangement of the machinery. It points to wrong in the man's position as related to God and His world. Healing calls attention to the intended condition of man in God's universe and of God's power to secure him and save him and restore him to that right position.

The teaching of Jesus restores the right direction to men's thoughts. His sayings are the miracle ideas of all ages. They are signs of the true philosophy of human and divine and co-operation. They give the clew to the mystery of existence and reveal the secret of success. God is more than maker of body and soul, more than preserver and judge and benefactor. He is Father. We are His offspring, hence like Him. Lost because we have willfully taken origin and nature by preferring the lower elements in our composition, lost because we have made spirit slave to the flesh! Jesus shows us the truth. He not only announces and teaches it, but becomes Truth, and we see in Him its full meaning. He is Son of Man really because He is Son of God, the first and only begotten and the first among many brethren.

More than healer of bodies and revelator of truth Jesus is to us. He saves by reaching the citadel of the soul. Men in slavery to sin can be saved only as they are set free in will to do the right. He shows obedience to the Father's will as the law of life. Experience by the things He suffered and was saved in that He feared. To every one who receives Him He gives the same power to become a son of God. He attracts to Himself as the most admirable of all men. He gives power to all who receive Him and makes them into His image.

Fishing In Many Waters.

For successful fishermen stay in one place waiting for fish to come to them. They move about, trying different places. Patience is not all of fishing, by any means. When Jesus said, "I will make you fishers of men," He meant more than "still fishers." He Himself "went about doing good." We lack spiritual enterprise. We wait for people to blunder upon us, and then, if we are not preoccupied or asleep, we try to be of service to them. Does not that account for empty baskets, for fruitless lives? We do not "go about" more, asking: "Whom can I help? Who needs sympathy, encouragement? Whom can I try to catch for my Master? Lord, where will Thou have me to go?" So in many an unpromising day shall we search for the kingdom and catch fish in unlikely places.—Maltbie D. Babcock.

Faith That is Worth the Name.

Faith that is worth being called by the name can turn its prayers into promises. The Lord in His promises of answer to prayer has taught us to expect the thing for which we ask. While our weakness leads us to offer many improper petitions, we do not always get the answer we expect, there should not be a failure to expect an answer when we take up the petitions our Lord has taught us to offer. It should not take the mighty faith of a Luther to enable us to say, "We will always get the thing we ask for," or "the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work."—United Presbyterian.

Christianity.

Christianity is not merely a collection of propositions whether ethical or religious, but, rather, the revelation of a Saviour in Jesus of Nazareth. Its power and value reside in Him, in what He was and is and in what He did and said and in what He is still doing. We can detach the platonic philosophy from Plato without harming it, but we cannot detach Christianity from Christ, since He Himself is the embodiment and essence of the whole system.—Independent.

As God Sees.

God sees everything as now. Nothing is past, nothing is future to Him. He sees things that have not as though they were and things that shall be as though they had been.—Spurgeon.

ANNUAL RECITAL OF MISS LUCKEY'S PUPILS

It Was Witnessed by Many Friends Who Filled the Casino Last Thursday.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

A ONE-ACT PLAY BROUGHT THE PROGRAMME TO A CLOSE.

Series of Delsarte Movements Given by the Pupils—A Number of Recitations Cleverly Presented—The Programme in Detail.

Encouraged by the admiring glances of a host of friends who completely filled the Casino, last Thursday, the pupils of Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey gave their annual recital. Delsartian attitudes, declamations and finally a one act play, formed the programme, throughout which the young women who took part acquitted themselves in a fashion most manner. It was highly enjoyed by the large audience and many favorable commens were passed on Miss Luckey's successful method of teaching.

A series of Delsarte movements arranged by Miss Luckey opened the programme with the following young women taking part: The Misses Muriel Collins, Florence Johnson, Caroline Lambert, Grace Stephenson and Beatie Stephenson. Twelve attitudes were given, all of which were interpreted in a most graceful manner. Miss Luckey was highly enjoyed by the large audience and many favorable commens were passed on Miss Luckey's successful method of teaching.

Later in the evening a Pantomimic procession on similar lines proved most interesting, giving an idea of the grace of motion acquired by means of physical culture.

Taking part in this number as processional maidens were the Misses Mabel Pound, Mabel Dewey, Laura Wilcox, Ursula Krewson, Beatie Van Arsdale, Beadie Martin, Edna Randolph and Ruth Bullock. Miss Ellen Vandervoort acted as primitive.

The declamations were all of a high order of merit and rendered with much expression and forcefulness. The titles and pupils reciting were as follows: "Edisha's Burglar," Miss Bessie Martin; "As the Moon Rose," Miss Ellen Vandervoort; "The School Ma'am's Courtin'," Miss Edna Randolph; "Birds of Killingsworth," Miss Ruth Bullock; "The Little Housekeeper," Miss Grace Stephenson; mondingus, "Rosalind's Sardeer," Miss Mabel Dewey; "Dorothy's Auction," Miss Caroline Lambert; "Fair Warning," Miss Louise Davis; "Dolly's Reception," Miss Beatie Stephenson; "Chappie Finglewig," Miss Maud Wilcox; "Jemima's Courtship," Miss Elizabeth Pound; "The Gossips," Miss Muriel Collins; "Isaacs," Miss Laura Plumer Wilcox; "When the Minister Comes to Tea," Miss Florence Johnson; "Swan and Gazelle," Miss Ursula Krewson; "Aunt Elmora's Hero," Miss Mabel Pound; "She Danced With Washington," Miss Marguerite Serrell. In one intermission a Carmen drill was given by the Misses Louise Davis, Mabel Dewey, Elizabeth Pound and Marguerite Serrell.

In conclusion five of the pupils gave a one act play, "The Chinese Dreamy," written by Marion Campbell. It abounded with humorous situations which caused much amusement. The characters were interpreted as follows: "Grace Harlow," Miss Dewey; "Miss Artemisia" and "Miss Ella Amelia," Miss Bullock and Miss Wilcox; "Beth Newson," Miss Krewson; "Kate Newson," Miss Randolph; and "Bridget," Miss Vandervoort. All the young women were encored at intervals and many bouquets of flowers were presented by admiring friends.

OF PLAINFIELD BOYS.

The New Boys' Secretary Will Take Special Charge at State Camp.

Kenneth Robbie, the newly appointed secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be in Plainfield July 1, and will take special charge of the Plainfield boys at the New Jersey State Y. M. C. A. boys' camp July 16 to 30. Although camp accommodation has been sufficiently increased to entertain seventy-five more than was originally intended, applications have been coming in so fast that the State secretary does not know what to do with them. The camp for two weeks in camp, including car fare to and from New York, will be $12.50.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Olive Irene Wikoff, of 817 Richmond street, to Walter E. Reinhart, of Cranford, is announced. The wedding will be celebrated Thursday, June 19, at the home of the bride.

On Staff of Princeton Paper.

Amos Brooks, of West Eighth street, a student at Princeton University, was recently selected to membership on the staff of The Bric-a-Brac, one of the most important publications at Princeton. It has

HIGH SCHOOL BEATEN IN THE LAST INNING

Plainfield High Met Its Match in Game With Rutgers Prep. School May 21.

PLAYED AT BRUNSWICK.

THE RUTGERS PREP. BOYS WON BY A SCORE OF 7 TO 6.

Score Was 5 to 1 in Favor of Rutgers at Start of Last Inning—Then High School Won and Lost the Game in That Inning.

The Plainfield High School team met its first defeat, May 21, since the initial game of the season. Rutgers Prep. School had the honor of doing the trick by the narrow margin of 7 to 6. The game was the most interesting and the most exciting yet played by the High School, since up to the last inning they almost succeeded in winning. The game was played on Neilson Field, New Brunswick.

At the beginning of the ninth the score stood five to one in favor of Rutgers. Plainfield came to the bat and pounded the hitherto almost invincible Hay all over the lot for a total of five runs. This left the score six to five in their favor, but the performance combination of score to the field in the last inning was highly enjoyed by the large audience and many favorable commens were passed on Miss Luckey's successful method of teaching.

Later in the evening a Pantomimic procession on similar lines proved most interesting, giving an idea of the grace of motion acquired by means of physical culture.

Taking part in this number as processional maidens were the Misses Mabel Pound, Mabel Dewey, Laura Wilcox, Ursula Krewson, Beatie Van Arsdale, Beadie Martin, Edna Randolph and Ruth Bullock. Miss Ellen Vandervoort acted as primitive.

The declamations were all of a high order of merit and rendered with much expression and forcefulness. The titles and pupils reciting were as follows: "Edisha's Burglar," Miss Bessie Martin; "As the Moon Rose," Miss Ellen Vandervoort; "The School Ma'am's Courtin'," Miss Edna Randolph; "Birds of Killingsworth," Miss Ruth Bullock; "The Little Housekeeper," Miss Grace Stephenson; mondingus, "Rosalind's Sardeer," Miss Mabel Dewey; "Dorothy's Auction," Miss Caroline Lambert; "Fair Warning," Miss Louise Davis; "Dolly's Reception," Miss Beatie Stephenson; "Chappie Finglewig," Miss Maud Wilcox; "Jemima's Courtship," Miss Elizabeth Pound; "The Gossips," Miss Muriel Collins; "Isaacs," Miss Laura Plumer Wilcox; "When the Minister Comes to Tea," Miss Florence Johnson; "Swan and Gazelle," Miss Ursula Krewson; "Aunt Elmora's Hero," Miss Mabel Pound; "She Danced With Washington," Miss Marguerite Serrell. In one intermission a Carmen drill was given by the Misses Louise Davis, Mabel Dewey, Elizabeth Pound and Marguerite Serrell.

In conclusion five of the pupils gave a one act play, "The Chinese Dreamy," written by Marion Campbell. It abounded with humorous situations which caused much amusement. The characters were interpreted as follows: "Grace Harlow," Miss Dewey; "Miss Artemisia" and "Miss Ella Amelia," Miss Bullock and Miss Wilcox; "Beth Newson," Miss Krewson; "Kate Newson," Miss Randolph; and "Bridget," Miss Vandervoort. All the young women were encored at intervals and many bouquets of flowers were presented by admiring friends.

OF PLAINFIELD BOYS.

The New Boys' Secretary Will Take Special Charge at State Camp.

Kenneth Robbie, the newly appointed secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be in Plainfield July 1, and will take special charge of the Plainfield boys at the New Jersey State Y. M. C. A. boys' camp July 16 to 30. Although camp accommodation has been sufficiently increased to entertain seventy-five more than was originally intended, applications have been coming in so fast that the State secretary does not know what to do with them. The camp for two weeks in camp, including car fare to and from New York, will be $12.50.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Olive Irene Wikoff, of 817 Richmond street, to Walter E. Reinhart, of Cranford, is announced. The wedding will be celebrated Thursday, June 19, at the home of the bride.

On Staff of Princeton Paper.

Amos Brooks, of West Eighth street, a student at Princeton University, was recently selected to membership on the staff of The Bric-a-Brac, one of the most important publications at Princeton. It has

PLAINFIELD HIGH.	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Thompson, lb	5	0	0	7	1	1
Dyer, 2b	4	1	0	1	3	2
Moynihan, c	5	1	3	12	0	0
Manaro, 3b	4	1	1	1	2	1
Craig, ss	5	1	1	0	0	0
Denton, cf	5	1	2	0	0	1
Walters, rf	5	1	1	1	0	0
VanAuken, p	5	0	1	1	5	0
Ulrich, lf	5	0	3	0	0	0
	43	6	12	27	11	5

RUTGERS PREP.	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Mitting, 2b	5	2	1	2	0	0
Cole, 3b	5	1	2	0	1	2
Green, lb	4	0	0	6	1	0
VanVechten, c	4	1	0	12	1	0
Hay, p	4	2	1	0	0	1
Bayley, ss	4	0	2	1	1	0
Devan, lf	4	0	0	2	0	0
Herbert, cf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Manske, rf	4	0	0	0	0	1
	38	7	6	27	3	3

Score by innings.

P. H. S.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	5	1	—6
Rutgers Prep	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	1	2	—7

Bases on balls—Hay, 4; VanAuken, 1. Hit by pitched ball—Manske. Struck out—By Hay, 16; by VanAuken, 13. Umpire—Cox. Scorers—R. H. Murphy and A. E. Moore.

JUNIOR FIELD DAY.

State Board of Officers Has Fixed August 14, at Asbury Park, for That Event.

A proclamation has been issued by the State board of officers, Junior Order United American Mechanics of New Jersey, designating Thursday, August 14, as field day in the State, and calling on all councils in the State to assemble at Asbury Park on that day. As yet it has not been definitely decided whether there will be a parade or a public meeting in the beach auditorium. It is said that indications point to the latter form of celebrating the day.

The board of officers will meet in the afternoon to confer with a committee from the State Council of New Jersey, Order United American Mechanics. The business before this joint committee will be the matter of consolidating the two orders as they exist in New Jersey. Both committees were appointed in October last and the subject has been discussed in many of the minor councils.

It is said that each order has complete confidence in its committee, and the conclusions of the joint committee are likely to be accepted without much discussion. As they exist today in this State, the O. U. A. M. has about 7,000 members and the Jr. O. U. A. M. reports 12,000.

To Teach in Private School.

Miss E. May Tennant, a teacher in the Bryant Public school, will leave her connection with the school at the end of the present term. Next fall she will be a member of the teaching corps at the Randolph-Clarke Collegiate School.

U. of V. Meeting.

John Hazel Camp, No. 91, U. of V., will hold a meeting Tuesday evening, June 6, and it is unanimously hoped that every member will be present. There are important matters needing attention and they will be considered

GRADUATION FOR NURSES

Exercises Were Held in the Chapel of Crescent Avenue Church Thursday.

THOSE WHO GRADUATED

Addresses Made by C. J. Fisk, President of Board of Governors, and Dr. F. C. Ard—About New Hospital—Ten Commandments for Nurses—Many Attended.

The annual graduation exercises for trained nurses who have completed their course were held last Thursday under the auspices of Muhlenberg Hospital in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. Like all previous events of a similar character there were a large attendance of friends of the hospital, including members of the Board of Governors and the Woman's Auxiliary. About the platform there was a pleasing arrangement of American flags and dogwood. On the platform sat Miss Young, matron at the hospital, her assistant, Miss White, and the pupil nurses as well as the three graduates, Miss Margaret McGrath, Miss Nellie B. Smith and Miss May VanCampen.

The exercises opened with a tenor solo by William A. Tallamy, accompanied by his sister, Miss Ida May Tallamy. This was followed with an address by Charles J. Fisk, president of the Board of Governors. Mr. Fisk infused considerable humor into his remarks, causing much laughter. He gave a brief history of the hospital and training school for nurses. He spoke of the training school being established in 1890 and up to date there have been eighteen graduates, all of whom are doing well. There are now eight pupil nurses in the school. He referred to the suffering and distress to which nurses are called and said that their path is not one of roses.

Referring to the hospital, which was established in 1877, he said that during the past thirteen years 3,449 cases were treated and there were 5,174 operations on indoor patients. The total number of outdoor patients treated was 3,774. During the past two years 461 cases were treated and 41 sex were 213 operations. During the past year there were forty-nine private patients, twice the number of the previous year.

Referring to the proposed new hospital, Mr. Fisk said that twelve acres of land had been purchased, the plans for the new building completed and now in the hands of the contractors for bids, and he hoped before long to see the building under way. He said that the capacity of the new building provides for fifty-six patients. He also mentioned the handsome gift of J. Howard Wright and said that Mr. Wright recently wrote him that he wants the scientific room, which he provides, made as complete as possible. The other money subscribed will be used for the administration building and wards.

Mr. Fisk said that a few days ago a friends of his offered $2,000 for the new hospital, and he told him that if he would make it $15,000 he might be able to use the money. Mr. Fisk thought the gift might yet be received for this time Mr. Fisk introduced Dr. F. C. Ard, who made an address to the graduates.

This address dwelt at some length upon the value of trained nurses and he expressed appreciation of what had already been accomplished at Muhlenberg and by the graduated nurses. He spoke of the importance of post-graduate work. He said that today nursing is not a charity, neither is it a trade. It is something higher. Of the 27,000 trained nurses today, 15,000 have graduated during the past five years from 600 training schools. Speaking of the local school he said that 25 per cent. of the graduates are either married or engaged.

In conclusion Dr. Ard gave the following Ten Commandments which someone has formulated as suggestions for the nurse in the sick room:

1. Thou shalt remove surplus furniture and make ample room for thy work.

2. Thou shalt maintain perfect ventilation without draughts.

3. Thou shalt keep the patient clean and quiet.

4. Thou shalt forsee the needs of thy patient.

5. Thou shalt restrict visiting, loud-talking and above all whispering in the sick room.

6. Thou shalt not ask the sick what he wants to eat; rather say "I have prepared something dainty and I want you to eat it."

7. Thou shalt not annoy the sick by telling thy troubles, and experiences and all thou knowest.

8. Thou shalt let in the sunshine and try to be sunbeam thyself.

9. Thou shalt have confidence in the attending physician.

10. Thou shalt remember that the tenth commandment is to mind thine own business, follow directions faithfully, cheerfully and promptly and the sick will arise and call thee blessed.

After a pleasing bass solo by Frederick J. Pope, accompanied by Vincent Sokol, Mr. Fisk presented the graduates with diplomas, followed by the presentation of the class pins by Charles E. Brooks, of the Board of Governors, who made a few happy remarks. This was accompanied with the presentation to each nurse of handsome bouquets of flowers from relatives and friends. This concluded the exercises and all adjourned to the room below where a reception was held and refreshments were served.

It was announced after the exercises that a friend of the hospital had very generously contributed $500 for its work and use

ALONG IN YEARS.

Couple Wedded Thursday Evening at a Borough Home.

A quiet home wedding was celebrated Thursday evening at 73 Grandview avenue, when Miss Emily Frances Jackson, daughter of Amos Jackson, and James M. Boice, formerly of Piscataway township, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. M. Rodman, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The groom is seventy-two years old and this is his third matrimonial ventures. The bride is forty years old. Mr. Boice has purchased a farm near Harlingen, Somerset county, and there he will take his bride to live. The groom is a brother of Squire Jacob Boice, of Harlingen.

Take Nurse's Place.

Miss Gwyne Evans, formerly nurse for the City Union of King's Daughters, has been secured to again take the position during the absence of Miss Virginia Anderson, the regular nurse, who will go to her home in Scotland during the month of June. She will be away three months. The City Union think they are fortunate in being able to get Miss Evans.

Hope's Strawberry Festival.

Arrangements have been completed by the Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, for the annual strawberry festival which is to be held on Friday evening, June 6. Some special talent has been engaged for an entertaining programme to be rendered during the disposal of the luscious berries.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Greveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly." L. W. Randolph.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

PERSEVERANCE'S OPEN NIGHT

LODGE ENTERTAINED FRIENDS WITH A PLEASING PROGRAMME.

Wide Variety of Selections Rendered by Members—Illustrated Songs Made a Hit.

Despite last Thursday's warmth, the rooms of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P. were filled last evening with members and their friends, it being "open" night. Always to the fore with plenty of good and welfare, the lodge officials had prepared an extra long programme for the benefit of their guests, making two hours entertainment.

Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon was in charge and did not allow the slightest relaxation in the fun. Under his supervision the following numbers were given: Vocal selections, Thomas Muir; banjo-mandolin and ocarina selections, Joseph Loughead; buck and wing dancing, Tony Lesardi and Orrie Bowers; illustrated songs, "Sing Me a Song of the Sunny South" and "I've a Longing In My Heart For You, Louise" by William N. Runyon, vocalist, and William Schorb, slide operator; selections by the Perseverance Jewsharp Orchestra, consisting of William N. Runyon, piano; Thomas Muir, solo; Asa Pope, Samuel Cousins, Jacob Bilimn, J. E. Flannery, and Frank Putnam, jewsharps; monologues by Frank Lisciardi; and a laughable sketch, "The Stupid Servant" by R. Collins Fisthbrook and M. Dexheimer Sweeney. All the numbers were encored but the illustrated songs and the sketch were especially pleasing and received vociferous applause.

Following the entertainment ice cream and cake were served by W. W. Warnock and during their disposal, several selections were given by Chancellor Commander Runyon and phonograph selections under the direction of W. W. Warnock and Thomas Muir.

The affair was given under the lodge auspices and a special committee was in charge.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA.

Lewis A. Dunn, Former Plainfielder, Passed Away After Long Illness.

Lewis A. Dunn, formerly of this city, died in Pasadena, Cal., yesterday morning, the sad news being received through a telegram. He leaves a wife and two sons to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. Mr. Dunn had been in poor health for some time.

He was sixty-one years old Thursday and was a veteran of the Civil War, returning at the close of the war as a lieutenant. He was the son of the late Theodore Dunn, who lived in East Front street, where the Pavilion & Jones building now stands. For many years he was at the head of the firm of Dunn & Case, and later Dunn Bros., successful news agents on the New Jersey Central, until underbid by the present Union News Company. Mr. Dunn was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of this city.

More Phones.

A number of special men in the employ of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company are in Plainfield looking for new business.

GOOD REASONS FOR THE UNION

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

this borough to justify a course in public affairs that would sacrifice one dollar of the people's money to gratify the pride of the rich or to add one plant to his flower garden. Let us reason together.

"This movement is in all respects a progressive one. It follows the march of progress which is going on in every State in the union. A little farming cluster of people, situated on favorable lines of transportation, or with natural advantages of location or rich in mineral wealth, grows into a village, a village finds a township, a township into a borough, and a borough into a city. One follows the other as prosperity and population increase. There is always some well defined influential reason for growth. Sometimes it is in shipping, again in manufacturing, or mining. Perhaps it is in one case because of a salubrious soil and climate. But whatever the reason may be, there are inevitably certain plain conditions that accompany growth and prosperity. Stores, banks, postoffices, business blocks grow and aid in making up a city. What have we of this kind in the borough, and what does the future promise us? A railway station? Yes, by the grace of Plainfield. A postoffice? Yes, through Plainfield banks. Offices and stores? Yes, by the will of Plainfield. Factories where labor may get employment and which pay cash into the town and give it life, yes, by your leave, O Plainfield! Build a wall along Green brook and try to make this borough truly independent and the place would stagnate and decay. We are as much a part of Plainfield and as dependent upon it as your right arm is apart of your body. As slow as our growth has been it cannot be denied that the city is responsible for this growth. Without Plainfield the borough would have no more life than Fanwood or Dunellen. Now, is not this plain? If not, I will quote the chairman of the Anti-Progressionists meeting. 'We contribute to the prosperity of Plainfield; we patronize the merchants and their well ordered bazaars; we contribute to their public and benevolent institutions; we participate in the benefits of their churches, and in every sense of the word, we are a homogeneous community—a part of Plainfield.' This is good sound consolidation argument, and when I listened to it I almost expected to see the worthy chairman flop over to our side, but he put forth these reasons for not following the logical issue. Here is his excuse. 'In the first place it is not necessary. In the second place it is not wise.' Let us see if it is necessary or wise. This is a matter of dollars and cents to some of us."

At this point Mr. Saunders introduced his diagrams already referred to. After fully explaining their import, he continued:

"Now, this plainly unnatural condition of things can go on if we want to pay for it. In the words of Mr. McCutchen it is not necessary that we consolidate even in the face of these figures. What does it matter to wealthy Mr. McCutchen whether he pays a few hundred dollars a year more to keep up this environment? but let us not forget the wage earner who builds his little home out of his yearly savings, and to whom an increase in taxes of even five dollars a year means that sum taken, not from the luxuries, but perhaps from the necessities of life.

"We are told that we may lose our identity, our independence. Lose something that we haven't got! Where is our civic pride? Men at one time absolutely opposed consolidation, and tried to work up some spirit in this town. They wanted a postoffice over here, they put signs up at the brook and electric lights too, so that people would not stumble over the county line, I suppose. They even tried to change the name of the town so as to get away from this Plainfield mustard plaster at our side. People were told to deal only at the borough stores, and how did all this work? Like the automobile it was a go until it broke down. Nature was against these good people and nature is always right. There is one sure and only way to make this borough independent, and that is to pick it up and plant it there over the mountain. So long as we leave it where it is, it will steadily and surely gravitate towards Plainfield. You can keep it where it is if you are willing to pay the bills. It costs money to fight against nature. Take the other horn of this dilemma if you will and keep taxes down by building still and our future will be in the sweet embrace of innocuous desuetude.

"It was not necessary for us to build railroads, for we might jog along in the old stage coaches and be happy. It was not necessary to replace the horse car by the quick moving trolley. It was not necessary to light up the world by electricity, for the old candle was more aesthetic, and besides the poor thing is an inheritance from our forefathers, and like dear and ancient Somerset county, we should have an affection for it! Picture these 'Antis' in lachrymonious embrace over poor old mother Somerset and a tallow candle! Finally, it was not necessary to organize this borough out of a township. 'Let well enough alone' is the cry of those who would put brakes on the wheels of progress; but my friends if you will thrust your robe of contentment to the ground, and look at the plain facts and figures which I have presented, you must realize that a better cry than 'Let well enough alone' is one that has come down to us as a truth of Holy Writ: 'Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall.'

"I have quoted the consolidation argument of the president of the recent Anti-Progressionists meeting, and now let us see what some of the vice presidents have said. Those vice presidents were strange bed-fellows. They were the lions, the tigers and the lambs, all together in peace and harmony. It reminded me of a circus story. A visitor came to a cage where there was a lion, a tiger and a lamb.

He had never seen such a thing before, and calling to the keeper he asked if they were real? 'Oh! yes, was the reply.' 'Well, have they been together like that in one cage all the time?' 'Yes.' 'How long?' 'Oh! a few weeks; but,' he added, 'We have had to renew the lamb several times.' I fear that our friends in the opposition will have to watch their flock, for some of them give us good consolidation arguments. Here is what one of them said a few years ago.

" 'Among the valued opinions which The Daily Press has already published regarding borough and city annexation, the following from Rev. W. E. Honeyman, Secretary of the Board of Health, will be read by many with a great deal of interest. Mr. Honeyman spoke in part as follows: 'Two governments in places so nearly joined as the city and borough do not offer the best possible advantages that are to be obtained from a single government. In the first place there are difficulties existing between the two Boards of Health, which would be obviated if we were one city, and then there is the saloons. In the borough they can keep open all night, while in the city they are forced to close at eleven o'clock at night. Under one government these institutions would be managed far better. As it is now, after eleven o'clock in the evening, the borough is a receptacle for an undesirable class of people who make the night hideous. In a great many respects our interests are one.'

"Another vice president was Dr. Carroll, who signed the consolidation call in 1896 and who was one of the joint committee of the Board of Trade. In 1896 Mr. Carroll said to me: 'Every fair minded man must admit that these two places ought to be one, but I do not expect to live to see it brought about, because you cannot get the politicians to give you the necessary legislation.' My reply was that the politicians might postpone a good measure like this, but they could not kill it, and I expect to live to see them in line with us. We have them now almost to a man. If consolidation was a good thing a few years ago, without the politicians, why is it not equally good now? The politicians are the workers as distinguished from the drones in the bee hive of industry. They are the practical men who do things, and so long as they are honest they should be blessed. There have been many groundless charges and innuendos made against this movement, but none is so false as that there is a political scheme in it. I have been in it up to my ears from the beginning. My eyes and ears have been wide open all the time, and I tell you that if there is a scheme in this, I should be carried to Dr. Cooley's sanitarium, for I don't know it. No, the charge is absurd, there is no scheme in it either to benefit the politicians or the water company.

"Charles McCutchen in his speech to the governor intimated that the Plainfield Water Company was behind those bills, and Mr. Honeyman in his address at the opposition meeting did the same thing, and said that Plainfield has agreed upon a ten year contract with the water company. I have taken the trouble to look into this, and I find that Plainfield's contract with the water company expires in less than one year. I find also that this water company is operated under an old State Charter granted in 1889. This Charter gives the right to lay pipes and supply water to 'The village of Plainfield and adjoining towns.' I am not interested in this water company, but as its president, an able lawyer, drew these bills at my request, I know that the water company has no direct or indirect interest in this matter, and I ask and expect that my friends in the opposition will take my word for it. 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.'

"I have prepared a little pamphlet called 'Thirty Reasons for Annexation and Consolidation.' I will not read them but as copies of the pamphlet will be distributed at the door as you go out, I trust that you will take it home with you. An effort is made to point out the practical reasons why this community which is one in interest, should be one in fact and law. This movement is a progressive one, in line with the spirit of the times. The man who is satisfied to let this borough remain as a small rural town has no place in our ranks. You cannot stay the march of progress, and I feel that in this gallant fight now going on against us, the ultimate result must be like that which befell the Indian who loosed the locomotive cut went. When the engineer saw him whirled through space at the rate of fifty miles an hour, fast to his own lasso, he rested his head upon his hand watching from the window said: 'Indian, I admire your pluck, but damn your judgment.' "

LITERARY.

The Forum Publishing Company has announced that beginning with July, "The Forum" will be published quarterly instead of monthly. The general character of the magazine will be the same, but its purpose will be more specifically that of a review and criticism. The busy man may, under the new arrangements, keep in touch with all the important questions of the day by reading at his leisure.

The Popular Science Monthly for June opens with a symposium on four modern sciences, statistics, political economy, psychology and sociology, written by those who are among the leaders in the recent development of these sciences, the Hon. Carroll D. Wright and Professors Roland P. Falkner, E. A. Pace and Lester F. Ward. Professor A. C. Scott contributes an elaborately illustrated article explaining how microscopic objects can be shown with the stereopticon. M. O. Leighton gives curious statistics showing the commercial value of human life as determined by suits for damages. The number contains articles on instinct by Douglas A. Spalding, on sugar and the sugar best by Dr. John Waddell, on the physicist, Tait, by C. K. Edmunds and on the American University by Professor Cattell, the editor. The causes of volcanic eruptions and other timely topics are discussed in the shorter contributions.

Scribner's Magazine for June shows, in a striking manner, both the progress of the times due to the latest advances in knowledge and a wealth of original literary material—notably the two great serials by the leading American writers, Richard Harding Davis and F. Hopkinson Smith. These two stories, which mark the highest work in the achievement of each writer, are entirely different in scope and treatment. One is a story of adventure and the other is a romance of artist-life in New York. "The New Agriculture," by W. S. Harwood, is what the author calls glimpses into "the pages of a book of magic." Another erroneous idea is exploded in "The Gulf Stream Myth and the Anti-Cyclone," by Harvey Maitland Watts, who has become recently an acknowledged authority on the subject of the weather. The last of Mr. Connolly's sketches of modern fishermen at work describes his experiences "On a Baltic Sea Sloop." Burne illustrates it from sketches made at the time. These sailor articles have put Mr. Connolly in the first rank of writers about the sea. Mrs. Wharton (whose novel "The Valley of Decision" is the success of the season), contributes a classical poem, "Artemis to Actaeon," which is strong in conception and beautiful in the melody of its verse. There are three illustrated short stories: "The Day that Shall Declare It," by Jeanette Lee, is a story turning on a picture by Durer, which is identified by a modern scientific invention. The tale back of it is an interesting love story. "The Last Days of Pompeii," by Guy Wetmore Carryl, is a story of French army life, illustrated by a new man, W. Sherman Potts. Miss Juliet Wilbor Tompkins has a charming bit of sentiment, "A Window Drama." Illustration by C. Allan Gilbert. American bronzes are discussed by Russell Sturgis in the Field of Art, with illustrations of some notable recent bronzes.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. L. W. Randolph.

Mrs. Bird, of West Second street, has returned from New York State, where she was called by the illness of a relative.

FAMOUS FIRE HORSE ENDS ACTIVE CAREER

"Harry," One of Feiring's Grey Team, Incapacitated From Service by a Lame Foot.

IS SOON TO BE SOLD.

IN A BACK STALL HE VAINLY PLUNGES TO BE RELEASED WHEN GONG RINGS.

One of the Pets of Plainfield's Fire Department Can No Longer Serve the City—Injured in Long Run—Was Known All Over State.

Greatly to the regret of every member of the local fire department and particularly those attached to No. 2 hose company, the Constitutionalist fire committee has decided to dispose of "Harry," one of the team of grey horses which have been the especial pride and pets of George Feiring for many years. A lame foot secured in answering the alarm for the Eighth Row fire has incapacitated the horse for duty and it is feared he will never again be able to run before the apparatus. So despite his marvelous intelligence he has been relegated to a back stall and must remain equine will-o'-the-wisp beneath his harness as soon as a purchaser can be found, "Harry" will quit the department forever.

This particular team, of which "Jerry" is the other member, is known to every resident of Plainfield and to many firemen throughout the State. They originally pulled the chemical engine and never failed to attract attention by the proud manner in which they did their duty and obeyed implicitly Driver Feiring's voice. For five years he spent four hours daily in teaching them tricks which never failed to excite wonderment. When permission was granted by the Council in 1898 to take a team and piece of apparatus to the Labor Day celebration in Bayonne, "Harry" and "Jerry" with their teacher were selected. It is needless to say their returned with one of the prizes for looks and exhibition work. It was a triumph for Driver Feiring as he had to compete with men and horses coming from a radius of fifty miles about the Metropolis.

None of the firemen and many of the spectators have ever forgotten "Harry's" conduct one day last summer when he was foiled to the ground by an accident at Plainfield avenue and Fourth street. In avoiding a collision with Chief Deane's rig the hose wagon struck a trolley pole and "Harry" fell as if dead. The vehicle was backed from him and after a few moments he recovered from a daze and struggling to his feet, bounded to the side of his mate as if anxious to continue the run. It was an example of knowing never shown by any other horse in the department.

Since his retirement from duty, "Harry" has made strenuous efforts to leave his stall every time the hose gong has sounded an alarm. At times it was feared he would break out and for several hours afterward he would refuse to be quieted. His mate has also acted strangely but never in any way to interfere with his work and it is thought he will shortly get used to his new companion. But it is different with the firemen as it is doubtful if a more perfectly matched or better trained team will take their places in the local house.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Watsborro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

Le Roe Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full as mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,

4 30 caw 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1902. NO. 23

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

HORSES MADE FLYING TRIPS ABOUT TOWN

Lively Runaways Did Some Damage But Nobody Was Very Seriously Injured.

SEVERAL RUN DOWN.

THRILLING RIDE OF MISS CORA SCHORB BEHIND ONE RUNAWAY HORSE.

Two of the Runaways Occurred on Somerset Street Last Tuesday—Futile Attempts to Stop Them—Other on Watchung Avenue.

Somerset street was a scene of many somersaults last Tuesday. Two brisk runaways furnished plenty of excitement for the passing throng and incidentally some hard knocks for amateur lassoers of maddened horseflesh.

About 8 o'clock a pair of high strung equines, hitched to a large wagon in the service of the Plainfield Bottling Company, took fright at the corner of West Front and Somerset streets and dashed down the latter thoroughfare at a pace that would make the whizzing chariot horse look like an aged nag on its way to the boneyard.

Several men and boys made futile attempts to catch the flying animals. An agile individual grabbed one horse by the halter, but its mate put on extra speed and the man was thrown clean under the horse's hind hoofs beneath the wagon, but managed to escape the wheels on either side of him. But for his good fortune he might now be resting uncomfortably in Muhlenberg hospital.

After two or three more people had been knocked down the team was finally captured in front of the High School. When the harness had been fixed up and the horses' heads turned towards the city again, they made another bold dash for liberty, but were quickly subdued. Ultimately it was necessary to unloosen them from the vehicle and lead them back to the stables by the halter.

About an hour earlier in the evening a horse belonging to John Schorb, attached to a wagon in which was seated Miss Cora Schorb, dashed out of the yard on Somerset street and started pell mell down the street. Miss Schorb held on to the reins for dear life but could not control the beast. A pedestrian ran into the roadway at the corner of Manning avenue and tried to stop the runaway. He was rudely hurled to earth and the horse sped along Manning to Norwood avenue, thence to Mountain avenue, back to Somerset street and galloped direct to the stable without breaking a spoke, all before the spectators had time to realize that anything had happened.

Then Miss Schrob stepped down and out of the wagon, suffering slightly from nervous shock, but otherwise none the worse for her exciting experience.

Watchung avenue also boasted an equine escape Tuesday afternoon. Frightened by the sudden clanging of a trolley car gang, a horse owned and driven by George Skellenger, of Warrenville, became frightened and ran away.

The fractious animal gave a leap that hurled Skellenger from his seat and, unretained, dashed into West Second street. It was galloping toward Park avenue when, at great risk to himself, Harry Bush, of fire headquarters, sprang out and grasped it by the bridle. After a sharp struggle he brought the frightened animal around and held it until the much bruised owner appeared. There was no damage to speak of.

STAKED OUT HOSPITAL.

Building Committee Fixed on the Exact Location for the New Hospital Buildings.

The building committee from the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, of which Charles J. Fisk is the president, visited the site for the new hospital Tuesday afternoon and staked off the position for the new building.

The building will stand 175 feet back of Randolph road and about 250 feet back from a line on Park avenue, which places it nearly in the centre of the property. The land is rather peculiar in shape especially on the Park avenue side, hence the greater number of feet between Park avenue and the place for the building. The committee gave the engineer necessary instructions in accordance with the stakes.

Mrs. Andrew Love, Sr., lies very ill at her home on Duer street.

DAY OF JUDGMENT.

Proved Only to be Cross of Two Heavily Charged Wires.

Tuesday afternoon the workmen in the Pond Tool Works thought the day of judgment had come. A large heavily charged electric wire carrying the current that runs the big crane fell on another wire, also heavily charged, and immediately there was an electrical display that would outrival any combination of Fourth of July pyrotechnics. Every flash was accompanied by a crackle, a burning sizz and an explosion. Some one thoughtfully inserted a large piece of greasy waste between the wires and ended the excitement.

ALL DOGS MUST BE MUZZLED

SIX REPUTABLE CITIZENS IN CITY COURT FOR NOT DOING SO

Judge Runyon Held That Unmuzzled Dogs With Masters Were Technically Roaming at Large.

Unmuzzled dogs following their masters along the streets, technically speaking, are running at large ruled City Judge W. N. Runyon, yesterday, when six reputable citizens were arraigned before him charged with violating the ordinance relating to canines roaming at will without the necessary safeguard.

The defendants were the first to fall into the police drag-net which was set for this purpose, yesterday morning. They were Voorhees Laing, Patrick Casey and Trondlon Henri, of this city, John Bauermeister, of Warrenville, Goldson Smalley, of Dunellen, and Nestor Rappleye, of the borough. Most of the excuses were to the effect that the dogs belonged to the family and followed them to town, which they allowed them to do, thinking it did not constitute a violation of the law. In Mr. Rappleye's case, he stated that he had complied with all requirements of the law in the borough, where no muzzle is necessary, and when he brought his dog in the city he was unaware he was breaking an ordinance.

In rendering his opinion, City Judge Runyon observed that an unmuzzled and unrestrained dog, following his master, is just as liable to bite a person as a homeless mongrel. Whether the person in charge of the dog is the owner makes no difference as the ordinance specifies that a person who harbors one is liable. Accordingly he adjudged all guilty but suspended sentence with the admonition that the publicity of the matter would bear more weight than the infliction of a fine.

Chief Kiely states that the ordinance will be upheld to the latter and that in the future he will bring every influence to have imposed the $10 fine mentioned in it.

TO REPAIR BRIDGE.

The Somerset County Freeholders Looked Over Damage by Storm.

Somerville, June 4—Monday the Somerset county Board of Freeholders met at the west bridge in Hillsborough township and decided to build new abutments and wingwalls and straighten up the present covered structure. Bids for necessary will be received at the Court House here Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The committee appointed is composed of E. B. and R. W. Hoagland, Gibson, Cruser and Logan.

A concrete apron will be built on the east side of the wall now in course of construction on the causeway of the river bridge below Somerville. This is the structure that was damaged so badly by the storms last winter.

The board met today with the Hunterdon county Freeholders at the line bridge at Riverside. The regular meeting will be held at Court House here Tuesday.

FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Hope Y. M. A. Begins to Make Arrangements for Its Big Time.

At the regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held last Tuesday, the membership list was increased by the addition of seven new names. A change in the constitution was proposed by G. E. Firsbrook.

The committees having in charge the arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration reported progress and some alterations were made in their membership. Thomas Muir was made chairman of the entertainment committee in place of George B. Cook, resigned, and George McCombe was added to the athletic committee. A meeting of all the committees will be held Monday evening when plans will be fully matured.

Mrs. J. A. Powlison, of the borough, has recovered from her recent illness.

MONTH OF MAY WAS VERY COLD AND DRY

In Two Ways, Last Month Broke Records of Weather Observers for Many Years.

FIGURES FROM NEWARK.

FURNISHED BY THE OFFICIAL WEATHER OBSERVER OF THAT CITY.

Average Temperature Last Month Was 56.8 Degrees—May, 1901, Was Next Coldest—The Hottest and the Coldest Days.

There were some pretty warm days and some pretty cold ones last month, but the warm days were few and far between. The month will stand on record as one of the coldest Mays ever experienced in this locality. Figures furnished by the official weather observer at Newark, show that the average temperature for the month is lower than that of any May since 1892, when the Newark weather bureau was established.

The average temperature last month was 56.8 degrees. The next lowest in the last eleven years was in May, 1901, when the temperature averaged 57.2 degrees. Only once besides those two months did the average for May during that period fall below 60 degrees. The highest was 66.8, which was the average for May, 1896. The total average for the ten Mays preceding this year was 60.9, or more than four degrees higher than last month. Records have been kept by amateur observers since 1845. The average temperature for May from then until 1892 was 59.2 degrees.

The hottest day last month was Friday before last, when the thermometer registered 91 degrees. The heat on that day was felt severely because of the exceptionally cool weather that preceded it. The highest point reached by the temperature in the last eleven Mays was 97 degrees, on May 31, 1895.

The records also show 94 degrees in May, 1896, and 93 degrees in May, 1900.

The coldest day last month was May 10, when the thermometer stood at 37 degrees. The mercury came within two degrees of that mark last Thursday. It was down to 34 degrees on May 10, 1900, which was the coldest May day since the bureau was established. The coldest one in the preceding half century was in 1861, when the temperature was as low as 31 degrees.

There were flurries of snow through the northern part of the State last week. Such a thing is unusual, although it is likely to happen during almost any month of the year. If the atmosphere contains a great deal of moisture a particularly cold current of air will cause snow to fall, although it is likely to melt before it reaches the ground. A genuine snow storm in May is rare, but they sometimes occur. One happened ninety years ago. The Newark Sentinel of Freedom printed on May 5, 1831, the following paragraph:

"Snow—We mention it as a circumstance uncommonly rare that yesterday noon the gardens and fields were covered with snow. The snow commenced falling in the morning and continued at 3 o'clock p. m. Had the weather been as cold as to prevent the snow's melting as it fell (in part), it would probably have been five inches deep. Some kinds of vegetation, and peach trees in particular (which are in blossom), will be materially injured if it should blow off freezing cold."

Other snowstorms have occurred in May since then, but probably none that was more severe.

May this year was an exceptionally dry one. During the first twenty-nine days only 1.54 inches of rain fell, whereas the precipitation in May, 1901, was 5.96 inches. The rainfall during the Mays for four years previous to that was: 1900, 4.62 inches; 1899, 1.63 inches; 1898, 6.66 inches; 1897, 5.56 inches.

Temperance Meeting.

The temperance committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church has arranged to have Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, a well-known member of the Y. W. C. T. U., speak at the meeting of the society Friday evening at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Summer Schedule.

The summer schedule for the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school will begin Sunday, when the sessions will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, instead of 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

FOUR BROKE OUT OF JAIL

General Jail Delivery at the County Jail at Somerville Early Yesterday.

ALL OF ONE GANG OUT.

Four Who Escaped Were Members of Gang Which Assaulted Mr. Huff—How They Managed to Force Their Way—Help From Outside—One Remained.

Somerville, June 4—A clever and successful attempt to break jail was effected this morning at 2 o'clock, when four of the five men in the gang which gagged and robbed M. V. Huff along the Raritan river three weeks ago, got out of the jail and escaped. The men were John Dolan, George Wilson, James Kelley and Charles Miller. The fifth member of the gang, Daniel Rose, was about to leave the jail by a window, when he became frightened at the approach of officers and he returned to his cell and pretended to be asleep.

The men were placed in separate cells last evening as 8 o'clock and locked up for the night. The means of escape is considered to be one of the most clever on record. The man in the first cell took two broom handles and lashed them together with the wire from a broom. Through the use of this instrument he succeeded in pushing the lever down which unlocked the entire row of cells.

The four men then went to the north window on the east side of the jail and succeeded in sawing the iron bars. In the meantime friends on the outside cut the wire grating which allowed the men plenty of room for escape. While the men were leaving the jail, Officer Holmes, who was on that beat, heard a peculiar whistle in the vicinity of the jail. He reached the latter place just as the men were making their way across a cornfield. He gave chase and shot at them several times. It is is his belief that he hit one or two of the escaping men, but they got away and up to the present time their whereabouts is unknown.

Officer Holmes then returned and found Rose, the remaining prisoner, in his cell. He pretended to be asleep and claimed that he did not know of the escape of the other men. Every effort will be made to capture the four prisoners and their description has been sent to all nearby places. The gang is considered to be one of the most desperate in this section of the State.

STATE GOLF TOURNEY.

Will be Played on the Course of the Montclair Golf Club This Week.

A delegation of local golfers is preparing to spend part of the present week at Montclair. Today Friday and Saturday the third annual championship of the State will be decided and there is a general desire on the part of nearly all the nearby experts to make a good showing.

Entries close for this tournament with H. H. Spies, box 285, Montclair, and it may also be added that only resident golfers of New Jersey will be eligible to compete.

Taking present form as a criterion, there is every reason for the belief that Allan Kennaday, the State champion, stands an excellent chance of retaining his title. Saturday he made the circuit of the course, which now covers a playing distance of 6,045 yards, in 75, and Monday cut these figures a stroke. Last year Professional Jack Park played the course in 76, but it was nearly 300 yards shorter than at present.

Y. M. C. A. Tennis Court.

A neat and attractive tennis court has been laid out under the direction of Physical Director Heywood at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building on Watchung avenue. The grounds are for the use of members of the association.

To Decorate Graves.

Next Sunday the Odd Fellows will observe their annual decoration day. Wreaths will be placed on the graves of departed brethren.

Miss Maxson's Recital.

Miss Mabel Maxson, of East Front street, has fixed Tuesday, June 10, as the date for the annual recital for her pupils.

SUMMER BOOM BEGUN AT SHORE RESORTS

The Crowds Began to Hasten Oceanward With Decoration Day and Opening of June.

HOTELS ARE OPENING.

MERCHANTS AND ATTRACTIONS ARE BEGINNING TO FEEL THE RUSH.

Bath Houses May Open Next Week—Talk of College Men for Waiters—New Clubhouse, to Cost $125,000, for Allenhurst—Golfat Deal.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, June 4—Decoration Day brought thousands of visitors to Asbury Park and the neighboring coast resorts. While most of these were cottage hunters, and others in search of permanent quarters for the summer, there was a large contingent that helped to fill the hotels in Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, which are now open.

The temperature of the ocean is quite warm and there is some talk of opening at least one of the bathing groups by the tenth of June. The effect of the influx has been observed on the boardwalk, where many strange faces are seen. The Coleman House bowling alleys, which were opened last week, are crowded every night, and already several high scores have been made in the trophy tournament. The Empire swimming pool opened last week, and is again a centre of attraction.

On Kingsley street, in the hotel district, the rapid increase of the season is most noted. The storekeepers, bric-a-brac men and Japanese auction rooms are doing business at the old stands, with the evident determination of forcing the season in this district.

On Wesley Lake boating parties are numerous, and a similar condition is observed at Deal, where Commodore J. E. Wortman's motor launch fleet is now being prepared for the summer excursion season. Several additional hotels were opened Sunday, and every boarding house in Asbury Park is now prepared to receive guests.

A novel innovation in Asbury Park this summer is the introduction of college students as waiters. Several of the most progressive hotel proprietors, who have tried French waiters, colored waiters and pure American attendants, and found each and all wanting in proper attention, have decided to introduce the college young men as a feature of the dining room service. This system, they claim, has proved eminently satisfactory in many of the New England summer resorts and in the Adirondacks.

Last fall Mrs. J. K. Dodman, proprietor of the Madison, on Sunset avenue, requested the president of a certain college to inform his students that she intended to employ student help this year. She was soon overwhelmed with applications. This question is an important one, and will be discussed at the next meeting of the hotel proprietors' association. Whether college bred waiters will be acceptable to paterfamilias with susceptible daughters remains to be seen.

Little Allenhurst is highly elated over the coming building on the site of the burned inn of a new and elegant clubhouse, which will cost $125,000. Work on this magnificent new structure will begin on the first of July. The clubhouse, while it will not be so large and imposing as the burned inn, will nevertheless be all that is required for the social functions of Allenhurst for some years to come.

At Deal the golf links are growing in popularity. The clubhouse has been thoroughly renovated throughout, and a full schedule of entertainments will be introduced early in June.

Little Ones to Sing.

The children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, except those in the kindergarten, are to sing in the choir Sunday at the Children's Day exercises, and parents are requested to see that they are at the church at 10 o'clock in the morning. Parents will have an opportunity that day to present their children for baptism.

To Entertain Little Ones.

The children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, including those on the cradle roll, are invited to spend next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Murray, 203 West Ninth street. If the day is rainy the gathering will be held the following Saturday.

MISSION SOCIETY ELECTS.

Officers Elected and Reports for the Year Were Received.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Freeman, of South avenue, when the annual reports were received and officers elected for the coming year. It was reported that the society had raised and expended for foreign missions during the year about $100.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Walter Freeman; vice president, Mrs. Levering; secretary, Mrs. David M. Runyon; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Doane.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

WILL BE HELD IN VINCENT CHAPEL THIS AFTERNOON AND NIGHT.

Arranged by the Methodist Sunday-Schools—Several Important Speakers to be There.

Among the speakers at the Sunday-school convention, to be held in the First Methodist church this afternoon and evening, will be Rev. Drs. T. B. Neely, Chas. Roads, G. C. Wilding, H. M. Simpson, Anderson and Earp. W. D. Murray and James R. Joy will also discuss topics in the afternoon.

The convention, which will be composed of representatives of twenty Methodist Sunday-schools, will meet in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Methods of work will be considered at the afternoon session.

Rev. Dr. Chas. Roads, the first secretary of the Sunday-school Union, and one of the foremost among Sunday-school workers, will open the discussion with an address on "Better Teaching and How to Get It." W. D. Murray will relate experiences concerning usefulness of the cradle roll. J. R. Joy will speak on "The Beginners Class." Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding will talk on the subject of attendance. Rev. Dr. John Krantz will discuss Sunday school literature.

In the evening, the address by Rev. Dr. T. B. Neely will be replete with instruction. Dr. Neely is editor of the Sunday-school Journal with a circulation of considerably over 100,000 and is exceedingly well qualified to talk on Sunday-school topics. The evening session will begin at 7:45 with a song service conducted by Walter M. McGee, superintendent of the Monroe Avenue Sunday-school.

While conducted under the auspices of the Methodist church the institute is not in any strict sense denominational and Sunday-school workers of all denominations will be gladly welcomed to the meetings.

NEW INSTRUCTOR.

Change to be Made in Faculty of Borough High School.

A. P. D. Tobien, teacher of science and mathematics in the North Plainfield High School, will next year hold a professorship teaching the same subjects in Somerville High School. His place in North Plainfield institution will be taken by Mr. Clark who will be graduated this month from Amherst College. The new teacher is spoken of as possessing high attainments in his favorite subjects.

Mr. Clark is also one of the star pitchers on the Amherst College baseball team this season and the borough pupils are enthusiastic over the prospects of having an efficient coach in their midst.

JOBS FOR SUMMER.

Borough High School Boys Who Have Obtained Positions.

Edgar Adams, a pupil at the North Plainfield High School, has accepted a position with the New Jersey Central for the summer months.

Edgar George, another pupil at the same school, has obtained a position in the commercial department of a New York Mining Company for the vacation.

Trust Company For Westfield.

Westfield, June 4—There is a movement on foot to form a trust company at this place. A number of Westfield people are interested in the new organization, as well as a number of Union county men.

Annual Festival on Lawn.

The Ladies' Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its annual festival on the lawn at the home of Mrs. George H. Babcock, West Eighth street, Wednesday evening, June 18.

Meets in the Morning.

Commencing last Sunday and continuing during the summer months the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will meet in the morning instead of the afternoon.

CITY MILK SUPPLY IS BEING IMPROVED

Other Subjects Discussed at the Monthly Meeting of the Board of Health.

SMALL-POX ABOUT OVER.

MOST OF THE BUSINESS TRANSACTED WAS OF A ROUTINE NATURE.

Work Done Among the Dairies by Health Officer Thurlow—Plans to Investigate Ice and Water Supply—City Board Met Yesterday.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon in the rooms on North avenue. There was a full attendance of members. Aside from the routine order of things little was done.

Inspector W. H. Addis presented his report for the month which covers the care, keeping and condition of the contagious diseases in the city. The number of cases at last report were thirteen and five were reported during the month. There were eleven released from quarantine and seven still in quarantine. The total number of visits to the isolation hospital and houses where there was contagious disease were 212. There was one death from small-pox during the month.

Mr. Addis reported that there is still many complaints regarding the kerosene engine at the sh'rts factory on Watchung avenue, which causes a constant thumping during the day and impregnates the neighborhood with an odor of kerosene. Mr. Addis stated that Mr. Kapp made several attempts to stop the nuisance, but had failed. He suggested that the matter be referred to the corporation counsel.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow reported a better condition of the dairies about the city and vicinity, with a steady improvement. He made forty-one visits to dairies during the month and tested thirty-five samples of milk, all of which showed improvement. He suggested that the board issue each month to the milk dealers cards showing the analysis of the milk they sell, thus enabling them to conduct their business in an intelligent manner and if the milk was of high quality the dealers could use it as a certification to that fact.

Mr. Thurlow also reported concerning inspections of the ice and water supplies which he expects to begin very soon. The laboratory is now fitted with the proper equipment to make these tests. All applications for the privilege of selling ice were referred to Mr. Thurlow with power.

The new sanitary code was considered and Mr. Thurlow again reported that Mr. Marsh still has the code concerning which he is awaiting for an opinion regarding some of the essential points.

It was reported at the meeting that Benjamin Potts, colored, and Wm. Butterfield, two small-pox patients, were released from the isolation hospital yesterday, they having recovered from the disease. Mrs. Crowley and her three children will probably be released this week.

FIRST FESTIVAL.

Strawberries and Ice Cream Were the Attractions at the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

First among the numerous church strawberry and ice cream festivals, which are features of church social life at this season of the year, was that of the Monroe Avenue church, last Tuesday. It was successful to a degree that will require much activity on the part of those in charge of its successors to attain.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and during the evening an informal musical programme was rendered. The delicious combination of cake and cream was there in plenty and the last evening resulted in everything being sold. Quite a sum will be realized from the affair.

In charge of the festival was Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Mrs. Nicholas Broward, Miss M. E. Brower, Mrs. N. Mansfield Smith and Miss Charlotte Aldrich.

Others who assisted were Mrs. Fred Wenzel, Mrs. Theodore VanPelt, Mrs. Stephen Higham, Mrs. W. H. Stine, Mrs. Waldron and the Misses Lulu Randolph, Daisy Broward, Etta Randolph, Beulah Kline, Olla Kline, Annie Stafford, Minnie Gunselman, Carrie Brower, Sadie Brower, and John Cox and Theodore VanPelt.

—Colburn's celebrated Plainfield strawberries are always to be found at Neuman Brothers. Received fresh, every day.

WILLIAM H. MOODY.

Massachusetts Congressman, Who Will Succeed Secretary Long, is a Man of Affairs.

Mr. Moody's selection for the post of secretary of the navy was the outcome of an interesting contest. There were no less than half a dozen applicants, but the struggle finally narrowed down to the two representatives of congress—Mr. Foss, of Illinois, chairman of the naval committee of the house, who had the energetic support of his western colleagues, and Mr. Moody, for whom Senator Lodge and others made a winning fight. It was for a time in doubt whether Mr. Moody would not be placed in some important foreign mission, rather than in the navy department, but he preferred to stay at home.

HON. WILLIAM H. MOODY.
(Massachusetts Statesman Who Will Be Secretary of the Navy.)

The biographical notice of the new secretary, contained in the Congressional Record, is very meager, showing his political career in its barest outlines. But it appears that he is a man of affairs, and it is particularly gratifying for people interested in the navy to know that he brings to his new post a mind of experience in governmental affairs, acquired through his work for several years on the appropriations committee of the house. Mr. Moody is a comparatively young man, being in his forty-ninth year. He is a lawyer by profession, being a graduate of Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., and Harvard university. He has been district attorney for the eastern district of Massachusetts and has served in the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh congresses, being elected as a republican. He was born in Newbury, Conn., but now resides at Haverhill, Mass.

Mr. Moody is on the District of Columbia committee of the house appropriations committee, and is in that capacity well known and liked in Washington.

A statement has been published in effect that Representative Moody, nominated to be secretary of the navy, is a relative of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts. The fact is that Representative Moody is not in the remotest way connected with Senator Lodge by either marriage or blood. The two have been friendly for very many years, both being graduates of Harvard university, where they were well acquainted as students.

BIG AIRSHIP PRIZE.

London Publisher Offers $20,000 to Inventor Who Will Fly One Hundred Miles.

The offer of C. A. Pearson, the London millionaire publisher, of a prize of $20,000 to any airship inventor who will fly from London to Birmingham, a distance of 100 miles, is likely to bring about a competition between Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian inventor, and English aeronauts

CYRIL A. PEARSON.
(London Publisher, Who is a Patron of Aerial Navigation.)

that will be in the nature of a race between airships. English inventors, notably Maxim and Langham, are said to have expressed their willingness to enter a competition if the prize offered be sufficient to cover the expenses of preparation. Mr. Pearson's offer is open to all the world and its international scope is likely to make it of great importance.

Marriage by Phonograph.

A phonographic marriage was lately performed in Oswego, N. Y. The bride was living in a house quarantined because of smallpox, and in the presence of witnesses she spoke into the phonograph these words: "I, Nellie Stone, do take this man, James F. Duncan, to be my lawfully wedded husband," etc. The register was then fumigated, and taken to the groom's residence, where the latter and a clergyman performed their part of the ceremony.

CAUGHT THE MOUSE.

And Thereby Won the Respect of His Girl Employes.

How Manager Maynard Was Saved from a Cabal of Feminine Trickery and Flirtation Just in the Nick of Time.

When the firm decided to put young Maynard at the head of the mail-order department it was in the full knowledge that the change was an experiment. Maynard had proved a capable man wherever he had been placed in the great house, but this special department had always been under the charge of grave, elderly, much-married men. Maynard was young, good-looking enough for romantic girls to dream over, and unmarried. When it is further added that his department included about 200 young women of varying degrees of beauty and sense, it will be seen that the firm had acted wisely in the past.

For two or three weeks, says the Chicago Daily News, he ran the gauntlet from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock at night. It was a gauntlet of languishing glances, flirtatious smiles, unending giggles and a steady stream of questions purporting to be strictly on business, but which were in the main silly enough to earn for the questioners their walking papers at the end of the week. At the end of two weeks he realized that he had utterly failed to establish the proper attitude between himself as head and the 200 young women making up the department. They regarded him plainly in the light of lawful prey, managerially and matrimonially. They had no respect whatever for his position as manager or as backer and they seemed to be acting as with one mind to remove both conditions.

On the third Monday he opened his desk with a sense of distaste unshrinking that he had never felt before. He acknowledged gushing good-morning so frostily and had the satisfaction of hearing suppressed giggles.

HELD THE MOUSE ALOFT.

in return. He sat immersed in business to his ears and refused to hear inconsequential remarks addressed coquettishly to him as mail after mail came up to get or deposit papers and files. Yet when the twenty-fifth girl that made her little speech, which whatever it might be, called for no answer, young Maynard realized that he was up against a cabal of feminine tricksters. In disgust he began to write out his resignation.

Suddenly from the center of the great room there rose a babel of voices, mingled with shrill screams. Two seconds more, and the whole roomful of girls were on chairs and desks, with skirts whirling about in riotously formed ankles. Yet there was no coquetry on the part of any one. Slim-ankled and thick-ankled girls he but one thought—the mouse that even then was running in a wavy straight for the manager's desk.

Across the suddenly cleared floor space he watched it come. Just as it darted past the corner of his desk Maynard bent low and with a crafty curve of his hand grabbed the slim gray tail as its terrified owner slipped beneath the desk. A gasp issued from 200 throats as he held the little beast aloft by the tail.

He picked up some papers and walked quickly over to one of the three young women who more than any others had caused his soul to despair.

"Miss Dunning," he said, shortly, "I want copies of these letters. Please descend as soon as possible and get to work on them."

Miss Dunning shrank visibly from the struggling mouse he held close to her, and for the first time failed to giggle at his words. Then Maynard walked nonchalantly through the awed lane of womankind, flung up a window and deposited the mouse on the guttering that ran just below.

As Maynard walked back to his desk he was conscious of a new atmosphere in the room. There was no suppressed giggling, no unbearable self-consciousness. Every girl was at work. The manager had become in their eyes a superhuman being who was not to be trifled with.

Violins Made of Porcelain.

Porcelain violins and mandolins are coming into favor in Germany. They are said to be sweeter in tone than wooden instruments, and possess the further advantage of not being affected by weather.

Where Sound Travels Far.

Very little wind prevails in the arctic regions, and this fact facilitates the transmission of sound. People there can converse when a mile apart. The cold and almost motionless air renders even a whisper quite distinct.

THEIR TONGUES BETRAY THEM

Character Reading by a New Method Is Now a Popular Notion in Paris.

And still they come. Linguistology is the last craze in Paris. If one prefers to call it glossomancy, well and good. Under either name it means tongue reading and it threatens to compete with palmistry, says the New York Sun.

That a tongue may tell the character of the owner is a safe proposition. A tongue may even, to expert eyes, tell the condition of the owner's liver and from such data many conclusions may be reached. Given the state of a man's liver, history and prophecy both seem possible to even the average logician.

But linguistology has to do only with the shape and form of the tongue. A big tongue, it seems, indicates frankness; a short tongue, dissimulation; a long and broad tongue, garrulity and generosity; a narrow tongue, concentration and talent; a short, broad tongue, garrulity and untruth. The man with a very short and narrow tongue is a liar of true artistic merit.

The disclosures of linguistology may be thrilling, but palmistry has one advantage which guarantees its supremacy over the rival science. The subject need not stop talking during a palmist's reading.

PECULIARITIES OF WRITERS.

Many of Them Cannot Do Good Work Unless Their Pads Are Humored.

"I have often smiled," said the editor, "at the peculiarities displayed by the different people while writing their stories. Every one has his or her particular idiosyncrasy. Brown cannot write a decent line unless he chews it the while, and enlightened cigar, Jones is unhappy and restive unless he puffs at a Turkish cigarette, while Robinson must always have his pet brier pipe. One man I know is very 'dopy' unless he has a ball in his hand. If he gets that inside of him he can write like a master of prose.

"Another fellow is most particular about the arrangement of the things upon his desk. If each only one object is out of place he is hanged if he will go on until he has put them in order. Still another feels at home only when he sits in front of a mixed-up mass of paper, pens and letters. One woman writer I have noticed cannot get on her work unless she eats candy at the same time. With a box of bonbons by her side she can rattle off quires of 'copy' with ease.

"We are all creatures of habit," concluded the editor, according to the Philadelphia Record, "and no one in the bonds of one it is hard to shake loose the shackles."

TOWNS MADE BY RAILWAYS.

The Iron Horse Has Been a Prominent Factor in the Creation of Provinces.

To-day towns do not grow merely because of their location, and this factor of location will become less and less important as the years go by. Chicago is situated upon the most impossible and unlovely of all places for human habitation. She is simply a city of transportation, and is no better than her rails and boats, though by her rails and boats she lives in every western state and territory, says the Century Magazine. The same is true of St. Louis and the vast southwest. One railroad recently planned for western extension, and laid out along its lines the sites of 38 new towns, each of which was located and named before the question of inhabitants for the towns was even taken up. And her railway in the southwest has named 50 cities that are yet to build, and still others have scores of communities which in time are to be the battle-grounds of human lives, and stages of the human tragedy or comedy. The railways have not only reached but create provinces; they have not only nourished, but conceived communities.

AGE OF COINS TOLD BY RING.

Cafe Cashier Has Familiarized Himself with the Sound to Perfection.

The cashier in the light lunch cafe jingled a silver half-dollar on the marble counter.

"I'll bet you a cup of coffee I can tell you the decade in which that piece of money was coined," he said to a customer who was engaged with his midnight lunch.

"You probably know the exact date," replied the customer, according to the Philadelphia Record.

"Take one of your own then," said the cashier, as he took a dime from the ring and threw it on the counter. "Now tell whether it was coined in the 90s, the 80s, the 70s or in whatever decade it left the mint. Try me and see."

The young man pulled a half-dollar from his pocket and threw it down on the counter. The cashier listened attentively.

"That was coined in the 60s," he said.

Sure enough, the coin bore the date of 1862. Several other persons in the cafe tried him and in each instance his judgment was unerring.

"It's all in the ring," explained the cashier. "I've gotten so I don't make a mistake once in 30 times."

Needed No Better Address.

A letter mailed in France, addressed to "The Great Apple Grower, Kansas, North America," was delivered to Judge Fred Wellhouse, of Topeka, the "apple king," of course. Another letter directed simply "In His Steps," was delivered to Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka.

CHIEF OF O'BRIENS.

Honor Held by Lord Inchiquin of Dromoland Castle.

One of the Oldest of Irish Families Whose History Dates Back Many Centuries—The Story of Moira Rhu.

Lord Inchiquin, the head of one of the oldest families in the Irish peerage, will be a conspicuous figure at the coronation of King Edward VII.

Dromoland castle, the seat of Lucius, fifteenth Lord Inchiquin, is in County Clare, in the south of Ireland. It was built about 70 years ago of fine hand-cut gray limestone and on the site of the old Elizabethan manor house which had taken the place of the old castle, chosen originally as the family residence of the O'Briens when they migrated from Leamanagh castle, which was situated in a remoter part of Clare.

The present peer's grandfather succeeded his kinsman (the third marquis of Thomond) in the '60s, when the marquisate of Thormond and earldom of Inchiquin lapsed, only the barony (the oldest title in the family) passing with the present possessors, a younger branch of the O'Brien family. The earldom of Thomond was given by Henry VIII (with the right forever to quarter the scarlet arms, also to wear the scarlet stirrups and supply) to the prince of Thomond of those days, who for these honors resigned the chieftainship of practicaly the whole of the south of Ireland, inherited by direct descent from Brian, king of all Ireland, who reigned in the eleventh century.

There are many objects of interest in the castle itself, says the Chicago Chronicle, among others (in the hall) the bronze effigy of Brian Boru, the aforesaid king, taken from his tomb at Clontarf, where the famous battle against the Danes was fought in the eleventh century. His spurs hang there also, and hard by, in marvelous preservation, stands the large table saved from the wreckage of the lost

LORD INCHIQUIN.
(Present Head of the Ancient Family of O'Briens.

ships of the great Spanish Armada, which came to grief in 1588 on the inclement and rocky coast near Milltown Malbay, which is now a small fishing village and about 30 miles as the crow flies from Dromoland castle.

Leamanagh castle was the ancient seat of that branch of the O'Briens from whom the present Lord Inchiquin is descended. It consists of a peal tower dating from 1480 and a Tudor house of a century later.

Of a member of the dynasty, "Moira Rhu," or Red Mary, many strange tales abound at her raids on the English settlers in 1641, her hanging her servants on the corbels of the castle, the men by the neck and the maids by their hair.

When Mary Rhu's castle fell mortally wounded in his skirmish with Ludlow and was carried home almost lifeless she looked from her window, calling: "We need no dead men here!"

In his death a few hours later she promptly assumed a magnificent robe of blue and silver, drove to Limerick and offered to surrender to Ireton, Cromwell's general. Next day she married Col. Cooper, a Cromwellian soldier, and thus saved the Leamanagh estates for her son at the general confiscation. Tradition relates that she killed Cooper with a kick and that he was succeeded by some two dozen other husbands, few of whom escaped by a natural death, but, it is only fair to say, the truth of this story is stoutly denied by Lord Inchiquin and his family.

The career of this female Bluebeard is said to have ended by her being fastened up alive in a hollow tree and left to starve and that her uneasy spirit still haunts the spot. The size and surroundings of Leamanagh, its gardens, fishpond, deer park and long walled avenue attest to the importance of the O'Brien family, by whom it was inhabited until Dromoland castle—their beautiful modern home—became their principal place of residence in the time of Sir Donogh O'Brien. The picture of "Moira Rhu" hangs at Dromoland with many others of interest, including a life-sized one of King Brian Boroimhe and another of Queen Anne, presented by that royal lady during her reign to William, third earl of Inchiquin.

The present Lord Inchiquin, who succeeded to the title last year, has three children, two sons and one daughter. One of his brothers is aid de camp to the lord lieutenant of Ireland.

Long Submarine Telephone.

A submarine telephone cable connects Brussels with London.

TROUBLE IN HAWAII.

President Determined to Restore Peace and Unity.

George R. Carter, a Prominent Politician of Honolulu, Summoned to Explain the Situation in the Islands.

Senator George R. Carter, of the legislature of the territory of Hawaii, is now in Washington, as a sort of commissioner to President Roosevelt, to inform him as to the political situation in Hawaii. Carter is a well-known young business man of Hawaii who was elected to the last senatorial senate on the republican ticket. A few days ago, when Hawaii was agog with reports that Gov. Dole was about to be removed and Samuel Parker was to be put in his place, Carter received a personal letter from the president, inviting him to make a statement of the situation in the territory. The letter was a complete surprise to the recipient, who has never met Roosevelt and did not know that the chief executive was aware of his existence.

Carter's task is compared in Hawaii to that which President Cleveland imposed upon the late J. H. Blount, of Georgia, when the latter was sent to Hawaii, after the overthrow of the monarchy, to investigate, as a "paramount commissioner," what had taken place, and report to Washington. Blount later reported that he had had much the same experience as Blount had, having been called on by party leaders of all kinds and business men generally, who were desirous of getting their views before him before he left for Washington. The president's letter indicated that he expected Carter to write a statement, but Carter preferred to see the president in person.

In Hawaii the impression prevails that the action of the president portends a general reorganization of the territorial government. Ever since the organic act by which Hawaii was made a territory went into effect the islands have been torn by political dissensions. There has been a continuous campaign against Gov. Dole, the main movers being the royalists of the old days and their sympathizers. Visitors to Washington have followed one another, a large number of them trying to have Dole removed, though no charge has ever been brought against him such as would warrant investigation, or be a reason for removal. Just before Carter received his letter it was reported in Honolulu that the president had decided that in order to bring about a harmonious administration in the new territory it was best to ask for the resignation of Dole, and Carter was also reported that Samuel Parker was to succeed him.

HON. GEORGE R. CARTER.
(His Advice on Hawaiian Affairs Has Been Sought by President.)

Senator Carter, says the Washington Star, comes from one of the oldest white families in the Hawaiian islands. The grandfather arrived in the islands before 1830, reaching there on a whaler and settling in the country. His father was H. A. P. Carter, a successful man of affairs in the islands, and his mother was the daughter of the late Rev. C. S. Stewart, who was consulted the treaties with France and England by which both countries agreed to keep their hands off the islands, and by which, it is generally thought, the independence of the islands were preserved up to the time when America took them.

Senator Carter was born in Hawaii, 1869. He entered Yale (Sheffield Scientific school) with the class of '88, after a preliminary education in Oahu college, Honolulu. He was a member of the Yale 'varsity football team for three years, in '86, '87 and '88. He was one of Yale's oarsmen in '87 and '88. He returned to Honolulu in 1896, and is now the treasurer of the Hawaiian Trust and Investment company, the Hawaiian Electric company and the Hawaiian Fertilizer company, all very successful corporations. He was elected to the first legislature and was one of the hardest fighters against some of the privileges of the home rule lawmakers. During the bubonic plague epidemic in Honolulu nearly two years ago, Carter was made chairman of the citizens' financial committee which took charge of the finances of the very expensive quarantine and campaign against the disease for the board of health.

It is thought in Honolulu that if President Roosevelt decides to ask for the resignation of Gov. Dole he will at the same time ask for a number of other resignations. The judiciary is involved as well as the executive department, and a cleaning out there may be made.

Weight of American Pine.

American pine when green weighs 44 pounds 12 ounces to the cubic foot. When seasoned its weight is reduced to 30 pounds 11 ounces.

CAPT. LUCIEN YOUNG.

Brilliant Deeds Abound in Records of New Inspector of the Ninth Lighthouse District.

Commander Lucian Young, U. S. N., hero of the wreck of the United States steamer Huron, has arrived in Chicago from Washington to relieve Commander F. N. Symonds as inspector of the Ninth lighthouse district.

Commander Young is one of the few officers of the navy who have two medals voted by congress for distinguished bravery.

He began his career as a life saver when he jumped overboard from the United States steamer Alaska in 1873, as she was plowing the Mediterranean under full sail, to rescue a seaman who had fallen from aloft.

CAPT. LUCIEN YOUNG.
(Appointed Inspector of the Ninth Lighthouse District.)

When the Huron went ashore in a storm off Cape Hatteras, November 24, 1877, Ensign Young went over the side with a line and attempted to make the shore to summon aid. Of the crew of 195 souls 160 had been lost when Young went over the side. Up and down the beach for miles went the young officer. Gathering the beach combers, Young returned to the wreck and succeeded in aiding in the taking off of the 35 men left of the crew.

It was for this act of heroism congress made the ensign a master, extended its thanks and gave him a gold medal. The states of New York and Massachusetts each gave gold medals, and the latter a certificate of honor also. His home state, Kentucky, voted him a sword and made him an honorary member for life of the Kentucky legislature. This latter honor had been conferred but once before, upon Henry Clay.

During the war with Spain Commander Young's flagship Hist and the two other gunboats engaged and sunk a Spanish gunboat, captured a torpedo boat and nine vessels that guarded the entrance to the harbor.

MAY SUCCEED POWDERLY.

Frank P. Sargent to be United States Commissioner General of Immigration.

The position of commissioner general of immigration has been tendered by the president to Frank P. Sargent, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, to succeed T. V. Powderly, the present incumbent. Mr. Sargent was born in East Orange, Orange county, Vt., in 1851. Early in life he decided to become a photographer, and for some time followed that vocation, but soon tired of it and emigrated to Arizona. In Arizona he decided to cast his fortune with the regular army, and enlisted in the cavalry branch of the service. He served out his full term of enlistment and was granted an honorable discharge.

FRANK P. SARGENT.
(Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.)

From the army Mr. Sargent drifted into railroading and secured a start as a wiper in the employ of the Southern Pacific railroad. From this humble and not altogether remunerative position he worked his way up until he reached that degree of efficiency and good conscientious work won for him the position of fireman.

When the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized some 30 years ago, Mr. Sargent immediately identified himself with the organization, and soon became one of the most active workers in it. He was at length made the grand master of the brotherhood, and afterward became president of the Supreme Council of Railway Employes, in which position he had thousands of men under his charge.

Mr. Sargent has won general recognition from all of the great employers of labor, owing to his opposition to strikes.

THE UNRELIABLE AIRSHIP.

Has Faults That Unfit It for General Utility Among Everyday People.

It is very doubtful whether the airship will ever become a popular means of travel with the masses, for the simple reason that the enjoyment of flitting through the atmosphere is somewhat marred by the realization that the passenger does not know whether he will reach the earth alive or merely as a grease spot, says the Ohio State Journal.

Without beating about the bush any the modern airship is erratic and eccentric. If an insanitary expert were to examine a full-grown airship I have no doubt he would find it unbalanced and unreasonable in the extreme. It has been only lately since Santos-Dumont, the famous airship subjugator, was almost killed at Monte Carlo by his airship, which began to plunge and buck in midair. That's the great trouble with an airship—you can never tell when you have it well broken. Those who have been riding in an airship when it suddenly jumped up and came down stiff-legged from a height of four or five miles, say that the sensation experienced simply beggars description.

Summed up in a nutshell, then, the reasons why the airship is not likely to become popular with the traveling public are as follows:

It is not as gentle as a lamb; it cannot be ridden or driven by any lady or child; it will not stand without hitching; it is likely to stumble and fall at any minute.

HORSE THAT LAWTON RODE.

Equine Veteran That Was Placed on the Retired List After the General's Death.

When the news of Gen. Lawton's death reached Vigan, a large town in the west coast of Luzon, the boys of the Third cavalry stationed there felt more deeply about it than the infantry companies of the garrison, for they had served under him, and they found a way to show it, reports the New York Tribune.

One of their horses, an old and worn out veteran, had been used by Gen. Lawton during one of his campaigns. A committee appeared before the commander of the post the morning after the news was received.

"We want old General put on the retired list," said the spokesman, and the colonel granted the request. After that old General was allowed to wander about the streets and to come and go as he pleased. Sometimes he would poke his head into a store window, if any of the boys were there, as he knew they would be sure to give him a lump of sugar or some other dainty. The children learned to know him also, and fed him with stray wisps of straw or grass. General led a privileged life, and soon grew "chesty." He refused to eat with the other horses, and insisted that his food be given him apart from theirs. One day he was taken with a disease common to native horses, and died. Many of the natives, who had learned his history, firmly believed that Lawton would ride General again in the land of spirits.

A FUNNY LANGUAGE.

Some Samoan Sayings That Portray Some Characteristics of an Interesting People.

Lovers of the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson will be interested to see an article on the Samoa of his days by his stepdaughter, Mrs. Strong, in the Century, from which we take this odd bit:

"The native dictionary is interesting in the light it casts upon the Samoan character. I find 'an impossibility, such as an old man getting a young wife.' Another word means 'to beg deliriously for fishhooks.' 'Unwelcome' is given, 'such as a visiting party that is accompanied by neither a handsome man nor pretty maid.' The definition of 'widow' or 'widower' is synonymous with detached shellfish.

"There are also definitions that show considerable thought and irony. 'Meanness,' for instance, can go no further than 'to climb out on your own breadfruit tree to steal your neighbor's breadfruit.' Faapuatama, like a trumpet blown by wild lads—blown anyhow and at all times; so conduct without consideration. 'Popoa,' to look owl-eyed as a person staring when food or property is being divided. 'Good brown earth' describes an honest, unpretending man. To show how difficult the language is for the stranger, I may say that the little word ta means 'to sew, to beat with a stick, to play on a musical instrument, to reprove, to tattoo, to open a veins to bail a cannon, to wash clothing by beating and to turn a somersault.'"

Monster Granite Pillars.

A monster pillar of granite—the largest solid piece of stone ever quarried for building purposes—is just now moving into its place 60 feet above the ground on the half-completed Hall of Records, at Chambers and Center streets, New York city. It is more than 36 feet long, four feet wide and two feet thick, and required nearly three months to quarry. Thirty-one other stone pillars to be put in the building will be even larger. Each of the stones will cost $5,000.

Hearing Suicide by Phone.

A cheerful telephone story is reported from Vienna. A young woman of Magyar-Cserur, in Hungary, was called up over the long-distance telephone by her sweetheart in the town of Tabo. He said: "Would you like to hear how I shot myself?" Then she heard the sound of a shot. He was found afterward dead. The man had really killed himself.

FIGHT WITH TARPON

Big Fish Makes Things Lively for a Little While.

Boarded Its Captor's Boat and Made a Desperate Struggle for Existence—Judge King's Gallant Defense.

William King, of southern Texas, formerly a district judge, knows the tarpon pretty well as a tremendous fighter at the end of a line, a voracious feeder upon smaller fishes and an uncertain adversary until it has been gaffed deeply. He also knows as much about the tarpon as a catch-as-catch-can wrestler and clever two-handed pugilist as any man alive.

King, who is small and under weight but pugnacious, gained his knowledge in Arkansas bay. He and a party of friends went after tarpon in a small yacht-like craft that was fast and crank.

The boat was decked over except in the middle, where there was an opening four feet square above the cockpit, in which the party slept and did their eating and drinking. This cockpit has a room nearly as wide as the boat and some ten feet long. Its flooring was six feet below the opening.

Fishing was good, which is to say that every man in the party inside of an hour hung a tarpon or two and let it get away, which is the usual course of events. Finally, a member of the party got a strike, reeled the barb into his foeman as deeply as a strong arm and wrist could send it and the fun began. All of the others reeled in to get their tackle out of the way and watch the fight.

This tarpon, says the New York Sun, was possessed of a devil. It took out 200 feet of silk on its initial rush and the moment it felt the drag went a yard into the air. They saw that it was more than five feet long and the man who was playing it—or being played with—said that it weighed a ton.

The war, with ups and downs, lasted for more than an hour. Thrice the fish was reeled within five feet of the boat and each time broke away. King, who is excitable, had most of the hour danced from stem to stern, shouting advice, expostulation, encouragement and anathema.

LEAPED A YARD INTO THE AIR.

When the tarpon was brought in for the fourth time it seemed utterly exhausted. It came heavily within a yard of the taffrail and its head was raised six inches from the water.

The lord high executioner of the band lifted his gaff to deal the fatal blow. With a mighty bound the fish rose from the water and crashed upon the deck. It was near the cockpit and not a foot from King.

With a lightning sweep of the tail it struck him across the knees, knocked him backward into the cockpit and fell after him, landing across his legs. Then, in the semi-darkness of the little cabin, ensued a combat that would have used up 50 pages of Victor Hugo's best work. It was Titanic.

The men above could see little, but they could hear the thud of blows, which fell like hail, the mighty thumps of falls, the rasping of human bodies on the planking, snorts, grunts, gasps and ejaculations.

The judge and the tarpon had fought the length of the cabin twice and all around the walls once, when a sailor jumped down with a hatchet and ended the match. There was a good deal of blood and scales everywhere, some of them in King's hair. The fish weighed nearly 120 pounds.

It is not an unheard-of thing for tarpon to leap on board of low-lying craft. There is an instance of a tremendous fellow jumping to the deck of a tugboat near the mouth of the Brazos river. It struck an iron stanchion a half-inch thick, bent it six inches out of plumb and flopped back into the water.

Needs But Little Here Below.

A method of living at little expense has for years been practiced by Rudolphus Bingham, of Marchantville, N. J. His age is now 75, and he spends for food only 7½ cents a day. He is healthy, happy and lively, and declares that he has helped to bury many of his acquaintances who ridiculed his system of dieting.

Parisians Dote on Snails.

Eight hundred tons of snails were consumed by Parisians last year. The animals are bred in Burgundy and Savoy, where they are kept in inclosures formed of tarred palings, which they cannot climb over, and are fed upon vine leaves, which give them a delicate flavor.

THE WEDDING That Won

THE Joneses and the Smiths lived in the same town. They were both of about the same means, comfortable, with little or no money to waste on extravagances. Now, it happened that Mary Smith and Bessie Jones became engaged about the same time, and their weddings took place within a few days of each other. The young men were clever, nice fellows, worthy in every way, but with their careers still to make.

The Jones wedding was a very gorgeous affair with six bridesmaids and flower girls. It was a warm May day, but if the bride suffered from the unaccustomed splendors of a heavy satin princess gown with an extra long train she certainly did not show it as she swept haughtily up the aisle as if she were quite used to such things. After the ceremony there was an expensive feast to which all the people the Joneses had ever known were invited.

Then there was a great exhibition of the bride's presents, most of them showy and unsubstantial, the gifts of her parents or near relatives. Afterward the young people went away on a long bridal tour, and when they came back to the surprise of every one they occupied a very modest cottage on a back street. I say to the surprise of every one, for naturally after such a wedding they expected the general style of things would be kept up. The little home was furnished very sketchily, too, and during the succeeding winter the strictest economy had to be maintained in both the home of the bride and that of her parents in order that the expenses of the wedding might be made up. But the bride had not been trained to saving and to economical ways, so that it was no surprise when early in the following spring she and her husband broke up housekeeping and came to live with the old people as best they might.

THE WEDDING BREAKFAST TOOK PLACE ON THE LAWN.

Mary Smith's wedding was not nearly so grand. In the first place, Mary had serious ideas on the subject of marriage, and she prepared herself for being the wife of a poor man by learning to cook and to make her own gowns. Then months beforehand she began to save and encouraged her future husband to do the same in order that their home might be nicely furnished. Her friends, knowing her desire, gave her useful wedding gifts that would be of service to her afterward. Mary had no grand wedding. The ceremony was performed simply, and the bride wore a dainty white muslin gown she had made herself. The wedding breakfast took place on the lawn under the fragrant blossoming apple trees, and only real friends of the bride were invited. They said afterward that no more enjoyable wedding feast had ever been given in the town.

Neither did the bride and groom indulge in a long and expensive wedding trip. They were gone for a few days, and they came back to quietly what they had left and settled in their little home. And such a pretty little home as it was—well kept, dainty and cheery. Mary's inexpensive little gowns were always crisp and pleasing to the eye, her dinners were well cooked and her house was always kept. She never tried to do more than her means allowed her, and so no ugly lines and furrows of anxiety appeared on her forehead to mar it and make her old before her time. She went about her house singing, and her husband loved her more each day as he reflected what a treasure she was. After a time people began to appreciate the coziness of Mary's house, her circle of friends grew and enlarged until it comprised the best people of the town. And yet the secret of her success was merely this—that she had started well.

I wonder how many brides have the courage to do the same.

MAUD ROBINSON.

DUEL TO THE DEATH.

Gorilla and Man Have Ferocious Struggle for Twenty Minutes in Marseilles "Zoo."

According to a French correspondent of the New York World, a strange duel was fought lately in the Marseilles "Zoo" between the only adult gorilla in Europe and his keeper.

The Gorilla was killed after a fight lasting 20 minutes, in which the keeper was so horribly mangled that he died five hours later.

The famous gorilla was named Francisco. He was one of the largest species, and always had been perfectly tractable, showing especial affection for his keeper, a man named Journoux, until the latter married a few weeks ago.

THE DUEL CONTINUED.

The bride visited the Zoo often, and the gorilla was very sensitive about the attention she showed him.

When he perceived that she undoubtedly preferred his keeper Francisco became more and more jealous, and finally Journoux found it impossible to approach the gorilla, especially if Mme. Journoux was in sight.

Two days ago Francisco was so surly and quiet that the keeper thought he was sick and entered the cage to comfort his former pet.

The gorilla immediately sprang upon his hated rival. Journoux held a short tamer's fork, which alone accounts for the fight lasting so long.

It being dinner time, all the other keepers had withdrawn to a distant shanty. Only three children witnessed the terrible fight, and they were so terrified they failed to fetch help until Journoux had succeeded in escaping from the cage.

The gorilla followed before the door could be shut, and the duel continued outside from one end of the building to the other, as is shown by the blood stains.

Finally the children ran away yelling.

By the time help arrived the gorilla had been killed.

The keeper was found with one eye torn out, rapidly losing blood from many wounds and laboriously trying to crawl away on all fours. One hand had been completely chewed off and the lower lip and part of the chin had also been bitten.

BRUIN ATTENDS BALL.

For a Short Time the Big Bear Had His Own Way, But in the End He Was Vanquished.

South Heberton, 12 miles from Hazleton, Pa., has just gone through an exciting experience with a tame bear, until recently the property of Hugh

BRUIN ENTERED THE HALL.

Mallow, who bought the animal from a circus.

The bear behaved well while in Malley's care, but the latter had no particular use for Bruin, so he was disposed of to William Gallagher, a hotelman, who owns a saloon. Gallagher last week had a shooting match for the bear which was won by Henry Krause, a tavernkeeper at South Hebron. Krause chained the bear in his barn, where he had intended to keep it during summer. He conducted a dance at his place Saturday night, but the music disturbed the bear, and, breaking his chain, Bruin entered the dance hall on his hind legs. Constable Ludwig and Leroh Shaffer, two of the dancers, attempted to get hold of the part of the chain the bear dragged, but were knocked down and rendered unconscious. The animal then attacked Krause, who, with a Winchester, killed the intruder.

Many of the dancers had taken refuge in trees near the hotel, and they did not get down until assured that all danger was over.

THE NEW MODES.

Coronation Effects In Poppy Reds and Deep Purples.

It seems to me now that I never saw such beautiful styles, colors and materials all grouped into one season. The shades of the dress materials are for the most part delicate and dainty, and where there is a decided color it is so very decided that we must like it whether we would or no. The poppy reds and the deep purples, which, we are now told, will be the favorite color of the queen of England, are seen very often and on the smartest of the smart set. The purples are mostly for the elderly women, and the reds are better suited for those under twenty. To those whose complexions are set off well by the red it is a real blessing, for not every one who looks her best in red can wear anything else without destroying her own best effect. When one wishes to be a little conventional and still wear the becoming red, a black lace covering is put over the bright color and effectually veils it into refinement.

BLUE CRASH TAILOR SUIT.

But where there is one red gown there are 600 in light tints and colors, some of them being almost as delicate as the pastel shades of a couple of years ago. One especially pretty shade is a pale blue between a sky and a baby tint. This, when made into dresses, is lavishly trimmed with white or black lace, with a little black velvet ribbon to accentuate the daintiness of the rest.

Really some of the newest sleeves are quite as ridiculous as the big leg of mutton confections of a few years since. The comic writers made so much fun of them that they kept on growing larger until the fashion burst with its own bigness. I saw a wedding dress today, and the sleeves came down to the elbow quite well proportioned, but from there they branched out to a width incredible; and then they were drawn in to the wrists snugly. The idea is to have the shoulders look flat, square and broad and the sleeves to be joined to add to that effect, while the lower part is swelled out of all proportion.

Some sleeves owe their peculiar form to having the upper part tucked in lengthwise folds and the lower left to fall out in a full flowing sleeve or to be gathered to the wrist after the tucks run out.

Among the loveliest of the new summer stuffs we find crash, both corded and plain; madras in many styles of coloring and cord, organdies in the most exquisite colorings, duck quite nice enough to wear anywhere and offered in more tints and colors than I can tell, and linen, both plain and mercerized. This is especially valuable, for no matter what falls from the skies this always comes out like new again. Polka dots are very fashionable, especially in black and white. Some of these are made up with pure white accessories, such as wide collars, cuffs and a natty little short cape to throw over the shoulders. Many of the linen and duck suits have smart jackets to wear with them. Sashes are seen, too, with many of the summer suits, but they are not tied as fancifully as the back by a fancy pin. Some of the sashes are of rich black ribbon and have deep knotted fringe, but the most are either quite plain or of the chene ribbon or else painted. I saw one with the most beautiful roses painted upon it so perfect that one felt sure that they were real. Others have flowers mostly, but one had a regular flight of small barn swallows. This was exceedingly well done.

Hats are as beautiful and varied that one would have to be blind as well as deaf and dumb to refrain from speaking of them. The shapes worn in the days of Empress Eugenie of France are among the favorites, with a few slight variations. The style is a poetic one and lends itself to drooping lace, ribbons and flowers, but the woman of today wants all that was in the old days and a little more. So we have the brims turned and twisted and set at angles, also turned under or over as the case may be.

Drooping ends fall over the hair in the back, and in front the bow takes the place of the falling ends and shows such a dainty arrangement of lace, ribbon and flowers as it is a wonder ladies ever tore down their sconces.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

NOT SO ABSENT-MINDED.

British Soldiers in South Africa Saved $5,000,000 for the Folks at Home.

The post office is throwing some side lights upon the character of the British soldier which will be read with interest. It appears that Tommy is not such an absent-minded beggar as he is made out to be. Tommy himself has always resented the soubriquet, and the fact that he has sent a million of money home from the seat of war during the course of the past year is a colossal testimony to his thrift and thoughtfulness of home needs, says the London Express.

This useful public service has a section with every column for telegraphic and postal work, and not only do they get letters safely through Boer-ridden territory, but they manage to preserve government stock from capture with great skill and foresight. Of course some postal dispatches have fallen into the enemy's hands, but the check upon belated mail bags is so keen that the misuse of postal orders is rare.

Mail running from columns off the railway is a dangerous game, and the army post office man requires not only to be an efficient postal servant, but a strategist, in so much as to know when not to send. Several deaths have occurred in the defense of the mail bags, so that he has to be a combatant at times.

CLIFF-DWELLERS' TOWER.

Interesting Relic of the Strange People That Was Built on a Mountain Point.

Nothing in this country so fascinates the explorer and archaeologist as the ruins of the cliff dwellers in New Mexico. Many of these remarkable ruins are situated in the vast Mancos canyon, within a day's ride of Durango, Col., on the Rio Grande Southern railway, says the New York Herald.

Perched 700 feet above the valley, on a ledge of the mountain, stands a two-story house, made of finely cut sandstone, each block about 14 by 8 inches, accurately fitted and set in mortar, now harder than the stone itself. The floor is the ledge of the rock and the roof the overhanging cliff. There are three rooms on the ground floor, each one, six by nine feet, with partition walls of faced stone. Traces of a floor which once separated the upper from the lower story still remain. Each of the stories is six feet in height, and all the rooms are plastered and painted a dull brick red, with a white band along the floor.

Near this house, on a lofty hill, rising 500 feet above the valley, stands the ruined fortified watch tower, which plainly demonstrates that the strange people who in ages remote built these houses were prepared to resist assault. Traditions are few concerning this lost race and history throws no light on the subject.

SCIENCE BEATS NATURE.

Implements of a Present-Day Laboratory Make the Human Organs Seem Gross.

The eye and the ear have long been regarded as marvels of mechanism, quite the most wonderful thing in the world. But compared with the implements of a present day laboratory, the sensiveness of all human organs seems gross enough, says Harper's Magazine. A photographic plate, coupled with a telescope, will reveal the presence of millions of stars whose light does not affect the retina in the least. The microscope, too, with its revelations of the world of the infinitely small, tells us how crude, after all, is this most delicate of the senses. Indeed, we may liken it to a piano, where only a single octave toward the middle sounds. From the faint violet to the lowest reaches of the spectrum is a range of some nine octaves of like vibrations, of which, save for our new mechanical sense, we should never have been conscious of but one.

The ear hears little of what is going on around us. By means of a microphone the tread of a fly sounds like the tramp of cavalry. Our heat sense is very vague; we need a variation of at least one-fifth of a degree on a thermometer to realize any difference in temperature. Prof. Langley's little bolometer will note the difference of a millionth of a degree. It is 200,000 times as sensitive as our skin.

Many Youthful Sovereigns.

Many other Spanish sovereigns began to reign in early youth, among them Alphonso VIII. at 11, Alphonso II. of Aragon at 13; Ferdinand II. of Castile at 16, Ferdinand IV. at 14, Philip IV. at 16, Charles II. at 14, Philip V. at 15, Louis I. at 16 and Isabella II. at 14. Alphonso XIII. is extremely intelligent and of a good-natured, frank, truthful character. It seems singular, however, to find that Charles IV. should be the only one who should to-day be so circumscribed by a democratic constitution that his executive power is considerably less than that enjoyed by the president of the United States.

Arab Swallowed His Fortune.

The Petit Parisian gives an account of a remarkable operation performed on an Arab. The unfortunate son of the desert, frightened at the approach of evil-eyed strangers, swallowed his fortune of 107 francs, consisting of five-franc and ten-franc pieces. As it would have endangered his life to leave this money in its novel security vault, he was operated upon, and after much search 20 francs 50 centimes were recovered. The patient was 63 years of age.

Lucy Kemp-Welsh, R. B. A.

ENGLAND has a large number of women who can paint well. Ladylike drawing and dabbling in water color painting have been time out of mind included in the education of every British girl of good social standing, albeit the drawing was pitifully whopper jawed and the painting ofttimes produced nightmare impressions on one sensitive to color effects. Nevertheless English women were learning, for of late years feminine British artists began to hold their own with the best of their brother painters.

Notably this is true of Miss Lucy Kemp-Welsh, who two years ago produced the spirited, noble picture "Lord Dundonald's Dash Upon Ladysmith." It was the picture of the season in England and won for the girl artist instant and wide recognition. Miss Kemp-Welsh has luck as well as genius, for from the beginning of her career she has been able to sell her work at excellent prices. For one of her first attempts, "Colt Hunting in the New Forest," she received $2,600. At this time, 1896, she was scarcely out of art school. In 1900 she had advanced so well along the road to high prices as to obtain $5,000 for her "Horses Bathing In the Sea." Her horse paintings are only second probably to those of Rosa Bonheur, now of priceless value.

Beyond doubt the new woman movement has been working on the mind of the ancient Royal Society of British Artists, now one hundred and seventeen years old. It required a generation to strike in, and only this year has the R. B. A. let down its bars and admitted women members. The new woman movement and the splendid horse paintings of Miss Kemp-Welsh were too much for it. It yielded most gracefully, and for the first time in its history the society allowed a woman to take her seat along with the men—two women, in truth. Lucy Kemp-Welsh and Mrs. Jopling. The specialty of Mrs. Jopling is portrait painting.

Miss Kemp-Welsh obtained most of her training from the gifted but erratic artist and teacher Hubert O. Herkomer at Bushey, a beautiful historic village forty miles from London. There Herkomer has his art school, there he has built his private residence, an immensely costly structure that looks the embodiment of high art knocked crazy. In sight of its gloomy and eccentric eaves Miss Kemp-Welsh worked and walked, serious, earnest, patient, simplicity itself in dress and manner. Her art style is the same, simple, direct, without any overloading of ornament, but full of a power and an enthusiasm over her theme that react on the beholder and draw him into sympathy too. A noble future is certainly before Lucy Kemp-Welsh.

LUCY KEMP-WELSH, R. B. A.

Quite different is the other lady R. B. A., Mrs. Jopling the artist, Mrs. Jopling the woman. Perhaps her art specialty, portraiture, brings her more into social life. Besides being an artist, she is a musician and a writer. She had the advantage of gaining her art instruction in Paris, an advantage that can hardly be overestimated. The French have the gift of expression—expression in all directions—beyond any other race alive. In art their infinite painstaking is only equaled by the Japanese. Patiently they work, year after year, to gain the mechanical mastery over their theme, whether it be painting, music or dramatic representation or only the making of a garment. The mechanical finish of a picture all the world must sit at the feet of France. American would be artists ought to know this.

Mrs. Jopling also received valuable instruction from Millais himself. Her portraits are characterized by brilliancy of expression and firmness of brush. She has exhibited frequently both in London and Paris. The painstaking patience she learned in Paris has been to her of value in another department of her profession. It has enabled her to be uncommonly successful as a teacher of drawing and painting.

MARY EDITH DAY.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

Strange Adventure of Miss McConnell, of Utica, N. Y.

How Life Saved by a Deer Which Gave Her Shelter and Protection, at the Expense of Its Own Life, as It Turned Out.

According to the story told in the New York Sun by Miss Margaret McConnell of Utica, N. Y., of her wanderings in the forest while she was lost, she owes her life to a deer.

She started at nine a. m. on Monday from her boarding house at McKeever on the walk which resulted in her losing her way. It was not until Wednesday morning that she was found by Fred Reber, of Boonville, who was out deer-hunting.

Reber shot a buck and the report of the shot had hardly died away when he heard a call and these the words: "I am lost." Following the sound he found Miss McConnell sitting on some boughs on the edge of a swamp. Realizing the state of exhaustion in which she was, he dragged the still warm body of the deer to Miss McConnell and laid her upon it. He then built a fire around her, buttoned his warm hunting coat about her and went for help.

Since she has begun to recover her strength she has told of her wanderings in the forest. She kept moving most of the time. She knew that if she allowed herself to sleep the chances were that she would freeze, and so she compelled herself to keep moving as much as possible and refused to allow herself to sleep.

After spending Monday night in a ruined shack, she resumed her walk and soon was drenched by the rain which fell on Tuesday. Late on Tuesday afternoon the rain changed to sleet and then to snow, and, to give the finishing touch to her hardships, at dusk Miss McConnell fell into a branch of Bear creek and was soaked up to her shoulders.

In this cold and forlorn condition she crawled under some balsam boughs as night fell, trying to protect herself as much as possible. She had been here only a short time when a buck came up to her.

DRENCHED BY THE RAIN.

The part of Miss McConnell's story which follows is remarkable, but that such experiences have been known is vouched for by woodsmen. She says that the buck came into her shelter and lay down beside her. After a while he went away, but soon returned with two does.

The does were more timid, and soon ran away. The buck went with them, but after a few minutes returned and spent the rest of the night in Miss McConnell's company, lying so close to her that she was able to stroke his nose. He stayed until after daylight and then went away.

It may be that to the animal's presence was due the fact that Miss McConnell remained awake through the night and thus saved her life. At any rate it is thought that the buck did save her life at the expense of his own, for it is thought he was the buck killed by Reber and that the shot which killed him was the shot which Miss McConnell heard and which was the means of bringing the rescuers to her. She was greatly grieved that the deer had been killed.

Automatic Needle Threading.

A little machine which threads 1,000 needles a minute is at work in St. Gall, Switzerland. The purpose of the machine is to thread needles that are placed afterward in an embroidery loom for making Swiss or Hamburg lace. The device is almost entirely automatic. It takes the needle from a hopper, carries it along and threads it, ties the knot, cuts the thread of a uniform length, then carries the needle across an open space and sticks it in a rack. The work of threading these needles was formerly done by hand.

Likes the Matrimonial Yoke.

The matrimonial noose has no terrors for James Merifly, of Hickoryville, Ky. Last month he divorced his thirteenth wife, and an hour later led his fourteenth to the altar. Four of his wives are dead, nine have been divorced, and the fourteenth was a widow. This much-married man is only forty years old.

Fifteenth Century Prophecy.

In 1273 Friar Bacon predicted that flying would "shortly" become a general practice; and Bishop Wilkins in 1640 said: "It will yet be as usual to hear a man calling for his wings when he is going on a journey as it is now to hear him call for his boots."

A City with a Surplus.

The city of Metz not only has no debts, but it has a surplus of 879,400 marks.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

Proprietor

MEMORIAL DAY.

Another Memorial Day has passed into history. There are more graves in the local cemeteries, above which wave the tiny stars and stripes than there were a year ago. One by one, the veterans of the Civil War are departing from this world to a better and happier land. There is still a goodly band of them left, many of them hale and hearty and vigorous enough to live more than a score of years yet. But the day is bound to come when the Grand Army of the Republic will cease to exist and the last of the old soldiers will have passed away. So it is well to honor them while they are in the land of the living and not wait until they are no more before beginning to recognize their worth.

Memorial Day in Plainfield proved to be an entire day for many. Besides the observation of the day under the auspices of the Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., outdoor sport flourished. Baseball, tennis, golf and other sports were all well patronized. Probably the most important event was the opening of the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League. Four games were played and the interest was very high at every game. There is every indication that the National game will be the all important outdoor attraction this summer.

While cooler than the customary Memorial Day, the day was a pleasant one and decidedly propitious for outdoor sport of various kinds. It was also far more comfortable for those who took part in the parade of the morning and gathered at Reform Hall in the afternoon. Little more could have been asked in the way of weather.

WHERE THE BLAME RESTS.

A man was run down by an automobile Friday at the trolley terminus on Watchung avenue, near North avenue, and narrowly escaped being killed. As it was, his injuries were serious enough to make it necessary to take him to the hospital. According to all accounts, the automobile was going slowly at the time and the man, who was driving it, is known as one of the most careful of all the local chauffeurs. That such an accident has not occurred long before is really the most remarkable thing about it.

The blame for the accident, judging from all accounts, does not rest with the injured man or the man in charge of the vehicle. It is simply what may be expected for as long as the trolley company continues to use the middle of a public thoroughfare for a depot. With the two track switch at that point, there is barely enough room on either side for a vehicle to pass. In these warm days, when the trolley cars are so largely patronized, the passengers fill up that space and traffic is at a standstill.

No matter how slowly a vehicle may approach, there is always the chance that some passenger will alight from behind the end of one of the cars, right in the path of the approaching vehicle. Despite the greatest care on the part of the trolley employes and the police, accidents are going to happen there until the day comes when the trolley company secures a place where its exchange station may be located on private ground.

Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, Watchung avenue is completely blocked every time the cars assemble there. Even the greatest care on the part of a driver or chaffeur cannot prevent an accident when so many people are hurrying back and forth. A horse, frightened at the cars, could easily carry death or serious injury to scores.

If the trolley company will not remedy the existing situation, then it is time that the Common Council, to protect the lives of those it represents, acts in the matter.

Milk Wagon in Trouble.

Joseph Gavin, a milkman of Green Brook road, had his wagon struck by a trolley car at the corner of Watchung and North avenues about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. One wheel of the vehicle was slightly damaged, and a number of milk bottles broken, but Mr. Gavin himself received no injury. The car was moving very slowly at the time, and no blame attaches to the motorman in charge.

New Uniforms for Police.

New uniforms for the summer season, made the officers of the local police force stand out prominently, Sunday. The suits are, essentially the same as others previously used during warm weather, with the exception of the bicycle policeman's, which are better adapted for the machines.

Miss Eleanor Messinger, of North avenue, is confined to her home by a slight illness.

FAREWELL WORDS TO GRACE CHURCH PARISH

Rev. E. M. Rodman Officiated as Rector for the Last Time Saturday.

HIS CLOSING REMARKS.

HIS FINAL WORDS WERE DELIVERED AT YESTERDAY MORNING'S SERVICE.

Few Remained in Congregation Who Were There When He Began His Duties Three Decades Ago—How the Parish Has Grown.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman preached his last sermon as rector of Grace Episcopal church Saturday morning. A large congregation was present to hear the final words of advice from the lips of the pastor who has ministered to their spiritual welfare for the past thirty-two years.

There were few in that congregation who were communicants in Grace church when Rev. Mr. Rodman was elected to the charge more than a generation since. Many were there upon whom he had poured the sanctifying waters of baptism, many whom he had prepared for the sacrament of confirmation, several whom he had joined together in the bonds of matrimony, and none to whom he has not been a guide, an instructor, a counselor, and a living example of the way and the life.

Rev. Mr. Rodman's sermon did not partake throughout of the nature of a farewell. He chose for his text, Acts ix. 6, "Arise and go into the city and it shall be told to you what thou must do." His theme was the conversion of St. Paul.

It was a powerful and, eloquent effort, suggested by the life of the Apostle—a sermon that will long be remembered, closing with a strong exhortation to the parishioners to emulate the life of Him who carried the gospel to the gentiles. These were his concluding words:

"And so I close with this earnest appeal, this last appeal as your rector, my ministry of well-nigh thirty-two years. The resignation of my rectorship of this parish has been presented to the vestry and by them accepted, to take effect on the second day of June, 1902. The vestry thereupon elected me rector emeritus for the rest of my life, and provided me with a very generous annuity for the maintenance of myself and family.

"As you may easily understand, my thoughts have been much occupied with a review of these past thirty years and more since 1870. I have been recalling those whom I have baptized, presented for confirmation, admitted to the Holy Communion, married and buried.

"Of those who were here when I came to begin my work, a few, very few remain until this day. I have counted fourteen families who were connected with the parish thirty years ago and are with us, though in ten of the fourteen the circle has been broken once and again and loved ones taken to the rest that remaineth. Of members of the vestry but one is here and able to recall the memories of those days. Another has been for some time warden of All Soul's church in the city of New York. There has been most abundant cause for thankfulness on my part during all these years for the constant proofs of your kind consideration and attention showed in many ways to my wants.

To the parochial societies who have been my fellow workers I return sincere thanks. I do not know what I could have done without their assistance. Those who know little or nothing of the work that is continually going on in a parish like this can form no idea of the extent of it. The members of the Altar Guild, of the vestment committee, of the Parish Guild, of the Acorn Society, of the Rectory Society, know better how much time and thought is required to keep the wheels all moving and in good order. Instead of the unreasonable criticism which is often made of their work by those who have not lifted a finger to help—thoughtless criticism, I hope—they should receive more frequent thanks from all the congregation who profit by these labors.

"In closing this record of my rectorship I desire to thank them, one and all, for what they have done. And now at the end of this term of service I was glad to be able to report, as I did last Sunday, the good condition of the parish in all branches of this work. It is my prayer that the same good hearty co-operation which has been displayed in the Master's work, will continue to animate the workers. Let your prayers ascend to the throne of grace that the vestry may soon find a priest to minister to you in holy things—to take up with as little delay as possible the work which I today lay down, and to push it with as much more wisdom and with as much better results as possible.

"And to this end I believe you will be ready to give him all the help and encouragement that may be in your power. And now, brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among all them who are sanctified."

During Mr. Rodman's administration of the affairs of the parish there have been 566 baptisms, 452 persons were confirmed, 216 marriages and 436 funerals were solemnized. At present there are 202 families in the parish, and 470 communicants. The contributions to the church for the past thirty-two years amounted to $299,260.

THEATRICAL.

Many will remember the glowing tribute paid to the Keith management during the hottest months of last year, by the eminent New York critic, Allan Dale, who stated within the columns of his paper that "Keith's Theatre is cooler than a roof-garden." His assertion only voiced the opinion of all the Keith clientele, and the remarkable prosperity and gigantic business enjoyed every summer by America's "Napoleon of Vandeville," are the surest proofs of his just care of his patrons and their confidence in his providing the greatest show amidst the the coolest and most comfortable surroundings. "The Home of Vandeville" has promised to again sustain its proud reputation of being the coolest theatre in the country. Keith's will, as usual, remain open all summer and their original apparatus for cooling the atmosphere, will again make it the favored spot for all who enjoy the cool of vaudeville performance, being fanned by breezes as refreshing as ever received at the sea shore.

LITERARY.

Henry Loomis Nelson, for many years a correspondent and student of affairs at the capital, will contribute to the June Century a paper on "Making Laws at Washington," setting forth entertainingly the modus operandi of national legislation. It is said to be a plain-spoken treatment of the subject, in which the "hierarchy" which controls the course of business in the House—that is to say, the system by which a hierarchy is possible—comes in for severe criticism. Mr. Nelson's thesis is the necessity for a more responsible form of legislative control, and his points are illustrated profusely by humorous anecdotes.

As full as usual of timely articles on men and affairs, McClure's for June will perhaps be chiefly welcomed for the first instalment of Booth Tarkington's new serial, "The Two Vanevels." The author might appropriately have called the new novel "The Two Gentlemen from Indiana," to emphasize the fact that in it he is returning to the field of his first great success. "The Gentleman from Indiana," however, was a story of contemporary life, while "The Two Vanevels" harks back to the days of the Mexican War. The three opening chapters unfold most alluringly. The story seems to combine all the charms of "The Gentleman from Indiana" and "Beaucaire," and to add a surer mastery of style of its own. Certainly no serial now running in any other magazine will surpass it in importance or popularity.

For thrilling narrative of fact it would be hard to beat Harold Spender's "End of a Great Mountain Climber," which is the story of the death of Owen Glynne Jones and three guides on the Dent Blanche, in 1899, one of the most famous Alpine tragedies. If anything could surpass the story it would be the astonishing series of photographs of mountain climbing that illustrates it.

The stories in the number are all by authors who have won a name by their contributions to McClure's. Edwin Lefevre, of "Wall Street Story" fame, has a child story; Henry Wallace Phillips, who has just published "Red Saunders," has an animal story, "Billy the Buck," one of the funniest of its kind; Ray Stannard Baker contributes "The Roping at Pasco's," a fine description of a lassoing contest; and Ellsworth Kelley "The Man Who Found Himself," a story of Kansas, beautifully illustrated by Charlotte Harding. Kipling's poem on Cecil Rhodes is reprinted in full.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you get it and looks good the first time you fill it; the lamp that's always right when once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all around goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp you buy is the genuine look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make oil stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

A VALUABLE PUBLICATION.

The Pennsylvania Railroad 1902 Summer Excursion Route Book.

June 1 the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company published the 1902 edition of the summer excursion route book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal summer resorts of eastern America, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts of the east, and over seventeen hundred different routes or combinations of routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of summer travel ever offered to the public.

The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes of the various tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On and after June 1 this very interesting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad Street station, by mail for twenty cents.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., say: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people." Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address

Eagle Information Bursau,

4 30 oaw 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

CALLED TO REMAIN.

Rev. E. E. Jackson Completed the Fourth Year of His Pastorate and Asked to Stay Four More.

Sunday, Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, closed the fourth year of his pastorate with that church. In the evening he preached an anniversary sermon and at the conclusion he received a call from four hundred members present to remain pastor another four years with an increase in salary.

In the report presented by Pastor Jackson it was shown that there had been during the past four years 146 baptisms and an increase of 354 in membership, making a total of 446. At the meeting Sunday evening three letters were received from white friends urging the pastor to remain in his present charge.

Earliest on Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, of East Front street, had new potatoes at dinner Saturday. The potatoes were grown in the open garden without protection from frost or wind. They are of the "Bovee" variety and measure from one and a-half to two and a-half inches in diameter.

The New Ticket Office Opened.

The new ticket office at the North Avenue station was opened Sunday for the first with William Wilson in charge. Considerable business was done. This office closed in the evening.

ANOTHER FIRE APPARATUS

A COMBINATION CHEMICAL ENGINE AND HOSE CARRIAGE.

Planned to Place it at the West End House—Will Utilize the Old Alert Wagon.

Within a very short time, probably the next two months, the old Alert hose wagon, now doing service at the West End house No. 3, will be replaced by a modern combination chemical engine and hose truck. It is intended to make it one of the most efficacious pieces of apparatus in the local department and will be up-to-date in every particular.

Chief Deems and Robert Lee, chairman of the councilmanic fire committee, have been receiving estimates for its construction and Wednesday they inspected a number of sample vehicles at the headquarters of a Newark concern. A number of them were built in accordance with their ideas and it is possible an agreement can be reached with the firm whereby it will receive the contract for Plainfield's machine. The wisdom of placing a fire house in the extreme West End has long been realized by the Fathers, but the company has been greatly hampered by a lack of sufficient apparatus. The house's equipment at present consists of the hose truck and an emergency hook and ladder truck which does not answer first alarms. Where small fires are encountered the West End men use hand extinguishers, but they can cope with a medium hard fire only by laying hose before the rest of the department arrives. This makes a possibility of heavy loss by water which could be abrogated by a chemical stream and this is why the new machine is to be purchased. It will place the West Enders on a footing with any house in the city or borough. Similar machines are now in use at New Brunswick, Somerville and other places in the near vicinity and they have given the best of satisfaction.

The Alert hose wagon now in service has proved to be one of the best vehicles ever in the department equipment. It was originally purchased by private funds and was afterward turned over to the city by the Alert Company with the approval of the paid department. It is still in good condition and will be kept at headquarters for emergency usage, as at present an accident to any of the hose wagons means doubling up with its subsequent inconveniences.

"The Volcano's Deadly Work From the Fall of Pompeii to the Destruction of St. Pierre,"

by Prof. Charles Morris, LL. D. Most intensely interesting book ever published. Complete, thrilling and accurate account of greatest disaster that ever befell the human race—greater even than Pompeii. Tells how Martinique, one of the most beautiful islands in the world, was suddenly transformed into a veritible hell. About 100 pages, profusely illustrated with photographs taken before and after disaster. Practically only "Martinique Book" in the field, for "everyone now insists on having Prof. Morris' book and no other. Best author, largest book, best illustrated, scientifically accurate. Price $1.50. Agents Wanted. Enormous profits for those who act quickly. Most liberal terms. Outfit 10 cents. Don't lose a minute. Send for outfit IMMEDIATELY and be at work. The chance of a life-time for making money.

Clark & Co., 222 S. 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 5 22 1 m

Buggy and Car Bumped.

A buggy driven by Henry Starr, of New Providence, and a Dunellen trolley car bumped together on East Front street, opposite police headquarters, Saturday evening. One wheel of the wagon was demolished and the occupants were thrown out. No one was injured.

Photos by Plainfielder.

The pictures used by Miss Ellen Stone together with her graphic story, appearing in the present issue of McClure's magazine, which tells of her experiences in Turkey with the brigands, were taken by Rev. Louis Bond, a missionary in Turkey and a former resident of Plainfield.

Dr. Humphreys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NOS.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea of Children or Adults	.25
5	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Eruptions, Erysipelas	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	Whooping Cough	.25
17	Kidney Diseases	.25
18	Nervous Debility	1.00
19	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
20	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your druggists or by mail. Sent free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER MAY 25, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—7 9 a. m.—Past time daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland. Dining Car for Breakfast.

7 42 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

8 57 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Zanesville, via Shenandoah Valley Route; daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 05, 4 07, 7 00, 10 00 a. m., 12 04, 1 27, 10 09 p. m. On Sunday at 4 07 a. m. instead of 4 07 a. m., and 10 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—6 00, 6 31, 6 45, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 (Limited), 12 01, 12 15, 12 30, 12 45, 1 00, 1 15, 1 30, 1 45, 2 00, 2 15, 2 30, 2 45, 3 00, 3 15, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 15, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 00, 2 15, 2 30, 2 45, 3 00, 3 15, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 15, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 p. m. and 12 01 night.

For Philadelphia—1 05, 4 55, 8 00, 9 35, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 1 37, 2 55, 3 15, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10, 10 00 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 4 55, 8 00, 9 35, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10, 8 00, 10 00 and 10 01 p. m.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—9 35 a. m. daily, 4 37 p. m. daily.

For Cape May—1 05 a. m. daily, 1 37 p. m. weekdays. 1 05 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1 05, 4 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 1 12, 1 30, 1 43 (Saturdays only) 3 04, 4 43 (Saturdays only) 5 11, 5 38, 5 40, 6 10, 10 00 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 4 55, 8 00, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10, 8 00, 10 00 and 10 01 p. m.

For Ocean City—1 05, 4 55, 7 10, 8 00, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 1 12, 1 30, 1 43 (Saturdays only) 3 04, 4 43 (Saturdays only) 5 11, 5 38, 5 40, 6 10, 10 00 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 4 55, 8 00, 9 37, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 30, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10, 8 00, 10 00 and 10 01 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—7 45, 9 44, 9 55, 10 05, 11 02 a. m., 1 30, 3 15, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10 p. m. Sundays—10 25 a. m., and 12 01 night. Stop at Elizabeth only for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Long Dock with ferry boats of Pennsylvania Ferry, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

For Staten Island—7 45, 9 44, 9 55, 11 07 a. m., 1 30, 3 15, 4 37, 5 00, 5 40, 6 10 p. m. Sundays—10 25 a. m., and 12 01 night.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West Twenty-third Street Station, 6 17, 7 47, 8 47, 9 32, 9 55, 10 10, 10 56, 11 55 a. m., 12 55, 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m. From Cortlandt Street Station, 6 25, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 55, 1 55, 2 55, 3 55, 4 55, 5 55, 6 55, 7 55, 8 55, 9 55, 10 55, 11 55 p. m. From Desbrosses Street Station, 6 40, 8 10, 9 10, 10 10, 11 10 a. m., 12 10, 1 10, 2 10, 3 10, 4 10, 5 10, 6 10, 7 10, 8 10, 9 10, 10 10, 11 10 p. m. Sundays—6 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m. and 12 10 night. Sundays—6 10, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m. and 12 10 night.

Through tickets and baggage checks to destination at local time-tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, J. R. WOOD,
Gen'l Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our illustrated catalogue, mailed free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain, CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANKLIN DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 322 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 24

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 123, Dunellen, N. J., or odd dress in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MAY 18, 1902.

For New York—2 17, 2 27, 4 05, 6 01 7 32, 8 56, 9 46, 10 46, 11 46 a. m., 12 46, 1 46, 2 46, 3 46, 4 46, 5 46, 6 46, 7 46, 8 46, 9 46, 10 46, 11 15 p. m. and 12 01 night. Sundays—2 17, 2 27, 4 05, 6 01, 7 32, 8 56, 9 46, 10 46, 11 46 a. m., 12 46, 1 46, 2 46, 3 46, 4 46, 5 46, 6 46, 7 46, 8 46, 9 46, 10 46, 11 15 p. m

W. N. Runyon, Pres. Roseberry, c. f. Overton, r. f. Smith, 3d b. Magne, c. John Cose, Mgr.
? Feiring, 1st b. Montross, p. & 2d b Martin, s.s. Cose, c. f. Hewitt, p. & 2d b.
Porter, mascot.

HOPE Y. M. A. TEAM.

AUSPICIOUS OPENING OF CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Thousands Assembled at Memorial Day Games to See Hopes Outplay St. Marys and Safe Works and Take the Lead in the Local League.

STANDING IN CITY LEAGUE.

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Hope Y. M. A.	2	0	1.000
Safe Works	1	1	.500
St. Marys	1	1	.500
Y. M. C. A.	0	2	.000

RESULTS OF LEAGUE GAMES.

Morning—
Hope Y. M. A., 11; St. Marys, 6.
Safe Works, 6; Y. M. C. A., 4.
Afternoon—
Hope Y. M. A., 11; Safe Works, 9.
St. Marys, 8; Y. M. C. A., 6.

RESULTS OF OTHER GAMES.

Morning—
Rutgers Prep., 15; Plainfield H.S., 5.
Clinton Ave., 12; Dunellen, 10.
West End Hose., 16; Warren Eag., 12.
Cuban Giants, 9; O Be Joyfuls, 9.
Scotch Plains, 7; Murray Hills, 4.
Afternoon—
Scotch Plains, 8; Riverside F. C., 3.

The opening of the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League overshadowed all other events in the local baseball world, Friday. Hope Y. M. A. came to the fore in sensational fashion, winning both its games and taking the lead in the league. The Y. M. C. A., of which so much was expected, was defeated by the Safe Works and St. Marys and went to the bottom of the column. The other two teams scored a victory and a defeat each.

All the league games were close enough to be exciting and the interest in them, combined with the delightful weather, served to attract great audiences to all the games. For three of the games, a thousand turned out to each. While there was heaps of enthusiasm and excitement all the games were free from any unpleasant features.

Of the contests, besides those of the league, the return game between the Plainfield High School and Rutgers Prep attracted many. Rutgers had an comparatively easy thing of it by the score of 15 to 5. That famous contest between the firemen of North Plainfield resulted in victory for the West End Hose Company. Scotch Plains won two games and Westfield added two exciting games to the list. Dunellen also had its share of baseball.

HOPE'S FIRST VICTORY.

Superior playing by the Hope Y. M. A. boys gave them their first League game, Friday morning, when they defeated the St. Marys on the latter's grounds, by a score of 11 to 6.

From the start the St. Mary members played loose ball, the six runs made being scored in the fifth inning when Hewitt attempted to continue pitching with a sprained wrist, caused by a hot grounder. Up to then he did very well, striking out four men and allowing but very few hits. Fifteen hits were made off Doyle but he made himself solid by striking out ten men. The St. Marys' total number of hits was twelve, from Montross and Hewitt.

In the field the Hope team played in splendid shape, as did also Casey, Taylor and Scott of the St. Marys. Montross and Scott both made home runs. The crowd witnessing the game numbered a thousand and spent its enthusiasm in vociferous cheering for its favorites.

The summary follows:

HOPES.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, lf	0	0	3	0	0
Overton, rf	0	0	0	1	1
Martin, ss	2	4	0	3	0
Hewitt, p, 2b	3	2	3	2	1
Gordon, 2b	2	0	0	3	0
Montross, 2b, p	2	2	2	5	1
Feiring, 1b	1	2	9	0	0
Magee, cf	1	2	1	0	0
Hartfelder, c	0	2	9	1	0
	11	15	27	15	3

ST. MARY'S.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mack, ss	1	1	0	4	2
Scott, 3b	1	1	1	6	0
Keen, c	0	2	10	3	1
Casey, cf	1	2	2	0	0
Lecerer, 2b	1	1	5	0	1
Taylor, lf	0	1	2	0	0
Winn, 1b	0	2	6	0	1
Barry, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Doyle, p	1	2	0	1	0
	6	12	27	8	5

Score by innings.

Hope	2 0 4 0 1 0 1 0 3—11
St. Marys	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 6

Two-base hits—Magee, Martin, Roseberry, Mack. Home runs—Montross, Scott. Double play—Montross, Hewitt and Feiring. Stolen bases—Martin. Hewitt, (2), Feiring, Scott, Casey, (2), Taylor, (2), Winn, (2). Struck out—By Doyle, 10; by Hewitt, 4; by Montross, 2. Bases on balls—Off Doyle, 2; off Hewitt, 4; off Montross, 2. Hit by pitched ball—By Doyle, 1. Earned runs—Hope, 7; St. Marys, 5. Left on bases—Hope, 8; St. Marys, 11. Umpires—Young and Townley. Scorer—R. S. Lane. Time of game—Two hours. Attendance—1,000.

SAFE WORKS' GAME.

Good clean exciting ball, in spite of numerous errors on both sides, characterized the morning game on the South Second street grounds between the Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works. After a hot struggle the Safe Works team won out by the narrow margin of 6 to 4.

It was hardly a pitcher's battle. Both twirlers succeeded in keeping the hits down pretty well, but Fish and Ward each succeeded in negotiating a two-bagger off Burt. These drives meant runs, and are responsible for the winning of the game.

At first bag, Dupee put up a good game for Y. M. C. A. and Ward at second for Safe Works played excellent ball, and Seigford at short handled the sphere with consummate skill.

The detailed summary follows:

SAFE WORKS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b	2	1	2	0	1
Jackson, lf	1	0	0	0	0
Ward, 2b	0	1	4	3	0
Allen, c	2	3	6	0	0
Siegfried, ss	1	1	3	6	1
Symons, 1b	0	0	10	1	4
Fish, cf	0	0	1	1	0
Conners, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Burns, p	0	0	0	0	1
	6	6	27	11	7

Y. M. C. A.	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Schoo'm'k'r, ss	2	0	2	3	1
Bolsterit, 2b	0	3	1	1	0
G. Sc'oo'm'k'r, 3b	0	0	0	3	0
Hand, lf	1	2	2	0	0
Emes, rf, c	0	0	5	0	1
W. Sc'oo'm'k'r, cf	0	1	2	0	0
H Moore, rf	0	0	1	0	1
Dupee, 1b	1	1	12	0	0
Burt, p	0	0	0	2	0
	4	10	24	8	7

Score by innings.

Safe Works	0 0 0 2 1 2 0 1 x—6
Y. M. C. A.	1 0 0 1 1 1 0 0 0—4

Bases on balls—Burns, 5; Burt, 0. Two-base hits—Ward and Fish. Double plays—Fish to Ward; Ward to Seigfried. Struck out—By Burns, 4; by Burt, 4. Passed ball—Emes. Time of game—2 hours. Umpire—Brown. Scorer—H. C. Bross. Attendance—250.

HOPE'S SECOND WIN.

Confident of their ability to win after their morning victory, the Hope Y. M. A. boys crossed bats in the afternoon with the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works team and won out. By so doing it placed the doughty West End players at the head of the League. It was an exciting game throughout and was won by the close score of 11 to 9.

Montross pitched the entire game for the Hopes while the shopmen used Booth and Burns. Heavy slugging was a feature on both sides and two and three baggers were frequent occurrences. The Safe Works players got ten hits and the Hopes fifteen. While a number of errors were made on both sides, withal the game was snappy and caught the fancy of the large crowd of spectators.

"Teddy" Overton, Hope's diminutive rightfielder, played faultlessly and won the plaudits of everybody. Martin, Gordon, Roseberry, Siegfried, Allen and Jackson were noticeable for clever plays. The first half of the last inning was intensely exciting as a combination of circumstances put the Safe Works dangerously near the Hope score.

Following is the summary:

SAFE WORKS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b	1	2	3	0	0
Jackson, lf	2	2	0	0	0
Ward, 2b	1	1	0	0	0
Allen, c	1	0	12	2	1
Siegfried, ss	3	2	1	2	0
Symons, 1b	1	2	5	2	0
Mitchell, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Connors, cf	0	0	2	0	1
Burns, p	0	0	0	1	0
Booth, p	0	0	0	1	0
	9	10	*23	8	4

HOPES.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, cf	3	3	0	0	0
Overton, rf	2	4	1	1	0
Martin, ss	1	1	4	6	2
Hewitt, 2b	1	0	1	2	0
Gordon, 3b	1	1	2	3	1
Montross, p	0	2	0	1	1
Feiring, 1b	0	1	12	1	1
Magee, lf	0	0	1	0	1
Hartfelder, c	3	3	6	2	0
	11	15	27	15	6

*Roseberry out by batted ball.

Score by innings.

Hopes	2 0 2 0 5 1 0 1 x—11
Safe Works	1 0 0 1 4 0 0 0 3— 9

Stolen bases—Roseberry, Overton, (4), Martin, Hartfelder, Symons. Two-base hits—Overton, Montross, Martin, Hartfelder. Three-base hits—Roseberry, Gordon, Cooney, Symons. Double plays—Martin and Feiring. Base on balls—Montross, 3. Hit by pitched ball—Montross, 1; Booth, 1. Struck out—By Booth, 7; Burns, 4; Montross, 3. Passed balls—Hartfelder, 1; Allen, 1. Time of game—One hour and thirty minutes. Umpires—Bodine and Townley. Scorer—Bross. Attendance—900.

WON IN LAST INNING.

St. Marys and Y. M. C. A., the two defeated teams of the morning, met on Pittis field in the afternoon. Both sides were anxious to retrieve their lost laurels, and both put up a snappy variety of ball. It was the star game of the day.

With the score 6 to 1, in the last half of the seventh in favor of St. Marys, Y. M. C. A. took on a batting streak and evened matters up. Both were blanked in the eighth and it looked like anybody's game. St. Marys by tallying two in the first part of the ninth and then shutting their opponents out ended the argument.

Emes, Y. M. C. A., out in right garden, played the fanciest article of ball on the field. He gathered in seven flies and made one valuable assist. Taylor at left for St. Mary's accepted some hard chances. The summary:

ST. MARYS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mack, ss	0	1	2	1	0
Scott, 3b	1	1	2	2	1
Keene, 3b	1	0	1	2	0
Casey, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Taylor, lf	0	1	3	0	1
Winn, 1b	1	0	12	0	0
Lederer, cf	1	1	1	0	1
Barry, c	2	2	6	0	0
Keefe, p	2	2	0	3	0
	8	8	27	8	3

Y. M. C. A.	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Sch'mak'r, ss	1	0	0	3	0
Bolsterle, 2b	0	0	3	2	0
G. Sch'mak'r, 3b	0	0	1	2	0
Hand, lf	1	3	3	0	0
Emes, rf	0	0	3	0	0
W. Sch'mak'r, cf	1	1	0	1	0
Moore, c	1	0	7	1	0
Dupee, p	1	1	1	1	0
B. Egan, 1b	1	0	9	0	0
	6	5	27	11	2

Score by innings.

St. Marys	0 0 4 0 0 2 0 0 2—8
Y. M. C. A.	0 0 0 4 1 0 0 5 0 0—6

Struck out—By Dupee, 6; by Keefe, 5. Bases on balls—Off Dupee, 4; off Keefe, 1. Wild throws—G. Schoonmaker, Barry. Umpires—Brown and Young. Scorer—R. S. Lane. Time of game—1 hour and 40 minutes. Attendance—800.

CITY'S HIGH'S DAY OFF.

Rutgers Preparatory School captured another game from Plainfield High on Pittis field Friday morning by a score of 15 to 5.

Van Auken was enjoying the holiday and allowed Rutgers to slash him about for fourteen singles. The entire High School team played a ragged game. Cole, twirler for the visitors, kept his opponents down to four scattered base hits, but Denton drove a long one out into the prairie for three bags. Hay relieved Cole in the box in the eighth.

The batting order and summary follows:

RUTGERS PREP.	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mittag, 3b	7	3	2	0	1	0
Cole, p, 2b	7	2	3	1	0	0
Green, c	6	3	2	9	0	1
V'V'ch'n, 1b	6	3	0	8	0	0
Hay, 2b, p	6	0	3	2	6	1
Heath, ss	6	2	1	1	4	1
Herbert, rf	4	0	0	2	0	1
Devan, lf	6	0	2	1	0	0
Matrke, rf	6	2	2	2	0	0
	54	15	14	27	8	4

PLAINFIELD HIGH.	AB	R	BH	PO	A	E
Thom's'n, 1b	4	1	0	9	0	1
Dyer, 3b	5	1	0	2	2	1
Moynihan, c	5	1	1	9	2	0
Munro, 3b	5	1	1	2	0	0
Craig, ss	5	0	1	0	3	3
Denton, rf	5	0	1	0	0	0
Walters, cf	4	1	0	3	0	1
VanAuken, p	4	0	1	0	4	0
Ulrich, lf	4	0	0	1	0	0
	42	5	5	27	11	7

Score by innings.

Rutgers	1 1 3 0 5 0 0 5 0—15
P. H. S	2 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0— 5

Bases on balls—Hay, 3; VanAuken, 7. Two-base hits—Hay. Three-base hits—Denton. Struck out—By Cole, 5; by VanAuken, 7. Time of game—2 hours. Umpire—W. M. Brown, of Cornell. Scorers—J. A. Farrar, A. E. Moore.

TWO WINS FOR PLAINS.

The Scotch Plains baseball team added two more victories to its unbroken record Friday, when it crossed bats with the Murray Hill Field Club, of New Providence, and the Riversides, of Newark. The Murray Hills were the morning visitors and put up a fast article of ball and for seven innings held the lead but timely batting in the lucky seventh and eighth brought Scotch Plains in the lead by a safe margin and won the game.

Score by innings:

M. H. F. C.	0 2 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—4
S. P.	0 0 1 0 1 0 2 3 x—7

Attendance, 300. Struck out by Harvey, 2; by Garris, 6.

The Riversides were taken into camp in the afternoon game after one of the hardest fights of the season. Munice, of the visiting team, did not seem to be hard for the local batters but the support given him was of the best. Scotch Plains began its run making in the second, scoring one run. One run was added in the third and fourth and for six innings the game stood 3 to 0, in favor of the local team. A couple of base hits, assisted by a wild throw of Brogan cleaned the bases and tied the score. The tie was broken in the eighth when the home team batted out five runs. Score by innings:

R. F. C.	0 0 0 0 0 1 2 0 0—3
S. P.	0 1 1 0 0 0 3 x—8

Attendance, 400. Stuck out, by Harvey, 7; by Munion, 3.

FIREMEN ON DIAMOND.

Warren Engine Company and West End Hose Company, of the borough fire department, came together on the Myrtle avenue grounds in the morning. This game started about two months ago, but the first ball was pitched yesterday. After a long hard contest, West End came off victorious in the ninth round by a score of 16 to 12.

Alex. DeCamp pitched for Warren, and Walter Bennett did the catching. Frank Perry and D. Bagly were the battery for West End. Perry was a mystery for the batting eye of his opponents. The line up was as follows:

Warren—Catcher, Walter Bennett; pitcher, A. DeCamp; 1b., John Schenck; 2b., L. Feiring; ss., Ed. Smith, l.f., J. Walker; r.f., Bert Bodine, captain; c.f., Harry Codington.

West End — Catcher, D. Bagly; pitcher, Frank Perry; 1b., L. Bimble, Sr.; 2b., W. Demarest; 3b., Frank Keller; s.s., Chas. Keller; l.f., L. Bimble, Jr.; r.f., Chas. Greder; c.f., Wm. Peach.

Following is the score by innings:

West End.	2 3 1 2 1 2 1 0 4—16
Warren.	4 2 1 0 2 1 1 0 1—12

DUNELLEN DEFEATED.

The Dunellen A. C. met the Clinton Avenue team on the Dunellen grounds Friday morning and was defeated in a heavy batting game by a score of 12 to 10. The game was exciting from start to finish and abounded with good plays. Smith and Craig for Dunellen put up a star game and Brown displayed his usual good form behind the bat. Ettinger was effective at critical times but some costly errors handicapped him. For Clinton Avenue Squires pitched in good style and was caught in good style by Kelly. Dodd at third also put up a good game. Dunellen will play at Scotch Plains this afternoon.

AT HIGH BRIDGE.

The Clinton Avenue baseball team journeyed to High Bridge, Friday afternoon, and were defeated by a score of 7 to 2. It was a good game throughout, the Plainfield team acquitting itself nobly.

FORFEITED GAME.

The Cuban Giants failed to put in an appearance for their game with the O B Joyfuls, Friday morning. Accordingly the umpire declared the latter the winners by a score of 9 to 0.

Impure Drinking Water is always a source of danger; dysentery and bowel troubles follow its use; every person should have handy a bottle of Painkiller ("Perry Davis"), which will quickly cure these distressing ailments. Be careful and see that the storekeeper does not palm off some worthless substitute upon you as is sometimes done for the sake of a few cents extra profit. Large bottles 35 and 50 cents.

Walked Off Car Platform.

A Polish woman whose name could not be learned walked off a moving trolley car at Scotch Plains Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock and received a few bruises and a shaking up. Dr. Carman was called to treat the woman.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Randolph, living at the corner of West Sixth and Division streets, fell down the cellar stairs Sunday morning and received a bad shaking up. In the absence of Dr. Keeney, Dr. Pittis was called in attendance.

Taken for Jail Breaker.

John McKenney, of Newark, was arrested in the Netherwood district at an early hour this morning, by Patrolman Meyers, on suspicion of being one of the escaped prisoners from the Somerville jail. He was detained at police headquarters but later he was identified by a reputable citizen of Elizabeth, who has known McKenney for years. Chief Kisly at once ordered his release.

Mrs. Anna Willice, of New York, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

GUARANTEED LINEN.

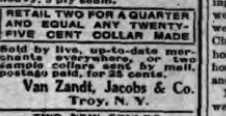
The only collar made with a heavy, 5 ply seam.

RETAIL TWO FOR A QUARTER AND EQUAL ANY TWENTY-FIVE CENT COLLAR MADE

Sold by live, up-to-date merchants everywhere, or two sample collars sent by mail, postage paid, for 25 cents.

Van Zandt, Jacobs & Co.
Troy, N. Y.

TWO NEW STYLES



Special inducements to Dealers

Change In Meeting Hour.

Beginning next Sunday the Sunday-school class at the East Third street chapel will be at 2:30 o'clock and will so continue throughout the summer months.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Minnie Trimmer Became the Wife of Ralph C. Runyan, Saturday Evening.

There was a very pretty wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Trimmer, of West Front street, Saturday evening, when their eldest daughter, Minnie, was married to Ralph C. Runyan.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Both bride and groom were unattended. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Chauncey F. Colther. The pastor and house were beautifully decorated in honor of the event with ferns, roses, and snowballs.

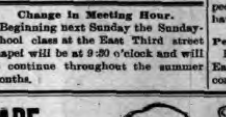
Many costly and useful presents were received from friends, including a handsome silver cake-basket from the night force at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, where the groom is employed.

Back in His Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who has been absent from Plainfield three months, occupied his pulpit Sunday morning and evening and was greeted by large congregations. He expressed his pleasure in being privileged once more to meet with his people and the people expressed pleasure in again having their pastor with them.

Percy Cannon's New Quarters.

Percy Cannon has removed to 837 East Second street, where he will continue his chair-caning business.



ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, ...

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness. Thanks to your treatment. I had a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I purchased a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, as a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, Wash. D. C., said only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free, YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your furnace mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work, looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses allowed; advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and Future. Now, brilliant time. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

MARRIED.

WRIGHT—MILLER—On Saturday, May 31, 1902, at Plainfield, N. J., by the Rev. D. William R. Richards, assisted by the Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, Mary How, daughter of William DeWitt and Grace Waldron Miller, to the Rev. Harrison King Wright, of Pulaski, N. Y.

DIED.

CARBONE—On Wednesday, May 28, 1902, Joseph Carbone, aged 38 years.

MOSHER—At Plainfield, N. J., on Friday, May 30, 1902, Elizabeth S., wife of Justice J. E. Mosher, in her 66th year.

MCINLEY—On Friday, May 30, 1902, James McGinley, aged 95 years.

WALLACE—In this city, Monday, June 2, 1902, Susan J., wife of Rev. Scott Wallace, aged 45 years and 7 months.

ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S ABLEST MEN

E. H. Bird, Who Has Just Placed Plainfield's Postoffice in the First-Class, and Has Been Reappointed to Office.

The announcement of the news last week that the Plainfield postoffice is now among the offices of the first-class in New Jersey, was welcomed by many Plainfielders who interest themselves in this matter. That the local office has been making rapid strides is recognized by all who know anything about the office. Under the direction of Postmaster Elias H. Bird, the office has been conducted during the past four years in a very satisfactory manner, in fact, it is now very seldom that a complaint is received about the operations of the office.

When Mr. Bird took the office in Postmaster Elias H. Bird.

July, 1898, the receipts for the previous year amounted to $32,418.81 and at that time there were eleven carriers and four clerks. The receipts for the last four quarters ending March 31 last, were $40,500, it being necessary to reach the $40,000 mark to get in the first-class. Beginning with July 1 next, the office will have five clerks outside of the postmaster and his assistant, two special messengers, a janitor and fourteen carriers, and after all bills, including salaries, expenses, etc., Mr. Bird will be able to forward to the postal department $20,000 from last year's business.

In 1898, it cost 57 per cent. of the receipts to run the office. Last year 56 per cent. was required and when it is considered that expenses have increased, new carriers and clerks have been appointed this showing is remarkable. All of the clerks, with the exception of one or two, will receive a raise in salary beginning July 1. These clerks are required and expected to put in any number of hours necessary to complete their work, while the carriers can only work eight hours a day, according to the postal law.

It is an important promotion to have an office placed in the first-class list. There are twelve such offices in New Jersey and Plainfield makes the thirteenth. Those having such offices are Atlantic City, Camden, East Orange, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Montclair, Newark, New Brunswick, Orange, Paterson, Trenton and Hoboken. Of these Camden, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Trenton and Hoboken have Government buildings, New Brunswick has one in course of construction.

At this time a word about Plainfield's postmaster is not out of place. Elias H. Bird was born near Gallia, Somerset county, and when a mere lad came to North Plainfield, where he remained long enough to cast his first vote for a Republican president. Soon after that he moved to Plainfield and for twenty-one years he filled the position of clerk in a local store. A strange coincidence is that since moving to Plainfield Mr. Bird has always voted in the First ward and he has always supported the Republican ticket straight.

In 1892, he was elected for a term of two years to the Common Council and at the expiration of the two years he was re-elected for another term of two years. In 1896, he was appointed collector of taxes, it having been determined by the corporation counsel committee and two years on the street committee. He was also a member of the sewer committee. In committee work as well as in the other work of the Council Mr. Bird was faithful and conscientious in the discharge of his duties and he always labored for the best interests of the city. While that Collector Johnson's term expired then. The point was contested and Mr. Johnson won. In the meantime Mr. Bird served the city as delinquent tax collector until he was elected collector January 1, 1897. This position he held until August 1, 1898. He was appointed postmaster July 1, 1898, and he held that position as well as the one of collector. He relinquished his duties in August of that year, when Mr. Smith, the present official was appointed and relieved him.

While in the Council Mr. Bird served four years as a member of the fire committee, two years on the alms

Mr. Bird's father, as well as most of his relatives, were strong Democrats, he early joined the ranks of the Republicans and signified a liking for that party.

It is believed that the people of Plainfield will congratulate Mr. Bird upon his success in the past and wish him continued success in the future. His appointment for a second term, which was made a few days ago by President Roosevelt, was without opposition which speaks well for this worthy official.

PROGRESS AT THE WHITTIER

Concluding Public School Exhibit Was Held at the Whittier School May 28.

WAS VERY INTERESTING

Each Class Made a Special Feature of One Line and Gave a General But Comprehensive Idea of the Best of the Work—Each Display Was Held in the Rooms.

At the Whittier School May 28, and evening, was given the concluding exhibition of the series which has been attracting and interesting the public mind within the past fortnight. Although this was the last of the series it could not by any construction be called the least. The work shown in each department was of a highly creditable order, and spoke volumes for the efficiency of the instructors who imparted the training that made such a remarkable display possible. The salient feature of the exposition was the art work, ranking very highly as a whole, but containing individual pieces of surpassing merit.

There is not at Whittier School such an opportunity to give a striking effect to the handicraft of the pupils as in some of the other institutions, because there is no large hall in which a general display could be made. Thus the exhibition was made up of a series of smaller exhibits in each class room and was therefore subjected to a closer scrutiny than if confined to a single apartment. But where the inspection was so minute and where the praise was so universal, the honor accruing must have been much greater.

During the period that the doors were open to the public, there was a continual influx of visitors, composed chiefly of parents and friends of the pupils. Miss Anna M. Day, the principal, assisted by her corps of teachers, was on hand to receive the guests and explain to them the significance and scope of the various exhibits. They were few who did not lavish laudatory words on the quality of the work and those who were sparing in their encomiums secretly admired.

Each teacher had chosen some subject to which special attention was directed, and in which consequently the pupils were more proficient, lent in every department there was an array of pamphlets and booklets containing the general work of the year, and examination of which proved that if particular progress had been made in one subject, there was no corresponding tendency to lag behind in another.

In eighth grade C, conducted by Miss Day, history was the specialty. The term matter was arranged according to epochs, beginning with the mound builders, proceeding to the early explorations, the colonies, and thus in chronological order down to the Hispano-American war. This gave a cursory but comprehensive view of American history, and at the same time the industrial development of the country was noted. There were drawings of the collon gin, the steam engine, the telephone and a parallel illustration of the old and new method of travel by water, the canoe being contrasted with the ocean liner and the modern monitor. Noted historical personages were given prominence in their proper eras.

Illustrations in this department by Wm. Gaston were, without possible exception, the best yet seen in any of the city exhibits. That of a railroad passenger car required a close inspection to distinguish it from an engraving. Arthur Ashbolm had some pen and pencil work that closely approached the standard set by Master Gaston. In designs for the pamphlet covers there was remarkable drawing by Ruth Thompson, Harold Lavell and Maud VanAuken.

Language was the specialty in eighth grade B, teacher Miss Griffen. Here each pupil had a portfolio where the compositions of the year were kept separately and as a distinctive feature, appropriately mounted with the Perry pictures. Free hand drawings of the Renaissance architectural style were well executed, and there were many neat examples of well written business forms, letters and invitations. The work was all of a superior rank.

Miss Lansing, in eighth grade A, had mathemetics and science for a specialty. Inventional geometry was a prominent feature of the department, the pupil having been given a proposition, from which [the figure was constructed, and a demonstration formulated. Miss Maud Ballman and Miss Marion Lovell deserve particular mention for well executed pen and pencil drawings.

In grades six and seven presided over by Miss Grinnell and Miss Wilber, respectively, the exhibitor was combined. Miss Grinnell has charge of the language work in both these grades and Miss Wilber has the arithmetic. Space here was also devoted to illustrations that showed the progress pupils had made in nature study, some beautiful water color work, and compositions partly original but based on class work, were illustrated by pen and pencil drawing. A water-color vase by Violet S. VanWinkle is especially worthy of note, as is similar work by Katherine Brown and Offley Brown. Highly creditable were the exhibits by Alice Havene, Constance Wilcox, Josephine Serrell, Cornelia Christofferson and Nellie Thompson.

Geography was the special subject in Miss Manktelow's room. Physical geography and commercial geography came in for a large share of attention. The designing and arranging was very effective but it would be difficult to particularize.

The higher grade seven had mathematics and arithmetic with prominence also to history and science. Some beautiful maps, history and science illustration were done by Mabel Cubberley, Bertha Jones, Christella MacMurray, Luella Derby and Gertrude Abbott. Miss Moore is the teacher.

A unique feature of the work under Miss Whitney was the reproduction of Ernest Thompson - Seton's animal stories, with pen and ink illustrations. Perhaps more worthy of note were the pencil sketches of Byzantine and Saracenic art, including the mosque of St. Sophia and other famous structures. The pupils had been imparted a knowledge of the various styles of architecture. Deserving honorable note for excellent work are Clara Hallard, Edna Reilly, Marjery Brown, May Cogan, Jack VanDeventer, Arthur Loizeaux, Tredwell Slauson, Elsie Rimmer and Allene Vanderhoef.

A line of work shown at Whittier, what has not been seen in any of the other schools, was the sewing exhibition comprising embroidery and fancy needle work. An hour is devoted every Friday to needle work when the boys are absent at the cadet drill at the High School. There were some beautiful pieces by some of the pupils.

BOROUGH HIGH'S GRADUATES

THOSE WHO WILL RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS JUNE 20.

Planning to Produce "The School for Scandal" at the Class Day Exercises.

Under the direction of Miss Bush and Miss Snodgrass, Sheridan's classical drama, "The School for Scandal," is being prepared by this year's graduates at the North Plainfield High School. The play will be given on class night, June 13.

Great progress has been made in recent rehearsals and when the pupils appear before the foot-lights a welcome treat may be expected. The effort to bring before the public such high class dramas as "The School for Scandal" is one highly to be commended.

The commencement exercises of the school will be held Friday evening, June 20. Already a programme is in preparation. Those who will be graduated from the institution on that date are: Nettie Louise Bauersachs, Winifred Charlotte Carroll, Elizabeth Cameron Davenport, Robert F. Hand, Nellie Manta, Edward W. White Overton, Ella Pearson, Anna Mabel Stevens, Raymond Sperry Stevens, Charles Frederick Windham, Adelaide Carney, Jennie May Everitt, Alice Emily Martin, Harriet Bainbridge Messersmith, Elizabeth M. Ryan, Nellie Elizabeth Vermeule. Many of the graduates will, in the coming autumn, renew their studies in leading colleges throughout the country.

CHANGED TO LADIES' GUILD

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S FRIENDLY SOCIETY OF HEAVENLY REST.

Officers Elected and Reports Were Received—Guild Arranged for the Annual Fair.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Friendly Society of the Church of the Heavenly Rest was held Thursday afternoon, in the parish house and the largest attendance of members in the history of the society was recorded. For sometime past the society has been considering the question of changing the name, and by a unanimous vote the members decided to change the name to the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

The reports of the various officers showed that the guild is in a flourishing condition financially and otherwise. W. W. Moore presided at the meeting for the last time. He is now being engaged in business in New York and will be unable to devote as much time to the work of the guild as formerly.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Charles Graves; vice president, Mrs. Edward E. Brown; secretary, Mrs. Benjamin K. Burke; treasurer, Mrs. H. W. Fraleigh.

After the business of the meeting was concluded luncheon was served and a few appropriate remarks were made by the rector, Rev. Harris C. Rush. It was decided by the members to hold the annual fair on Friday, June 12, in the parish house.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Handolph.

X-RAYS FOR CANCER.

Pronounced a Reliable Cure by Eminent Medical Men.

Leading New York Investigators Announce the Result of Recent Experiments—Dr. Morton's Conclusions Summed Up.

The highest medical authorities have at last announced that a cure for cancer has been found. At the latest meeting of the academy of medicine, held in New York city, Dr. William J. Morton declared that cancer could be cured by the X-rays, that new penetrating light discovered by Prof. Roentgen, the German scientist.

Dr. Morton's claim was corroborated by Dr. Francis H. Williams, of Boston; Dr. A. R. Johnson, Dr. Charles W. Allen, Dr. W. D. Coley and Dr. John A. Fordyce, of New York.

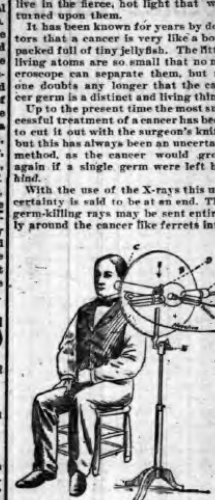
Dr. Morton and Dr. Coley exhibited patients to the 300 or more doctors who were assembled, showing the last marks of cancers that had been dried up by the new method of treatment.

Some time ago Dr. Morton noticed that if the X-rays were shot through a glass bowl of water containing a number of small jellyfish the jellyfish acted as if suddenly paralyzed. It was impossible for the tiny creatures to live in the fierce, hot light that was turned upon them.

It has been known for years by doctors that a cancer is very like a bowl packed full of tiny jellyfish. The little living atoms are so small that no microscope can separate them, but no one doubts any longer that the cancer germ is a distinct and living thing.

Up to the present time the most successful treatment of a cancer has been to cut it out with the surgeon's knife, but this has always been an uncertain method, as the cancer would grow again if a single germ were left behind.

With the use of the X-rays this uncertainty is said to be at an end. The germ-killing rays may be sent entirely around the cancer like ferrets into



LATEST CURE FOR CANCER.
(Diagram Showing Method of Treating Patient with X-Rays.)

every hole and corner of a rat-infested building.

No germ can hide from an X-ray, and the heat may be so regulated as to paralyze the germ, yet not to cause any injury to the healthy flesh, bone and muscle.

If the rays are turned on too strongly they are apt to burn the patient, or may even cause gangrene. This fact will prevent amateurs or "quacks" from meddling with the new treatment.

With regard to the electric treatment of disease, says the New York Journal, Dr. Morton is few if any higher authorities in the world than Dr. Morton, who has been for years a professor of nervous and mental diseases in the New York post-graduate medical school and hospital. He is the originator of the "high-frequency" current of electricity, by which the best results in medical treatment are obtained. The editorial committee of the Archives of the Roentgen Ray have recently chosen Dr. Morton to be their American representative.

In an article written for the current number of the Medical Record Dr. Morton calls attention to a number of remarkable cures effected by the X-ray method.

Dr. Morton sums up his conclusions as follows:

"What is accomplished by the X-ray? 1. Relief from excruciating pain and constant suffering, often immediately. 2. Reduction in the size of the new growth. 3. Establishment of the process of repair. 4. Removal of the odors, if present. 5. Cessation of the discharge. 6. Softening and disappearance of lymphatic nodes. 7. Disappearance even of lymphatic engorgements not directly submitted to treatment and often quite distant. 8. Removal of the cachectic color and appearance of the skin. 9. Improvement in the general health. 10. Cure, up to date, of a certain number of malignant growths."

Insects as Human Food.

Those who object to the eating of meat as the term is usually understood will be interested in learning of a new movement whose leaders oppose the consumption of beef and mutton, but are equally hostile to vegeterianism. A French entomologist, M. Dagin, has discovered a compromise which he cordially recommends in the shape of insect food. He speaks on the subject with authority, "having tasted several hundred species of raw, boiled, fried, broiled, roasted and hashed insects." But the most popular insect food of all, he declares, is locust flour, which the Bedouins take boiled in milk or fried and served with rice.

SHE SHUNS SOCIETY

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain Positively Dislikes Publicity.

American Wife of British Colonial Secretary Has Done Much to Advance Her Husband's Political Influence.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, the American wife of the British colonial secretary, is almost as little known as her distinguished husband is famous. The fact makes the accompanying picture of her especially interesting, for, so far as known, it is the first good portrait of her ever published. It is from a painting by an English artist.

Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied her husband to the Guild hall the other day on the occasion of his being presented with the freedom of the city of London, but in every one of the numerous pictures which were taken and drawn of the ceremony Mrs. Chamberlain is shown with her back turned deliberately upon the artist. The circumstance is worth mentioning as being typical of the lady's dislike of publicity. In the American colony in London she is practically unknown, and even in Birmingham, the colonial secretary's home, though his charming wife is a favorite, it is generally understood that social life has few attractions for her.

Mrs. Chamberlain is the daughter of W. C. Endicott, formerly judge of the supreme court of Massachusetts and secretary of war during Cleveland's first administration. He had "old-fashioned" ideas on how girls should be brought up, and pretty Mary Endicott spent more time over her books than she did at dances and football games. Her studies and the strong sympathy that existed between her and her distinguished father gave her an interest in things political that made her an ideal wife for the English statesman who fell in love with her and to whom she was married in 1888.

Herein we find the second reason for Mrs. Chamberlain's lack of enthusiasm over "functions." She is, and has been since her marriage, absorbed in her husband's career. She knows English politics from beginning to end, and whenever there is a crisis due in the house of commons Mrs. Chamberlain is to be seen in the ladies' gallery, one of the most interested listeners to the debate. During the life of Gladstone the regularity with which his wife attended the sessions of the house of commons was rivaled only by that of the American girl who was beginning to be pointed out as some one worth remembering.

MRS. JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN.
(The Pretty American Wife of the British Colonial Secretary.)

That her practical self-effacement is by no means due to lack of capacity is proved by Mrs. Chamberlain's influence, not only among her husband's political friends but in his household. At the beginning of her married life she had no easy part to play, for she was her husband's third wife and had grown step-children the eldest of whom, Austin Chamberlain, was older than she. At that time, too, her husband's political position was extremely uncertain, neither of the two great parties being especially well disposed toward him.

However, he is now one of the men of the hour in England, and it is probable that his position will make it necessary for his wife to entertain rather lavishly at their town house in Prince's Gate during the coronation season, a prospect to which she undoubtedly is looking forward with little enthusiasm.

Jerry's Mean Little Game.

The United States post office department has a violent prejudice against double-jointed names for towns. This prejudice has worked harm to a deserving little town in California which had a Spanish name for nearly a century. This is Corte Madera, in Marin county. The Corte Maderans having no post office had to go several miles to get their mail. They put the requisite machinery at work to get the place declared a post office, but the most enterprising man in the town was one Jerry Adams, the keeper of a cross-roads saloon. To the Washington authorities he represented that "Corte Madera," was too long a name. To this the post office authorities lent a willing ear, and the subtle Jerry suggested to them that a more euphonious and convenient name was "Adams." They at once agreed. Now the Corte Maderans have their post office, but they have lost their beautiful Spanish name, and their town is named after the keeper of the local saloon.

HONORED THE SOLDIER DEAD

Observance of Memorial Day Under Charge of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R.

A PARADE IN MORNING.

Exercises Held at Reform Hall During the Afternoon—Address by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell—Company K Acted as Escort for Post—Services Held at Cemeteries.

The observance of Memorial Day by the veterans of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was in perfect keeping with the day. Once again they remembered the soldier dead by placing beautiful flowers on the graves in the various cemeteries in this city and vicinity.

Early Friday morning the members of the Post assembled at headquarters and details were sent to the cemeteries with flowers. These flowers were collected and arranged by members of the Woman's Relief Corps. Upon the return of the details preparations were made for the short parade.

This year, for the first time, the whole Post, accompanied by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, went to Scotch Plains, where appropriate services were held in the cemetery over the grave of John Hand, the first Plainfielder killed in the Civil War. At Scotch Plains the public school children, under direction of Principal White, Rev. G. M. Shott and Rev. Dr. Parks, together with the members of the fire department, and officers of the Post, took part in the services.

Upon returning from Scotch Plains the Post, with the members of Company K, under the command of Captain W. K. Browning, as an escort, took up the line of parade, as previously published. At the North Plainfield cemetery appropriate services were held over the grave of Edward C. Morse and in the Plainfield Avenue cemetery similar services were held over the grave of Isaac Brokaw. These services were conducted by Commander Berg and Post Officers Charles B. Stephens, Chaplain John Goodwin and Isaac L. McVoy. Comrade J. Worth Coddington was marshal of the day and he led the parade. After these services were held the Post and Company K were dismissed.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the members of the Post assembled at headquarters and proceeded to Reform Hall, where interesting exercises were held under the direction of Commander Berg. There was a chorus of children which, under the supervision of the Woman's Relief Corps, sang patriotic songs, and a stringed orchestra rendered appropriate selections. Features of the programme were the bass solos by Charles L. Lewis and soprano solos by Miss Jennie Smith.

Considerable interest was manifested in the address delivered by Rev. William C. O'Donnell, formerly of the Monroe Avenue church, but now of Jersey City. Mr. O'Donnell is a Son of Veteran and filled with a patriotic spirit. His remarks held the closest attention of the large assemblage of people, as he reviewed scenes and incidents of the late rebellion and how the brave soldiers fought for the liberty now enjoyed today. He praised the veterans and the members of the Woman's Relief Corps for the part taken. Throughout his address there was frequent applause.

The other part of this programme was devoted to an impressive exercise known as "Remembering the unknown dead." In this exercise Commander Berg and a number of the Post officers recited several parts in memoriam, while the children laid flowers on an improvised grave.

There was a vocal duet by Elmer Bohan and Harry Smith, also vocal selections by the Misses Carrie Kliner, Leanna Satterlee, Lavinia Seader, Mamie Prentice, May Smith, Tessa Dunavan, Olive Mills, Edith Whitney, Nellie Matiox, Clara Smith, Ethel Manchester and Florence Hartley.

According to the annual custom the official orders from national headquarters were read by Commander Berg and Lincoln's address at Gettysburg was also read. After the exercises were over the children in the chorus were served with ice cream and cake in the basement of the hall.

All Testimony In.

All of the testimony is now in regarding the case of the Harper, Hollingsworth and Derby Company, of Scotch Plains, against several water companies who have been using the water from Green brook. The case will be argued early in July.

Fred Dixon, of West Front street, has been spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. S. H. Ingraham, of South Amboy.

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS ON PARADE

Annual Exhibition Drill of Plainfield High School Cadet Battalion Held at Pittis' Field Thursday.

Pittis field wore a decidedly military aspect Thursday when the Plainfield High School battalion came out for its ninth annual exhibition drill. The drill was under the direction of the cadet officers, with former Commandant George F. Edwards and Captain W. K. Browning, and First Sergeant Charles Peterson, N. G. N. J., as reviewing officers and judges.

The programme consisted of a battalion review, a competitive company drill, a competitive individual drill, a battalion drill, a battalion parade, the publishing of orders and the distribution of prizes, including the award of the company pennant.

Officers of High School Battalion.

The company drills and the battalion parade were a sight worth seeing. Every manoeuver was exercised with military precision and the spectators who were present were enthusiastic in their comments on the manner in which the army of cadets bore themselves while carrying out the commands of their superior officers.

In the company drill, Company B, Captain Kenneth Bulkley, was the winner of the banner.

Fred VanAuken, Cyril Brown and Jose Tweedy were the three best in the individual drill. The winner of the medal will be announced on commencement day.

At the close of the drill the following general orders, announcing the promotions, were read:

Headquarters, High School Battalion, Plainfield, N. J., May 29, 1902.

Series 1901-1902.

Orders No. 14.

1. The following promotions are announced to take place September 10.

Commissioned: Captain E. D. Murphey to be major, Sergeant G. L. Babcock to be adjutant, Sergeant L. T. Koons to be quartermaster, Lieutenant A. E. Moore to be captain, Sergeant A. F. Conant to be first lieutenant, First Sergeant R. S. Lane to be first lieutenant, First Sergeant V. W. Brooks to be second lieutenant, Sergeant A. P. Beers to be second lieutenant, Sergeant M. C. Moynihan to be second lieutenant; to warranted: Sergeant L. L. Sheppard to be quartermaster sergeant, Sergeant F. K. Anderson to be color sergeant, Sergeant J. L. Tweedy to be first sergeant, Sergeant V. B. Miner to be first sergeant, Cadet N. C. Hill to be sergeant, Corporal H. M. Slauson to be sergeant, Corporal C. F. Neagle to be sergeant, Cadet C. N. Doolittle to be sergeant, Corporal E. L. Weseman to be sergeant, Corporal C. Elliot to be sergeant, Cadet E. H. Lock to be sergeant, Corporal H. A. Brownell to be sergeant, Corporal R. R. Eckert to be sergeant, Cadet A. F. Yaeger to be corporal, Cadet S. Freeman to be corporal, Cadet H. E. Lavelle to be corporal, Cadet C. P. Titsworth to be corporal.

2. Assignments to companies and promotions to fill remaining vacancies will be made in the fall.

3. Commandant's medal will be awarded at commencement.

By order of
L. W. Bridgeman,
Major.
Alden E. Moore,
Adjutant.

James D. Macnab,
Commandant.

Military training in the Plainfield High School began in 1892 at which time from the State and the members of the company provided themselves with uniforms. Hundred per cent. medals were offered by Captain Edwards for perfect attendance at drills. The work continued in this line for three years. The girls did not take part in the work after the second year.

In the fall of '99, it was found that the company, with attendance optional, had ceased to be a representative school organization, as practically none of the upper classes were in it. On November 2 of that year the matter was placed before the boys at a meeting called for that purpose and by a large majority it was decided to make military drill a part of the regular school work. This vote was laid before the Board of Education with the result that military drill is now required of all of the boys in the High School unless excused by reason of physical disability.

A. B. Meredith, the instructor in science, was made commandant and David Townsend Mason, cadet major. The other commissioned officers were: Walter Squires, adjutant; Charles H. Fountain, quartermaster; Lawrence L. Tweedy, Fred R. Mason, and Charles A. Brooks, captains; W. Holloway Titus, David S. Pond and Edward A. Janes, lieutenants. The membership was 107. During this year additional rifles were purchased by the Board of Education. At the exhibition drill held the latter part of the year a fine stand of national colors was presented to the battalion by Lieutenant, now Captain T. N. Horne, of the Engineer Corps, and J. H. Harman gave a bugle.

The year of 1900-1901 saw but three changes among the commissioned officers: W. H. Titus was promoted to be adjutant vice Squires graduated; Cyrus H. Kinsman was made quartermaster vice Fountain graduated; and Andrew M. Tweedy, the sergeant major of the preceding year, was advanced to be lieutenant vice Titus promoted. The membership during the year was 109. At the exhibition drill a pennant was presented to the battalion by Charles E. Brooks with the understanding that it be contested for from year to year by the several companies. It was won last year by Company A. A silver medal for the best individual work at the final drill was offered by Alexander Gilbert and was won by Edson J. Davis, a private of Company A, with Cyril Brown a close second.

During the fall of 1901-1902 the eighth grade of the Whittier school obtained permission from Superintendent Maxson to drill with the High School boys and a new company was formed. The battalion and company officers are as follows: J. D. Macnab, commandant; Linden W. Bridgeman, major; Blanchard M. Pogate, adjutant; Russell Bailey, quartermaster; Harvey K. Deane, Kenneth Bulkley, Harold A. Nemser, and E. Douglas Murphey, captains; Arthur L. Denton, Herbert L. Dyer, Erwin B. Leland, and Alden E. Moore, lieutenants; Sergeant major, G. Archibald Brakeley; quartermaster sergeant, Le Roy Hallock; color sergeant, Robert W. Meeker; musicians, Harry G. Thompson and Chester H. Briggs, buglers, and A. Victor Scott, drummer. Membership 146.

Some of the changes contemplated for the coming year are as follows: The requiring of proper uniform and equipment on the part of all officers and non-commissioned officers, the addition of a second lieutenant to each company and the taking up of platoon movements, regular theoretical instruction for all officers and non commissioned officers, the addition of another drum and two fifes to the music, and lastly the formation of a bicycle squad. It is thought that the battalion will number nearly 300 next year.

HARRISON K. WRIGHT ORDAINED TO MIN'STRY

The Ordination Services Were Held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

ON THURSDAY EVENING.

ADDRESS OF THE EVENING WAS MADE BY ROBERT E. SPEER.

Moderator Mendenhall Put Constitutional Questions to Candidate and All Were Answered Satisfactorily—Able Divines Here.

Harrison K. Wright was ordained to the ministry in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday evening. Mr. Wright was licensed by the Elizabeth Presbytery, at Elizabeth, April 28.

The ceremonies opened with prayer by Rev. A. McKelvey, of Warren chapel. Reading of Scripture by Rev. John Kerr, of Elizabeth, followed. The ordination sermon was preached by Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. At the conclusion of the sermon, which was an able and eloquent effort, Rev. Mr. Mendenhall, of Perth Amboy, the moderator of the Elizabeth Presbytery, put the constitutional questions to the candidate for the ministry, all of which were answered satisfactorily in a clear strong voice.

When the candidate had demonstrated his fitness for the approaching honor to be conferred upon him, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards made the ordination prayer, after which took place the impressive laying on of hands by Rev. Mr. Mendenhall, moderator; Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Rev. Mr. Sproul, of Dunellen, Rev. Mr. Kerr, of Elizabeth, Rev. Mr. Parry, of Pluckemin, and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. Parry then solemnly charged the newly ordained minister that he was henceforward consecrated to the service of God, and advised him to be prayerful always, and ever to have the utmost confidence in God, and concluded by wishing that God might grant him a happy, a useful and a fruitful ministry.

After prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Kerr, were read the minutes of the last meeting of the Presbytery containing the statement that Harrison K. Wright had been duly licensed at that meeting. The Presbytery then adjourned.

After singing by the congregation Rev. Mr. Wright pronounced the benediction.

Robert E. Speer in his sermon spoke on missionary enterprise. He chose for his text "The Father sent the Son to be the Savior of the World." In the realm of missionary work was apparent that God was obeyed and loved at the present day, not so much because it was commanded but because it was commended. The often disappointing results of missionary enterprise suggested some thought on the deeper ground for the love of God, and upon the place of missions in the thought of God. Man could never retain his Christian conception of God without keeping in view his universality. If he appeared on earth amid a narrow people, he selected that race because a beginning was necessary somewhere. The gospel could not have been preached two thousand years before the coming of Christ because there was no language medium to import it. A suitable terminology had to be created.

His coming was a missionary enterprise. According to His own words "The Father sent Me." He came on a mission from Heaven. His prayers were missionary prayers, and showed the universality of His idea. His command "Go ye into the uttermost post of the earth" was a missionary command. These words were yet but a specific statement of the dominant spirit of the Bible. Take the missionary spirit out of the Bible and there is little left, or left at all.

The Atheist could not understand modern persecutions, such as the Armenian massacres. They have their explanation in Christ's command to carry the gospel throughout the world. He has received the command from His Heavenly Father. And if the Almighty God had seen fit to send His only begotten Son to save mankind, what better could man do than give his son for the same purpose.

No mere synopsis can do justice to the eloquent and impressive sermon delivered by Mr. Speer.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 8. "How the Weak Become Strong"—Text, II Cor. 12, 10; Isa. xli. 10; lviii, 11.

"The Lord shall guide thee continually."

Weakness is often the result of undue strength in some faculty or organ. Overdevelopment in any part destroys the harmonious balance of all parts and hence makes weakness or inefficiency in the whole combination. Strength lies in proportionate development of all parts into a unity, as in "The One Hoss Shay."

For, says the deacon, "'tis mighty plain
The weakest part must stand the strain."

A will accustomed to act in the direction of what gives most pleasure rather than as what is most reasonable makes one selfish and willful and weak to resist the calls of bodily desires.

A sensitive regard for honor and strong self consciousness may make one quick in resenting an injury or a slight and lead to a strong, quick temper and lack of self poise. Anger becomes strong and a ruling characteristic, and self control grows weak.

Cultivation of taste for articles of comfort and the material advantages of life weakens the force of imagination and spiritual faculties until one finds only satisfaction in eating, personal adornment, recreations of society, press of business, than in soul piety, helpfulness of others, conversation with God and men or righteousness and truth.

How shall we cultivate strength, which lies in well rounded and harmonious development of all powers?

It can best be done by recognition of the worth and relation of all faculties. To starve any part of our nature to nourish more fully some other is a serious error.

We need first of all to obtain a deep seated confidence in God as our Father. In this we recognize gladly His place as our Ruler and yield Him quick and joyful obedience in all things. Our first impulse becomes an inquiry as to what He would have us do and be. This trustfulness never doubts that His will concerning us is always what is best and in the end the most joy giving course possible for us. It also believes unquestioningly that He is able to keep us unharmed in any path He calls us to tread, and so we are not afraid. We have no doubts and no fears to weaken us and spend neither time nor strength in fighting them. We overcome all these in one pitched battle when we devote all of self to God and believe Him to be our Father God.

We grow strong in the second place when we rest upon our own truth-er man not as a rival in anything or any sense. Whatever he may be to us, we are not to have any sense of rivalry toward him. We are to be his friend and helper. We study his needs as we study our own. We scan his peculiarities so as to find the best line of approach. We learn his opinions and declare that we may put ourselves in position to help him. When we see any sickness, we do for him as we would like some one to do toward us. If we know a good thing we should like some one to try upon us, we don't wait for him to do it, but just go and do it to some one else. We in this way keep selfishness under and develop strong love to God and man.

Chaplains in the Navy.

The Rev. E. G. Strobridge of Stamford, Conn., made the following statements concerning the treatment of chaplains in the United States navy at the recent meeting of the New York Methodist preachers:

"The neglect of the chaplains in the United States navy and the wrongs practiced on them have continued with monotonous uniformity for well nigh half a century. In their interest there has been no legislation since 1842. With the passage of the personnel bill all other grades in the service advanced in rank, with a considerable increase in pay. In this distribution of favors the chaplains were passed by. The only recognition given to them was that the seven lowest on the list were classified as lieutenants, but only to be the support, but also in their dress, the chaplains are oppressed by an odious distinction. Their coat and the mess jacket of the naval cadets are identically the same, and only a bevel edge to the humiliation the white service coat for the chaplains and the jacket of the mess attendants—i. e., the waiters—are so nearly alike that only an expert can distinguish them.

"No captain in the service would allow a waiter to sit at present attired to go ashore and march as part of his official staff, though he is entitled to do so by every other consideration, and his presence would be appreciated by the commanding officer. At one time a captain was going off his ship to return some calls at a foreign port, and his chaplain was detailed along with other officers to accompany him, but when the chaplain presented himself dressed in his uniform the captain told him as politely as he could to remain behind, while the captain of the marines was selected to go in his place. It is the all but unanimous sentiment of the chaplains that they should be permitted to wear the full uniform of their rank as commissioned officers, complete in all its details, with the single exception of the sword. This is both just and reasonable, for if their commissions fix a grade their attire should indicate it. Either allow the chaplains to dress as they choose, or if a certain style is prescribed let it be in keeping with their rank. Otherwise it is not a uniform, but, as at present, a ridiculous nondescript."

Always.

God is no nearer when an hour of gloom
Fills thy weak heart with question and with fear;
Or grief sits shrouded in thy narrow room
Than in thy joy, but He is just as near.
—Christian Endeavor World.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning June 8. Consecration Meeting. Conducted by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—How the weak may become strong.—II Cor. xii, 9, 10; Isa. xli, 10; lviii, 11.

It is usually the ambition of the weak to become strong. The physically weak resort to medicine and health resorts and to exercise that their weakness may give way to strength. The ignorant, who may be classed as the intellectually weak, read and study or pursue courses of study in educational institutions that their defect in this particular may be overcome. But men are also morally and spiritually weak. Sin has made terrible havoc in the world. The ideals of men have been debased, their power of resistance weakened and their susceptibility to the temptations of life increased. And when men realize their weakness they are ofttimes led by the spirit of God to desire and to attempt to overcome weakness and to cultivate strength. Every person who has been converted, every true child of God, is anxious to grow in strength and in power, and such an aim is Scriptural and praiseworthy.

The method of converting weakness into strength is an important one. If there are ways by which it may be done, we should want to know them, and it should be a matter of comfort and inspiration to us that it can be done. In spite of the power of Satan and of sin, they are not all powerful. Their plans and purposes may be overthrown, and, regardless of all they can do, weakness may be turned into strength.

Before the weak can become strong they must realize their weakness. "When I am weak," says the apostle, "then I am strong." What he means is that when he realizes his personal weakness he is strong, because then he trusts in God rather than in himself. The man who is ignorant of his weakness and the one who in his presumption and pride thinks he is strong when he is not have little hope of improvement in spiritual graces. Ignorance and pride result in weakness rather than in strength. We need, then, to divest ourselves of all pride and presumption and to see ourselves as we are, weak and frail and sinful. Then we will be in a fair way to change weakness for strength by trusting in God rather than in ourselves.

Trust in God is absolutely necessary to improvement in moral and spiritual power. We are weak and helpless in ourselves, but if we will trust in Him His grace will be sufficient for us, for His says "I am with thee. Be not dismayed, for I am thy God." I will strengthen thee—yes, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of My righteousness." Trusting in God for strength, we should hold constant communion with Him in prayer, in meditation and through His word, and thus by waiting upon Him increase our strength, for "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. xl, 28-31; xli, 1-4; lxii, 1-4; Mic. iii, 8; Zech. iv, 6; Luke v, 17; Acts i, 8; Rom. xv, 13; Phil. iv, 4-13; Eph. i, 15-23; Rev. ii, 24.

Cheap Religion.

I entreat you, do not covet a cheap religion. What costs nothing is absolutely worth nothing. To become a new man and a better man and a strong man and an heir of glory means more than signing a card or "rising for prayer" or to go into an inquiry meeting. It means the thorough uprooting of sin and the planting in you of a new nature. The whole question of your salvation must be settled between you and your Saviour. The inquiry meeting you need most is an honest hour with the loving Jesus. No human friend, no pastor, no instructor, can save you; Jesus can. Whatever He bids you, as He speaks through your conscience, do it. The loving Saviour, who has waited for you too long already, says to you, "For love Me." Trust Him at once, and you will find the path of obedience is the one straight road to heaven.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

The Better Way.

To walk when we intended to run, to work when we intended to play, to give out when we intended to take in, to labor when we intended to rest, to postpone when we expected to achieve and to do these things gladly and willingly for God and love's sake—this is to meet the requirements of the Christ life.—Forward.

His Approval.

That which is often asked of God is not so much His will and way as His approval of our way.—S. F. Smiley.

Sing Stronger, Heart.

Sing blither, heart, along the shortening way;
Since thou must sing,
Attune thy lute strings to some lighter lay,
Some air of spring:
Shut out the minor of the autumn rain,
The crooning of the east wind, from thy strain;
Sing blither, heart!

Sing gladder, heart; the world is full of woe,
And thou canst sing;
For such a gracious gift what thou dost owe,
Remembering
Weave gladness in thy song, and it may bring
New strength to some bruised heart or wounded wing.
Sing gladder, heart!

Sing stronger, heart, and clearer be thy tones
Of hope and trust,
Yet higher keyed thy psalm, thy altar stones
Raised past the dust!
The shortened hand may fall, but ne'er forgot
The Lord is in His holy temple, yet.
Sing stronger, heart!
—Christian Work.

TWO CLEVER ENTERTAINERS

FINE MANDOLIN MUSIC BY SAMUEL SIEGEL, REMARKABLE PLAYER.

Assisted by Hyman Meyer, Pianist and Musical Monologist, Who Also Greatly Pleased.

It has been said that Siegel has done for the mandolin what Paginini did for the violin. However that may be, it would be almost impossible to understand the versatile range of the instrument, until it is heard beneath the magic touch of Samuel Siegel. May 28, in Y. M. C. A. hall Mr. Siegel gave a recital, assisted by Hyman Meyer, the pianist and delightful entertainer.

The first mandolin selection was a "caprice de concert" unaccompanied, introducing right hand harmonics duo form, left hand pizzicato, quartette form, and presto chord movements, followed by a cradle song, a duo for one mandolin.

Among other pieces on the programme by Mr. Siegel was a "Spring Song," "An Autumn Serenade," and "Nearer My God to Thee." He is certainly an artis tin his favorite line, and during the entertainment was forced to respond to several encores. Hyman Meyer in his musical im*personations immediately jumped into* favor with the audience. His "Educated Chicken," being a ventriloquistic performance, representing a chicken singing to an accompaniment, "The Mocking Bird," was amusing and laughable. This was followed by a vocal imitation reproducing the mandolin tremolo. In response to an encore he picked up a newspaper and sang a clothing advertisement in mock heroic style, which completely brought down the house.

"At the Grand Opera," a delightful satire on Italian opera, gave Mr. Meyer an opportunity to further show the scope of his attainments. He here impersonated, while playing his own accompaniment, both the heroine and the hero, and changed with remarkable ease from the soprano tone of the one to the bass of the other. The dramatic action of the usual opera was likewise satirized.

FENNER REUNION.

Eighty of That Family Gathered at Roycefield Friday.

The annual Fenner reunion was held at Roycefield Friday. About eighty members of the family were present, but a large number were detained at Point Pleasant owing to the burning of the bridge over the Manisquan river.

A very pleasant day was spent in social intercourse, and addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Hart, of Raritan, Rev. Mr. Schaefer, of Millstone, and Rev. Mr. Hegeman, a retired clergyman living at Roycefield.

When the election of officers took place, John Fenner was chosen president for the ensuing year and Mrs. Amos Fenner secretary.

CHANGE IN ELIZABETH TIMES.

Gaius S. Merwin Has Bought Unsubscribed Stock of Newspaper.

Gaius S. Merwin, formerly of the New York News, has bought up the unsubscribed stock in The Elizabeth Evening Times Publishing Company and has assumed the position of business manager. Chauncey F. Stout, who has held this position, will devote more time to the circulation department. William W. St. John will still continue to be the editor and will give more time to editorial work.

A BIG COAL PILE.

It is Right Here Almost at Our Own Doors.

The coal reserve at South Plainfield has been gaining for some time, in anticipation of trouble at the mines, the Lehigh Valley Railroad having prepared for a long tie-up. This storage is probably the largest one in the world, and once full can stand a long strike.

While the past year South Plainfield has been made the coaling station for the Lehigh for all freight and passenger engines.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

Invitations Out.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Kathryn Heycock, of this city, to Isaac L. Williamson, of Woodhull & Martin's. The affair will be celebrated Tuesday, June 10.

Mrs. W. G. Hockridge and daughters, of East Fifth street, left Saturday to spend the coming season at their summer home near Kingston, N. Y.

MISS JACKSON'S PUPILS GAVE ANNUAL RECITAL

Classes in Physical Culture and Rendering Gave Their Recital at the Casino.

CLEVER RECITATIONS.

PROGRAMME, ALTHOUGH LENGTHY, WAS GREATLY ENJOYED.

One-Act Play and Several Monologues Were Special Features of a Cleverly Arranged Entertainment—Audience Pleased.

An audience which almost exceeded the Casino's capacity attended the reception of Miss Addie Parker Jackson's classes in physical culture and rendering, Thursday evening. Enthusiasm was unbounded and the pupils, young and old, received unstinted applause for the grace and true rendition which characterized every number.

A lengthy and diversified programme was presented and it held the interest of the audience throughout. As each number was given it not only demonstrated the pupil's capabilities but also the success attained by Miss Jackson in her chosen field. She is possessed of much dramatic art, no small portion of which has been imparted to her classes.

Standout among the features of the programme were the physical culture drills, which were the initial numbers, representing the three distinct departments of physical work. They were the hygienic drill, or exercises for good position, deep breathing and equal muscular development; the aesthetic drill, for grace and harmony of movement; and the dramatic drill for complete expression of thought, in which the following movements were gone through with: Flight, surprise, fear, defiance, command, excited appeal, thought, hesitation, and benediction. In these drills the following pupils took part:

First, Arthur Robinson, leader, Margery Dohrman, Marion Taylor, Ella Case, Carolyn Welles, Charles Orth and Tracy Pray; second, Miss Aimee Conant, and the Misses Gertrude Abbott, Dorothy Hoar, Edith Jarvis, Jessie Maclay, Hazel Grant, Marjorie Collins, Helen Adams and Eloise Haven; third, the Misses Margaret Abbott, Janet Carter, Lydie Loiseaux, Alice Conant, Stephanie Krom, Mildred Spicer, Aimee Conant and Lucie Budlong.

One of the most entertaining numbers on the programme was the first act from the comedy, "Sunbonnets," which revealed a glimpse of New England life. It was highly entertaining as the characters were depicted with a native simplicity that lent a "down east" atmosphere to the scene.

The characters and those interpreting them were as follows: "Mrs. Butterfield, a practical person who takes summer boarders," Miss Janet Carter; "Charitna, her fourteen-year-old daughter, Miss Eloise Haven; "Mrs. DuBois, an unpractical city woman who boards with Mrs. Butterfield," Miss Edith Jarvis; "Mildred, her sixteen-year-old daughter," Miss Jessie Macaly; "Miss Tryphenia Sandford, an inquisitive postmistress," Miss Lucie Budlong; "Mrs. Phelan, a kindly old friend of Mrs. Butterfield," Miss Marjorie Collins.

The statue scene from "Pygmalion and Galatea," by Miss Aimee Conant and Miss Gertrude Abbott, a monologue, "The American Girl," by Miss Alice Conant, a monologue, "Rosalind's Surrender," by Miss Margaret Abbott and a dialect recitation, "De Surprise Pa'ty at de Qua'tahs," by Miss Ella Case, found favor with the audience and were lougly applauded. Especially so in this way was Miss Case's recitation as she received an ovation and was twice recalled.

The remainder of the numbers consisted of recitations all of which were well received. They were as follows: "The Reminisce of a Rose," Miss Dorothy Hoar; "A Trip to the Land of Nod," Miss Marion Taylor; "The Ballad of Elkinah B. Atkinson," Miss Mildred Spicer; "The Story of Flash," Arthur Robinson; "The Keeper of the Light," Miss Lydie Lotzeanz; "The Gypsy Flower Girl," Miss Stephanie Krom; "Tom's Misdirected Valentines," Charles Orth; "The Spinning Wheel Song," Miss Anna Conant; "Around the May Pole," Miss Marjorie Dohrman; "Aunt Peggy and High Art," Miss Helen Adams; and "The Peacock on the Wall," Miss Hazel Grant.

All the pupils were presented with huge masses of flowers by admiring friends and during an intermission Miss Jackson was called to the front and also received a beautiful bouquet, the gift of her classes.

Novelty Festival.

A novelty festival will be given at the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening, June 12, under the auspices of the women of the church.

PARK'S PLAYERS WON AT INTER-CLUB TENNIS

Defeated Teams From Cedar Brook Tennis Club in a Very Closely Contested Contest.

ON PARK CLUB COURTS.

VISITING CLUB WAS VERY HOSPITABLY ENTERTAINED BY PARK CLUB.

Parks Won Two Out of the Three Matches at Doubles and Three Out of Five Matches at Singles —Playing Was Very Close.

Victory went to the Park Club in the first of its inter-club tennis contests with the Cedar Brook Tennis Club, held on the courts of the Park Club, Saturday afternoon. While the victory was fairly earned, it was only after the closest kind of a contest. The Parks won two out of three matches at doubles and three out of five matches at singles.

Two weeks ago the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was entertained by the Park Club but the visiting club was unable to bring any regular teams and so the afternoon was devoted to informal play. Saturday's contest with the Cedar Brook Club was the first of a series of inter-club meetings which promise to make tennis one of the most enjoyable features of the local summer season. In addition to the matches, there were social attractions. The visiting club and its friends were most hospitably treated and given a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

Owing to the injury and unavoidable absence of several of its players, the Cedar Brook Club was only able to send three teams. Two matches were very closely contested and required the third set to decide them. They were both won by the Park Club teams. The other match was won by the Cedar Brook couple in two straight sets. The scores were Charles Dupee and Clifford M. McGee, Park, defeated Lindsey Best and Dr. W. Kempton Browning, Cedar Brook, 9-7, 6-8, 6-1; Wallace Guilford and J. I. Taylor, Park, defeated J. Hervey Doane and Harold C. Nomer, Cedar Brook, 6-0, 8-6, 9-7; Fred M. Letson and Charles H. Hall, Cedar Brook, defeated Samuel Townsend and Dr. H. K. Carroll, Park, 7-5, 6-0.

Five matches at singles were arranged but, in the two courts there was time to finish and the matches were decided on the results of the first set. Here, too, some remarkably close playing was seen and deuce sets were the order of the day. The Parks won three of the five matches, the scores being as follows: Charles Dupee, Park, defeated Dr. W. K. Browning, Cedar Brook, 6-2, 6-1; J. I. Taylor, Park, defeated Charles H. Hall, Cedar Brook, 6-3, 5-6, 6-4; Wallace Guilford, Park, defeated Harold C. Nomer, Cedar Brook, 7-5, 6-4; Fred M. Letson, Cedar Brook, defeated Samuel Townsend, Park, 12-10; Lindsey Best, Cedar Brook, defeated Wallace Guilford, 8-6, the second set was 3-0 in Mr. Guilford's favor when play was stopped on account of the late hour.

Tea was served in the pagoda and there the large throng from the club and its guests assembled to watch the play. Others gathered on the lawn beside the courts. Mrs. Samuel Townsend, chairman of the tea committee, and her assistant, Mrs. Wallace Guilford, received the guests. They were assisted by Mrs. George P. Dupee. The young women who served were Miss Bessie Valiant, Miss Isabel Milne, Miss Mabel VanDeventer, and Miss Alice Barlow.

After it was all over, the members of both clubs expressed themselves as highly pleased over the very agreeable meeting of the two clubs and an invitation was promptly extended by the Cedar Brook Club for a return visit which will probably be made in the course of a few weeks.

TO UNITE.

Two Tribes of Red Men Will Join Under the Name of the Miantonomo Tribe, Oldest in City.

The members of Panghcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, Improved Order Red Men, have decided to surrender their charter, etc., and unite with Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, the oldest tribe in this city. Providing this action is confirmed by the Great Sachem, and there is no doubt that it will be, the consolidation will take place Friday evening, June 27.

Committees from the two tribes met Saturday evening and took the preliminary steps toward consolidation and matters were considered and decided upon relative to the merger which will make the final steps easy. There will be a divison of officers between the two tribes, so that each will be represented. The consolidated tribe will continue under the name of Miantonomo. As yet nothing has been heard from Wesumpkah Tribe and it is not believed that it will unite with the other two tribes.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

ONE OF CITY'S OLDEST MEN

JAMES M'GINLEY DIED AT HIS SON'S HOME FRIDAY.

Was Nearly a Century Old and Had Resided Here Over Sixty Years.

The death of James McGinley, one of Plainfield's oldest residents, occurred at the home of his only son, Charles McGinley, of East Third street, Friday. He had attained the remarkable age of ninety-five years and although not hale and hearty, up to one year ago he was strong and possessed of all his faculties. His advanced age brought on a complication of troubles and he has been slowly passing away for the last ten months.

Mr. McGinley was born in Ireland, but came to this country in the early '40's, settling in the hamlet that preceded Plainfield. He always lived in the same section, the house where he died originally being the home of a farmer by whom he was employed. A brother, Charles McGinley, died some years ago, also at a very old age.

Besides his son, Charles, he is survived by four grandchildren, one of whom is Patrolman Arthur McGinley, of the local police force.

DEATH OF MRS. MOSHER.

Wife of Justice Mosher Passed Away Friday After Long Illness.

After an illness of fourteen months, accompanied by intense suffering with a complication of diseases, Mrs. Elizabeth Russell Mosher, wife of Justice J. E. Mosher, aged sixty-six years, died Friday in her home in East Fourth street. For a number of weeks past she had been detained to her bed and gradually failed every day.

Mrs. Mosher's maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Russell Loring and she was born in Boston. She was Mr. Mosher's second wife, and a sister of his first wife. She had lived in Plainfield forty years. She was a sincere and devoted Christian, patient in suffering and never complaining. She was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

Even a Stoic Groans

under the torment of neuralgia, when every nerve in face or limb throbs and jumps. Philosophy cannot endure this agony but Perry Davis' Painkiller relieves it. Bathe the affected parts freely, keep them warm and do not expose yourself to cold and dampness. Medical science marches right along, but it has not found the equal of Painkiller in the treatment of neuralgia.

NEW TRUST COMPANY'S STAFF

ASSISTANTS SELECTED FOR THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Edward F. Feickert Will be the Teller of the Plainfield Trust Company.

The Plainfield Trust Company's several departments will be in charge of the following persons who have been selected for their respective positions by reason of their special qualifications. Edward F. Feickert, for the past eleven years with Kountze Brothers, the bankers at 120 Broadway, New York, has been engaged to fill the position of teller.

Mr. Feickert recently leased the Beckman property, corner of Fairview avenue and Verdon street, and is very favorably known to the directors of the company. He brings to this position a great deal of valuable knowledge acquired during his banking experience.

The services of Daniel E. Davis, a valued and respected citizen of Plainfield for years, have been secured for the position of bookkeeper. Mr. Davis for twenty years held a confidential position as accountant and bookkeeper with the late firm of Wallace Elliott & Co., who dissolved partnership recently.

Raymond Stevens, a well-known young man of the borough, a graduate of the North Plainfield High School Class of '02, has been engaged as junior clerk and Mrs. Adeline P. Robinson, for several years with Harvey Flak & Sons, bankers, has secured the position of stenographer.

GAVE A CONCERT.

Raised Funds for Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim Church With an Excellent Programme.

A pleasing concert was given Thursday evening in the Congregational church under the auspices of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church and an appreciative audience gathered to enjoy it. The programme included a prayer by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, selections by the Pilgrim church string band, piano solos and organ selections by John T. Erickson, vocal solos by J. A. Scott, violin solos by George H. Spier, violin duets by George H Pier and John Tinglof.

The programme was an excellent one and it was well rendered, each number being heartily received. Following the entertainment there was an informal social during which refreshments were served by the women of the church. The affair was a success, netting a goodly sum for the church under whose auspices it was given.

Informal Affair.

An informal reception was given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, at their home on Sandford avenue, in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Willett, of New York. The social features were greatly enjoyed by all.

Building Lodge Gate.

William C. Smith, of the borough, has commenced the work on the handsome lodge gate to be erected at the entrance to the Hyde property in North Plainfield. The gate will cost, it is said, several thousand dollars.

SCHOOLS FEEL COAL STRIKE

Bids to Furnish Year's Supply of Coal for Public Schools Much Higher Than Usual.

AN INCREASE OF $500.

Only One Firm, According to Report, Was Able to Fill Order Now —Referred to Committee With Power—City School Board in Session Last Monday.

Rumors of a continuation of the existing strike in the anthracite region with a subsequent scarcity of coal, had its effect on the bids of local dealers to furnish the school fuel supply as opened at last Monday's meeting of the Board of Education.

But three dealers made an estimate and, of these, the lowest will make the appropriation for coal $500 more than was that of last year. The entire supply will cost $2,500. The bids as opened last evening were as follows: E. H. Holmes, $6 per ton for egg, stove and chestnut; D. C. Ivins & Company, nut $3.40, stove $3.42, egg $5.34, Nottingham pea $3.34; McDonough Brothers, $5.75 for all sizes except pea. According to Mr. Woodhull, the latter firm has in its bins at present 3,200 tons of coal and is the only firm in the city able to furnish large lots immediately. The bids were referred to the committee on fuel with power.

The remainder of the evening for the most part was devoted to the transaction of routine business. The usual reports were read as follows: Total amount of taxes collected for the month, $869.87 including interest; pupils examined by the medical examiners, 107; pupils vaccinated, 21; receipts for the month according to the custodian of school moneys, $17,- 186.62, disbursements $6,055.27, balance $11,131.35.

Superintendent Maxson submitted a brief report of the recent school exhibit, which he declared to be an unqualified success. Several thousand persons in the aggregate had witnessed the displays and all had been greatly pleased. In his opinion the exhibit will assist in the advancement of work both on the part of teachers and pupils. Mr. Lovell, for the Board of Appraisement, stated the budget of $61,600 had been passed. The committee on rules and regulations reported completing its work and asked for dismissal but action was deferred until the next meeting.

Committees appointed at the last regular meeting to complete details for the commencement exercises reported as follows: Music, same orchestra as last year; awarding of English composition prize, committee submitted, A. H. Atterbury, Mrs. G. W. Edwards and E. C. Perkins. Following a discussion on the merits of the plan, it was decided to discon- tinue awarding a prize for penmanship. Owing to the adoption of the vertical system of writing, it was explained, individualism in penmanship had been abrogated. It has become almost an impossibility to distinguish any one pupil's writing and for that reason the work of the committee has continued to become harder each year. It is possible another subject will be selected to take the place for which a prize can be awarded.

On motion, all teachers were allowed pay for days on which they were detained by sickness and one teacher who has been ill since December last was voted the difference between her salary and that of the substitute taking her place.

The matter of appointing assistant janitors for each of the larger buildings was broached by President Probasco and was referred to the committee on buildings. This is a question which has been steadily rising in importance until now the duties of janitors are so arduous that it will have to be settled very soon.

The five year lease of the Whittier school building will expire July 1 and the advisability of renewing it for a similar term was left to the proper committee.

At the last meeting a committee was appointed to confer with the local water company in regard to having the system extended to the Irving school. This body reported amid much laughter that the next day the clerk discovered the building has been supplied with city water for six years. The school has no inside drinking fountains and two not in use at the High School building were ordered transferred to it.

Salary Increased.

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has received notice that his salary has been increased from $2,900 to $3,000. This news is gratifying, coming at a time when the Plainfield postoffice is promoted to the first class.

DIFFERENCE IN MANNERS.

Americans Appear to Much Better Advantage in Public Dining-Rooms Than Englishmen.

"Do you know, I thought you were English people," said one woman to another in one of the parlors of a hotel the other morning. "Why, may I ask?" questioned the woman she addressed. "Oh, because your husband walks so decidedly ahead of you into the dining-room."

This remark, showing the result of unexpected and unsolicited observation, set the woman criticised to thinking. She began to observe her fellow sojourners as they came in and went out of the beautiful, quiet dining-room, says the New York Tribune.

To her surprise, she saw that it was almost invariably the case for the husband to pause on the threshold and either walk beside his wife or allow her to precede him and to select the seat she preferred to occupy. As a general thing the smart, well-dressed woman evinced neither hesitation nor embarrassement, but after one rapid glance which seemed to take in the whole situation, led the way with unerring perception of the nicest spot.

After a day or two of this uninterrupted proof of what American women do the monotony was broken by the arrival of a party of English tourists—two men and two women. The men at once became conspicuous; they spoke very distinctly to the head waiter, bidding him find a place "away from those heaters," said the atmosphere was "beastly stuffy," and after they were all comfortably placed at table the eldest man in the party evidently asked his wife if she was suited, for she answered with a smile and a gentle voice: "Yes, indeed, dear; yes, indeed."

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY SONGS

English Students Not So Much Given to College Music as the Germans Are.

The conspicuous scarcity of characteristic songs in British as compared with German universities is probably due to other causes besides the relative indifference to musical culture of British youth as a whole, says the London Globe. The undergraduate of Oxford or Cambridge does not take himself with that prodigious seriousness which characterizes the student of Bonn or Jena, and is not naturally inclined to regard his university career as a separate idyllic phase of existence deserving of a reverent and enthusiastic lyrical treatment. His general athletic bias makes him fegard "musical men" of a serious cast as a class apart, whose proclivities are fortunately few, while on the occasions when his triumphant soul seeks relief in more or less melodious outpourings, he is apt to find the simple Elizabethan, stated the budget of $61,600 had been passed. The committee on rules and regulations reported completing its work and asked for dismissal but action was deferred until the next meeting. American musical comedy fits his needs quite fully. For these different reasons, such an attempt as has once more been made recently to provide English university men with a songbook after the German pattern is very likely to succeed. There is neither an adequate demand nor a suitable supply. In Germany there exists a great mass of student songs, because of the conditions of life of the students has run in that direction. In England there are hardly any songs that have a special suitability for university life at all, and any selections made from songs at large is arbitrary and carries little weight with its intended public.

AN UNEXPECTED TRIP.

Wonderful Nerve and Endurance of an Iowa Boy Carried Off by a Balloon.

Carlton H. Myers, of West Liberty, Ia., a boy 12 years old, displayed most wonderful nerve and presence of mind in a balloon ascension, where even a man of experience might have been expected to lose courage. An Iowa paper gives the story:

"The balloon was almost inflated with hot air when the anchor-ropes gave way and it started upward suddenly with a rush. The spectators were horrified to see a boy hanging head downward from the ropes. The little fellow, boy-like, had approached too near the preparations, and his foot became entangled in one of the ropes. The aeronaut called out: 'Straighten up, boy, but hold on for all you are worth.'

"The plucky lad obeyed, reached up above his foot, and, catching hold of the rope, quickly righted himself, climbed up about eight feet and then threw his body through several ropes that came together at the mouth of the loon; he was a number of feet above the parachute, but so close to the outlet, in the airship that the escaping hot air and gas almost caused him to faint. He made the entire trip, about three miles, hanging by the arms.

"The height which the balloon reached is estimated to have been about one mile, a distance of 500 feet higher than the aeronaut intended to go. They came down in a cornfield and thus escaped injury."

Lamp of Marine Microbes.

A strange lamp has been constructed by Prof. Raphael Dubois, of Lyons, France. On a metal stand is nearly filled with a liquid composed of luminous marine microbes; there are two tubes running from the globe, and through these a supply of air can be sent to the interior of the globe, the light growing in effect apparently being to revivify the microbes. The light from this lamp will last for several weeks without renewal of the illuminating medium.

CRICKET IN THE SOUTH SEAS.

England's Favorite Amusement Is a Strenuous Game in These Parts.

Australia does not monopolize all the cricket at the other end of the world. In Fiji, Samoa and Tonga the natives have taken to cricket with perhaps too much enthusiasm. It has become the custom for one tribe to challenge another, and as every member of the tribe insists on playing, the matches are sometimes 60 a side and run into weeks, the defeated tribe having to pay to the victors a forfeit of ten pigs.

In Tonga this was felt to be such an abuse and led to so much neglect of their proper avocations by the natives that a law was passed prohibiting cricket for more than two days in the week. King George II. of Tonga, a young man still in the twenties, is a most devoted cricketer. He is an excellent batsman and his agility in the field is surprising.

The Pacific islanders play cricket without pads, gloves or any protection whatever. Their only garment is the lava-lava, or loincloth, they often receive hard blows from the ball on their bare bodies, but apparently suffer no injury. In the remote districts where cricket materials are not easily procurable, a tree serves as a wicket, a cocoanut as a ball and a waruhu as a bat. Under these primitive conditions, says the New York Commercial Gazette, an umpire is occasionally clubbed for giving a decision adverse to the batsman.

STORY OF PRINCE HENRY.

Taken to Task by Captain of His Regiment for Wearing the Order of the Garter.

One evening in the middle '80s Prince Henry of Prussia, just returned from a longer voyage in the far east, found himself at a ball in the royal palace in Berlin. Instead of his naval uniform of commander he had donned the uniform of the First regiment of foot guards, in which he was then a lieutenant, relates the New York Times. A captain belonging to the same regiment soon accosted him and, noticing certain insignia on his arm, said to him, gruffly: "Do you know, sir, that it is against the regulations to wear foreign orders."

"Yes, sir; but my grandmother conferred this, and—"

"There is also another regulation which says that foreign orders are not hereditary. You will report to your captain to-morrow."

"Very good," humbly replied the prince. "But I said my grandmother 'conferred' this—she did not 'give' it."

"Ah, and what do you call it, young man?" inquired the officer, with a slight touch of curiosity in his voice.

"The order of the garter, captain."

"Never heard of it. Must be some fake decoration. I shall look into this matter myself. Who did you say your grandmother was?"

"I didn't say, captain. But she is called Queen Victoria."

A PLEASANT IMPRISONMENT.

German Duellist Who Killed a Student Will Not Have to Suffer Much in Durance.

The sentence of two and a quarter years' imprisonment in a fortress which has been passed on the German officer, Lieut. Thieme, who lately shot dead a student of Jena in a duel, is by no means so severe as it looks. "Festungs-arrest" in reality is a comparatively pleasant affair. The offenders have an agreeable barrack room placed at their disposal, from which they can emerge at stated hours and enjoy a pensive walk at the confines of the fortress, and they may even have a servant to wait upon them.

There are few officers thus "incarcerated" who do not relish the change from the disciplinary rigor of the barrack yard. The delightful promenades afforded them within the precincts of such picturesquely situated fortresses as Konigstein, on the Elbe, or Ehrenbreitstein, on the Rhine, where they are deprived of almost no privileges save the empty one of carrying their swords. And then, too, says the London Chronicle, in most cases, about five-sevenths of their nominal "time" is always remitted them—especially in cases of dueling—when they resume their career in a new garrison.

The Champion Spanker.

Prof. F. A. Lillie, of Waterbury, Conn., is the champion spanker of the world. Recently he chastised 40 pupils in 37 minutes. A minstrel parade appeared just before the time for the school to assemble for the afternoon session. Every one of the pupils, even to the first primary class, followed the band. During the afternoon the children straggled in and when the last one had appeared the professor called an executive session in the basement, where he had put away a big rubber garden hose of convenient length. In 37 minutes after the 40 children had assembled in the cellar they were marched back to their desks and every one of them had had a taste of garden hose.

Largest Induction Coil.

The largest induction coil, which produces the longest spark for service in wireless telegraphy, is now in use by one which was recently made for flashing messages between the coast of Japan and Corea. It can produce, in fact, a miniature streak of lightning 45 inches in length, capable of killing any number of persons who might get in its way and when in operation sends out something like thunder rolls. The entire apparatus weighs about 2,000 pounds.

MISS MILLER WEDDED TO REV. H. K. WRIGHT

Ceremony Took Place at the Home of Isaac L. Miller, the Bride's Uncle, Saturday.

WAS A QUIET MARRIAGE.

REV. DR. RICHARDS OFFICIATED, ASSISTED BY REV. A. V. V. RAYMOND.

Pretty Wedded Attended Only by Immediate Relatives and Friends —Attendants of the Bride and Groom—They Go to China.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller on Watchung avenue was the scene of a charming wedding, Saturday afternoon, when their niece, Miss Mary How Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. DeWitt Miller, of La-Grande avenue, was married to Rev. Harrison King Wright, of Pulaski, N. Y. Those present were all family connections with the exception of a few intimate friends of the bride.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union Theological Seminary, officiated at the ceremony. Dr. Raymond is a personal friend of the bride and groom and he came to Plainfield especially to assist in the marriage.

The ceremony was performed in the library, where decorations of green and white made the room very attractive. The decorations consisted of ferns and white flowers. A marriage bell, also of green and white, was suspended in one corner of the room and beneath this the bridal party stood. In the dining room the table was garnished with pink roses.

While the Mendelssohn wedding march was being played by Miss Nancy VanDeventer, of Netherwood, the bridal party appeared. The members descended the front stairs and passed through the hallway and parlor into the library. Preceding was the maid-of-honor, Miss Anne Kip Miller, a sister of the bride and the bridesmaids, Miss Miriam Wright, sister of the groom of Pulaski, N. Y., and Miss Bessie Flower, of Plainfield. They were gowned in all white and carried bouquets of daisies.

The bride then followed, accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage. She was gowned in crepe de chine, trimmed with old point lace which was worn by her mother when she was married. She also wore a veil of tulle fastened with pearl pins and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. The groom and his best man, Frederick Pearsons, of New York, awaited the officiating clergymen and other members of the party in the library as they entered the room.

After the ceremony, which was performed with a ring and according to the Episcopal church, the bride and groom faced about and received a shower of congratulations. This being concluded a wedding dinner was served. Early in the evening the happy couple left Plainfield to enjoy a honeymoon.

The groom was ordained Thursday evening at the Crescent Avenue church for service in the mission field. He and his bride will probably sail in August for China, where he is to engage in his work in the province of Shanghai. They were generously and very happily remembered with gifts both useful and pretty.

Those who served as ushers at the wedding were Wirt Lancaster, of New York, and Joseph Wright, a brother of the groom, of Pulaski, N. Y.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MOSHER.

Services Were Held From the House of William R. Mosher Sunday.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. J. E. Mosher were held Sunday afternoon from the residence of her son, William R. Mosher, of New street. Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis conducted the services.

There was a beautiful display of floral tributes. During the service favorite selections were sung by Mr. and Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Elmer E. Runyon and Mrs. Wm. C. Hubbard. The interment took place in the Seventh-Day Baptist cemetery. The pall-bearers were Henry Mosher and Edward Mosher, of New York; J. M. Hawkins, Arthur Mosher and William B. Mosher, of this city, and Edward Mosher, of Alfred, N. Y.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. D. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Martin Crouce, of Essex street, is out after a several days' confinement to his home by illness.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1902. NO. 24

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

TO CONSOLIDATE THE PLAINFIELD MILK TRADE

Probable That Plan Will Be Carried Out in the Near Future.

PURE MILK A FEATURE.

THIS PLAN IS SAID TO BE IN SUCCESSFUL OPERATION IN OTHER CITIES.

It Will be Possible, It is Claimed, to Handle Pure Milk and Other Similar Products at a Reduced Cost.

If the plans of the American Pure Milk Company, of New York, do not go awry, that company will soon establish a milk depot in this city which will aim to consolidate the milk trade in Plainfield under one head to the general advantage of the milkmen and the customers. Representatives of this company have been looking over the field and interviewing city officials until they are quite confident that their plans can be carried to a realization in the near future.

Notice has already been given in these columns of the appearance of M. J. Briggs, one of the representatives of that company, before the City Board of Health in an informal way to explain the proposed methods of this company. The plan is to establish a milk depot here with all the modern sanitary appliances. Butter and other dairy products, as well as ice cream, are also to be made there. To this place the milk dealers will bring their daily supply. It is said by representatives of the company that they will be able to actually pay the milk dealers more than their net price of today and still dispose of the milk themselves without raising the price and yet make a fair profit. This will be made possible, they say, by consolidating the work of delivery, one wagon covering the ground that half a dozen do now.

This "milk trust," as it is sometimes called, is no new idea but is in successful operation in many cities through the United States and has, in most cases, worked to the general benefit of the customers. The consolidation of the business makes it possible to handle the milk and its bi-products at a greatly reduced cost when done in such wholesale fashion.

One of the chief claims made for this concern, which is considering the location of a branch in Plainfield, is that it makes a special feature of pure milk. Those who supply the company with milk are required to keep their dairies in particularly fine condition and the strictest sanitary regulations are made for the handling of all the milk. It is said that the milk depot will be particularly high class.

In regard to the location of the American Pure Milk Company in this city, nothing has yet really been done. The company is anxious to start here as it deems Plainfield an excellent field for the extension of its operations. Since the plan was first suggested, much interest has been taken in it, especially by those who are now interested in the milk business. The location of such a depot here would undoubtedly revolutionize the milk business here and make many changes. There are now a number of milkmen who purchase their daily supply of milk from some of the large dairies and simply deliver it to their customers. Those who have dairies of their own would not be so greatly affected.

FUNERAL OF ANDREW ZEISZ.

Held From the Late Home on New Street Tuesday Afternoon.

Relatives and friends completely filled the late home of Andrew Zeisz, on New street Tuesday afternoon, when funeral services were held over his remains. They were in charge of Rev. Theodore Duensing, pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran church.

There were numerous beautiful floral tributes from loving friends and from the Saengerbund Society of which he was a charter member. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery. The casket was borne to the grave by six members of the family, Charles and Edward Lang, of Newark, Charles VanMiddlesworth, of Brooklyn, George Mehl, Jr., George Schlereth and William Trembath, of this city.

—The work on the new iron factory, being erected by Levring & Garrigues at West Dunellen, is progressing favorably.

BLAZING BARN GAVE FIREMEN HARD RUN

Heavy Roads of Sand Prevented Part of the Apparatus From Reaching Fire.

IN ANOTHER COUNTY.

BARN OF HOTELKEEPER LAWRENCE KERWIN WAS BURNED TO GROUND.

Was Located in Middlesex County—Alarm Turned in at 11 o'Clock by Roundsman Flynn Who Saw the Blaze—Loss About $1,000.

An alarm, turned in at 11 o'clock, Tuesday night, from box No. 47 by Roundsman Flynn, for a fire over the line in Middlesex county, led the local department a merry chase and scattered the apparatus in all corners of Evona.

The barn of Lawrence Kerwin, the hotel keeper near Rock avenue, furnished the blaze and the flames mounting high in the air led to the belief that it was a city fire. With one exception the entire department started for the scene and when Clinton avenue was reached, six pieces of apparatus were distributed in as many parts of that sandy section of the city. The tired horses were barely able to proceed on the dirt roads after the long run and it was a case of which had the most endurance that got the nearest to the conflagration.

Chief Doane, No. 3 hose wagon and the chemical engine reached the scene but finding it was out of jurisdiction the former returned for his trucks.

The hook and ladder truck and a hose wagon were unable to proceed past Clinton avenue and Second street and No. 1 engine was nowhere to be seen.

It was afterward learned that the steamer had passed all the others and was well on toward Kerwin's when Driver William Yaegar lost his bearings. He stopped to reconnoiter in one of the worst spots of Evona avenue and that settled the forward journey of the machine. His team of big grays pulled and tugged but the wheels only shifted a little and then slowly settled to the hubs in the grasping sand. Giving up the idea of getting out alone the firemen started to corral re-enforcements and kidnapped everybody that came along. Twenty men were collected and these with the horses finally extricated the machine and by dint of pushing and pulling got it back to the more stable macadam of Clinton avenue. It was housed nearly an hour after the rest of the apparatus had been put up.

The barn was burned to the ground entailing a loss of $1,000. Mystery surrounds the origin of the blaze as the structure was all aflame before it was discovered. But for the wind being north the hotel would have been consumed also as it was in close proximity to the burned structure.

MEMORIAL TABLETS.

Will be Unveiled at All Souls Church Sunday Morning.

Some months since the trustees of All Souls' church gave an order for some memorial tablets to be placed upon the walls of that church on Park avenue, in loving membrance of departed friends and benefactors.

The persons to be so commemorated are William Phillips Tildon, first pastor of the church; Henry Bartlett Wells, the first president of its board of trustees; Job Male, first mayor of Plainfield and giver of the lot on which the church is built, and Mrs. Sarah Stout, an early benefactor of the parish.

These memorials will be unveiled next Sunday forenoon, with simple but affectionate ceremonies, as a part of the customary services at the church.

Jersey Central Appointments.

J. A. Taylor, general auditor of the New Jersey Central, has announced the following appointments: H. W. Kershaw, freight claim agent; J. E. Brokaw, assistant general auditor; and D. H. MacFarland, assistant auditor freight traffic.

Among the Safe Places.

A safe place to keep one's valuables in during the summer months while on a vacation is in the safe deposit vaults in the First National Bank. Ample provisions are made for the safe keeping of all valuable articles at a reasonable figure.

—Arrangements have been made for Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, to preach at the Rescue Mission service Sunday evening.

ADMITTED HE ROBBED BUT PLEADED INSANITY

Remarkable Trial of John B. McGlinchy, Self Confessed Flat Thief, at Elizabeth.

PLEADED HIS CASE.

DESPITE HIS ELOQUENT APPEAL, HE WAS FOUND GUILTY.

Refused to Have Counsel, But Conducted His Own Case—He Pleaded Guilty With Extenuating Circumstances—Rare Case.

Elizabeth, June 11.—Judge, prosecutor and spectators alike were amazed at the intelligence and familiarity with the law displayed by John B. McGlinchy, the man arrested in Plainfield May 9 for robbing the flat of William Symons, of North avenue, that city, when he was placed on trial here, yesterday.

Counsel was assigned him but before the courtroom was reached they disagreed and McGlinchy announced his intention of conducting his own case. His determination amused the attaches but their derisive remarks gave way to astonishment when he faced the court and in a firm voice pleaded guilty but with extenuating circumstances. He committed the theft, he declared, but an unbalanced mind made him mentally irresponsible.

The case proceeded and McGlinchy examined witnesses, testified and pleaded in a manner which elicited the commendation of the everybody. It was easy to be seen he was possessed of unusual intelligence although his appearance gives anything but that impression.

He sought to quash the indictment on the ground that it stated that the crime had been committed at night whereas he had caused the witnesses to acknowledge that he was in jail at the time, the theft having been committed in the afternoon. The climax came to the sensations of the trial when McGlinchy took the stand to testify in his own behalf:

"I have no recollection, whatever, of committing this crime with which I am charged. I have at times suffered from temporary insanity and my mind has then become a complete blank. For a while I was an inmate of the Louisville insane asylum. During the eight weeks I spent there I once attempted to jump from a third story window, cutting my arm and inflicting a terrible wound upon my head which is still visible. I am thirty-seven years of age but weigh only ninety pounds. A deformed body cannot nourish a healthy mind. I have shown evidence of my irresponsibility under certain conditions and I am confident no one of you would seek to injure the character of one who is not responsible for acts alleged to have been committed. I am in a strange city, far away from home and my relatives who are all people of integrity, and upon whom has never been pointed the finger of shame. I trust you will carefully consider the facts and pass upon my case mercifully, knowing that God alone, who seeth all things, is acquainted with the innermost workings of the human mind."

When the defendant had finished his plea, Prosecutor English ejaculated, "This is certainly the most extraordinary case in my experience at this court, in fact, I have never witnessed any proceedings of a more unusual character." He reviewed the case briefly as presented by the State and McGlinchy himself, whereupon the Judge charged the jury to the effect that unless sufficient evidence of insanity had been presented, the verdict must be against the defendant. The jury returned with a verdict of guilty within a few minutes.

Promised to Do Better.

John Remppies, the boy arrested for breaking and entering, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon yesterday. He tearfully promised to do better and sentence was suspended during his good behavior.

More Men to the Front.

The ranks of the Lehigh Valley's mobilization camp at South Plainfield are rapidly being depleted. Thirteen men started for the coal fields yesterday *and more are expecting to re*ceive orders to move to day.

Retail Clerks' Meeting.

At the meeting of the Retail Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association Monday evening six applications for membership were received and two new members were initiated.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Interesting Exercises Were Held at Marcoaster Chapel Last Sunday Afternoon.

The Children's Day exercises at Marcoaster chapel Sunday afternoon were of a pleasing character and very interesting. There was an orchestra of five pieces assisting in the musical renditions.

Recitations were given by Daisy and Ira Morrison, Willie Robertson, Lillian Stalka, Lottie Campbell, Florence Stalka, Fred Stover, Nettie Stover, Bessie Campbell, Jennie Robertson, Mary Morrison, Frank Brown, Monroe Pyatt, Laura Treble, Russell Pyatt, May Pyatt, Emmell Whelpley and Richard Campbell. There were also addresses by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, M. Seymour Purdy and George Watts and several appropriate hymns were sung by the school under the direction of Mrs. George Leighton.

F. S. Cutter drilled the pupils and Miss Quinn presided at the piano. Miss Fanny Stover was in charge of the decorations, assisted by Leo Van Court.

FIGHT FOR KNITTING WORKS

COURT OF CHANCERY IS TO CONSIDER THE CASE AT ONCE.

This Legal Controversy Between Partners Has Secured a Hearing Very Soon.

The case of Henry B. Drosin against Leo J. Studley and Marks N. Rosenthal, which is now pending in the Court of Chancery, will come up before Vice Chancellor Stevens at 10 o'clock this morning at the Chancery Chambers in Newark for argument The case is remarkable for the rapidity with which it was brought before the Court of Chancery.

About 6 o'clock Monday evening, the defendants undertook to remove the principal part of the goods in the knitting mills at Watchung on vans of William Hand & Son. Messrs. Codington & Swackhamer, the attorneys of the complainant, Mr. Drosin, were notified at that time and when the vans reached Front street and Watchung avenue, they were taken into custody by an officer of the law and held by him over night.

The next morning Mr. Swackhamer took an early train and appeared before Vice Chancellor Stevens as soon as he came into the court room and presented a bill in Chancery setting up all the facts which were necessary to obtain a restraining order and a rule to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of the partnership property and adjust the affairs of the firm.

The bill, which had been drawn the previous evening, consists of fifteen closely typewritten pages, and upon this bill, the order was granted which effectually secures the rights of Mr. Drosin, the complainant, by preventing the possibility of his partner's getting away with the property and by compelling an accounting.

Mr. Drosin claims that Mr. Studley, his partner, refused to put in the money he had agreed to furnish and countermanded certain orders of their customers, and took the books of account to the city of New York, and afterward came to the mills and pretended to sell out to Mr. Rosenthal and to put him in possession.

They then, it is alleged, ordered Mr. Drosin out of the mills and put pad locks on the doors, and afterward attempted to remove the goods as above stated.

RELIABLE INSTITUTION.

City National Bank Has Made An Enviable Reputation.

The City National Bank, organized in 1875, enjoys an enviable reputation among the banking institutions of this State and other places as a thoroughly reliable and progressive bank. Its officers are all men well-known in financial circles, whose integrity and method of doing business has never been questioned. Through this institution much business has been brought to Plainfield and thus the interests of the city have been increased.

The City National Bank has a capital of $150,000, together with $42,-300 in surplus and undivided profits. Besides doing a general banking and collection business, drafts and letters of credit are issued on all parts of the world. This bank will allow interest on current accounts, subject in accordance with its rules, to check at sight, and has also arranged for a savings department. A feature of this bank is the safe deposit vault, where valuables can be kept with absolute safety. This institution also acts as custodian of wills.

POPULAR YOUNG FOLK WEDDED TUESDAY

Marriage of Miss Katheryn B. Heycock to Isaac L. Williamson Held at Bride's Home.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

THE BRIDE AND GROOM WILL TAKE UP THEIR RESIDENCE IN PLAINFIELD.

Ceremony Was Performed by Rev. C. E. Herring—Attendants on the Bride and Groom — The Charming House Decorations.

The marriage of Miss Katheryn Belle Heycock to Isaac L. Williamson o'clock at the home of the bride's was solemnized Tuesday night at 8:30 mother, Mrs. Louisa L. Heycock, at 321 East Third street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white organdie over white silk, entrain, with veil and orange blossoms. Miss Elizabeth A. Welch, of German Valley, N. J., a cousin of the bride, was maid-of-honor and wore white silk organdie. The bridesmaids were Miss Phebe R. Marshall, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Gertrude A. Wrench, of Bound Brook, who were dressed in white tissue. The bride and attendants each carried bouquets of white roses. William Golden, of Hopewell, was the best man and Edward Golden and Marion Voorhees, also of Hopewell, acted as ushers.

The parlors were made beautiful by waving palms, wildwood, ferns and flowers. Promptly as the hour arrived, the bridal party took its place, Charles M. Suhr, of this city, playing the wedding march from "Lohengrin" by Wagner. The bride entered the parlor escorted by her cousin, John C. Welch, of German Valley. The groom entered the room from an opposite direction. After hearty congratulations were offered a dainty collation was served.

The bridal party was ushered to the cozy dining room which was filled with nature's choicest flowers. The table spread for ten was elaborately decorated with smilax and carnations. After refreshments a flashlight picture was taken of the happy group.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson left amid well wishes of the guests and took the 10:17 o'clock westbound train for an extended trip. Mr. Williamson and his wife expect to reside in Plainfield. They will be "at home" at 321 East Third street after June 24. The groom is valued employe of Woodhull & Martin.

The gifts were both numerous and useful, including a plush lounge, stands, clock, china dinner set, toilet set, a gold watch, table linen and many pieces of solid silver. The bride's gifts to her maids were gold pins.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Joseph Blimm, Mr. and Mrs. William Ulmer, Miss Carrie Weiss, of Plainfield; Senator and Mrs. Welch, of German Valley; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Robinson, Miss Maria Heycock, of New York; Harry D. Robinson, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George Heycock, of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Alpaugh and daughter, Miss Elsie Alpaugh, Miss Edith Murphy, of New Germantown, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Williamson, Miss Esther Williamson, Charles Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Williamson, of Hopewell; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Leigh, of Trenton; Dr. and Mr. C. S. Scarborough, of Madison; Mrs. Anna Williamson and Miss Tillie Williamson, of Rocky Hill, N. J.

Funeral of Mrs. Cadmus.

At the residence of her sister, Mrs. Andrew Johnson, of Duer street, on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock the funeral services of the late Mrs. C. V. Cadmus were held. Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman. Members of the family acted as pallbearers. The interment was in North Plainfield cemetery.

Big Entering Class.

The final examinations in the North Plainfield High School have just been completed. Seventy-one pupils have passed successfully the examinations admitting to the higher department. This number is more than twice as large as that of any previous year.

Somerset's Nominations.

Officers were nominated at the regular meeting of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., on Tuesday. The election of officers will be held the last Tuesday of the month.

CITY HIGH DEFEATED IN ITS FINAL GAME

Lost to Pingry's School in a Well-Played Game at Elizabeth Tuesday.

THE SCORE WAS 5 TO 3.

AT CRITICAL MOMENTS THE PINGRY BOYS WERE STEADY AND SURE.

Plainfield High School Did Not Always Do the Same, and Thus is the Story of the Game Told In a Very Few Words.

There was one essential difference between the Plainfield High School nine and the team from Pingry's School, when they met on Pingry Oval, at Elizabeth, Tuesday after noon. At critical moments, the Elizabeth boys developed remarkable steadiness while the Plainfielders didn't. As a result, the City High School team went down to defeat by a score of 5 to 3 in a well played game. There was enough excitement about it to develop considerable enthusiasm in the crowd which filled the grand stand. It was the concluding game of the season for the High School boys.

The fun began at the very start. Plainfield High came to bat first and Thompson promptly lined one out for two bases. It was poorly fielded and he reached third. Dyer's easy grounder was sent home but Thompson scored. A stolen base, a sacrifice hit and a passed ball enabled Dyer to complete the circuit. Then the deadly Pingry got in its work.

Stout's three-bagger over the fence, aided by Keeney's sacrifice hit, gave Pingry one run in the second. Ulrich opened the third with a single, stole second, gained third on an error and scored on Craig's easy hit. Pingry made one in the fourth with the aid of Thompson's error, two stolen bases and a sacrifice hit. One of those bases wasn't really stolen for the man was fairly caught between the bases but the umpire didn't see it.

All went well until the sixth inning came around and then it looked for a moment as if Plainfield was going up in the air. Thompson dropped an easy throw and then Van Anken fumbled and threw wild. A hit, good for one bag, and some clever base stealing was all that was needed to make the combination complete. It netted Pingry three runs and those runs won the game.

Thrice the visitors sent a man round to third but it didn't do any good. Littell settled down and he had the best of support. So the last game of the season ended with the City High second best but it was, afterall, a good game and well played.

Van Anken was not quite in his usual form although he was never batted hard. In the infield, Dyer had an off day and made two bad errors which did not, however, affect the general result. Littell pitched a pretty game and had the best of support. Keeney, at short, gave the most brilliant exhibition of the day.

The summary was:

PINGRY.

	R	BH	PC	A	E
Littell, p	0	2	5	3	0
Livingston, 2b	0	0	1	0	0
E. Miller, 3b	0	0	1	1	1
Stout, 1b	2	1	5	0	0
K. Miller, cf	1	1	3	0	1
Keeney, ss	1	0	1	4	0
Kerr, c	1	0	9	0	0
McGiffert, rf	0	1	1	1	0
Glazebrook, lf	0	0	1	0	1
	5	5	27	9	3

P. H. S.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Thompson, 1b	1	1	5	2	2
Dyer, 2b	1	1	3	3	2
Craig, ss	0	1	0	2	1
Moynihan, c	0	0	8	1	0
Munro, 3b	0	0	2	0	0
VanAuken, p	0	1	1	1	1
Denton, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Walters, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Ulrich, lf	1	1	2	0	0
	3	5	24	9	7

Score by innings.

Pingry . . . 0 1 0 1 0 3 0 0 x—5
P. H. S. . . 2 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Base on balls—VanAuken, 3. Two-base hits—Littell, Thompson, VanAuken. Three-base hit—Stout. Double plays—Dyer to Thompson. Hit by pitched ball—Littell, 2. Struck out—By Littell, 7; by VanAuken, 9. Time of game—1 hour and 20 minutes. Umpire—Sykes. Scorer—Alden Moore.

Date for Excursion.

The date for the First Baptist church Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park Thursday, July 10.

JEFFERSONIAN LEAGUE FOR UNION COUNTY

A Democratic Organization for Promoting the Party's Interests.

IS NOW IN FULL SWING.

EXPECTED TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN THE CAMPAIGNS TO COME.

The League Will Work in Harmony With Other Democratic Clubs—Will Attempt to Interest Young Men in Jeffersonian Principles.

The Jeffersonian League of Union county, the Democratic organization recently formed for the purpose of promoting activity in the party circles, promises to attain a healthy growth before the arrival of fall and subsequent campaigning. Several hundred names have already been enrolled and the organization committee is daily in receipt of applications. Through it, the Democrats of the county will be brought more in contact with each other and will be better enabled to develop a more positive and definite sense of the character and meaning of "true Jeffersonian principles."

It is the intention of the formulators to develop the league as both a practical and an educational force. It *is admitted that the party lacks effec*tive organization throughout the county and the gain in followers has been offset by serious losses in the districts not organized. The new league will work in unison with all other Democratic clubs, mainly to interest the younger men who can be of much service to the cause by once getting them imbued with its principles. To aid in demonstrating to the first voters the distinctive difference between Democratic and Republican fundamentals will be in line with the educational work of the Jeffersonian League.

As soon as a sufficient number of members are enrolled it is proposed to divide the county into districts, each one having a local organization. These will carry on the work of the league in their respective districts, but will remain in touch and be aided by the association at large. The practical work will be the systematic circulation of Democratic literature; the educational work among the young voters already mentioned; the holding of frequent mass meeting, under the auspices of the league, in all parts of the county during campaigns and the aiding of local organizations and committees in general campaign and election day work. During the winter and spring season, when political activity is usually less in evidence, the league proposes to institute a series of reunions or meetings in different parts of the county where Democrats can assemble and at which proper entertainment will be provided, including addresses by prominent speakers from all parts of the country.

At a date shortly to be decided upon a meeting will be called when a constitution will be adopted and officers chosen. The organization committee at present consists of James C. Connolly, Peter Egenolf and Charles A. Sulzer, of Elizabeth, James E. Martine, J. H. Hillman and Charles L. Moffett, of this city, John L. Crowell, George B. Cladek and F. V. Dobbins, of Rahway, Alfred J. Lane, of Summit, M. M. Scudder, of Westfield and John Moody, of Cranford. The latter is chairman.

READ FROM SHAKESPEARE.

Prof. Harry C. Franck Gave a Demonstration of His Methods.

A large assemblage in St. Mary's Parochial School hall, last Tuesday, heard Professor Harry C. Franck give a practical demonstration of elocution and voice culture. It is his intention of forming classes for dramatic training and voice culture and he adopted this method of meeting possible pupils.

Professor Franck rendered a number of Shakespearian readings in a masterly way and accompanied them with gesticulations that intensified their delivery. At the close he outlined his plans and many in the audience remained to enter their names in his classes.

In Aid of Marcoaster.

A strawberry and ice cream festival for the benefit of Marcoaster chapel will be given Thursday evening, June 19, on the lawn opposite Campbell's Club House, on Park avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Mali have taken possession of their summer home on East Front street.

NEW WOMAN SAYINGS

THE founders of the American republic held it to be self evident that all men are created equal. Concerning women they were silent, either deeming the feminine sex not worth considering or else thinking it best not to stir up the woman question. Owing, perhaps, to this most melancholy failure on the part of the fathers to define the status of the befrilled half of the race, American women have apparently taken it for granted they are not included in the Declaration of Independence, but have the right to divide themselves into two great classes—classes that may be broadly designated as snobs and mentals. The snob is she who has money; the mental is she who works for her living. In the first class there is likewise a subdivision—namely, she whose husband accumulated the money which lists her in the swim and she whose father or grandfather got it. The one whose father or grandfather got the millions holds herself higher in the scale of being than the person whose mere husband made the money. There are thus the heavy snob and the middle sized snob. In a pretty factory town is a flourishing Christian church. This church proclaims the equal sisterhood of women and that all are one in the spirit. The women of the church organized a society for social and other purposes. It was under the general direction of their pastor. Some factory girls, intelligent, nice looking and of high character, got into the club with the approval of the pastor. Immediately there was a fine feminine outburst among the American women whose ancestors had come over in the steerage a generation or two ahead of the factory girls' ancestors. At a meeting was held at which both the heavy snobs and the middle sized snobs joined in venting their indignation on the factory girls that had dared to come into the club. They sputtered, then they gathered up their skirts with a swish, stuck their noses in the air and resigned from that club on the spot, not forgetting to shut the door with a bang. Oh, my! Oh, my! Oh, my!

* * *

My sisters, boss not; neither be bossed.

* * *

Know this: You are never too old to learn anything you want to learn.

* * *

Mrs. Waterman, sixty years old, is about to enter Cornell university as a freshman. She expects to take the full college course. She does this to get knowledge that will help her in mental researches she purposes making in Italy. She says, "I find I learn faster than I did forty years ago." Fine old girl!

* * *

Here is how Eleanor Kirk speaks her mind on the subject of both mental scientists and doctors: "When a 'scientist' advises the wholesale sweeping out of doctors, I know where to place him. He belongs among the fools. Likewise the practicing practitioner condemns all students of mental or divine science I am able accurately to estimate his caliber. He's another."

* * *

There is one woman doctor of divinity. She is Rev. Augusta J. Chapin of the Universalist church.

* * *

Men build houses; women build homes.

* * *

Dr. Ida E. Hyde is assistant professor of physiology in the University of Kansas. She received part of her scientific education at Heidelberg, Germany, and her record as a student was so high that it induced the governors of Heidelberg to open their medical department to women.

* * *

Two women, Sarah B. Carter and Margaret Bowman, have been appointed copyists in the county register's office in Brooklyn. These are the first of their sex in that office. They had no vote, but their names stood high on the civil service list, and, although the register was considerably upset in his mind over appointing them, there was no help for it.

* * *

Mrs. E. F. Holmes, the "silver queen of Utah," having made her fortune, spends her winters east wearing beautiful gowns and enjoying social life. Nobody has a better right. Mrs. Holmes is the partner of Senator Kearns of Utah in his mining enterprises. She controls and conducts her end of the business personally and has done so with such conspicuous ability that she is now worth $50,000,000, so it is said. This is what might be expected of women in a state where woman can vote.

* * *

Mary Hartwell Catherwood gets much material for her charming stories from dreams. If people took more careful note of their dreams, not in the old superstitious way, but from a modern viewpoint of psychological science, they could learn much of that borderland which for so many ages has baffled human research.

* * *

Camille Olivia Green, colored, after an excellent examination has received from the Louisiana board of pharmacy a certificate empowering her to deal out drugs and prepare prescriptions. She is the first woman druggist of her race.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

It Is an Important Part of a Girl's Education Abroad.

The American girl is no doubt fascinating, yet there is one branch of education in which she is very backward in comparison with her European sisters. I am referring to what is known as household science. The American girl is certainly not taught to be useful around the house. If she is useful, it is because it comes naturally to her, not because any pains are taken to make her so.

It is considered rather smart not to be aware of the existence of the kitchen, and there is a mistaken idea that chafing dish cooking is the only kind it is good form to learn.

LADY MARY TIED AN APRON AROUND HER WAIST.

Some time ago quite a lesson was given to American mothers by Lady Mary Sackville, sister of the present Earl de la Warr and one of the greatest belles of London society. She was visiting at a country house and on the first evening of her arrival, an hour before dinner, the cook suddenly became angry at something and left. The household was thrown into despair, and the cause of it all came to the ears of the English visitor. She calmly tied a large apron around her waist and, descending into the kitchen, at once relieved the anxiety of the helpless and distracted servants. The dinner was beautifully cooked and served, and Lady Mary, not a whit abashed, received the fervent assurances of unbounded gratitude of her hostess, whose daughters looked on with mixed feelings of amazement at the skill in cookery of their noble guest and shame at their own ignorance.

English girls and French girls of the best families are trained housekeepers, well fitted to manage the most difficult establishments. Why should not our girls be brought up to imitate them? It is possible, and if it were done the number of unhappy homes might be less and divorces fewer.

MARGARET TRACY.

MISS CATHERINE M'CLEAN.

TRAINED NURSES IN PARIS.

The First Were Taken There by an American Girl.

The lively, restless disposition of the Frenchwoman naturally makes confinement in a sickroom attending on an invalid irksome to her. It can be easily understood, therefore, that French sick nurses are among the poorest in civilization, although French child nurses are well nigh perfect. But in Paris, with all its preparations for the art of living, there is not today a school for nurses.

The few trained nurses that are in the gay city are English, not French, and an American girl took them there only this year. The story of how she came to do it illustrates well the American way of doing things. She is a clubwoman and learned to take an interest in the public welfare through her membership in the first Paris women's club, which itself grew out of Frenchwomen's work for the Paris exposition. Its splendid activity in public matters, the serious, sincere work of its members in endeavoring to broaden their intelligence and thought, may well put to the blush three-fourths of the women's clubs in free America. The club was founded by the beautiful and public spirited Mme. Durand, who is so much in earnest for the emancipation of woman in France that she pays from her own purse all expenses of the meetings of the organization. The American girl who introduced trained nurses in Paris was for a time the club secretary and may well have caught some of Mme. Durand's spirit.

One day it was announced in a French newspaper that there was not a trained nurse in all Paris, though such nurses were abundant in every other large city in civilization. The fact was deplored, talked about and written about among American and English residents in Paris, then dropped by all but Miss McClean. The matter simmered in her mind till she decided to supply the need. She called on the leading physicians in Paris and proposed that a united effort be made to introduce the trained nurse into France. Many turned down her scheme; said it could never be accomplished, because such a thing had never been done in France.

"That is exactly the reason why it ought to be done now," said the American girl, and she continued on her mission. It is the custom of French physicians to do many things which in England and America are left to the nurse. Some of these doctors perceived that it would be a money loss to themselves to inaugurate the trained nurse since she would be somewhat of a rival, and these actively and hotly opposed the innovation.

A few favored trying the plan at once, and among these were the American and English doctors. At length an American—of course it was an American—physician called a meeting of the medical fraternity to forward the introduction of trained nurses into Paris. Miss McClean, the young clubwoman, was present and addressed the physicians, portraying the advantages of their having qualified assistants at their call and also unfolding the plan she had formed. She begged them to collect money to import four trained nurses from London and, if necessary, to support them three months. Her eloquence was convincing, and in two days later she received notice that the money was ready.

Immediately she cabled to London an advertisement calling for certificated nurses who could speak French to go to Paris. She went to London immediately to meet them and to spend some days in the nurses' homes and training schools. In five days her London work was accomplished, and the ladies were engaged. Then the long fatigable American girl went back to Paris, found homes for her nurses, caused to be printed and distributed among the leading families and physicians of Paris a circular setting forth that the trained nurses had arrived in Paris to stay and where she could be found. Through this shrewd scheme of advertising every nurse from London was employed within a week of her arrival in Paris, and more had to be sent for.

The next thing ought to be the establishing of a training school for nurses in Paris, and this might well be done under American auspices. Meantime it is almost certain that American trained nurses who speak French, if there are any, could go to Paris with excellent prospect of getting good paying employment.

MARY EDITH DAY.

A MODEL LINEN CLOSET.

THE LINEN CLOSET.

How to Arrange It in a Systematic Manner.

The linen closet ought to be the pride of every good housewife. It should be subdivided in an orderly manner and kept beautifully clean and well aired.

Each shelf should be for a special article—sheets, pillow cases, napkins, etc.—and these shelves should be marked off, a certain section for each day of the week. In this way all disorder is avoided and all the linen has a chance to be used, each article in its turn. This is necessary so that the pieces shall not grow yellow through lying on the shelf.

Paint the shelves and drawers white. A good way to keep them from dust is to sprinkle them with white oilcloth daintily scalloped along the edges and deep enough to reach from shelf to shelf. Tack the upper part to the shelf edge, and along the bottom sew stout hooks about eight or ten inches apart. Opposite every hook in the shelf above and below put a tiny brass screw eye.

The best way to light a linen closet is to fasten a lantern on a chain pulley, which may be raised up or down at one will. A wire guard should protect this lantern.

Every damp day the closet should be aired for at least an hour. Lining the shelves with sachets of dried rose leaves or lavender will give a delicious fragrance to the linen.

HELEN CLIFTON.

He Failed, She Succeeded.

Charles Albanus had a restaurant in New York city. His wife assisted in the business, but did not like the way he conducted it. She therefore quit him and opened another restaurant of her own. Their daughter, fifteen years old, went to help her mother, leaving Charles in his own devices. The wife's restaurant prospered amazingly; the man's business went down after she left him. Charles became disgruntled, then mad with jealousy because his wife was the better business man of the two. He brooded over it till he became morbid; then he shot himself. Poor thing!

FARMS IN CUBA.

There were in 1899, 60,711 farms in Cuba, having an average size of 143 acres and an average cultivated area per farm of 13 acres. Only two per cent. of the farm area and only three per cent. of the total area of the island was under cultivation. Matanzas and Havana provinces are the most highly cultivated parts of the island. Of the cultivated area, less than 50 per cent. was owned by its occupants, the rest being rented, and 85 per cent. was occupied by whites, as owners or renters, only 11 per cent. by colored, the remainder being unknown. Measured by the areas under cultivation, sugar cane occupied 47 per cent. of the cultivated lands; sweet potatoes 11 per cent.; tobacco, nine per cent.; corn, eight; rice less than nine per cent., and other crops in smaller proportions.

Military Uses of Snow.

Some interesting experiments have been recently carried out in Norway to ascertain the amount of resistance offered by parapets made of snow to the penetration of rifle bullets. It was found that a wall of snow four feet thick, the snow being neither rammed nor frozen, was proof at 50 yards' distance against the bullets of the Krag-Jorgenson rifle. Snow, therefore, it must be concluded, has a greater resisting power certainly than soft wood, and one nearly equal to that of loosely piled-up earth. The Norwegian rifle, it must be remembered, is sighted up to 2,500 yards, and with a caliber of 6.5 millimeters has a velocity of 2,360 feet, and therefore is of the first at least as powerful a weapon as that of any other army.—London United Service.

First Justice to Wear Gown.

"Few people, I venture to say, even in high official positions, know what justice first wore the gown in the supreme court of the United States," said Hannis Taylor, ex-minister to Spain, who is a recognized authority among writers of law books, being the author of two—"The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution" and "International Republic Law." "When Mansfield was first on the office he thought the members of the supreme bench should wear a gown of some sort. Accordingly he appeared in his own academic gown, which he wore by virtue of having received a degree from the University of Dublin, or, as it was then known, "Trinity College." It was a tri-colored gown, too. Such a garment would look peculiar now, since the black gown has been adopted."—Washington Post.

London Air Deposits Gypsum.

A recent chemical examination of the black deposit, resembling foller scale, that has formed to a thickness of three-quarters of an inch under the coping of the balustrade surrounding the "Stone gallery" at the base of the dome of St. Paul's cathedral, reveals the curious fact that it is essentially a calcium sulfate collected from the air. In two centuries the smoke and gases from London chimneys have charged the rains with sufficient sulfurous and sulfuric acids to cover the stone with a deposit that strikingly resembles calcerous tufa. It is thickest on the under side of the coping because of the dripping of the rain.—Science.

Locating Them.

"Has anybody lost a diamond scarfpin?" asked a gentlemanly, well-dressed man, in a loud voice, as the crowd made its way slowly out of the theater.

Instantly a score of hands were seen fumbling at an equal number of neckties pertaining to the owners of the hands.

Nobody, it appeared, had lost any.

A few moments later, however, after the crowd had wedged through the congested exits, most of the aforesaid owners found they had.—Chicago Tribune.

Australia's Heat.

Australia is the hottest country on record. I have ridden for miles astride the equator, but I have never found heat to compare with this. Out in the country in the dry times there appears to be little more than a sheet of brown paper between you and the lower regions, and the people facetiously say that they have to feed their hens on cracked ice to keep them from laying boiled eggs.—Sydney Telegraph.

Sure Cure.

Doctor—I'm sorry, madam, but I've used every known method to relieve your husband's insomnia all to no avail.

The Wife—I've got a scheme. I'll just tell him every night that I hear a burglar downstairs. That always did make him turn over and go to sleep.—Philadelphia Press.

Can't Tell Him.

Mrs. Backfence (sadly)—The doctor has gone an' cured my husband of th' roomytism.

Mrs. Slocum—An' ain't you glad!

"No, I'm not; how kin I tell when it's goin' t' rain on wash day after this?"—Boston Post.

Quieted Him.

"I—I think there's a hack in your razor," faltered the stranger in the chair.

"Well, did yer expect to find an automobile?" roared the tough barber, as he splashed the lather on the ceiling.—Chicago Daily News.

Cause of Much Trouble.

Half the trouble in the world is caused by people who still ask us what they are told, but invent better plans to do things.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

Spoils Digestion.

Revenge, like other sweet things, spoils the digestive apparatus.—Chicago Daily News.

SILK STILL THE CHOICE.

There Is a Wide Range—Gray Silk Tailored Suit.

In the ever recurring delight of seeing the dainty new cotton and linen fabrics we are apt to forget that silk is still the choice of all things for woman, whether for the lunch or little Monte Carlo jackets or for handsome summer attire. There is a wide choice just now, and among the silks for the season are new ones of great beauty. There are some few black and rich silks intended for regularly made tailor suits, but the majority are in the light and glossy weaves intended for dressy occasions. These are often decorated with applications of lace, black or white, lavishly applied. Few of the silks are in solid colors, but there are taffeta, peau de cygne and gros de londres and some grosgrain, all plain, and these are suitable for outdoor dresses in tailor style.

GRAY SILK TAILORED SUIT.

Peau de levant has a soft and closely twilled surface very rich in appearance, with a regular crepe de chine finish, and this silk may be laundered as often as a calico. Peau de cygne comes twenty-seven inches wide in black and colors. It is very handsome and lustrous in black and makes up elegantly. The skirt is not to be lined, and the bottom is made to flare and be comfortable for warm days. In black all silk poplins are also among the fashionable silks for summer, and they are so light as to be delightful for the coming warm days. This is thirty-one inches wide and therefore cuts to better advantage than the narrower goods.

Some of the liberty silks have jacquard weaves, and until the shopper examines this particular fabric she has not seen one of the most attractive of all. This is light, like all liberty silk, and has all the fabric peculiar to the fabric, with the addition of the woven figures.

Louisine is another new favorite, and for summer wear it is now produced in tiny checks. Some have blue and white checks in different sizes from pinhead to half an inch square. There are red and white, brown and white and black and white. The smallest sizes are the most refined, and a gown made of this style of silk is decidedly French. And there is something extremely neat about this design. One dress was made of the fine blue and white check, with all the accessories—cuffs, revers, collar and fan shaped slashes—at the bottom of the skirt of blue soft silk or liberty taffeta. Blue lace was used to trim the dress, and it was particularly neat and pleasing.

Crisp and often iridescent taffeta is seen among the silks for summer wear, and there are said to be over a hundred colors and tints. The taffeta makes an economical dress, for it does not require laundry work. It will not hold dust, and much of the taffeta silk is now made waterproof. White corded taffeta is employed mostly for the shirt waists, as are the shantungs and habutais. These are washable.

Some of the taffetas are striped in different colors, and others of a better quality. Those mostly for evening wear are warp printed, which gives them a delicately vague effect. Some of the louisines are also printed in tiny white polka dots on a dark ground, like navy, garnet, cadet gray, dark blue and black.

One lady told me that when she saw the dainty muslins she felt that she never wanted anything else, but when she saw the silks muslins suddenly it seemed so cheap to her that she fairly hated the pretty thin dresses she had thought so beautiful a short time ago. What we have is never so desirable as the things unattainable.

I had intended to describe a tailored suit of peau de cygne in a rich dark gray. The skirt is cut so that heavy folds form fans at the bottom, and these are backed by fans of finely plaited crimson chiffon, each fan having a braid zigzag underneath it. On the outside are curiously wrought designs of black silk castle braid. The basque is in the form of a postilion at the back and has a vest front made like the fans at the bottom. A more striking costume could scarcely be imagined.

Thus we may see that silk is not forgotten, for parasols and ribbons for hats are also of it. We owe a debt of gratitude to the industrious little worms for providing us with the fibers to make such lovely things.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

NEW DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Russian Galloon and Flower Appliqué.

The new trimmings are very beautiful, and, although the keynote is embroidery, yet the designs are so varied that there is very little similarity. Russian galloon is shown in curved and straight designs, and the colorings are beautiful. A galloon in three shades of blue, relieved with gold thread, is worked on white canvas, and some slight touches of this on a blue, fawn or brown gown would be charming. Both tailors and dressmakers use these galloons between stitched strappings of cloth or taffeta, and with a few curves or scrolls at the corners they make attractive trimmings for the short boleros.

WHITE AND SILVER.

The new black braids are very effective. They have medallion arrangements of latticework which are slightly transparent. The embroidered passementerie for smart gowns is of the floral order, combined with lace and arranged so that it is easily detached in sprays or groups for applique designs. The borders of lace and em*broidery are very handsome also when* the pattern contains medallions of tucked lisse, surrounded by lace.

An effective evening toilet is the one here shown. It is made of white net, embroidered in silver and appliqued with a pattern of chrysanthemums done in white silk. Around the decolletage there is a garniture of these flowers. There is an empire sash effect of white tulle tied between the shoulders and allowed to hang in full ends to the bottom of the skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Long Coats of Tussore and Taffeta Silks Are Useful.

The highwayman coats are very attractive in alpaca or tussore silk to use as dust or coaching garments, with just a suspicion of lace at the throat or wrist, and for trimming some tabs of taffeta with handsome buttons. Such a coat is indispensable to the smart woman, for it covers and yet does not crush the daintiest summer gown, which emerges immaculate after a long ride in a carriage or motor.

CHINA SILK WAIST.

The fashion of trimming this summer will not appeal to the woman of simple tastes who detests little tassels and pendent ornaments strewn without reason over her gowns. Lace is everywhere, and just now the demand is for heavier makes, such as Russian and Irish crochet.

The fichu will be much worn this summer. It is shown with long bow ends for outdoor wear, when it is even prettier than the more formal bow.

The cut shows a waist of tucked china silk. The tucking extends down the front in a panel, which is banded by two wide strips of insertion and which give the effect of a yoke. The sleeves have a wide cluster of tucks down the center and a full puff at the wrists. The waist can either button down the back or a little to one side of the front under the insertion.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE BUSINESS WOMAN

"SHE is a bore," Mrs. Bentley made this announcement in a tone which admitted of no discussion.

"She talks shop all the time," put in well bred Mrs. Adams.

Little Miss Smith joined the group. "What are you talking about?" she ventured. "The business woman? Umph!" with a shrug of her pretty shoulders. "She is a frump. She does not know how to dress."

"Perhaps she hasn't the money," Mrs. Adams put in charitably.

"Oh, it isn't that kind of dressing I mean," retorted Miss Smith, rearranging her dainty linen turnover collar.

"I think I see what Miss Smith means," here remarked old Stockandbonds, turning around in his comfortable easy chair. "Why, in my office I have actually had to make a rule that no trained skirts are to be worn. I wish you could see the length of skirts my stenographers began to wear when the style came in. Fit for a reception! They trailed over the dirty floors, getting into every one's way. I wish you could have seen how filthy they looked after a few days' wear!"

"But I have met a good many business women who didn't care for dress at all who were almost mannish in their attire," objected Mrs. Bentley.

"Yes, after they have been in business awhile they get so they don't care what they have on," answered Miss Smith, "but at first everything they earn goes on their backs, and it's all worn down to the heels and dragged around the streets regardless of the fitness of time or occasion. Go into any business woman's restaurant, and you will see for yourself. There are draggled out ostrich plumes on soiled picture hats, spotted silk waists and wilted chiffon ties. Now, why on earth doesn't the business woman appreciate the beauty of a smart gray or navy blue tailor made and a swagger rough straw hat trimmed with a veil to match her suit; the beauty, too, of a clean shirt waist that can be washed and which has a neatly fitted collar around the neck instead of a slouchy ribbon thing that cost too much to be thrown away after it was soiled? The style of dressing I suggest costs only half that of the other, and it makes a girl look like a lady even though she isn't one by breeding."

"What I want to know," put in Mrs. Bentley, "is why, when you invite a business woman for the evening, she almost invariably begins to bring the subject around to the office? Now, that would be considered very bad taste in a man; why not in a woman?"

"FIT FOR A RECEPTION!"

"The business woman is all right," said Mrs. Adams, "and we all admire her pluck and grit, but until she begins *to be eccentric and odd and to put her*self in a different class from the rest of her sex; when she begins to feel her independence, to get bohemian, to do things no well bred woman should do, I am not surprised that the tendency of the woman who throws on her own resources is to become mannish, but she ought to struggle against it. She may go short skirted and shirt waisted from morning till night, but she needn't cultivate a short skirt voice (which almost sounds as if it ought to go with a pair of trousers), and she needn't learn to throw her legs and arms around like a man and to boast of how much money she can earn and of what a great thing it is that she doesn't have to render an account of herself to anybody, etc. If she didn't do these things, she would get along just as well in business, and she would keep her circle of friends, which is something every woman needs—even an independent and self supporting woman."

MAUD ROBINSON.

The Girl and the Home.

Rev. Minot J. Savage says: "I believe that every girl ought to be educated in high, highest, noblest sense and trained to do something by which she can earn her own living. I do not believe this is going to stand in the way of the home. It is only going to set women free, so that they shall be able to choose the home and not be driven into it merely for self support."

LATE MICROBE LORE.

Bacteria Are Now Said to Be of Vegetable Growth.

European Scientists Declare That a Person's Character May Be Determined by the Acuteness of the Sense of Smell.

[Special New York Letter.]

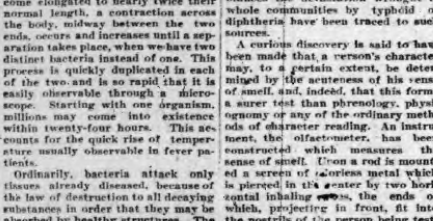
THE time is long since past when anyone would say: "Oh, it do not believe in microbes," also when people were frantic when they touched the strap of a street car without gloves for fear of infection from contact with the small plagues. Everybody has settled down to the knowledge that the microbe is with us, as he has always been, and—to stay, also that we are seldom injured by contact with the minute organisms. Our one comfort in the consciousness of their constant companionship is that the tribe on the whole does much more good than harm. Some varieties are never hostile to health and even those considered most deadly have their uses, if their activity is not directed into wrong channels.

Bacteria absorb their food through their outer surface, thus furnishing incontrovertible evidence that they are vegetable growths. Again, the vegetable, microbes, or bacteria, may be distinguished from Protozoa by their method of reproduction. This takes place through budding or splitting, like some plants of a low order, the Algae. They have no sex. At a certain period of their growth they become elongated to nearly twice their normal length, a contraction across the body, midway between the two ends, occurs and increases until a separation takes place, when we have two distinct bacteria instead of one. This process is quickly duplicated in each of the two and is so rapid that it is easily observable through a microscope. Starting with one organism, millions may come into existence within twenty-four hours. This accounts for the quick rise of temperature usually observable in fever patients.

Ordinarily, bacteria attack only tissues already diseased, because of the law of destruction to all decaying substances in order that they may be absorbed by healthy structures. The three general divisions of bacteria, the bacilli or rod-shaped cocci, or spherical and vibrio, or corkscrew-shaped. Extreme of heat and cold, which would kill a man are as nothing to them. Only sudden changes of temperature seem to affect them. If water is to be sterilized, it must be brought to the boiling point and kept there for at least fifteen minutes. Even then the spores or germ centers are not destroyed. After an hour, during which time they have had a chance to develop, the water should again be boiled for the same length of time, when there will be left alive in it. Filtering is a popular method of disinfecting drinking water because it may be accomplished quickly and with little trouble, but this process is attended with danger, for at a certain stage the pores of the filter are apt to become clogged with germs which press through the water, rendering it much more unfit for use than when placed in the filter. To be reliable a filter should be one of powdered electric, sponged iron or carbonized bone and a microscopical examination of the water be made frequently to ascertain whether the apparatus works properly. It has been proven that, as a rule spring water upon its first appearance at the surface is perfectly pure. The few exceptions to this rule are found when the water has passed through infected ground. Pure water when brought in contact with the air is almost immediately fructified by some form of bacterial life.

Often, however, water below the surface becomes infected from some drain or pool where disease germs have found lodgment. In many instances the destruction wrought in whole communities by typhoid or diphtheria have been traced to such sources.

A curious discovery is said to have been made that a person's character may, to a certain extent, be determined by the acuteness of his sense of smell, and, indeed, that this forms a surer test than phrenology, physiognomy or any of the ordinary methods of character reading. An instrument, the olfactometer, has been constructed which measures the sense of smell. Upon a rod is mounted a screen of odorless metal which is pierced in the center by two horizontal inhaling cones, the ends of which, projecting in front, fit into the nostrils of the person being tested.

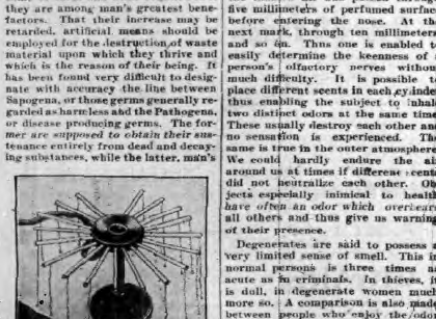


NEW WAY OF TESTING THE OLFACTORY NERVES.

The opposite ends are graduated into divisions of five millimeters each. Hollow cylinders filled with some odor of known quantity and strength slide over them. The odor is more plainly discernible the further the cylinder is drawn toward the back of the instrument. At the first mark, the inhaled air has passed through five millimeters of perfumed surface before entering the nose. At the next mark, through ten millimeters, and so on. Thus one is enabled to easily determine the keenness of a person's olfactory nerves without much difficulty. It is possible to place different scents in such cylinder thus enabling the subject to inhale two distinct odors at the same time. These usually destroy each other and no sensation is experienced. The same is true in the outer atmosphere. We could hardly endure the air around us at times if differences did not neutralize each other. Objects especially inimical to health have often an odor which overbears all others and thus give us warning of their presence.

Degenerates are said to possess a very limited sense of smell. This in normal persons is three times as acute as in criminals. In thieves, it is dull, in degenerate women much more so. A comparison is also made between people who enjoy the odor of musk and those who prefer violet and other delicate perfumes. The greater portion of our food would be tasteless were we unable to smell it. Degeneracy is further indicated by obtuseness of the sense of touch. The touchometer is a wooden stand, from the circular top of which slender horizontal rods extend. To these are pendant fine silk lines, to which are attached small bits of elder pelt covered with the finest sandpaper. The subject is blindfolded and the weights allowed to touch the hand. The weight of the lightest path consciously felt determines the subject's acuteness of touch. Psychologists divide this sense into two parts, pressure touch and temperature touch, thus giving a sixth sense. The temperature touch is easily determined by use of a graduated instrument resembling a thermometer, one end of which is immersed in water. Dullness of any sense at birth is said to indicate a corresponding lack of moral acuteness. All rules have their exceptions and accident and disease is more often than degeneracy the cause of dullness of the senses. In fact, disease is too often the cause of immorality, and we would do well to study microbes versus morals.

EDWARD JULIEN.



TESTING SENSE OF TOUCH.

deadliest foes, feed on diseased living tissue.

It is said that diphtheria germs are sometimes found in the throat of perfectly healthy persons, a long time after their exposure to the disease without having caused any disagreeable symptoms. The origin of bacteria has not yet been satisfactorily determined, although years of patient labor have been given to the question. The old theory generally accepted that bacteria were of spontaneous growth has been proven fallacious by Pasteur, who showed conclusively that life has always sprung from life and that these organisms are generated from those of their own kind. The theory that life was brought to our planet from some other contributes nothing toward the real solution of the original problem. There are

DOWN IN PARAGUAY.

One of the Oddest of All South American Republics.

Although Rich in Natural Resources Its Progress Are Pinched for Money—A Country Without Railroads.

[Special Buenos Ayres Letter.]

THE South American Republic of Paraguay is terra incognita to most people. In a general way it is known that the country is sandwiched in between Brazil, Bolivia and the Argentine Republic; that its capital is Asuncion, and that its government consists of an executive branch, with a president at its head, a senate and a chamber of deputies. The country was settled by Spaniards in 1856. It declared its independence in 1811, refusing to unite with the Argentine confederation. It was successively under the dictatorship of the tyrannical Francia, C. A. Lopez and F. L. Lopez. The latter, in 1865, provoked a war with Brazil, Argentine and Uruguay, which terminated with his death after the country had been completely impoverished and a great part of the adult male population killed. In 1870 a new constitution was adopted; and a year or two later the Argentine Republic laid formal claim to all territory west of the Paraguay river. The dispute was settled by arbitration, in 1878, when President Rutherford B. Hayes gave a decision in favor of Paraguay. The total area of the republic is about 90,000 square miles, with a civilized population of 500,000 and about 100,000 aborigines.

A gentleman who has recently returned from a visit to Paraguay declares the trip an ideal one in every respect—far more instructive than the proverbial tour of Europe, vastly more amusing than a month's sojourn at some dull watering place or mountain resort. Some of his observations are worth printing and may induce some readers to take a rational interest in the South American republics.

To reach Paraguay one must start from Buenos Ayres, the capital and commercial center of the Argentine Republic. The journey to Asuncion requires six days and is made in comfortable river steamers. It begins on the mighty La Plata, a union of the great Parana, Paraguay and Uruguay rivers. The first landing of importance is Rosario de Santa Fe, a busy *Argentine harbor, connected with Eu*rope by several direct trans-Atlantic lines of steamers and sailing vessels, and located on the Parana river. The next points of interest are Santa Elena, where are located the original Liebig beef extract establishments, and the city of Corrientes, a few miles above which point occurs the confluence of the Parana and Paraguay rivers. The boat here leaves the Parana, which comes from the east, and proceeds due north on the Paraguay, until Asuncion, the capital of the republic, is reached.

A BIT OF TYPICAL PARAGUAYAN SCENERY.

IN FRONT OF THE MERCADO.

This city has been described as one of the wonders of the western hemisphere, on account of its remarkable contrasts. It has a population of nearly 50,000, and contains a number of architecturally beautiful buildings, among them a magnificent government house of vast dimensions, built of sandstone, in the form of an imperial palace. A few blocks away are seen adobe huts, built for humble habitation, into which are crowded a dozen or more miserable half-breeds. Equally startling are what might be called the contrasts of street life. Modern European civilization thrives by the side of purely aboriginal modes of existence. One moment you meet an up-to-date gentleman wearing a black Prince Albert coat, delicate light trousers and silk hat, the next instant you rub elbows with a half naked Indian, armed with bow and arrow, a degenerate descendant of the once ruling race of Paraguays. A third, and decidedly less interesting, element is the half-breed natives, small farmers and planters, whose costume lends characteristic variety to the scene. Predominant in their wearing apparel is white, which forms an effective relief to the dark brown of their complexions. The women create a particularly original impression, produced by draperies of white which fall in graceful folds from the head.

The "mercado," or city market hall, is a fertile source of observation par excellence. There the country women begin to arrive with the break of day, carrying heavy loads of fruits, vegetables and other farm products on their heads. The trading usually begins with the purchase, by the market-women, of a dish of "chipa," baked corn meal mixed with meat, cheese and other substances. Secreted somewhere in her head cloth every woman carries cigarettes of the home-made variety, long and dangerous looking "coffin nails," one of which is smoked, to "settle the breakfast," before she proceeds to offer her wares to the public.

The native element predominates. Occasionally a pure Castilian face is seen, or one meets an American, German or French trader. On the plaza a glimpse may be caught of a European diplomat now and then, but the prevailing atmosphere is genuinely South American—dark brown, the color typical of the mixture of the Spaniard and the Indian. In a small way the same effect may be observed in other South American cities, but nowhere is it so general or impressive as at Asuncion.

The government has made strenuous efforts to attract European immigrants to Paraguay, but thus far with scant success. The only typically foreign colony is at San Bernardino, a settlement founded in 1881 by the then president of the republic, Gen. Bernardino Caballero. It is really a state colony for Germans, countenanced by the German government which at that time was anxious to divert emigration from the United States to South America. Although started under promising conditions the colony has not been notably successful. Bernardino is located about 50 miles east of Asuncion, in a wooded region, the so-called "cordilleva," and is the most picturesque spot in Paraguay. But as it has no railroad connection with the capital or any other market town it has never prospered, *although the German set*tlers have worked hard and long to make their Utopia a prosperous state within the state.

On the way to Bernardino the traveler passes scores of native "ranchos," whose construction and furnishing demonstrate the frugal nature of the Paraguayans. Usually the primitive dwellings are surrounded by small peach or apricot orchards. The natives are not fond of hard work. They plant only what they actually need, principally "manioc," a tuber which takes the place of the potato and grows to enormous size, some tobacco and a little corn and cotton, just enough for home consumption. Bananas and peaches grow without cultivation.

The only vehicle known for country traveling is the "carreta," which is built altogether of wood, even the high wheels being without iron rims. The sideboards are placed on a wooden frame from which project wooden poles, over which a covering of ox hide is placed to keep out sun or rain. The wheels sometimes are six feet in diameter and project over the seat set apart for passengers. Six oxen are used to propel one of these quaint and clumsy vehicles, and unless one has plenty of time and patience a visit to the interior is not to be recommended.

The vegetation of Paraguay is something marvelous, and the climate wonderful. Palm forests abound everywhere, lakes dot the landscape and rivers and creeks are numerous. Game is found in abundance, especially wild ducks and other water fowl, as well as terrapin and game fish. The only drawback the hunter encounters is an over-large supply of crocodiles which infest the marshes.

But in spite of phenomenal natural resources and attractions Paraguay cannot expect to make any headway until foreign capital can be persuaded to build railroad and telegraph lines. Settlers, it is true, can raise fat harvests of grains, cotton, tobacco and fruits, but they cannot find a market for their products. The trade from Asuncion to Buenos Ayres or Rosario de Santa Fe eat up what little profit there may be in the crops. There is positively no home market, as everybody raises his own stuff. Consequently, in a land of plenty there is absolute absence of those little comforts which make life worth living.

WILLIAM WALTER WELLS.

GREAT DANGER LINE

Central America and Lesser Antilles Full of Volcanoes.

Gigantic Craters Along the Line of the Proposed Nicaragua Canal —Once Fiery Now Are Emerald Gems.

[Special Costa Rica Letter.]

FROM within the eighty-second degree of west longitude touches the Pacific coast of Colombia, 2,500 miles due south from the city of Cleveland, draw a line straight northwestward 2,500 miles to where the twenty-fifth degree of north latitude crosses the Pacific shore of Mexico, 2,800 miles from New York city, and count the once fiery, now emerald, gems, which jewel that belt.

Near the beginning of that line is Mont Blanco, its head rises 9,500 feet above the Caribbean sea, which seems to one who looks down from its crest to be scarcely more than a stone's throw away. A mere step, say 15 or 20 miles farther, along our line another mountain lifts its head a hundred feet higher than that of Blanco. Then come many mountains of little less height, before Turrialba rises, a majestic sentinel at the southern extremity of that broad and fertile plain which stretches 325 miles to the northern shore of Honduras, and forms the larger part of three republics.

Across this plain flows the Rio San Juan, draining northeastern Costa Rica and all the basins of the great lakes of Nicaragua. It was along this river and through the larger of the two lakes that the proposed ship canal would be made, should that route be accepted by the United States.

Turrialba is 11,000 feet in height, and standing shoulder to shoulder with it is Irazu, 11,480 feet high. At its foot sits the beautiful city of San Jose, clean and provided with electric lights, tram cars and telephone and telegraph lines. Its plants and water supply, hotels and cafes, blooming parks and a magnificent theater, with other conveniences, comforts and luxuries. A thousand feet higher, on the flank of Irazu, is the solid old city of Cartago, long the capital of the republic. If GENERAL VIEW OF MOMOTOMBO, A FAMOUS FIRE SPITTER.

Irazu should burst its bounds, as did Pelee and La Soufriere, the destruction of life would appal the world.

Within sight of the 12,00 people who dwell in San José are the peaks of the volcanoes of Barba, 9,200 feet, and of Poas, 8,680 feet in altitude. Poas carries in its crater a little lake, such as was in Pelee until, perhaps, some seam in the rock opened to let the water to the fires raging beneath, and thus in an instant made of a pretty and peaceful pond the means of the most awful destruction man has known since the fatal day of Atlantis.

Tenorio and Miravalles, La Vieja and Orosil are near the line, before it touches Lake Nicaragua. There it passes closes to the volcanic island of Solentiname, near the head of the Rio San Juan and the line of the proposed CATHEDRAL AT MANAGUA.

(Famous Central American Church Cracked by Earthquake.)

canal; passes through the volcano of Madera and the perfect cone of the volcano of Ometepe, then through El Zapatero and that vast ruin which, in a sudden rage, hurled its entire roof nearly or quite ten miles, to fall in fragments and make in the lake a reef of islets, some of which afford farms for those who dwell in contentment on those proofs of the power with which the prodigious and destructive force this world has known.

Following the line one sees to the left the south wall of another volcano, a vast low crater, burnt, desolate, ring-mouth of the ancient Indian city of Masaya, which dreams away its hot and dusty days at the edge of another crater, in which is a lake of pure water some 200 feet below the level of the town. A dozen miles westward is the capital city of Managua, nestling like a hen in a hot and dusty roadway, at the edge of Lake Managua, and at the foot of the tiny volcano of Tiscapa. Behind the wall of the crater, only 200 or 300 feet high, is a deep pool of Strong closely along the line are a score or more of dead little volcanoes, Telica, Viejo and Corcovado, pushing their shoulders high above the others. Then comes Coseguina, standing on or forming the promontory which in part shuts in the great bay of Fonseca. Coseguina has been a most quiet mountain ever since, in 1835, it burst and startled by its noise even the City of Mexico, nearly a thousand miles away. Through three days the hammering of its explosions terrified four republics, and in that time the volcano covered three republics with a pall of ashes that, over much of Honduras at least was inches in depth. Old people of that country have told of the death of thousands of animals, caused by the cloak that hid all green things stopped the flow of water in the streams, and destroyed the lake beasts That was probably the most terrific outburst ever known by civilized man before the Krakatoa mantled the sea with pumice and minute dust, and for many weeks tinted the skies of all the world by the dust into which it had burst its rocks. So Coseguinas also threw its dust as high into the sky that it hid from the sunshine all the region within 350 miles, and even fell upon Jamaica, 800 miles to windward.

It would be tedious, and useless, to attempt to count all the volcanoes which dot the line between Coseguina in Nicaragua and Colima in Mixico, for they are too many, and the once savagely fiery hearts of most of them are dead and cold. But from Colima, now threatening violence, eastward to the shore of the bay of Campeche is a short arm of the mighty Andean cross, the only east and west range of volcanoes in all America. In that arm are set seven great volcanoes, the grandest *being Popocatepetl, 17,300 feet in al*titude.

Of especial interest just now is that part of the great American volcanic system which lies in the sunken valley in which are the lakes of Nicaragua and their outlet, for there is the line along which will be the Nicaragua ship canal, if it shall be made. Within the last century a dozen of those volcanoes have belched lava and steam and dust, and earthquakes have been of almost monthly occurrence.

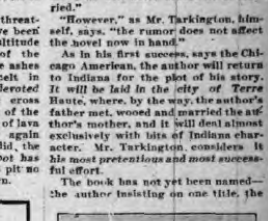
Much damage has been done by earthquakes in that region. It is true that Leon, in Nicaragua, has been badly shaken several times; and no longer than two years ago the massive ornaments were tumbled from the towers of her churches, and wide gaps were opened in their walls, as like seams were opened in those of the queer, black sandstone church of Managua, 40 miles' distant.

PAUL BITT.

A NEW RURAL NOVEL

Will Deal with Life in Indiana in Mexican War Time.

Booth Tarkington, Noted Hoosier Author, Is Now Putting Finishing Touches to It—About to Become a Benedict.



BOOTH TARKINGTON.
(Noted Indiana Author Soon to Become a Benedict.)

Booth Tarkington, of Indianapolis, the well-known author and playwright, is completing the concluding chapters of another Indiana novel.

The new book will make its appearance in time, the author's friends assert, to answer a double purpose. It will come not only at an opportune time for the publishers, but will not be amiss in assisting the author in furthering his political ambitions.

For Booth Tarkington, the author, expects to become Booth Tarkington, the politician.

Then, in addition, there is a strong rumor going the rounds that Booth Tarkington, the bachelor, is about to become Booth Tarkington, the benedict. Mr. Tarkington, however, does not admit this assertion. He will not countenance the rumor. Neither does Mr. Tarkington's family, unless, in truth, the author's mother be excepted. She has been quoted as admitting that the announced young woman whose name has been linked with that of Mr. Tarkington by the gossips like each other—nothing more.

Yet an intimate friend of the Indiana author said only a day or two ago: "Mr. Tarkington is working on the last novel he will write before he is married."

"However," as Mr. Tarkington, himself, says, "the rumor does not affect the novel now in hand."

As in his first success, says the Chicago American, the author will return to Indiana for the plot of his story. It will be laid in the city of Terre Haute, where, by the way, the author's father met, wooed and married the author's mother, and it will deal almost exclusively with bits of Indiana character. Mr. Tarkington considers it *his most pretentious and most success*ful effort.

The book has not yet been named—the author insisting on one title, the publishers suggesting another and the author's friends advancing a third. It will be a romance dealing with life in Indiana, in the vicinity of Terre Haute during the time of the Mexican war, and it will convey not a few of its incidents to the famous Catholic school near Terre Haute, "St. Marys of the Woods." The book, however, Mr. Tarkington insists, will not be classed as a historical romance. This he says in the face of anticipating critics who have endeavored to predict the character of the work.

The love story is delicately woven round the lives of a girl studying at the Catholic institution and a young man of the clear-brained, horny-handed class peculiar to the early period of Indiana's history.

Mr. Tarkington said: "I will doubtless hear more from my friend in Seattle now. Shortly after the production of 'The Gentleman from Indiana' friends of mine residing in Seattle, Wash., sent word to me that a certain resident of that city would dramatize under the name of Booth Tarkington, claiming to have written my book. He was buying copies right and left and sending them to his friends with a neat little picture-of himself and a card saying that this was his first literary attempt and he wanted their criticism. My friends desired to know whether I would have them expose him or not. It seems that he also claimed that while he had written the book I was reaping the golden benefits in the shape of royalties. It did not take me long to decide what to do. I wrote them to encourage him in his 'pipe dream,' explaining at the same time that every copy he bought was putting that much more money in my pocket. I needed the money.

"This latest effort of mine is in some respects a more elaborate one than any of the others preceding. At least I have worked harder on it. Of course, I cannot say what success it will meet with—in fact, there are as yet several incomplete chapters.

"I have endeavored in my book, nameless as yet, to combine romance and character delineation. At the time of which I have written the farmers and townspeople were of such a character as to attract the most fastidious student. I have also endeavored not to become historical, and I think I have succeeded to a certain extent. The life of the story will rest in the hands of the people in a very short time."

American Coal for Germany.

The United States will supply Stettin, Germany, with 125,000 tons of steam coal under yearly contract.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

OUGHT TO BE PUNISHED.

It was only a few days ago that Magistrate Mott, of New York City, fined four men $10 each for destroying shrubbery and plants in one of the city parks. There are some people who seem to believe that any plants and shrubbery, which are not inclosed within four walls, are public property and may, therefore, be appropriated at will. There are such people in Plainfield as well as in New York and, at present, residents of Belvidere avenue and the Netherwood district are complaining at the frequent inroads made by these marauders.

Along Belvidere avenue, many of the residents have taken special pains to beautify their lawns which are bounded with blooming shrubs of various kinds. These improvements have been just as much for the benefit of the community as for the owners themselves. Any destruction of these floral decorations is as much an offence against the public at large as against the owners.

Certain miscreants are in the habit of visiting that portion of the city in the early morning hours and helping themselves to the bright blossoms. These invasions come often after the night police force has quit duty, so it is to be hoped that something can be done to run down these offenders or, at least, prevent the constant recurrance of this trouble. It is really too bad that residents, who take the trouble to improve the appearance of their homes, should have all their labor and expense for naught.

A VALUABLE MAN.

Never before has the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club been in such a flourishing condition as it is today. The limit of the active membership, 275, has been reached and it will now be necessary to amend the constitution before any more active members can be added. Then, too, the course is in better condition than ever before.

For the splendid condition of the fair green turf and the new tennis courts, which promises to be the equal of any in the State when fully completed, the most credit is due to Former Councilman E. T. Barrows, who has been the chairman of the greens committee and the committee in charge of the building of the courts. He has devoted much valuable time to the work and his efforts have been singularly successful.

These who have known Mr. Barrows while he served the city as a member of the Common Council well remember the energy he has always devoted to the work at hand. No matter what he has tried to do, he always puts his whole heart into the work and the result is an assured success. He has been successful in business, as a public official, and now at the head of one of the most important committees of one of the most prominent country clubs of the Metropolitan district, he has rendered that organization invaluable service. It is not often that clubs are so fortunate as the Hillside and the members of that club should fully appreciate the fact.

COMMENCEMENT TIME.

While the local High Schools come to the public view occasionally through the year on account of athletic prowess or public entertainment, it is not until the commencement season that the public gets any idea of the real work of the year. At that time, the steady efforts toward a higher scholarship are rewarded. The honors conferred are for standing in the work of the school.

Those prominent in educational work have often complained that the really good work done in the High Schools is not recognized by the public at large and that the High Schools only obtain notoriety through athletics, entertainments or a scandal of some kind. There may be more or less truth in this claim except at commencement time. Then, those who have been laboring at their studies for the past four years, are rewarded and the public knows who are the hard and successful workers.

Death of D. L. Kirby.

David L. Kirby, aged fifty-four years, died at Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday, following a long illness. He had been a resident of Plainfield about a year, having moved here from New York, where he was engaged in business as an insurance broker. He was an uncle to Mrs. J. O. McKelvey and Miss Adele Kirby, of Grandview avenue.

Annual Lawn Fete.

Several novel features have been arranged for the annual lawn fete of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which is to be held on the church lawn, Saturday afternoon. The committees are now completing arrangements, and if the day proves stormy the affair will take place in the church.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CHURCHES

The Special Exercises and the Elaborate Floral Decorations Marked the Day Here.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

Most of the Evangelical Churches Observed Children's Day With Fine Programmes of Music, Recitations and Addresses, While Flowers Were Used in Profusion—Details.

Children's Day in Plainfield dawned bright and clear. Sunday. While threatening clouds did sweep over the mountain as the morning advanced, the rain never came and the day passed away very pleasantly. In the afternoon, the chilly north west wind made the numerous white gowns seem out of place. Exercises, at which pretty music and flowers predominated, were held at most of the evangelical churches and, at each of them, the children filled the principal roles. Many turned out for these special services, all of which passed off in successful fashion.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Children's Day exercises were appropriately observed at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon. There were recitations by the Misses Onida Hetfield, Emeline Manning, Mabel Douglass, Elsie Moore, Marie Moffett, Beulah VanWinkle, and a cradle roll song at which time several little tots were received. The exercises were under the auspices of Mrs. J. S. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department. The decoration of flowers was very pretty.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

At Grace M. E. church the services were held in the morning and more than two hundred children took part. The decorations were very attractive, consisting of native flowers, ferns and potted plants.

Hymns and songs were rendered by the primary and advanced department of the school. There were recitations by Ella Lippencott, Lilly Titus, Helen Adams, Dorothy Lunger, Howard Titus, Arthur Stuart, Emma Ryno, Myra Lippincott; a solo by Margaret Darby; dialogues in which took part Emma Coddington, Edna Beeching, Edna Stuart, Marie Winans, Helen Adams, Lena Mobus, Edith Lippincott, Clara Bodenheimer, Blanche Stout, Gladys Brokaw and Mildred Harden; a matron song by Ella Force, Marian Miller, Helen Hummel, Ida Hummel, Edna Beeching, Belle Tunison, Emma Coddington, Edna Stuart, Florence Titus, Dorothy Lunger, Mabel Winans, Ella Lippincott, Myra Lippincott, Emma Ryno, Lily Titus, Bessie Taft, and Margaret Darby.

A feature of the services was the presentation of a small potted plant to each child. This is done each year and the children are supposed to cultivate the plant and take pride in its growth. The committee in charge of the programme was the Misses Belle Lunger, Alice Carroll, Mary Steiner, and Mrs. Anna Most. Andrew Wilson looked after the music.

HOPE CHAPEL.

At Hope chapel, the Children's Day exercises Sunday afternoon were exceptionally pretty. The primary department occupied seats on a special platform, topped by flower decked arches, while roses, peonies and honeysuckles were lavishly distributed about.

In addition to songs and responsive readings by the school, the recitations and dialogues were given by Ella Cundy, James Kenney, William Stevenson, Gertrude Nelson, Carrie Baker, Eula Eckert, Anna Warnock, Harold Leach, Charles Kregar, Mildred Cundy, Ida Lowden, Elmer De Hart and Ella Cundy. Other recitations were given in unison by smaller members of the primary department. An address was made by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church.

MONROE AVE. CHRUCH.

The exercises at the Monroe Avenue church Sunday-school Sunday afternoon were very simple, the time being occupied by singing and responsive readings. A pretty story, "A Boy's Fresh Beginning," was read by Superintendent Walter M. McGee. Daisy Gilbert, of the main school, and Louie Praed, of the primary department, gave recitations. The singing was made very effective by the cornet accompaniment of John Groendyke. In conclusion Pastor John McMurray gave an address.

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH

Responsive readings and the singing of hymns formed the greater part of the children's exercises at the Crescent Avenue church, Sunday morning. The usual large floral display was in evidence. William D. Murray was in charge. The pupils listened to an excellent address appropriate to the occasion made by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards. In the afternoon the primary department held separate exercises which were also composed of recitations and singing.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Children to the number of 250 besides a great many visitors were present at the services in the First Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Vincent chapel, where the services were held, was profusely decorated with wild smilax, roses, ferns and potted plants.

The programme consisted of songs by the school, recitations by Anna Roby, Katherine Bingaman, Lulu Brown, Ruth Lister, Arthur Slade, Marion Linn, Allen Beely, Archibald Smith, Lawrence Beely, Ruth Lynn, Ruth Schupp, Hazel Rose, Frances Rittenhouse, W. Kennedy, Madge Geier, Margaret Robly, Hannah Bingaman, *Helen Lister and Ernestine Wal*dron.

Miss Luella Derby read a short paper explanatory of the origin and purpose of Children's Day, and L. V. Wilcox read letters from students in the Methodist schools. Short addresses were delivered by Dr. J. R. Bryan, former pastor of the church, and by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, the present incumbent. Some special music had been prepared for the occasion under the direction of Nelson A. Miller, with Miss Gertrude Sharp at the piano and Wilson Derby, violin.

The committee in charge of the day's programme were Misses Perzis Snodgrass, Edna Freund, Bessie Valiant, and Mrs. Thos. McDonald.

ALL SOULS CHURCH.

Special Children's Day exercises were held at All Souls' church Sunday noon, when the Sunday-school sang carols and recitations were given by Agnes and Charlotte McCarthy, Theodore Sperry, Hope Sperry, William Smith Kirby, Jeanette Smith and Kathryn Kirby. There was an excellent address by the pastor, Rev. C. Nickerson. Harold Brownell read a report of the work of the boys' class for the past year.

Two prizes, books, were awarded for best attendance to Harold Brownell and Miss Mildred Brown.

WARREN CHAPEL.

Warren chapel held a successful Children's Day exercises Sunday afternoon. Included in the programme were several songs by the school, recitations by John Brokaw Richards, Anna Jones, Eleanor Golberg, Mattie Smith, Olive Metler, and a solo by Miss Carroll, contralto of the Crescent Avenue church choir. Short addresses were made by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, L. N. Lovell and F. H. Andrews.

The children were drilled for the occasion under the direction of Miss Bessie Miss Horton was chairman of the committee in charge of the proceedings.

BETHEL CHAPEL.

At Bethel chapel Children's Day was observed by exercises suitable to the occasion. A programme consisting of songs, recitations and the singing of hymns was well carried out. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Tildon, and a short address was delivered by Stephen Gimm, superintendent of the Sunday-school.

TRINITY REFORMED.

One of the most enjoyable Children's Day exercises ever held at Trinity Reformed church was that of church Sunday morning. The was prettily decorated, features being a floral cross and harp. The music was under the direction of A. L. Tissworth, organist, assisted by Mrs. G. W. Sasms, violin; Miss Lillian A. Force, piano; Elmer Wheeler, flute; and the regular quartette choir. A special service, "Nature's Praise," was rendered.

During the service, Rev. Cornelius Schenck baptized twelve infants. The part taken by the children in the programme was well rendered under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department. H. J. Martin, Sr., conducted *the sing*ing. The children marched into the church singing.

Recitations were given by the following children: May Porter, Edson Day, Anna Vail, Elsie Bodine, Evelyn Fritz, Helen Woolley, Elsie Tier, Anna Lee, Elsie Debele, Lulu Trewin, Mildred Premer, Jennie Thompson, Hattie Nitschwitz, Ethel Vail, Rosmon Rogers, Gertrude Schleif, Helen Roberts, Bessie Randall, Edna Oliver, Harold Schenck, Earl Huff, Harold Storr, Russell Abbott, Clifford Cole, Edna Cole, Hejen Smith, Elizabeth Metler, Marion Norris, George Cole, Howland Leighton, Thomas Lindsay, Howard Debele. As an offertory, Miss Ethel May Derby sang a pleasing solo.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Exercises appropriate to Children's Day were held Sunday morning in the First Presbyterian church in charge of Superintendent E. M. Cave.

After short programme of singing and reading, eighteen pupils from the primary department were presented with diplomas advancing them to the main school. Pastor U. E. Herring afterward made an address and a letter referring to the day was read from Dr. Warden, superintendent of the Sunday-school department of the Presbyterian Board of Missions. At the close of the Sunday-school session, the pupils marched in a body to the church and were seated in front of the congregation.

AT CONGREGATIONAL.

A very attractive Children's Day service was held at the Congregational church, at the usual hour of morning service. The floral decorations were elaborate and tasteful, and consisted chiefly of roses, daisies and wild grasses. The musical programme included a quartette by the choir, a bass solo by F. S. Cutter, and a viola solo by Fullerton Waldo. There was also a pretty little motion song, sung by the children of the Sunday-school primary department. The order of exercises was much the same as that of the usual Sunday morning service, but the main part of the church auditorium was reserved for the members of the Sunday-school, who were seated by classes, with the primary children in the extreme front. The sermon was especially to the boys and girls; the subject was "Frogs."

AT WILSON MEMORIAL.

The Children's Day exercises at the Wilson Memorial chapel Sunday afternoon attracted a large number of people. There were recitations by Carrie Demler, Theresa Schmidt, Lilly Ralph, *an exercise by the primary de*partment, singing by seven girls of the junior grade, an illustrated talk by Rev. C. E. Herring, and distribution of potted plants to the primary and junior departments. The offering was for the Plainfield Baby Camp. In the evening Rev. George B. Shaw preached a special sermon.

LITERARY.

Not to be familiar with those leading figures in the world of finance and production who are denominated "Captains of Industry" is not to be able to read the daily news understandingly. The Cosmopolitan has undertaken to have prepared by the men most competent to write them, sketches of some sixty of these foremost men in the industrial world. No more entertaining reading has ever appeared in that magazine. The undertaking is exciting wide interest in every part of the country.

DROVE INTO POLE.

Runaway Horse Deposited Passengers and Driver in the Gutter, But Without Injury to Them.

A lively runaway was witnessed on Richmond street Sunday morning about 8:20 o'clock. Mrs. Charles Sherwin and her niece, were on their way from Fanwood to Plainfield in a depot wagon to take a train from the Plainfield station. The coachman was driving.

When near the Richmond street railroad bridge the horse became frightened at a trolley car and ran with much speed toward Putnam avenue. When between Putnam and La-Grande avenues, the coachman ran the horse into a telephone pole and brought him to a sudden halt. The wagon was completely wrecked and the occupants dumped out. They were not injured, neither was the horse.

Honorably Discharged.

Michael Heffernan, a former well known resident of this city, has returned after spending three years as a private in the Fourth U. S. cavalry. He was honorably discharged from the Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, last week.

Since the First ...

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "Jims" as to good as it pleased upon the market. Over 1,000,000 of them have been sold. Over 1,000,000 homes have been lighted by the wonderful, far superior power that Lamp of only one lamp Chandelier is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't forget, every genuine Rochester Lamp is stamped on the burner as follows:

We can fit every lamp user. No matter whether you want a new lamp, or a new burner, or a new chimney, we are fully equipped for either make of lamp. Chandelier into a NEW ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you literature on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 58 Park Place, 58 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

SUPREME COURT SET ASIDE THE SENTENCE

Decision Given in Case of the Colored Boy, Edw. Marcellus, Jr—Sentence Not Valid.

COSTS NOT INCLUDED.

THE COURT DISCOVERED POINT OF ILLEGAL IMPRISONMENT.

It Was Taken Into Consideration, Although Not Brought Out in Argument — Decision Made on That Point—Admitted to Court.

The case of the colored boy, Edward Marcellus, Jr., against the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield was decided by the Supreme Court Monday. The sentence of the City Judge was held to be for a longer term than the Charter authorizes and for that reason, the sentence is set aside, but without costs.

After the boy was sentenced and the case was taken to the Supreme Court, the Corporation Counsel's opinion was *asked as to the validity of the judg*ment. He advised that the limit of imprisonment in case of a fine with imprisonment as an alternative, was twenty days, but as the other side had made no such point in applying for the certiorari and the case was regarded as an attack on the city's policemen of the city, it was decided that the city ought to contest the case.

After the argument in the Supreme Court, the court discovered the point of the illegal term of imprisonment and inquired of the Corporation Counsel whether there was any authority for such a term of imprisonment when defendant had the option of *paying a fine. The Corporation Coun*sel readily admitted that there was no authority, but urged that as the opposing counsel had not raised the question, the point was not up for decision. The court, however, has given Marcellus the same benefit of the objection as if it had been raised on his behalf but, because of the failure to raise it, has not allowed him any costs.

The claim made that the City Judge could grant a new trial finds no support in the opinion of the court, neither does the court pass on the weight of evidence. The conviction is set aside on the sole ground that the penalty imposed was illegal. Allusion is made to the fact that the boy was only fourteen years of age and was arrested without warrant and tried in the absence of counsel for either side and it was these considerations that led the court to give him the benefit of the point on which the case was actually decided.

Counsel for Marcellus were Hetfield & Hetfield.

"The Volcano's Deadly Work From the Fall of Pompeii to the Destruction of St. Pierre,"

by Prof. Charles Morris, LL. D. Most intensely interesting book ever published. Complete, thrilling and accurate account of greatest disaster that ever befell the human race—greater even than Pompeii. Tells how Martinique, one of the most beautiful islands in the world, was suddenly transformed into a veritible hell. About 500 pages, profusely illustrated with photographs taken before and after disaster. Practically only "Martinique Book" *in the field, for every*one now insists on having Prof. Morris' book and no other. Best author, largest book, best illustrated, scientifically accurate. Price $1.50. Agents Wanted. Enormous profits for those who act quickly. Most liberal terms. Outfit 10 cents. Don't lose a minute. Send for outfit IMMEDIATELY and be at work. The chance of a life-time for making money.

Clark & Co., 222 S. 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 5 22 1 m

To Wed Soon.

Howard Barges, of Littleton, N. C., announces the approaching marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Sally Barges, to William Burton, of this city. The ceremony will take place this summer. The couple will reside in this city.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Colic, Bronchitis	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER MAY 25, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

7 55 A. M.—Fast Line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars for Pittsburg, Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

7 57 A. M.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

9 37 A. M.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route; daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—10 45, 3 56, 7 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00 P. M. On Sunday at 10 45, 9 07, 10 08 A. M., 3 56, 7 07, and 10 07 P. M.

For Newark and New York—5 00, 5 45, 6 12, 6 28, 6 35, 6 50, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 15, 12 30, 12 45, 1 00, 1 15, 1 30, 1 45, 2 00, 2 15, 2 30, 2 45, 3 00, 3 15, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 15, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night. Sunday—5 00, 5 45, 6 12, 6 28, 6 35, 6 50, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 15, 12 30, 12 45, 1 00, 1 15, 1 30, 1 45, 2 00, 2 15, 2 30, 2 45, 3 00, 3 15, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 15, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 15, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

For Philadelphia—1 00, 3 55, 5 06, 8 38, 9 07, 9 35, 10 00, 10 40, 11 05 A. M., 12 40, 1 04, 1 37, 2 05, 2 37, 3 05, 3 37, 4 05, 4 37, 5 05, 5 37, 6 05, 6 37, 7 05, 7 37, 8 05, 8 37, 9 05, 9 37, 10 05, 10 37, 11 05 P. M., 12 01, 12 30 Night. Sunday—1 00, 3 55, 5 06, 8 38, 9 07, 9 35, 10 00, 10 40, 11 05 A. M., 12 40, 1 04, 1 37, 2 05, 2 37, 3 05, 3 37, 4 05, 4 37, 5 05, 5 37, 6 05, 6 37, 7 05, 7 37, 8 05, 8 37, 9 05, 9 37, 10 05, 10 37, 11 05 P. M., 12 01, 12 30 Night.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 2 27 P. M., daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

For Atlantic City—1 00 A. M., 12 00 M., (12 32 3 25 P. M. through Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Compound Coach) 4 00 P. M. (Through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibule Coaches) 8 30 P. M.

For Atlantic City via Delaware River Bridge Route—9 00 A. M. Sundays, 4 00 P. M.

For Cape May—1 00 A. M. daily, 1 27 P. M. week-days. 12 32 P. M. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1 00 A. M. daily, 1 27 P. M. week-days. 12 32 P. M. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1 00 A. M. daily, 1 27 P. M. week-days. 12 32 P. M. Sundays.

For Rahway—1 00, 4 26, 6 44, 7 10, 8 08, 9 07, 9 48, 11 07, 11 40 A. M., 1 15, 1 54, 2 43 (Saturdays only) 2 54, 3 25, 4 15, 5 05, 5 37, 6 11, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 8 56, 9 37, 10 07 P. M. Sundays—1 00, 8 07, 9 07, 9 48, 10 40 A. M., 12 00, 1 54, 3 07, 4 15, 5 37, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 8 56, 9 37, 10 07 P. M.

For Woodbridge—4 44, 9 45, 11 07 A. M., 1 54, 3 25, 4 15, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 9 56 P. M. Sundays—10 40 A. M., 12 00 Night. week-days. Sundays—10 55, 11 44 A. M., 9 37 and 10 07 P. M.

For Perth Amboy—4 25, 6 44, 9 26, 9 45, 11 07 A. M., 1 54, 3 25, 4 15, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 9 56 P. M. Sundays—10 40 A. M., 12 00 Night. week-days. Sundays—10 55, and 11 44 A. M., 9 37 and 10 07 P. M.

For East Millstone—7 10 p. m., 12 40, 2 04 and 5 36 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1 00, 3 55, 5 06, 8 38, 9 07, 9 35, 10 00, 10 40 A. M., 12 40, 1 04, 1 37, 2 05, 2 37, 3 05, 3 37, 4 05, 4 37, 5 05, 5 37, 6 05, 6 37, 7 05, 7 37, 8 05, 8 37, 9 05, 9 37, 10 05, 10 37, 11 05 P. M., 12 01, 12 30 Night. Sunday—1 00, 8 07, 9 07, 9 48, 10 40 A. M., 12 00, 1 54, 3 07, 4 15, 5 37, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 8 56, 9 37, 10 07 P. M.

For Woodbridge—4 44, 9 45, 11 07 A. M., 1 54, 3 25, 4 15, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 9 56 P. M. Sundays—10 55, 11 44 A. M., 9 37 and 10 07 P. M.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Lakewood—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M. Also 4 00 P. M. week-days.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—9 00 A. M., 12 40, 4 38 and 5 36 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Lakewood—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M. Also 4 00 P. M. week-days.

For Red Bank—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M. Also 4 00 P. M. week-days.

For Toms River, Seaside Park and Intermediate stations—9 00 A. M. week-days.

For Bay Head, Point Pleasant and Manasquan—9 00 A. M. week-days.

For Sea Girt, Spring Lake, Belmar and Intermediate stations—9 00 A. M. week-days.

For Bradley Beach and Asbury Park—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Long Branch—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M. Also 4 00 P. M. week-days.

For Matawan, Keyport, Hollywood, Red Bank and Long Branch—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Freehold—9 00 A. M., 12 40, 4 38 and 5 36 p. m. week-days.

For Jamesburg—9 00 A. M. week-days.

For Lakewood—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M. Also 4 00 P. M. week-days.

For Somerville—8 05, 7 18, 8 21, 9 26, 9 56, 11 00 A. M., 12 05, 1 11, 2 08, 3 14, 4 08, 5 06, 6 19, 7 34, 8 36, 9 41, 11 12 P. M. Sundays—8 05, 8 21, 9 26, 9 56, 11 00 A. M., 12 05, 1 11, 2 08, 3 14, 4 08, 5 06, 6 19, 7 34, 8 36, 9 41, 11 12 P. M.

For Flemington—7 15, 11 05 A. M., 2 12, 5 39, 6 19 p. m. Sundays—11 05 A. M., 10 09 p. m.

For Pittsburg and Easton—4 25, 8 50, 9 54, 11 30 a. m., 2 30, 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 25 a. m., 5 06, 6 56 p. m.

For Allentown and Mauch Chunk—4 25 Bethlehem—4 25, 8 50, 9 54, 11 30 a. m., 2 30, 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 25 a. m., 5 06, 6 56 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—4 25, 9 54 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 25 a. m., 6 56 p. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—9 54, 11 05 A. M., 5 39 P. M. Sundays—9 54 a. m., 10 09 p. m.

For Bound Brook—7 15, 11 05 A. M., 5 39 P. M. 11 26 p. m. (Wednesday and Saturday only), 12 01 Night. Sundays—11 05 A. M., 10 09 P. M.

For Bridgewater—7 15, 11 05 A. M., 5 39 P. M. Sundays—11 05 A. M., 10 09 P. M.

For Philadelphia—8 12, 7 45, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 10 40, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. Sundays—2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Trenton—8 12, 7 45, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Bordentown—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Burlington—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Mount Holly—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Bristol—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Beverly—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Delanco—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Riverside—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Riverton—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Palmyra—8 12, 9 16, 9 45, 10 04, 11 45 a. m., 12 40, 1 37, 2 37, 3 37, 4 37, 5 37, 6 37, 7 37, 8 37, 9 37, 10 37 p. m. 1 17 night.

For Philadelphia, Market Street Ferry and Girard Avenue Ferry—1 00, 3 55, 5 06, 8 38, 9 07, 9 35, 10 00, 10 40, 11 05 A. M., 12 40, 1 04, 1 37, 2 05, 2 37, 3 05, 3 37, 4 05, 4 37, 5 05, 5 37, 6 05, 6 37, 7 05, 7 37, 8 05, 8 37, 9 05, 9 37, 10 05, 10 37, 11 05 P. M., 12 01, 12 30 Night. Sunday—1 00, 8 07, 9 07, 9 48, 10 40 A. M., 12 00, 1 54, 3 07, 4 15, 5 37, 6 38, 7 07, 7 46, 8 56, 9 37, 10 07 P. M.

For Chestnut Hill—9 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Cape May—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Sea Isle City—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Ocean City—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Wildwood—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Cape May Point—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Avalon—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Stone Harbor—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Anglesea—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Wildwood Crest—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Holly Beach—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Atlantic City—1 00, 4 00 P. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Somers Point—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Ocean View—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Seaville—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Tuckahoe—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Marmora—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Petersburg—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Ocean City—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Sea Isle City—1 00 A. M. week-days. Sundays—10 55 A. M.

For Cape May

FIXED DATE FOR A VOTE

Borough Council Called Special Election for September 16 to Vote on Annexation.

ALL WAS HARMONIOUS.

Councilman Nichols Had Three Famous Resolutions Which Went Through With Bells On—Committee to Confer With City Council on Terms of Consolidation.

When the Borough Fathers convened in regular session Friday evening, the meeting seemed like the anniversary reunion of a scattered family. The characteristic marks of a love feast were distinctly in evidence. Contrasted with the previous meeting of a month ago, last evening's session was like the normal beating of the human pulse compared with the convulsive throbs of Pelee. There was some banter, a little thinly veiled sarcasm, a few side thrusts, but no real jarring note. There was almost absolute unanimity on three resolutions introduced by Councilman Northrop relative to annexation and consolidation.

The group of enthusiastic annexationists and the no less ardent coterie of antis, who were present at the May meeting, were conspicuous by their absence. When the clerk came to that part of the minutes dealing with Councilman Lee's noted resolution, a slight smile flitted around the board, which spread itself to the spectators in the body of the hall, and in which the Mayor and Mr. Lee joined.

Councilman Clark, notwithstanding his illness, was present and aided by his vote to carry the important resolutions presented by Mr. Northrop. Without his presence the first resolution setting a date for the popular decision on the question of annexation would have been lost. As forecasted in The Daily Press, yesterday, September 16 was the date chosen for an election on that question. Councilman Nichols, who was absent at the last meeting, was in his place at the board.

After miscellaneous business had been transacted Councilman Northrop arose and offered a resolution to the effect that a special election be held in the borough of North Plainfield on September 16, 1902, as provided for by an act to annex the territory within the boundaries of North Plainfield to that territory within the boundaries of the city of Plainfield, and that the borough clerk give due notice of said election.

Councilman Lee moved in amendment, that the resolution be referred to the corporation counsel to ascertain if it were properly drawn and in accordance with the law passed by the Legislature. The corporation counsel being absent, this would necessitate the holding over of the motion. Councilman Northrop took the heart out of Mr. Lee's amendment, which was a parody on a similar amendment which caused the tabling of his own famous resolution of a month ago, by declaring that the corporation counsel drew up the resolutions at Mr. Northrop's request. Lee, Nichols, Codington voted for the amendment; Clark, Northrop, Arnold against. The Mayor declared the amendment lost.

On the original question being put, it was carried unanimously, Lee, Nichols and Codington voting yes.

A second resolution was submitted by Councilman Northrop to the effect that the Mayor and Council of the city of Plainfield be requested to appoint a committee to confer with a special committee heretofore appointed by the Borough Council upon the subject of the consolidation of Plainfield with a view to establishing, so far as practicable, an understanding as to the terms and conditions under which consolidation may be made. Councilman Nichols said that since it was the intention to have an early vote on the matter he was in favor of the resolution which was carried unanimously.

Councilman Northrop then introduced his third resolution: "Be it resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield that no date be fixed for holding an election under the provision of acts to consolidate the corporations until after the special committee heretofore appointed by the Mayor shall have made its report thereon."

Councilmen Nichols and Lee were willing to vote for the resolution if assurances were received that a report would be made at the July meeting. Mr. Clark responded that but for a severe illness he, as chairman of the committee, would have reported last evening, and he promised the report would be ready for July, if he continued to improve. The resolution was carried unanimously.

At this juncture Mayor Smalley asked Mr. Northrop, president of the Council, to occupy the chair while he addressed the board. The Mayor briefly explained that he spoke from the chair at the previous May meeting because the president of the Council was absent. He deemed his action in taking an active part in the proceedings at that time justified by the need of intelligent public discussion of the measures of annexation and consolidation before any hasty move should be made on that most important question.

Thus ended a consideration of these two questions, that could hardly be more harmonious if discussed by a conclave of angels.

LENGTHY TRIP FOR UNION COUNTY G. O. P.

How to Get to Scene of Next Fifth Congressional District Convention June 21.

MEETS AT BELVIDERE.

ELIZABETH JOURNAL GIVES AVAILABLE ROUTES AND COST OF TRIP.

About Time to Begin to Plan—Union County, if Delegation is Complete, Will Have Two More Votes Than the Others Combined.

It is going to be quite a pilgrimage for the Republicans of Union county to get to Belvidere where the Fifth Congressional district convention will be held June 21. As the time of meeting is less than two weeks off, it is already time to begin looking up the route to the county seat of Warren.

The Elizabeth Journal publishes some interesting facts concerning the convention and how to get there which will undoubtedly be of interest to Plainfield Republicans, particularly those who are chosen to attend the convention.

The Journal of Saturday says:

"The Republican convention of the new Fifth congressional district will be held at Belvidere, in Warren county, on Saturday, June 21, two weeks from today. Belvidere is a considerable distance from some parts of Union county, and it is time to begin to plan to get there. Union county should send a complete delegation, on that day, for Union county holds the balance over the two other counties, having 126 delegates to 124 in Morris and Warren combined.

"The route to Belvidere will be—for most of the Union county delegates—from the city of Elizabeth to Phillipsburg on the Central Railroad, and thence by branch to Belvidere. It is a trip clean across the State, for the city of Elizabeth is washed by the Staten Island Sound, and Belvidere is on the Delaware river. Some delegates—those at Summit and New Providence, for example—may go by the D. L. and W. road, but by either way it is a long, long trip and will require some preparations in advance.

"Union county should make a strong showing, at the first meeting with the other counties in the new Congressional district, and doubtless arrangements will be made in good season. Going to and coming from the convention will take the whole day. There is some talk of a special train for the Union county delegates, but as yet no such arrangement has been made.

"The regular Central Railroad train which leaves here at 9:30 a. m. reaches Phillipsburg at 11:10. A train on the Belvidere and Delaware branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad leaves Phillipsburg at 11:26, arriving at Belvidere at 11:50, just in time for the convention which is called to meet at noon. Another, but much longer way of going is to take a train to Trenton on the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Belvidere and Delaware branch to Belvidere. The round-trip by this latter route costs $5.49. The fare to Phillipsburg and return on the Central Railroad is $2.80."

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Currin, of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

The Summer Season

is full of dangers particularly for the children, who not knowing the result of eating unripe fruit, indulge themselves, with the usual griping pains in the stomach as a consequence; mothers should have on hand as all times a bottle of Painkiller (Perry Davis) which will at once relieve the sufferer; it is a safe, simple remedy and it should be kept in every house. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

THREE YOUNG WOMEN WERE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises and Musicale Held at the Plainfield Seminary Friday

THE EXERCISES SIMPLE.

MUSICALE BY MISS MAY, MISS KIEB AND MISS HENRY, OF NEW YORK.

Diplomas Presented to the Three Graduates by Miss Kenyon—All Will Enter Wellesley in the Fall—Charming Decorations.

A musicale full of charm was given Friday morning at the Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street in connection with the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class.

The accompanying programme was rendered with the skill that always characterizes the performances of Miss May and Miss Keib and the rendition of several selections on the violin by Miss Mary Henry, of New York, was a rare treat to all lovers of that most tuneful instrument. The programme:

Hungarian Idyl	Keler Bela
Miss Mary Henry.
Romance	Schumann
Electra	Jensen
Frühlingsnacht	Sinding
Mazurka	Leschetizky
Miss Ruby Keib.
The Swan	Saint Saëns
Mazurka de Concert	Musin
Miss Mary Henry.
Prelude	Rachmaninoff
Impromptu	Chopin
Meditation	Tschaikowsky
Trijka	Tschaikowsky
Etude de Concert	Liset
Miss May.

At the conclusion of the musical programme Miss E. E. Kenyon presented the diplomas to the members of the graduating class, Miss Harriet Louise Curtis, Miss Ethel Cook Smalley, Miss Eleanor Kenyon Stimson and Miss Ruth Titus. This class has the distinction of having the highest average for scholarship during four years of any previous class.

In a few earnest words in which Miss Kenyon emphasized the superiority of nobility of character to merely intellectual attainments the formal farewell was said and the God speed like a benediction given. All of these young women will enter college, Wellesley being the choice.

Study Hall, where the exercises were held, was simply but most effectively decorated, with rhododendrons massed in the background and the four large white pillars of the hall twined with sprays of roses as dainty as a design on dresden china.

MORE BUILDING.

New House to Go Up on West Fourth Street, Near Spooner Avenue.

J. A. McNally, on behalf of Mrs. C. Lynch, Elizabeth street, has filed plans with Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a dwelling, two story and attic, 22 feet front by 34 feet deep, on West Fourth street, near Spooner avenue. F. L. Lancaster is the architect and Theodore Grey will do the masonry.

A permit has been granted to T. H. Clark, on behalf of Wm. E. Bartlett, for the erection of a one story extension to the former's barn on his property at the corner of Church and East Second streets. D. Arthur will do the carpenter work.

FUNERAL OF MRS. TEN EYCK.

Services Were Held From Home of C. B. TenEyck Saturday Night.

Funeral services over Mrs. Margaret M. TenEyck were held at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the residence of her step-son, Cornelius B. TenEyck, Franklin avenue. Rev. Dr. Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, was the officiating clergyman. Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott sang "Saved by Grace," and "Christian's Goodnight."

Interment was at North Branch at 12:30 yesterday. Rev. Mr. Doolittle of that place officiated at the grave.

Lyman R. Allen Married.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Lyman R. Allen, formerly science instructor at the City High School, which occurred at Nashua, N. H., recently, to Miss Catharine Wiley Parker, of that place. Mr. Allen left this city several years ago and is pleasantly remembered by many former High School students. Mr. Allen will be located at North Adams, Mass., next September, where he is to teach at the High School.

Dinner at Golf Club.

An informal dinner was given at the Park Golf Club house last evening in honor of Miss Anna H. Prescott, who is soon to leave Plainfield. The affair was given by Wallace M. Brown and Charles R. Morse. Covers were laid for nine.

For Equipping Camp.

The contract for furnishing the cribs and beds for the new fresh air camp at Netherwood has been given to Woodhull & Martin.

HOPES DOWNED, ST. MARYS WON

Second Day of Play in City Baseball League Resulted in Two Close Games.

Y. M. C. A. IS COMING UP.

Defeated Hope Y. M. A. After a Hot Game—Hopes Lacked Regular Catcher—St. Marys and Safe Works Played Five Innings, When Game Was Called on Account of Rain.

STANDING IN CITY LEAGUE.

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Hope Y. M. A.	2	1	.667
St. Marys	2	1	.667
Safe Works	1	2	.333
Y. M. C. A.	1	2	.333

RESULTS OF LEAGUE GAMES.
Y. M. C. A., 7; Hope Y. M. A., 6.
St. Marys, 3; Safe Works, 1.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAMES.
Hope Y. M. A. vs. St. Mary's on Hope Common.
Safe Works vs. Y. M. C. A. on Pitts' Field.

Flushed with their double victory of Memorial Day, the Hope Y. M. A. boys were given a big surprise, Saturday afternoon, when the Y. M. C. A. team, which had opened the league so unsuspiciously, developed strength enough to outplay the Hopes by a score of 7 to 6. The afternoon's shower put a temporary stop to proceedings but play was resumed and the Y. M. C. A. aggregation came out victorious. This victory, unexpected by many, has served to give more interest than even to the happenings in the Plainfield Amateur League.

By winning from the Safe Works nine, St. Marys came to the fore and now ties the Hope team for first place. The latter game was a pretty one although it lasted but five innings when it was called on account of rain.

First honors in the league are now divided between the old rivals Hopes and St. Marys which will meet again next Saturday. The Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works teams will also have an opportunity of deciding which is to step into last place Saturday.

Y. M. C. A. DOWNED HOPE

The Hope Y. M. A. team, which took the lead in the League on Decoration Day, dropped back Saturday afternoon when it was defeated by the Y. M. C. A.'s, who have been holding down the rear end of the percentage column. It was a splendid game as the winners took it by the close margin of one run, the score being 7 to 6. Hope attributes its loss to the absence of Hartfelder, the regular catcher.

Hewitt and Dupee were in the box and both pitched in good form, although the latter was touched up pretty well. Some long drives were made by the Hope boys but good fielding on the part of the opposing team kept down the base hits. Errors were scarce in the fore part of the game but a wet ball and slow field after the shower had passed was responsible for some being made toward the end.

Munro, of the Hopes, made a beautiful catch, taking a red hot fly right from the bat and by a quick throw to second made a double play. George Schoonmaker, on third for Y. M. C. A., caught a similar fly and tagged Feiring who was about to run for home.

Part of the game was played in a drizzling rain and, but for opposition on the part of most of the large crowd of spectators as well as some of the players, it would have been called in the fifth inning.

Following is the summary and line-up:

HOPES.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Overton, cf	2	2	2	1	0
Martin, ss	0	0	7	4	0
Hewitt, p	2	3	0	1	1
Gordon, rf	1	3	1	0	0
Montross, 2b	1	1	3	1	1
Feiring, 1b	0	1	7	0	2
Magne, c	0	0	5	0	4
Munro, 3b	0	0	1	2	1
	6	9	27	9	9

Y. M. C. A.	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Sch'mak'r, ss	1	0	2	4	1
Bolsterle, 3b	1	1	3	2	1
Egan, 1b	2	3	8	0	0
Barnes, cf	0	1	3-	0	0
G. Sch'mak'r, 3b	0	0	3	0	0
Hand, lf	1	1	1	0	0
Dupee, p	1	0	0	1	0
Moore, c	1	1	6	2	0
Emes, rf	0	0	0	0	0
	7	7	*26	9	3

*Munro out by batted ball.

Score by innings.

Y. M. C. A.	1	0	2	2	1	0	0	0	0	—7
Hopes	1	1	0	0	3	0	1	0	0	—6

Stolen bases—Bolsterle, Egan (2), Hand, Dupee, Moore, Roseberry, Overton, Hewitt, Gordon (2), Montross. Two-base hits—Hand, Hewitt. Montross. Three-base hits—Barnes and Feiring. Double plays—G. Schoonmaker, unassisted, and G. Schoonmaker to Bolsterle; Munro to Montross; Martin to Montross. Base on balls—Off Dupee, 6; off Hewitt, 1. Struck out—By Dupee, 6; by Hewitt, 5. Passed balls—Moore, 3; Magne, 4. Umpires—Young and Bodine. Scorer—Brose.

ST. MARYS WON GAME.

In a sharp five inning contest St. Marys defeated Safe Works on the former's grounds Saturday afternoon by the close margin of 3 to 1. Only in the first inning did Safe Works score, and St. Marys had their tallying confined to the second, when they peppered Burns over the lot for a pretty bunch of base hits.

"Doc" Doyle in the box had a wonderfully effective delivery and good control of the ball, striking out five men and not allowing a single hit. Burns, too, had excellent control of the sphere, but the leather he handled out was too easily swatted.

Cooney, third for Safe Works, made a beautiful backward catch of a high fly. Keene, in the same position for St. Marys', misjudged a pop fly, but made a one-hand grab for the ball and captured it in the nick of time. Lederer, after a forty yard run, gathered in a difficult one out at deep centre, and caught the applause of the fans.

At the end of the fifth the game was called on account of rain.

The detailed summary follows:

ST. MARYS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Casey, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Scott, 2b	0	0	1	1	0
Keene, 3b	0	1	1	0	0
Winn, 1b	0	0	4	0	0
Lederer, cf	1	0	2	0	0
Taylor, lf	1	1	1	0	0
Mack, ss	0	1	0	2	0
Doyle, p	1	1	0	1	2
Barry, c	0	0	6	0	0
	3	5	15	4	2

SAFE WORKS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b	1	0	2	2	0
Jackson, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Ward, cf, 2b	0	0	0	0	3
Allen, c	0	0	6	0	0
Siegfried, ss	0	0	1	2	2
Symons, 1b	0	0	3	1	0
Fish, cf, 2b	0	0	0	0	0
Bond, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Burns, p	0	0	0	1	1
	1	0	12	6	6

Score by innings.

St. Marys	0	3	0	0	x—3
Safe Works	1	0	0	0	0—1

Stolen bases—Mack, Keen. Double plays—Mack to Scott; Scott to Winn. Bases on balls—Off Doyle, 3; off Burns, 1. Struck out—By Doyle, 5; by Burns, 5. Passed balls—Barry. Wild pitches—Doyle, 2. Time of game—50 minutes. Umpires—Brown and Townley. Scorer—Larew.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burges, of Littletown, N. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to William Burton, of Stelle avenue, this city.

DIED.

WILSON—In North Plainfield, N. J., Wednesday, June 4, 1902, Theodore, son of Theodore and Eliza Wilson, aged two years and two months.

RANDOLPH—In this city, on Wednesday, June 4, 1902, Willard F., son of Thomas E. F. and Marie A. Randolph, in his 20th year.

BRUNSON—In this city, on Thursday, June 5, 1902, Caroline R. Brunson, aged 69 years.

TEN EYCK—In North Plainfield, Thursday, June 5, 1902, Mrs. Margaret F. TenEyck, in her 87th year.

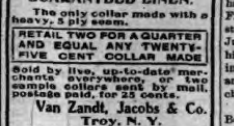
KIRBY—On Sunday, June 8, 1902, David L. Kirby, aged 54 years, 7 months and 28 days.

ZEISZ—At Plainfield, N. J., on Saturday, June 7, 1902, Andrew Zeisz, aged 69 years, 7 months and 7 days.

CADMUS—At Newport News, Va., on Sunday, June 8, 1902, Cornelia A., wife of C. V. Cadmus, aged 56 years.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

GUARANTEED LINEN.
The only collar made with a heavy, 8 ply seam.
RETAIL TWO FOR A QUARTER AND EQUAL ANY TWENTY-FIVE CENT COLLAR MADE
Sold by live, up-to-date merchants everywhere, or two sample collars sent by mail, postage paid, for 25 cents.
Van Zandt, Jacobs & Co.
Troy, N. Y.
TWO NEW STYLES



Special inducements to Dealers

Wind Demolished Awning.

The boisterous zephyrs which frisked about the streets, Sunday afternoon, temporarily terminated the usefulness of the large front awning at the Park Golf Clubhouse. The telephone was also put out of business for a day.

WRIGHT GETS ONE YEAR

FRIDAY WAS A BUSY DAY AT SOMERSET COUNTY COURTS.

Wm. Fuer Finally Obtained License at Bound Brook—Other Legal Business.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 9—Judge Schenck had a busy day in the Somerset courts Friday. Thomas Wright, of Millstone, who was indicted by the Grand Jury, of September, 1900, and made his escape, was sentenced to one year in State prison. Assault and battery and resisting an officer were the charges.

The saloon license of Wm. Fuer, of Bound Brook, which has been hanging fire since the April term began, was granted.

An application of Frank Kalbeck for a transfer of his saloon from Gateville to Main street, Bound Brook, was laid over for two weeks. John A. Frech is his counsel.

In the Orphans' Court exceptions were filed to the accounts of Emanuel Eckel, of Westfield, executor of the estate of the late Jacob Finger, of Warrenville. The exceptant is W. Howard Toms, of Warren township, and Horace Codington is his counsel. The matter was postponed for two weeks, when a hearing will be given.

Temperance Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a temperance meeting Friday evening.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?
ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
Being entirely cured of deafness through the use of your invention, I feel bound in duty to my fellow men to tell them how I used it and where to get it. Over two years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until my hearing in this ear entirely ... I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without receiving any benefit. Physicians among others, the most eminent specialists in Baltimore, told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would keep on, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and today, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
and
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your furnace mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toniorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men, I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on approved security

Guaranteed Salary
$900
YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, permanent, profitable, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
21 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

HOW TO RUN A SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Institute Conducted at Vincent Chapel by the M. E. Churches of This District.

MANY STRONG TALKS.

Afternoon and Evening Sessions Were Held at Which Many Interesting Addresses and Discussions Were Given on Sunday-school Methods—The Speeches.

The first of a series of two Sunday-school Institutes under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church of the Elizabeth District, was held in Vincent chapel Thursday afternoon and evening. Rev. Dr. Halleron, the presiding elder for the Elizabeth District, was in the chair, and there was a large attendance of Sunday-school workers present from the various towns between Elizabeth and Raritan.

The programme opened with a talk by Rev. Dr. Roads, of New York, on "Better Teaching and How to Get It." This speaker referred to the urgent need of getting persons suitable for this kind of teaching and the care to be exercised in making a selection of pupils to be taught. In using care in the selection the teaching would surely be better. Dr. Roads brought out many valuable points along this line and prepared the way for Rev. C. M. Anderson, of Westfield, and Rev. E. L. Earp, of Grace M. E. church, who followed in leading a general discussion of the topic.

The question of grading a Sunday-concern which should be in every Methodist Sunday-school.

During the afternoon session the audience was favored with a pleasing vocal solo, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," by Mrs. Thomas McDonald. At the close of this session all were entertained at supper which was provided and served by the women of the First M. E. church.

The evening session was called at 7:45 o'clock when there was a fifteen minute song service conducted by Walter M. McGee, of the Monroe Avenue church. Rev. Dr. Halleron then introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Thomas B. Neely, corresponding secretary of the Sunday-school Union of the M. E. church, who delivered a strong and impressive address on the subject of "The Ideal Sunday-school."

"A good many Sunday-schools are built on fads," said Dr. Neely, "while a few are founded on commonsense. What a Sunday-school ought to do is a paramount question. It stands for imparting knowledge of the Bible to a school so that he may know what is right and then be taught how to do it. What does the average scholar know about the Bible? Is a school doing all it should when a scholar spend ten years in it and learns nothing about God's Word. Very few scholars are today converted in the average Sunday-school. There are some teachers who never spend a minute in preparation for teaching the lesson. They generally look upon a school as a pleasant place to spend a social hour. As a rule the average school is a place of confusion and uproar, with the superintendent ringing his bell for order. There is altogether too much time spent in opening and closing the school and not enough for the study of the lesson.

"There is miserable music, an echo of the dance hall and the waltz too often in the average school. You tell me the music of a church or Sunday-school and I will tell you what that church or school is. Then there is a lack of reverence. The scholars come in the school as they would in a theatre or concert hall. The average school was assigned to Rev. H. M. Simpson, who told of the various excellent methods that can be used. He spoke of the necessity of having the classes properly graded and how it would result in better work for both teacher and scholars.

Rev. George Wilding, of Elizabeth, spoke in an interesting manner on the subject of "Attendance." He said that there are very few novel ways of securing a better attendance, but he would advise a judicious use of the newspapers, while individual work would accomplish much. He suggested that it would be well for teachers and members of the school to personally call on persons not interested in Sunday-school work and thus win them.

Under the head of newer lines of work, W. D. Murray, of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school, opened the subject by telling about the cradle roll department. He described this department in his own school and told how successful it has been in winning parents into the Sunday-school. He told in detail about the methods used to get members on the cradle roll. They are up on this roll at birth and kept there until old enough to come to the school. Mr. Murray exhibited a well-devised method of keeping the names of the little ones. According to his system the roll will last forever, as the names can be taken off when necessary and others put on.

James R. Joy followed with a helpful talk concerning the work for beginners in the Sunday-school and he told how successfully this department had been maintained in his school. He told of the interest manifested by the little ones, as well as their parents.

The home department work was assigned to Rev. Dr. Roads, in the absence of Miss Welsh, of Westfield, who was not present. He described this department of work and said it had proved to be a most helpful adjunct to a Sunday-school. The afternoon session closed after Rev. Dr. Crance, of the Methodist Book Concern, New York, gave a brief talk about the various publications of that teacher does not know what to teach and does not know how to care for the pupils. He or she should be a friend, a pastor as it were to the members in the class. Oftentimes when a school meets in the morning the scholars and teachers too often remain away from a church service.

"Yes, the Sunday-school with all its defects is an invaluable institution and should be continued. The ideal school is a mental picture of perfection, something that may be. There should be in it every person with an abundance of officers and teachers and there should not be those defects which I have mentioned."

Dr. Neely then spoke about the proper division for an ideal school in the classes and grades so that the greatest good can be accomplished. He paid especial attention to the home department work as an institution that should furnish extra teachers. He also spoke of a People's Bible College now being organized all over the country for this purpose. He impressed upon all the importance of using graded literature in the schools and recommended that furnished by the Methodist Book Concern as the kind for the Methodist church Sunday-schools.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Thomas McDonald sang a solo, as did also Charles L. Lewis, and after the singing of the doxology, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Bryan.

Those who took charge of the arrangements for the supper and waited on the tables were as follows: First M. E. church—Miss Minnie Sharp, chairman; Mrs. J. R. Joy, Miss Susie Jackson, Miss Amanda Carman, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, Miss Gertrude Sharp, Miss Nettie Wilson, Miss Mabel Wycoff, Miss Elizabeth Stafford, Mrs. Ida Courser, Miss Gertrude Huber, Mrs. Cora Harris, Miss Anna Smalley. Grace M. E. church—Mrs. Anna Most, Mrs. Corra Ryno, Miss Della Voehl, Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon, Miss Mary Steiner, Miss Grace Clark. Monroe Avenue church—Mrs. Walter Manning, Miss Haff and Miss Mary Beekman.

NEW ASSESSMENT SCHEDULE

CIRCULAR JUST ISSUED BY GRAND MASTER WORKMAN NASH.

Table of the New Classified Assessments—The Contents of the Circular.

Every one of the thousands of members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey will receive with his June assessment a circular calling attention to the graded assessment schedule. The circular is sent out by Grand Master Workman Vincent W. Nash. It says:

"At the adjourned session of our Grand Lodge, held in the city of Trenton, May 20, 1902, classified assessments were adopted by this jurisdiction, to go into effect July 1, 1902, by a vote of 97 to 14, thus placing our jurisdiction upon a basis that promises perfection beyond question, in the judgment of those best qualified to judge by reason of study and experience.

"That the new method is far better than the old level plan of assessment is apparent even to the most casual observer. Now, each class will pay its own fair and equal proportion of the cost, while under the old method the young men paid more than their just proportion, a fact which the young men discovered, and, as a consequence, sought protection in other orders more aggressive."

The following schedule of rates, which will be in effect after July 1, will explain the cost of each assessment to each member in both the $1,000 and $2,000 classes:

Ages.	$1,000 policy.	$2,000 policy.
18 to 24	.65	$1.30
25 to 29	.72	1.44
30 to 34	.81	1.62
35 to 39	.94	1.88
40 to 44	$1.13	2.26
45 to 49	1.44	2.88
50 and over	1.92	3.84

PLANNING TO SEE THE POPE

PLAINFIELD'S PRIESTS SAIL ON PILGRIMAGE JULY 1.

Go With Party of American Roman Catholics Who Will Visit Rome and Other Parts of Europe.

Rev. Andrew M. Egan, of St. Mary's church, this city, and Rev. William H. Miller, St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, will sail for Europe July 1 by the Italian liner, Nord America. They will form part of a pilgrimage of American Catholics that will visit Rome in honor of the pontifical jubilee of Leo XIII.

The object of the pilgrimage is not only Rome, its churches and catacombs, but also other places of religious interest, Padua, Paray le Monial, and it will reach Lourdes August 15, the feast of the Assumption, an interesting day at the great French shrine.

Arrangements have been made for an audience with the Pope. At this audience His Holiness will be presented with an album, embellished with the papal colors, and bearing on leaves of parchment the name and address of each visitor, and also the diocese to which he belongs. Word has been received that a visit from an American deputation would give great pleasure to the Pope.

After leaving Rome the party will visit Naples, Venice, Lucerne, Milan, Geneva, Lyons, Marseilles, various points along the Rhine, and afterwards a trip will be made to the British Isles.

Besides Father Egan and Father Miller it is expected that about forty priests of this diocese will take the voyage. They will leave Liverpool on their return home August 27, arriving in New York, September 4.

SUMMER MEMBERSHIP.

Special Attractions Offered Now by the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. is offering its usual summer privileges this season. From June 1 to September 1 special inducements are offered those who wish to take advantage of the various attractions.

For the nominal sum of three dollars, one may obtain the privilege of using the shower baths, the swimming pool, the bowling alleys and a locker. He may take part in the bicycle runs. The offer includes ordinary membership for one year and admits to star course of entertainments.

The bowling alleys at the Y. M. C. A. are of regulation length and good equipment. The swimming pool, 31x 12 feet, is one of the features of the physical department. The water is frequently changed every week, and the temperature is regulated at all times. Other bathing facilities are the shower baths with hot and cold water. The conditions are always perfectly sanitary, and a locker room thoroughly ventilated and filled with Yale locks is within easy access. Bicycle runs are conducted by an officer of the association.

GETTING EVIDENCE.

Opponents of Live-Pigeon Shooting in New Jersey Will be Active at Next Legislature.

The opponents of live-pigeon shooting in New Jersey believe that ample argument against the practice is to be found in the recent shoot of the State Sportsmen's Association at Freehold.

An agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals attended the meet, and gathered much information, which will be presented to the next Legislature in urging the passage of a bill prohibiting live-bird shooting.

The agent found that in the first instance the target birds were so closely confined that many died before they were liberated. Many of the birds were wounded, but made their way out of bounds, to die where they might in slow torture. Others which fell in bounds were thrown in a big heap, there to flutter until death ended their sufferings.

When asked why these birds were not at once killed, a member of the society vouchsafed the information that it was useless, as they could not get away.

Marriage of Miss Ginns.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Ginns for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elisabeth Tompkins Ginns, to Erickson Perkin, Wednesday evening, June 18, at "The Pines," the residence of the bride's parents. A limited number of invitations have been issued to the wedding and a large reception from 8 to 10 o'clock will follow.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES

ANNOUNCED BY THE LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY.

Names of the Officers and Committees to Serve the Trinity Church Society for the Ensuing Year.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church met June 2, when officers and committees for the ensuing year were announced as follows:

President, Mrs. Elisabeth A. Parse; first vice president, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; second vice president, Mrs. Anna M. Gillem; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr.; secretary, Mrs. T. R. VanZandt.

Devotional committee, Mrs. Van Doren, Mrs. Force, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Schomp, Mrs. Tomplin, Mrs. Dolliver, Mrs. Woodruff, Mrs. E. T. Van Winkle, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Newell.

Missionary, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Woodruff, Mrs. VanName, Mrs. Bolsterli, Mrs. Julius Williams, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Kershaw, Mrs. Paul, Mrs. Emmons, Mrs. Force, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Schomp, Mrs. Beckman, Miss Disborough, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Tomplin, Miss McKisic.

Sewing, Mrs. Bolsterli, Mrs. Dunhan, Mrs. Beckman, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Garrett VanWinkle, Mrs. Abram Van Cleef, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Gillem, Mrs. Seaman Williams, Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Dunavan, Mrs. Thompson.

Flower, Mrs. VanDyke, Mrs. Van Name, Mrs. Coriell, Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. Peck.

Reception, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Demarest, Mrs. Gillem, Mrs. Paul, Miss Disborough, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Cooley, Mrs. Emmons, Mrs. VanDeventer, Mrs. VanName, Mrs. Stuart, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Tomplin, Mrs. Dunhan, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Dolliver, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. Woodruff.

Visiting, Mrs. Schenck, Mrs. Van Name, Mrs. VanEmburgh, Mrs. Force, Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Woodruff.

Temperance, Mrs. Parse, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Schenck, Mrs. Gillem, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. VanZandt.

Poor, Mrs. E. T. VanWinkle, Mrs. John Krymer.

Sewing guild, Mrs. Woodruff.

EQUIPMENT OF NEW WAGON

PLANS FOR NEW CHEMICAL ENGINE AND HOSE WAGON.

Will Have Long Ladders, Hand Extinguishers and Other Fire Fighting Apparatus.

Chief Doane and members of the councilmanic fire committee have made a number of alterations in the designs for the new West End combination chemical and hose wagon, which will make it a hook and ladder truck as well.

Longer ladders will be placed on the sides and in place of a basket to hold the chemical hose, a reel is to be provided, similar to the one on the present chemical engine. A standing platform and guards will be on each side and the specifications call for as much space between the front and rear wheels as can possibly be made.

A better system of lights is projected and room is to be provided for a large quantity of small fire fighting apparatus such as chemical cans of three gallons capacity, axes, poles and hooks.

The contract will be let within a short time and it is hoped the new vehicle will be ready for service by the latter part of August.

HOME WEDDING.

Ceremony Was a Quiet One and Not Made Generally Public.

The marriage of Mrs. Marie Blume, of West Front street, to George Geibelhouse, of Arlington avenue, took place Saturday evening, May 24, at the home of the bride. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leifke, of West Front street, stood up with the couple, while there were several members of the bride's family and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Geibelhouse expect to spend the summer at Newport.

Successful Fete.

The lawn fete, held at Mrs. Evarts Tracy's on Saturday, May 24, realized a good sum for the benefit of fresh air work in New York. After all expenses had been paid there was a balance of $255.15. The expenses were $20.85. The members of the Lenten Sewing class thank the public for the generous response to their appeal.

New Bridge.

A new bridge has been placed over the gangway in Compton's alley by M. Weinberger, who owns the west property. It was put down for the accommodation of Dan Roberts, the veteran liveryman, who has commenced business at his old stand. He recently purchased a number of handsome new turnouts from Ballantyne & VanPiest, of Somerville, through Charles Geer, of this city.

HER FAMILY HISTORY.

Sarah Bernhardt Tells Some Intimate Facts to Insurance Doctor and Gets Big Risk.

The $100,000 insurance risk recently taken out by Sarah Bernhardt was divided among several large English companies, and each received a copy of the original examination by a physician of the company that accepted the great actress. A copy of the papers in the possession of an English visitor in Chicago shows that if Mme. Bernhardt dies M. Maurice Jean Ambroise Bernhardt, her son, married and about 35, will inherit the insurance money, together with $100,000 worth of real estate in Paris, an estate elsewhere in France and much money, bonds and other valuables.

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT.
(Considered by Critics the Greatest Living Actress.)

The statement is to the effect that the divine Sarah was born on October 23, 1844, that her father died at 37 and her mother at 51. She has no brother. Of her two sisters, one died of accidental poisoning, the other of pneumonia. The physician makes especial mention of the fact that Mme. Bernhardt submitted most affably to the physical examination, and that, all things considered, she is the best risk he has ever examined.

In answer to various questions the actress said she had been ill only once in her life, when a serious surgical operation was necessary. She never wore stays. Her full name is Sarah Bernhardt Damala. She owned $100,000 worth of Paris real estate and earned $10,000 a week in the theatrical season.

Her home is on the island of Belle Isle, on the west coast of France, a place immortalized by Alexander Dumas the elder in "The Three Guardsmen." Her height was five feet 6½ inches and her weight 130 pounds.

In the matter of wines and other liquors she confines herself to one glass of champagne at dinner each day. Her principal food is the juice pressed from fresh beef.

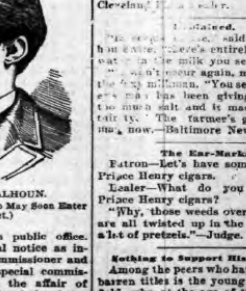
Her art takes up all her time, and to prevent the small but worrying things of every-day life from interfering with it she carries with her a woman companion and a masseuse, two maids and two men servants. Her daily routine she gives as follows: She arises between 11 a. m. and noon. She takes a cold bath. She gives herself over into the hands of her masseuse. She has a light breakfast. If the weather is nice and dry she takes a drive; if not, she studies, reads or talks.

She has a light dinner, the principal ingredient of which is the juice pressed from beef; drinks her glass of champagne and goes to the theater at eight o'clock.

WILLIAM J. CALHOUN.

Distinguished Illinois Republican Who Is Said to Be Slated for a Cabinet Position.

William J. Calhoun, who is said to be under consideration by President Roosevelt for a place in the cabinet, is practicing law in Chicago, but has



WILLIAM J. CALHOUN.
(Illinois Republican Who May Soon Enter the Cabinet.)

a wide experience in public office. He came into national notice as interstate commerce commissioner and went to Cuba as a special commissioner to investigate the affair of Gen. Ruiz. He was offered the choice of several other places by President McKinley, but his personal affairs needed his attention. Mr. Calhoun was born at Hubbard, O., in 1850, and he was a schoolmate of William McKinley. In 1896 he was an important factor in capturing the Illinois delegation for the national convention for his old friend.

Milk Kept in Frozen Chunks.

There are but few cows in Labrador. No wonder. The natives procure their milk for the winter and then kill their cows. The milk is kept in barrels, where it freezes and never threatens to sour throughout the entire season. When one wishes any milk he has simply to go to the barrel and cut out a slice.

Men Who Carry Letters.

The native runner postmen of Natal are strikingly picturesque objects when on business bent. With their sandaled feet and head dress of dried leaves, which rattle as they run, and a military greatcoat, underneath which is a garment called the muceta, they travel for miles at a jog trot of four miles an hour, and receive as payment one pound (five dollars) a month. In Holland the extent of the mail service route is over 30,000 miles. The uniform of the postmen is semi-military in character, and they themselves are said to be a remarkably handsome body. In Austria the government gives to the postmen every year one tunic, one pair of cloth trousers, one pair of linen trousers, one waistcoat and a cap, while every second year a coat and blouse are given. Previous military service is considered as postal service, and each year of war counts double.—Detroit Free Press.

Expensive Riding.

The most expensive season tickets in the world, perhaps, are those issued by the Congo Railway company. The first-class single fare for a journey of about 250 miles is $100. Latterly this company has issued season tickets available for one year at the following rates: For 4 return journeys, $475; for 8 return journeys, $665, and for 12 journeys, $855. Naturally the issue of these tickets is very limited, so far only four having been delivered, but application for a fifth has been made. They are not printed, but written out on a piece of cardboard four inches by six inches, folded in two; on one side the date and name of holder are inserted and the other is divided in squares, where the beginning and end of each journey is filled in by the stationmasters at the time it is performed.—Detroit Free Press.

Hoofs Blacked.

As a pair of handsome bays swept up Fifth avenue, high stepping and well in hand, a man on the sidewalk suddenly burst into laughter and pointed a finger at the horses. Then others noticed what had attracted his attention and smiled. The big bays had a perfect "shine" as any bootblack could put on. Their high action made them most conspicuous as they went up the avenue with their eight hoofs flashing as if they were patent leathers. This polish had come by easy stages from oiling the hoofs first to keep them from cracking, then making the oil black for the sake of neatness, and finally a genuine "shine," the inspiration of some coachman who probably got his salary raised for the original idea.—N. Y. Sun.

The World's Greatest Iron Range.

Dr. C. K. Leith, who is preparing a monograph on the great Mesabi iron range of Minnesota for the United States geological survey, says that the rapid development of this range, since its discovery ten years ago, has, in itself, been sufficient to give American steel manufacturers the advantage in foreign markets. It is the greatest iron range known in the world, and the amount of ore in sight on the Mesabi is roughly estimated at 2,000,000,000 tons. Some of the mines are shipping more than 1,000,000 tons of ore a year.—Mining Journal.

Just a Few Conditions.

"Oh, George, dear! I've such good news for you!"

"Indeed! What is it, love?"

"Come into the parlor first. Papa said we might be married—"

"Oh, joy! Did he, really? I knew he was all—"

"Just as soon as you get your first $20,000 laid by and—"

(The doctor states that George will recover, but that he will never smile again.)—San Francisco Bulletin.

The Best of Everything.

"Yes, madam, I understand that you want your book of verses got up in the best style, regardless of expense."

"That's it, exactly."

"You want morocco binding, gilt top, calendared paper, and the illustrations must be—"

"Half-tones, indeed. They must be [illegible] or nothing."

Cleveland Leader.

Explained.

"[illegible]," said the young husband, "there's entirely too much water in the milk you serve."

"We won't never again, ma'am," said the [illegible]. "You see, the farmer's new hired man was feeding the cows too much salt and it made 'em very [illegible]. The farmer's got a new man now.—Baltimore News.

The Ear-Marks.

Patron—Let's have some of those Prince Henry cigars.

Dealer—What do you mean by Prince Henry cigars?

"Why, those weeds over there that are all twisted up in the middle like a lot of pretzels."—Judge.

Nothing to Support His Dignity.

Among the peers who have inherited baron titles is the young earl of Seabeld, who at the age of 12 succeeded to an earldom, two viscounties and two baronies, without so much as a single acre of land to maintain his dignities. —N. Y. Sun.

What He Had Missed.

He (tenderly)—Darling, you are really and truly the only girl I ever loved.

She—Well, all I've got to say is that you have missed a lot of fun.—Chicago Daily News.

A Random Guess.

"What do we know about Jonah?" asked the Sunday school teacher of little Teddy.

"Well," replied Teddy, slowly, "we know that he liked fish."—Ohio State Journal.

MISSION WORKERS END MEETINGS FOR SUMMER

Winter Has Been a Successful One for Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Church.

LAST MEETING TILL FALL

INTERESTING REPORTS OF OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES WERE PRESENTED.

Some Business Was Transacted—Delegates to Anniversary Meeting of Woman's Board Made Their Report—Other Pleasant Features.

The last meeting until next October of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening. Miss Mabel Woodruff, the president, occupied the chair.

Reports of the officers, including that of the treasurer, all gave evidence of progress and increased interest. The treasurer, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, showed the receipts to be $35.40, including $2.50 as dues for the month of May. There was expended 15 cents, leaving a balance of $35.25.

The reports of the committees were encouraging. It was stated that barrels have been and are being packed to be sent to mission station. The birthday committee reported five birthdays in May. There was also reported one new member.

A letter was read giving the name of the native girl in India which the band has undertaken to support, and telling something about her. The band has pledged $30 a year for the support and education of this girl.

It was decided that the band pay the remainder of the pledge for the new piano, also that the special collection taken recently for the Kentucky mountain fund be paid. Miss Woodruff announced that next week the work of sending flowers to the New York mission every week would be started and named committees who will look after this work. The president also suggested that when the band meets again in October the members begin the practice of responding to the roll call by relating some item of interest.

Miss Cutter and Miss Lillian A. Force gave interesting accounts of the morning and afternoon sessions of the anniversary meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions held recently in the Collegiate church, New York. During the intermission between the reports there was a vocal selection by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Miss Mary Randolph, Miss Duncan, Miss Minnie Williams and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, accompanied by Miss Lillian A. Force on the piano.

A feature of the evening then followed. It was called "Missionary Mysteries," and was in charge of Mrs. W. C. Startup. She had placed in a large receptacle a number of curios from China, Japan and Arabia, such as hair comb, coffin, Hindu cooking utensils, paper money, idols, Arabic roll of Bible texts, etc. These were all numbered and different persons held slips of paper also numbered explaining the curios. As Mrs. Startup called the numbers these slips of paper were read. Afterward the curios were passed around and examined.

This part of the meeting was then concluded with the singing of a hymn and the benediction by Pastor Schenck, after which there was a social time and refreshments were served.

FUNERAL OF W. I. F. RANDOLPH.

Impressive Service Held From the Parents' Home Yesterday.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. F. Randolph, of Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, funeral services were held over the remains of their son, Willard I. F. Randolph. Rev. Dr. William R. Richards was in charge, assisted by Rev. Bergen D. Stelle, pastor of the Alleghany Avenue Baptist church, Philadelphia.

A quartette from the Lotus Glee Club, composed of George C. Lenox, John Young, Charles L. Lewis and Edward B. Martindell, rendered "The Strife is O'er" and "Crossing the Bar." The floral tributes were so numerous as to almost hide the casket from view. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. BRISTOL.

She Was Related to Several People Living in This City.

The death of Mrs. Phineas Bristol, aged sixty-six years, occurred at Milford, Conn., Wednesday morning, following a long illness, and the burial took place at Milford yesterday. Mrs. Bristol was a sister to S. C. Peck, of West Front street, and was a devoted Christian woman. She was also a step-mother to the late Rev. Cornelius Bristol, who married Miss Carrie Lowrie, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lowrie, of Park avenue. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck and Mrs. Lowrie went to Milford to attend the funeral

ADVICE FOR DR. RICHARDS

Members of Crescent Avenue Church Expressed Varied Opinions of Pastor's Call.

MANY WERE PRESENT.

While All Were Sorry to See Him Go, Some Prominent Men Declared That He Was Needed in the Greater Sphere of Usefulness—The Several Speakers.

Fully five hundred members of the Crescent Avenue church and congregation assembled at the church June 4, in response to an announcement that there would be a conference of the church and congregation with the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, for the purpose of giving counsel and advice to the pastor relative to the recent call extended to him by the members of the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York. There was a deep interest manifested and many prominent members made remarks on the subject.

The meeting was held in the main part of the church and Dr. Richards presided. Several hymns were sung, lead by E. C. Martin as precentor, and prayers were offered by L. N. Lowell and William D. Murray, asking for God's guidance in the matter under consideration.

Following the devotional exercises, Dr. Richards made a few remarks in which he stated the object of the meeting. He then spoke in a more personal manner concerning the subject. He said that if there should be a question raised about his going, his desire to stay in Plainfield would be stronger than that of going to New York. He considered the recent call one of unique importance and made reference to the fact that it is through the church that a pastor works. He referred to the larger field in a congested population of a big city, where the needs are greater and there are more opportunities.

"God's kingdom and its advancement," said Dr. Richards, "is a paramount question and for that reason this call has forced itself upon me as nothing has before in my life. I have not given my decision in this matter and at present I will not. This meeting was called for the purpose of giving advice and counsel which I have a right to ask from the members of my church."

Dr. Richards spoke in a feeling way of the many years he has been with the Crescent Avenue church and of the strong ties of friendship and love now existing which would make a severance very hard.

After Dr. Richards concluded his remarks, W. H. Sampson arose to make inquiries concerning the mission work connected with the Brick church in New York. The question was not easily answered for not a great deal is known concerning it.

Charles J. Fisk, a trustee of the church, was the next speaker. Addressing Dr. Richards, he said: "I love you as a pastor, a friend, an advisor and as a man. You are a man of conviction and not afraid to do your duty as you see it. You came here when a younger man and you have been faithful to your trust. You have endeared yourself to this church which as grown to be one of the most influential in New Jersey.

"If the members of this church were asked to vote on the question of your resigning your pastorate here there would be a unanimous vote in favor of your remaining in Plainfield, but a careful consideration of the question the matter is left to you to decide. The Brick church has said to us 'Let us have your pastor,' and I do not see how, under the circumstances you can say no. It is the largest and most influential church in the country and I would say go to the greater Christian church with its greater opportunities. If Dr. Richards says yes to the call the members of this church should say go and may the blessings of God go with him."

H. M. Humphrey was the third speaker, and he said it seemed to him that it was a meeting where one must speak or forever hold his peace afterward. Mr. Humphrey referred to Dr. Parkhurst's work in New York in the reform movement and of the hard work that would surely come to Dr. Richards should he accept the call extended to him. He did not believe that Dr. Richards would be as useful in New York as New Jersey, where there are detrimental conditions. He said that Dr. Richards would be equal to the Brick church pulpit, but can that church offer enough reasons for Dr. Richards leaving Plainfield.

George A. Strong followed with impressive remarks in which he said that there are more people in New York and the need there is greater than in Plainfield. "If it is a question of money," said Mr. Strong, "the Brick church can pay more than the Crescent Avenue church and there would be no need of calling this meeting. That is not the question, however, but how can the greatest good be accomplished." Mr. Strong believed that Dr. Richards should be located where he can do the greatest good to the greatest number.

Isaac L. Miller said that Dr. Van-Dyke's letter to the church did not explain the reasons why Dr. Richards should leave the Plainfield church, except that the Brick church needed him. He said that there were 350 people present at the meeting which called Dr. Richards, while there were a great many more than that present last evening to favor his remaining in Plainfield and not accepting the call. "We have three mission churches with one of the largest Sunday-schools in New Jersey. Dr. Richards is a power in this city and with all his multifarious duties he has been good enough to serve as a member of the Board of Education. He has done a noble work in Plainfield and I hope he will stay here."

Elliot T. Barrows said that the church should not recount its past deeds at this time. It was not the Brick church alone that is calling Dr. Richards, but a higher power. "It is you," addressing Dr. Richards, "and not we that is to be mourned," said Mr. Barrows. "Dr. Richards has made this the leading church in the State and it shows what he will do in New York. The people of the church should be behind him and give him encouragements in this matter."

Rev. Edward Love read his remarks, which were to the effect that the call to remain in Plainfield is louder than it was when Dr. Richards was called to the church eighteen years ago. He invoked God's blessing on Dr. Richards in deciding the question before him.

Frederick H. Andrews said: "You know, Dr. Richards, how our hearts are torn when we think of your leaving us. You are the father of the chapel work which has been conducted so successfully. We have come to sympathize with you. This church has been built up with prayer. I would suggest that you withhold your answer to the call for three days and that during that time the people of this church devote their time to earnest prayer that God may lead you unmistakably as to what you should do."

William D. Murray made a strong plea in behalf of the call being accepted. He said that the need is the call and all know that the need in New York is as great as in any foreign field where there is so much godlessness and Sabbath desecration. In conclusion Mr. Murray said "I am free to say that while the happiest hours of my life have been spent in this church, the need is so great in New York that this church cannot afford to stand in the way of this call."

This concluded the remarks and Dr. Richards in closing said that he believed that God would guide him in answer to prayer. He further stated that he would give this decision within a short time after careful consideration of the words of advice given at the meeting. Following a prayer by Rev. Dr. Hubbell, and the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light," the meeting was closed with the benediction by the pastor.

Among those present at the meeting was Rev. George Webster, pastor of the East Side mission chapel of the Brick church, New York. He happened to be visiting friends in the city and hearing of the meeting attended. After the meeting he met a number of the prominent members of the church.

In relation to the call extended to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards to become the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, a letter was received a few days ago by Dr. Richards from Dr. Henry vanDyke, who has taken the initiative in this matter. The letter was read Sunday morning at the Crescent Avenue church by Dr. Richards. It is as follows:

"My Dear Richards:

"The meeting last night was large, enthusiastic and absolutely unanimous in calling you to the Brick church. There is not in any mind that that you are the man for the place, and no hesitation in any heart about asking you to come. We know the value of your present work, the mutual attachment between you and the Plainfield church, the many ties of love that hold you where you are. The tie by which we would draw you to New York is the tie of duty—clear and strong. The cause of Christ needs you here. The strongest Presbyterian church in America, standing in the great city where its influence is most needed, asks you to come to it and lead it forward.

"The call is affectionately and respectfully addressed to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church as well as to you. We do not imagine that your people can think of giving you up without great sorrow, but we want you, if it may be so brought about by the Spirit of Wisdom and Love in recognizing the exigencies of the hour for the sake of the interests of the whole church and for the welfare of the Master's kingdom. We lay before you and your people in love and loyalty this earnest, straightforward, altogether invitation for you to come to the Brick church.

"Eighteen years of my life have been given to its service. God has called me now to work among young men in the college world by tongue and pen through the country. But whatever service I can render you in the Brick church, if you go there, is hereby pledged to you with all my heart. In regard to the time of your coming our wish would be to have you consider the interests of the Crescent Avenue church, as well as ours.

"Our prayer is that the Holy Spirit may guide you in the decision of this matter and my hope is that the appeal of duty may lead you to us.

"Faithfully, your brother in Christ,

"Henry van Dyke."

THEATRICAL.

The waning season marks no abatement in the throngs which flock to the Proctor playhouses. His four theatres in New York are enjoying one of the most prosperous spring seasons in their history. For the summer ample provisions have been made for good continuous entertainment.

The permanent stock companies at Proctor's Albany and Montreal have been immensely favored. The best metropolitan successes are being presented with a change of bill weekly, and the selected companies give fine performances. There is just enough vaudeville interlarded between acts to lend diversity and maintain the performances continuous.

F. F. Proctor's $20,000 production of living art studies have made an immediate hit at Proctor's, Newark. The best vaudeville is weekly presented at this new and pretty theatre, and its first season will close with a record of prosperity hitherto unknown in the history of new theatres, in new fields with new departures in entertainment.

The Proctor Stock Company retains possession of the Fifth Avenue, Fifty-eighth Street and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres in New York, while continuous performances of the best vaudeville are retained at the Twenty-third Street—New York's first home of the continuous.

HONOR MAN.

Philip Bissell Won Honors at College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Friends of the late Morgan S. Taylor and his sister, Dr. Mary Taylor Bissell, of New York, will be interested to know that Philip Bissell, the son of the latter, is one of the ten honor men of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, selected this year. The men who were chosen by the faculty of the college be come eligible to compete for the Harsen prizes of $500, $300 and $200, respectively. A special test examination will be given the honor men and the names of the winners will be announced on commencement day, June 11. An immediate result of the distinction is that the honor men receive appointments at once to various hospitals, Dr. Bissell having been assigned to the New York Hospital.

A. O. H. STATE LODGE.

Date of Annual Meeting Has Been Changed From July to August.

The officers of the State lodge of New Jersey, Ancient Order of Hibernians, have decided to postpone the annual meeting of this year from July to August, so that the session will be held after the national lodge meets in Denver, early in August. New Jersey will be represented at Denver by State President James E. Clinton, of Trenton.

In past years the State body met just prior to the meeting of the national lodge, but this has been found impracticable, as frequently considerable of the business transacted at the State convention is made void by the legislation enacted by the national lodge. This is particularly true with rules and regulations. After the Denver meeting, the State lodge can meet, and, knowing the laws to govern the order, it can so shape its legislation as to prevent any conflict. The State meeting will be held in this city.

The term of State President James E. Clinton will expire this year, and it is not known whether or not he will accept a renomination.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 15.—"Why Total Abstinence Is Best"—Text, Rom. xiv. 13-23.

Alcoholic beverages are not necessary for the highest condition of bodily health. The constant use of wines, beers or distilled spirits with meals and at other times is customary with great numbers of people, many of whom, because they have formed the habit of use and acquired an appetite for them, believe such indulgence necessary to maintain vigorous health. Aside from all theories of the physiological effect of alcoholics on living tissues and allowing for the proper medicinal use of such liquors, common observation, re-enforced by medical practice, makes it certain that vigorous health is not promoted by drinking any variety of intoxicants, but that unnatural conditions are produced which in case of an attack of disease make the chances of recovery much less than ordinary. Derangements of many bodily functions are liable from the liquor habit. Health requires abstinence. Total abstinence is best for intellectual strength and clearness of thought. However brilliantly some genius may have written or spoken when under the stimulating effect of alcohol, steady work and sober thought, which run the world, require its disuse.

All this is so well known that no athlete is allowed the use of such liquors while in training. The great railroad corporations and many other branches of business where clear judgment and caution are essential to safety require entire abstinence in their employees.

The moral debasement resulting from the drink habit may be glossed over by social custom, and many other learned phrases and medical terms, winked at because of family connection and tolerated because of wealth; but, in spite of all falsities, the fact remains the same, that the drink habit does lower the moral tone of whoever acquires it, be he millionaire or pauper. Its blight on the soul cannot be escaped. No high spiritual attainment is possible to one who is the victim of appetite.

The waste of wealth in alcoholic drinks can find no reasonable defense. However great may be one's possessions, no one has any right to misuse any part of them. Power to do as he pleases never releases a man from the duty to do as he ought. Every one should use his money in such a manner as to reach the best results for all affected by its use. Most of that expended for liquor drinking is wasted and produces only such injury.

The social welfare of the community is best served by sobriety. The drinking customs of society are a blight upon happiness, true culture and refinement of manners, material betterment of homes, efficient management of industries and the recognition of ethical obligations.

In a certain country community in New England under the blighting influence of saloons the farms were run down, houses unpainted, walls and fences broken and rotted, cattle rough coated and ill fed and nearly every farmer in debt. In ten years' time, under the example and influence of one man, a great change was effected. Walls and fences were repaired, roads put in order, buildings repaired and painted, wagons and tools housed, land fertilized, drained and highly cultivated, stock improved and cared for and better crops raised. Of all was that the men had become total abstainers and the saloons closed for lack of trade.

Wayside Ministry.

The wayside ministry is far more effectual than the ministry of the pulpit. Most preaching is done to those who need it least and reaches the really needy only as it is distilled through the first hearers into lives which others see. If the people would only realize that at best the preacher can only place in their hands his sublime message; they must carry it out into the daily life and interpret it by the beauty and sincerity and cheerfulness and kindliness of word and act that he who runs may read! A really Christian man going about his daily life as a constant ministry teaches every week a deeper, stronger truth than the most popular preacher.—Universalist Leader.

Character.

A man who lives right and is right has more power in his silence than another has by his words. Character is like bells which ring out sweet music and which, when touched, accidentally even, resound with sweet music.—Phillips Brooks.

The Wheel of Life.

Life is a wheel, and natures move in circles, passing the same points again and again, the points being distant or near to the sense as the courses of life have longer or shorter curves.—"The Right of Way," by Gilbert Parker.

Open the Door.

Open the door; let in the air;
The sun will follow, and the flowers are fair.
Joy is abroad in the world today;
If our door is wide, it may come this way.

Open the door!

Open the door; let in the sun;
Earth's many children shall be one;
He hath made of the raindrops gold and gems;
He may change our tears to diadems;

Open the door!

Open the door of the soul; let in Strong, pure thoughts which shall banish sin;
They will grow and bloom with a grace divine,
And their fruit shall be sweeter than that of the vine;

Open the door!

Open the door of the heart; let in Sympathy sweet for the stranger and kin;
It will make the halls of the heart so fair
That angels may enter unaware;

Open the door!

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 15.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Why total abstinence is best.—Rom. xiv. 13-23. (Temperance meeting.)

There is one of three attitudes we may take toward intoxicating drinks as a beverage—we may totally abstain, drink moderately or drink to excess. No one will argue that drinking to excess is the best attitude to take. Drunkenness would find few open advocates even among those who decry most eagerly all temperance efforts or movements. The question, therefore, narrows down to a choice between total abstinence and moderate drinking, and it certainly should not take long for any Christian Endeavorer to decide that total abstinence is preferable to moderate drinking, even supposing that one could drink to moderation without drinking to excess.

Total abstinence is best because drinking even in moderation is unnecessary. Intoxicating drinks in no form are necessary to health or to powers of physical endurance. They are all stimulants, and, while stimulants invigorate for a time, the stimulation is only temporary, and the reaction is always in proportion to the stimulation. As a medicine, at proper times, no one can question the usefulness of alcohol in its various forms, but as a beverage it is absolutely unnecessary for health or for physical endurance. It is, rather, positively injurious and should be absolutely avoided.

Total abstinence is best because it is safest for ourselves. Who knows that he can drink in moderation and not go on to excess? Every drunkard at one time thought he could. No man ever deliberately intended to become a drunkard. He expected to be only a moderate drinker; but, alas, how many millions have had their hopes of moderation blasted to the ruination of body, mind, soul, character, position, home and everything! And how do we know but this would be our experience? Every man has in him an appetite for drink that, if awakened, will lead to his destruction, or else he has no such natural appetite. Until we find it we cannot know which it is; hence why test it at all? Why should we unnecessarily run the risk of awakening a devouring beast within us or of developing within us a ruinous appetite that we do not naturally possess? Safety lies in total abstinence alone. The man who never drinks is in no danger, but the man who drinks even ever so moderately knows not what awful consequences may result from such a course.

Total abstinence is best because it is safest for others. We should always consider our example in deciding upon any course. We are our brother's keeper and must not put "a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in our brother's way." Suppose we could link in moderately drinking our example would lead another to drinking who would go down to a drunkard's grave and eternal destruction. Would it pay us to do so? Would it not be infinitely better to indulge our personal appetite by sacrificing the supposed enjoyment of moderate drinking for the eternal welfare of our brother's soul?

The only wise course in relation to intoxicating drinks as a beverage is total abstinence. It is best for us, for ourselves and for those who come under our influence. How can one who sees the awful, damning consequences of intemperance put even one glass to his lips? It should be impossible, and as Christian Endeavorers let us advocate and practice total abstinence.

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. x. 8-11; Num. vi. 1-4; Deut. xxi, 18-21; Prov. xx. 1; xxiii. 29-35; Isa. v. 11; Luke xii. 45, 46; I. Cor. v. 11; Gal. v. 19-26.

Words of Wisdom.

More men are injured by having things made easy for them than by having their path beset with difficulties, for it encourages them to stay themselves in circumstances, whereas their supreme reliance needs to be on their own personal stuff.

Every man will count for all he is worth.

There is as much a science of success as there is a science of hydraulics.

We are more likely to find a good destiny by going afoot than by riding.

The man whose entire capital is one of enthusiasm will be conspicuous for his abundance of torch, and the most dazzling the manner which the torch exists primarily to enkindle.—Dr. Parkhurst.

As the Love of God Rules the Soul.

Sin or righteousness does not consist in sin or in a series of acts, but in the heart condition of the actor. In this sense a good tree cannot produce evil fruit. The fruit does not redeem the tree, but the tree redeems it. We judge men by what we call their acts. Our limited knowledge shuts out all else. There are no human scales in which to weigh the heart. Religion goes deeper than that. It is false or true in proportion as the love of God rules the soul.—Presbyterian Journal.

Making the Most of Ourselves.

It is a solemn duty devolving on all to make the utmost possible out of themselves. Men seek the highest development of their flocks and herds and grain and flowers. The result is the improved flora and fauna of these days over those of prior ones. But should this evolution cease with the lower order? Should the body of creation improve and not the head, which is man?—Christian Standard.

A Prayer of Gifts.

Give us no other art
Than knowing to be kind;
Give us the thankful heart,
Light where we walk so blind.

Give us to think no ill;
Forgive as we're forgiven,
Kindle earth and heaven, dear will Sweet as a dream of heaven.
—Christian Endeavor World.

LITERARY.

The issue of The Outlook for June 7 is the thirteenth annual recreation number. The leading features are "Hunting the Big Game with the Camera," by A. G. Wallihan; "When You Meet a Bear," by W. J. Long; "Mountain Climbing," by Charles E. Fay; "Camping for Women," by Martha Coman; "Lost in the Woods," by George Kennan; "Behind the Guns," by James Barnes; "The Salmon Leap," (a beautiful picture illustrating a passage from Isaak Walton); and "Winning 'Y,'" by Walter Camp. There are also Dr. Hale's "Memories," an illustrated article on Jane Austin's Home, a good story, and interesting, timely portraits. The number is richly illustrated with drawings by Charles E. Chapman, Philip R. Goodwin, Henry Sandham, J. Conacher, and F. C. Gordon; and photographs by A. G. Wallihan, J. Horace McFarland, and others.

The leading article in the June Forum—the last issue of that magazine before its transformation into a quarterly—is contributed by Prof. Felix Adler, who writes on "The Philippine War: Two Ethical Questions." O. P. Austin effectively uses the commercial statistics of recent years to demonstrate "Our Growing Dependence upon the Tropics," and shows the bearing of this fact upon the possibilities of our acquisitions in the East. An important political problem in connection with these acquisitions is considered, in the light of European experience, in Prof. Paul S. Reinsch's paper on "Representation and Colonial Government." Prof. S. J. McLean deals with "Railway Rate Regulation in Canada," a subject which the Canadian Government last year appointed him to investigate. Some strange anomalies in "The Municipal Situation in Ohio" are described by Prof. S. P. Orth. The debit and credit sides of "Our Legacy to the Cuban Republic" are contrasted by Albert G. Robinson. "Japan's Mission in the Far East" is expounded by T. Iyenaga as the function of a mediator between the Western Powers and China. W. J. Shearer protests against "Faulty Grading in our Public Schools," and F. Burk shows the possibility of harmonious relations between "The Old Education and the New." The month's number concludes with two literary articles—"Among the Constantinople Bookshops," by Dr. Henry Otis Dwight, and "Victor Hugo, the Novelist," by Prof. Moritz Levi.

The first authorized statement that John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City and of the Christian Catholic Church in Zion, has ever given out to the general public is a distinguishing feature of Leslie's Monthly for June. This authoritative account of one who is certainly a remarkable man, at the head of a remarkable movement, gives those facts which are needed for a calm judgment of his career, and supplies data which has until now been withheld from the public. The man-killing horses of the western country, and the sports of the students in the studios of Paris, are the subjects of two elaborately illustrated articles written and drawn by men who know, and giving vivid accounts of two very active, though very different, kinds of life. A delightfully amusing story of children, a rattling, snappy newspaper story, and a very human love story, make up part of the fiction of the number, which is rounded out by many lighter sketches and verses.

FOR BASEBALL.

A New Attraction for Trolley Resort That is Being Built on the Raritan, Near Round Brook.

The Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company has announced a new feature for its park now in course of construction on the Raritan river, near Bound Brook. To the many other attractions provided a baseball diamond has been planned. It will be built at a convenient location and will be laid out in the most approved manner. A level stretch of ground splendidly adapted for a ball field has been selected. The company will rent the diamond to local nines, and it will also arrange for exhibition game of baseball between well known out-of-town clubs.

Work on the several other features of the park are also progressing favorably. The foundations for the theatre structure and the dancing pavilion have been laid and the work on the superstructure of these buildings is being pushed just as rapidly as possible. They will be in excellent shape for the opening of the park on June 15.

The docks to be built in the river above the dam, where persons may embark in launches and row boats, are also well under way and will be completed in due season.

Change in Faculty.

Miss Anna Prescott, of the City High School teaching staff, will resign her position at the end of the present term. Her place will be filled next year by Miss Phoebe D. Lovell, graduate of the High School, '94, and of Vassar, '98.

GRADUATING CLASS AT CITY'S HIGH SCHOOL

Those Who Will Complete Their Course at the High School This Month.

PLAN COMMENCEMENT.

EXERCISES WILL BE FOLLOWED BY USUAL RECEPTION AT CASINO.

Commencement Falls on Thursday, June 19—The Honors Both Go to Young Men This Year—Members of the Class of 1902.

The commencement exercises of Plainfield High School will be held in the First Baptist church on the evening of June 19. The programme will begin at 7:30. At the conclusion of the exercises a reception will be tendered at the Casino to the new graduates by members of the classes of 1901 and 1902. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event under the direction of Miss Marion D. Woodcock, chairman of last year's class. A limited number of tickets will be issued to members of the alumni.

The valedictorian of 1902 is Erwin B. Leland, salutatorian Clarence B. LaRue. The names of those who will be graduated are:

Classical course, Alma Dyer, Lulu Fuller, Edna Moore, Kenneth Bulkley, Hollis Cubberley, Clarence LaRue.

Latin-scientific, Margaret Abbott, Alice Brick, Mabel Jenkins, Evelyn Lock, Bertha Mitchell, Elizabeth Vander Veer, Russell Bailey, Linden Bridgeman.

Latin-modern language, Grace Burke, Elizabeth Goddard, Mildred Ulrich, Marguerite Van Deventer, Erwin Leland, Harold Nomer.

General, Daisy Brouard, LeRoy Hallock.

Commercial, Cora Harris, Charlotte Johnson, Emma Larew, Louise Peterson, Arthur Denton.

The following persons will go from the High School to college this fall. Margaret Abbott, Lulu Fuller, Lillian Maclay, Mount Holyoke; Elizabeth Goddard, Edna Moore, Wellesley; Alice Brick, Daisy Brouard, Trenton Normal School; Elizabeth Vander-Veer, Vassar; Clarence LaRue, Erwin Leland, Harold Nomer, Edward Janes, Williams; Linden Bridgeman, Kenneth Bulkley, Columbia; Hollis Cubberley, Harvey Doane, Rutgers; Russell Bailey, Wesleyan; LeRoy Hallock, Lehigh.

GRAIN FIELD ON HILL TOP

CROPS RAISED REGULARLY ON THE HIGHEST PEAK IN WARREN COUNTY.

Field is so High That the Bugs and Other Pests Never Trouble the Crops There.

One of the strangest places for a grain field is the summit of Round Top, near Washington, the highest peak in Warren county.

Four years ago, when John Potts, who has a farm of about fifty acres on the Oxford side of the mountain, conceived the idea of clearing the top and having the loftiest grain field in Warren county, many persons ridiculed the scheme. However, the approach to the summit of Round Top from the Oxford side is not as steep as on the southern side, and Mr. Potts opened a road to the top. He persevered in his work of clearing the land, although he encountered many obstacles, and the result was a field of three acres, the most of which is on the Washington side.

Rye was the first crop selected, and from four bushels sown by the farmer he received a yield of forty-eight bushels, or sixteen bushels to the acre, which is considered a large yield. The rye was over six feet in height and the profit from the straw as a neat one.

The field is so elevated that no bugs nor other pests that trouble the farmers in the valleys have thus far succeeded in reaching the crops.

Mr. Potts experiences much difficulty in ploughing the field owing to its steepness, and the same trouble was met when he came to gather his crops. Last year he had grass in the field, and used it for pasture, and it answered the purpose admirably.

Round Top has always been a favorite place for lovers of picturesque landscape. With the aid of a glass one can see from its summit points at least fifty miles distant.

Mr. Potts has a fine crop of rye growing in the field at present, and on Arbor Day, when he visited the spot, he discovered that his grain was being ruthlessly trampled under foot by visitors to "Old Round Top." He remained on guard all day, and by actual count drove sixty-eight persons from the field.

EDITORS ON AN EXCURSION

Jersey Central Railroad Officials Took Them to Mauch Chunk Thursday.

A DELIGHTFUL TIME.

Over a Hundred Guests Taken on Special Train to One of the Most Picturesque Spots Along the Line of the Jersey Central—Were Hospitably Entertained.

The complimentary editorial excursion to editors, their wives and families, on the line of the road, given Thursday by General Manager W. G. Besler and General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, of the New Jersey Central, to Mauch Chunk, Pa., including a trip over the ever-romantic and picturesque switch back railroad, winding up with a trolley ride to a high mountain point called Flag Staff, was a most enjoyable affair. There were 141 persons on the train.

In the language of Mr. Besler's invitation, "The excursion was given with the idea that a better understanding and relationship might be brought about between the representatives of the two great quasi-public institutions, the newspapers and the railroads. Everybody knows how to run a newspaper and everybody knows how to run a railroad. It would seem, therefore, most appropriate that we should come together."

Four magnificent new vestibuled coaches, finished in red cedar, inlaid, and directors' observation car "Central," were drawn by the new powerful compound engine 615 in charge of Engineer C. VanMiddlesworth and Fireman W. H. Perry. The train was in charge of Conductor F. S. Lewis and Brakemen M. Collins and F. J. Feltus.

The officials on the train were W. G. Besler, general manager; C. W. Huntington, general superintendent; C. M. Burt, general passenger agent; Mr. Rabe, division passenger agent; Ira D. White, assistant passenger agent New Jersey Southern division; and Walter H. Hayden, of the advertising department of the road.

Everybody was made to feel perfectly at ease as soon as the train was boarded. The run to Mauch Chunk was made "on time," of course, but all were saddened by the killing of a man who was walking on the track, just before the train reached its destination. The man was blown and the brakes applied, but the man was evidently deaf or confused.

A well-served course dinner was partaken of at the American House, where all of the party were seated, in the large dining room of that well-kept hotel. Then came the ride by trolley to the switch back railroad station and the ride up Mt. Pisgah and over the switch back railroad to Summit Hill. From Summit Hill the party was taken to Hackelbarnie, where the trolley was again taken and the ride up the mountain to Flag Staff was successfully accomplished. A most magnificent panaromic view was there obtained which the whole party thoroughly enjoyed. From Flag Staff down the mountain side the trolley took the party to their train at the station.

On the return trip the editors exchanged autographs in little souvenir books provided by the railroad company, and, as one happy family, having become thoroughly acquainted. The railroad officials were the recipient of a perfect shower of congratulations *on the success of the ex*cursion, which, together with the charming weather, was greatly enjoyed and long to be remembered by the members of the party.

A substantial lunch was served, on the train after leaving Allentown, on the return trip.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Jersey Central were:

From Newark: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Adler, F. C. Alder, E. Adler, of the Pioneer; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. L. Beyer, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Burke, of Town Talk; W. H. Howell, of the Evening News; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McDougal and son, of the Sunday Call; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pearce and the Misses Pearce, of the Ledger; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Chapin, of the Railroad Employe.

From Elizabeth: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Altai, of the Freie Presse; Gen. and Mrs. J. Madison Drake and F. S. Drake, of the Leader; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McBride and Miss McBride, of the Journal; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. St. John, of The Times.

From Plainfield: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force, of The Daily Press; Mr. and Mrs. Y. T. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Webb, of the Review.

From Westfield: Mrs. H. L. Abrams and C. E. Pearsall, of the Standard; G. A. V. Hankinson and Mrs. A. F. VanHorn, of the Leader.

From Somerville: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bateman, of the Unionist-Gazette; J. H. Matjison, of the Messenger; Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Messler, of the Democrat.

From Bound Brook: Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Clark, Jr., of the State Record; H. S. Cowins and Miss F. Cowins, of the Royal Craftsman; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. R. Mason, of the Chronicle; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reiss and Miss Tillie Reiss, of Der Somerset Bote.

From Dunellen: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Day and son, of the Call.

From Cranford: Mrs. C. C. Boice, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Potter, of the Chronicle.

From Freehold: M. Applegate, M. Applegate, Jr., Mrs. D. Keynton and Miss V. Applegate, of Monmouth Inquirer; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Moreau and A. E. Moreau, of the Transcript.

From Perth Amboy: C. W. Boynton and Miss G. S. Boynton, of the Republican.

From Bayonne: Mr. and Mrs. M. R. *Freel and Miss Freel, of the Demo*crat, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Page, of the Herald; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Park, of the Times.

From Flemington: W. G. Callis, of the Republican, Anthony Kilgore and Miss J. D. Kilgore, of the Hunterdon Democrat.

From Atlantic Highlands: H. B. Hart, of the Journal, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Leonard and the Misses Leonard, Mrs. S. McClees and Miss Nellie McClees, of the Press.

From Lakewood: Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hagaman, of the Citizen.

From Toms River: Mr. and Mrs C. S. Haslett and Miss Haslett, of the Democrat.

From Red Bank: J. F. Hawkins and Miss L. Hawkins, of the Standard.

From Vineland: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bray, of the News.

From Long Branch: Mrs. O. Cobb and W. J. Smythe, Jr., of the Press; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. VanBrunt and sons, of the City Journal.

From Bridgeton: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Husted, of the Chronicle; G. W. McGowan, of the Pioneer.

From High Bridge: Miss A. Kelly and P. H. Murray, of the Gazette.

From Mt. Pleasant: D. C. Leaw, of the Beacon.

From Seabright: Mr. and Mrs. P. Hall Parker, of the News.

From Jersey City: E. Happleye, of the Daily Journal.

From Glen Gardner: E. W. Rush, of the Avalanche.

From Whitehouse: The Messrs. Shampanore, of the Review.

From Ocean Grove: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith, of the Times; Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Woolston, of the Times.

From Spring Lake: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. V. Stultz, of the Gazette.

From Pottsville Pa.: E. L. Clifford, Mrs. C. D. Alliot, Miss I. Seigfried, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Zerbey, Mrs. E. A. Zerbey, Miss F. Zerbey, Jay Zerbey, of the Republican.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Edna Minita Howell, of Chester, Pa., formerly of this city, and Rev. Adams Douglas Archibald, of Halifax, N. S.

Gone into Hands of Receiver.

The Republic Savings and Loan Association, of Newark, has gone into the hands of a receiver. John J. Kenney, of this city, is treasurer of the local branch.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion,Cheerfulness and Rest.Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES - 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY FAIR

SOME OF THE ATTRACTIONS HAVE ALREADY BEEN ARRANGED.

Big Time Which Hope Y. M. A. Will Hold on the Fourth of July—The Attractions.

The Y. M. A., of Hope chapel, held a special meeting last Monday, for the purpose of hearing reports from the various committees having in charge the preliminaries for the Independence Day "County Fair."

Every member has been working vigorously to make the affair a success and matters are now progressing most favorably. From the reports furnished amusement will be furnished for the entire day. As now arranged some of the features will be two baseball games, between the Hopes and Decatur A. C., of Brooklyn, a battalion drill and sham battle by Company K and an opposing military organization, athletic contests, concerts by a brass band, a vaudeville show and many others of the "fakir" variety.

Accommodations will be made so that visitors can stay the entire day and hear the high class concert which is to take place in the evening.

THE TRUE KNIGHT.

Special Sermon Preached to Knights of the Golden Eagle at Trinity Reformed Church Sundry.

"The True Knight," was the subject of a special sermon preached at Trinity Reformed chrch last Monday by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, it being the occasion for the presence of the Knights of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle. Mr. Schenck spoke of the elements of the true knight of today as well of the old days, as being valor, loyalty, courtesy and benevolence and upon each of these characteristic elements he spoke briefly, showing what the true knight of old was and applying it to the knight of the present day. Mr. Schenck said those possessing these elements are true knights.

There were nearly forty members of Freedom Castle present in a body and all thoroughly enjoyed the interesting and helpful remarks of Pastor Schenck.

First Official Visit.

The first official visit of the department president, Mrs. Vickery, of New Brunswick, was made to the Woman's Relief Corps Friday evening. There was a large attendance of members to welcome the new officer and Mrs. Vickery was much pleased with the work of the corps. After the transaction of business there was a social hour and refreshments were served.

Boys' Camp Committees.

The boys whose applications have been accepted for the Y. M. C. A. camp, met Friday evening. The following committees of the boys were appointed: Entertainment committee, Carl Steiner, Robert S. Hamilton, E. J. Perrin, Jr.; camp yell committee, George M. Rittenhouse, Jr., Leo E. Kenney, Jerry L. Manning; committee of camp psalm, William L. Heath, Arthur VanArsdale and Fred Emmons.

The mark of QUALITY

On Silver Plate can only be determined after long years of actual service under purchases bearing a well known trade-mark. For over half a century Spoons, Forks, etc., stamped 1847 Rogers Bros.

Have been in use and given perfect satisfaction. They are sold by leading dealers everywhere. For catalogue No. 6 of new designs send to the makers

INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO., Meriden, Conn.

Take no substitute Remember 1847

THEATRICAL.

Manager Proctor will keep his theatres in the field for summer patronage, presenting the Proctor Stock Company as the main feature of the entertainments. The best comedies will be presented with carefully selected casts, staged with special scenic effects and costumed in an elaborate manner. The favorites will all be retained. Adelaide Keim, Beatrice Morgan, Florence Leslie, Adelina Roattino, Bessie Barriscale, Mrs. Ada Levick, Bessie Lea Lestina, Sol Aiken, Chas. M. Seay, Frederic Truesdell, Wallace Erskine and many other popular members of the big organization will be seen at the Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres, in New York.

Summer vaudeville at summer prices prevail at Proctor's, Newark, and at the Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York. The Proctor Stock Company will have possession of the Proctor theatres in Albany and Montreal, presenting the latest metropolitan successes. Vaudeville will be introduced between the acts at all of the Proctor theatres where the stock company is presented. The entertainments will at all times conform to Manager Proctor's ideas of refinement in tone and correctness in presentation. Special arrangements have been made to attract and please the women and children, and the summer bids fair to be a lively period at the Proctor theatres. The comfort of patrons will be considered and the theatres will be cooled by artificial means, fans will be provided for all seat-holders and cooling drinks of ice water will be plentifully distributed. Proctor's theatres are invariably cooler than the temperature of the street.

Klaw & Erlanger have broken ground for their theatre, the New Amsterdam, which they are to build on Forty-second street near Broadway, New York. This will be one of the finest theatre structures in the world. The building and lot will cost over $1,200,000. The seating capacity will be about 2,000. In the construction of the auditorium, special care will be taken to provide in every detail for the comfort of the audience. In magnificence of decorations it will surpass any theatre in America and compares more than favorably with the best decorative art of Europe displayed in the famous theatres of the great continential cities. The stage will be constructed for the presentation of performances with large numbers of people. It will be 100 feet wide and adequately deep, equipped with all the latest appliances; and also many novel ideas never before utilized. During the past three months Klaw & Erlanger have had the greatest expert in America visiting all the noted theatres in Europe studying their stages. His report indicates that Americans have nothing to learn of Europeans in this direction. There will be dressing-room accommodations for 700 people, with elevators running from the stage to the dressing-room floors, eliminating stair-climbing, which is a trying ordeal actors and actresses now experience, especially where quick changes of dress have to be made. The New Amsterdam Theatre will be opened next December. The first attraction will be Klaw & Erlanger's production of the last Drury Lane spectacle, "Blue Beard," which was presented in London last Christmas.

Youthful Editors.

The board of editors of "The Quiver," published by the students at the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School, and recently noticed in these columns, are: Editor-in-chief, Miss Ellen Vanderwoort; assistant editors, Winifred Rapalje, Dorothy Burke, Helen Batchelor, Anne Waldo; business managers, Gladys Biglow and Rosa Woltmann.

Pleasing Programme.

The Children's Day exercises will be held Saturday morning at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. A pleasing programme is now being prepared.

TROOPS TO WAR ON RATS.

General Chaffee Takes Steps to Prevent Spreading of the Plague in the Philippines.

The rat problem in the Philippines has now become so important that for a time the American soldier will turn his attention to fighting them instead of insurgents. In Manila 1% per cent. of the rats captured were found infected by plague, and it is to remove this menace to health and safety of the American troops that orders have been issued by Gen. Chaffee to exterminate the rats, says a Washington report.

So far the plague has been kept down by rigid sanitary rules, and a constant warfare against the rats, but Gen. Chaffee, to guard against an epidemic of the disease, has issued an order, in which he calls the attention of commanding officers and all others responsible for the care of troops to the absolute necessity for the extermination of rats in barracks, quarters and other buildings occupied by officers and enlisted men and civilian employes, and for the immediate disinfection of such buildings, if plague rats are discovered therein.

He advises that they be killed by the use of poison, the principal component of which is arsenic, and gives minute directions for carrying on a campaign, and for the disinfection of dead rats by immersion in a solution of carbolic acid.

ENGLISH RAILWAY SERVICE.

Noted Traveler Calls It Poor as Compared with American, German and French.

In every respect the United States is superior to England—comparing like with like—but what is more notable, in Germany and France railway travel is cleaner, more speedy, and cheaper. No week passes that I do not rem ove from London for country air, and wherever I find a train that reaches its destination as time I make a note of it as a strange thing, writes Poultney Bigelow, in New York Independent. There are one or two trains that run fairly fast, according to British notions, and are tolerably good, owing to a faint degree of competition, but in the majority of cases the Englishman is satisfied to travel 25 miles an hour in dirty carriages which are not heated in winter and which are habitually late in starting and arriving. And as to overcrowding, I have frequently found myself in railway carriages wherein passengers have had to stand up all the way after having paid their fares. So far as my experience goes, I can travel with more speed and comfort in a German third-class carriage from Berlin to any big town like Hamburg, Frankfort or Cologne than in a first-class carriage in England, and it will cost me about one-fifth of the English price.

ONE OYSTER FEEDS 75 MEN.

Monster Bivalve Lately Taken from the Niagara River Near Buffalo, N. Y.

A most remarkable oyster has recently been taken from Niagara river by two Buffalo fishermen.

The shell alone, without the meat, weighs 212 pounds, and is two feet eight inches across and 19 inches broad. It contained 50 genuine pearls, says a report from that city.

That it might be proven that his wonderful tale was no "fish story" the oyster was placed on exhibition for a week at a Buffalo saloon, where the public was bidden to come and see it.

The meat was cooked and made into a stew, which filled to the brim two eight-quart pails. Seventy-five men partook of the repast it furnished.

The fishermen made the find when their net caught on a snag of some sort and was held fast. As the water was shallow, not more than waist deep, one of them jumped from the boat to investigate and found the net attached to what seemed a big rock.

It was covered with a white substance resembling lime, and its peculiar appearance induced the fishermen to take it ashore with them. Then when it was washed off, they discovered, to their amazement, that they had a mammoth oyster.

One Mystery Solved.

"I have in my hallway," said a householder, "one of those Japanese curtains made of long strings of bamboo and colored beads that are so pleasant in the summer time and so artistic always. Recently I found that the beads on this curtain were disappearing at a great rate. I would examine them in the evening, and in the morning I would find that a dozen or two were gone. One night I determined to keep up and watch the curtain, bite a bead off and run away with it. 'What,' I asked myself, 'does a mouse want with a glass bead?' and I made a close investigation that proved that, while some of the globules were glass, many were rice grain, which I suppose, cheaper than glass in the orient. In nearly all Japanese curtains you'll find, if you examine them, that the pale beads are rice."

A Monster Hog.

Down in Vladosta, Ga., recently, a hog was killed whose gross weight was 1,200 pounds; his net weight was 952. Back fat weighed 102 pounds. This fat monster produced 510 pounds of lard, or near y 1½ tierces—enough to last a small family about four years. Besides the lard, there was nearly a wagonload of sausage from this one hog. To say nothing of big dishpans full of hogshead cheese, liver pudding and other products.

How the Squelched Him.

He was a leading saloon of the Metropolitan club, and went too far. This is what he wrote her:

"It is with the greatest difficulty that I have resisted the temptation to respond to your frequent and pressing invitations to call on you at your home, and I feel that I shall not long be able to withstand them."

And she replied:

"I do not feel that I ought to add to your burdens, but if you should succumb so far as to call, mamma will be delighted to see you."

"There," said she, as she splashed the mauve wax on the back and stamped it with her cuff button, "when that pricks through his thick-skinned conceit he will not be able to sail around the Washington monument and back to the club in 30 minutes without stopping to pump up his tires."—Washington Post.

Mummies in America.

Comparatively few Americans realize that right here in their new-old land are to be found counterparts of Egypt's great wonder—veritable catacombs of mummies, as genuine as any that exist in the land of the Nile. It is now a generally received fact that the so-called "cliff dwellers" are not an unknown race at all, but our own peace-loving Pueblo Indians, who in the old days built their great stone houses much as we now build our forts, for purposes of defence. These wonderful stone houses, far up the steep cliffs of Arizona and New Mexico, abound in relics of prehistoric days, not least among them being the mummied bodies of their former occupants. In Peru also, at the time of its discovery by the Spaniards, the natives were very skillful in the art of mummy making.—N. Y. Herald.

Poisoned to Save Leg.

A Chinese boy was brought into the Peking hospital terribly injured by a heavy log falling upon him. The doctors cut off his leg to save his life. The mother came, apparently to help to nurse the lad. The patient, however, almost immediately afterward died, and expert examination showed that his mother had given him arsenic. Her reason, it is supposed, was to prevent her son from the disgrace of reaching the next world in a maimed condition. This is a very strong point with the Chinese, who always pickle an amputated member or have it buried with them, so that they may die in it. In this instance, the family being poor and the whole leg being difficult to pickle, the simpler course was taken of poisoning the boy, so that he and his leg might go together.—Indian Medical Gazette.

Sacred Fires of Balkans.

In the homes of Balkan peasants nothing is prized so highly as the fire hearth, for it is regarded as sacred, and is never allowed to go out. *Tradition says that if it is extin*guished misfortune will surely come, and that in many cases the death of the fire is a sure token that some member of the family will speedily die. Another time-honored tradition says that the sacred fire is able to cure many maladies, and this is supposed to be the main reason why it is prized so carefully throughout the Carpathians and the Balkan peninsula.—London Mail.

Soudanese Currency.

In a handbook for travelers in the Soudan, issued by the Egyptian government, referring to the currency, it is quaintly observed that "in the more undressed parts of the country" beads and bracelets are current. In the section on shooting there is a pleasant reference to the sporting tourist, who is warned that only crocodiles may be shot at from steamers, and even this practice is deprecated as being "more dangerous to the riverain population than the crocodile."—Detroit Free Press.

A Question of Climate.

An old colored preacher was telling his congregation that after death they would probably go to the moon. After meeting one of the best informed of the brethren said to him:

"Br'er Jinkins, don't you know dat de moon is col' ez ice, en ain't got no fire tail in it?"

"Br'er Thomas," replied the parson, "ef hit's fire you a-wantin', des keep on de way you gwine en you can't miss it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Had Experienced It.

Sunday School teacher—And when Delilah cut Samson's hair he became mild as a lamb, and there was no fight in him. Do you understand that, Tommy?

Tommy—Well, I know it makes yer feel awful ashamed o' yerself when yer mother cuts yer hair.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Synonymous.

City Editor—Why do you say, "He ran into the police station, puffing and blowing?" "Puffing" and "blowing" are synonymous.

Reporter—Not at all. There's a vast difference, for instance, between puffing a man up and blowing him up.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Not a Gift.

The man who wakes in the morning and finds the world shouting his praise, you may depend upon it, did a long, hard day's work before he lay down to undisturbed slumber the night before. —Success.

Hard to Please.

Bobbs—What kind of a man is Hobbs?

Dobbs—Oh, he's the kind that might find a gold watch on the street and would then grumble because it didn't have a heavy gold chain attached.—Detroit Free Press.

A Man Should Know Both.

If a man doesn't know when to be silent he doesn't know when to speak. —Chicago Daily News.

How He Squelched Him.

He was a leading saloon of the Metropolitan club, and went too far. This is what he wrote her:

"It is with the greatest difficulty that I have resisted the temptation to respond to your frequent and pressing invitations to call on you at your home, and I feel that I shall not long be able to withstand them."

And she replied:

"I do not feel that I ought to add to your burdens, but if you should succumb so far as to call, mamma will be delighted to see you."

"There," said she, as she splashed the mauve wax on the back and stamped it with her cuff button, "when that pricks through his thick-skinned conceit he will not be able to sail around the Washington monument and back to the club in 30 minutes without stopping to pump up his tires."—Washington Post.

Mummies in America.

Comparatively few Americans realize that right here in their new-old land are to be found counterparts of Egypt's great wonder—veritable catacombs of mummies, as genuine as any that exist in the land of the Nile. It is now a generally received fact that the so-called "cliff dwellers" are not an unknown race at all, but our own peace-loving Pueblo Indians, who in the old days built their great stone houses much as we now build our forts, for purposes of defence. These wonderful stone houses, far up the steep cliffs of Arizona and New Mexico, abound in relics of prehistoric days, not least among them being the mummied bodies of their former occupants. In Peru also, at the time of its discovery by the Spaniards, the natives were very skillful in the art of mummy making.—N. Y. Herald.

Poisoned to Save Leg.

A Chinese boy was brought into the Peking hospital terribly injured by a heavy log falling upon him. The doctors cut off his leg to save his life. The mother came, apparently to help to nurse the lad. The patient, however, almost immediately afterward died, and expert examination showed that his mother had given him arsenic. Her reason, it is supposed, was to prevent her son from the disgrace of reaching the next world in a maimed condition. This is a very strong point with the Chinese, who always pickle an amputated member or have it buried with them, so that they may die in it. In this instance, the family being poor and the whole leg being difficult to pickle, the simpler course was taken of poisoning the boy, so that he and his leg might go together.—Indian Medical Gazette.

Sacred Fires of Balkans.

In the homes of Balkan peasants nothing is prized so highly as the fire hearth, for it is regarded as sacred, and is never allowed to go out. *Tradition says that if it is extin*guished misfortune will surely come, and that in many cases the death of the fire is a sure token that some member of the family will speedily die. Another time-honored tradition says that the sacred fire is able to cure many maladies, and this is supposed to be the main reason why it is prized so carefully throughout the Carpathians and the Balkan peninsula.—London Mail.

Soudanese Currency.

In a handbook for travelers in the Soudan, issued by the Egyptian government, referring to the currency, it is quaintly observed that "in the more undressed parts of the country" beads and bracelets are current. In the section on shooting there is a pleasant reference to the sporting tourist, who is warned that only crocodiles may be shot at from steamers, and even this practice is deprecated as being "more dangerous to the riverain population than the crocodile."—Detroit Free Press.

A Question of Climate.

An old colored preacher was telling his congregation that after death they would probably go to the moon. After meeting one of the best informed of the brethren said to him:

"Br'er Jinkins, don't you know dat de moon is col' ez ice, en ain't got no fire tail in it?"

"Br'er Thomas," replied the parson, "ef hit's fire you a-wantin', des keep on de way you gwine en you can't miss it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Had Experienced It.

Sunday School teacher—And when Delilah cut Samson's hair he became mild as a lamb, and there was no fight in him. Do you understand that, Tommy?

Tommy—Well, I know it makes yer feel awful ashamed o' yerself when yer mother cuts yer hair.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Synonymous.

City Editor—Why do you say, "He ran into the police station, puffing and blowing?" "Puffing" and "blowing" are synonymous.

Reporter—Not at all. There's a vast difference, for instance, between puffing a man up and blowing him up.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Not a Gift.

The man who wakes in the morning and finds the world shouting his praise, you may depend upon it, did a long, hard day's work before he lay down to undisturbed slumber the night before. —Success.

Hard to Please.

Bobbs—What kind of a man is Hobbs?

Dobbs—Oh, he's the kind that might find a gold watch on the street and would then grumble because it didn't have a heavy gold chain attached.—Detroit Free Press.

A Man Should Know Both.

If a man doesn't know when to be silent he doesn't know when to speak. —Chicago Daily News.

DR. RICHARDS WILL ACCEPT

Announced His Decision to His Congregation at Last Sunday's Service.

WERE NOT SURPRISED.

General Feeling Was That His Decision Would be to That Effect—Said That He Had Given the Subject Careful Consideration —Made Short Announcement.

The fact that Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards stated at the morning service at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday that he would make an important announcement at the evening service, attracted an unusually large number of members of the church and congregation, filling nearly every seat in the edifice. The announcement to be made was rightly guessed to be in reference to the recent call extended to Dr. Richards to become the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York.

Just prior to the evening sermon, Dr. Richards referred to the announcement and said that if the members had believed it was in regard to the call they had guessed correctly. He then said:

"I wanted to make this announcement to you first from my own lips. If this call is placed in my hands properly by the Presbytery I think I shall have to ask you to release me from this church. I have prayed a long time that it might not come to his, feeling it might be my duty to remain and labor here longer. The need is urgent and if God calls I can*not say nay. We may yet be together* several weeks or months I hope, and if so let us make the best of the time."

While Dr. Richards was speaking there was the utmost silence. It seemed to be the general opinion of everyone present that Dr. Richards' decision was just as they expected.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,

4 30 oaw 2 m o Brooklyn, N. Y.

COMPANY K WON.

In Match Shoot With Team From Independent Gun Club.

An interesting shooting match was witnessed on Company K's rifle range Saturday afternoon when a team from the company met a team from the Independent Gun Club. The militiamen won the match by nearly 100 points. Company K scored 375 points and the corps 275. Capt. Browning, A. I. Littell, W. Phillips, John Turner, Walter Sampson and Frederick Pope represented Company K, while the other team was made up of Krausse, Berry, Jensen, Lloyd, Menzenbach and Gavin.

Big Figures.

100,000,000 bottles of Perry Davis' Painkiller sold in 60 years. Just think! Nearly enough placed end to end to reach around the world. What other remedy can boast such a record of services to humanity in curing stomach and bowel complaints and the many other ailments and accidents constantly occurring even in the most careful homes. There is only one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Beware of imitations.

Miss Ethel Perrine, of Red Bank, is spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY JUNE 19, 1902. NO. 25.

"Support the Constituton, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

CITY HIGH SENIORS CELEBRATED CLASS DAY

The Exercises Were Held in Franklin School Hall Tuesday—Dance Followed.

THEY MADE CLEVER HITS

THE SENIORS HAD SOMETHING FUNNY FOR EVERYBODY PRESENT.

History Told of a Wonderful Class—Prophecy Described the Remarkable Characters That the Future Would Bring Forth.

With exercises appropriate to the occasion, bright fun, clever nonsense, happy wit and lightsome jest, the seniors of Plainfield High School last Tuesday celebrated in honor of class day. The exercises were held in Franklin School hall. The audience entered into the jovial spirit in incident to events of the kind and greeted with applause and outbursts of laughter the caustic but good-natured and friendly hits contained in the history and prophecies, and aimed at the various members of the class. Not even the teachers were immune from the shafts of the retiring seniors. Over the platform in a prominent position hung the class flag and streamers with the class colors stretched across the stage.

The evening's programme consisted of "Class History," Harold Nomer; "Class Prophecy," Miss Alma Dyer; "A Glance Into the Future," Miss Marguerite VanDeventer; "Where Some Authors Got Their Titles," Linden Bridgeman, and the singing of the class-song. The eminent seaiors were apotheosized in the usual Thrasonical manner, and it was not forgotten to retain a few Parthian shots, in the way of humorous gibes, for the hapless juniors. The class song was possessed of similar characteristics and contained the punning information that the class of 1902 is the best that ever graced the school "because it '03 be." The first stanza of the song ran as follows:

Oh 1902 is coming,
Now hear the glad refrain,
In honor of our High School,
Let's join in the strain.
Our loyalty is ever true,
And stanch we'll always be;
On high we raise the white and blue,
Our emblem you can see.
We are the grave old Seniors,
The Class of 1902,
But soon we'll have to leave you,
And our old High School too.
Four years of work and fun we've had,
But now we all must go,
And leave our places to the class
That comes up from below.

The class history by Harold Nomer sketched the career of that body from its earliest inception, through the period of growth to the present epoch of full development. Its varying fortunes and adventures were followed, in humorous description, from the day they entered the High School in 1898 till the crowning moment when the members began to strut about as seniors and subsequently to feel the influence of the prowess that made them more reverend, grave and potent. Evidently as far as episode and adventure was concerned the famous march from Sardis to Cunaxa was as nothing compared to the anabasis of the class of 1902.

As class prophecy Miss Alma Dyer read from a copy of The Daily Press of March 20, 1917, witty and entertaining items relatives to the various positions in life occupied by the members of the class. According to The Press of that date this year's graduates are of versatile composition fitted for the forum or the fireside, the farm or the footlights.

"A Glance Into the Future," by Miss Marguerite VanDerVenter revealed the teachers of today one hundred years from now holding a colloquy with Charon on an excursion to the land ruled by Dis. Some of the teachers held transfers entitling to passage on the Elysium Through Line when they reached the opposite side of the Styx.

"Where Some Authors Got Their Titles" by Linden Bridgeman was a series of allusions to immediate surroundings suggested by the names of various books. Thus "The Seats of the Mighty" referred to the platform of the Baptist church on the evening of June 19; "Old Curiosity Shop" brought to mind the laboratory; "Bleak House" indicated the High School without the class of 1902.

After the programme was completed the floor of the hall was cleared for the accommodation of Terpsichorean devotees.

Miss Kittie Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Manning, has gone to New Mexico for the season.

OCEAN GROVE PLANS.

Opening Sermons Will be Preached There Sunday, June 29.

Ocean Grove, June 18—Bishop James N. FitzGerald, president of the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association of the Methodist Episcopal church, has announced that the opening sermons in the monster auditoriums will be preached on Sunday, June 29, and continued every Lord's Day until September 21. The preacher for the initial service has not been decided upon, but it is likely that Bishop FitzGerald will occupy the pulpit. On the following Sunday, July 6, Bishops Fowler and Walden will preach.

GIRLS PLAYED BASKET BALL

TWO SCRUB TEAMS FROM CITY HIGH SCHOOL PLAYED EXHIBITION GAME.

The "Reds" Defeated the "Blues" by a Score of 27 to 19—Played on Casino Grounds.

Two scrub teams from the girls of the City High School played basket ball on the old tennis court in the rear of the Casino, yesterday afternoon. The girls have been playing the game there this spring, but yesterday's game was the first one at which spectators were allowed. Play had been stopped over a week ago on account of the warm weather, but yesterday was so delightfully cool that it was decided to play an exhibition game to which the participants were allowed to bring their friends.

As has been the custom at previous games, two scrub teams were selected under the titles of the "Reds" and the "Blues." After an exciting game, the "Reds" won by a score of 27 to 19. The victory was earned by superior team play. At goal throwing, the most scores were made by Miss Helen Munro for the victors and Miss May Murray for the other team.

The teams lined up as follows:

REDS.		BLUES.
Lillian Walsh	centre	Wilhelmina Patton
Antoinette Moody	centre	Elizabeth Ulrich
Mary Hall	centre	Abbie Lewis
Helen Munro	home	May Murray
Louise Klein	home	Florence Martin
Ada Westphal	home	Elizabeth Phillips
Elsie Gebhard	guard	Kinsie Hallett
May Hallett	guard	Anna Conant
Roxana Love	guard	Ethel Boice

LOCAL CHARITIES.

Contributions Are Still Being Received at This Office for the Camps This Afternoon.

Contributions are still being received from interested persons for the fresh air work to be carried on in Plainfield this summer, the donors designating which charity they desire to help. It has been thought best to have a distinct name for the camp at Netherwood, where Miss Curry will be in charge, and hereafter it will be known as the "Netherwood Fresh Air Home." This will not confuse persons with the King's Daughters' Camp on the mountain. Today a friend contributed $5 toward the Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

King's Daughters' Camp.

Previously acknowledged	$10
Netherwood Fresh Air Home.
Previously acknowledged	$ 5
A Friend	5

FOUR SCORE AND THREE.

Mrs. Henry Wheeler Celebrated Her Birthday in Pleasant Fashion.

Surrounded by relatives and friends, Mrs. Henry Wheeler, pleasantly celebrated the anniversary of her eighty-third birthday Tuesday at her home, 228 East Fifth street. During the afternoon and evening there were many pleasant features to mark the occasion and make it one long to be remembered by all. Among those present were Mrs. Wheeler's daughter, Mrs. Charles L. Lockwood, of Philadelphia, formerly of this city. Her brother, Elias Hotchkiss and her sister, Mrs. William E. Lowe, of this city.

Among the enjoyable features of the affair was a sumptuous dinner served at 6 o'clock. The evening was then given up to sociability and the exchange of pleasant words relative to the happy event. Mrs. Wheeler although well advanced in years is remarkably smart and very spry, which fact was often commented upon during the celebration.

Fight in South Jersey.

Prof. John B. Smith, State entomologist of New Jersey, has held a conference with the Health Board and prominent citizens of Cape May on the mosquito question. He had several specimens from northern Jersey, and explained ways to prevent them from coming to Cape May this summer. The Cape May Health Board will take the matter up immediately.

LIFE GROWS BRISK AT SHORE RESORTS

Two Troublous Incidents at Asbury Park Have Been Settled Satisfactorily.

CHANGE IN THE MUSIC.

MORE PLANS BEING MADE FOR THE ANNUAL BABY PARADE.

Combined New Station for Avon and Bradley Beach—Auto Busses for Hotels — New Lights for Ocean Grove—Hotels Opening.

Asbury Park, June 18—Two disquieting incidents of last week have been satisfactorily adjusted, although for a time it looked as though Asbury Park would be minus a beach band, and would also be saddled with an ostrich farm in the very centre of the hotel district.

The ostrich farm, through the liberal offer of Mayor Bradley, is now fortunately transferred to a less populous district, and the difference with Dr. Conterno, whose services are required at the Academy of Music, New York, has probably been arranged by the employment of Voss's band of Newark. In other respects, the week has been productive of much that is favorable to the hotel proprietors and boarding-house keepers. There have been many arrivals and a very large and noticeable influx of cottagers.

The baby parade commission held a meeting last week and fixed August 19 for the baby parade, and the evening of the twentieth for the Queen's reception. Alfred Chasseaud, who is perhaps one of the best known managers of public events in the east, has been engaged as general manager for the commission, and will take charge of the entire fete. Mr. Chasseaud was formerly a resident of Orange, and is well known in Newark. Last year he managed the amateur circus at Deal, in which Joseph Byrne appeared as clown. The success of this event was so pronounced that in all probability it will become quite as much a permanent feature in Deal as the baby parade is in Asbury Park. Mr. Chasseaud promises many new and pleasing ideas for the function, and has gone to work with characteristic vigor to prepare for the event.

Bradley Beach is in a state of pleasurable expectation over the prospect of a handsome new depot. The proposition is to make this structure a joint station for Avon and Bradley Beach at which all trains will stop. The location proposed is just outside the limits imposed by the agreement between the railroads and the Ocean Grove Association, and thus the question of Sunday trains, if this depot is established, will be temporarily settled to the advantage, not only of these two suburban resorts, but also to Asbury Park.

A new feature introduced by Proprietor W. Harvey Jones, of the Hotel Columbia, is the auto omnibus which will be run to the depots. Jones's new vehicle seats eleven persons. It will be used during the evenings to take the Columbia guests along the coast.

The arc lights on the Ocean Grove board walk were lighted for the first time last week. The illumination of the beach front is now continuous for a distance of three miles. It is altogether probable that the new 2,000-candle-power electric lamp will be placed in the streets of Asbury Park this season. The arc lamps have been strung in the middle of the streets, and a great improvement in the city light is noticed.

Henry L. Holt, of Bordentown, will have charge of the Ocean Grove Cadets this summer. The boys will be costumed in rough-riders' uniform. Workmen are busy in the big auditorium preparing that edifice for the formal opening of the religious season on June 21.

Several additional hotels opened their doors for business last week.

Jersey Medical Society to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Medical Society of New Jersey will be held in the Hotel Rudolf, Atlantic City, beginning Tuesday, June 24, and continuing to Thursday. Many interesting topics will be discussed. The Committee of Arrangements consists of Drs. Blair Stewart and Edward A. Reiley, Atlantic City; G. E. Reading, Woodbury; John F. Leavitt, Camden, and S. T. Day, Port Norris.

Odd Fellows to Elect.

Plainfield Lodge and Queen City Lodges, I. O. O. F., will nominate officers at their meetings to be held Monday.

A HOST OF HOBOES INVADED THE CITY

Police Gathered in Many, But Others Were Seen Wandering About the Streets.

IS AN ANNUAL AFFAIR.

THREE OF THOSE CAPTURED WERE GIVEN TERMS AT COUNTY JAIL.

One Nervy Individual Begged Food and Then Sat in Hammock on the Front Piazza to Eat It—They Kept the Police Busy.

Plainfield received its annual visitation of hoboes, last Tuesday, and as a result three of them are languishing in cells at police headquarters awaiting transportation to Elizabeth. Many more who came in by various routes streaked for the city limits at the sight of the bluecoats and saved the county the expense of keeping them.

As the police records show, this city is down on the calling lists of all genuine eastern Knights of the Road for a visit during June. Somehow or other they all seem to arrive together but just why no one has ever explained. The regular immigration occurred, last evening, and the entire night force was kept busy rounding them up.

Patrolmen Overbaugh, Gamo and Meyers, whose beats are near the railroad, each secured one or more prisoners. Gamo spotted several early in the evening loitering about Richmond street and chased them along several times. Just before midnight, one of them who afterward described himself as Michael Mountain, of Philadelphia, "assed" him when he was asked to give an account of himself and he was promptly escorted to headquarters. Shortly afterward Patrolman Meyers came in with John Kelley, of Bayonne, who had made a caravan of Netherwood backdoors during the evening. He wandered up to a front porch and, depositing himself in a hammock with his feet resting on several soft covered pillows, proceeded to eat what he had gathered from servant girls.

At 3 o'clock, this morning, Patrolman Overbaugh saw two young men and a middle aged fellow loitering about the corner of North and Watchung avenues. As he started for them they ran away but at a command all stopped but the older one. The policeman gave chase and captured him at East Fourth tareet. The other two remained standing and accompanied him to the police station.

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon the young men gave their names as Edward Welsh and Frank Pods, of Elizabeth, and the other, Emmitt McDonald, of Philadelphia. The latter told numerous conflicting stories and he was given thirty days straight. His companions, who said they had met him only by accident, told a straight story and were dismissed.

Kelley had a well thought out tale to tell but it didn't ward off the twenty days imposed. Mountain also related a series of troubles to the court but it didn't go and he was given twenty-five days straight.

All the other patrolmen reported seeing numerous suspicious strangers about but no other arrests were made. The police are confident this was the spring invasion and no more hoboes will stop off until fall, in the meantime giving the city a wide detour.

NEGRO COLONY.

Will be Established Near Cape May for Colored Men From Carolina.

Cape May, June 18—Henry C. White, the last colored man to sit in Congress, who was a member from North Carolina in both the Fifty-fifth and the Fifty-sixth Congresses, is the head of a syndicate which has purchased from Senator Robert E. Hand 957½ acres at Burleigh, near the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Reading Railroad, where a colored colony from North Carolina will be founded.

The name of the town is to be Whitehorn. Already several of the avenues have been laid out. Each colonist is to buy a house on the installment plan, and is to have ten years in which to pay for it.

This is to be an agricultural colony on the same plan as the Jewish colony at Woodbine, this county, founded by the Baron de Hirsch fund trustees.

—Neuman Brothers are receiving daily, strawberries, red raspberries, blackberries, huckleberries, apricots and peaches.

A GREAT GATHERING FROM SUNDAY-SCHOOLS

New Jersey Will be Well Represented at International Sunday-School Convention.

IT MEETS NEXT WEEK.

SOME OF THE PROMINENT SPEAKERS TO BE PRESENT AND TALK.

Will be the Largest Religious Gathering of the Year—Big Plans at Denver to Receive the Visitors —Some Important Questions.

In point of attendance and the numbers interested in its deliberations, the International Sunday-school convention, at which New Jersey's 256,000 Sunday-school members will be represented by eighty delegates and a large number of visitors, will undoubtedly be the religious gathering of the year. It will open in Denver a week from tomorrow.

A conspicuous feature will be the action upon the proposition to reduce the number of temperance lessons, for there seems to be a wide diversion of opinion upon the matter. Many W. C. T. U. societies have passed resolutions protesting against the plan. Interest is also attached to the selection of a lesson committee to prepare the international series for 1906-1911. Since the appointment of the present committee in 1896, the whole field of Sunday-school teaching has received unusual attention from specialists in pedagogy, and a comparatively new psychology of religious training has come to the front.

In the preparation of the programme the aim has been to obtain a full and free discussion upon the question of Biblical instruction. Only topics of supreme importance will be introduced. Among the speakers announced are men and women of national reputation. Dr. Lyman Abbott will make an address upon "Teaching the Bible as Literature—Plus What?" Dr. C. H. Daniels, of the American Board, is to speak of Sunday-schools and missions, and Dr. A. E. Dunning, editor of The Congregationalist, of "The Master and His Disciples." Dr. G. C. Lorimer will give two addresses, "The Message from the Cross" and "Christ the World's Greatest Teacher," "How to Develop Scholars and Teachers," by Dr. J. A. Worden, and the "Theological Seminaries and the Sunday-schools," by President E. Y. Mullins, of the Baptist Southern Theological School, will have special interest. Hon. M. G. Brumbaugh, the first United States Commissioner of Education to Porto Rico, to which position he was appointed by President McKinley, is to speak on the topic, "To What Extent Are Public School Methods Applicable to Sunday-school Teaching?"

In 1832 the first delegates to a series of notable national conventions met in New York. The second gathering was in Philadelphia, the year following. Then came a lapse of twenty-six years before the third assembly in that same city in 1859. Ten years after the delegates met for the fourth national convention here in Newark. At Indianapolis, in 1872, when the uniform system was adopted, the first lesson committee was chosen.

ROBBED BRIDE'S HOME.

Burglars Broke Into Residence of Col. B. Edgar, Near Rahway.

Rahway, June 18—The residence of Colonel Blanchard Edgar, in Woodbridge road, near Rahway, was robbed Monday night. Four gold watches and much other jewelry was taken, including a lot of presents for a bride-to-be, whose wedding is near at hand. One of the Misses Edgar was awakened by hearing some one moving about her room.

Entrance was gained through an open window downstairs. Colonel Edgar chased the thieves, two in number, to a point near the reformatory, where they disappeared. The bride-elect is nearly prostrated from shock.

To Tell of New Movement.

Rev. Dr. Clark, who is associated with Rev. Wilbur J. Chapman, of New York, will speak at the First Baptist church Sunday morning. He will tell of a movement on foot to secure a local option law regarding prohibition.

New 'Phone Line.

A new telephone line, connecting Sergeantsville, Grover and Round Brook to Flemington, has been established and is greatly appreciated by the residents in those places.

JUST IN TIME.

Constable Arrived Just as Italians Had Drawn Their Knives.

Scotch Plains, June 18—A fracas between two Italians at the Fanwood station Monday afternoon, which was rapidly leading up to a stabbing affray, was terminated just in time by the arrival of Constable Scheelen.

The principals were Julius Romo and a friend whose name he refused to reveal. The men had both drawn knives and were preparing to do the carving act when Scheelen appeared. He captured Romo but the other fellow escaped. The prisoner was arraigned before Justice Clark and was fined $5.

CASES IN COUNTY COURT

CONROY, SAVAGE AND ROBERTS WERE FOUND NOT GUILTY.

Other Offenders Before the Court of Quarter Sessions at Elizabeth.

Elizabeth, June 18—In the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday morning the case of the State against Simon Jointes, Frank Spader and August Spader, indicted for assault and battery, was on motion of Prosecutor of the Pleas English, nolle prossed, and witnesses subpoenaed were discharged from further attendance.

Charles Gruchalavich, charged with assault and battery, retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded non vult, as did also Emanuel Holman, charged with larceny.

Joseph Azzarella, charged with atrocious assault on his brother, Vincenzo Azzarella, whose trial had been set down for yesterday, failed to respond when called. The court was informed that the accused had been among the missing for several days, and that it had been impossible to obtain any clue to his whereabouts.

The case of the State against John Conroy, Thomas Savage and Frank Roberts, indicted for an unprovoked assault and battery on Rabbi Abraham Levine, which case was adjourned from Friday, was resumed.

After being a short time the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

ASSEMBLYMAN DEAD.

Frederick Miller Passed Away at His Home Early Yesterday —Ill for Some Time.

Elizabeth, June 18—Assemblyman Frederick Miller, Republican, died this morning at 5 o'clock at his home in Elizabeth. He had been seriously ill for some time and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Miller was born in Germany, October 9, 1857, and was a mechanic. He was a member of the Elizabeth fire department for eighteen years and of the Exempt Firemen's Association. He was also a past grand of the Odd Fellows, a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and Friendship B. A. Council and other organizations.

He was a member of the Common Council from 1889 to 1891 and of the Union County Board of Freeholders, having been first elected in 1894, and four times altogether. Mr. Miller was elected to the Assembly by a plurality of 1,671 over Sulzer, the highest candidate on the Democratic ticket.

FLANAGAN ELECTED.

Goes to Congress to Fill Unexpired Term in the Old Fourth Congressional District.

Flemington, June 18 — DeWitt C. Flanagan, of Morristown, was yesterday elected to represent the old Fourth district in Congress for the unexpired term of the late Congressman Salmon. There was no excitement at the polls here or in any of the other counties.

Only sixty-one votes were cast in Morristown, and about the same ratio of ballots were cast throughout the district. The Congressman will take his seat at once. His election is an entering wedge for his nomination by the Democrats against Congressman Fowler in the new Fifth district.

Funeral of Mrs. Smith.

At the home of her son, William Smith, of Washington avenue, funeral services were held Tuesday over the remains of Mrs. Eliza Ann Smith. They were in charge of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church. Only the immediate relatives were present. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Church Festival.

A festival for the benefit of the Rescue Mission will be held on the lawn of the First Church of Christ this evening. Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be sold. Admission free.

APPEAL IN BEHALF OF FRESH AIR HOME

Some Facts Concerning Needs of Netherwood Fresh Air Camp are Made Public.

THE SEASON'S PLANS.

TO CARE FOR ABOUT FORTY CHILDREN THERE AT ONE TIME.

Home is Located on Hill Behind Netherwood Hotel—The Site is a Healthful One—What is Specially Needed There Now.

To distinguish this charity from our baby fresh air camp on the mountain, the name of Netherwood Fresh Air Home has been chosen, and it is requested that articles or money intended for this work may be carefully designated and so avoid confusion and possible error. We mention this as we appreciate that friends intend lending their aid to both of these worthy objects.

The home is situated upon a high hill back of the Netherwood Hotel, upon Leland avenue, and the healthfulness of the site is beyond question.

Some of our friends have objected to the close proximity of the pond which was formed by digging out of clay by the former brick manufacturer, but we are told by persons who have lived on the spot that the water has never been known to be stagnant, as the pond is fed by springs, which are flowing at all seasons of the year.

The house is admirably arranged for the entertainment of our little New York guests and we fell sanguine that under the watchful, kind attention of Miss Curry much joy will be shed into many a barren little life during the two months of their stay.

On July 1, Miss Curry will bring about forty little children from the east side tenement life to get the delightful, invigorating air of our charming suburb. Only nursery children from six months old up to six years will be brought, and, of course, there will be about six mothers to attend to them. It is planned to keep the little ones at the home half of the summer, another party of forty to exchange with them for the balance of the season.

As the house is unfurnished, articles of furniture, cooking utensils, china, glass, bedding, brushes, brooms, laundry tubs and utensils would be very thankfully received. The floors will not be covered, but any pieces of carpet that might be useful as rugs would be acceptable. The cribs and chattresses have been purchased, but single beds, cots or mattresses will be required for the helpers. If anyone has folding beds two could be used to good advantage.

After the home is opened, fresh vegetables, milk, eggs, cereals, flour and other supplies will be in great demand. If any friend has a cow that might be lent for the summer it will be pastured and cared for in the grounds of the home.

Through the liberality of Mr. Hyde the children are to have the use of the woods at the rear of the grounds, making a beautiful playing ground.

Any friend who will receive further information about articles needed by telephoning 1121 Plainfield.

All articles will be called for.

J. Wesley Johnson, Treas.
Chas. H. Fisk,
Lucius H. Biglow, Jr.

WAR MEDALS.

New Jersey Naval Reserves on the Resolute Get Them.

The records of the Navy Department show that of the Naval Reserves in service during the Spanish war, New Jersey furnished 34 officers and 375 enlisted men. Of that number 20 officers and 261 men were assigned to duty on the Brooklyn and Resolute, nine officers and seventy-four petty officers on the Montauk, and one officer and nineteen petty officers in the coast signal service. The Resolute was engaged in the Santiago battle and the engagement at Manzanillo, on August 12, 1898.

All New Jersey reserves on the Resolute, in either of the engagements, are entitled to the Spanish war medals, which will be issued very soon. The department requests all who are thus entitled to make application for them as soon as possible.

Theodore Fraser, of Minneapolis, Minn., is spending a few weeks with his cousin, Charles Fraser, of West Third street, previous to a southern business trip.

New Woman Happenings

THE strangest episode in the United States in years, perhaps ever, is that which began the meat boycott in New York. In this free country, the land of plenty, in a year of almost unparalleled prosperity, that there should be meat riots at all is scarcely believable; that they should be started by women, and by Jewish women, the most conservative of their sex, looks on the face of it impossible; yet it is a fact. What the future Herbert Spencers will deduce from it concerning a republic where meat food is more abundant than in any other country of civilization it would be interesting to know. Jewish mothers, Russians and Poles mostly, on the famous east side of New York city, saw the price of meat go beyond where they could buy it for their children. Enraged, a number of them, perhaps a hundred in all, determined that no butcher in their neighborhood should sell meat to anybody, and they executed their resolve. The rage increased, and they rioted. The police of New York city were unable to stop the movement, which carried all before it. A woman's antibeef association was formed to boycott the dealers. The women's husbands grumbled at first, but yielded and at length were drawn into the current too. The women called great mass meetings, but as they were unaccustomed to public speaking they were shrewd enough to get eloquent labor orators to do the talking for them. Higher and higher the antibeef current rose. It is a most curious feature of the affair that the rioting women were all orthodox Jews, and when Saturday came, their Sabbath, all was quiet, but at the going down of the sun that day the fight was on again. It was continued until the women had closed every beef shop in their part of New York. Sometimes they poured kerosene over the stock of a dealer who tried to oppose them. If this is not like the French revolution, what is?

* * *

You cannot pick up a newspaper that has not a scene—no matter what, if there is a woman in it—in which the gifted reporter does not ascribe "hysterics" as the cause of hysteria to the woman. Man has reached that point apparently where he can't tell hysteria from just a plain cry.

* * *

It has been frequently decided that a drunken man is not responsible for his actions, and therefore he is sometimes let off with a reprimand under the like circumstances would surely be put into a police cell. Perhaps a man may not be responsible for his actions after he is drunk, but he is certainly responsible for getting drunk.

* * *

None of the fashionable women's clubs seem to have yet discovered that working and striving and speaking up for universal peace among the nations is a task peculiarly feminine and fitted to the most conservative of the sex. It has been left for the strongminded woman suffrage societies to take the initiative in this glorious work and aspiration.

* * *

Mrs. Ella Robarge has been elected president of the Lacrosse (Wis.) Lumber company.

* * *

The long, flowing ecclesiastical robes, whether Mohammedan, Greek, Roman Catholic or Protestant Episcopal, are undoubtedly women's garments, captured and appropriated by men. There is therefore an impudence that approaches the sublime in the recent declaration of a certain bishop that the women singers in the vested choirs of his diocese shall not wear surplice and cassock, because—of all reasons in the world—those things belong to men! What are we coming to? After appropriating our time honored long skirts to themselves are men, clerical or otherwise, now to set up and tell women they shan't wear their own clothes in a church choir? The most impressive choir I ever beheld was that of St. James, the church of the gifted, eloquent and world famous Rev. H. R. Haweis, in London, and it consisted of surpliced and cassocked women, whose sweet and thrilling voices sounded like the music of angels. Rev. Mr. Haweis himself established this surpliced choir of women, and it was the pride and joy of his life. And now comes an American bishop, unknown to fame except as he will get it in a manner not enviable through this medieval ruling, and says women shan't wear the regulation choir garments in his part of the world, just because they are women. Dear, dear! I am interested now to know how many women will have sufficient spirit and respect for the dignity of their womanhood to leave his church altogether.

* * *

The Business Woman's club of Louisville is building a hotel for business women. Good!

* * *

It is a satisfaction to note that Miss Helen Gould is breaking away from the hamperings that confine millionaire women and becoming a public speaker, and an excellent one.

* * *

Miss Alice Smith of Cheyenne is secretary of the Wyoming Cattle Growers' association. She has been elected twice to this office.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

OFFICE GIRLS' LUNCHEON.

Cup of Tea and a Lady Finger, or Something Substantial?

The girl beginning her career as a stenographer receives the average pay of the office boy who sweeps and dusts the office in the morning and runs errands—that is to say, $4 to $6 a week. The reasons she is thus poorly paid are two: First, there are now so many stenographers and typewriters; second, eleven out of twelve of these could not write a page grammatically and spell and punctuate it correctly if their lives depended on it. So, though they have paid considerable money to learn their trade, they get almost the poorest wage one cannot afford a substantial noon meal.

Ten cents a day is the average of what they can spend for luncheon. It is a poor lookout for food supply that makes rich blood. When the young woman who works in a city office goes to a restaurant for her luncheon, she looks with her outer eye over the menu and with her inner eye at that 10 cents. She orders either a cup of tea and a piece of cake or a glass of milk and a slab of baker's pie. Tomorrow perhaps she will have pie and tea and next day a glass of milk and a lady finger. With this trash in her stomach—trash except the glass of milk—she returns to work. Her corset is laced tight, her skirt is heavy and trailing, catching up every microbe of contagion that can be conceived, and in this kind of fighting trim she goes into an office to compete with man in a business way. Heaven have mercy on her misguided soul!

A GIRLS' LUNCHROOM.

She is a proper object for charitable consideration, and philanthropic ladies in the large cities are now doing their utmost to alleviate her troubles, at least so far as luncheon is concerned. The foolish dress can only be remedied when the Almighty shall send her better light and knowledge.

The philanthropic ladies are establishing office women's lunchrooms in the heart of city business centers. The model plan thus far is perhaps that in operation in Chicago. It is the woman's club idea devoted to something useful. A floor is found large enough to contain kitchen, dining room, reading and rest room. By close buying and shrewd management it has been found that for 11 cents it is possible to provide a hot roast and vegetable meal of the best quality. Delicious bread rolls are a cent apiece, meat sandwiches two for 5; milk, tea, coffee or cocoa, 4 cents; potatoes and rice, 3 cents each, and other dishes in proportion. Much low priced food is possible because each luncher is her own waitress. All the food, kept steaming hot and already divided into portions, is ranged around upon a three sided counter in a large, light, clean aired room. Each girl selects her own fare, takes plate and napkin from a pile near by, pays the cashier for what she gets, then goes into the dining room, sits down and eats it.

For the privileges of dining room, rest room and reading room each member of the lunch club pays 25 cents a month. So popular are these business women's lunch and rest clubs that as one of them 3,500 girls take their noon meal, at another 1,000. A month after the first one was opened it had 600 members. The feeling of very own-ness, where they can neither be ogled nor jostled, snubbed by waiters nor bullied by cashiers, is the secret of being forced to see crowds of hungry men feeding like dumb brutes, is infinitely comforting.

The ladies of the Woman's Exchange in Cincinnati maintain a general restaurant which more than holds its own against the moderate priced luncheon places in the city. It is well patronized not only by business women of small means, but by men well financed. New York moves slowly compared to the west, but there also a beginning has been made. One young lady conducts on her own account a midday restaurant for young women downtown and makes it pay her. She gives a table d'hote for 20 cents, or a luncher can choose any article and pay for it separately. The table d'hote includes one meat and two vegetables, dessert, with tea, coffee or milk. The New York Business Woman's association, among its other enterprises, conducts a noon restaurant, where a meal may be had for 25 cents, or a customer can buy what she likes and pay a la carte.

ESTHER ZANE.

THE FASHIONABLE COIFFURE

No One Fixed Style Is to Be Observed This Summer.

There will be no hard and fast rule about dressing the hair this summer. In Paris it is once more going up on top of the head, for this style is much more becoming to the average French woman. Society women are wearing it both ways. For day wear under a hat there is no doubt that a low coiffure is more becoming, but there are few women who have a sufficiently classical profile to wear it low without the hat. Generally a woman looks best with her hair drawn up on the top of her head because it gives becoming lines at the back and sides.

WHITE VEILING GOWN.

The long empress curl should only be worn with a very dressy costume. There is something very ludicrous about this style of halfdressing when seen with ordinary clothes.

The tulle rosette has supplanted the rose as a hair ornament, and the algret is regaining its former popularity.

A white veiling gown is shown in the picture. The waist has a tucked yoke, and through the lace collar a narrow velvet ribbon is drawn. The rest of the waist is draped supplice fashion. The sleeves are full and are gathered into lace cuffs. The skirt has three tucked ruffles, headed by three insertions.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY ADVICE.

The Summer Girl Will Need a Hat to Go With Each Gown.

The girl who aspires to be smartly dressed will need a multitude of hats this summer. First, she will want an all white hat and an all black one. The all black hat is prettiest made of chiffon or with a straw top faced with shirred or tucked chiffon. For trimming, the latest thing is a huge black silk poppy with its buds. Two or at the most three of these are used on a hat. They are placed close to the brim on the left hand side. Very picturesque and becoming hats are made of black mousseline de soie frillings.

OUTING HAT.

For the white hat nothing can be prettier that the mohair lace straws with flaring, upturned brims faced with chiffon. The trimming can be simple, consisting of a scarf of fine lace and a soft bow of white louisine ribbon.

Then, to be in style, she should have a hat for every color of gown she wears. These hats may be only pictures shapes trimmed with a wreath of flowers, and they really need not be at all expensive.

For the everyday hat to be worn with the tailor made a rough white straw with an upturned brim and a short back is almost sure to be becoming. This can be trimmed simply with a black or white chiffon veil having long, graceful ends.

The pretty outing hat in the illustration is made of rough straw. The brim is draped with a lace veil, and a velvet ribbon is passed around the crown and held in place by a jeweled buckle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ABOUT BLOUSES.

Hints to the Woman Who Makes Hers at Home.

Crepe de chine of the new washable make and oriental satin can be intrusted to the laundress, and on that account they are valuable for the unlined summer silk waists, which are so cool and useful. They really wear better and are cheaper than the cheaper muslins and pongee silks. The successful blouse must be worn over a properly made silk or satin slip. This is infinitely more becoming than the lined blouse and commends itself to practical women on account of the two being far easier to wash or clean when separate.

Another thing which should not be forgotten is that the success of the blouse depends largely upon the adjustment of the same, and as an aid to this the importance of the proper kind of belt cannot be overestimated.

POINT D'ESPRIT RUFFLE.

The long waisted girl should wear a belt which is wide in the back, and her short waisted sister should adopt the merest thread of a girdle. Soft crush belts give an illusion of smallness to a common sense waist line. The tendency of fashion at present is to shorten the waist excessively in the back and make it correspondingly long in the front.

This charming neck ruffle is of tinted point d'esprit, with a lace edge. There are three graduated frills, which form a cape effect. The long ends reach to within a few inches of the bottom of the skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SILK SUITS.

Smart Effects in Taffeta Jackets and Skirts.

Taffeta or moire silk is just now considered very smart when used for suits.

Taffeta is our old friend glace silk, but with a softer finish, which adds to its durability without destroying the bright surface. The most useful form of a taffeta suit is a well trimmed skirt and a sack bolero. The bolero must be extremely smart, with large collar, the new underfrocks and underskirts and many tabs of velvet and tiny steel or paste buttons.

A pretty taffeta skirt is made tucked on the hips, and it has a separate godet flounce which is cut plain for the lining and overlaid with three flounces cut in the same shape and without fullness for the top. Stitched bands of satin decorate the flounces and form a border above, in which is inclosed a black or guipure lace insertion over a lining of white satin.

FANCY CORSET COVER.

Another skirt model is all trimmed with bands of chantilly lace set in perpendicularly. The silk is cut out under these insertions in order to show glimpses of white silk lining.

The sketch shows a dainty corset cover made of fine nainsook. The straps are laid in fine tucks and are bordered with tiny beadings; the rest of the corset cover is laid in squares formed by bands of insertion and filled in with tucks and embroidered wreaths.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE COMMENCEMENT GOWN

How It Should Be Made For the Sweet Girl Graduate.

A young girl just about to graduate from her school is as perfect a creation as can be found. I believe I would rather see one than a bride with all the pomp and circumstance of church and the other things that go to make wedding a wonderful thing. A woman may be married several times if so she wills, while a girl is never graduated from school but once, and if she were a second time she would never be so sweet again.

This season there are so many dainty commencement gowns that one can do no more than choose a few for description and as a guide for mothers and girls. Silk mull and chiffon, white swiss, white mercerized mull, clairette, organdie, white china silk and some of the dainty sephyrs—all are seen in the graduation gowns. And they are in whatever color best pleases the fair wearer. White, however, is the choice, for with white any kind of color, as ribbon ornamentation or flowers, may be worn, while those in colors can afford no such variety. And a graduation gown of white can be made a very useful affair for many other occasions. I give an illustration of one which is peculiarly girlish and dainty. The entire skirt is tucked all around, the tucks reaching lower in front than in the back, and they end above the knees to let the rest fall out like a flounce. The very bottom has a ruching of the collenne, bordered at both edges with a narrow lace to match that employed on the waist. The dress is white. The whole waist is made of falls of wide white lace, the two lower ones being gathered to the foundation to form the blouse. At the top a square yoke is formed of the lace, and the sleeves are also made by setting one line above the other. The draped belt is of loutine satin ribbon of the same color as the ribbon to tie the essay. The sleeves are in this instance made to the elbow, but others reach to the wrist.

Crepon is pretty for graduation dresses, and so is delicate organdie. I saw some organdie where the flowers were so faint in tint that they scarcely showed until the material was laid over white. There was a border of the same design to use as flounce or as bands for the blouse and sleeves.

The slippers for these young girls are the prettiest slippers in the world. They are made of black satin kid or of white kid. The black satin or kid seems to be the best choice. The heels are higher than they have been, and there are some with straps, others with fancy jet beadings and others with tiny bows of black ribbon or velvet with minute steel or jet buckles.

Gloves are governed in length by the shape of the sleeve, and they in turn are governed solely by the wish of the wearer. Long sleeves do not have quite so festive an effect as elbow ones, but the long gloves cost more than the long sleeves.

For the hair the most appropriate dressing is to have the arrangement as girlish as possible. A flower may be placed wherever it seems the most becoming, or a Marie Antoinette band of steel covered with twisted ribbon, ending at the sides with small bows of the same ribbon, may be worn. These bands, called snoods, are very pretty and have the merit of being novel, and they may be worn with any costume, while "roses bloom and then they wither."

GOWN FOR THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE.

One of the prettiest of these commencement gowns was made of swiss striped at quite wide intervals, and between the stripes was set a trimming of cream lace motifs in form of butterflies. Around the bottom was a perfect ruff of narrow shaped ruffles, each being edged with cream lace. The blouse was high in the neck, and the sleeves were very wide bishop's, but made narrow at the top by clusters of tucks, with the lace butterflies set above. The waist was round. This plan of having the lace made in designs and different sizes and widths is an excellent one. The wide lines are for the skirts and the narrow ones for waists and sleeves. Nearly all have set aside the old conventional figure of the insertion or edging is wrought separate, so that they may be put anywhere. This makes it easy for a lady to trim a costume, even to a parasol, as the mode.

Liberty silk is very well liked for commencement dresses, but nothing is quite so dainty as chiffon or silk mull. It is so soft and filmy that it seems to have been made to grace youth and innocence. Next to that in point of suitableness is the soft, mercerized mull.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

SMART EVENING GOWNS.

Crepeline, Eolienne and Grenadine Are Favorite Materials.

There are many soft and pretty materials which can be smartly trimmed with transparencies and lace motifs to form effective and not too costly evening gowns. Crepeline is one of these; eolienne is another. Both have gained the approval of women with moderate incomes on account of their cheapness, together with their silky texture.

Creamy white lace robes are mounted on colors or on a yellowish biscuit tint, relieved with touches of black. Scarfs of black chiffon, motifs or insertions of black lace and runnings of black velvet are all employed on the white lace gown.

The new embroideries on gauze are especially suitable for evening toilets. These form scrolls inclosed in frames of lace and are embellished with colored jewels, beads or sequins, sparingly employed. Medallions of embroidered lisse or painted gauze on satin is arranged in similar fashion, forming a *continuous trimming, which can be de*tached for sprays, groups and motifs.

GRENADINE EVENING GOWN.

The smart evening gown illustrated is made of silk grenadine. The skirt has four ruffles, headed by a fanciful application composed of tucks and lace. The waist has a toothed bolero over a full blouse of tucking. The el*bow sleeves have underpuffs. There is* a corsage decoration of differently shaded roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LACE NOVELTIES.

Embroidered Lace—The New Chiffon Boas.

The latest thing in allover lace shows a design of flowers embroidered in colored silk.

The new chiffon boas are flat instead of round and fall away from the neck. Accordion plaited chiffon is cut in vandykes and finished with baby velvet, narrow ruching or a fringe of small blossoms or rose petals. The combination of plaited taffeta and fine lace is very smart, especially when completed by long scarf ends of lace to match.

Lace collars are very popular and are to be seen on almost every garment. Irish crochet and tatted laces are the favorites, and big Richelieu collars of Irish lace are worn by those whose figures will allow them. The combination of creamy Irish lace and black and white chiffon is very smart, and a chou of velvet in pale pink or blue makes a dainty finish.

BRIDE'S DRESS.

A tasteful dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of allover lace. The blouse waist has a surplice neck, and the opening is brought from right to left. The sleeves are elbow length and tight fitting. The skirt opens over an underdress of white chiffon edged with many ruffles. The girdle is of white louisine ribbon, with long ends hanging down the front, which are knotted twice.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER FANCY WORK

OF course every woman wants a bit of fancy work to take away with her in the summer. It may lie on her lap idle half the time, but it serves as an excuse for sitting on the piazza and joining the circle of gossipers.

Embroidery has ceased to be unpractical. This year many of the newest specimens of fancy work are to be used on dresses or shirt waists. So much embroidery is now being utilized on fashionable costumes and it costs so much that the clever girl with a small income is learning to do these little things for herself. For example, take the embroidered medallions with a lace border. Pale tinted mousseline de soie is cut out in an odd shape and basted in the center of a design for renaissance lace; then the lace is made all around this and joined daintily to it. The center of the mousseline disk is sometimes ornamented with a tiny embroidered conventional figure or flower done in white or colored silk. Two or three of these medallions make a handsome trimming for a silk or chiffon waist. They are not much trouble to make, but cost a pretty penny if bought in the shops.

SHIRT WAIST SET.

Then there are the new colored linen shirt waist sets. These comprise a dainty turnover collar, two cuffs and a long strip for the front of the waist. The set in the illustration is for a yachting costume. The material is blue linen, embroidered in heavy white silk. The edges are scalloped with a heavy buttonhole edge.

This year collars of colored linen are considered smarter than those of lace. These collars come already stamped on pink, pale blue, green and ecru linen, and all one has to do is work out the design. They only cost from 10 to 15 cents apiece. The stitches used are buttonhole for the edges and satin and outline stitch for the figures. French knots are very dainty and popular just now. Sometimes the whole pattern is made of them.

To make a French knot the needle is brought up through the cloth, then the thread is wound three times around it, and last the point of the needle is passed through directly under the place where it first came up. The thread meanwhile must be held down gently with the other hand.

RENAISSANCE HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Satin stitch is used to work in the more solid parts of a design. It is a straight, simple stitch brought across from side to side of the figure so that it gives a smooth satinlike surface, whence its name.

Renaissance lace is now being made into charming hair ornaments. The butterfly and the coronation are the latest ones. The butterfly is made with a linen braid having a fancy edge. When the butterfly is completed, it is wired with fine silk hat wire. Sometimes the lace is sewed with tiny spangles.

The coronation hair ornament consists of three upright pieces simulating plumes and four more clustered at the base to form a rosette. These pieces are all wired.

Irish crochet braid is taking the place of the smoother renaissance, and charming effects may be contrived by combining this lace with heavy em*broidery in white silk. The Marie An*toinette lace is supposed to be really the latest thing. It is a fanciful application of ecru satin braid on yellow net. This makes a charming blouse waists, toilet table scarfs and lace panels for windows.

MAUD ROBINSON.

Fichus and Fancy Collars.

Boas naturally are for street wear, but fashion has graciously provided for home wear the loveliest of fichus and fancy collars to take their places. One style has a scarf two yards long and ten inches wide, the whole made of white net, and the ends are appliqued with Irish point. This is brought around the neck twice and tied in a bow in front. Another has a flat sailor collar of white net, with white appliqué on it, and at the joining there is a white net scarf two yards long tied in one bow, the ends reaching the knees, where they finish with a ruffle of the net, with a lace ruffle at the bottom of this. Still another is a ten inch scarf of dotted white net, with narrow valenciennes at each edge and crossing the ends several times. This is still longer than the others and goes twice around the neck and ties, the ends falling below the knees.

DUTY OF THE PEOPLE

They Should Look Closely Into Records of Congressmen.

In No Other Way Can the Nation Secure an Absolutely Pure and Equitable Administration of Public Affairs.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE people of this government are proud of their government, but they know very little about it. The public schools ought to give instructions concerning municipal, county, state and federal governments. As it is, even the school teachers themselves know very little concerning the government; and not more than one-tenth of them could even tell you how a member of the national senate is elected.

Not only are the people in comparative ignorance about their government; but strange as it may seem, the average member of the house of representatives knows very little about national legislation. The people are careless, and, to be plain about it, they are shamefully careless, about the selection of their congressmen and other office holders. On this account the government for many years has been partly in the hands of politicians who care nothing for the people, but seek only their own glory and enrichment.

In your own congressional district you do not know 20 men who are personally acquainted with your member of congress, unless you happen to mingle with politicians, and the average readers of newspapers will not be found mixing with politicians. In a government of the people, by the people and for the people every citizen ought to know all about his government, and all about the man or men who seek official position. If every citizen would take such an interest in public affairs as he ought to do our government would be purer, and it would be more economical. The people have no idea how many millions of dollars are taken from them in taxation and expended recklessly. It is their own fault when they are over-governed, because they are unmindful of their duty to themselves, by being careless concerning the details of government.

When you hear a man making a fervid stump speech on the questions of the day, just bear in mind that the average public speaker is looking for dupes, and that he wants you to be one of his victims. He is making speeches, not for his health, nor solely for the good of his country. He is doing it for his own benefit, and he expects you to support him on account of his "gift of gab." That will be a new way of looking at it, to some readers; but it is a gospel truth. The writer has been associated with politicians for more than a quarter of a century, and as the years have gone gliding into history his regard for professional politicians has grown less and less; because of increasing acquaintance with their motives and their manner of living.

When you elect a member of congress you give him a position paying $5,000 a year, for two years. Naturally, you expect him to work hard for that big salary, but the average congressman does not work at all. The government gives him a private secretary, with a salary of $100 a month; and the private secretary does all of the necessary work. The congressman signs letters to his constituents which the private secretary has written, and that is the hardest work that the average congressman does for his people.

UNCLE SAM ENJOYS IT.
(Little Shower of Extravagance Does Not Displease Him.)

There are 357 members of the national house of representatives, and not more than 25 or 30 of them have anything to do with legislation. The others are mere followers. Wherever their party leaders tell them to go they go. They do not initiate legislation of any kind. They leave all things to committees appointed by the speaker, and they vote as they are told to vote on the passage of bills. Because of this condition of affairs the government has been growing less worthy, during the last quarter of a century, and extravagance has grown until it has become reprehensible. It is not an extravagant statement that hundreds of millions of money have been taken from the people by taxation, and appropriated unlawfully. It would not be fair to say that the government has grown corrupt because of its unwise appropriations of the people's money.

Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, was for many years the leading democratic member of the national house of representatives. He was chairman of the committee on appropriations, and in that position he wielded so much power that he was able to prevent tariff legislation; and he did prevent the party from enacting free trade measures several times, although he was one of a small minority of that party. In order to take from Mr. Randall that power, the committee on appropriations was deprived of control over the appropriations for pensions, the army, the navy, rivers and harbors, public buildings and grounds, and other important government affairs. The bills making appropriations for these various purposes were given to separate committees, and there began the era of extravagance in appropriations.

So long as all appropriations were controlled by one committee the total expenditures of the government were kept down to about $300,000,000 annually, because the committee kept "the total" before them all the time. But when separate committees were given power to make appropriations, each committee looked at its own work as of excessive importance, and immediately the total appropriations began to increase. With this example of extravagance before them the senators divided their great committee on appropriations in like manner only a few years ago, and this, added to the folly of the house of representatives, instead of curtailing the total annual expenditures for the government. The appropriations made for the coming fiscal year are as follows:

TOO MUCH FOR YOUR UNCLE.
(But a Deluge of Wastefulness Disgusts the Old Man.)

Agriculture	$ 6,208,980
Army	82,258,126
Diplomatic and [illegible]	1,567,955
District of Columbia	7,450,000
Fortifications	7,002,905
Indians	9,040,220
Military academy	2,857,324
Legislative and executive expenses	27,396,581
Navy	77,640,993
Pensions	159,040,000
Post offices	128,416,586
Rivers and harbors (including contracts for future)	50,000,000
Sundry civil expenses	34,581,180
Urgent deficiencies	21,584,422
Public buildings	35,000,000
Total	$670,992,831

That is more than double the amount required for the expenses of our government ten or 12 years ago, and the actual requirements of the government have not so increased. The population of the country has not doubled, nor has the wealth. The responsibilities of the government have increased and the wealth of the country has increased during the past few years, but the appropriations which the congress continues to make are monthly greater than should be made.

The river and harbor bill, which takes an average of $20,000,000 from the treasury every two years, has in the past 20 years taken well-nigh $200,000,000; and everybody in Washington speaks of that bill as a "steal" which cannot be disguised in this city, although the people seem to know nothing about it. Then the habit of voting money from the treasury for public buildings and grounds has so increased that almost every community is clamoring for a public building; and the men who want to be custodians and janitors of the proposed buildings are urging their congressmen to foster this extravagance.

The people who have the right to reward the faithful public servants by re-electing them, and to punish the unfaithful by not re-electing them, are responsible for existing conditions. Uncle Sam is rich and can afford some luxuries, but prodigality and wastefulness are little less than criminal in governments as well as in individuals. Uncle Sam can stand a little summer shower of extravagance while the bank account is in good condition, but a deluge of wastefulness disgusts him, and his wrath arises.

The people must not place the blame for these conditions upon any political party. The writer has seen democrats, republicans, prohibitionists, and even populists in congress making frantic grabs at the treasury for a part of the surplus. The first administration of Grover Cleveland was one of the most honorable and commendable that this country has ever had, and the second was regarded as most profligate. The administration of Benjamin Harrison was not altogether blameless, nor was the McKinley administration absolutely free from abuses of power. People are narrow in the extreme who imagine that any one political party can be perfect.

What the people ought to do is to nominate only good men whom they know to be honorable, and to elect only those who will pledge themselves to economy in government expenses, and keep those pledges. The fault lies not with parties, but with the plain people themselves. They cannot shift the blame. It must rest upon their own shoulders. They must look more closely into the political affairs of their country.

SMITH D. FRY.

THE DAINTY LICHEE.

It Is the Most Delicious Fruit That Grows in China.

Chinese Oranges and Pears, However, Are Inferior to Our Own—The Missionary Who Bought "Sheeps' Tails.

(Special Hongkong (China) Letter.)

OF COURSE we have oranges in South China, plenty and cheap. Not Florida varieties, but little loose-jacket ones that can be eaten without staining your kid gloves, if you do not want to remove them, and without the use of knife or spoon. There are other varieties, not so good and much more trouble to eat. They ripen in mid-winter, and are the popular fruit during the great national holidays at the Chinese New Year, which corresponds to about February.

It is necessary to offer oranges to each guest who calls on any day from the first to the fifth of the first month at least, and many extend the courtesy to the fifteenth day. The guest must refuse and the host insist, until finally they compromise by the guest taking two—never less and seldom more.

Of the temperate zone fruits, apples have not yet been successfully cultivated except in the mountains of North Fukkien. Peaches are abundant and of fair quality; plums are plentiful and like good seedlings in America. Grapes are very ordinary.

The most disappointing is the pear. It is yellow and delicious looking. The newly-arrived unitiated American sees the luscious fruit on the street, and thinks of the fine old Bartlett trees in his grandfather's (or some other boy's grandfather's) orchard, and fixes his mouth for a treat like that of his boyhood days. He pays the dealer several prices for half a dozen, and bites into the largest and ripest. Alas! they are apples of Sodom. It would not be so bad if he had not been expecting so much and recollecting so much. It is wet saw-dust. One bite is sufficient.

BI-BO, OR LOQUAT, TREES WITH RIPE FRUIT.

These home fruits have been successfully introduced into North China by the late Dr. Nevious, of the Shantung province, and have widely spread. The Shantung pears are shipped to other provinces, and are much prized by the Chinese. The experiment is now being tried in Hinghua with fair prospects of success.

The South China has fruits of its own that are well worthy of attention, especially now that American territory in this latitude has so greatly expanded of late.

They begin with the bi-bo (pronounced bebaw), known in western lands as the Loquat, which ripens the last of March and runs on into May. It is about the size and shape of an egg-plum, or smaller, bright yellow in color, with smooth dark brown seeds, and a skin that peels off like that of a ripe tomato. It is rank and very juicy. Foreigners almost invariably like it, and coming so early in the season is greatly in its favor as a popular fruit. It sells in the native market at from two to ten cents (silver) per basket. When you consider that unskilled labor can be had in the same market for ten cents a day, it is plain that only well-to-do or rich people can afford to eat it in quantities. It makes a very excellent jam, and also well grown from the seed and does not need to be grafted. By choosing the seed of the largest and finest variety and planting it in Florida or the West Indies or in southern California, I see no reason why this fine fruit should not flourish in the western hemisphere, and become very popular in the market and profitable to the grower.

LICHEE TREES IN BLOSSOM.

The Arbutus comes next in the season. The best are as large as a large-sized cherry, and it looks much like a large blackberry. It has one seed like a plum. It grows on a tree. It is one of the cheapest of Chinese fruits. Yet foreigners generally are fond of it.

There is an ancient chestnut that is passed on from generation to generation in South Fowkow foreign community, of a missionary in the early days, who was struggling with the mysteries and difficulties of this barbarous language of tones, who instructed his cook to buy a pound of autumn fruit for dinner. The cook did not return before noon and the missionary got a cold lunch for himself; his feelings toward the absent servant were warm enough, though, to boil coffee. Toward nightfall the delinquent appeared with a dejected countenance, and a small basket with several fresh sheep's tails in it. He said he had been to every butcher shop in the city and these were all the sheep's tails he could buy. He had conquered the market and his master at the same time. It was only a mistake of the tone in giving the order.

But when we think of Chinese fruits there is one that stands out supreme. Every foreigner pronounces it delicious. It is the lichee.

It grows upon a tree resembling the apple-tree. In size and shape and color when ripe it is like the largest-sized strawberry. The skin is rough and brittle, like that seed, which when grafted is very small. The meat is white, and tastes—well you will have to taste it for yourself. It is unlike anything in America that I know of.

Henry Ward Beecher is quoted as saying: "God might have made a better fruit than the strawberry, but he never did."

Mr. Beecher never ate fresh lichees.

They are dried and shipped all over China, and are used on all the steamers of the east, and are found even in New York. But the dried article gives no idea whatever of the deliciousness of the fresh fruit.

An enterprising storekeeper of Canton has been canning it recently, and in this shape it is much more like the fresh fruit.

It is not propagated from the seed. A ball of mud is tied around a joint of a limb, and the bark is cut below the mud. In six months the limb is cut off and planted; roots have been formed in the earth ball. Grafting is done with great care and skill; so also the pruning, which must be done annually. No pains are spared in cultivation.

If this fruit were introduced into America it would certainly become very popular and profitable. The skilled horticulturists of southern Florida would soon learn its peculiarities and the manner of treatment.

But the Chinese will tell you that the lingenys are their best fruit. They grow upon trees closely resembling the lichee, but are round, russet in color, sweetish in taste and a smooth skin. With foreigners the taste must be generally cultivated.

But the fruit is a very fine one. It is dried in immense quantities, and brings a high price for use at feasts all over China. Both these varieties are a great source of wealth. A tree with fruit valued at ten taels (silver) is a very ordinary sight. I have seen as high as $40 worth of fruit upon one tree. This is of course unusual, but when you consider that you can hire a man to work for a whole year for that sum the relative value of these fruits is seen to be enormous.

The trees are planted by the canals, along the roads, between fields, in corners, wherever space can be found. They are valued tree by tree as well as orchard by orchard. A man in need of money will often dispose of a single tree.

It is to be hoped that in time in American markets these fine fruits of the semi-tropics will become as common as bananas or oranges are to-day.

WILLIAM N. BREWSTER.

Some Peculiar Languages.

The aborgines of the Malabar Islands employ a perfect whistling language, by means of which they can communicate with each other over long distances. A stranger wandering over the islands is frequently surprised to hear from a hilltop the sound of loud whistling, which is quickly repeated on the next hill, and so is carried from summit to summit, until it dies away in the distance. But perhaps the most curious means of communication in the world is the drum language of the Congo tribe. These queer people can talk to each other with large drums made of bamboo hoops, over which the skin of some animal is stretched. The drum, however, is used only on important occasions.

America's First Fire Engine.

The first fire engine used in America was sent from England in 1731.

LIFE IN OLD MEXICO.

Aztec Civilization Has Left Its Impress on the Country.

Why the Natives of Our Sister Republic Should Be Studied at a Respectful Distance by Pleasure Tourists.

[Special El Paso (Tex.) Letter.]

NOW that the opening up of railroads in Mexico has become so much a thing of the past that tourists have been enabled to write so familiarly regarding the country, the general reading public is very well acquainted with the strange land and its customs. Yet no one who has known Mexico only on paper is in any way prepared for what awaits him on his first arrival upon scenes where the old Aztec civilization still lingers, touching everything lightly with dreamlike suggestions of a past of which little is really known beyond what tradition teaches and where even the deeds of the Spanish invaders are enveloped in the mistiness of languid southern fancy. Nowhere else has the Spaniard so strangely grafted himself on the ancient population, for on no other portion of the globe have such peculiar conditions been present. The Mexican himself furnishes a course of study not quickly mastered. His politeness, which means nothing, his inertiveness amounting to almost the stolidity of the Indian, his fire and ardor in contrast with his languor and his almost invariable rule of never doing to-day what may be accomplished to-morrow, his pictures que appearance, and, in the average citizen, his diet and his peculiar odor it is said that even a buzzard won't eat a dead Mexican), together with the way he takes his religion, which is intense enough but blatherously his own, constitute a queer bundle of contradictions. The women are just a little "more so" than the men, especially as to diet, languor and religion. They hardly present so romantic an appearance, although the younger ones are often very beautiful. The average Mexican woman, over 30, is a study in ugliness. The young children, especially in summer, look like little, brown, animated statues with very little effort at drapery. Among the poorer classes, in some sections, the children up to ten years old play around without clothing. After that age, a manila bag or garment resembling a pillow slip with holes for head and arms furnishes all the covering deemed necessary.

MEXICAN WOMEN MAKING TORTILLAS.

It is seldom that severely cold weather is experienced in Mexico.

Some time since, however, in passing through a village town during an unusually cold season, when icicles hung from the water tanks, a very strange sight was presented to a party of travelers. Vendors of fruit still were their bread, straw somboreos, but these were held down over their ears by shawls, borrowed presumably from the lady members of their families, and their otherwise bare feet were wrapped imperfectly in scraps of rags of every color and description. The portions of the body were very thinly covered. It is a sight to behold a Mexican doing his washing at some of the small towns of six or seven houses on the arid plains. Water is a great luxury and, fortunately perhaps, its scarcity does not seem a great hardship. It is easy to believe that many Mexicans put on a garment and that it is never removed until the wear and tear of time serves in the capacity of soap. Sometimes a reason is sufficiently apparent for cleansing a garment, and the process was witnessed by the writer during one of those unaccountable rests taken by the trains passing through Mexico, probably caused by delay in removing drifting sand from the tracks. The gentleman in question appeared in the sand from nowhere in particular with a quart tin dipper of water and a large piece of soap. He calmly removed his shirt, laid it on a flat rock, poured a tiny and brief stream of water upon it and rubbed the soap on vigorously. Then he struck it sharply with another piece of stone. He repeated the process until the water in the dipper was exhausted—and it lasted some time—then hung his garment on a cactus plant and candidly seated himself in the sun on the rock, which had served as washtub and board, and rested while it dried. He was still resting when the train started, gazing with dreamy eyes on a mirage near the distant horizon.

ENJOYING A HOLIDAY.

Many of the Mexican towns are most beautiful, but of a beauty not at all in conformity with American notions of thrift and progress. Cuernavaca is about a half day's charming ride from the city of Mexico, through scenery bounded by mountains and gemmed with lakes. The narrow streets of Cuernavaca, steep and tortuous, are paved with clear, white cobblestones over which tropical torrents dash when it rains.

The red, pink, yellow and blue adobe houses, with red-tiled roofs projecting in wide eaves, are surrounded by a riotous vegetation. Honeysuckle, coffee, mangoes and poinsettias fill the squares and gardens and overrun adobe walls.

The mornings and afternoons are delightful and the nights rather cool, while the midday sun is hot as in most parts of Mexico. Being a favorite resort of Americans, there are American boarding places and hotels, but if one desires to see more of the "true lawlessness" of the country, he should patronize a Mexican hotel where large cool bedrooms paved with bricks are lighted at night with but one forlorn little candle. Most of the Mexican houses of any pretensions have a courtyard or plazita in the center (the house being built around it) and many of these are perfect wonderlands of beauty. Unless he can witness the real home life of some good family, a visitor can never appreciate the true beauty of Mexico. Cuernavaca, [illegible] the whole valley, is a portion of the estate bestowed by Emperor Charles V. upon Cortez. The palace built by the latter, 350 years or more ago, [illegible] serves as state government [illegible]. Through the grand vistas of its arched corridors, magnificent views may be obtained. The sugar-cane culture was first introduced into Mexico by Cortez. The whole surrounding country seems dotted with patient little burros plodding around everywhere.

Leon is a manufacturing center. A large proportion of the 60,000 or 70,000 inhabitants are engaged in their homes (not congregated in factories) in constructing useful or ornamental articles for which there is a good demand. Beautiful costumes, rich somboreros, saddles heavily embroidered in gold, or colored silks and large quantities of gold lace, are manufactured here. This is also the center of the shoe trade. Hosiery and blankets are also made, and rebosas and other garments of wool, cotton or linen. The higher class Mexican women wear imported clothing, principally from Paris, but in the country districts all cling more or less to the mantilla for the head, which is worn with much grace. Leon is 100 or more years behind the times. The inhabitants depend for their newspapers upon the City of Mexico, 24 hours distant. Only a small proportion of the population can read, and, if they have a sufficient quantity of tortillas and frijoles to satisfy hunger, and rags enough to cover them, they seem content. A straw mat or raw hide to sleep on are luxuries among the poorer classes.

The old customs regarding courtship still prevail largely throughout the land. The lady while conversing with her fiance must be attended by numerous relatives or pass the time of their interviews behind a grated window while he stands, often on tiptoe, in the street whispering his adoration to her who is to him so near and yet so far. Although Leon is the largest town in the state of Guanajuato, a city bearing the latter name is the capital and much more interesting. It is difficult of access, being remote from the usual lines of travel, but the resident governor takes great pride in advertising his town. It contains a very elegant theater, all the furnishings having been imported from Paris, and it has never been used because the inhabitants are not educated up to it. Long for President Diaz to come and open it. Among the favorite drinks of the Mexicans are aquadiente, a poor sort of brandy, and pulque made from the cactus plant; also wine, beer, tea, coffee, chocolate and lemonade. The food does not present as much variety as the resources of the country would seem to indicate. Meat of a poor quality is used to excess, when the people are rich enough to purchase it, at the expense of vegetables which could be rendered much more appetizing. Eggs or huevos form a staple article of diet, usually well seasoned with red pepper, and chilli con huevos is only less popular than chilli con carne.

EDWARD JULIAN.

SOLDIERS LIKE HIM.

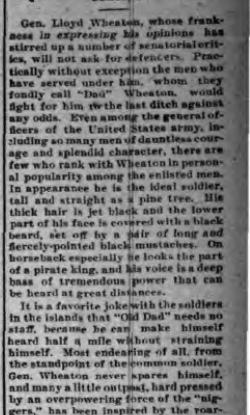
Gen. Lloyd Wheaton Is Simply Idolized by His Men.

All Sorts of Pleasant Little Stories Are Told About His Courage and Consideration of Privates' Comfort.

Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, whose frankness in expressing his opinions has stirred up a number of senatorial critics, will not ask for defenders. Practically without exception the men who have served under him, whom they fondly call "Dad" Wheaton, would fight for him to the last ditch against any odds. Even among the general officers of the United States army, including so many men of dauntless courage and splendid character, there are few who rank with Wheaton in personal popularity among the enlisted men. In appearance he is the ideal soldier, tall and straight as a pine tree. His thick hair is jet black and the lower part of his face is covered with a black beard, set off by a pair of long and fiercely-pointed black mustaches. On horseback especially he looks the part of a pirate king, and his voice is a deep bass of tremendous power that can be heard at great distances.

It is a favorite joke with the soldiers in the islands that "Old Dad" needs no staff, because he can make himself heard half a mile without straining himself. Most endearing of all, from the standpoint of the common soldier, Gen. Wheaton never spares himself, and many a little outpost, hard pressed by an overpowering force of the "niggers," has been inspired by the roaring command of "Old Dad"—"Go in, boys! Go in!"—while he himself, riding like a centaur, led the charge far in advance of the advancing column. Even his presence is inspiring. In many a hot skirmish, when the men have become tired and scattered, his tremendous voice, bellowing in the distance, has had the effect of a trumpet call or the arrival of a regiment of reenforcements.

"Brace up, boys," the call will go across the scattered lines, "here comes



GEN. LLOYD WHEATON.
(One of the Most Popular Commanders in the Army.)

'Old Dad,'" and then rushes into the fight the big bay horse, topped by the big, fierce man, with his black beard, and all is over but the shouting.

Enlisted men returned from service in the islands tell all sorts of little stories of Gen. Wheaton. For instance, there was the night after the landing at San Fabian. Six gunboats, says the Chicago Tribune, had gone down the coast to cover the landing of a lot of men under Gen. Wheaton, who were loaded on a couple of army transports. While the gunboats shelled the town Wheaton got his men into launches and other small boats and waited for the first chance to get ashore. Once or twice his eagerness led him to push ahead within range of the gunboats' fire, and they had to force him out and retire, much to the amusement of the men, bobbing about on the swell in their little boats. Finally the party landed, under a hot fire from the insurgents, and routed them. A few scouting pickets had been thrown out and all arrangements made for guarding against a night attack. Gen. Wheaton started to turn in, with the idea of catching a few hours' sleep. He and his orderly went into the native house on the square and opened the door leading into the corner room. As they did so a couple of privates, who had already lain down to sleep on the floor, rose speedily, came to attention, saluted and started to leave the room.

"Here you!" roared "Old Dad," in his terrifying voice, "you boys need sleep just as much as I do. Lie down again and go to sleep."

So the commanding general and a couple of privates went to sleep side by side on the floor. But early in the morning, before any one else was awake, Gen. Wheaton got up and went out all alone on a reconnoitering tour. He closed the door, and it locked behind him with a spring lock. Several times during the night struggles had come pounding on the door, and had been ordered away by the somewhat sulphuric orderly. It happened that the orderly had just got into a sound sleep when the general returned and knocked for admittance. The orderly, who had no idea that Gen. Wheaton had gone out, woke up hot and angry.

With all the resources of his picturesque vocabulary he cursed the man who had disturbed him and ordered him to go away under awful penalties. "Now, you clear out of here and let us sleep, or I'll come out and kick your head off!" he roared.

"All right, sergeant," sounded the deep voice of "Old Dad," "all right, I'll clear out. But won't you please let me have my field glasses first?"

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. FORSE, ED... PROPRIETOR

HOW TO LIMIT SPEED.

All through the State are to be heard complaints of the reckless driving of automobiles. Plainfield has had an ordinance regulating their speed for over a year and various other municipal bodies have followed that example. Arrests have been made and the chauffeurs fined. Despite all these attempts to regulate the speed of these horseless vehicles, it really looks as if the only effective way to stop these wild rides will be to regulate their manufacture.

There is no rational use, except for racing purposes on a track, of a machine that will run faster than twenty miles an hour. When these gasolene machines are built so that they cannot be run any faster than that speed, the question of regulating that whirlwind traffic will be far nearer a solution. Just so long as these machines are made capable of moving at a faster speed, the owners are going to see that the limit is reached. Therefore, reduce the limit and the speed is bound to be reduced.

It may seem a trifle impractical to talk of forbidding the manufacture of automobiles going at a faster rate than twenty miles an hour. Something, however, must be done or else this will soon be a race of cripples and disabled people. An agreement reached by all the manufacturers would answer the purpose well and would mean no loss to those who are constructing these machines.

While there are hundreds of owners of automobiles in New Jersey who possess common sense and utilize it in the direction of their machines, there are a few who insist upon getting the full capacity of the vehicle. Therefore, the innocent will have to suffer with the guilty and something must be done to prevent people riding in miniature railroad trains on the public highways.

PLAINFIELD'S CHARITIES.

In another column will be found some facts concerning Plainfield's charities, prepared by Miss S. M. VanHoekerck, general secretary of the Organized Aid Association. They will be of interest to every citizen of Plainfield who is at all interested in any movement in behalf of charity.

For most Plainfield people, the winter has been a prosperous one. There has been plenty of work, many business houses have had more than they could possibly do and prosperity has been the rule rather than the exception. The rise in the price of commodities has made it more expensive to live and enjoy the luxuries of life. Nevertheless, the people have had more money to spend and more to give to charity.

While there is by no means as much real poverty in Plainfield today as there was a few years ago, the summer begins with more varied demands on the charitable pocketbook than for some seasons past. There are the regularly established charities, which must always be cared for each month after month and which have long ago demonstrated their usefulness to the community. Included in this list is the Muhlenberg Hospital, the Plainfield Relief Association and the Children's Home. Now that the summer season is here, the babies' camp of the City Union of King's Daughters demands attention. Of a somewhat similar nature are the free trolley rides arranged by the Relief Association. Then there is the new fresh air camp at Netherwood under the charge of Miss Sarah Curry. The Westfield Fresh Air camp still continues and will probably look to Plainfield for some assistance.

All these charities are good ones and deserving of assistance. Of course, the local ones should be given the first attention and the older institutions should receive their regular support, not allowing the interest in the new ones to reduce the size of the contributions to the old. There is wealth enough in Plainfield, if properly divided, to support them all.

THE TAX RATE.

Despite all that has been said regarding the chances of an increase in the city tax rate this year, we are able to state with authority that the tax rate in Plainfield for the coming year will not be over 2.50. At present the rate is 2.46, and it may not be necessary to advance it even a single point.

While the regular running expenses of the city have seen no appreciable increase, there have been several emergency appropriations, including that for the small-pox campaign, which were not counted on but which, it was feared, would run up the tax rate. Thanks, however, to the workings of the Martin act, the city has been able to collect certain delinquent taxes, which have helped to swell the city treasury and which were not anticipated. These collections will, in a large measure, meet any additional appropriations and so the tax rate will be able to remain where it is.

With all this talk about consolidation, it is pleasant to note this satisfactory state of affairs in the city of Plainfield. It will have its effect in strengthening the confidence of certain boroughites in the men who are at the head of the city government.

The average tax-payer, who does not stop to think on the subject, has an idea that the city should give all possible municipal advantages without any increase in the tax rate. When the people want the good things of life, they must pay for them. It is best, however, to see that the price paid is not outrageous and that the return made is equivalent. Plainfield taxes are by no means high, when all the advantages offered are taken into consideration. Plainfield possesses one of the best city governments in New Jersey and the actual amount of taxes paid is small when compared with cities of its size and advantages.

RESIGNATION OF REV. DR. YERKES.

The men who have occupied the pulpits of prominent churches and whose lives and teachings have helped to mold the moral and religious thought of the community are always objects of the deepest interest, and changes that affect them and the churches must be regarded as of vital importance.

The voluntary resignation Sunday from the First Baptist church of Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes after a pastorate of thirty-nine years has produced a profound impression and cannot but be looked upon with sadness by his own people, a large part of whom have never known any other pastor. That his health has made this step necessary must be a matter of regret to all who have known and loved him for Dr. Yerkes' life has been one to command the respect and affection of the whole community.

Following the resignation of Rev. E. M. Rodman from the Grace Episcopal church after a rectorship of thirty-two years and the call to the Brick church, New York, of Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, after serving the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church for eighteen years, this change in the First Baptist church will be looked upon by the thoughtful with prayerful solicitude. Such long pastorates tell a tale of worth in both pastor and people, and of a strong conservative element that has not sought for change merely from a desire for something new. This element will be the best guarantee for the future well being of these churches and their future leaders.

For Dr. Yerkes there can be nothing but the kindest wishes and the hope that his life may be spared to the church and community for many years.

LITERARY.

"The growing interest in mosquito extermination" is impressively set forth by Dr. L. O. Howard in a prefatory note which he has contributed to an article in the July Century by Henry Clay Weeks, entitled "A Campaign Against the Mosquito," which records the practical operations which have been set on foot at Oyster Bay, Long Island, not far from the summer residence of President Roosevelt. Dr. Howard gives an extensive list of towns and cities throughout the country which have taken up anti-mosquito work in an energetic manner, and states that his correspondence on the subject, as entomologist of the Department of Agriculture, has been "little less than enormous."

DEEDS RECORDED.

Local Deeds Filed at Office of the County Clerk at Elizabeth.

The following local real estate conveyances were recorded at Elizabeth last week:

Florrel Wormser et ux to Belle Lamb, 60 ft on n s line of Sandford ave, 874 ft n w of Front st, $1; Providence Co Sav Bank to Geo. T. Paine, on n line of North ave, $500; First National Bank of Plainfield, to Frank A. Pope, tract corner of Prospect ave and E Ninth st, $1; Philip Cotirell to Sarah Yetin, on s e line of E Third st, 365 ft w of Berckman st, $1; Elizabeth Reed and hus to Eva W. Greene, on s w line of Lee pl, 140 ft s e of South ave, $1; Calvin H. Rugg et ux to Morris Jaques, 30 ft on Third st corner of Wilson av, $1; Helen J. Cadmus to Anna I. B. Laing, on center of Washington st, corner of Sixth st, $1.

Income doesn't make prosperity if the expenses are greater. Did you ever figure out what sickness costs you per year; doctors' bills, medicine bills, etc., etc., to say nothing of the suffering. Rheumatism strikes like a knife in the back if left alone; with Perry Davis' Painkiller, the terrors of this disease are headed off. Painkiller relieves muscular cramps, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica. 25 and 50 cent bottles.

Dance at Hillside Club.

A small dance arranged by Mrs. Lucius Ryce was given at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse last Friday evening. Pound, of New York, furnished the music.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it promptly, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or any other. Write us a postal, or a letter, or a telegram, or a telephone call, or a cablegram, or a wireless message, or a smoke signal, or a carrier pigeon, or a messenger boy, or a trolley car, or a locomotive, or a steamship, or a sailing vessel, or a canal boat, or a mule team, or a push cart, or a wheelbarrow, or a bicycle, or a motor cycle, or a horseback rider, or a pedestrian, or a kite, or a balloon, or a parachute, or a flying machine, or a submarine boat, or a diving bell, or a fish horn, or a tin can, or a megaphone, or a phonograph, or a graphophone, or a kinetoscope, or a cinematograph, or a biograph, or a telegraph, or a telephone

HOPES SCORED WINNING RUN IN LAST INNING WITH TWO OUT

Question of Leadership in City Baseball League Settled in Game Between Hope Y. M. A. and St. Marys.

Y. M. C. A. DEFEATED SAFE WORKS.

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE WITNESSED THE HOPE-ST. MARYS GAME AND WENT WILD WITH ENTHUSIASM.

Fine Game Between Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works Which Remained Undecided Until Y. M. C. A. Boys Scored Winning Run in the Last Inning—Hope Y. M. A. Now Leads in League With St. Marys and Y. M. C. A. Tied for Second Place—The Games in Detail.

STANDING IN CITY LEAGUE.

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Hope Y. M. A.	3	1	.750
St. Marys	2	2	.500
Y. M. C. A.	2	2	.500
Safe Works	1	3	.250

RESULTS OF LEAGUE GAMES.

Hope Y. M. A., 5; St. Marys, 4.
Y. M. C. A., 7; Safe Works, 6.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAMES.

St. Marys vs. Y. M. C. A. on St. Marys Grounds.
Hope Y. M. A. vs. Safe Works on Hope Common.

Two spectacular games, replete with exciting features, marked the passage of Saturday in the City Baseball League. Before nearly three thousand people, Hope Y. M. A. took the lead from St. Marys in a game that stirred the heart of the most emotionless. An equally exciting game landed Y. M. C. A. tie for second place and dropped the Safe Works back to the bottom of the list. It was baseball from start to finish with the winning run made in both cases in the last inning. Talk about the National game being dead in Plainfield. The enthusiasm of Saturday equalled that of the palmest days of the old Crescents. But to go into details.

HOPES GREAT DAY.

With two men out and the score standing 4 to 4 in the last inning, the Hope Y. M. A. team secured a run which won for it the game played with the St. Mary team on the formers' grounds, Saturday afternoon. From the first to the last inning it was one of the cleanest, snappiest games ever seen on a local diamond, the ultimate result being in doubt until the finish. A crowd of 3,000 people witnessed the contest.

The St. Mary team took the bat first and was retired with a cipher. Roseberry reached first on a sharp slam, stole second and third and reached home on Overton's hit. Overton reached third by stealing and came home on a sacrifice. Neither side scored until the third when Casey was hit and given his first. Lederer was also hit and advanced Casey to second; reached third on a steal and scored on a hit. The side was retired before any more circled the bases.

The fourth and fifth innings passed quickly, mainly through strike-outs without a run, but in the sixth Casey and Lederer followed each other with singles and Taylor smashed out a three bagger, bringing both home and making the score 3 to 2 in St. Marys favor. Mack and Keefe flied to Martin and Barry was put out a first, ending the inning with Taylor still on third.

Beginning with Gordon when Hope took the bat, four hits in succession advanced him and Montross scored until Gordon scored. A fifth hit by Munro sent Montross across the plate, but the former started for second which Hardfelder had not left. He was caught by a quick throw from Barry to Winn before he could get back. The other two died on bases. Casey got to first in the eighth on balls and stole second. Lederer drove a difficult grounder to Martin, who got it but threw wild to Feiring and sent Casey home. Lederer failed to score as Taylor, Mack and Keefe were retired without making a hit. The eighth ended with the score a tie and in the ninth with Lederer on third, the St. Mary's would have gone ahead but for Martin's phenomenal one-hand catch of Barry's hot fly. Sullivan was caught between second and third ending St. Mary's chances.

With a determination to break the tie, Munro took the bat in the ninth but died at first. Roseberry took his base on balls, stole second and reached third on Overton's single. Martin drove a grounder to Mack who fumbled but sent it to Winn, only to have the latter drop it, giving Martin his base and letting Roseberry in with the winning run.

Barring the few errors made at intervals, every member of both teams played faultlessly, not a shade of superiority being displayed by either. Montross and Keefe both pitched their "heads off," each striking six men out and allowing six hits, only one of which was more than a single. Martin's error in the eighth was a bad play, but he more than made up for it by his catch in the ninth, having to leap in the air for it and bringing it down with his left hand. Other good plays were made by Munro, Montross, Lederer and Casey.

The summary:

HOPES.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, lf	1	0	2	1	0
Overton, cf	1	1	1	1	0
Martin, ss	0	0	3	4	1
Hewitt, 2b	0	0	3	3	1
Gordon, rf	1	1	0	0	0
Montross, p	1	1	2	3	0
Feiring, 1b	0	1	11	1	0
Hartfelder, c	0	1	6	3	0
Munro, 3b	0	1	0	4	0
	3	6	27	19	2

ST. MARY'S.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Sullivan, 3b	0	0	2	2	2
Winn, 1b	0	2	9	0	2
Keene, 2b	0	0	0	1	0
Casey, rf	2	1	3	0	0
Lederer, cf	1	1	1	0	0
Taylor, lf	0	1	3	0	1
Mack, ss	0	0	2	3	0
Keefe, p	1	1	0	2	0
Barry, c	0	0	7	1	0
	4	6	*26	9	5

*Two out when winning run was scored.

Score by innings:

Hope	2	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	—	5
St. Mary	0	0	1	0	0	2	1	0	—	4

Stolen bases—Roseberry (4), Martin, Gordon, Montross, Munro, Winn (2), Casey, Lederer (2), Keefe (2). Two-base hit—Casey. Three-base hit—Taylor. Bases on balls—Off Keefe, 3; off Montross, 1. Hit by pitched ball—Casey, Lederer, Roseberry, Overton, Munro. Struck out—By Keefe, 6; by Montross, 6. Umpires—Brown and Townley. Scorer—H. C. Brose. Attendance—3,000.

Y. M. C. A.'S WIN.

Y. M. C. A. fattened its percentage column Saturday when the association team defeated Safe Works on St. Marys rgounds, by the score of 7 to 6. It was anybody's game up to the very close, the winning run having been made in the last half of the ninth.

Y. M. C. A. made a brilliant attempt to make a presentation of the game to their opponents in the first half of the ninth and almost succeeded. This was probably in return for the generosity of the Safe Works in the fifth when errors in the field after two men were out gave Y. M. C. A. a clean gift of five runs.

At the outset the game promised to be clean and close throughout. Consecutive singles by Burns and Cooney, with sharp base running and an error in the field netted Safe Works two runs in the third. Bolsterle's three-bagger Symons fumbled, and Hand's single were responsible for Y. M. C. A.'s tally in the fourth.

With the score two to one in favor of Safe Works, Y. M. C. A. in the fifth after two men were out, piled up five runs. Barnes flied out to Franklin, Moore fanned, then Booth muffed Geo. Dupee's fly and the fun began. R. Schoonmaker hit to short. A throw wild brought him as far as third and Dupee home. Bolsterle hit safe, scoring Schoonmaker, stole second, and tallied on Egan's double. Hand followed with a safe slash, sent Egan to third, stole second, and both galloped home on George Schoonmaker's single. Then Charlie Dupee fanned leaving Schoonmaker on third; score 6 to 2.

Consecutive doubles by Jackson and Franklin gave Safe Works a score in the eighth. In the first half of the ninth Burns came up and hit to left. Hand muffed, and Burns got to second on Cooney's safe one. Jackson followed with a hot grounder to first, Egan fumbled and threw wild to Moore, bringing Cooney and Burns in and allowing Jackson to make the whole circuit and tie the score.

Moore came to bat in the last half and laced out a single, stole second, went to third on Geo. Dupee's safe slam and scored with the winning run on R. Schoonmaker's base hit.

Both sides gave a kaleidoscopic exhibition of weird playing at times. Fielding was ragged and Y. M. C. A. lost some grand opportunities for stolen bases. Dupee had slightly the better of the pitching battle, allowing only seven hits to Burns' twelve. Burns, however, struck out eleven men to Dupee's six. Dupee put three strikes on one other man with which he is not credited, an assist being given to Moore.

The detailed summary follows:

Y. M. C. A.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
R. Sch'nmak'r, ss	1	1	1	3	2
Bolsterle, 2b	2	2	4	3	1
Egan, 1b	1	1	11	0	1
Hand, lf	1	3	1	0	2
G. Sch'nmak'r, 3b	0	1	0	0	0
C. Dupee, rf	0	0	2	0	0
Pond, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Barnes, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Ennis, cf	0	0	0	0	0
Moore, c	1	2	6	3	0
G. Dupee, p	1	1	0	0	1
	7	12	27	9	7

SAFE WORKS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b	2	2	1	0	0
Jackson, lf	2	1	0	0	0
Franklin, cf	0	1	2	0	0
Allen, c	0	0	11	4	0
Enwright, 2b	0	0	4	0	4
Symons, 1b	0	1	4	0	1
Siegfried, ss	0	1	2	1	1
Burns, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Burns, p	2	1	0	0	2
	6	7	24	7	4

Score by Innings:

Y. M. C. A.	0	0	0	1	5	0	0	1	—	7
Safe Works	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	—	3

Bases on balls—Dupee, 1. Two-base hits—Jackson, Franklin, Egan, Bolsterle. Double plays—Bolsterle to Egan. Struck out—By Burns, 11; by Dupee, 6. Earned runs—Y. M. C. A., 2; Safe Works, 1. Time of game—1 hour and 30 minutes. Umpires—Bodine and Young. Scorer—R. S. Lane. Attendance, 600.

DEATH OF M. D. CUSHING.

Son of Veteran Newspaper Publisher Died at Tampa, Fla.

Word has been received in this city from Tampa, Fla., of the sudden death of Monroe D. Cushing, youngest son of Milton F. Cushing, who published the Plainfield Union. He was a brother of Mrs. Wm. H. Hand, of East Second street, and was a prominent Free Mason. At the time of his death he was editor of a weekly paper at Tampa. He was forty-six years old and leaves a widow.

On account of the stringent rules of the State, the body cannot be removed from Tampa at present, but will be temporarily interred. In the fall it will probably be brought to this city and placed beside the remains of the father in the North Plainfield cemetery.

New Deacon Ordained.

At the morning session of Trinity Reformed church yesterday, R. B. Force was ordained and installed as a deacon of the church, to serve the unexpired term of E. E. Anthony, who removed from the city. The service was in charge of the pastor, Dr. Schenck, and was particularly impressive.

Damage to 'Phone Wires.

Manager C. W. Runyon and the linemen of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company have been kept busy lately repairing breaks in the various lines about the city, caused by high winds and falling trees.

Save the Children.

Statistics will prove that a large percentage of deaths among children may be traced to complications arising from the early souring of milk by bacteria. Cholera Infantum is the most fatal disease of infancy, and common, especially with bottle-fed infants. Perry Davis' Painkiller in the emergency is the best remedy and saves many a child's life while the doctor is coming. 25 and 50c. bottles.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

WEEKLY PLAY FOR TROPHIES

But Threatening Rain Kept Some Away From the Local Golf Links Saturday.

NO VERY LOW SCORES.

A Group of Competitions at the Hillside Saw Winners in A. L. Wills, Miss E. Tracy, Evarts Tracy, Miss G. Kaufman and D. H. Barrows —Nichols and Wells at Park.

With a promise of rain, that was never kept, Saturday was not an ideal day for the local golfacs. The result was that none of the competitions at the local clubs were crowded. Several other events, scheduled for the afternoon, also served to keep away a number. Those who did turn out did nothing remarkable as the scores turned in bear evidence. Both courses were a trifle slow while the damp east wind seemed to affect the players.

Up at the Hillside Club, honors went to Arthur L. Wills, Miss Edith Tracy, Evarts Tracy, Miss Gladys Kaufman and R. H. Barrows. Over on the Park links, Charles L. Nichols and Henry C. Wells divided the initial honors.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

A fair field braved the threatening rain and turned out for the weekly competition for the President's cup on the links of the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon. None of the scored, but Charles L. Nichols, who divided first honors for the afternoon with Henry C. Wells, became an important factor in the contest. He is now third. W. de la R. Anderson played good golf and scored a 96 gross.

The scores for the day, better than 100, were:

	G	H	N
Chas. L. Nichols	114	30	84
Henry C. Wells	114	30	84
W. de la R. Anderson	96	10	86
S. St. John McCutchen	106	17	89
N. A. Miller	119	29	90
Charles E. Murray	133	29	94
Ralph Hallock	124	30	94
Leslie Hallock	115	19	96

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
S. St. J. McCutchen	8
Charles B. Morse	7½
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Charles A. Reed	4
Dr. A. W. Anderson	3
Henry C. Wells	2½
Arthur H. Serrell	2
Allan B. Laing	2
William R. Richards	2
Frank Rogers	2
Samuel Townsend	1
W. de La R. Anderson	1
J. C. Barcalow	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
Charles E. Murray	½

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The threatening weather Saturday had a tendency to keep many golf enthusiasts away from the Hillside Tennis Golf Club course, but there were several interesting events that attracted a goodly number of entries which combined to make up a programme of pleasure and profit.

In the morning there were two events, the weekly competition for the Boys' cup and the second play for the Ackerman cup for women. Arthur L. Wills won first honors for the Boys' cup, while Arthur D. Peterson, who with Gordon Abbott was tied for first position, finished second thereby giving him the lead.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows: Arthur L. Wills, 103, 30—73; Arthur D. Peterson, 99, 18—81; Kerro Knox, 99, 11—88; Harold Brown, 120, 30—90; Howard G. Lapsley, 115, 23—93; J. C. Martin, 152, 36—116.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	8
Gordon Abbott	6
Kerro Knox	6
N. P. Rogers, Jr	5
W. T. Glenney	5
Wickham Corwin	4½
Arthur L. Wills	3
J. T. Scott, Jr	3
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

The second event of the morning, second play for the Ackerman cup, did not bring out a large number of contestants, only four making the round of the course. Miss Edith Tracy scored the preliminary win for the cup.

The scores for this cup are as follows: Miss Edith Tracy, 101, 12—89; Miss Maude VanBoskerck, 111, 12—99; Miss Margaret Goddard, 125, 13—113; Miss May Holly, 142, 34—118.

The weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup attracted an even ten contestants. Evarts Tracy won the first honors; H. D. Hibbard, F. A. Clark and S. A. Cruikshank tied for second lowest score. H. F. Baker still holds the lead.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G	H.	N.
Evarts Tracy	107	25	82
F. A. Clark	101	14	87
H. D. Hibbard	105	18	87
S. A. Cruikshank	107	20	87
Olaf Sangstad	100	12	88
Walter Peterson	100	12	88
E. T. Newkirk	109	18	91
S. H. Patterson	120	27	93
Howard C. Tracy	114	20	94
Jan vanHeerwarden	112	15	97
Charles A. Stover	121	22	99

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	8½
Evarts Tracy	4
D. H. Barrows	3½
Charles Stover	3
Frank O. Reinhart	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
W. L. Glenney	3
Robert Abbott	3
E. T. Newkirk	2½
G. H. Squires	2
R. F. Murray	2
Dr. W. R. Richards	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
F. A. Clark	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
C. W. Abbott	½
B. VanD. Hedges	½

Another interesting event of the afternoon was the approaching and putting contest, mixed couples, for the Schoonmaker cup. Miss Gladys Kaufman and Dudley H. Barrows won the event. Play will continue for this cup during June and August and at the end of August the eight winners will play off

The scores in this event were as follows:

Miss Gladys Kaufman and Dudley H. Barrows, 8; Miss May Evans and Jan vanHeerwarden, 9; Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, 9; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, 9; Mrs. J. R. Blake and C. W. Abbott, 9; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore, 10; Miss Edna Goddard and E. A. Pinto, 10; Miss Gilmore and E. H. Ladd, Jr., 10.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

INCREASED MEMBERSHIP.

Limit to Active List of Hillside Club Raised to Three Hundred.

At a meeting of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, held Saturday, the active list was increased from 275 to 300. At a meeting of the trustees afterward the following active members were elected: Leighton Calkins, W. T. Maxwell, Julius E. Erickson, Walter E. Leaman, Augustus V. Healy, Non-resident, H. Duncan Bulkley; associate, Mrs. Leighton Calkins and Miss Helen Cruikshank.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Durrin, of Loganston, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Cgugp is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

Unity's Election.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will elect officers at the meeting to be held next week.

DIED.

GLENNY—In Plainfield, N. J., on Wednesday, June 11, 1902, Marion, daughter of Walter L. C. and Eva L. Glenny.

COSGROVE—On Tuesday, June 10, Bernett Cosgrove, aged 77 years.

PHILLIPS—On Thursday, June 12, 1902, Frances E., daughter of Henry R. and H. Helen Phillips, in her 21st year.

DIETRICH—Saturday, June 14, 1902, Angie, daughter of the late Martin and Sarah A. Dietrich.

TERRY—At Peconic, L. I., on Sunday, June 15, 1902, Anna F., widow of Alfred Terry, aged 44 years.

KARL—At Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1902, Frederick Karl, in his 76th year.

VOEHL—In this city, June 14, 1902, George E., son of George and Della Voehl, aged 18 years, 7 months and 4 days.

CONLEY—In North Plainfield, Monday, June 16, 1902, Mrs. Sarah A. Conley, aged 72 years, 10 months and 17 days.

SMITH—On Tuesday, June 17, 1902, John H. Smith, son of the late August and Matilda Smith, aged 31 years, 5 months and 22 days.

Lunched at the Netherwood.

Chas. T. Kilhorne, of Orange, N. J., a member of the N. Y. stock exchange, brought a party of nine boys of the Orange Y. M. C. A. to lunch at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR UNION

DELEGATES WILL GO TO BELVIDERE TOGETHER SATURDAY.

Train Leaves Plainfield at 9:35—Union County Headquarters at the Belvidere House.

A special train will carry the Union county delegates to the Congressional convention to be held at Belvidere, Warren county, Saturday. This train will leave Elizabeth at 9:15 o'clock in the morning and Plainfield at 9:35 o'clock. It will make the necessary stops to pick up delegates. The train will be in charge of Assistant Postmaster James White, of Elizabeth, and tickets will be on sale at the various stations. The round trip rate from Plainfield will be $2.16.

The train will make close connections at Phillipsburg, where the Morris county delegates will meet the Union county representatives. The Union county people will be accompanied by Drake's band, of Elizabeth.

The representatives from Union county will stop at the Belvidere House, while the Warren county delegates will put up at the Pequest House and the Morris county delegates will stop at the American House, where the headquarters will be located. The convention will be held in the Opera House and everything is now being prepared for the reception of the delegates.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE by our new invention. Only those born deaf need despair.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE.

Answer.—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will send you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most prominent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

—Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

Now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid; rapid advancement; old established house; grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent, lucrative, liberal income and future. Now, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS, New Haven, Conn.

23 Church St.,

CANADA AND STATES WERE HAPPILY ALLIED

Canadian Bride and American Groom Prettily Wedded at a West End Home.

FLORAL DECORATIONS.

BOTH YOUNG PEOPLE ARE REGULAR ATTENDANTS AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Miss Cenena McKay Became the Wife of Frank Pierce Sheppard at Latter's Home June 11. —A Hundred Guests Present.

In the presence of one hundred guests from many places, Miss Cenena McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay, of Inverhuron, Ontario, Canada, was united in marriage, June 11, to Frank Pierce Sheppard. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, of which both young people are members, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Sheppard, of West Fifth street.

Miss McKay was attended by Miss Katherine Cannon, of Glen Gardner, who acted as maid-of-honor. Her gown was of Persian lawn and she carried pink roses. The bride's gown was a white chiffon trimmed with lace. She held a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The groom was attended by Robert D. Eick, of this city.

As the party entered the parlor, which had been lavishly decorated with pink and white roses, the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Sharp. As the words were pronounced which made them man and wife the bride and groom stood beneath a beautiful bower of crimson ramblers.

Following the ceremony the guests were seated in the dining room which had been tastefully trimmed in red and green and an elaborate supper was served. In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard were the recipients of many warm congratulations. They left later in the evening for a wedding trip in upper New York State after which they will return and make their home in New York city. The groom is connected with a large shoe concern in the metropolis.

Many pretty gifts were extended the young couple consisting of silverware, pictures, furniture and bric-a-brac. The groom's fellow employes presented him with a dining room set and his employer a substantial check.

Among the guests present were many from New York, Brooklyn, Staten, Bethlehem, New Brunswick, Montclair and Glen Gardner.

A HUGE SUCCESS.

Is the Reading's New Plan of Hourly Service.

The hourly trains between New York and Philadelphia via the New Jersey Central have not only proven a great success, but have met the demands of the traveling public in every instance. Hourly trains have indeed an up-to-date move, and when the schedule is fast, the stops few, and the time so convenient to remember, (a train every hour and on the hour) there is no wonder at the hit they made. The New Jersey Central is trap rock ballasted, the rails are new and heavy, the trains are the latest models, lighted by gas, the aisles carpeted, the attendants courteous, hard coal is used exclusively, hence no dust, cinders or smoke. Every Philadelphia train has a modern Pullman attached, and such conveniences serve to make the New Jersey Central the model railroad of the world. If you want time tables or other information, write to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New York.

NOT COMING HERE.

W. J. Butterfield Has Changed His Mind Regarding Music Hall—Is Looking for Another Purchaser.

Walter J. Butterfield, the theatrical man, who had planned to make extensive alterations in Music Hall and open the same next fall, has changed his mind and now he does not want to come to Plainfield. He is now looking for some one to take the property off his hands and thus give him a chance to get the $1,000 he paid to William M. Stillman. It is said that Mr. Butterfield has made plans to go to Montreal and thinks Plainfield is too far away from his circuit.

If the work of improving the hall, according to the proposed plans, is started at once it could not be completed in time to open the hall September 1. It is said that three months would be required for the work.

Action on Consolidation.

At the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, Friday evening, June 27, final action on consolidation with Panghanghanghsingo Tribe, No. 196, will be taken.

JUNIORS' CLOSING EXERCISES

HELD AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11.

Pleasant Programme Given by These Little Endeavorers at Last Meeting.

The closing exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church were held Wednesday June 11, at the church and proved to be an interesting and enjoyable affair. There was a good attendance of members and friends.

After the opening exercises, including the singing of a hymn, "Abide With Me Ever," and a prayer, the programme was presented. The first number was a recitation, "The Alder by the River," by Miss May Porter, followed with another recitation, "A Girl's Essay on Boys," by Miss Elsie Tier.

There was a vocal selection by the Misses Edna Cole, Ida May Tier, Nettie Robinson, Helen Smith and May Force, followed with a recitation, "The Spectacles," by Miss Edna Cole. A pleasing piano solo was given by Miss Nettie Robinson, and Miss Ethel Lorton rendered "The Castle Square" on the piano.

"The Doll's Dinner" was the subject of a recitation by Miss Helen Smith, and Harold Schenck recited "The Crow's Children." This was followed with a piano solo, "Tyrolienne," by Fred Smith. After a vocal solo by Miss Anna Randall, Miss Bessie Randall recited "A Summer Day in Church." Another recitation by Miss Adelaide Cole and a piano duet by Miss Lucy Coriell and Miss Hattie Randall brought the programme to a close, and refreshments were served. After playing a few games and enjoying a social time the happy affair terminated.

The society now numbers 130 members, an increase of thirty over last year. Throughout the year there has been a large attendance at the weekly meetings. The very efficient officers are as follows: Superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier; president, F. E. Smith, Jr.; secretary, Miss Ida Tier; treasurer, Miss Bessie Randall.

TROLLEY UP IN WARREN

NEW COMPANY PREPARES TO WORK FROM THAT PART OF JERSEY.

Hay Syndicate, Rival of the Johnson Syndicate, is Said to be Back of the Movement.

Another phase in the trolley situation in this State has been introduced by the incorporation of the Easton and Washington Traction Company, which has just secured a charter from Secretary of State B. D. Dickinson.

The new company proposes to build an electric road from Washington to Phillipsburg and from Washington to Hackettstown. Another line is to run from Washington to Belvidere by way of Oxford, Buttzville and Bridgeville and from Washington to New Hampton, Junction, Glen Gardner, High Bridge and Clinton. Washington is to be the central point.

The system proposed will have a trackage of about forty-five miles, and will cost more than a million dollars to build and equip. The capital of the company is $100,000, which will be increased as fast as needed.

The Hay syndicate, rivals of the Johnson syndicate, are back of the movement, and several well-known business men of Easton, Phillipsburg and Washington are associated with them.

The Hay syndicate owns a road from Easton to Nazareth, in Northampton county, Pa., where it is a rival of the Johnson syndicate. Passengers are carried the ten miles between the two places for a nickel.

It is now said to be the ultimate intention of the Hay syndicate to carry the Hunterdon county lines southward toward Trenton, and they may eventually reach here. It is also possible that the Johnson syndicate will buy the roads when completed.

Gold Ring From Klondyke.

Jerry Foss, of Park avenue, has received from a friend, now a miner near Dawson City, Alaska, a gold ring of most unique design. It was originally a nugget of no mean size which had been deftly carved in its rough state yet finished off in a most attractive manner. The work was done by the miner in his leisure moments at night. It is a valuable ornament and is prized highly by the owner.

Class Sets Good Example.

Class No. 6, of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, has contributed $4.16 through The Daily Press, to the King's Daughters baby camp fund, to be used in caring for the sick babies of those persons unable to send them away to the mountains this summer. This is an example that might very easily be taken up by other Sunday-school classes and a goodly sum realized for this very worthy object.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE THIRTY YEARS OLD

That Event Was Properly Celebrated by Knights of Pythias Last Evening.

GAVE A PROGRAMME.

PERSEVERANCE AND ITS FRIENDS MADE AN EVENING OF IT.

Programme Lasted Until After Midnight and Then the Guests Were Served With Refreshments—Those Who Took Part.

Thirty years of existence as a fraternal organization were completed by Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last evening. In honor of the event the good and welfare committee entertained 200 members and friends with a programme which continued without cessation from 9 o'clock until after midnight. It was one of the best entertainments Perseverance has yet conducted.

Under the auspices of Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon the numbers were given as follows: Banjo-mandolin selections by Joseph Loughead; violin duets by R. Wilson Derby and Ernest Higham; vocal selections, "I've a Longing in My Heart For You, Louise," by Thomas Muir and "Just Plain Folks" by Elmer D. Cutting, with illustrations; colored views of the Pan-American exposition by William Schorb; buck and wing and shuffle dancing by Tony Lucardi and Orrin Bowers; and an Ethiopian sketch entitled, "Unappreciated Talent" by M. D. Sweeney and B. C. Firstbrook.

A special feature was the appearance of Joseph Butler and Theodore Owens, of Elizabeth, expert exponents of "rag time" ditties. Both artists are possessed of excellent voices which when blended in the popular "coon" style with guitar accompaniment, the melody was such as to call forth tumultuous applause.

On completion of the programme, Chancellor W. Warnock served refreshments and during their disposal informal sociability reigned. The members of the lodge devoted themselves to discussing the years it has rounded out and to renewing old acquaintances.

Of the charter members when Perseverance was organized in 1872, but two are now living and unfortunately neither was able to be present last evening. They are John R. McCall, of Long Island City, a former well known engineer on the New Jersey Central, and Julius Cantorwitz, of Philadelphia. The lodge now embraces nearly 300 members making it the largest of any in the city. It also comprises Goodwill Lodge, of Scotch Plains, with which it was merged some time ago.

The committee in charge last evening consisted of Samuel Robinson, chairman, William N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Thomas Muir and Jacob Blimm, Jr.

POPULAR YOUNG WOMAN DEAD

MISS FRANCES PHILLIPS PASSED AWAY THURSDAY EVENING.

Had Been Ill for Some Time, But Physicians Had Hoped for Her Recovery.

In the death of Miss Frances Phillips, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Phillips, of Rockview terrace, which occurred late Thursday, the grief-stricken family has the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. While Miss Phillips was very ill there was some hope that she might rally and baffle the disease. Her heart was steadily growing weaker, however, and this was very much against her.

Miss Phillips had been ill for a long time, commencing with pneumonia. Soon afterward a former trouble, rheumatism, developed and this spread over the entire body and finally affected the head. It was with this trouble and the heart affection that caused death. The attending physician felt hopeful almost to the end, but all the medical skill and medicine known to science failed to dispell the disease.

Miss Phillips was very popular in a large circle of friends both in the borough and this city. She was a member and attendant at the Church of the Holy Cross and frequently took an active part in the various events of interest in that parish. She was a familiar figure at the social affairs in the church as well as at the Park Golf Club, of which she was a member. She will be greatly missed by those who know her best and in the home her departure will be a sad and painful loss. She is survived by her parents and a sister, Miss Helen Phillips.

The funeral services will be held from the residence of her parents, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MILFORD'S OLDEST CITIZEN

IS THE FATHER OF S. C. PECK, ONE OF PLAINFIELD'S OLDEST MERCHANTS.

Lives at Milford, Conn., and is in the Best of Health—He is Ninety-Four Years Old.

The oldest man now living in Milford, Conn., according to the Milford Citizen, is Samuel C. Peck, father of S. C. Peck, Jr., Plainfield's well-known merchant.

This newspaper says:

"Mr. Peck is a most interesting old gentleman. He is in full possession of all his faculties, except that his hearing is a little impaired. Mr. Peck comes of a very old Milford family and, although he is now nearing the ninety-fourth anniversary of his birthday, he has a vivid recollection of many little incidents of his boyhood days when, in company with his grandfather, he used to play around the garden and in his grandfather's workshop.

"He has in his possession a very fine secretaire cabinet, made of dark cherry wood, which is in a perfect state of preservation. It is fitted with pigeon-holes, open and secret drawers, writing slope and all the conveniences pertinent to a modern writing desk. Mr. Peck takes much pride in this piece of furniture and values it very highly.

"'Well, sir, I was born in Milford on the twenty-second of June, 1808, so I will be ninety-four years old this month,' said Mr. Peck. 'I had a little bit of a cold today because I went on an electric cars to New Haven yesterday, on business. I guess the house I was born in has been pulled down. My father was born in that house, too, and he died when he was eighty-five years old.'"

Mr. Peck's health is excellent. He never has to use spectacles and is able to get about without assistance. For eight years he has enjoyed smoking and to this day his pipe is one of his best friends. During his early life Mr. Peck was greatly interested in shipbuilding and watched the progress of this work with a keen interest.

NEW FEATURE.

Will be Added to Regular Appointments at Northfield This Season.

A new feature will be added this year to the regular appointments of a Northfield season. Beginning July 1 and extending throughout the entire month, will be a Summer School of Bible Study. Daily consecutive courses will be given by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Rev. W. W. White and Rev. John Kelman.

Beside the lectures there will be opportunity for careful preparation for those who wish to derive the most benefit from the studies.

Accommodations will be provided at lowest rates in the buildings of Northfield Seminary.

Other events of the Northfield season will be:

Student Conference—June 27 to July 6.

Camp Northfield—June 26 to September 3.

General Conference for Christian Workers—August 1 to 17.

Among the speakers will be: Rev. John Kelman, Edinburgh, Rev. C. W. Gordon ("Ralph Connor"), Robert E. Speer, John R. Mott, Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Rev. F. B. Meyer, Rev. G. Whitcomb Brougher, Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson, Rev. Dr. Henry G. Weston, Henry Varley.

WEDDED AT HOME.

Miss Hattie H. Otto Became the Wife of Franklin A. Stites on Tuesday Evening.

The marriage of Miss Hattie Helen Otto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Otto, of Lee place, to Franklin Arthur Stites, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stites, of the borough, took place Tuesday evening at the home of the groom on Whitewood avenue, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, officiated.

Miss Viola Stites, a sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid while Paul Otto, a brother of the bride, was the best man. Following the wedding there was a reception and supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stites will reside on Whitewood avenue after their return from a honeymoon in New York State. They received many handsome and useful presents.

NEW QUARTERS.

J. A. Smith & Brother Have Signed Ten Year Lease for Cutter Block.

J. A. Smith & Brother, grocers, yesterday signed a ten-year lease with F. S. Cutter, executor of his mother's estate, for the entire property corner of West Front street and Exchange alley. They will put a new front into the property and throw both stores into one, besides adding the building in the rear to the store. They will take possession April 1, 1903. No expense will be spared to make it a model store.

TO SUCCEED ROBERTS.

Duke of Connaught, King's Brother, Will Become Commander-in-Chief of British Army.

There have been rumors for some time that Lord Roberts had had all he wanted of the office of commander-in-chief of the British army, but no definite statement has been made on the subject.

From one of the half-dozen men who should be able to speak authoritatively on the subject, it is learned that the rumor is not only correct, but that the date set by Lord Roberts is April, and that the king's only remaining brother, the duke of Connaught, will be the successor of the

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.
(To Be Appointed Commander in Chief of the British Army.)

hero of Kandahar in time to cut a big figure at the coronation. The late Queen Victoria could see no reason why the army should not remain in the family, and was most anxious that the duke of Connaught should succeed the aged duke of Cambridge when public sentiment demanded the retirement of the latter.

When her plans were defeated and the appointment of Lord Wolseley became necessary, she contented herself with the thought that at last her son could succeed Lord Wolseley. But Lord Roberts' capture of Cronje, and the resulting wave of popular enthusiasm, and the equally strong conviction that the war office must be reformed again, defeated the queen's wishes, and Lord Roberts was made commander-in-chief.

But the abrupt removal of Gen. Buller by Lord Roberts caused a revolution in feeling, and for the first time in his life the beloved "Bobs" heard hisses mingled with the cheers sent up in his honor whenever he appeared in public.

That was a bitter experience for a man so fond of popularity, and is said to be one of the causes of his intention to resign. Another is his discovery that he is quite unable to cut the red tape that is bound so tightly around the war office by its civilian force.

And so at last the duke of Connaught is to have his long-looked-for chance. He is a clever, kindly and popular man, who has the reputation of being a really good soldier, quite aside from his royal prestige. Then, beside, it would be quite beneath his dignity to go pottering about with reforms in the war office.

Things could go on peaceably in the good old way, and the secretary of war could manage matters in any way he chose, without interference from the military end of the office. The duke's personal popularity is thought to be great enough to overcome any popular feeling that a more brilliant, energetic and forceful man should be placed at the head of the army.

PLUCKY MISS ADAMS.

Will Tour the Country with Bernhardt and Play Romeo and Juliet in French.

Miss Maude Adams and Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will make a joint tour in "Romeo and Juliet," but the play will be given in French. According to the original arrangement Mme. Bernhardt was again to show her versatility by touring America with Miss Adams and playing Romeo in English, the entire company to speak that language, but the French actress for once found it impossible to carry out her ambitious plans. She has sent word to Mr. Grau that she must put down her English books as presenting an impossible task. Either the tour must be abandoned or "Romeo and Juliet" must be played in French. When Mr. Frohman, her manager, wrote to Miss Adams of the situation she promptly telegraphed: "I'll do it in French. Who's afraid?"

MISS MAUDE ADAMS.
(American Actress Who Will Play in French with Bernhardt.)

CHEMISTRY AND THE METALS.

The Composite Parts of Each Kind of Ore Are Now Very Easily Ascertained.

The chemical laboratory is the workshop of the modern magician, and in it are wrought wonders which not so very long ago would have been regarded as miraculous. In fact, though chemistry is very ancient and has been called the mother of sciences, it had little more than an experimental status at the beginning of the present century. Since then its growth has revolutionized human knowledge, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Take the subject of metals, for instance. At the beginning of this century the known methods for separating metals from their ores were purely experimental, not being founded upon any exact knowledge. Now, on the other hand, the composition of each kind of ore can be readily ascertained, and so it may be calculated to a certainty just what proportions of ore flux and fuel should be mixed together in order to secure the best results.

Next comes the problem of utilizing these metals for commercial purposes, and in each case chemistry affords the solution of all difficulties.

Modern steel is a chemical art. All improvements in the manufacture of steel, for example, have their origin in chemical knowledge. In order to find out how to make good steel, it is necessary to know in what elements steel differs from iron, different kinds of steel, and from this knowledge the metallurgist has had to work up. And this is only one illustration among a great number.

A DUCK-HUNTING ENGINE.

Locomotive on a Southern Railway That Provided Game Dinners for the Train Crew.

Said a railroad engineer a day or two ago: "The average man has no idea how many animals and birds are killed every year by the cars. If you will walk along a railroad you will see toads, frogs and snakes almost every mile that have been cut in two by the engine.

"But these are not the only forms of animal life that suffer. I have run down woodchucks, raccoons, squirrels, hedgehogs and nearly every other sort of small animal. Once I saw a ruffed grouse sitting on the track, just as the birds will sometimes sit in front of a wagon on the highway. It waited and did not seem at all afraid. When at last the engine did get up the engine was so close that it struck the bird, tossed it to one side, dead.

"But the strangest experiences I ever had were in the south," continued the engineer, according to the New York Times. "I was running an engine on the Queen & Crescent road, which goes through Lake Pontchartrain on a long trestle. Ducks and other water fowl were numerous on the lake and the sight of a headlight seemed to attract them, for as the light in a lighthouse attracts many birds. One night we struck a flock of ducks which smashed into the engine and cab as though it were raining them from the clouds. They broke the forward windows of the cab, and we gathered up enough ducks for two good, big game dinners."

WOMAN WORKS AS COBBLER.

Pegs Shoes on the Bench with Her Husband All Day and Plays the Piano at Night.

Grand Rapids, Mich., has a woman cobbler, the only one in the state, if not in the country. She is Mrs. Nellie Harmer, states the Chicago Inter Ocean.

In the big factories women are, to be sure, employed to do certain parts of the work in making a pair of shoes by machinery, but none of them has to do what Mrs. Harmer does. She has worked on the bench beside her husband for the past seven years and is proficient in every phase of the cobbler's art from stitching a rip in a lady's kid shoe to pegging a sole in a cowboy's boot. She learned the trade from her husband.

Four years ago they came from Canada and Mr. Harmer opened a little shop in Grand Rapids. Being a skilled workman he soon had a brisk little business established, but he could not get enough help. It was then that his wife came to his aid and said that she would learn the business.

In the rear of their place of business their living apartments have been fitted up. These include a piano, books and pictures. Mrs. Harmer is pretty and not yet 30. She is the mother of three children, two boys and a girl. She is said to be as good a musician as she is a cobbler.

Seasickness.

A veteran sea captain has this to say as to how seasickness affects women: "They suffer more generally than men, but they don't make such a fuss about it. A man goes to bed, where he passes the time groaning and swearing until he is able to come on deck again. A woman fights the malady until she can fight no longer. Then she becomes quickly maudlin and pathetic. Almost invariably she asks three questions: 'Do people die of seasickness?' 'How far are we from shore?' 'How long before we shall land?' When a man is good and sick he doesn't care when he will land—anything to stop that the ship will go down, in fact."

Free Postal Delivery.

The free delivery postal system is only 38 years old, having been inaugurated in 1863 under Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, of Maryland, with 685 letter carriers, distributed among 49 of the principal cities, and 60 offices. There are now 806 offices and 16,240 carriers.

FOUND TWO FIRES ON SINGLE ALARM

Gasolene Explosion and Fire in Keller's Cleaning Works Found Need of Firemen.

THE DAMAGE WAS $100.

STOVE PACKED WITH PAPER FILLED BUILDING WITH SMOKE.

Department Was Summoned to the Monach Printing Establishment on North Avenue, Where Building Was Filled With Smoke.

Fumes from gasolene saturated clothes, unable to diffuse themselves by reason of tightly closed windows and door, led to an explosion and fire in a small building in the rear of G. O. Keller's dyeing establishment on Park avenue early Thursday morning. Damage to the extent of $300 resulted while Proprietor Keller sustained severe burns about the head and arms.

The flames were barely gotten under control when the department was summoned to the Monarch Printing Company's place on North avenue where it was supposed another blaze was in progress as the building was filled with smoke. Chief Doane and his assistants found the trouble to be a large quantity of paper tightly packed in a stove which had the draught closed. Smoke had escaped and filled all parts of the building.

The Keller fire started about 6:30 shortly after the proprietor had hung some dresses about the small building, in order to dry them, and had closed the place for the night. He was at work in the yard when he heard a peculiar rumbling similar to that of hot water in a boiler, coming from the cleaning shop. He hastened to the door and, as he threw it open, a sheet of flame enveloped him. It was preceded by a loud report which attracted the attention of Patrolman Mattox at police headquarters who sent in an alarm from box No 13. On the arrival of the department the entire interior of the shop seemed to be in flames and one line of hose and the chemical was played upon them. They were extinguished in a short time as the gasolene fumes were the principal feeder.

When the summons came for the second alarm the men were all ready and could have checked any incipient blaze. Fortunately their services were not needed.

One hundred dollars of the Keller loss is placed on the building while the remainder is for destroyed goods on which there is no insurance. One of the dresses ruined belonged to Mrs. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, and was valued at $150.

Mr. Keller continued fighting the flames until all danger was passed and not until then did he consent to have his burns attended to. He was taken to Dr. Hedges who found his arms, head and shoulders in bad shape. The burns were properly dressed and it is thought he will recover quickly.

FREE TROLLEY RIDES.

Fund Started to Give These Airings to the Tired Women and Children of Plainfield.

Last summer a fund was raised in Plainfield to give trolley rides to those in this city unable to indulge themselves in such recreation.

Under the direction of the Relief Association, there were given 500 free trolley rides to women and little children, so cheering the lives of tired mothers and bringing recuperation to sick children.

While one may not compare the poorer parts of the city to the slums of larger cities, yet the close quarters of the local tenements bring much suffering during the hot season. Discrimination is used in the distribution of these tickets, the intention being to give them to the aged and to women upon whom devolve the support of families.

A fund for like same purposes has again been started, to which contributions will be gladly received by Mrs. Struthers, superintendent of Relief Association, 544 West Front street, or The Daily Press. A small amount from each family leaving for the seashore or mountains will do great good.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

CLASS DAY AT BOROUGH HIGH

The Principal Feature Was the Presentation of Sheridan's "School For Scandal."

SANG THE CLASS SONG.

Seniors of North Plainfield High School Presented Programme Last Evening—The Usual Nonsense of Class Day Was Omitted—Dramatic Effort Was a Success.

Seniors of North Plainfield High School held their class day exercises last Friday with the brightness and vivacity incident to all such occasions. Although the usual happy nonsense and jests were absent, the jovial spirit of class day prevailed. In the class song, composed by Miss Alice Martin, one of the graduates, the audience were naively informed that "the light of nineteen-two will vanish when we from school have gone." The song told of wades in mathematical depths, immersions in seas of Latin verbs, soundings in the mid-ocean of science contained. At the close a parting fling for the juniors and in the opening stanza paid a tribute to the seniors in this wise:

Of all the fair and famous classes
That e'er did graduate
Of all the knowing lads and lasses
That ever crammed a pate
With weighty words of wondrous wisdom
And with rules that never stay,
The class that breaks all former records
Is the class you see today.

The main features of the evening's programme was the presentation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "School for Scandal." Suitable scenery had been arranged, and each member of the cast was arrayed in the formal costumes that obtained in the days of Queen Anne and the Georges, not omitting the powdered wig, or even the snuff box. The obsolete dress is essential to the success of the play and each performer carried himself or herself as gracefully as if Beau Nash in person had conducted the rehearsals. Following was the dramatis personæ:

Sir Peter Teazle	Florence Lawson
Lady Teazle	Winifred Carroll
Lady Sneerwell	Adelaide Carney
Mrs. Candour	Harriet Messersmith
Maria	Elizabeth Davenport
Joseph Surface	Robert Hand
Charles Surface	Charles Windham
Sir Oliver Surface	Edward Overton
Rowley, (old servant)	Clyde Slater
Snake	Raymond Stevens
Servants {	Nettie Bauerrachs
	Ella Pearson

Miss Florence Lawson gave a surpassing interpretation of the character of the hero, or more properly the husband of the heroine. She spoke her lines with clearness and put much animation into the part. Miss Adelaide Carney furnished a strong portrayal of the tea-sipping, gossipy and slandering Lady Sneerwell, well seconded by Miss Harriet Messersmith as the backbiting Mrs. Candour. Robert Hand was good as the mean plausible hypocritical Joseph Surface, adopting gravity and sentimentality, while Charles Surface, generous, extravagant, and fascinating, found an excellent fit in Charles Windham. Lady Teazle, innocent and imprudent, was well taken by Miss Winifred Carroll; there was little room for improvement in Miss Elizabeth Davenport as Maria. Sir Peter Teazle's ward; E. Overton is as much at home in the stage as on the diamond; Miss Clyde Slater as Rowley, the old family servant, and Raymond Stevens, as Snake, Lady Sneerwell's secretary, were typical of their parts; Nettie Bauerrachs and Etta Pearson were two good servants of the stage variety.

The committee in charge of the programme was Miss Mabel Stevens, R. Hand, E. Overton, Miss Alice Martin; the scenery was arrayed by Ray Stevens, E. Fowlinson and E. Overton; the Misses Alice Martin and Mabel Stevens were the stage managers; Miss Nellie Mantz was the prompter. During the evening Miss Alberta Waterbury presided at the piano.

TO ASSURE CUSTOMERS.

Health Board Will Issue Cards to the Milkmen in Plainfield.

The Board of Health is preparing to issue cards to such milkmen in Plainfield as desire them. These cards will certify as to the quality of milk sold by the dealer and he can use it to prove that the milk he sells is all right, if the board attests to that fact. It is believed that a majority of the dealers will take the cards. On these cards will be stated the exact and correct analysis of the milk sold by each dealer.

Miss Florence Dodge, of this city, has entirely recovered from a recent illness.

FACTS ABOUT CITY CHARITIES

GIVEN BY GENERAL SECRETARY OF ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

What It Has Done and What is Still to be Done by the Association.

For years the private charities of Plainfield have done much to uphold the material and moral standards of Plainfield, and have kept the city comparatively free from pauperism.

From an economical standpoint they have been of great benefit to the taxpayers of Plainfield yet they are supported by a very small proportion of Plainfield's well-to-do citizens.

The Children's Home needs more support to meet the demands made upon it, an addition being necessary to accommodate the children whom the managers are obliged to turn away from lack of room.

Muhlenberg Hospital needs and should have a much longer annual subscription list and more financial backing to erect the new hospital buildings. The work done by the hospital for the good of the city speaks for itself.

The Relief Association has an annual subscription list of barely one hundred, and the burden of support of the Organized Aid Association falls on a few also. Yet the poor tax rate has been kept very low by the practical work of both these associations in co-operation with each other and were heartily endorsed as most useful to the community by the alms committee in their last report presented to the Common Council of Plainfield in 1901.

The Baby's Camp on the mountain for the benefit of our own poor children during the summer is doing a fine work, but has too little backing.

While it is well to expend charitable effort as far as possible beyond our own community, and not to become too self centered either in charitable or in missionary work, it is well to remember that charity begins at home and to study and meet home needs first.

Plainfield is a suburb of New York, and naturally New York charities appeal powerfully to the sympathies of the people in Plainfield, especially the fresh air work for the children of New York tenements and it is absolutely right that it should be so.

What is given for one charity does not keep from the welfare of others. People give to what appeals to their interest and sympathy or not at all. All that can be done for the children of New York tenements should be heartily encouraged, but at the same time, Plainfield needs should not be neglected.

It is not the large amount given, but the numerous small contributions that make great results possible.

Sarah Manton VanBoskerck,
Gen. Sec. Organized Aid Association.

NORTHFIELD'S ATTRACTIONS.

Number of Plainfielders Will Probably Visit That Camp This Year.

Last year a number of Plainfielders, on their summer vacation took advantages of the excellent opportunities for a pleasant outing offered by Camp Northfield, an institution founded by the famous evangelist, D. L. Moody, seven years ago. Many will be glad to learn that the camp will be open again this season from June 26 to September 1 for the reception of young men on their vacation.

The camp is situated on the outskirts of Northfield, Mass., overlooking the city at an elevation of thirteen hundred feet above the sea level. The site commands a beautiful view of the Connecticut Valley, the Green and White Mountains, and many places of historic interest are in close proximity. Every year students from colleges, young men from business houses and members of the Y. M. C. A. have repaired thither and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The main feature of the camp is recreation, baseball and golf being included in the sports. Educational opportunities are also offered, and campers are invited to attend conference sessions, if they choose.

FUNERAL OF MISS GLENNEY.

Services Were Conducted at Home by Rev. McKelvey.

The funeral services of Miss Marian Glenney, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, of Stelle avenue, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of the parents. Rev. J. O. McKelvey conducted the services in the absence of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. The interment took place in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

SOCIETY TURNED OUT FOR GOLF CLUB TEA

Pleasant Afternoon With Golf and Social Features at Park Golf Clubhouse in Borough.

SOME PLAYED GOLF.

APPROACHING AND PUTTING CONTEST FURNISHED CONSIDERABLE INTEREST.

Was Won by Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Rev. J. O. McKelvey on Play-off of Tie—The Other Competitors—Those Who Received.

Under the brow of the mountain, several hundred society folk gathered Thursday afternoon for the informal tea of the ladies tournament committee of the Park Golf Club. Although it was a sweltering, humid day, the guests were delightfully entertained and spent a very pleasant afternoon.

The course was open to all for play but, on account of the extreme heat, there were comparatively few who took advantage of the invitation. The only competition was the approaching and putting contest which proved quite exciting. It was held on the ninth hole. Fourteen couples competed.

After each of the couples had made three approaches it was found that Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Rev. J. O. McKelvey had tied for first place, holing out their three approaches in a total of nine strokes each. In the play-off, Miss Stewart and Rev. Mr. McKelvey won. There were prizes for first and second places. The couples competing were Miss Daisy Elsberg and Allan R. Laing; Mrs. Eugene A. Moore and Irving Stewart; Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. French; Miss Sarah Schuyler and H. D. Hibbard; Miss Rushmore and W. de la R. Anderson; Miss May S. Shreve and Rev. C. L. Goodrich; Miss Mabel VanDeventer and William R. Faber; Miss Harriet Shreve and Charles B. Morse; Miss Jennings and Leslie Halsted; Miss Meade and Kerro Knox.

The social features of the affair proved even more successful than the golf. Tea was served in the cosy club house where Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. George T. Rogers and Mrs. B. J. Shreve presided. They were assisted in serving by the members of the ladies' tournament committee which is composed of Miss Mabel VanDeventer, Miss Laura Long, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Elsie Brokaw, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Elsie DeR. Suffren, Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Daisy Elsberg, Miss Harriet Shreve, Miss May S. Shreve, Miss Lydie Loizeaux, Miss Edna French, Miss Jennings and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich.

Two August Tours to the Pacific Coast at Greatly Reduced Rates via Pennsylvania Railroad.

On account of the low rates authorized by the transcontinental lines to the Pacific coast during the summer, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run two high grade personally-conducted tours to the Pacific coast by special trains of the highest grade Pullman equipment. Both tours will leave New York August 3, visiting Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Del Monte (Monterey), Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Jose, and Portland on the going trip.

Returning, tour No. 1 will run northward from Portland and eastward through the magnificent Canadian Rockies by leisurely daylight trips, with stops at Glacier, Banff Hot Springs, and other points, reaching New York and the East via St. Paul and Chicago on August 31.

Tour No. 2 will run eastbound from Portland over the Northern Pacific Railway to Cinnabar, where the special train will be sidetracked while the passengers make the usual six-day trip of the Yellowstone National Park. From the Park the route homeward will be via St. Paul and Chicago, arriving New York September 4.

Rates from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, or any point on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg, including transportation, Pullman berth, and all meals on the tour except during the five days spent in San Francisco, when Pullman accommodations and meals are not provided:—

For tour No. 1, $900. Two persons occupying one berth, $180 each.

For tour No. 2, $930, including all expenses through Yellowstone Park. Two persons occupying one berth, $930 each.

A preliminary announcement outlining the various details is now in course of preparation and will be furnished as soon as ready upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Pennsylvania Railroad, Broad Street station, Philadelphia.

Miss Garretson, of Somerville, has been spending a few days with relatives.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 23.—Opportunities, Facilities and Resources of the Church.
Text. Ps. ji, 8; Rev. iii, 8; Isa. xl, 9—Read Matt. vi.

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

"The bread and butter problem" is ever a most urgent one. However far removed from fear of poverty and real want many may be, the great mass of the people have so little in reserve that a short sickness or failure of work means debt or privation. So it comes about naturally that the care of getting food, shelter and clothing takes most of the labor and thought. Life becomes a prolonged struggle to keep self and dependent ones alive. The seeking is earnestly and constantly for "these things." How can it be otherwise as long as folks need food, shelter and housing in order to live, and those who have abundance prepare to keep what they have and get all they can with little regard for the needs of others and less disposition to relieve those needs and still less skill than disposition to effect relief? The first care and provision for self is for self preservation. Get ahead in the world is the cry and aim, honestly if you can, but at any rate get ahead. This is the policy of the world, and its motto is, "Money is man's best friend."

The church of Christ stands for the opposite of all this. We all need food, shelter, housing, to be sure; every one needs these things. The needs of all can be supplied. But no scheme of social equalization, communistic sharing and distributing or other philanthropic relief is broad and deep enough to reach the necessities of the case. If each one seeks principally and foremost to relieve his own wants, the result is selfish strife in which each is for himself and the whole against every one.

A more imperative need of our nature is righteousness and God fellowship and human companionship. A hungry heart is more insistent than a hungry stomach. Warmth of soul in love is more to be prized than garments of fur in arctic cold. Consciousness of safety under divine care is better than housing in palace walls.

Faith in God, faith in man, hope in doing good, are better springs of activity than bodily needs and naturalistic impulses. Righteousness in soul and deed, in thought and intention, brings deeper and more abiding satisfaction than any accumulation of material wealth can yield.

This is true of men in association as well as individually.

As truly as the kingdom of nature is open for men to draw supplies for food, drink and clothing so truly is the kingdom of God open for men to draw supplies and gifts of grace and love. God rules in both realms and knows all our needs. The highest and most essential thing is (1) to put first in order of importance, are the soul cravings.

The resources of divine omnipotence are open to the church. "All things are yours." "Ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

The facilities for obtaining the highest and best lie in deepest earnestness of spirit, the realization that feeding with the unseen life must be had and then in the prayerful communion with Christ obtain true participation in the divine plans, purposes and power. Prayer is the means of highest spiritual attainment.

The opportunities are limitless. Because the world is selfish and fleshly the Christian can show unselfish love and interest in the welfare of all around him. Where others seek only the loaves and fishes of the natural, his children of the kingdom seek first the things of God. With even near time of drought comes, they can be relied on as never before. It is a very dry time just now in the religious world and it is a good time for us all to dig our wells deeper. Do not be satisfied, no matter what your experience has been, but dig deeper. The love of many is waxing cold. There never, perhaps, was a time when it required more alertness to keep from spiritual drowsiness and famine than now, and there is no better way to keep awake and refreshed with that living water that Jesus promised than to dig your well deeper, and then "with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation." Let us all resolve to go deeper! The drier it gets around us the deeper you need to dig.—Christian Witness.

Seeing and Doing For Today.

The best way to do anything is to do it. Many a good piece of work has been improved in talk and many a great undertaking has been stranded on the shoals of discussion. An ounce of doing carries more conviction that a hundredweight of talk about what might be done. In other words, deeds are better than theories. And yet the prophet who sees what ought to be done is no less important than the valiant worker who comes and does what the prophet has announced.—American Friend.

The Future of the Church.

To our young people belongs the future of our church. Let them, then, well consider what they are doing for it and what they are doing to fit themselves for the burden which must ere long rest upon their shoulders.—Episcopal Recorder.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 23—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Practical humility.—Matt. xxiii, 1-12; Isa. lvii, 15.

Humility is one of the most beautiful and desirable of all the Christian graces. At the same time it is in some respects one of the most difficult of virtues to cultivate and develop. The self seeking spirit is large within us and written large in all the world about us. The world usually practices anything else than humility, and it seems more often to bestow its best favors upon the least humble rather than the most humble. The result is that, being human, it is no easy thing even for Christians to develop the spirit of humility to the extent that they ought.

Humility to be worthy the name must necessarily be practical. It must be manifested in action as well as declared in words. The Pharisees no doubt professed humility; but how far from practicing it they were! All their works they do to be seen of men. They make broad their phylacteries and enlarge the borders of their garments and love the uppermost rooms at feasts and the chief seats in the synagogues and greetings in the markets and to be called of men "Rabbi, Rabbi." And there are many Pharisaical representatives of humility today. They preach it, but do not practice it; they pretend it, but do not possess it; they try to use humility as a cloak to hide their pride and ambition. What they want most they pretend to want least. They proclaim from the housetops that only the humble should be exalted and then pretend to be humble that they may be exalted! They argue that the office, the position, the honor, should seek the man and then decry all desire for such things, they that may be sought. Such humility, of course, is false. If genuine, humility will manifest itself practically. It shows itself in its humble attitude toward God and in the humble service of men. The greatest becomes the servant of all.

Though difficult of cultivation, yet the spirit of humility should be prized and sought after. It is most pleasing to God. God loveth the humble, but He knoweth the proud afar off, and He keeps them afar off. Only by humbling ourselves as a little child can we ever enter the kingdom of God. The truly humble only shall dwell with God, "for thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy, I will dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble and to revive the heart of the contrite ones."

Humility may be developed in several ways, (1) by remembering the disastrous consequences of false pride and ambition, of the example of Satan, of the ample of Christ—"He humbled himself" as no other, "wherefore God hath highly exalted Him;" (3) by seeing ourselves as God sees us. The publican and Pharisee in the temple illustrate and couldn't even raise his eyes to heaven. Who could under the same test?

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xl, 11; Ps. xxxiv, 2; cl, 5; Prov. vi, 16-18; xv, 33; Matt. xviii, 1-4; Mark ix, 33-37; x, 35-45; Luke ix, 46-48; Phil. ii, 1-11.

A Year For God.

Life regarded as a stewardship is at once simpler and more rewarding than any purely selfish life can be, and when it is for God the opportunities of time take on a dignity which lifts them high above all petty motives and disheartening fears. A year devoted to God's service may not bring us clear vision of results attained, but it will assure us the best use of time, freedom from weakening regret and the peace of heart which is not the least of the conditions of efficiency. In Christ's thought the order of devotion was of the highest importance. What comes first in life? His counsel is that the kingdom of God and His righteousness should have the right of way. He feared the influence of a primary absorption in the cares of life. His contrasts of the love and service of winning goods for self with the love and service of God. No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to one and despise the other. We cannot serve God and Mammon.—Congregationalist.

The Footpath to Peace.

To be glad of life because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play; to look for the best in others and to be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; to despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness and to fear nothing except cowardice; to be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgusts; to covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart and gentleness of manners; to think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends and every day of Christ, and to spend as much time as you can, with body and with spirit, in God's out of doors—these are little guideposts on the footpath to peace.—Henry Van Dyke.

Faithfulness.

Faithfulness at times is no easy thing. Sacrifice and love are close neighbors. The gospel is an invitation not to a banquet, but to a harvest. They who ring the changes on the one magic word belief ought ever to remember the associations that first surrounded it. Belief is a word born of water and of blood. Its divine sense was coined upon the altar, and the old meaning is still a part of it.—Presbyterian Journal.

In Little Things.

If you cannot be great, be willing to serve God in things that are small.—Episcopal Recorder.

MEN MADE CLEVER HOSTS

THEY GAVE AN ICE CREAM AND STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

Was Held at the Grace M. E. Church Thursday—They Also Had a Good Entertainment.

Men of Grace M. E. church last Thursday added to their reputation as hospitable hosts and enlivening entertainers. The occasion was a strawberry and ice cream festival given by the male members of the congregation.

But it was not a stag party. In the audience women were present in abundance. Members of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra supplied music and an interesting programme of readings, vocal and instrumental selections was presented, as follows: Address of welcome, James Lunger; banjo duet, John Valiant, Jr., and Fred VanEps; reading, Dr. H. K. Carroll; solo, Homer Diefendorf, Newark; reading, Dr. H. K. Carroll; solo, H. Diefendorf. After [the intellectual part of the programme had been completed a social hour was spent over the strawberries and ice cream.

The evening's entertainment was under the direction of C. W. Harden, general chairman, cake committee, John Valiant, chairman, Andrew Lutkins, J. E. Low, Ray Stevens, Andrew Vanderbeek; candy committee, H. E. Winkler, chairman, C. E. A. Heywood, Fred Todd, Geo. H. Fairchild, Chas. Amerman, John Shepard, Andrew Morse; lemonade committee, E. H. Vermeule, chairman, A. J. Winans, Isaac Rink, W. H. Lunger; fancy article committee, C. H. Greer, chairman, Dr. H. K. Carroll, W. J. Conroy, W. H. Combs, J. S. Lunger, E. P. Stevens, Thos. Rutledge, W. J. Titus, S. M. Titus, C. E. Gulick, A. W. Winkler, Jacob Voehl, Jacob Benner, Edward Sebring; ice cream and strawberry committee, Andrew Valiant, chairman, J. W. A. Bauersachs, Walter Smalley, Chas. Force, Ralph Bullman, A. J. Giddis, W. H. Voehl, Edward Stein, Chas. Wakefield, Geo. C. Nelson, Chas. Villiers, Wm. Thorn; entertainment committee, Rev. E. L. Earp, chairman, Jno. Steiner, D. W. Winkler, C. W. Harden, Raymond Carroll; decorating committee, A. A. Nelson, chairman, Peter Dollinger, W. A. Kipsey, H. DeMott, R. T. Hoagland.

The last named committee did their work in an excellent manner. The church was effectively decorated with flags and bunting, waving palms, ferns and flowers. The festival will be continued this evening.

THEATRICAL.

One of the greatest successes of the year has been scored at Daly's Theatre, New York, by "King Dodo," a merry comedy-opera by Messrs. Pixley and Luders which is now in its fifth week. "King Dodo" was by no manner of means a new entertainment when it was produced at Daly's Theatre. It had been playing all over the country and the unanimous opinion appeared to be that it was one of the best musical entertainments the stage has seen in a long time. Now New York City has endorsed that opinion with the result that Daly's has been practically sold out ever since the opening performance. "King Dodo" has not a dull moment from the time the first curtain goes up until the time the last one falls. The music is bright and catchy, the cast is an exceptionally strong one, the chorus is said by the managers of New York to be the best in singing quality that the local stage has seen in years and the production is most elaborate in point of scenery and costumes. The feminine portion of the company is also notable for its beauty. The most popular of the songs is "The Tale of a Bumble Bee." Next comes a topical song, full of local hits which is sung in the first act called, "Look in the Book and See." The cast includes Raymond Hitchcock, Cheridah Simpson, Gertrude Quinlan, Gerta Ridley, Margaret McKinney, Arthur Deagon, Robert Lett and James MacDonald.

ANOTHER DEAD DOG.

This One Strangled Itself—Owner Had Offer of $100 for Animal.

The enforcement of the dog ordinance relative to muzzles is responsible for the death of a very valuable terrier belonging to F. A. VanNess, of Park avenue. A wire cage was placed on it, Friday morning, and the little animal objected very strongly. It made every effort to get it off and finally, when no one was around, the muzzle became twisted about its neck. Frantic attempts to release itself only tightened the pressure and when the owner appeared the dog was dead from strangulation. A few days ago Mr. VanNess refused an offer of $100 for the animal.

Baptist Membership.

At the recent Baptist convention held in St. Paul it was reported that the membership of that denomination in the United States is 44,453 churches. There are 30,561 ministers.

NOVELTY SOCIAL WAS ONE HUGE SUCCESS

Given in Chapel of First Presbyterian Church by Women of That Church.

MANY NOVEL FEATURES.

STRANGE MEMBERS OF FINNY TRIBES WERE DRAGGED OUT OF FISH POND.

Pretty Booths Arranged About the Chapel, Where a Great Variety of Articles Were Sold—Those in Charge of the Departments.

A "novelty" social in the strictest sense of the word was the affair given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, Thursday, under the auspices of the women members of the congregation. Unique and original features were everywhere to be seen and no matter which way the visitor turned something new and novel greeted his gaze.

Prettily decorated departments, tables and booths were tastefully arranged about the room and with their gaily dressed throng of patrons, the music and effective lights, the change was indeed a brilliant one. It was hyperbole as much a social and financial success as it was artistic, much to the delight of its promoters.

In the center of the chapel and perhaps the most prominent was the flower booth, filled with an abundance of bouquets and boutonnieres and protected by a pretty canopy of straw and fish net. Around it was a lemonade well erected on stones, built of rustic material and overhung by oak and magnolia leaves; a fishing pond—a source of much delight for old and young; an inviting cake table and a most striking Japanese department. The latter was a faithful reproduction of a room such as is seen in the land of tea and rice and it received a very liberal patronage. Oriental rugs were spread upon the floor, vari-colored lanterns were suspended from the ceiling, Japanese incense burned slowly and sent its peculiar odor in every nook and corner and the geisha girls attired in becoming kimonas sold baskets and candy.

Ice cream was served by waitresses and during the entire evening selections were rendered by M. A. Korff's orchestra. The fishing pond attracted nearly every visitor and some of the catches were most phenomenal. Rev. Charles E. Herring hauled in a modest mermaid while Freeman Shotwell captured a monstrous whale which evidently had decided resistance was of no avail and came up very easily. The fish for the pond were quite unique and were made by John Burroughs.

The various booths and departments were presided over as follows: Japanese, Miss Katherine Glen, Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Marion Engelhart; flower booth, Mrs. Curry, and the Misses Engelhart, Townley, Ganc and McClintock; cake tables, Miss Gertrude Hazeltine, Miss Mary Williams, Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross and Mrs. Edward Burroughs, lemonade well, Miss Bertha Hill; ice cream, Mrs. J. A. Hayhes; candy committee, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Mrs. Fred Bettman, Mrs. Howard Pope and Miss Jessie Pruden. The lemonade well was built by Mrs. William Dunn, Mrs. Harry Williams and the Misses Kafe and Ella Longabury. The decorating was accomplished by a committee consisting of Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Howard Martin, Miss May VanFleet and Miss Bessie De Forest. The waitresses were the Misses Maud Hazeltine, Lillian Glen, Lizzie Bittenbender, Carrie Bullman, Julia Williams, Fannie Mills, Bertha Wilcox, Ada VDanham, Freda Gray and Mary A. Lockey.

A Summer-Like Reminder.

The New Jersey coast is one of the most popular of summer abiding places and its wide-spread favor is greatly enhanced by the exceptional train service and accommodations provided by the New Jersey Central. Its lines reach Seabright, Monmouth, Normandie, Red Bank, Long Branch, West End, Elberon, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove, Avon, Spring Lake, Belmar, Beach Haven, Atlantic City, Ocean City, and Cape May, and at each of these places there are admirable hotels and boarding houses. The New Jersey Central has prepared a hotel book, which gives complete information regarding the hotels on its lines and this booklet is sent free upon application to General Passenger Agent, New Jersey Central, New York. c

Borough's Share of McKinley Fund.

Senator Charles A. Reed has forwarded to Governor Murphy $100 and has received the latter's receipt therefor for the McKinley Memorial association. This was North Plainfield's share toward the general fund and the citizens have been quite prompt in responding.

UNION COUNTY BUDGET FIXED BY FREEHOLDERS

County Will Raise $218,000 by Taxation During the Coming Year.

THE ACTUAL INCREASE.

AMOUNTS APPROPRIATED FOR THE VARIOUS COUNTY DEPARTMENTS.

Total Appropriation is $230,000 Which Includes $12,000 of the County Assets—Last Year's Appropriation Was $228,000.

At a recent meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders the budget for the coming year was completed. The sum to be raised by tax for the use of the county during the next year is $218,000, to be appropriated together with $12,000 of the uncollected taxes and assets of the county. The general appropriation this year is an actual increase of $2,000 over last year, the sum last year being $228,000. There is an increase of $6,000 for the hospitals in the county and an increase of $3,000 for lunatics and epileptics. The total amount of last year's appropriation was $228,000, while this year it is $202,000, but with the assets of the county, $12,000, the total amount is just an increase of $2,000.

The various amounts appropriated are as follows:

Current expenses — Courts, $37,000; county jail, $6,000; lunatics, $43,000; compensations and lawful expenses of freeholders, committees, and salaries of officers, $13,000; fees of coroner, $900; elections, $14,000; stationery, $3,000; advertising, publishing and printing, $3,000; incidental expenses, schools, burial of soldiers and monuments, $22,000; children's guardian account, $1,000.

Debt and interest — Payment of principal of bonded debt, $5,000; payment of interest on bonded debt, $15,000; payment on bank interest in temporary loans, $2,000.

Public works—Permanent improvement of public building and grounds, $5,000 erection and repairs of culverts and bridges, $35,000; repairs to county roads, $17,500; hospitals, $10,000.

At the beginning of the past year the balance was $28,000, which shows a decrease of $16,000, while the appropriations are $18,000 more than last year. The balance is decreasing each year; 10 years ago it was $66,000, this year $12,000. This decrease is due, the authorities claim, to Elizabeth and Rahway.

The following standing committees were then announced:

Collector's bond—Connolly, Miller, McCandless.

Publication—Adams, Robison, Gerstung.

Discharge of prisoners—Wahl, Robison, Connolly.

Settle with collector—Krouse, King, Brucklacher

Audit accounts—King, Cady, Woodruff.

Lunacy—Miller, Adams, Swain.

Public grounds and building—Farrell, Cady, Woodruff.

Jail inspection — Westphal, Wahl, McCandless.

Stationery — King. Wahl, McCandless.

Settle with sheriff—Robison, Tillman, Swain.

Miscellaneous accounts and agreements—Tillman, Connolly, Gerstung.

Legal questions —Cady, Tillman, Bonnell.

Appropriations—Farrell, Westphal, Krouse, Brucklacher, Woodruff.

County roads — King, Adams, Krouse, Brucklacher, Swain.

Elizabeth drawbridges — Miller, Westphal, Gerstung.

Rahway drawbridges—Farrell, Tillman, Robison.

RECEPTION TO PUPILS.

Charming Affair Given by Miss Anna H. Prescott, Retiring Member of City High School Faculty.

Miss Anna H. Prescott gave a reception, Saturday evening, to her pupils of the Plainfield High School at her home on Watchung avenue. Miss Prescott will not return to the City High School in the fall as she is to be married this summer. She selected this means of saying good-bye to the young people who have been under her charge.

Miss Prescott and her mother, Mrs. Prescott, of Boston, received the guests in the parlor. A number of the young people assisted in serving the refreshments. The piazzas were gaily decorated with Japanese lanterns and there many of the guests gathered. Besides many of the young people there were present Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Principal L. W. Travell and the other members of the High School faculty.

Sunday-School Closed.

The Sunday-school of the Unitarian church in Park avenue is closed until the second Sunday of September.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE POLICE FORCE INSPECTED

COUNCILMEN SAID PLEASANT THINGS ABOUT FINE SHOWING MADE.

Policemen Drilled Under Command of Chief Kiely—Annual Inspection of Force.

The annual inspection of the Plainfield police department took place in the Marsh building, Saturday afternoon. With the exception of Doorman McCue and Patrolman Patrick Flanagan, who is confined to his home by illness, the entire force participated.

Chief Kiely was in charge and with his men, looked resplendent in a handsome new uniform. The drill was witnessed by Councilmen Buckle, Coriell and Glosk, City Judge William N. Runyon, newspaperman and a number of prominent citizens.

The councilmen each addressed a few words to the force, in which they complimented the members for the fine showing and the general good order maintained in the city.

Through a misunderstanding, Mayor Jenkins was unable to be present, but he met the force shortly after the inspection at police headquarters. He then addressed the men and echoed the sentiments expressed by the councilmen.

WOMEN IN CHARGE.

The Women's Veteran Relief Union Gave An Entertainment.

A pleasant social and entertainment was given Friday evening under the auspices of the Women's Veteran Relief Union. During the evening there were vocal solos by Mrs. John Manley, recitations by Charles M. Raybert, W. F. Richards and John Manley and Miss Clara Weber, instrumental selections by Dr. Berg and Miss Berg, and addresses by Col. J. R. Naylor and John Goodwin.

*After the entertainment refresh*ments were served by Miss Lida Day, Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. Charles B. Stephens and Mrs. Wm. Bechtel.

Bicycles All Returned.

The three boys who stole as many wheels from Leal's School yard, Friday afternoon, were given a hearing before Justice Nash, Saturday evening. Each pleaded guilty but sentence was suspended during good behavior. The wheels were all returned to the boys to whom they belonged.

Netherwood Formally Opened.

The Hotel Netherwood was formally opened Saturday evening under most auspicious circumstances, a large number of guests having already registered for the season. The first hop will be held next Saturday evening.

To Wed at Netherwood.

Miss Norton, of New York, who has been a yearly guest at the Hotel Netherwood, and who is registered there this season also, will be married July 2 to Captain E. O. Sarratt, A. C. U. S. A., commander at Army Headquarters, Whitehall street, N. Y.

Confirmed Six.

Bishop Scarborough visited St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, on Saturday and confirmed a class of six. He also preached a strong and impressive sermon.

TALKED ON INTEMPERANCE

D. M. TORREY ADDRESSED ENDEAVORERS OF TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Well-Known Banker Gave Examples of its Dire Effects as He Had Seen Them.

The Christian Endeavor Society meeting at Trinity Reformed church last Monday was one of deep interest to the few persons present. The inclement weather detained many and those who remained away missed a helpful and inspiring meeting. David M. Torrey, the well-known banker and broker of New York, conducted the meeting and spoke on the evils of intemperance.

Out of such a wide experience as Mr. Torrey has had, he is especially able to talk on this subject and he gave a graphic description of the evils of the drink habit as it exists in various parts of the country, but especially in New York. He told of the distress it brings to bright and happy homes, making them desolate and dreary. He told of the bright men and women in society who are ruined daily by the thousands through the curse of drink and of the untold misery that countless have to suffer in consequence.

In connection with this thrilling and vivid talk, Mr. Torrey offered as a panacea for this terrible habit the Word of God, and he said that person can only hope to escape from it through Christ who can strengthen and help the weak to become strong Christian men and women.

TWO CHANGES.

Rev. John C. Whiting Made Pastor of New Church in Bronx and is to Wed This Fall.

Many people in Plainfield will be interested in the announcement that Rev. John C. Whiting, formerly of this city, has become pastor of the Claremont Park Congregational church, Bronx borough, New York, which has recently been organized. There is considerable interest in the church, the attendance at the services being large.

Mr. Whiting is to be married early in September to Miss Isabel Seaman, of Millport, N. Y. They were associated in Christian work for three years in the Cornell Memorial church, she as a deaconess and he as assistant pastor. Mr. Whiting was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1893 and from Amherst College in 1896.

Gave Farewell Luncheon.

Lawrence, Mellick and Jose Tweedy gave a large course luncheon to their friends at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse last Friday evening, prior to their departure on Saturday for their father's ranch in Texas. Their aunts, the Misses Tweedy, were the hostesses. Kenneth Bulkley, their cousin, and C. Ames Brooks will also spend the summer in Texas with them.

Miss Coleman to Wed.

Lieutenant Carter, U. S. A., a guest at the Hotel Netherwood, will be married in September to Miss May Coleman, daughter of Major Coleman, U. S. A. The marriage will take place at the Netherwood.

WATCH THE SMALL CHANGE.

Pennies and Nickels Are Counterfeited More Than Are the Larger Pieces.

"Did you ever think how little attention you pay to the possibility of counterfeits in making change?" asked an old bank teller of a friend, relates the Chicago Tribune. "And did you ever think that most of the attention that is paid to it by the public is so much waste of effort?"

"But it is a fact. You never think when the street car conductor puts the change from a quarter in your hand that both dimes may be counterfeit. You take one-dollar, two-dollar, five-dollar and ten-dollar bills from anybody in change without ever a thought as to their genuineness. But if a stranger tries to pass a $20 bill on you you begin to get shaky, while a $50 or $100 bill is almost impossible to be rid of in a street of small shops.

"Yet you could hardly hire a counterfeiter to try to make and pass bills above ten dollars in value. If a stranger should come into your place of business and ask change for a $50 bill it would scare you stiff for fear of a counterfeit, whereas the chances would be 999½ in 1,000 that the bill was good.

"You noticed the other day, on the other hand, that the United States government was much concerned over the counterfeit one-cent pieces that are now flooding Chicago. Yet I'll bet you never looked at the genuineness of a one-cent piece in your life."

THUMB-MARK AS A SEAL.

Has Been Used in China and Elsewhere in Attestation of Legal Documents.

An army officer in Arizona used to make his orders for payment on a camp outfit, and use his own thumb-mark to serve the same purpose as the elaborate markings on bank checks. The thumb-mark has been used in China and elsewhere in attestation of deeds. Sir William Herschel introduced finger marks for practical pur*poses in several ways in India. He had* heard that Chinese criminals in early times were made to give the impressions of their fingers just as the criminals of this country are now photographed. In Egypt the criminals were made to seal their confessions with their thumbnails, as the country servant girls used to seal their letters. Accordingly Sir William adopted the registration of finger markings for pensioners. He suspected that others personated these officials after the pensioners were dead; he therefore employed this means of identification. This led to the scientific identification of criminals—each prisoner signed a book with his finger. Comparing the signatures of persons made after an interval of 20 years he proved that time makes no such material difference as to destroy the utility of the plan. There is a marked difference between the marks of males and females.

GROWING BUFFALO HERDS.

Canadian Bison Promise to Become Quite Numerous in the Next Few Years.

The buffaloes are increasing in such proportions in Canada that they promise in the course of a few years to become again fairly abundant. Some time ago they threatened to become extinct, says a Quebec report.

The herd of woods buffaloes in the Peace river district has trebled in size under the protection afforded it by the Northwest mounted police. Five years ago it was estimated that there were not more than 50 buffaloes in the herd; now there are 400.

In appearance there is little difference between the woods buffalo and the plains buffalo. The former is merely a larger, richer-coated animal. It differs materially, however, in its habits from the subspecies which inhabited the plains, and which has undoubtedly passed away, except for the presence of a few animals in captivity and in the Yellowstone National park.

This species preferred the plain and traveled hundreds of miles in its annual migrations, while the Canadian buffalo shuns the prairie and migrates but little.

Babies the Fashion.

The princess of Wales has made babies fashionable in England. Children are supplanting lap dogs and silken-coated cats as drawing-room pets. How long the babies will rule no one can tell, but at present they are wearing the crown of popularity. There are three bright children in the palace of the princess of Wales —two boys and a flaxen, curly-haired little girl. These tots were left behind when the prince and princess went on the great colonial tour from which they but recently returned. And then they came home the glad welcome the royal mother received from her three children was so touching that the whole nation was put into a sympathetic mood. Now the princess is rarely seen without having one or more of her babies with her.

Americans in Hawaii.

In 1873 there were 889 Americans in the Hawaiian islands and 50,000 Hawaiians. In 1890 there were 4,000 Americans and 30,000 Hawaiians. The natives are a dying race. In 1900 the death rate among Hawaiians was 42.81 per 1,000 among Americans and Europeans 12.75.

Polish Population.

The Poles now number about 15,000,000 people, of whom perhaps 2,000,000 are in eastern Prussia, chiefly in the province of Posen; 4,000,000 in northeastern Austria, chiefly in the province of Galicia, and about 9,000,000 in the extreme western part of Russia.

GHOSTS ON RAMPAGE.

Flaming Sword and Uncanny Apparition Cause Great Excitement at Richview, Ill.

Startling figures and forms, flaming swords and pillars of fire are the visible manifestations of some occult or other agency which has convinced the most conservative inhabitants of the village of Richview, a few miles south of Centralia, Ill., that ghosts do exist after all.

The family of Beman Edwards for*merly scoffed at the suggestion* of such a thing as ghosts, but when their little one-story home became the center of popular excitement, and the most practical efforts failed to explode superstitious theories, they reluctantly admitted a mystery they are unable to fathom.

QUEER DOINGS AT RICHVIEW.

The trouble, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, began one night two weeks ago, while Edwards was engrossed in a book and his wife was playing a guitar. Suddenly she became aware of a yellow light in front of her that stayed about the room, assumed the form of a gigantic sword, passed three times under her husband's chair, and then disappeared. The second evening after this Edwards saw the same vision as he started to leave his home to go to the village store for a few minutes. The great sword of fire passed across the road in front of him, then vanished.

Other ghostly manifestitions have been seen by the Edwards family and their neighbors. Thomas Martin and his wife, who live next door, allege to have seen the figure of a man emerge through the solid outer door of the house, inch by inch. Mrs. Edwards has seen strange faces peering at her from her window and doorways. A pillar of fire has appeared to her more than once. The Edwards home is known as the "haunted house," and the family is preparing to move.

SHE WAS DISAPPOINTED.

Just Because Her Husband Had Told Her Nothing But the Truth for Eleven Years.

They had been married 11 years. Every Thursday night during all this time the husband had gone out with the excuse that he had to attend lodge.

For a year or so the wife believed him, but then other wives gave her pointers. She said nothing to the husband, however, but waited till she could secure evidence to convict him of duplicity.

Ten long years she waited, says the Philadelphia Press, and then she determined upon a heroic move.

She located his supposed lodge, and one Thursday evening she appeared at the door and asked if he was within. He was.

"FOUND ME OUT IN WHAT?"

She asked if he was a steady attendant and was told that he never missed a night. She was shown a list of membership and the weekly proceedings for years and years, and she turned away with sorrow in her heart.

On her way home she wept. On arriving there she flung herself upon the lounge and sobbed. She was still struggling with her feelings when her husband arrived.

"Is our child dead of croup?"

"No-no. It is that I have found you out at last."

"Found me out in what?"

"I have found out what you really go to your lodge every Thursday night."

"Of course I do. But what of it?" he asked.

"Nothing, except that I am disappointed and heartbroken to think that you have not been lying to me all these long, long years! What will all the other women say about it?"

Turks Admire Red Hair.

In Turkey red hair is counted a great beauty, and the women dye their hair that tint.

A HISTORIC TOWN.

Varied and Picturesque History of Carlisle in the State of Pennsylvania.

Metternich's statement that no room is so small but honor may enter, applies to the recent modest celebration in Carlisle, Pa., of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of its foundation.

Carlisle was the first settlement made under charter from the Penns, and as the farthest outpost of Quakerism served as a notable barrier of de*fense against the* savages of the western wilderness.

Later it became the base of Washington's operations for the suppression of the whisky insurrection; its military experience as a regular army post ended only the night preceding the great battle of Gettysburg; Benjamin Franklin drew there a treaty of friendship with the western Indians; "Molly Pitcher" went thence with the volunteers raised by Carlisle in 1776, and her body was brought back to a Carlisle graveyard; Andre was for a short time detained there a captive; and Washington and Hamilton gathered at Carlisle 40,000 troops for the arduous march toward Pittsburg.

Few towns have so picturesque and varied a history; and its inhabitants might well adopt that couplet of old Pindar which Plutarch liked to quote, of those who

Do match their noble ancestors in prowess of their own,
And by their fruits commend the stock whence they themselves are grown.

A CRUSOE COINCIDENCE.

Which Accounts for the Duration of Robinson's Exile on His Lonely Island.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale calls attention, to some quaint and curious features in connection with Robinson Crusoe, which, says the Albany Argus, have not hitherto been pointed out. He writes:

"Readers who are curious in English history must not fail to observe that Robinson Crusoe was shipwrecked on his island on the 30th of September, 1659. It was in that month that the English commonwealth ended, and Richard Cromwell left the palace at Whitehall. Robinson lived in this island home for 28 years. These 28 years covered the exact period of the second Stuart reign in England. Robinson Crusoe returned to England in June, 1687; the convention parliament, which established William III., met in London at the same time. All this could not be an accidental coincidence. Defoe must have meant that the 'Trueborn Englishman' could not live in England during the years while the Stuarts reigned. Robinson Crusoe was a ruler himself on his own island, and was never the subject of Charles II. or James II. He was not a 'man without a country,' because he had a little country of his own; but he was a man in a country where there was no king but himself."

CAT FISHED FOR TROUT.

Fisherman Put Half a Dozen in His Bathtub and Baby Quickly Caught Them.

A member of the Sullivan club caught half a dozen trout one day last summer and carried them alive to his cottage, intending to take them to the city. He turned the water into his bathtub and the trout seemed to thrive as well there as they had done in the streams.

That afternoon one of the fish disappeared. The man, thinking it had jumped out, looked all around the room, but no trout was to be seen.

Next morning two more were gone and the servant was closely questioned. Then two more disappeared and the fisherman was so much concerned that he took a place outside the bathroom window and proceeded to watch.

Pretty soon the family cat entered, says the New York Times, perched on the edge of the tub and, waiting its chance, struck viciously into the water with one paw, and brought up the remaining trout.

QUICK SALE LITERATURE.

One Poet Who Finds That It Pays to Carry His Productions About with Him.

"Demands for a certain class of literature are more frequent than people generally imagine," said a poet, according to the New York Sun. "I make it a point to carry some of this class ready for the printer, in my pocket, for I meet a good many publishers and they usually want something right away.

"I sold two of these last week in an elevated train. One of my purchasers wanted verses for a particular page.

"I dug up a six-verse production. As soon as he had read it he said it was shy one verse; he must have seven.

"Crowded as the car was, I ground out another stanza, writing it while I stood. He paid me the cash for the whole lot before he left the car.

"There is no use talking. If you have the right brand, literature has a quick commercial value."

On the New "Buffalo Bill."

The portrait of a suicide is on the new two-dollar bill, which is known also as the "buffalo bill," because of a rampant bison picture in the center of it. The suicide was Meriwether Lewis, the famous explorer. Lewis was also private secretary to President Jefferson, who afterward made him governor of Missouri territory. In a fit of melancholy—he was a man of moods—he killed himself, when only 35 years of age.

Where Hats Come From.

Hat dealers buy principally from the English and Italian markets. England furnishes stiff and Italy soft hats.

REV. DR. YERKES HAS RESIGNED

He Voluntarily Tendered His Resignation at Sunday Morning's Service.

OLDEST PASTOR IN CITY.

Has Been Pastor of the First Baptist Church for Thirty-Nine Years Resignation Will be Acted on at Meeting to be Held June 25—Sketch of Dr. Yerkes' Career.

Following closely upon the retirement of Rev. Erskine M. Bodman, as rector of Grace Episcopal church after a long service, came the sudden announcement Sunday that Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church for thirty-nine years, would do likewise. The announcement was known to only a very few persons and it came as a great surprise to the large congregation present and not a few were deeply affected.

The announcement was made at the close of the morning service, when Dr. Yerkes said that he had something to say to his people. He stated that since coming home from the south he had felt improved in health and he believed that he would continue to regain his strength if allowed to retire from an active ministry. He said that for thirty-nine years he had served the church as pastor and during that time there had never come to him an unkind word. He loved the church and its people, where unity had been so prominent between pastor and people.

The pastor expressed the earnest desire that all would stand by the church. He said that oftentime a change was beneficial. "Many in the church have known no other pastor than myself," said Dr. Yerkes, "and they have grown up from childhood to labor in the work of Christ for His kingdom. I trust that the grace and spirit of Christ will continue and that you may all abound in peace and love for Christ's sake. I shall withdraw from the pastorate of the church, but shall continue so far as I am able to help you all."

Dr. Yerkes stated that he intended to remain in Plainfield and that he believed in living a life of retirement the rest of his days would be days of strength, happiness and pleasure.

Dr. Yerkes is the oldest pastor in the city and he has served as pastor the longest of any. Several weeks ago he and Mrs. Yerkes went south for his health. While mentally as strong as ever, there is a physical weakness that will hardly allow Dr. Yerkes to continue his active work as before. There have been many expressions of regret regarding the pastor's retirement for in his long service the church has grown to be a strong and influential one.

Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes was born in Philadelphia, Pa., in January, 1835, and at an early age went to Hatboro, Pa., fourteen miles from his birth place. There he spent his boyhood days. It was while attending a revival meeting that he was converted and decided to study for the ministry. He entered an academy at Hatboro, and after completing his course entered Columbian University at Washington. Dr. Ide, now dead, but once a prominent Baptist, assisted Dr. Yerkes in his preparation for the ministry.

He graduated from Columbian University in 1848 and his first call was to the Baptist church at Hollidaysburg, Pa., where he was ordained. He remained there a few years and then accepted a call to the First Baptist church at Pittsburg, Pa., where he remained until 1856. In the latter year he accepted a call to the First Baptist church of Brooklyn, then located at the corner of Nassau and Liberty streets. He remained in that pastorate three years when he accepted the call to the First Baptist church of this city. He came to Plainfield in the summer of 1863 and since then he has continued as a pastor of the First Baptist church. A few years after coming to this city the present handsome edifice was erected at a cost of $75,000 and was dedicated in November, 1869.

March 15, 1900, Dr. and Mrs. Yerkes celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, when the entire church united in the happy event. At the celebration, the pastor and his wife were presented with a purse of $1,000 in gold, while another purse of $250 in gold was received at the home.

The question of selecting a successor to Dr. Yerkes will be left entirely to the members of the church. A meeting will be held June 25 to act upon the resignation. The present membership of the church is nearly nine hundred.

John G. Valiant, of Baltimore, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. J. West, of Fairview avenue.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, NOV. 26, 1902. NO. 26.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well as Its Limitations as to Its Authorities"—Madison.

ENDED LIFE WITH BULLET

Henry L. Kliner Shot and Killed Himself Tuesday Afternoon at His Home.

NO REASON FOR ACT.

It Is Supposed That Recent Illness Caused Temporary Insanity—Was a Prospering Business Man—Leaves Wife and One Child—Member of Firm of Winans & Kliner.

Henry L. Kliner, of Somerset street, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Jacob J. Kliner, committed suicide Tuesday afternoon by shooting himself in the right temple. Mr. Kliner was a married man, father of one child, and a member of the firm of Winans & Kliner, blacksmiths, doing business on Somerset street, near the end of the trolley line. He was twenty-seven years of age and up to the time of his death had taken an active interest in the Republican politics of Somerset county.

No direct reason can be assigned for Mr. Kliner's act. He was an ambitious young man, anxious to succeed, and his business was in a most flourishing condition gradually growing every year. He was a man with no bad habits of any kind, entirely devoted to the interests of his family.

Monday he had attended to his work along with his brother in the blacksmith shop, and he was apparently in the best of humor all day. Tuesday when his mother and his wife left home at 2:30 o'clock Mr. Kliner was to have accompanied them down town, but he complained of feeling unwell and concluded to stay home.

When his wife returned home at 4 o'clock she found her husband lying on the bed with a revolver clasped in his hand, and a bullet through his right temple. She immediately ran screaming to the shop where his brother was working, but was so overcome with excitment that she could not make known her gruesome discovery. Mrs. Kliner is still prostrated with grief over the sad event and, lies very ill at her home.

Since the first of April Kliner has been ill with malaria, which has preyed severely on his constitution and caused him much mental worry. He has only worked at intervals during the intervening time and on Monday when he came to the shop his brother advised him not to work that day. Nevertheless he applied himself to his labors as usual, but Tuesday he was feeling much worse than heretofore, and it is thought that a fit of temporary insanity, superinduced by his illness and mental anxiety, caused him to take his own life.

Mr. Kliner was a member of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and had made application to join Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at his late residence at 2:30 o'clock and afterwards at Wilson Memorial chapel at 2:45 o'clock. The services will be in charge of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

Another Justice at New Market.

R. P. F. von Minden, who recently qualified as a justice of peace in Piscataway township, is located at New Market on the Hallett place. He is a graduate of the law department of Yale College and practiced as an attorney in Connecticut. He also was a justice of the peace in the latter State. He was recently admitted to the New Jersey Bar. Justice von Minden studied law with W. R. Codington in 1898.

Patriotic Service.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church a patriotic service will be held in the church Tuesday evening, July 1. The address of the evening will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Sullivan, pastor of the Baptist church at Paterson.

New News Stand.

The work of erecting a news stand will be commenced at the new railroad station by the Union News Company within a short time. The company has secured permission to build the stand, which will be placed under the sheds.

Engagement is Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, of Rochester, N. Y., to Samuel Hollingsworth, of Scotch Plains.

—Noaman Brothers have Indian river pineapples for canning, blackberries, strawberries, huckleberries and raspberries.

ROBBED LOCKERS.

Caddies at Park Golf Club Tried Their Hands at Something New.

During the brief absence of the steward, Monday afternoon, some of the caddies at the Park Golf Club entered the locker room in the rear of the clubhouse, broke open several lockers and helped themselves to the golf balls. The theft was soon discovered and the identity of the youthful offenders found out. Most of the stolen balls have since been returned but the case has been reported to the authorities and punishment is soon to be meted out to the participants.

FAIR ACRES RACE MEET

THE INDEPENDENCE DAY PLANS ARE ABOUT COMPLETED.

Little Track, Near Westfield, Will See Some Good Contests There on July 4.

Arrangements for the second grand race meet to be held at the pretty half-mile track of the Fair Acres Driving Club, near Westfield, on the afternoon of July 4, are about completed, and the programme for the afternoon promises to be one of great amusement. National Association rules will govern the races.

The programme will include three purse races for $200. Horses will go in the 2.25, 2.30 and 2.40 class. The races will be the best three in five heats. There will be four divisions of money—50, 25, 15 and 10 per cent. of purse. The sport will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Entries for the races closed on Friday. The list has not yet been published, but there is no question about them having filled. The chances are that the fields will be large. The track is pronounced to be in elegant shape. Fifteen new stalls have been added to the stables, and other improvements to the grounds for the comfort of patrons.

The Aeolian brass band will furnish music for the day, and there will be a refreshment stand on the grounds under the care of Arthur S. Flagg. One of the principal features will be Neil Alcyoner, the guideless wonder, owned by Dick Halsted, of New York. This horse has a record for going a half mile without harness or driver in 2.08.

Stages will convey the people to the grounds and track. There will be no baseball game at Westfield on the afternoon of July 4; the races will be the principal feature of attraction in that section.

THE NINE MET.

Reunion of Those Who Formerly Gave Active Assistance to the Y. M. C. A.

Tuesday evening, in the Y. M. C. A. hall there was a very pleasant reunion of the original Ladies' Nine, an organization that formerly extended active assistance and took a prominent interest in Y. M. C. A. work in this city.

The members of that coterie have been separated for the past six years, but with the arrival here on a visit of the Misses Demarest, of Freeport, Ill., the nine were once more all in Plainfield and the opportunity was immediately seized for a social reunion.

The names of those who were present at the affair who formerly composed the first Ladies' Nine are: Mrs. Stephen R. Struthers, Mrs. H. W. Rankin, Mrs. Townsend Ridshmore, Mrs. Roger F. Murray, Mrs. J. W. Gavett, the Misses Jennie L. and Eleanor Demarest, Freeport, Ill., Mrs. Harry Manning and Miss Carrie Dewey.

Room for All.

Many people in passing the City National Bank admire the fine vault which may be seen through the window. There are yet two other vaults and these are their storage vaults. Their walls are very thick and are lined with heavy steel plates. The dimensions of the largest vault are more than two thousand cubic feet. It can thus be seen that while safety and absolute protection were first considered, ample accommodation is also assured.

Given a Piano.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, will celebrate the fourth anniversary of their wedding Saturday. A substantial gift has been received by Mrs. Babcock from a husband in the shape of a piano.

Fell From Cherry Tree.

A few days ago Albert Utzinger, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, fell from a high ladder in a cherry tree. That he did not break his limbs is a miracle. He is very lame and sore as a result of the tumble.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR FIREWORKS THIS YEAR

The Dealers Say That Business Promises to be Particularly Heavy This Season.

THE REASONS FOR IT.

A NUMBER OF NOVELTIES ARE TO BE INTRODUCED THIS YEAR.

After Firecrackers, Whistling Pieces Prove the Most Popular—Sentiment is Now Against the Use of the High Explosives.

This promises to be a banner year for the dealers in fireworks. The man in charge of the fireworks department of a firm that handles a large amount of goods in that line, both wholesale and retail, dealing largely with Plainfield, said last week that the sales this year would probably be larger than any in the past. The only chance of his prediction not being fulfilled, he said, was wet weather. The manufacturers and wholesale dealers are delivering the goods, and the retail men are taking them with the expectation of disposing of them without trouble. Other dealers spoke in the same way. None of them could advance any particular reason except that the use of fireworks for the celebration of Independence Day has been increased largely, year by year, for the past decade or more. The greatest increase was during the trouble with Spain, when the war fever ran high. The high water mark in the trade was reached in 1900. The business fell off last year, but no more than the dealers expected, as a reaction of the year before.

"I think that the Fourth is being observed more fully every year," said one dealer, "and as long as it is the small boy, and for that matter grown people, must have a vent for their feelings. Then fireworks are both interesting and, in most cases, beautiful to behold. As they are reserved by the public for just one day in the year, it is only natural that their use on that occasion should become greater as time goes by.

"Another thing that helps business is that manufacturers are getting out something new every year. There are several novelties on the market this season; besides a number of things that were tried as experiments last year, and having proved successful, are on the market now in large quantities. One thing that was made this year for the first time is the whistling cannon cracker. This is about the same as the ordinary Chinese cracker of large proportions except that it makes a whistling sound from the time the fuse is lighted until it explodes. Whistling things proved very popular last season and the manufacturers have taken the hint. All manner of fireworks that emit a shrill whistling sound have been prepared in larger numbers than ever. Besides the whistling cannon cracker, the new ones include whistling bombs, which explode with a particularly loud report; whistling rockets and cloudbursts and whistling chasers, that run on the sidewalk or any other smooth surface. The latter came out last season and were very popular. Most of these goods are made to retail at one and five cents each, according to size. Other articles that are strictly new this year are dragon flies, eagle screamers, skyscrapers and reporting gold fountains, all of which are in five cent pieces.

"There is less demand this year for high explosive crackers. The trade is going back to the Chinese goods, as the latter do not contain high explosives and are much safer. These are about the only kind of fireworks made in China and they are far superior to anything in that line made in the United States. Some States have legislated against the manufacture or sale of fireworks containing dynamite, which at one time was commonly put in the cannon crackers. The old style small cracker is going out of favor. The mandarins are the popular cracker now. They are put up in fancy packages, are well made and give loud reports. They sell at five cents a package. They also come in rolls of one, two and three thousand. The way to use these is to tie one end of the string to a pole or to stretch the roll between two posts or trees and then light the fuse. The effect is very fine, particularly at night. The rolls sell from sixty cents up.

"Another novelty that found favor last year and which are, therefore, expected to sell well this season are the red, white and blue canes. There is a place in the bottom of these that holds a cap, which explodes when struck against anything hard. These canes were not expensive last year, but although there is the cheap kind to be had now, some of them are more elaborate, with animals' heads on the top and other attractive features. Another experiment last year that has been improved upon was the marble that had a thin coating of some harmless explosive. Few of these will be seen now, as their place has been taken by what are called kango climbs. The latter, when struck together, give out a loud report. They are put up two in a box and sell for ten cents a pair.

"There is not much change in either price or quality of the larger pieces—those used for night displays. One novelty in this line, however, is the gatling battery, which is merely a lot of Roman candles bunched together. It is made with either forty or ninety shots. Its popularity is already assured. The Chinese or Japanese lanterns, which are really made in those countries, are to be had in newer and more attractive designs."

GREATEST JUNE CROWD EVER SEEN AT PARK

Summer Visitors Are Flocking to Asbury Park Despite Lack of Attractions.

FEW AMUSEMENTS OPEN.

BISHOP FITZGERALD IS TRYING TO INDUCE THE PRESIDENT TO SPEAK.

List of Summer Excursions is Remarkably Large This Year—Some of the Principal Events—A Big Sign on the Auditorium.

Asbury Park, June 25—The June crowd now in the two cities is the largest ever known. The boardwalk has been kept busy for a week in spite of a day or two of bad weather, despite the absence of lights and the fact that only a few of the amusements are open. Even music is lacking. The contract with Dr. Conterno, of New York, is off, and no band has yet been secured to take his place. Bandmaster Voss, of Newark, whose bid was rejected when Dr. Conterno's was accepted, returned a decided "No" when the music committee offered him the position. The only band which has offered its services is the Young American, a representative of which is in Asbury Park.

Mayor Bradley is endeavoring to have Wesley lake, which divides Ocean Grove from Asbury Park, entirely under the management of the latter. The Mayor owns the Asbury Park side and desires to lease it to the city. He has also written to Rev. A. E. Ballard, vice president of the Ocean Grove Association, asking his co-operation in having the lake placed under the city's jurisdiction.

Postmaster John Hubbard has completed arrangements for the receipt and despatch of a Sunday mail during the summer. The service was inaugurated this Sunday. The mail will arrive at the Interlaken station about 11 a. m. The outgoing mail will close at 3:30 p. m. One collection, about 1 p. m., will be made. The postoffice will be open only between the hours of 12 and 1. There will be a private delivery to a number of the larger hotels.

Bishop Fitzgerald, of Ocean Grove, is endeavoring to induce President Roosevelt to speak at the auditorium this summer. Three years ago, when Governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt spoke to an audience of twelve thousand in the auditorium. At that time he told the bishop that he would make a return trip to the Grove.

The list of summer excursions this year is unusually long. The principal ones will come later in the summer. Thursday, August 21, will be American Day, when at least ten thousand of the Junior Order of American Mechanics in New Jersey will be in the city. On Saturday, August 2, the employes of the Clark thread works at Kearny will have their outing here, and on Labor Day the New Jersey Ancient Order of United Workmen will arrive. There will be daily excursions from Newark, New York, Trenton, Philadelphia and other cities, as well as the annual complement of Sunday-school trips.

A huge electric sign is to be placed on the roof of the Ocean Grove Auditorium, bearing the words "Ocean Grove" in twelve-foot letters, visible ten miles out to sea. Another sign, "Auditorium," will be placed over the entrance to the building.

GOOD MUSIC RENDERED AT ANNUAL MUSICALE

Delightful Affair at Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest Last Tuesday.

BY THE LADIES' GUILD.

DETAILED PROGRAMME AND THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

In Addition to Musical Numbers, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey Gave Several Excellent Recitations—Refreshments Were Served.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild, a delightful and well attended musicale was given at the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, last Tuesday. All the artists with one exception were from this city. In addition to the musical numbers Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey contributed several excellent recitations.

The programme as rendered was as follows: "Selection From the Opera," Gounod, Professor Pierre; soprano solo, "Angel Land," Pinsuti, Miss Elizabeth Forster; tenor solo, "O Restless Sea," White, Fred Tallamy; quartette, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," Foster, Juan Babcock, Miss Grace Phillips, Mrs. E. E. Brown and Fred Tallamy; recitation, "The Musicale," Miss Mary A. Luckey; contralto solo, "The Clang of the Wooden Shoon," Malloy, Mrs. Lewis H. Morgan; quartette, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom," Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Morgan, Mrs. E. E. Brown and Fred Tallamy; Tarantella in E minor, Smith, Professor Pierre; contralto solo, "A Winter Lullaby," DeKoven, Miss Grace Phillips; recitation, "Tabitha Tubbs at the Sewing Circle," Miss Mary A. Luckey; baritone solo, "Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night," Mack, Juan Babcock; soprano solo, "Perhaps Sometime in the Gloaming," Eversole, Mrs. E. E. Brown, final chorus, "Kentucky Babe," quartette.

During an intermission refreshments were served and an enjoyable half hour was spent. The proceeds from the affair will amount to a neat sum and will be devoted to church interests. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. William VanNorden, Mrs. E. E. Brown and William Burke.

DOCTORS AT SHORE.

Annual Meeting of Medical Society of New Jersey is in Session at Atlantic City This Week.

The one hundred and thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Medical Society of New Jersey is being held this week at Atlantic City, where a large number of physicians from all parts of the State are in attendance. The programme comprises a variety of subjects presented for treatment and discussion, including one by Dr. F. C. Ard, of this city, on "Radical Operation for the Relief of Chronic Purulent Disease of the Middle Ear." An interesting subject for discussion tomorrow morning will be "What are the Best Methods to Prevent the Spread of Tuberculosis?"

Among the present officers of the society is Dr. E. W. Hedges, of this city, who is the corresponding secretary.

Going a-Fishing.

Homer J. Wightman, principal of the North Plainfield High School, will leave for Thursday for Ithaca, New York. Mr. Wightman is a devotee of the quaint and gentle Izaak and the greater part of his vacation will be spent angling for speckled beauties in northern New York.

To Act on Resignation.

There will be an important meeting of the First Baptist church this evening when action concerning the resignation of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will be taken and other business transacted relative to the pastorate of the church. A full attendance of members is desired.

Private 'Phone Line.

The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company now has a telephone wire for private use from the company's office on Watchung avenue to the headquarters at Westfield. The line will shortly be extended to the Fourth street barns.

In Railroad Shops.

Cyrus Kinsman, of this city, who is a student at Cornell College, is now at Akron, O., devoting his time to the study of engineering in the works of the B. & O. R. R.

Odd Fellows to Elect.

Queen City Lodge, No. 236, and Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will elect officers Monday evening.

DOG RUN OVER.

A Valuable Spaniel Belonging to Harry Brittain Was Killed.

A large black cocker spaniel, owned by Harry Brittain, of Evens avenue, was run over by a careless carriage driver, Tuesday afternoon, on West Front street. The animal was badly injured and was put out of its misery by a well directed pistol shot. The driver of the wagon who was speeding at a reckless rate, drove on without stopping to learn the extent of the damage he had caused. Brittain claims the canine was a pedigreed one and captured several blue ribbons at dog shows.

NEEDS OF FRESH AIR HOME

WHAT IS NEEDED AT THE NETHERWOOD CHARITY AT PRESENT.

Donations May be Left With The Daily Press or Sent to the Treasurer of the Camp.

Since writing one week ago, we have had much reason for thankfulness because of the liberality of the response to our appeal for furnishings for the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. There are still more necessities required before we can throw open the doors of the home on Tuesday next, and we would urge that the responses to this appeal be made as promptly as possible.

In planning to give to this work, friends should remember that the children are very young, none being older than six years and some as young as six months old, therefore baby carriages, go carts, baby toys and picture books will be very acceptable.

We have received as many beds as we have room for, but no chairs or chests of drawers; we will need twelve small chairs and three or four rockers for the mothers. If any one has stoop or lawn chairs to spare they would be most useful.

Lend a hand! Do not think because yours is small,
Or because from its fingers no riches may fall,
It will mount you should render no succor at all.—J. Wolcott.

We wish to call the attention of the public to the Fresh Air Fund that has been started by The Daily Press for the two charities; we gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $10 contributed through this fund. Any one not desiring to use this fund as a medium for their gifts may send directly to the treasurer.

We will send for donations if notified. Any further information regarding our work may be obtained by telephoning No. 1131.

J. Wesley Johnson, Treas.
Chas. J. Fisk.
Lucius H. Biglow, Jr.

EUCHRE AT HOTEL.

Guests at Netherwood and Plainfield Society Folk Played Progressive Euchre Last Tuesday.

Progressive euchre was the pastime for the guests at the Hotel Netherwood last Tuesday, a goodly number of Plainfielders attended, one of whom was among the prize-winners. Sixteen tables were necessary to accommodate the players and W. H. Claes, of New York, acted as master of ceremonies.

The prize-winners were as follows: First, Mrs. Paul Sheldon, New York; second, Mrs. Dr. Hickok, Brooklyn, and Mrs. C. B. Rogers, tie; Mrs. Hickok won the play-off. Among the men four tied for first place, Ex-Congressman W. Irving Comes, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Kelley, of Plainfield, who played as a man; Bertram Sears, of New York, and Mr. Thorne, Brooklyn. Ex-Congressman Comes won the play-off, with Mrs. Kelley, of Plainfield, second.

During the intervals the Netherwood orchestra discoursed music, and several times during the evening bulletins were received from the New York Herald relative to the king's condition.

Completed Second Year.

Richard McCullough, son of Richard H. McCullough, of the borough, has completed his second year at Annapolis with honors. He is now off on a cruise along the Potomac. He anticipates a visit to his home next September.

Preacher Secured.

The members of the First Church of Christ have secured Rev. J. E. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, to preach for them every Sunday evening. Of late there has been an increased interest and attendance.

Fourth of July Oration.

Rev. Dr. Henry Elliott Mott will deliver the Fourth of July oration on the Washington Camp ground at Bound Brook. Plans are being formulated for a grand celebration.

WILL RETIRE FROM COUNCIL

Geo. P. Mellick Gave Dinner to Announce His Retirement From Public Life This Year.

COULD NOT BE THERE.

Illness Prevented the Host From Being Present, But Mrs. Mellick Received the Guests—Former Councilman Barrows Acted as Master of Ceremonies.

A delightful affair of last Tuesday was the entertainment of the members of the Common Council and other city officials at the summer home of Councilman and Mrs. George P. Mellick near the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Mr. Mellick had planned the dinner, but unfortunately because of illness, he could not be present. Mrs. Mellick very hospitably received the guests, and made them feel perfectly at home. The event was intended by Mr. Mellick as a time and place for the announcement that this will be his last term as a Councilman, it being his purpose to retire from this position at the close of his present term. It was the sentiment of all present, however, that Mr. Mellick should not retire, that he is a capable and efficient official and the city cannot afford to lose so valuable a member of the Council. There were many expressions of deep regret that Mr. Mellick could not be present last evening and many kind expressions were made in his behalf. The bungalow was most attractively arranged and decorated for the occasion and the illumination by candle power was very pretty. In the absence of the host, Elliott T. Barrows, a former councilman, acted as toastmaster, and in a very happy vein he conducted the programme. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and after the most excellent menu was partaken of, the time of the evening was devoted to speechmaking and a good social time. The speeches were of a high order and were listened to with a great deal of interest.

Among some of those present were Councilmen B. Frank Coriell, Leslie M. Daniel, E. E. Pray, Jan. vanHerwerden, R. I. Tolles, J. F. Buckle, William L. Gloak, Frank DeW. Randolph, Robert L. Lee, Clarence (L. Murphy; City Stenographer George B. Wean; Former Councilman J. B. Dumont; Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Tax Collector F. H. Smith, and Former Councilman E. T. Barrows.

A feature of the evening were the funnygraphs by Mr. Fitch, of New York, who helped to entertain the guests with comical stories. He was repeatedly recalled and his supply of amusing stories seemed exhaustless. It was 10 o'clock when the guests returned home and everyone was loud in their praise of Mr. and Mrs. Mellick for the good time provided.

Carried Off Prizes.

At the closing exercises last week of the College of St. Elizabeth, Convent Station, New Jersey, one of the oldest colleges for girls in the east, Miss Fannie Hillman, of Plainfield, daughter of J. H. Hillman, of West Seventh street, carried off prizes in philosophy, Greek, and for an English essay. Previous to entering the institution named, Miss Hillman was graduated from St. Mary's school, this city.

Liked the City Department.

Captain Bartis, of No. 133 Engine Company, Brooklyn, returned home Sunday after spending a few days at fire headquarters, Plainfield, the guest of W. F. Townley. The captain is off on a twenty-seven days' vacation and took in this city on his tour. He thinks highly of the Plainfield department, as well as of the city in general, and intends to take up his residence here when he retires from active service.

Expert Saddle Rider.

Miss Loretto Martin, of Newark, a well known and expert saddle rider, is spending the month visiting her sister, Mrs. Garret J. Powers, of Vine street. Miss Martin may be seen daily taking an early morning outing, accompanied by John P. Powers.

Final Merger.

Friday evening, June 27, is the date set for the final merger of Minnetonconk and Panghcaughcaughetonque Tribes, I. O. R. M.

BLACK AND WHITE EFFECTS

Unlined Gowns Seem to Be the Fad This Season.

The women who wishes to be economical will confine herself to black and white this season. She will also by so doing be in the height of style.

Black and white foulards are made shirt waist style and are neat and pretty for street wear. One of the smartest ways in which such a foulard can be made up is to lay the waist in tiny box plaits stitched flat and to treat the skirt in the same way, allowing the fullness to flare out below the knees. Of course these foulard shirt waist gowns are made unlined.

There seems to be a rage for unlined gowns this season, and they are made so even in expensive materials. Gowns are not so much boned as formerly, and, except in the case of stout women, the absence of bones improves the figure.

ETAMINE SUIT.

A navy blue etamine suit is here shown. The jacket is made blouse fashion, with open fronts, lined with lace. The skirt has two graduated ruffles, which are the fad. The trimming of the suit consists in bands of stitched satin.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESS FADS AND FANCIES.

Pongee Shades—The Double Green and Blue Veil.

A green veil draped over a blue one is a millinery fad just now. The veils are not worn over the face, but draped around the brim of the hat with long falling ends behind. Both the green and the blue are of the most vivid shades imaginable.

In Paris the rage for greens and blues has been superseded by one for red, particularly for that of a geranium shade. Red linon de soie is very smart, especially when trimmed with coarse lace and touches of oriental embroidery.

EVENING WRAP.

Some of the smartest coats seen recently at the races were of white embroidered in black or of a biscuit shade treated the same way.

Many coats for evening wear have large white and gold embroidered collars.

A handsome evening wrap of black bengaline silk is here shown. The lining is white satin, and the trimming consists of accordion plaited ruffles of black chiffon. The huge sleeves are made entirely of this accordion plaited chiffon. A facing of white lace appears down the front and at the bottom of the sleeves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Frightened Of.

"So Ethel delivered her essay at the graduation exercises for over half an hour, Jack, who was in the audience, must have felt proud of her."

"Not at all. He shuddered at the possibility of being married to such a talker and immediately broke off the engagement."—Baltimore Herald.

MORNING GOWNS.

They Are Made of Linen, Pongee and Silk Gingham.

For morning wear at summer resorts entire dresses will be worn much more than shirt waists.

Gowns made of ecru linen will be cut blouse fashion and worn with belts and stocks of different pale colors. Gowns of glace linen will be popular principally in pink and blue. They will be trimmed with bands of Russian embroidery and are rather tailor made in effect, being trimmed with many rows of stitching as well as strappings.

GRASS LINEN GOWN.

Blouse and skirt costumes of pongee are very useful and becoming. They can be washed like cotton.

Silk gingham is another material which lends itself to the morning costume. Made up with a tucked blouse waist, three-quarter length sleeves and a belt of beading with a ribbon run through, this makes a dainty dress. Unlined dresses of dotted muslin made with elbow sleeves are very cool looking for hot days.

A pretty grass linen gown is here shown. The waist is laid in tucks. There is a bolero effect headed and edged by wide ecru appliqué. The tops of the sleeves are tucked, and they terminate at the elbows with wide cuffs. The skirt has a tucked front panel and a tucked circular ruffle. The entire dress is trimmed with narrow black velvet ribbon.

The hat which goes with this is of ecru straw, trimmed with black and white tulle and an ecru ostrich feather.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SILKS AND CHIFFONS.

Light Colored Taffetas Much Used For Dressy Wear.

Light colored taffetas are being much used for evening wear. A recent example was a pink taffeta softened by applications of heavy ecru lace. The waist pouched both back and front.

A SMART RUFFLE.

The sleeves, and yoke were entirely of lace insertion, which also went down the skirt and spread at the bottom in intricate windings.

Foulard is not so popular as in former seasons. Plain materials are more fashionable. When foulard is used, it is usually of the satin finished variety in pale, almost indistinct, colorings.

Pongee is being made into dressy gowns, contrary to the custom of former seasons. It is trimmed with pale blue or deep red or else lace and chiffon in the same ecru shade. Worn with an ecru lace hat and a lace umbrella, this makes a charming costume.

The hat in the illustration is of tucked chiffon with a straw crown. The neck ruffle is of dotted net, with a cape effect formed of three ruffles and two ends shirred in three places. It is trimmed with narrow velvet ribbons run through beading.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Sunset Straw Toques—The Proper Way to Wear a Hat.

For seashore wear a couple of light flannel frocks made in comfortable blouse fashion, with loose short coats, will be found very useful.

Burnt straw toques and hats are ideal to wear with tailor made garments. These can be trimmed simply with detachable bows or foulard to match the costume with which they are worn.

Frenchwomen invariably wear their hats forward to shade the eyes. This is infinitely more becoming, as it throws a soft shadow and protects the face from the glare of the sun. If a woman wishes to wear her hat off her face, she can have it tilted up with a band, but it should still be allowed to extend forward.

NUN'S VEILING NEGLIGEE.

Ribbon work is a great deal used, and, in spite of the coming warm days, silk chenille embroidery has by no means gone out of fashion, but is seen on very sheer and delicate gowns.

A smart negligee of pale blue nun's veiling is here shown. It has a wide collar and also ruffles of yellow lace. The back and front hang in full gathers, and the sides are fitted.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EARLY SUMMER DRESS HINTS

The Prevalence of Red—A New Shade of Green.

Red and flame color are a great deal used in millinery. Whole hats covered with poppies are very charming. The all black picture hats are for the most part made of the new ribbon or bass straws and sometimes of leghorn.

Veils do not vary much. Fine, clear meshes are the favorites, while a white tulle veil dotted with large and small velvet dots is very becoming to a smooth skin.

The craze for white seems to be increasing. In linen, cambrics, muslins and cloth it reigns supreme. Nothing can be prettier or more dressy than an all white costume when shoes, hat, gloves and parasol match.

There is a new shade of green called Patrick green which is considered very smart in millinery just now. It is so vivid that it ruins the complexion of nearly every woman who wears it.

BLACK CREPE DE CHINE.

A pretty evening gown for a young matron is the one shown in the illustration. It is made of lustrous black crepe de chine. The skirt is accordion plaited and trimmed with two perpendicular insertions down the front. There is a girdle of lace, and the waist is made up of alternate strips of insertion and tucked bands of crepe de chine, with a transparent yoke of net having a berthe of the lace. The sleeves have tucked cuff upper halves and full puffs of the lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Coronation of Alexandra, Queen Consort

THE pageant of the crowning of kings and queens is one that may not henceforth often be repeated. It is worth while, therefore, to note what the coronation of Edward and Alexandra is like. For forty years the role of Alexandra has been to walk, a graceful puppet, through ceremonial British shows and will be to the end. Whatever the part, she plays it to perfection.

This is her part in the coronation:

Picture to yourself Westminster abbey, gray with coal smoke and weather stain on the outside, dingy with dust and cobwebs on the inside; but this very smouchiness itself is regarded with holy awe by the British nation. Up the central aisle is a platform walk, slightly raised lest the feet of royalty tread where those of common folk step. The walk is covered first with mats, then with crimson cloth. Immediately underneath the central tower of the abbey is an open square, called for this occasion only the "theater." A platform five steps high has been raised upon this square. All about here is gorgeous red or purple cloth bordered with gold, except the top of the platform and the top step leading to it, and these are covered with the richest and costliest cloth of gold that man can devise. If there could be devised anything more expensive than cloth of gold—say cloth of diamonds—the platform would be covered with that.

At 10 o'clock in the morning of the great day Queen Consort Alexandra enters the state coach at Buckingham palace and sits beside King Edward and is driven through the streets of London to Westminster abbey. She does not wear her coronation mantle in the coach, but just ordinary robes of state, in which she stands beside the king on such occasions as the opening of parliament. After she enters Westminster abbey the mantle of state is removed by her ladies, and the gorgeous coronation robe of purple velvet turned up with ermine and having a court train four yards long is put upon her. The court train falls from the shoulders. We may be very sure that this ceremony of undressing and dressing before all the folk in Westminster abbey will be undergone with consummate grace, like every other role in which the beautiful Dane appears.

Alexandra, automatic accompanier of Edward, walks up the crimson covered aisle with him. Edward, not Alexandra, is "it" on this occasion. Two chairs apiece are necessary for the crowning of the king and queen. The first two are upon the cloth of gold covered platform, and in them the royal couple sit while the archbishop of Canterbury tells the people that this man sitting in that chair upon the cloth of gold platform is their king and asks them if they are willing to serve him; whereupon they all do as they have been told to beforehand and shout aloud, "God save King Edward!"

It is now 11 o'clock. The queen has nothing to do but sit still and look pretty during the next two or three hours while the ancient pageant of making a dead sure king of her august husband proceeds. It is a most exhausting ceremony. After it is over Alexandra goes through her part, which is not much and does not take her long. No oath is required of her, since she has no part in the government of England. She has, however, a crown and throne chair of her own. Their majesties do not take their places in the throne chairs till the crowning. The throne chair in which Queen Alexandra will sit after having the one upon the platform was made for the coronation of William and Mary in 1689. Mary was crowned sovereign jointly with William, and this chair was for her. It was not used again till 1831, when Queen Adelaide, wife of William IV., sat in it when she was crowned.

ALEXANDRA IN CORONATION ROBES.

The queen's crown is historic, too, though alterations have been made in it for her use. For one thing, it will contain the great Koh-i-noor diamond, which never before has shone at a British coronation. Until the queen is anointed she will wear only her diadem, a simple decorated gold band or fillet, and she will be crowned not by the archbishop of Canterbury, like her husband, but by the archbishop of York. Her special crown was made originally for Mary of Modena, wife of the hapless King James II. It was named, however, the crown of St. Editha, for Queen Edith, wife of Edward the Confessor.

The ceremony in the abbey lasts about six hours. After it is over the king and queen, wearing their heavy crowns and state robes, must ride in state through London streets again, showing themselves to their people. And when all is done and the royal pair are back home at Buckingham palace and have a chance to snatch a cold bite we can well imagine the beautiful queen throwing off the monstrous weight of cloth and metal and stone, stretching up her lovely arms and even yawning in the king's face and exclaiming:

"Thank goodness, it's over!"

ALEXANDRA COSMO.

CHINA DECORATIONS.

Walls Are Hung With Plates, and China Pictures Are a Fad.

China plates are being much used for decorative purposes. Not only is this true of antique ware, but of the ordinary modern specimens. For this the coloring must be strong and the pattern effective. For this reason blue and white is a particular favorite, and squares of blue and white china are even framed in black oak and used as pictures. A new variety of Wedgwood ware is now being sold very cheap to satisfy this demand. The plates each represent a scene from one of Scott's or Dickens' novels, and there is a quaint title and English lettering.

A BLUE AND WHITE HALL.

The illustration shows a hall with white paneling which is entirely decorated with china. The ceiling is tinted a delicate white and gold; the frieze is blue and white. At the base of this is placed a plate rack, on which stand specimens of old blue china. At intervals along the walls similar bits of china are placed. The furniture is colonial, including a tall grandfather's clock, a fiddle backed chair and a round mahogany table. There is also an antique chest bearing a few choice pieces of blue china. The arches of white woodwork are particularly graceful and go well with this style of decoration. A few water color pictures hung here and there add touches of color. Any woman for a small sum could furnish her hall after this fashion.

A Dress For Summer.

A summer dress for walking and visiting is of delicate pale blue in a sort of crash made of coarse linen and cotton. It looks more like momie cloth really than what we have always called crash, but it makes up into really handsome gowns. This particular one was made in regular tailor style, with an arrangement of braid around the bottom in a darker shade of blue with white satin dots over the surface. The waist was in the form of a postilion at the back, while in front it was a kind of pointed jacket trimmed with the same braid and having notched edges each held by rounded mother of pearl buttons. Straps are put around the sleeves, carrying the same general style of trimming, and lace finishes the whole. The sleeves are like nearly all the sleeves now—wide and gathered at the wrist and close at the top.

Silks For the Season.

Crepe de chine is among the silks for the season, and it is offered in every color and tint. Liberty silks are shown in an overwhelming variety, but among the designs the dark blue and white scroll patterns seem to be rather the best liked. There is no end to the number of designs, all different, and she who has any difficulty in choosing something to her taste will find it in the immense number, each pattern being prettier than the last seen. The polka dot still retains its favor with womanking.

Look on the Bright Side.

When anything goes wrong, don't frown over like a flat drink, then sink down flat and dead, also like a flat drink. Train yourself to good temper and patience. Any woman can do it. Also train yourself to look on the bright side of things. You can do that, too, and when you do it there will never be any side but the bright one come your way.

SEPARATE WASH WAISTS.

They Are Soft In Effect and Button Down the Back.

The majority of the blouse waists button down the back. Like the dresses, the waists are soft and boast of no stiff or starched effect.

Waists of grass linen all laid in fine perpendicular tucks and trimmed with wide applique of linen colored lace are considered smart. White china silk blouses are trimmed with valenciennes in a plaided pattern. White organdies and mulls are trimmed with heavy Irish lace.

BLOUSE OF SPOTTED NET AND LACE.

The gingham shirt waist seems to be a thing of the past, even for athletics. The all white shirt waist prevails. This is probably because it launders so much more satisfactorily.

White pique suits are giving way to white cotton etamine and the glace linen ones.

Long dust coats of pongee are serviceable to cover muslin gowns when on the street or in a public conveyance. They are usually made with strapped seams and wide lace collars.

The cool, attractive waist in the illustration shows one of the latest designs. The yoke is transparent and has no collar. Across the bust and the upper parts of the sleeves there is a deep band composed of three shirrings and insertings. Below the waist is made very full. The sleeves have full transparent puffs gathered into a deep fitted undersleeve of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEMIDRESSY GOWNS.

Very Useful Dresses Which Can Be Worn on Many Occasions.

A useful gown is one which is half evening and half afternoon style. This high necked gown has elbow sleeves and dainty little touches of chiffon or embroidery. Such a gown can be worn to restaurants or the theater. Crepe de chine and wool veiling make especially good gowns of this sort.

WHITE VEILING GOWN.

Just now there is a perfect craze for all the linen and pongee shades. This is to the almost complete exclusion of gray. The woman who thinks she cannot wear the trying ecru shades should try combining them with just the right shade of cherry red. Touches of this in the shape of embroidery or a band around the top of the collar even will make the trying shade of ecru becoming.

Colored shirt waists are almost entirely out of style. White, black and ecru are the only colors now worn in cotton blouses by women who understand the art of dressing well.

This pretty gown is made of white veiling and is trimmed with yellow lace. The waist is bloused and laid in clusters of three tucks, between which the applications of lace are placed. The sleeves have big puffs set into a cuff of lace. The skirt is tucked in clusters of three and finished with three folds around the bottom.

The hat which goes with this is of white straw, trimmed with cherries and their leaves.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HANDSOME GOWNS.

Artificial Flowers Are Much Used For Trimming Them.

Flowers are used on evening dresses in many ways, such as the powdering of single blossoms over the tunic and bertha or in a ruche placed at regular intervals. Ribbon is less used as a garniture, but choux of velvet or loose knots of velvet holding sprays of artificial flowers are very effective on pale gowns.

The applique craze has reached such a height that even artificial flowers and foliage are arranged in this way; but, excepting to surround a decolletage or to head a flounce, the effect is too stiff to be very successful. Garnitures of pearls, groups of tinsel butterflies or dragon flies and choux of velvet or satin edged with turquoise or coral beads are favorite ornaments for dancing gowns.

PALE BLUE MULL.

Exquisite robes of lace are shown with a heavy foot ruche of crepe de chine or chiffon, and where the pattern is sufficiently open horizontal stripes of velvet are run in and out, and tinsel ribbon is employed in the same fashion.

The subject of the sketch is a pretty pale blue mull gown. The waist is made with a tucked yoke and a bolero of lace, of which also the sleeves are made. The skirt has a yoke of the lace and is accordion plaited. The lace bolero and yoke are further ornamented by embroidery squares.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESS HINTS.

Picture Gowns—Details of the Summer Muslins.

With plaited or baby bodices the belt is invariably wide at the back and narrow in front. Gold and silver tinsel is much worn on black and white gowns. The colored velvet belt is also popular, especially when choux of the same velvet are used elsewhere on the gown.

Chiffon, crepe de chine and even the old fashioned areophine are used for the now popular picture gown. Fichus of soft mull are a feature of these dresses.

The summer muslins are marvels of daintiness. They are almost all made with elbow sleeves, and quite a few are collarless. Perpendicular trimmings are marked features, together with many little ruffles. The skirts measure more around the bottom and are if anything more carefully fitted around the hips.

WHITE FLANNEL BLOUSE.

The majority of the ruffles are put on full, but occasionally one sees a group of gored ruffles overlapping each other regularly and edged with a narrow fluffy ruching.

A waist of white flannel useful for the beach and mountains is shown in the cut. It is made with a novel arrangement of stitching which gives a low bust effect. The stock is of white taffeta trimmed with Irish lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Nice Job.

Stubb—I heard that man say for mile after mile nothing but great quantities of ice stared him in the face. Is he an arctic explorer?

Penn—No; he works on the back of an ice wagon.—Chicago News.

CURB ON INQUISITIVE PEOPLE.

Chicago Man's Way of Getting Rid of an Impudent Crowd in a Southern Town.

"Some people have a great deal of curiosity," said a Chicago traveling man, as he sat swapping experiences with a group of his fellows at the club, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. "On my last trip south I took in a town that I had never visited before. The town was growing, and, among other improvements, was the establishment of a public stenographer in the office of the principal hotel. The stenographer, a pretty young lady, seemed quite an attraction to the young men of the town, and there was generally a dozen or more of them hanging around her.

"I had quite a lot of writing to do when I arrived, and I engaged her for the evening, and after supper I sat down to dictate. The usual crowd of youths and men were around, and when I began they at first moved back to a respectful distance. After a few minutes, however, they began to edge closer, and finally formed a ring around the stenographer and myself—so close that they could hear every word of my dictation. This was very annoying, and I determined to put an end to their impudence. So I began dictating a letter to my wife, in which I spoke of my arrival in the town, of which I gave a brief description, and then continued:

"'The people here are the most sociable I have met. And sit here dictating a dozen of them are crowded around listening to every word I say. This is no doubt a fine trait, but it is somewhat annoying to the pretty girl who is doing my work.'

"In a minute the listeners began to move away, and after that I was not bothered with their curiosity."

FOXES TO PROTECT SHEEP.

Queer Experiment of Four Women to Drive Out Gulls from Their Island Pasture.

According to the statement of the majority of the game wardens under the supervision of the American Ornithologists' union the summer boarder "who is out for sport and will shoot anything in sight" is the greatest menace to the protection of bird life.

An amusing exception, however, to the general cheerful indorsement by the natives of the protective policy of the society is brought to light by the report of Charles Holt, keeper of the Wash Island light, says the New York Mail and Express.

On Cone Island, a breeding place for herring gulls, within his official territory, there have been numbered this year only 600 gulls, as against 900 last year. The annual small increase he attributes not to the occasional visitor, but to an entirely different cause.

The resident proprietors of the island are two women—a mother and three daughters—who own a large flock of sheep. Claiming that the birds destroy a large portion of the grass they bought a few months ago, four fowls, and have allowed to roam at will through the fields. The foxes have carried out the desires of their mistresses by creating widespread devastation among the eggs and the young of the unfortunate gulls.

The friends of the birds are, however, patiently biding their time. They think that without doubt the foxes will destroy the young lambs in the spring and thus defeat the purpose for which they were imported.

LAMB DINED ON SHIP'S LOG.

Also Waxed Lusty on the Mate's Best Clothes, Cat's Fur and Parrot's Feathers.

With her main and fore topsail gone, several masts splintered, her steering gear damaged and her logbook destroyed, the stout sailing ship Loch Finlas, of 2,600 tons, was towed into port one night lately and docked at the Erie basin, New York. Had it not been for the abnormal appetite of Rastus, a pet Chilian lamb, who, finding the ship's log on a chair in the cabin two weeks ago, devoured its leaves and part of its cover, Capt. Deans said that he could give a more circumstantial narrative of his adventurous and stormy voyage, states the New York Times.

Rastus was a wee bit of a lamb when we left Tocopilla, Chili, 127 days ago," said Capt. Deans, "but on our long trip lamkie has grown to a remarkable extent. For nearly a month the animal has eaten nothing but papers, including the ship's log; clothes, including the first mate's best jacket, buttons and all; fur from the back of our pet cat, upon which he took every opportunity, and feathers he has slyly slipped from my big white parrot."

The Loch Finlas struck terrific northwesters soon after leaving Bermuda and Capt Deans removed his clothing for the first time in 18 days, during which period he was not able to snatch more than an hour's sleep at any one time and sometimes got none at all for days at a stretch. He says the storms of the last month were the severest in his 40 years' experience.

Where Vanity Rules.

A French explorer has discovered on the west coast of Africa what he regards as the vainest people on earth. They are the Pahonins, a warlike tribe, whose main employment is the adornment of their persons, chiefly by means of tattooing. Great ingenuity is also exhibited in dressing their hair, which in many cases is arranged in astonishingly elaborate fashion.

Golden Hair.

In Turkey red hair is counted a great beauty and the women dye their hair that tint.

SMALL IOWA HEROINE.

Waves Her Little Red Jacket as a Signal and Stops a Train at a Critical Moment.

A Chicago American correspondent, writing from Greenville, Ia., says that a little blue-eyed heroine of eight summers in the person of little Clara Schlosser is receiving homage from scores of thankful travelers and the members of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul crew of passenger train No. 4. By her presence of mind and bravery she averted a wreck, the results of which are not pleasant to contemplate.

The track leading through this city makes a sharp turn near the Schlosser home and the little girl knows as well as the trainmen when the train is due. A large drayhorse, in crossing the track, became fastened in the culverts, and the little girl knew she could not summon help before the train arrived, going at full speed. Hardly had the thought crossed her mind before the whistle of the locomotive foretold that she must act quickly.

USED JACKET AS SIGNAL.

In an instant she had the little red jacket which she wore in her hands and standing in the center of the track, oblivious of the awful danger to which she was subject, began to wave with all the strength her little body could command. Within a few yards of her Engineer Meyers brought his locomotive to a dead stop and the passengers and trainmen began to come from the train only to find their little guardian angel gone. Determined to locate the savior of his passengers Engineer Meyers informed the police of the incident and they searched all day before she was located.

"I was afraid Mr. Conductor would scold me," she said, when questioned as to why she ran away.

"Why did you wave the red jacket?" she was asked.

"I have seen the man at the crossing wave the red flag and stop the train and I was afraid the poor horse would be run over."

"Didn't you think the train might be wrecked and the people killed?"

"No, I didn't think of the people until it was all over," she said, timidly.

"Were you not frightened?"

"No, I was thinking of the poor horse and did not think of being afraid."

The little heroine is the daughter of Fred Schlosser, a saloonkeeper.

When the trains pass her home now the trainmen watch for her and tip their caps.

DOG AT THE 'PHONE.

Professional Nurse in New York Exchanges Greetings with Absent Pet Over the Wire.

Trusty is a dog. His mistress is a professional nurse and lives with her mother. They have a telephone.

When the nurse is detained by her business away from home over night

TRUSTY WAS OVERJOYED.

she 'phones to her mother to relieve the latter's anxiety. The other night after talking with her mother over the wire she asked to speak to Trusty.

The dog, says the New York Sun, was by the side of the mother. The mother 'phoned that fact to her daughter who 'phoned back to have the receiver placed at Trusty's ear.

This was done and the mistress of the dog talked to him. That he recognized her voice was evident, for he barked and appeared overjoyed.

After the receiver was hung up Trusty jumped toward it and acted as if he wanted it taken down. During the night he lay near the telephone and frequently looked up at the receiver and whined.

In the morning he sat before it and howled until the mistress was called up. She commanded him to keep quiet, and not until then did he go away.

VARNISHED HER HUBBY.

Why Mrs. George Will Hereafter Buy Her Turpentine in Drug Store Instead of Paint Shop.

The penny earned by saving may bring with it a two pennyworth of suffering. The New York Mail and Express tells of such a case:

Peter H. George, of the upper West side, has been troubled with rheumatism, and on damp days suffers severe pains in the muscles of his chest, back and arms. His wife rubs him vigorously with turpentine, and he usually gets relief. One of the muggy days recently brought on an attack, and Mrs. George was disappointed to find the turpentine bottle empty.

"WELL, OF ALL THINGS!"

The servant was sent out to buy a quart, which she did at a neighboring paint shop. It cost ten cents less than at the druggist's. Mr. George was rubbed well, dosed with colchicum, and put to bed. Early next morning he called loudly for his wife.

"My dear," he said, "will you oblige me by getting the hammer out of the tool chest?"

"The hammer?" echoed Mrs. George. "Well, what in the world—"

"The hammer, I said," repeated Mr. George, "and the cold chisel."

"The hammer and the cold chisel?" Mrs. George echoed again. "Are you out of your head?"

"No," replied Peter, "I am not out of my head, but I want to get out of my shell. I want to be broken open. I am the great human, upper West side oyster. Look here," and Mr. George sat up in bed and exposed his arms from shoulder to wrist. They were both as highly glazed as a well-polished piano, and his back and chest were in the same condition.

"Well, of all things!" exclaimed Mrs. George. "I do declare, the painter has given us turpentine mixed with shellac, and I have been varnishing you just as if you were a sideboard."

Investigation proved the truth of Mrs. George's statement, and it took an hour to get the veneer off Mr. George's skin, during which process he made many emphatic remarks.

JILTED SUITOR'S REVENGE.

He Sent Several Packages of Limburger Cheese to the Girl Who Had Hurt His Feelings.

A good story on a young lady who had charge of the general delivery window at the Toledo post office, and who may still have charge of it, was told by an Ohioan in the post office department to a Cincinnati Enquirer correspondent. He says this young lady was engaged to a young Toledo man, but for some reason broke off the match. Some days later a small package arrived at the general delivery window, addressed to an unusual name. Shortly after its arrival a distinct and unpleasant odor was noticed about the window. The next day another package addressed to an equally uncommon name, care general delivery, arrived. It was noticed that the unpleasant odor increased almost simultaneously with the arrival of the second package. The third day came another package, and so on until a dozen lay in the pigeon holes of the general delivery department. By this time the odor became unbearable, and the postmaster's position at the window untenable, so an investigation was ordered, and it was discovered the addresses were fictitious, and the packages contained nothing but Limburger cheese. A hint was dropped to the young man who had formerly been engaged to the post office clerk, and no more packages were received.

THE ODOR BECAME ELOQUENT.

CARE OF THE WET UMBRELLA.

Uncle Hiram Tells His Grandnephew What His Own Grandfather Had Told Him.

"My grandfather told me about it," said Uncle Hiram, according to the New York Sun. He suspected my grandnephew asks me why we stand a wet umbrella to drip out tip but handle downward.

"I told my grandnephew that the reason for standing a wet umbrella on its handle rather than on its tip is that if it were stood on its tip more or less of the water on it running down the sides would, instead of running off, settle in the folds of the cloth around where the bows are joined to the stick and soak that part of the cloth which would remain wet or damp longer than the rest, and so have a tendency to rot and break.

"I have seen many an umbrella with a ragged edge little hole around the stick at the top that had been caused by the cloth decaying there from this cause; but you don't see so many of these nowadays as you used to for the simple reason that people are more intelligent nowadays about the care of umbrellas, as they are about all things else.

"Still, there's my grandnephew, a bright youngster, certainly, and he didn't know, and there must be others; and for their benft Uncle Hiram says, as to how to stand a wet umbrella when you bring it in from outdoors:

"Stand it on the handle."

BLOODY FIGHT OF EAGLES.

A Royal Pair in the New York Zoo Engage in a Fierce Conflict.

At the zoo in Central park, New York, there was a fierce and bloody fight the other day. The outcome, it is feared, may prove fatal to the male eagle, who provoked the battle. No one knows just how it started, but it may have been a scurrilous remark about the personal appearance of his mighty mate that drew down her wrath upon the luckless male—anyway, they fought.

Loud screams and angry thrashings in the cage first drew the keeper's attention to the combat. A terrific fight ful mix-up. The great curved beaks tore, the fearful talons struck and cut, the powerful wings beat and pommeled as the pair rolled in conflict on the floor. There was a brown nimbus of down and feathers in the air about them.

The female is much the larger and more powerful bird, says the New York Times, and at last succeeded in vanquishing her partner. He, poor, battered, featherless wretch, presented a pitiable sight when rescued by his keeper, though his eyes still flashed defiantly and his weak voice shrieked undying hatred at his conqueror. It was feared he would never recover.

FASHIONS IN WORDS.

"Lady" and "Party" Are Now Coming Back into Favor After Long Disuse.

A word that is gradually coming into its own again after a period of neglect is "lady." After having been overworked until it lost its significance, the word was dropped out and excelled from all polite, if not educated conversation.

Now there is a tendency to receive "lady" back into the modish vocabulary. The word is occasionally heard in the talk of those who flatter themselves that they speak the latest New Yorkese. But it must be uttered with a slight emphasis in order to show that the word has just been taken up, says the New York Sun.

"Party" has after a term of banishment been restored to high favor in drawing-room conversation. Only a few years ago the word was as much scorned as "lady" in circles that were supposed to be critical in details of such importance. It was never heard.

But now "party" is among the overworked words of the fashionable vocabulary and is added to every term of description.

Thus one hears of "musical parties," "dancing parties," and so on through out the whole category.

ESTIMATING COAL SUPPLY.

Some Startling Figures as to the Unmined Quantity of Pennsylvania Anthracite.

A banking house in New York has made an estimate of the coal which remains in the anthracite beds of Pennsylvania, and finds that there are still 3,072,775,000 tons unmined. These beds are, with insignificant exceptions, the property of eight railroad corporations, which expect to mine 50,000,000 tons this season. At this rate the coal would last about 100 years; but the consumption of coal is constantly increasing, and if the estimate of the banking house is correct, the anthracite field of Pennsylvania will be exhausted long before the end of the century. Mr. Baltimore is a conservative.

While this coal is at present the most accessible and of excellent quality, there are other anthracite deposits which may be brought into general use within a few years that will remove all anxiety concerning the supply. The bituminous and semi-bituminous coal deposits are practically inexhaustible, and they extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, some of the southwestern states and territories being to a large extent beds of coal.

Secret of Long Life.

A physician has declared that if only 20 minutes a day were spent in physical exercise as an adjunct to mental education most people might live to 70 without a day's illness, and perhaps prolong their lives to 100 years.

THE OLYMPIAN GAMES.

President Roosevelt Suggested for Honorary President of the Great Athletic Event of 1904.

President Roosevelt as honorary president of the international Olympian games to be held in Chicago in 1904? Baron Coubertin, of Paris, the great and moving spirit in the international Olympian committee, as well as its executive, has written a letter to President Roosevelt asking him to accept the honorary position. Ambassador Porter has been given the letter, and in due time it will be placed before the president.

That Baron Coubertin on more than one occasion has shown his exceedingly pronounced friendship for

WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON.
(Chicago Head of the Olympian Games, to Be Held in 1904.)

the United States, and especially for Chicago, is known to those who were most prominent in getting the Olympian games for that city. Europe did not desire the games to go to the new world. Eastern cities, New York and Philadelphia, had out their lobbyists for the games. But the baron had carefully studied the situation and had spoken so highly of this country and the world's fair city that Chicago easily won the fight. In Europe President Roosevelt is regarded as the wholesome type of athletic enthusiast. With the international games directly under the supervision of the nation's chief, the foreigners will have great faith in the exercises at the stadium.

"Rooter in Washington for Harvard when the crimson met the blue; rooter on the side lines for the army teams at Philadelphia when the West Pointers met the middies of Annapolis, and champion of all good healthy, manly sports, was and is Theodore Roosevelt," said a Chicago worker for the success of the Olympian games. "Why should not Mr. Roosevelt accept the position? We think he will."

RIGID DISCIPLINARIAN.

Bishop Charles C. McCabe Believes in the Semi-Military Government of Churches.

Bishop Charles C. McCabe, who is being harshly criticised by several members of the Emmanuel Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston, Ill. (because of his alleged autocratic methods of church government), is noted for his plain and outspoken disregard of opinion and for the general sturdiness of his mind. He has been a minister of the gospel for upwards of 40 years and came originally from Ohio, from which state he went to the civil war in the uniform of a fighting soldier. The future bishop backed up his political principles with bullets, and after serving his term in Libby prison he left the army because of the failure of his health. His first pastorate was a little church at Portsmouth, O. Bishop McCabe's principal distinction has been his remarkable success as a collector of funds for missionary purposes, and in that capacity he stands unrivaled in the ranks of American church workers. He is 64 years old.

CHARLES M'CABE.
(One of the Most Forceful Bishops of the Methodist Church.)

Paternalism in Norway.

The paternal government of Norway has a fund of money amounting to about $500,000, which is loaned to farmers through the municipal officers to assist them in buying land. Such a proposition was advanced by the populists of Kansas some years ago and did not meet with any favor, but generally with ridicule. In Norway, however, it is actually in practice and small sums are loaned to industrious people at three per cent. interest for a term of 25 years to enable them to acquire farms and improve not only themselves, but the state.

STORIES OF COCKRAN.

Famous New York Lawyer and Orator Has a Personal Charm That Is Irresistible.

Like several other famous New York men, W. Bourke Cockran was employed as a boy in the great dry goods store of the late Alexander T. Stewart. The strict ideas of thrift and economy that were insisted upon by the famous merchant were well known to young Cockran, as they were to every other employe in the establishment. But, like most boys, he became careless at times. One day Mr. Stewart caught him wasting string in tying up a package and discharged him.

Young Cockran never forgot the lesson and never forgave Mr. Stewart.

W. BOURKE COCKRAN.
(Lawyer, Orator and Eloquent Friend of the Boer.)

Years afterward, when he became a prominent lawyer he joined the Manhattan club, then the leading democratic social organization in New York city. One night, after the club had bought and moved into the Stewart marble mansion at Thirty-Fourth street and Fifth avenue, Bourke Cockran joined a few friends in the cafe and ordered a drink and a cigar. Of late years he has been a strict tetotaler, but in those days he took a drink with "the boys." After lighting the cigar, Cockran put his feet on the table and upset his drink on the carpet in a manner that seemed too deliberate to be accidental. His companions looked at him in astonishment. Cockran gazed into the glowing grate fire and rubbed his hands with satisfaction. Then he told about Stewart's treatment of him as a boy.

"After all these years," he concluded, "you don't know what a satisfaction it is to me to come in here and do just as I blank please in the old cedger's dining-room."

No one ever talked five minutes with Bourke Cockran, says the Philadelphia Press, without falling under the spell of his wonderful personal charm, for he is as compelling in his conversation as in his oratory.

And no one has ever spoken more appreciatively of him than Mrs. William Astor, who, after he had won relations with the metropolitan four hundred, invited him to dine at the Astor board. Meeting a friend a day or two subsequent to the dinner, she said:

"I have dined with a very large proportion of the men now in public and social life on both sides of the Atlantic; Mr. Cockran is decidedly the most interesting character I have ever met."

DUKE OF HAMILTON.

Premier Peer of Scotland Married to Miss Nina Poore, a Famous English Beauty.

The duke of Hamilton was married to Miss Nina Poore at Salisbury a few days ago. The ceremony took place at noon. Only half a dozen relatives were present. Two little girls acted as bridesmaids. No reception followed the wedding and there was an entire absence of the elaborate ceremonies usually attending ducal weddings.

DUKE OF HAMILTON.
(Premier Peer of Scotland and Patron of Arts and Crafts.)

Alfred Douglas Hamilton, duke of Hamilton, marquis of Douglas and Clydesdale, earl of Angus, Lanark and Selkirk, lord of ten manors in Scotland and duke of Brandon of England, is 29 years old and the thirteenth in line of the duchy. This noble is one of the few who retain the medieval ducal privileges of a private army and a private chaplain. He owns 157,000 acres and lives in one of the finest palaces in Europe. Outside of his lofty place in the peerage the present duke has done nothing to gain fame. Miss Poore, his bride, is a relative of Maj. Poore, who married Lady Flora Hamilton in 1898.

THEODORE C. SEARCH.

Philadelphia Hat Manufacturer Wants to Be Secretary of Commerce and Industries.

Theodore C. Search, the president of the reciprocity convention which recently met at Washington, is an optimist of the first water. He says the convention marks "a great stride toward reciprocity." Nearly everybody else bade the delegates good-by with the feeling that, like the king of France, they had merely "marched up the hill and down again," for the resolutions adopted favored only that brand of reciprocity which interferes with no American industry. The average man is of the opinion that this kind of reciprocity is no reciprocity at all, for, as President McKinley said, this country must confer favors if it is to receive favors, and some lines of trade are pretty sure to be interfered with when we begin to extend concessions in exchange for foreign commerce.

THEODORE C. SEARCH.
(Philadelphia Manufacturer Who Wants Seat in Cabinet.)

Mr. Search is said to be a candidate for the new cabinet position which will be created by the establishment of the proposed department of commerce and industries. He is a Philadelphia manufacturer, and his friends say he is admirably fitted for the place. Those who are pushing his claims hint that it is his due for being identified with the original movement demanding the new department. The Chicago Post points out that Chicago business men were the pioneers in this agitation, having brought the subject before the administration four years ago. Chicago, continues that paper, should not let the Quaker City steal its thunder, and when the time comes might ask with good grace for the appointment of one of its own citizens. Illinois has one cabinet member now; but so has Pennsylvania, for that matter.

THOMAS B. FERGUSON.

New Governor of Oklahoma Once Was Cleveland's Minister to Sweden and Norway.

Thomas B. Ferguson, the newly appointed governor of Oklahoma, was appointed minister to Norway and Sweden by President Cleveland in 1894. He is a native of Maryland, credited to Baltimore, but he made his home in Washington for many years previous to his appointment. He was a member of the United States fish commission and served with great ability, using his wealth and high social position to make the commission a popular service at a time when the work was in its infancy and needed friends.

At the capital, where he is widely known and honored, he is called

THOMAS B. FERGUSON.
(Appointed Governor of Oklahoma by President Roosevelt.)

"major," and he and Mrs. Ferguson, who was a daughter of Gov. Swan, of Maryland, were prominent figures in Washington society. Their house on Highland terrace, Massachusetts avenue, was the center of the very best life in the city. Mrs. Ferguson met a cruel death a few months before her husband went to Sweden, the result of a street car accident.

Maj. Ferguson has never been active in politics, but he is known as a strong democrat. He is of kindly nature, of tact and ability, and is accredited with high merit as a diplomat.

Germans Like Our Tobacco.

In no other country in the world is the cigar so popular as in Germany, so much so that it is impossible to raise enough tobacco in the empire to supply the domestic demand. Last year Germany imported nearly $22,000,000 worth of tobacco, a little more than a third of it coming from the United States. The use of the cigarette is rapidly spreading in Germany. Last year 385 tons of cigarettes were consumed, at least five times as many as were needed ten years ago.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Fiske, Editor and Proprietor

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

For twenty-seven young people, last Thursday marked an important epoch. On that occasion, they bade farewell to school life and stepped out into the world, some to continue their education at higher institutions of learning and others to begin a business career or to fill a place in the home life. It meant that four years had been spent profitably and that the prescribed course in the highest department of the city schools had been completed with credit. For some, through natural ability or special application, there were more honors than for others but for all it meant a task performed and the entrance into the greater responsibilities with the chance of greater rewards.

It is at a time like this that the people of Plainfield are brought to a keener realization of the excellence of the city public schools. The bright, energetic young folk, who received their diplomas last evening, evidenced in every word and action that they have been well trained along the lines laid down. They are today well equipped to do better and greater work than ever before. This would not have been possible but for careful, painstaking work in the past. The present high standard of the City High School was demonstrated by these eager young people.

There have been words of criticism in that past by some few who do not believe in the higher education at public expense. They argue that it is only the wealthy or well-to-do, who are able to take advantage of it and that they are perfectly able to meet the expense themselves. It is a narrow view. The graduates of the Plainfield High School have never been confined to the wealthy class. There have been many who possessed but little of the world's goods when they completed their course at the City High School. With the education they there received, they have since prospered and become prominent members of the communities in which they live. The list of graduates in past years shows many men and women who have succeeded in life through their own efforts.

It may be argued that success would have come to them, even had they not received their education in the public schools. Undoubtedly the education there obtained is not the cause of their success but a good education, well founded, is the means of bringing greater opportunities and a greater capacity for taking advantage of these opportunities.

The world is now before these twenty-seven young people. They have received a good High School education. They cannot expect it to win for them an important place in the world. All the schools in the land cannot do that. The training they have received will, however, stand them in good stead and will aid them in more ways than one in advancing step by step up the pathway of success. They have the foundation. The rest remains with themselves.

WELL GOVERNED CITY.

Those who are acquainted with the municipal governments of New Jersey and the adjacent States can bear testimony that Plainfield is one of the best governed cities to be found in the east. For the amount paid out by the taxpayers, Plainfield gets more actual benefit than do the vast majority of cities. This can be accounted for in two ways.

Plainfield does not possess a very complicated system of municipal government. There is very little red tape as compared with some cities and that means a considerable reduction in the cost of running the city's affairs. Where some cities are burdened with a host of office holders, who are all drawing fat salaries, Plainfield has comparatively few, only enough to actually transact the city's business and none of these are paid more than justice demands, many of them serving with no financial reward at all.

A second reason is that the municipal machinery is singularly free from corruption. The men, who are in charge of the city affairs, may make mistakes occasionally but their integrity is above question. In the Common Council, a place where corruption finds its way in many cities, the city's interests are particularly well guarded. While all may not agree as to the judgment of the Councilmen in certain acts, there is no one who can point out a single case of dishonesty or anything that savors in the slightest of it.

This is the city to which it is proposed to add the borough of North Plainfield. While North Plainfield is equally free from such unpleasant features today, the people of North Plainfield need have no fear for the future when they shall be joined with Plainfield. The city is cleanly and well governed and the interests of the borough will be just as well cared for as are now the interests of the city.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call through death our beloved brother and fellow citizen, H. Newton Spencer, from day midst, and,

Whereas, We, the members of the Exempt Firemen's Association, not only conscious of our own loss, but in sympathy with the deep sorrow of his bereaved family, do hereby Resolve, That we extend to those nearest and dearest to our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy in their great loss, that of a loving husband and a tender father; while we mourn the loss of fraternal companionship with one endeared to all his associates, an honored citizen, respected in his official duties, and whose genial smile was a glad welcome to all.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon our minutes, published in the daily papers and a copy sent to his bereaved family.

Fred. A. Mumford,
Guillermo Thorn,
E. M. Laing,
Committee.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has seen fit to call home from an earthly pilgrimage our esteemed brother and fellow member, Wm. M. Wooden, therefore we, members of the Exempt Firemen's Association, desire to bow in humble submission to the will of Him "who doeth all things well," at the same time bearing testimony to the many noble qualities of our departed brother, not only as a citizen, but as a companion whom we loved to honor, and whose memory we shall ever cherish. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we extend to his beloved wife and family our sincere sympathy in their deep affliction and long, trying ordeal that the Divine Comforter may assuage their grief in the hopes of a glorious reunion. And be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our society, published in the daily papers and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

Fred. A. Mumford,
Guillermo Thorn,
E. M. Laing,
Committee

FEW NEW LAWYERS.

Smallest Class for Several Years Passed Examinations Last Week.

The result of the recent attorneys' and counselors' examinations, held under the new rules promulgated by the Supreme Court, was announced last week by the examiners, Charles H. Hartsborne, Frank H. Sommer and Howard M. Cooper.

Of a class of twenty-nine attorneys who took the counselors' examinations, nine failed, while fifteen of a class of forty-eight candidates for admission to the bar as attorneys did likewise. This reduced the number of new lawyers to thirty-three, the smallest class admitted for several years.

Saw Murderer Grether.

While Chief Kiely was in Belvidere Saturday in company with the delegates to the Republican Congressional convention, he called at the jail where he had the privilege of seeing Charles Grether, the convicted murderer who recently escaped from the Stroudsburg, Pa., jail, and was captured Friday, five days later, at Belvidere.

Don't Like the Noise.

Complaint is made by residents of Grove street, in the vicinity of Prospect place, against boys who fire off fire-crackers to the annoyance of nervous and sick people. There is a law against this practice, except on July 4, and the boys are known and warned to desist, or they may be fined.

Too Much Shade.

An improvement which would greatly benefit the condition of West Front street near Washington avenue would be trimming of the large trees at that point. In the summer these trees have so much shade that the sunlight cannot reach the street and dry it properly. The street is invariably at this season very wet and unhealthy.

Temperance Programme.

There was a special programe of interest at the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school Sunday afternoon, when recitations and special music relative to temperance was presented by the pupils and members of the W. C. T. U. During the afternoon an able address was delivered by W. D. Williams.

Came From Somerville to Wed.

William Thomas Heath, of Somerville, was married Saturday evening at the residence of Rev. J. W. Richardson, this city, to Miss Bertha Lent Apgar, also of Somerville.

Has Bought the Arlington.

Charles Jensen, of the borough, has recently purchased from Joseph A. Blatz, the Hotel Arlington at the corner of Greenbrook road and Somerset street.

After a Shore Dinner.

Harry Werner, of West Front street, chaperoned a party of friends to Milford, Conn., Sunday, where all enjoyed a shore dinner at the River View Hotel.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Carrin, of Logansport, Ind. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. L. W. Randolph.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it gratis, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or not. Come in and ask questions about lamps. We want you to think of ROCHESTER LAMPS whenever you think of LAMPS. We don't want you to consider us as lamp fiends, but any dealer in lamps is a RETAILER. We do not deal at wholesale. We sell at retail. And every lamp that has not the name stamped on it we will not sell as a Rochester. We will not sell lamps, shades, globes or chimneys as such for the purpose of trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
35 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

"All the best, always" may sound a bit vainglorious to you, but it will not if you are a patron of Keith's Theatre. Starting with this as his motto B. F. Keith, the originator of continuous vaudeville, has succeeded in keeping the lead over all his competitors. First assuring the comfort of his patrons by the exercise of the greatest care in every particular, his next endeavor has been to always present a programme which is not only superior to that offered at any other vaudeville theatre, but a programme in which every act is clean, and from the dialogue of which every suspicion of vulgarity has been removed. A wide variety of tastes will find satisfaction in the bill offered for the coming week, on which the headliners are Clayton White-Marie Stuart and Co., who will present their sketch "Dickey," perhaps the best known and most popular of their many successes. The Three Marvelles, the celebrated grotesque acrobats and dancers; and James Richmond Glenroy, far-famed as "The Man With the Green Gloves," are worthy of more than passing notice even upon this bill. Alex. Heindl, 'cello soloist; and the Empire City Four, will delight those who are fond of really good music. Hayes and Wynne, in their artistic dancing specialties; Mitchell and Cain, eccentric comedians, with fourteen other great acts, including many European novelties, help Mr. Keith to make good his boast of "All the best, always."

"A Chinese Honeymoon" is plunging into its third big week at the Casino, New York, like a record breaker. An enterprising management which keeps the pretty theatre delightfully cool, neat and clean and which is constantly re-decorating the lobby, approaches, foyer and auditoriums has a great deal to do with this. But aside from these pleasant features the play is so merry and tuneful and Messrs. Shubert, Nixon & Zimmerman have such an exceptionally clever cast that there is no reason why it should not keep the standing room only sign busy for a long time.

The success of summer vaudeville at summer prices in Newark has induced General Manager J. Austin Fynes to keep Proctor's open throughout the year. It is possible that within a few weeks an opera company may be introduced to diversify the style of entertainment, and it is, furthermore, possible that the Proctor Stock Company may present a few of the many comedies which have found favor in Manager Proctor's New York theatres. But the determination to keep the theatre open all summer is definite.

The Fifth Avenue and the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres, New York, will likewise remain open uninterruptedly. Here the Proctor Stock Company, embracing an assemblage of local favorites, will present light comedy bills, with a weekly change. Stage Director Frederic Bond will often be seen in active stage harness, and among the other favorites will be found Adelaide Keim, Edna Archer Crawford, Beatrice Morgan, Mrs. Ada Levick, Florence Leslie, Bessie Lee Listina, Helen Sallinger, Adelina Raffette, E. M. Bell, Sol Aiken, William Gerald, Frederic Truesdell, James Castle, Charles M. Seay, Duncan Harris, Julian Reed, Sumner Gard and Geo. Friend.

At all the Proctor theatres vaudeville is a factor in the entertainments. The best acts of foreign and American fame are weekly presented, the Twenty-third Street Theatre being solely given over to vaudeville bills, offered in continuous performance. Twenty-third Street was, by the way, New York's first home of the continuous, and has for several years maintained an enviable reputation for the refined and diverting bills which have been there presented.

More Contracts.

Woodhull & Martin have secured the contract to furnish a large hotel on the road between Bound Brook and New Brunswick and to furnish kitchen utensils and other supplies for the Mountain Park Inn.

No Meeting on Fourth.

Owing to the fact that the Fourth of July falls on Friday, the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Baptist church will not be held next week.

LITERARY.

The July Century is to be the "Summer Fiction Number" of that magazine, and the chief point of interest is likely to be a posthumous story by Paul Leicester Ford. Its title is "Wanted: A Chaperon," and it relates the adventures of a young woman from the country, visiting in New York, who, accidentally, is left at the doorstep of the wrong house on a stormy winter night. The story is said to possess the attractiveness of Mr. Ford's lightest touch, and the pictures by Mr. Gilbert to show a winsome and ingenuous heroine. Other contributions of fiction to this number will be "Ting-a-Ling, the story of a car-horse by David Gray; "The Passing of Cock-Eye Blacklock," a story of the frontier west by Frank Norris; "A Dilemma" by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, one of his "Little Stories" with a problem in it; a piece of rollicking humor by Harry Stillwell Edwards, entitled "The Little Unpleasantness at New Hope," and other stories, besides the fourth part of Mary Adams' "Confessions of a Wife," in which the interest deepens with the estrangement of husband and wife.

The July "Success" opens with an article of considerable importance and timeliness, in view of the fact that the American shipping combine is one of the great questions agitating both sides of the Atlantic. This article is entitled "The American Merchant Marine as a Career," and its author is Clement A. Griscom, Jr., manager of the American Line. William Ordway Partridge, in "What America Offers Her Artists," makes a strong plea for art students to find their inspiration, at home instead of abroad. Ex-President Grover Cleveland contributes a valuable paper on "The Evolution of Self-Made Men," which contains some worthy philosophy regarding the self-made man's connection with a government. An article that will further endear "Success" to the home is the second of the series, "Culture in the Home," on cheerfulness, by Margaret E. Sangster. Sharlot W. Hall, a new western poetess, contributes a fine poem for Independence Day, entitled, "The Going Flag." Other notable features are, "The Truce of the Flood," an animal story by Martha McCulloch-Williams; "A Miner and His Mascot," a true story of Colorado, by Cy Warman; "What a Young Man Should Read, Today," by Secretary of the Navy William H. Moody, and "The Rural Free Delivery and the Farmer," by A. W. Machen. The second instalment of Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis's stirring serial, "A Boy's Fight," also appears. In all, this is one of the most interesting numbers of "Success."

Chief Officer Scott, of the Roraima, one of the few survivors of the eruption of Mt. Pelee, gives in the July number of Leslie's Monthly his intensely interesting personal account of his thrilling experiences in what was the greatest natural disaster that has befallen the world in the memory of living man. Prof. C. E. Borchgrevink, the well-known scientific explorer, contributes a careful summing up of the conditions of the eruption, and these two accounts make a record of this great tragedy well worth preserving.

The greatest show that has enlivened the Anglo-Saxon world for a long time, the Coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, is described with a number of elaborate illustrations. The article on the coronation is written by the Duke of Argyll, brother-in-law of the King, and there are more than thirty pictures of the King and Queen, besides some original drawings by Queen Victoria.

The last poem Bret Harte ever wrote, a ballad called "The Sword of Don Jose," lends a particular interest to the poetry of this number, and an article on the draining of the Zuyder Zee, in Holland, one of the most stupendous engineering works ever undertaken, illustrates strikingly the scope of modern enterprise.

An ingenious story of Wall Street, and an interesting study of the husband of an actress in the fiction of the magazine, together with a charming essay on Roses, help to round out a many sided number.

Dinner at Hillside Club.

H. V. Healy, a member of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, gave a dinner at the clubhouse Saturday evening. Covers were laid for twelve.

COUNCIL WILL SELL PROPERTY FOR TAXES

Action Taken at Special Meeting of the Common Council Held Last Tuesday.

SOME OTHER BUSINESS

COLLECTOR SMITH AUTHORIZED TO ACT UNDER MARTIN ACT.

Will Sell Property for Delinquent Taxes—License Granted to the Hotel Netherwood—Other Business Done.

The special meeting of the Common Council held last Tuesday was not of long duration as there was not much business to consider. All the members except Mr. Mellick were present. In the absence of Clerk MacMurray, his placed was filled by George Wean.

The principal business that called the members together was the report of Collector Frank R. Smith. This report included a schedule of lands and real estate upon which the taxes and assessments have remained unpaid for two years from and after the time when due and payable and which have not been adjusted by the commissioners of adjustment which met June 18, 1902. The collector was authorized by the Council in the resolution confirming the report to advertise and sell this real estate at public auction to the highest bidder according to the provisions of the Martin Act.

Those who have failed to pay the taxes and interest will have an opportunity to redeem their property, but they will have to pay the cost of advertising in addition to the taxes and interest on the same.

Councilman William L. Gloak reported back the license application of F. W. Coleman to serve liquors at meals at the Hotel Netherwood, and moved that it be granted. This is a special license and provides that liquor can be served during the following meal hours: Breakfast, 6 to 10 o'clock; dinner, 12 noon to 4 o'clock; supper, 6 to 10 o'clock in the evening. The license was granted, all voting for it. This concluded the business and the Council adjourned.

Needed Two Cars.

The travel on the Arlington avenue trolley Sunday was very heavy and warranted the operation of two cars on that line. With the one car people travelling over the line were obliged in some cases to wait a half hour to get back and forth from the city and the cemetery.

Purchased Property.

The property on Elmwood place occupied by Joseph Randolph was purchased one week by W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street. Mr. Randolph will still continue to live in the house.

Preparatory Service.

Preparatory services will be held at the Crescent Avenue church Friday evening and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday.

"The Volcano's Deadly Work From the Fall of Pompeii to the Destruction of St. Pierre,"

by Prof. Charles Morris, LL. D. Most intensely interesting book ever published. Complete, thrilling and accurate account of greatest disaster that ever befell the human race—greater even than Pompeii. Tells how Martinique, one of the most beautiful islands in the world, was suddenly transformed into a veritible hell. About 500 pages, profusely illustrated with photographs taken before and after disaster. Practically only "Martinique Book" in the field, for everyone now insists on having Prof. Morris' book and no other. Best author, largest book, best illustrated, scientifically accurate. Price $1.50. Agents Wanted. Enormous profits for those who act quickly. Most liberal terms. Outfit 10 cents. Don't lose a minute. Send for outfit IMMEDIATELY and be at work. The chance of a life-time for making money.

Clark & Co., 222 S. 4th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 5 22 1 m

Dr. Humphreys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1—	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2—	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic.	.25
3—	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4—	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.	.25
5—	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic.	.25
6—	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.	.25
7—	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo.	.25
8—	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
9—	Suppressed or Painful Periods.	.25
10—	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.	.25
11—	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.	.25
12—	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.	.25
13—	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.	.25
14—	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.	.25
15—	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16—	Whooping Cough.	.25
17—	Kidney Diseases.	.25
18—	Nervous Debility.	.25
19—	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed.	.25
20—	Sore Throat.	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of Diseases and Their Cure sent free. Humphreys' Med. Co., cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JUNE 15, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows—

For N. Y. via—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Sleeping Cars for Buffalo and Cincinnati.

For N. Y. via—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For N. Y. via—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, Columbus and Chicago, and Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route; daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—

For Philadelphia—

For Florida and Metropolitan Limited, daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

For Atlantic City (via Pennsylvania River Bridge Route)—

For Cape May—

For Rahway—

For Woodbridge—

For Perth Amboy—

For New Brunswick—

For Princeton—

For Trenton—

For Bristol—

For Bordentown—

For Florence—

For Burlington—

For Mount Holly—

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—

For Flemington—

For Freehold—

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R. from Grand Central Depot, N. Y.—

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—

Leave New York for Elizabeth—

Leave Elizabeth for New York—

Leave New York for Plainfield—

Leave Plainfield for New York—

For further information apply to Ticket Agents.

J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. GEO. W. BOYD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our illustrated catalogue (64 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles. Has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editor, Louis Klopsch. The only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 222 S. Fourth street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 24

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Plainfield, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

W. R. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Street.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT MAY 18, 1902.

For New York—

For Somerville—

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—

For Easton—

For Phillipsburg and Easton—

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—

For Plainfield—

For Trenton—

For Reading and Harrisburg—

For Somerville, Sunbury and Williamsport—

For Somerville, Sunbury and Williamsport—

For Plainfield—

For Bound Brook—

For Plainfield—

For Bound Brook—

For Plainfield—

For Bound Brook—

For Plainfield—

Leave Somerville—

Leave Bound Brook—

Leave Plainfield—

Leave South Plainfield—

Leave Bound Brook—

Leave Plainfield—

Leave South Plainfield—

Leave Bound Brook—

Leave Plainfield—

Leave South Plainfield—

Daily.

The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Connects in Buffalo depot for Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

The stage will also meet Eastbound trains at Bound Brook.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables.

Telephone No. 113-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK BOWLEY, City Ticket Agent.
258 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE, NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.45, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 7.00 p. m.
Close—7.00, 9.00, 11.00 a. m.; 1.00, 4.00, 6.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND RARITAN.

Arrive—8.45 a. m.; 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—12.00 p. m.; 8.00 a. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—12.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12.00 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.45 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m.; 1.00, 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 9.45, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 and 9.00 a. m.; 1.00, 4.00 and 7.00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South must close 6.00 and 8.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 6.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA.

Arrive—1.00 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open Sunday 9.00 to 10.00 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

VAULT CAUSED WRECK.

Too Heavy for Flat Car Which Parted in the Middle—Vault Was Not Seriously Damaged.

Word has been received by the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works officials of this city, notifying them of a wreck on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Altoona, Pa., Saturday, caused by one of their immense vaults.

The massive piece of steel weighing nearly twenty tons was loaded on a flat car but it was unable to stand the strain. When rounding a curve the car parted in the middle and the vault was throw into a ditch, just escaping going down a steep embankment. A number of cars following were piled up in a mass of wreckage.

Workmen were sent from Plainfield to examine the vault and learn if it is intact. A number of the glass doors in the interior were cracked otherwise there was no damage. The vault was intended for a bank at Uniontown, Pa.

Reward for Attendance.

Miss Ethel Rogers, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school, received a handsome gold badge, star shaped, Sunday, as a reward for not being absent from Sunday-school once in five years.

YOUNG FOLK BADE FAREWELL TO BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

Class of Sixteen Graduated From North Plainfield High School at Friday Evening's Exercises.

COMMENCEMENT AT Y.M.C.A. HALL.

THE ADDRESS TO THE MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS WAS MADE BY REV. DR. WM. R. RICHARDS.

The Valedictory Was Delivered by Miss Nellie Mantz and the Salutatory by Charles Frederick Windham—One Graduate Was Unable to be Present—The Winners of the Valiant Prizes—The Hall Was Prettily Decorated —A Brilliant Function Was Held.

That was a brilliant function which marked the commencement exercises of North Plainfield High School in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Friday. The gallery and auditorium was completely filled by a large and gaily dressed audience, many of whom were alumni and alumnae of the institution and appreciating to the utmost the significance of the event. They had the privilege of listening to an intellectual programme which for merit, has been seldom surpassed at Plainfield commencements. The candidates for diplomas numbered sixteen. One was absent, but the other fifteen occupied seats on the stage, and as their names were called walked up to the front to receive from the hands of Chairman James R. Joy the coveted parchments, and make their last salutation as High School pupils.

Seated on the stage, besides the graduates were Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, Rev. E. L. Earp, James R. Joy, president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, and Principal Homer J. Wightman.

The stage decorations were of a luxuriant order. High in the rear, in bright red letters, hung the class motto, "Labor Omnia Vincit," the motto which said Chairman Joy in presenting the diplomas—must look to the future as well as to the past, if the graduates would conquer all. Smilax, in leafage and blossom, banked the footlights, and with waving palms set in the centre, formed against the wall in the background a horizontal line richly flowered and foliaged, the whole making a scene to rival a figment of the poet's brain.

The valedictory, carrying with it the first scholarship honor of the class was delivered by Miss Nellie Mantz, while Charles Frederick Windham made the salutatory address, with second scholarship honor. The John Valiant prizes for proficiency in mathematics, first, $15 in gold, second, $10 in gold, were won by Elizabeth May Davenport and Robert F. Hand respectively. So close was the competition that the judges recommended two others for honorable mention, Edward White Overton and Charles F. Windham.

The evening's programme in detail was as follows:

Invocation . . . . . Rev. Edwin L. Earp
Row Us Swiftly . . . . . Campana
Chorus.
Salutatory Article . Charles Frederick Windham
Address . . . . . W. R. Richards, D. D.
Supposing . . . . . Bischoff
Chorus.
Valedictory Article . . . . . Nellie Mantz
Presentation of Diplomas and Rewards.
James R. Joy, Ch'n Board of Education
a Spring Song—Lassen . . . . . Chorus
b Summer Days—AM . . . . . Chorus

The event of the evening was the address by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, a comprehensive view and a logical unfolding of the development of modern civilization, gradually leading up to his theme, the place of the scholar in modern life. No mere synopsis could do justice to this masterly effort. After referring to the place of the scholar in life he pointed to the fact that in different periods of the world's history different sorts of people have become specially important, at first a pressing need they developed into a favored class. Glancing back to the beginnings of modern history it is customary to look upon the feudal system as the embodiment of all that is bad. Men had in mind the end of the system, when it was really bad but at the beginning it was a heavenly blessing. The knight of old held a magificent idea of human character. Although the actual flesh and blood man might be a disagreeable person to meet his ideal was lofty. He has been described as "a man, pure, gentle, courteous to women, forgetful of self, filled with deep religion, bowing before God and womankind, haughty to all others." That was a contribution of feudalism to the history of the world. It produced such men as Godfrey of Bouillon, the Black Prince, Bayard and later Raleigh and Colingwood, and in this country George Washington was a representative of the type.

True, that type of man may have been aristocratic in his bearing, he may have folded his robes about him when speaking to the common people, but only because he thought the people controlled by a different standard of life caring less for honor than he did. The world owed much to these men.

To another sort you are also under great obligations. Things would not progress well if there were but one sort of human being clothed with powers and responsibility. To the townsman or burgher one owes much. He soon became strong enough to fight for himself and it was the burgher who saved all from the gentleman. It was difficult to say what would have become of the world but for the townsman or burgher. From the burgher to the bourgeois was but a step. Having won the victory he had no much his own way. Ever since the French Revolution the men of the town, the bourgeoisie, have had a disproportionate effect upon the morals of the world. The old knight lived for honor; this new knight lives for money.

The world needs more than one favored class. It has only one left, having destroyed the other. It is not surprising if they have had a too great effect on human life. As a result of their influence, commercialism is the peculiarity of the age. Mercenary conditions have invaded every walk of life; even Cupid deals in book accounts and balances, art itself in vulgarized, literature is infected, from colleges comes the cry of professionalism in athletics and today the whole nation is hanging its head because of the Senate's outrageous treatment of Cuba. Old honor has gone and gold holds the field. The proper heraldic device for the age would be a shopkeeper rampant in a field of gold.

It is here that there is need of another class to step into the breach to save from the bourgeoisie who saved from feudalism. Now what is the place of the American scholar? Is not the question already answered? The scholar is the new favored class, the aristocrat of the modern world—not aristocratic in the sense of a repudiation of democratic principles, not as one who seeks the privilege to hold aloof from his neighbor. Let "noblesse oblige" be for him a significant phrase. The castle walls have been battered down, but in its stead the college walls have risen. And nowhere in the world are the advantages for education so great as here in America. Talk of the bourgeoisie getting the upper hand might cause one to tremble for a moment, but the second thought of the colleges and educational institutions dispelled the fear.

Of old, after religious ceremonies, the prayer, the fast, the vigil, the eucharist, with the placing of a sword on his back, the candidate was dubbed a knight. So, you graduates tonight, after registering a solemn vow, like them, to maintain the laws of chivalry and honor, would be dubbed knights of learning.

The interest displayed by the presence of so many people was a hopeful token. If the young people on the stage merely accumulated $1,000 the interest shown would not be half so great. It seemed as if they had come together to make a mutual pledge. In conclusion the speaker advised the graduates always to retain a high sense of honor together with a fear of God and to be able to say with King Harry: "I am not covetous of gold; such outward things are not in my desire, but if it be a sin to covet honor, I am the most offending soul alive."

The valedictory, by Miss Nellie Mantz, was a clever compositions, couched in pure and elegant English, and delivered clearly and distinctly. Her topic was "Literature," embracing a broad view of English and American letters, and the effects of good literature upon national and individual life. Turning to the class she made the farewell in these words:

"Classmates, tonight we are assembled for the last time as a united class; tomorrow we enter upon a new and broader field. How large these four years seem as we look back—we did not realize how large until we had reached the end. Much we have won and let us remember the extent of our opportunity is the measure of our responsibility. From this time forth we are responsible for what we have learned and our query should be not what is in the world for me, but what is in me for the world! Truly, he that would save his life must lose it and he that loses his life saves it for the sake of the community, State or nation and finds it returning to self one-hundred fold. So let us go forth with a singleness of purpose in seeking the truth and the good; with a self-dedication for the service of society that we all may become in our several fields of labor, national benefactors."

The salutatory address by Charles Frederick Windham was a well prepared and thoughtful essay on American influence, especially in the nation's new possessions. In his introduction he spoke of the pleasure of the class, that could not be otherise than tinged with sadness, that the year's work had come to a close. No one was glad to leave the school, but all glad that they enjoyed the privilege to be in attendance there. After dealing with the effect that would be produced by American predominance in Cuba and the Philippines he closed with the prediction that "in coming years when standing on the heights of a better and nobler civilization these people would unite to do honor to America for her noble work."

The class who were graduated last evening and who occupied positions on the stage with Robert Hand, the president, seated in the centre, were:

Miss Nettie Louise Bauerschs, Miss Adelaide Carney, Miss Winifred Charlotte Carroll, Miss Elizabeth Cameron Davenport, Miss Jennie May Everitt, Robert F. Hand, Miss Nellie Mantz, Miss Alice Emily Martin, Miss Harriet Bainbridge Meserarmith, Edward Waite Overton, Miss Ella Pearson, Miss Elizabeth M. Ryan, Raymond Sperry Stevens, Miss Elizabeth Vermeule, Charles Frederick Windham. Miss Anna Mabel Stevens, another graduate, was unavoidably absent from the exercises last evening.

The names of those who sang in the various choruses are: Misses Winifred Carroll, Agnes LaBoyteaux, Nora Schenck, Sadie Fountain, Nettie Bauerschs, Florence Conway, Drucilla Smith, Florence Lawson, Hazel Martin and Clyde Slater, with Miss Clara VanFleet presiding at the piano.

In a short address previous to the presentation of the diplomas, James R. Joy, chairman of the Board of Education, regretted the absence of A. V. D. Honeyman and paid an eloquent tribute to S. St. John McCutchen and his interest in the cause of education. Mr. McCutchen, up to a few months ago, was president of the board and had served on that body for ten years.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Exercises Held by Sunday-School of Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday Morning.

In charge of Miss Florence Hawkins, the pupils of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school held their Children's Day exercises Sunday morning. The church was very prettily decorated for the occasion and in addition to the music from an augmented choir, there was melody from canary birds in cages suspended from the arches. At every opportunity the little songsters swelled their throats and warbled. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra was also in attendance.

The programme consisted of responsive readings, address of welcome by Miss Maude Harris, and exercises by primary pupils entitled, "Christ's Gardeners:" and exercises, "The Sabbath-school," by Miss Marguerite Ostrom as "Herald," Miss Arlene Brown as "Angel" and the Misses Grace Weeks, Mary Leveridge, Autumn DeLany, Anna Clarke and Alice Brown, as "Trophies," and numbers by the Misses Cora Brokaw, Ethel Stryker and Elsie Giles.

An appropriate address was made by Rev. R. R. Doherty, of Jersey City, and benediction was pronounced by Dr. J. W. Richardson.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

SPENCER CONWAY TOLD MAYOR HOW IT WAS Explained in Court Tuesday Morning Why His Horses Wandered at Large.

TOO MUCH FOR MAYOR.

MAYOR JENKINS ADJOURNED THE CASE UNTIL CITY JUDGE RETURNS.

Deacon Conway and Christopher Columbus Maden Were Both Up on the Same Charge—What They Had to Say About It.

Never in all Mayor Jenkins' brief but eventful career on the bench as a dispenser of justice in the city court has he listened to a more eloquent appeal for clemency than that poured into his ears Tuesday by Deacon Spencer Conway. The natural and easy flow of oratory, tinged with a slight southern accent, with which the Deacon is wont to stir gospel campaign attendants to a religious frenzy, rose and fell in an effort to secure his suspension on a charge of allowing his blooded equines to run at large. Backed up by the less flowery but more artful excuses of Christopher Columbus Maden, who shared the charge, the effort was more than the Mayor could withstand and he adjourned the matter until Saturday when City Judge Runyon will dispense justice.

The Deacon is the possessor of three Kentucky horses which during the week assist him in gaining his livelihood by hauling ashes. C. C. Maden lays claim to two pedigreed animals. On Sunday the Deacon turns his out on his front lawn for a well deserved gambol while he attends church and Maden escorts his to a field in the West End, not being the possessor of a grass plot. Sunday all five horses wandered from the usual grazing places and unrestrained by bridle, bit or clattering ash-laden vehicles, cavorted about the Boulevard, kicking up heels and seeming to enjoy the consternation of the Hebrew storekeepers who made haste to get their wares off the sidewalk. Patrolman Higgins hove in sight and after corralling the broncbos, drove them home.

The owners were served with summons to appear in court and explain—but this is the Deacon speaks from the fulness of his heart:

"May it pleass, Ye Honah, dese horses ob mine, am ordinarily weary tractable, but dey am all jumpified. Yassir, dey am all jumpified, dat is when dah's no one about, dey all brek loose and jumps around lak as if dey were circumlocuted. I always has taken special care ob my horses and if dey have disturbed the morals of the city, dey did so while I was at church. Now under dese circumstances and as I know wery well dese Jew storekeepers have animals on de street unlocessed all day, I reckons we'se entitled to a len'ency of sentence. Ef yo' Honah will consider and as Ah solm'ly promises mah bosses will rammificate on Sunday's no mo he and Mr. Maden bad ought to go free."

Columbus Maden insisted that his horses hadn't been on the street because he had permission to put 'em in a field and he knew well he had carried 'em 'cre and had carried 'em back home. The Mayor suggested that Spencer and Christopher get the storekeepers mentioned and rehearse the matter all over before the City Judge Saturday morning.

Low Fares to Colorado and the Pacific Coast.

On account of various conventions to be held during the summer in Colorado and on the Pacific coast, the Lehigh Valley Railroad announces a number of dates on which round trip tickets will be sold at one-way fare. These tickets will bear especially liberal limits, and will afford some interesting and delightful tours. Information as to dates, etc., may be obtained of any agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, or by addressing Charles S. Lee, general passenger agent, 26 Cortlandt street, New York. e

Fire Cracker Started Horse.

A horse driven by Fred Connolly ran away on Watchung avenue Saturday afternoon. Connolly got the horse under control before anything serious happened. The animal was frightened by the explosion of a fire cracker, set off by a young lad who was getting into practice for the Fourth of July.

Miss "Teddy" Scrymser, of Staten Island, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. J. R. Thiers, of this city.

No Substitute Wanted.

No! I did not ask for a bottle any cheaper, or twice as large, or one made by yourselves. I did ask for and will not have any substitute for Perry Davis' Painkiller; I have used it, my father used it, and I would not be surprised if my grandparents did so too; there is no limitation that can equal it. That I am sure of—for stomach ache.

DEADLOCK OVER LIBRARY

NEW BRUNSWICK'S LIBRARY TRUSTEES CANNOT SETTLE ON NEW SITE.

Mayor Will Wait Until Term of One Expires and Appoint a Man of Other Views.

New Brunswick, June 25—The board of trustees of the New Brunswick Public Library is deadlocked over the question of a site for the library building to be erected with the $50,000 which Andrew Carnegie has promised the city. A second attempt, made at the meeting last week, to secure the adoption of a resolution providing for the purchase of the Livingston avenue site, was a failure, three trustees voting for the resolution and three against it. The Livingston avenue site has been chosen by a joint committee of the trustees and of the Common Council, but the opponents of that site in the board of trustees refuse to abide by the decision of the joint committee.

At the meeting last week a petition was presented, signed by 700 citizens, representing the most prominent business and professional men of the city. In addition, there were present a number of advocates of the Livingston avenue site. A resolution providing that the board certify to council that it is expedient to purchase a site, and that an issue of bond to the sum of $12,000 is necessary, was adopted unanimously.

A second resolution was presented making the site the Livingston avenue lots. This provoked a general discussion, which terminated, on the call for the question, in the defeat of the resolution by a tie vote.

Mayor Viehman has announced his intention of simply biding his time until the term of a trustee expires, or until one of them resigns, when he will appoint a trustee who will break the deadlock.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing free, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free distribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

For Listing Blanks, Adv. Rate Cards and other information, address Eagle Information Bureau,
4 30 oaw 2 m c Brooklyn, N. Y.

Played on Cornell's Nine.

Douglass K. Brown, who has just been graduated from Cornell University, is now the guest of his brother, Wallace M. Brown, at the Hotel Netherwood. Mr. Brown figured prominently in sports at college, being the crack second baseman of the baseball team.

WANTS AND OFFERS

$10 REWARD—Lost, while driving Friday afternoon, on road between Plainfield and Menlo Park, a gold hunting-case watch and seal, on black fob; seal marked with monogram C. F. L. Ten dollars reward if returned to 1094 Park avenue, Plainfield. 6 21 2 c

MARRIED.

HEATH—ANGAR—In Plainfield, June 21, by the Rev. J. W. Richardson, at the parsonage, William Thomas Heath and Bertha Janet Apgar, both of Somerville.

THORNE—HOLMES—At the residence of the bride's parents, 101 Grandview avenue, this city, June 15, 1902, by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Mr. Clarence Leonidas Thorne and Miss Sara V. Osseller Holmes, both of Plainfield, N. J.

AGAR—SMITH—In this city, June 18, 1902, by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Mr. Morgan Farkee Agar and Miss Alice O. Smith, both of Trenton, N. J.

DIED.

VAN WINKLE—On Saturday, June 21, 1902, Violet, widow of Jeremiah Van-Winkle, in her 66th year.

RANDOLPH—At New Market, June 21, 1902, Mrs. Addie A., widow of the late Ephraim F. Randolph.

UTZINGER—On Monday, June 23, 1902, Bridget, wife of Augustus Utzinger, aged 41 years.

KLINER—In North Plainfield, Tuesday, June 24, 1902, Henry L. Kliner, aged 56 years, 8 months and 4 days.

PARTICULAR MEN are always pleased with the popular BRAND COLLARS
They are Stylish, Comfortable.
GUARANTEED LINEN.
The only collar made with a heavy, 5 ply seam.
RETAIL TWO FOR A QUARTER AND EQUAL ANY TWENTY-FIVE CENT DOLLAR MADE
Sold by live, up-to-date merchants everywhere, or two sample collars sent by mail, postage paid, for 25 cents.
Van Zandt, Jacobs & Co.
Troy, N. Y.
TWO NEW STYLES
TASMOR Front 2½ Back 2½
TRI-TAB Front 2½ Back 2½
OTHO Front 2½ Back 2½
CLUB-POKE Front 2½ Back 2½
NUPOKE Front 2½ Back 2½
Special inducements to Dealers

Double Triangle Brand Collars and Cuffs are sold by O. M. Dunham, E. M. Laing, Putnam & DeGraw and M. Weinberger, of Plainfield.

FOUND BICYCLE ON TRAIN

SUPPOSED THIEF BRAVED BULLETS AND MADE HIS ESCAPE.

Wheel Was Found to be the One Stolen From Druggist Miller Tuesday Evening.

Quick work on the part of the local police recovered for Druggist Dudley Miller, Tuesday night, his new Wolff-American wheel. The mount was stolen from in front of his Park avenue pharmacy shortly after 9 o'clock but at 1 a. m. Tuesday it was intercepted at Cranford on its way to New York.

As soon as a description of the wheel was furnished Sergeant Frederickson, he telephoned to all the nearby places, asking the police to be on the lookout. A return message came from Cranford Tuesday morning saying a wheel answering the description had been taken from a freight car on a train which stopped at the water tanks. A colored man wearing a light suit sprang from the train and ran away at the approach of the officer. A shot was fired after him but he refused to stop and disappeared in the woods.

Chief Kiely visited Cranford and found the wheel to be Mr. Miller's.

To Practice Law.

G. W. V. Moy, who recently sold out his drug business to Dudley S. Miller, will now devote his entire time to the practice of law.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?
ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE,
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I wish you a full history of my case to be used at your discretion. I was deaf for about five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse and worse, my hearing in that ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success. I was told by the best physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the hearing would become worse, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment, and I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. Thanking you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, A. WERMAN, 720 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice at office or by mail free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, position permanent, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent, profitable, general income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

WAS MARRIED AMID FLOWERS

Miss Elizabeth T. Ginna Became the Wife of Erickson Perkins, of Rochester.

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING.

Ceremony Was Witnessed by a Hundred Relatives and Near Friends —An Elaborate Reception Followed at Home of the Bride's Parents on Watchung Avenue.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Tompkins Ginna, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, to Erickson Perkins, of Rochester, N. Y., took place June 18, at the home of the bride's parents, with all the brilliancy and splendor that one could wish for. Surrounded by a wealth of floral decorations and an assemblage of prominent society folk from this city and distant points, the happy event was one of the social events of the season. The palatial home of the bride's parents never looked more attractive. From the extensive conservatory were taken stately palms and beautiful ferns and flowers and these were used to make one of the prettiest decorations ever seen in this city.

Throughout the various rooms and on the large piazza there were placed a number of these large palms and ferns. Perhaps the most unique arrangement was in the drawing room, where the ceremony took place. Here is a large bow window, and three magnificent palms, twenty feet in height, were used, together with a profusion of mountain laurel and southern smilax. In this bower there were countless little incandescent electric lights. The palms, laurel and smilax completely filled the window, leaving just space enough for the bridal party.

The wedding, which took place at 7 o'clock, was attended by a limited number of relatives and friends, there not being over one hundred in all present. But at the reception which followed at 8 o'clock the house was thrown open to receive hundreds of guests from Plainfield and other points.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon, the waist being trimmed with real lace. She also wore a veil of tulle and carried bride roses. A costly necklace of pearls and turquoise, the gift of the groom, completed the bridal attire.

Attending the bride were two bridesmaids, Miss Meta VanNest Hutton, of Baltimore, and Miss Bernice Perkins, of Rochester, the latter a sister of the groom, as flower girl. Miss Catherine Whiting Ginna, a niece of the bride. The bridesmaids wore white lace gowns over white, trimmed with a combination of white lace, organdie and chiffon, with sashes of white silk. They carried pink sweet peas and moss rose buds. The flower girl was gowned in white organdie, trimmed with lace and white silk ribbons, and she carried a gilt basket filled with sweet peas and moss rose buds. The bride's gifts to the bridesmaids were torquoise and gold chains and to the flower girl a pearl wreath.

Promptly on the hour set for the wedding, the bridal party proceeded from the second floor down the main staircase to the drawing room, while an orchestra, hidden from view, rendered the Lohengrin wedding march. The flower girl led the way, followed by the bridesmaids and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage. In the room where the ceremony was performed, the party met the groom and his best man, John Porter Bowman, of Rochester. Two broad bands of white satin ribbon were placed across the entrance to the bow window and as the party made its appearance they were removed by Daniel F. Ginna, brother of the bride, and John Craig Powers, of Rochester.

The marriage ceremony, which was according to the Episcopal church form, was performed by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, while the orchestra rendered beautiful music very softly. The marriage was performed with a ring.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom were the recipients of a shower of congratulations, and the best wishes were extended to the happy couple that their married life may be a happy and successful one. An hour later other guests began to arrive and there was a continuation of congratulations until a late hour, during which a delightful wedding supper was served.

The guests sought the piazza and the charming lawn, where provisions had been made for the reception. Here and there about the lawn, the beautiful shade trees were brilliantly illuminated through the use of incandescent electric lights and the effect was fascinating. As the guests mingled about the house and lawn, the entrancing music by the orchestra gave additional pleasure.

While the guests were enjoying the many pleasant features, they were not unmindful of the beautiful array of wedding gifts received by the bride. They consisted of hundreds of articles of great value and use, including much solid silver and goldware, cut glass and other things. The popularity of the bride and her husband was fully attested through these magnificent remembrances.

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins left Plainfield during the evening for New York from which point they will take an extended wedding journey. They expect to be away nearly all summer and in the fall they will take up their residence at Rochester, where the groom is engaged in the banking business. Mrs. Perkins has always been a prominent member of Plainfield's best society and her departure from the city will be felt in a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

TWO WEDDINGS AT ST. MARY'S

SAME GATHERING OF FRIENDS ATTENDED THEM BOTH.

Miss O'Brien Wedded Patrick O'Brien—Miss O'Donnell Became Mrs. M. J. Burke.

St. Mary's church was the scene of two weddings, Wednesday, June 18, which were held within an hour of each other and were witnessed by the same large gathering of relatives and friends.

The first took place at 4 o'clock and was that of Miss Margaret O'Brien, a former well known resident of this city, but more recently of Newark, to Patrick O'Brien, also of Newark. Rev. Father Egan performed the ceremony.

Miss O'Brien was attired in a charming gown of white organdie and was attended by her sister, Miss Kate O'Brien, of this city. The latter's gown was also of white material. Patrick Corrigan, of this city, acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien left on a wedding trip of a week's duration after which they will return to this city and make their home on Richmond street. The groom is employed by a large steel concern in Newark.

At 5 precisely o'clock Miss Madeline Julia O'Donnell, daughter of Mrs. Margaret O'Donnell, of this city, and Michael J. Burke, of Avon Park, entered the edifice and took their places at the altar before Father Egan and again the words were pronounced which made a young couple man and wife.

Miss Catherine Glennon, of Cranford, was Miss O'Donnell's attendant and William O'Donnell, a brother of the bride, acted as best man. Miss O'Donnell's gown was of white d'esprit and she carried a large shower bouquet of bride roses. Miss Glennon's gown was of white organdie and in her hand reposed pink roses. Miss Smith presided at the organ and rendered the marches during the entrance and retirement of the bridal party.

Following the ceremony the guests repaired to the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. John Brown, of Avon Park, where a reception was held until late last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Burke will leave today for an extended wedding trip and afterward will make their home on East Sixth street. The groom is a valued employe of the Aluminum Plate and Press Works.

Many beautiful and useful presents were extended the young couple and best man and ushers were presented with stick pins by the groom.

MARCONNIER'S FESTIVAL.

Held Last Thursday on Lawn Opposite Campbell's Clubhouse.

A very successful strawberry and ice cream festival was held last Thursday on the lawn on Park avenue opposite Campbell's clubhouse, in aid of Marconnier chapel. The lawn was very prettily decorated with bunting, flags, and Chinese lanterns, and large bunches of flowers set off the tables. On account of school functions at Metuchen and Plainfield many people were prevented from attending, nevertheless a neat sum was realized in aid of the chapel, the proceeds amounting to more than $40.

In charge of the affair was Mrs. Leo VanCourt, general chairman, assisted by a decorating committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randolph, Eugene VanCourt, and Miss Julia Burns; the cake table was in charge of E. VanCourt, Mrs. John Freeman, Mrs. W. Randolph; at the candy table were Misses Fanny Stover; at the lemonade table, Orville Freeman and Stephen Stover. The waitresses were the Misses Nettie Stover, May Morrison, Jennie Robinson, Lottie Campbell, Lillie Stalka, Bessie Reighton, Jennie Kyle and Lucy Schenck. Will VanCourt was cashier.

LOCAL YOUNG FOLK IN JUNE WEDDING

Miss Sadie Holmes Was Married to Clarence L. Thorn—Ceremony at Bride's Home.

FLORAL DECORATIONS.

ROSES WERE USED IN PROFUSION TO DECORATE THE HOUSE.

The Ceremony Was Performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., at 4 o'Clock—Those in Bridal Party—Will Reside Here.

Standing in a pretty green bower of palms and plants, Miss Sadie Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Holmes, of Grandview avenue, and Clarence L. Thorn, son of Guillermo Thorn, of East Second street, took the vows, Wednesday, June 18, which united them for life. One hundred guests witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of the wedding and in accordance with the custom was lavishly decorated with nature's most beautiful flowers. Ropes of pretty roses were everywhere suspended and banks of them graced every convenient corner. The dining room was a mass of red roses, making a most effective background.

At the hour of 4, the bride and groom entered the parlor preceded by the ushers, Elwood Sebring and Henry Vosseller, both near friends of the groom. The remainder of the party consisted of the maid of honor, Miss Achsah Holmes, the bride's sister, and the best man, William Thorn, brother of the groom. The bride was charmingly gowned in mode crepe de chine with pearl trimmings and carried white sweet peas. Her maid of honor was attired in blue mousseline de soie trimmed with silk applique.

A luncheon was served immediately after the young people plighted their troth and late in the evening they departed for a week's trip, the destination of which they refused to reveal. On its completion they will return and reside in a prettily furnished home on Whitewood avenue. Both bride and groom are popular among the younger set and among the business men, the latter holds a prominent place.

Beautiful designs in silver, furniture, bric-a-brac and cut glass formed the array of presents extended the young people, while their gifts to the bridal party were neat designs in silver and gold. Among the witnesses of the pretty ceremony were many from Newark, New York, North Branch, Asbury Park, Elizabeth and Somerville.

ALUMNI RECEPTION.

Given to Graduates of City High School at the Casino by Classes of 1900 and 1901.

At the close of the City High School commencement exercises, Thursday, the members of the graduating class and their friends to the number of 200 assembled at the Casino where a reception was tendered them by the members of the classes of 1900 and 1901. It was one of the most successful alumni receptions ever given here.

Dancing began at 10:30 o'clock and continued until 2 o'clock with a short interval for refreshments. Excellent music was furnished by Frank's N. Y. orchestra. The floor was not uncomfortably crowded and a delightful evening was spent. The patronesses for the occasion were Miss Anna H. Prescott, Miss Cumming, Miss Grace E. Borroughs and Miss Katheryn Ball.

Light blue and white, the colors of the class of 1902 predominated in the decorations which consisted largely of bunting. The work of arranging and decoration was done by committees from the classes of 1900 and 1901. Miss Marion D. Woodcock is president of the class of 1900 and W. Holloway Titus of 1901.

Successful Operation.

Freddie Hansen, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hansen, of Webster place, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, Friday noon, to have an operation for appendicitis performed. It proved successful and the young patient is doing nicely.

Prize for Miss Moody.

In the amateur photo departments conducted by the various magazines, Plainfielders are frequently heard from. In the last issue of St. Nicholas, Miss Helen C. Moody, aged fifteen, of this city, is among the prize winners.

The New Coaches.

Several passenger trains on the New Jersey Central are now fully equipped with new coaches of the latest pattern. The change is one that is appreciated very much by patrons of the road.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 23.—"The Father's Care"—Text, Matt. vi, 25-34; Ps. ciii, 13-14.

"Like as a father pitieth children, the Lord pitieth them that fear him."

Many young people have during the past season been studying more closely than ever before flowers and birds, vegetable and animal life. A new and vast world of wondrous fascination has been opened to them of which they have before known almost nothing and which now they have only just begun to explore. Few facts are more interesting in this world of creatures than those connected with their food and houses and clothing. The more closely the habits of the little creatures and lowly forms of life are watched and studied the more wonderful becomes their provision and tender care for the future and their safety in a world swarming with enemies and dangers. Their food is found and eaten by them as needed, but they never look out for the future. It is one metal at a time. The more we think of it the more singular it seems that all things should work together so well. How clearly it all shows a vast plan of deep wisdom and power! There is also to be seen and studied the way plants protect the life of seeds and birds feed and care for their young for awhile until they can care for themselves.

But all of this is far below the care and love, the mercy and compassionate affection, of a human parent. Birds work and will fight hard to defend their little ones. This shows some sense of regard. But how far short it all comes of the great, whole souled love of a father! How a man will work and deny himself to feed and clothe, to give a good education and start his children. Who can ever describe the heart feelings of a great strong, rough man as he takes in his arms the little helpless bundle of humanity, his first child! He is shy and awkward with it because he never, perhaps, held a baby before—but how gentle, how tenderness gentle, the rough voice is subdued, the heavy step grows lighter, and a new nature opens up in him such as he never knew before. He has new views of life, new joys and new hopes. He will work now for him for the child or as he never worked for himself or any one else. How he hurries home from work to see his baby! How he watches every new development day after day, and how glad he is to see the little thing grow! With what a loving grasping his great big fingers! What a helpless little mite! The very littleness and helplessness make him love the more. How tenderly he will carry that baby on his arm hour after hour through the aches and sickness and almost put his own life into the little sick frame!

But such love is only just a faint shadow of God's great affection.

God shows his care for us as creatures by the way he has made the world so we can get food, shelter and clothing as safely and surely as do birds, beasts and plants. But this is not father love. His real affection for us is seen only in Jesus Christ and is shown by his life and death for us. It is realized in soul feelings, of trust, hope and love and not in meat and drink and money. The soul that has come to reverence and love God by full surrender of all its life to loving obedience to and glad appreciation of all the blessedness through the Holy Spirit has begun to understand God as Father and not merely as Creator.

Jesus.

It is difficult, without exhausting superlatives, even to inexpressive and wearisome satiety, to do justice to our intense love, reverence and admiration for the character and teaching of Jesus. We regard Him not as the perfection of the intellectual or philosophical mind, but as the perfection of the spiritual character—as surpassing all men of all times in the closeness and depth of His communion with the Father. In reading His sayings we feel that we are listening to words of the purest, noblest Being that ever clothed thought in the poor language of humanity. In studying His life we feel that we are following the footsteps of the highest ideal yet presented to us upon earth. Those depths may rise the cry, "Thank God, there is God, from whom nothing can separate His children—not persecution nor distress nor peril nor the sword, things present nor things to come!" They who cherish this assurance do make the heaven they hope indeed their home. In such a faith does life find a meaning, a meaning which joins the ends of experience in endless thanksgiving and transports us as if through the air into the midst of light supernal.—Christian Register.

The Missionary Spirit.

What is the missionary spirit? It is the spirit of love, of generosity, of unselfishness. It is the spirit of Him who, when he finds something precious, desires to share it.—Rev. Jabez T. Sunderland.

After All.

After all is said and done,
The battle lost or battle won,
Laurelled least by heart of pain,
One thought the soul should entertain:
Did I do my level best?
Leave to a higher Judge the rest;
Recompense belongs to Him,
And blamest is its synonym!
—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Great Desiccators.

Scientific study of the storm of dust that swept over southern and central Europe from March 9 to March 12, 1901, shows that it was one of the most remarkable phenomena of the kind ever observed. It began in northern Africa, on the borders of the Sahara, crossed the Mediterranean sea, swept over the chain of the Alps and extended as far as Denmark, thus traversing 25 degrees of latitude. The dust was sand from the desert, and the particles that fell became finer and finer as the storm progressed northward. The advance was at the rate of more than 45 miles an hour, a high atmospheric current carrying the dust along the course of a barometric depression moving toward the Baltic sea. In Austria-Hungary and farther north the dust-fall was accompanied everywhere by rain, snow or sleet. —Youth's Companion.

Location of Taste.

It is a generally accepted belief that the sense of taste lies in the tongue and the palate. People speak of a fine palate, and many persons express astonishment that they can enjoy a delicacy as well after having had a plate fitted to their mouths by a dentist as they could before they paid a visit to that clever gentleman. But it appears from observations made by an Italian doctor that the sense of taste is not confined to the tongue and palate, but extends down the throat. You taste also with the epiglottis, that little valve at the base of the tongue, and the larynx, to which the epiglottis acts as an assistant, also takes part in the process. Concerning the palate, it is noteworthy that we taste with the soft part, which is at the back of the mouth, but not with the hard (or front) palate that explains the mystery of the dental plate.—Chicago American.

As His Child Saw Him.

A prominent real estate man in Los Angeles had an experience a few evenings ago that kept him guessing for a little bit as to whether he should feel complimented or otherwise. He was at home with one little daughter while his wife and another of the children were downtown. Darkness was coming on and the little girl was anxiously watching for her mother's return. Her nervousness grew apace, in spite of the father's attempts to quiet and reassure. At length the little one burst into tears, saying:

"I just can't help it! I need mamma, and I must have her!"

"Do you do this way when your mamma is here and I'm away?" asked the father.

"No, of course not," replied the little one. "'Cause then there's some grown-up person about the house."—Los Angeles Herald.

Respect for Americans.

The American entering the studios will be well received if he comes prepared to submit in a good manner to a little ragging, while his wife and another of the children were downtown. Darkness was coming on and the little girl was anxiously watching for her mother's return. Her nervousness grew apace, in spite of the father's attempts to quiet and reassure. At length the little one burst into tears, saying:

"I just can't help it! I need mamma, and I must have her!"

"Do you do this way when your mamma is here and I'm away?" asked the father.

"No, of course not," replied the little one. "'Cause then there's some grown-up person about the house."—Los Angeles Herald.

Respect for Americans.

The American entering the studios will be well received if he comes prepared to submit in a good manner to a little ragging, while his wife and another of the children were downtown. Darkness was coming on and the little girl was anxiously watching for her mother's return. Her nervousness grew apace, in spite of the father's attempts to quiet and reassure. At length the little one burst into tears, saying:

"I just can't help it! I need mamma, and I must have her!"

"Do you do this way when your mamma is here and I'm away?" asked the father.

"No, of course not," replied the little one. "'Cause then there's some grown-up person about the house."—Los Angeles Herald.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 23—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—National prosperity.—Prov. xiv, 34; Deut. vi, 10-12.

Never in the history of our country was our national prosperity greater than it is today. Our political domain is more extensive than ever before, and our prestige among the nations of the world has reached its highest point up to the present time. We are in the midst of an industrial prosperity that seems almost like a dream. Egypt's seven years of plenty were not to be compared to the unbounded extent and the unrivaled character of our national industrial condition. Religion, the arts and the sciences are also prosperous in our land, and we can say with genuine enthusiasm, God "hath not dealt so with any other nation." The present is therefore a most opportune moment in which to make a thoughtful and prayerful study of the subject of national prosperity.

The topical references suggest two important facts upon this subject.

1. National prosperity is a blessing from God. God is the God of nations as well as the God of individuals. He raiseth up one and bringeth down another. That the prosperity of a nation is a gift from God is the direct teaching of the Scriptures. It was God who in Canaan was to give the Jewish nation "goodly cities, which thou buildedst not, and houses, full of good things, which thou filledest not, and wells digged, which thou diggedst not, vineyards and olive trees, which thou plantedst not." Nor is prosperity less from God because it comes usually indirectly through His blessing upon nature and the works of our own hands. Presumption and pride should not possess the hearts of national prosperity, but rather humbleness and trust in God, the Giver of all good gifts. As Israel in the day of its prosperity was warned to beware lest it should forget that it was the Lord who brought it out of Egypt and made of the people a great nation, so we should be on our guard "lest we forget."

2. National prosperity can only be continued by fidelity to God and to the righteousness that is pleasing in the sight of God. "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." "The nation that forgets God shall perish." If becoming proud and presumptuous in their prosperity the American people become unjust, immoral, luxurious, extravagant and reckless, leaving the paths of righteousness, of judgment and of equity, what a crash there will be! Prosperity produced by divine favor will give way to adversity, the result of divine condemnation. Such is not going to be what is to be the outcome of the present unparalleled conditions in our country, and in our speculations we may rest assured that just as certainly as night follows day if as a nation we forget God, disregard his laws, trample under foot His day and neglect His house disaster will come. Our prosperity will be swept away in a night, and darkness, disaster and despair will cover the land. The supreme national duty of the hour is to honor God. That is to be guided by His wisdom, to practice His laws and to depend upon Him alone as our national guide and preserver.

Bible Readings.

Ex. vi, 8-10; Neh. ii, 1-5; Ps. xxxiii, 10-22; ii, 18; Jer. xxix, 7; Matt. xvii, 24-27; Luke xiii, 34; Rom. ix, 1-5; x, 1; 1 Tim. ii, 1-3; Heb. xi, 8-16.

A Parable.

There is a story of a king who gave a great quantity of thread to some workmen to weave, telling them to be sure to come to him when they had any trouble with it. The day came when all were to bring their work to the king. All the work showed that the threads had been tangled except that of one little girl. Hers was smooth and well finished. She was asked the reason, and her answer was: "I did as the king told me. Whenever I got into the least bit of a tangle, I went to the king and he helped me." Things about us, and we ourselves sometimes, seem to get into tangles. Like the little girl, let us learn to take all these little tangles to the King, and He will unravel them for us. He will heal our sorrows, soothe the troubled heart and give us help and comfort. Go and tell Jesus.—Brethren Evangelist.

Prejudice.

Prejudice never reasons, but moves and sways the mind and action from some instinctive or sudden or biased impulse. It has its seat in ignorance, weakness or idleness. It is a blindness of perception and of mind which leads to personal and public injury. It acts as a hindrance to truth, knowledge and to progress. It is a neutralizing force that resists and modifies the most cogent arguments, the most powerful discourses, the most moving appeals and the most stirring considerations.—Presbyterian.

If I Can Live.

If I can live to make
To make some pale face brighter and to give
A second luster to some tear dimmed eye
Or e'en impart
One throb of comfort to an aching heart
Or cheer some way worn soul in passing by;

If I can lend
A strong hand to the fallen or defend
The right against a single envious strain,
My life, though bare,
Perhaps, of much that seemeth dear and fair
To us on earth, will not have been in vain.

The purest joy,
Most near to heaven, far from earth's alloy,
In bidding clouds give way to sun and shine,
And 'twill be well
If on that day of days the angels tell
Of me, "He did her best for one of Thine."

—Forward.

THEIR HONEYMOON IS A FISHING EXPEDITION

That Followed Marriage of Miss Marguerite Schuck and Charles S. Maltby.

WEDDED ON THURSDAY.

PRETTY CEREMONY PERFORMED AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE.

Both Are Enthusiastic Followers of Izaak Walton, and They Are Spending The Honeymoon After Finny Tribe—The Details.

The marriage of Miss Marguerite M. Schuck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schuck, of 19 Vine street, North Plainfield, to Charles Schuyler Maltby, of Plainfield, was a very pretty but quiet affair Thursday. Owing to the recent death of the groom's mother the invitations were limited to the relatives and very near friends, there being thirty guests present. The wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents at 8 o'clock, Rev. George W. Gardner, formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church, but now of Jersey City, officiating.

The home was lavishly decorated with flowers and in the bow window in the dining room, where the ceremony was performed, there was a profusion of bridal daisies, rambler roses and pinks. There were festooned overhead and about the window, while through the entire house there were countless pinks.

The bride and groom were attended by the former's niece, Miss Margaret Louise Darby, as flower girl, and just as the party entered the reception room, the bridal march from Lohengrin was sung by Mrs. G. W. Gardner, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Alice Carroll. The officiating clergyman stood beneath the bower of flowers waiting to receive the bride and groom. The bride wore a travelling gown of a French blue cloth skirt, and a white silk waist trimmed with chiffon. She also wore an imported white maline hat and carried white sweet peas. The flower girl was gowned in Persian lawn with lace trimmings, and she carried a basket of flowers and the ring with which the couple were united.

Following the ceremony congratulations were showered upon the bride and groom for a successful and happy journey through life. A wedding supper was then served and at 8 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Maltby left Plainfield to enjoy a fishing trip in Jersey waters. Upon their return they will reside at the groom's home on Plainfield avenue. When they departed on their honeymoon they were deluged with rice and flowers, making the event a joyous one for all. There were many handsome and useful presents received by the bride, including three checks for substantial amounts. She also received considerable cut glassware.

THEATRICAL.

The summer season of vaudeville at Proctor's, Newark, continues with the attendance and interest at the top notch. The class of attractions fully equal the mid-season standard of excellence which brought this pretty playhouse into immediate favor from its opening date. So successful has been the plan of presenting summer vaudeville, that it has been determined to extend the season indefinitely. Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, will continue its excellent bills of ideal summer vaudeville. There is always diversity and excellence in the numbers presented and the performances are continuous from noon till nearly midnight. At the Fifth Avenue Theatre the Proctor Stock Company will present "Capt. Swift," with E. M. Bell appearing in the role created by Maurice Barrymore. Up in Harlem the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street's offering will be "The New Boy," with Frederic Bond, general stage director of the Proctor Stock Company, playing the leading role. Manager Proctor has in press a pretty folder, illustrated with pictures of the leading members of the Proctor Stock Company which will soon be issued to patrons of his various theatres. The work promises to be a revelation in the printing art and is likely to be eagerly sought after by patrons of the Proctor theatres and admirers of the Proctor Stock Company.

Honors for Elwood Davis.

Among this year's graduates at Rutgers College is Elwood Davis, of Bound Brook, who was awarded second scientific honors. Mr. Davis was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1898.

Two New Bridges.

Freeholder Wm. Westphal is hopeful that within a short time the work of erecting two new bridges on Jackson avenue and Berckman street will be started.

TWENTY-SEVEN GRADUATED FROM CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Commencement Exercises Were Held in First Baptist Church Last Thursday Before a Large Crowd.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE AWARDS.

ADDRESS OF THE EVENING WAS MADE BY REV. DR. JESSE L. HURLBUT, FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF THIS CITY.

Address of Welcome Was Made by Miss Margaret B. Abbott—Oration on "The Probation Officer in New Jersey" by Harold A. Nomer—Erwin B. Leland Gave the Valedictory—The Prize Winners—Dr. Hurlbut Talked on "The Importance of Education."

With bright faces and sparkling eyes, animated by the expectancy that accompanies the beginning of a new epoch, the members of the class of 1902 bade farewell to their years of study on the occasion of the thirty-second annual commencement of the Plainfield High School, held in the First Baptist church, Thursday evening. Seventy-seven young men and women had completed the courses adopted by them four years ago and stood forth equipped and ready to begin the struggle which leads to ultimate success or ignominy.

At 7:45 o'clock, the hour designed for commencement, every seat in the large edifice was occupied by parents and friends of the young graduates. Preceded by Principal Travell and Superintendent of Schools Maxson, the members of the class appeared upon the spacious platform and took their seats arranged in a large semi-circle, having as a background, banks of potted plants the broad green leaves of which stood out in striking contrast to the white gowns of the young women and more somber raiment of the young men. With the courses completed the graduates were as follows:

Classical course, Aima Frances Dyer, Lulu Harriet Fuller, Edna Moore, Kenneth Bulkley, Hollis Brown Cubberley, Clarence Bixby LaRue; Latin-scientific course, Margaret Beekman Abbott, Alice Mary Brick, Mabel Jenkins, Evelyn Grace Sack, Bertha Mischell, Elizabeth Kirkpatrick Vanderveer, Russel Bailey, Linden Wentzel Bridgeman; Latin-modern language, Grace Jeffers Burke, Elizabeth Goddard, Mildred Anna Ulrich, Marguerite Ewing Vandeventer, Erwin Briant Leland, Harold Adin Nomer; general course, Daisy May Brouard, G. LeRoy Hallock; commercial course, Cora Abbie Harris, Charlotte Agnes Johnson, Emmeline Esmeralda Larew, Louise Margaret Peterson and Arthur Lewis Denton.

Following an overture by Frank's New York orchestra stationed in the gallery, an invocation by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards opened the exercises. Another orchestral selection followed and Dr. J. B. Probasco, who was master of ceremonies, announced the opening address, delivered by Miss Margaret Beekman Abbott in a clear, firm voice. "The Probation Officer in New Jersey" was the oration subject selected by Harold Adin Nomer and he presented his views on this absorbing topic with a sincerity that greatly impressed his hearers. Possessed of a naturally well modulated voice every word was forcefully spoken in a tone free from all restraint. The oration was as follows:

"Crime has existed in all ages and will continue to exist until the end of time. In order to protect society man has promulgated several different methods of punishing the offender. The traditional custom is to define by law the several acts constituting crime and to attach to each a penalty with some reference to the supposed guilt which it reveals. The crude and terrible penal code of our ancestors prescribed death for every indictable act; but of minor offenders some forfeited their lands or goods, others were banished or suffered some bodily mutilation, being sent to the pillory or the whipping post. Prisons were at first regarded almost exclusively as places for securely detaining the accused until trial, and the convict until punishment. But as men grew more humane the infliction of death and of all forms of torture became distasteful and rare; and imprisonment for specified terms was gradually substituted. This change, the result of sentiment and convenience, and not at all of any rational conviction that confinement attains better results is now almost complete and universal. Our penal codes assign imprisonment as a penalty almost for every act they forbid.

This system has often been exposed as absurd in principle and as grossly wrong and injurious in practice. It is founded on the false notion that the State ought to apportion a fixed retribution for each offense. Nor does it effectively promote the sole end of criminal law; the protection of society. There are but two conceivable ways of protecting the community against its enemy, the criminal: to disarm him or to reconcile him. But imprisonment does neither. It restrains him until his term ends, as if one should cage a man-eating tiger for a month or a year, and then turn him loose. There is nothing in such a method which tends to reconcile him to his fellows, and in most cases he is discharged more the enemy of mankind than before. Therefore prisons are worse than useless used as a means of punishment.

The whole criminal class may be divided into two divisions, habitual criminals and criminals of occasion. We believe that for the former, the only remedy is the indeterminate sentence which makes the length of a man's confinement depend upon his attitude and deportment during his imprisonment thus falls nothing into his own hand, as it were, the key to his prison. But this is an entirely different question from the one before us. It is with the second class that we have to deal, criminals of occasion, those who commit crime only once in a while and graduate into the other and worse class only by long continued training in the former. The prison is the school which graduates them. No better way was ever conceived by which to save these unfortunates than the probation system started in Massachusetts, a few years ago. According to this method the judge holds out to the culprit awaiting his first sentence, this hope: "Young man you will not be imprisoned; you will not be sent to the penitentiary; the court places you under the charge of the probation officer. He will be to you a friend and counsellor. Keep away from your evil associations and attend to your duties and you can be a man. So long as you support your family and behave yourself you will not be regarded as a criminal and the court will protect you. If you do not follow out these instructions a cell in the jail awaits you." The work of the probation officer is to investigate all these cases and keep in touch with those committed to his care. He is required by the court to keep a careful record of each probationer. But this is all on the surface. Let us consider it detail how a probation officer undertakes a case. In the first place, he attends every session of the court. When the judge turns over to him a subject for probation, he investigates the previous life of the offender very thoroughly. He studies his character and the character of his parents; he looks through his home. After that he has an interview with the probationer. In this interview he appeals to the good in his man. This is where fact counts. Next our officer gets work for him if he has none at the time and tells him to report at stated intervals. If the conditions at home are such as to make it necessary, he gets an entirely new environment for the probationer. Surroundings mould the man. Take two young full-blooded colts and give one to a kind sympathetic lover of horses and the other to a harsh rough fellow to be brought up. Two years later the one will be the gentlest and best of horses, the other will shy at every thing and run away with you at the very first opportunity. Just so with human beings. The boy who has associated all his life with the "gang" on the corner will swear as loud and fight as hard as any of them. Transplant into their midst a youth brought up among decent people. At first they seem repellent to him. Then he becomes accustomed to this kind of life and doesn't mind it. Soon he becomes a little careless himself and finally he is truly one of them. This, we are told, is the case nine times out of ten. The question is how to make self respecting citizens out of these degraded wretches. Prison confinement does not do it. What they need is an entire change in environment and to cause this is the task of the probation officer. In short, parole with the possibility of pardon is the probation system in six words but the probation officer has a great deal to do in order to help his charges live the honest lives required of them.

The benefits of this method of treating offenders against the law are many and varied. Strictly speaking this law was meant only for first offenders and it naturally follows that much of this kind of work is done among the children. The form of crime they commit is generally trivial, and even then they are led on by older boys who really ought to receive the punishment. To reform them is very easy. We have an instance of this kind right here in Plainfield. There was a little Italian boy whose family was very poor. In order to help buy his daily bread he sold papers on North avenue. One day in search of a customer he entered the bar of the Hotel Kensington. The bartender squirted vichy water in his face. This made his eyes smart and aroused angry passion for revenge. He therefore went out into the road and collected a supply of stones which he used to good advantage inside. His family was arrested but through some mistake he was imprisoned in the county jail at Elizabeth. Imagine the night-mares a little fellow of eleven must have suffered shut up in a tiny cell, three feet by ten with a thick iron door! And who was truly at fault, he or the unfeeling wretch who excited his just anger? By all equity, the half intoxicated bar tender ought to have been in the county jail that weary night! Fortunately, however, the poor little Italian was discovered in his cell by Mrs. Williamson, probation officer of Union county. She found the good home in the country away from the evil association of whisky venders and the report comes that his temper is just as equable as any other child's. This illustrates the kind of probation work among the children and you can readily see that this little boy is undoubtedly saved to a good and useful life whereas he might otherwise have been led on into deeper sin.

But it is a harder task to reform full grown men. To these also the doctor of morals, as the probation officer actually is, stands in the place of a friend. Instead of any man convicted and sentenced to a penal institution for a felony loses the right of citizenship. To get back this prized right after his term expires is no easy matter. It involves great publicity, much trouble and considerable expense. Then, too, each day in jail adds to the degradation of the young man sentenced for the first time. Every man leaving a prison carries with him the stigma of a convict. It is impossible to escape it. For a sentence to the probation officer does not necessarily murder the man with any odium. The helping hand is eagerly offered to those under his parole. He is then a valuable friend to the probationer who can save him from all the trouble, degradation, and stigma of prison confinement. This quiet working with individuals according to their separate needs is the most important benefit of the probation system. For it is only by dealing with each separate man and raising his moral standards that all society can be uplifted.

It is seen then that this law properly carried out is a great source of good not only to the individual but also to the community at large by helping the individual. We believe that in a few years there will not be so many cases of assault and battery, and that people's homes and property will be safer on account of this new system. But the probation law also possesses great advantages from a financial point of view. Every year the State *pays enormous sums of money on ac*count of crime. It must feed and clothe the inmates of its prisons and it must also support their poor families. If on the other hand, the judges place the accused under the charge of the probation officer, they not only support themselves and their families by honest labor but also pay the fines and costs of the court which would never be collected otherwise. For instance let us look at Union county's records for the year ending in May, 1901. There were some 600 persons imprisoned in our county jail during the year. Of these 600, over 400 were first commitments. In addition were eleven children. Including all there were 421 persons who because of their youth and inexperience in crime, were presumably suitable probationers. Assuming that we had had a probation officer and that he had met with the same success as Officer Riggins, of Hudson county about 270 of the 400 would have returned to their occupations so that the county could have saved in food alone over $3,000 meals or about $4,000, and the county would have collected about $7 per probationer or in the neighborhood of $3,000. There is a total of $1,000 saved to Union county. This ought to touch the hearts of the taxpayers.

In spite of its benefits, in this as in every other new plan, there are those who shake the warning finger and raise objections. The principal objection raised is the difficulty to get the right kind of officers, men competent in all respects for the work. They claim that men who have brains enough for this work will not accept such petty positions. We grant that with this as with everything else the man behind the scheme makes it the success or the failure that it is. And this position does require not merely high intelligence and great strength of character, but also a profound knowledge of human nature and a special training in the methods of dealing with its degenerate and perverse forms. But it is entirely possible to get the right men. Mr. Samuel J. Barrows, of Massachusetts, says: "I believe that when a trained and experienced corps of probation officers is developed as a part of the judicial police of this country, no function of the police court will be regarded as more important." Thus if we are not able to get men of training into such positions, we can train men especially for this kind of duty. Another way to secure highly educated men is to offer a large salary. But, our friends of the opposition now say: Yes, but if you offer a large salary the corrupt politician will fix his eye on your position and secure it by voting. This result is not inevitable for two reasons. The corrupt politicians are getting fewer and fewer. Politics are becoming clean. As proof of this we need only mention the name of Roosevelt. And even if one of the dirty politicians should use his influence to this end he would be stopped in another way. The great majority of our judges are now honorable Christian men and they will not allow politics to influence their appointments of probation officers. In spite of all the warnings of these old obstinate opposers of new plans, in Union county not one of these objections has come up during the two months the plan has been working. Our probation officer, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, is a woman of noble character and long experience. For several years she had acted as a self constituted officer and when the probation law was passed largely through her own influence, and she was offered the position, she gladly accepted, utterly refusing the salary offered because her heart was truly in the work. The corrupt politician tried here to get his man in but the judges said no. What a victory this was. The lawyers and politicians of the rising generation aren't half so correct as some think they are. Mrs. Williamson is doing fine work with seventy-five probationers under her care.

If all the counties of New Jersey had their probation officers we should soon be living in a veritable Utopia. The number of prisoners would be reduced, the old criminals would die off; and as the young would all be corrected there would be none to take the places of the old rascals; the tax rate would be greatly reduced; the poor would become rich; the rich, richer; people in general would be safer; all society would be uplifted, in short we should have a perfect commonwealth. This will be the age of the millenium. But we cannot expect to realize this happy dream until every man is awakened to the good of the probation system. We cannot see how there can be more than one opinion regarding the benefits of this law. Whether you look at the good done to the person under probation, or at the great financial saving to the State, or at the wonderful uplifting influence upon all society the complete wisdom of the Probation Law is proven and must be universally acknowledged.

As the young graduate withdrew amid generous applause, Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlburt, formerly a resident of this city but now of Morristown, arose to make the opening address. In his preliminary remarks he spoke encouragingly to the class seated behind him, stating the talk that was to follow was more for their benefit than that of the audience before him. His subject was "The Importance of Education" and he related his own beliefs as to why it is essential to success.

He contrasted civilized nations and what makes them so with barbarous countries and the cause of their remaining in darkness. It is education, he said, that requires the line to be drawn between the two as no race not possessed of letters can lay claim to being civilized. The aristocracy of today in this country is composed of the educated said Dr. Hurlburt, and every boy or girl has the privilege of becoming one of them by grasping the opportunity offered him by the public schools. That is one advantage of education and another is its assistance in attaining worldly success.

A certain amount of useful knowledge is necessary as a money getter or the reaching of high positions as statistics gleaned from government offices show. Fifty per cent. of the nation's vice presidents have been college men while sixty-one per cent. of the speakers of the house have passed through high educational institutions.

*Again education is the cause of cer*tain mystic and mighty illuminations in the great human brain. A man who has been educated sees things that are denied or considered commonplace by other eyes, not trained to perceive all that is good and beautiful in nature. There is nothing particularly edifying to most people in the sight of a country churchyard, yet the moss grown stones imbued the poet Grey with an inspiration which resolved itself in one of the grandest poems ever written. The towering Alps to the untrained mind reveal nothing but arduous climbs and fatiguing tramps, yet to Byron they opened up a flood of new thoughts which has enriched the language and literature of recent years.

In closing, Dr. Hurlburt addressed the class in congratulatory terms and expressed the wish that "this be a commencement day and that they go on, and on and on." He afterward supplemented his remarks by relating certain facts which convinced him that the fame of the Plainfield schools was known all over the Union as in his travels across the continent, east and west, north and south he heard of them everywhere.

The presentation of rewards by Leander N. Lovell followed and the fortunate pupils and the studies in which they excelled are as follows:

English composition—The Geo. H. Babcock prize, given by Mrs. Geo. H. Babcock; first prize, Hudson's Shakespeare, twelve volumes, Edith L. Jarvis; second prize, Tennyson's works, six volumes, Elizabeth V. Vanderveer; honorable mention, Mercy A. Hillman, Rachel Aughiltree, Van Wyck Brooks.

Mathematics—The Dr. C. H. Stillman prize, given by Mrs. C. H. Stillman; first prize, $15 in gold, Cyril Brown; second prize, $10 in gold, Charles Elliot; honorable mention, Harriet C. Randall.

Articulation prizes—For the best translation of assigned passages, a first prize of $3 and a second prize of $2 expended in books chosen by the receiver of the prize.

Modern languages—Given by Ernest R. Ackerman.

Senior French—First prize, Elizabeth K. VanderVeer, Lowell's Poems; second prize, Daisy M. Brouard, Longfellow's Poems; honorable mention, Alice M. Brick.

Junior French—First prize, Norman C. Hill, Fiske's American Revolution; second prize, Louise M. Taylor, Shelley's Poems; honorable mention, Alice A. Pugh, Cyril Brown.

German—First prize, Erwin Briant Leland, Hudson's Shakespeare; second prize, Russell Bailey, Bloxam's Chemistry; honorable mention, Mabel Jenkins.

Latin prizes—Given by Alexander Gilbert.

Senior Latin—First prize, Erwin Briant Leland, combined with German prize, in Hudson's Shakespeare; second prize, Russell Bailey, combined with prize in German, in copy of Bloxam's Chemistry; honorable mention, Margaret B. Abbott.

Junior Latin—First prize, Louise M. Taylor, Keats' Poems; second prize, Norman C. Hill, combined with French prize, in Fiske's American Revolution; honorable mention, Dorothy Waldo.

Second-year Latin — First prize, Anna F. Brodnax, Vanity Fair and Henry Esmond; second prize, Augusta Rogen, Whittier's Poems; honorable mention, Mary Dunham.

Greek prize—Given by Miss E. K. Cumming, Lois H. Fuller, Bryant's Iliad and Odyssey.

Commercial prizes—A first prize of $3 and a second prize of $2, expended in books. Given by E. R. Ackerman.

Stenography—First prize, Anna C. Randall, Tennyson's Poems; second prize, Louis Bock, Gregg's Manual of Shorthand; Gregg's Phrase Book; honorable mention, Ralph S. Lane.

Typewriting—First prize, Vincent B. Miner, Fresenius' Qualitative Analysis; second prize, Ralph S. Lane, English Classics; Emma Line, How to Know the Wild Flowers.

Bookkeeping—First prize, Ralph R. Eckert, English Classics; second prize, Harry G. Thompson, Deschanel's Physics; honorable mention, James McCarthy, Mark C. Randolph.

Excellence in Manual of Arms and Military Tactics—Gold medal prize, Jose Lord Tweedy; honorable mention, Cyril Brown, Frederick Tabor Van Auken.

Spelling — Given by Leander N. Lovell. Prize, Longfellow's Poems, Elizabeth Crane Winter; honorable mention, Gertrude Laura Hunter.

United States History — Given by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards. Prize, Green's History of the English people, 4 vols., Elizabeth Crane Winter; honorable mention, Abraham Hugo Hebenstein, Benjamin Edward Hermann.

The oration and valedictory was delivered by Erwin Bryant Leland, the subject of the former being "Microscopic Friends and Enemies." It related to harmful bacilli which lurk in water and spread malignant diseases, germs which infest the air and produce trouble for the humans who breathe them and the process of decomposition which assists nature in enriching the earth and making vegetation possible. It was couched in familiar terms and was evidently well thought out. In closing he saluted his class and formally bade the farewell which brought the members more than ever to the realization that their paths separate after a companionship of years.

President of the Board of Education J. B. Probasco presented the graduates with their diplomas and as the young men and women stepped forward to receive the parchment which represented to them many days of self denial and study, each was greeted with prolonged applause. With the awarding of the last one the exercises were terminated.

As may be seen from the account there was no salutatory and oration as is customary. This honor was devolved upon Clarence Bixby LaRue but owing to a recent illness he was unable to take part and the number was omitted.

WILL NOT RESIGN.

No Truth in Story That U. S. Senator Dryden's Health is So Poor as to Cause His Resignation.

It has been rumored in certain parts of the State that the health of Senator John F. Dryden is so poor that many think he will consider his retirement from the United States Senate. It seems almost needless to say that this statement is without the slightest foundation. Notwithstanding the stress of the campaign, Mr. Dryden was in better health after his election to the Senate than ever before. After his election he immediately went into the Senate and has worked assiduously on the various committees to which he was appointed.

Owing to a slight touch of malaria and the severe illness of one of the members of his family, Senator Dryden considered it advisable to go to his summer home at Bernardsville for a short rest, and after recuperating for a few days, he went to Newark to give some attention to his personal affairs and to visit the office of the Prudential Insurance Company, of which he is the president.

Senator Dryden is in splendid health. He has not the slightest intention of retiring, and will soon return to his duties in Washington to stay until the close of the session.

WON A BRIDE.

Oscar Moore, of This City, Wedded to Miss Florence Hanna, of Blakeslie, Pa.

Miss Florence Hanna, of Blakeslie, Pa., and Oscar Moore, of this city, were married Thursday at the home of the bride in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Williams, of Scranton, Pa. Miss Carrie Hanna, sister of the bride, was the bridemaid, and Howard Moore, of New York, a brother of the groom, was the best man.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hanna, was formerly employed at Mr. Fritz Shupp's dry goods store. The groom was a former resident at Warrenville, but now is engaged as a mason in Plainfield. He is an excellent basso and is a member of the choir of the First Baptist church. After a wedding trip the couple will take up their residence in the borough.

MRS. VAN WINKLE PASSED AWAY.

Widow of Jeremiah VanWinkle Succumbed After Brief Illness.

Following a brief illness from a complication of troubles, Mrs. Violet VanWinkle passed away at her home on Central avenue, Saturday. It was a general breaking down of her health.

Mrs. VanWinkle was sixty-four years old and was the widow of the late Jeremiah VanWinkle, at one time city treasurer and chief of the fire department. She leaves eight children, Charles, Jeremiah, Daniel, Nelson and Frank and the Misses Isabelle, Violet and Elizabeth, all of whom reside in this city.

The funeral services will be held Monday and will be private.

Half Holiday for Lawyers.

There is a movement on foot among the local lawyers to close up their offices Saturday afternoons during the summer months. The baseball fever has thoroughly taken possession of the legal lights, and if all of the disciples of Blackstone will agree to close their offices, there will be plenty of talent along the base lines to settle any ultimate dispute that may arise.

Second Dinner Dance.

The second of the series of dinner dances will be given at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse on the evening of July 4. The house committees, of which Councilman George F. Mellick is the chairman, is making every preparation for an enjoyable time.

MISS WIKOFF WAS WEDDED

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING AT BRIDE'S HOME ON RICHMOND STREET.

Groom Was Walter E. Reinhart, of Cranford—They Will Reside at Cranford.

A very pretty June wedding took place last Thursday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Wikoff, of Richmond street, when their daughter, Miss Olive Irene Wikoff, became the wife of Walter E. Reinhart, of Cranford. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, the bride's pastor, assisted by Rev. Elmer Fulper, pastor of a Lutheran church in Jersey City and an intimate friend of the groom.

In honor of the event the parlor was beautifully decorated, pink and green being the prevailing colors. The bride was gowned in silk and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Laura A. Wikoff, who was clad in pink silk and, bore a bunch of pink roses. Henry W. Crane, of Cranford, waited on the groom.

Two nieces of the bride, Hazel Mae Ranyon and Clara Mae Smock, acted as ribbon girls, forming an aisle from the entrance of the parlor to the arches where the ceremony was performed. Acting as page was little Ralph Ranyon, a nephew of the bride, carrying the ring on a silver tray. Miss Emma Green rendered the wedding march.

Just after the ceremony and previous to their departure on a wedding tour the newly married couple held a reception. They were the recipients of many useful and costly presents, consisting of cut glass, silverware, furniture, pictures and other articles. The bride is a member of Trinity Reformed church where she has been very active in Sunday-school work, and will be greatly missed by her class of boys.

The guests numbered about fifty from Cranford, Newark, Jersey City, Junction, High Bridge, Long Branch, New York and Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart left by the 9:30 train for a short honeymoon trip, and on their return will take up their residence at Cranford, where the groom has bought and furnished a home.

ON LAKE GEORGE.

Y. M. C. A. Will Conduct the Silver Bay Hotel on Its Shores.

During the month of June and from July 15 to October 1 the Y. M. C. A. of the east and Canada will conduct the Silver Bay Hotel, on Lake George as a resort for association men and their families. The hotel accommodates six hundred, has every convenience, and a special rate to all Y. M. C. A. members, including holders of vacation tickets.

For the guests there will be abundant opportunity for fishing, fine boating, ideal bathing and athletic exercises, such as mountain climbing, tennis, basket-ball, baseball and other sports. The Adirondack wilderness with its numerous charms is within easy reach, and Lake George, upon which the hotel is situated, has the reputation of being the most beautiful body of inland water in America. From August 5 to 15 a conference of association workers will be held.

More Baggage Handled.

Already the baggagemaster at the North Avenue station, J. F. Garretson, and his assistant, Jacob Wagner, are beginning to feel the pressure of an increasing business. Plainfielders have commenced leaving the city for the shore and mountains and this makes much extra work at the station.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitts' Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

New Ticket Office.

It should be remembered by patrons of the New Jersey Central that only tickets for eastbound trains are sold during the day at the new station. Persons going west can secure their tickets at the North Avenue station. In the evening tickets for trains in either direction are sold at the new station.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Meadeville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." L. W. Randolph.

GOLFERS OUT DESPITE RAIN

But Hillside Day, With Its Special Events at Park Club, Was Postponed a Week.

HILLSIDE'S TEAM WON.

Harbor Hill's Crack Golfers Were Defeated in Team Match on Hillside Links—Regular Competitions Took Place as Usual—O. Saugstad and L. W. Hallock Won Honors.

Minor incidents, such as thunder such as thunder storms, failed to have any effect on the local golfacs, Saturday afternoon, and they turned out in good numbers playing right through the rain. The showers had their effect on the social function, planned by the Park Golf Club, and Hillside Day with its varied attractions was postponed a week. Some of the Hillside players gathered on that course, however, and spent a pleasant afternoon in informal matches with their hosts.

The strong Harbor Hill aggregation fell a victim to the Hillside's crack team during the afternoon. At Hillside, Olaf Saugstad carried off first honors in the regular event while Leslie W. Hallock was winner in the weekly competition at the Park Golf Club.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

Hillside Day will be held at the Park Golf Club, next Saturday. It was scheduled for last Saturday, but the brisk little showers which wandered that way so frequently decided the golf committee in favor of a postponement. All the special events were therefore called off for the day and such of the Hillside members as braved the rain were entertained informally.

There was quite a little gathering at the clubhouse late in the afternoon where Miss Samuel Townsend, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen and Mrs. George D. Hallock received the guests.

The proposed team match had attracted many of the Park golfers so that there was a good field which turned out in the weekly competition for the President's cup. Some of them failed to finish on account of the demonstrations of nature while those who did make the eighteen holes found the course very slow and wet. The honors for the day went to those who have heretofore taken no important position in the race. The leaders for the cup all failed to score. Leslie W. Hallock was low man, putting up his best game of the season.

The scores, below 100 net, were as follows:

	G	H	N
Leslie W. Hallock	102	21	81
W. de la R. Anderson	98	8	90
H. D. Hibbard	106	14	92
Charles B. Morse	110	17	93
Dr. A. W. Anderson	123	30	93
Charles L. Nichols	120	25	95
Ralph deHallock	125	30	95
S. St. J. McCutchen	115	17	98

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
S. St. J. McCutchen	8
Charles B. Morse	7½
Charles L. Nichols	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Charles A. Reed	4
W. de La R. Anderson	3
Leslie W. Hallock	2
Dr. A. W. Anderson	2
Henry C. Wells	2½
Arthur H. Serrell	2
Allan B. Laing	2
William R. Richards	2
Frank Rogers	2
Samuel Townsend	1
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
Charles E. Murray	½

As a result of last week's play for the Hooley cup, Miss May S. Shreve is well in the lead for that trophy. The scores made for that cup last week were as follows: Miss May S. Shreve, 74, 22—52; Mrs. C. L. Goodwin, 40—53; Miss Laura Long, 78, 24—54; Miss Mabel VanDeventer, 98, 40—58; Miss Harriet Shreve, 83, 24—59; Miss Lydie E. Loiseaux, 80, 11—69; Miss Elizabeth Curtis, 110, 36—74; Miss Edna L. French, 128, 40—88.

The standing for the Hooley cup is as follows:

	Points.
Miss May S. Shreve	8
Miss Harriet Shreve	4½
Miss Laura Long	4
Miss Elizabeth Curtis	3
Miss Lydie E. Loiseaux	2
Mrs. C. L. Goodrich	2
Miss Edna L. French	½

HILLSIDE CLUB.

Owing to the heavy shower Saturday morning the weekly play for the

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of DR. SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of

NEW YORK.

35 DOSES 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Boys' cap on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course had to be called off. The rain arrived just at a time when it would be impossible for the contestants to start and finish within the prescribed limit. The heavy thunder shower nearly postponed the scheduled events for the afternoon, but the rain stopped swiftly enough to allow them to be played. The team from Harbor Hill arrived and this match was played over a wet and rather slow course.

In the team match Hillside won by the good margin of 11 to 4. Howard Wright scored 9 of the 11 points and helped the team out materially. N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., was the only other member of the team to score. He made 2 points. The visiting team failed to show up as strong and the Hillside team had little trouble in carrying off the honors. The scores of the match are as follows:

Hillside.		Harbor Hill.
J. W. Baker	0	Fiske	1
Howard Wright	9	McKnight	0
W. L. Glenny	0	Hollis	0
N. P. Rogers, Jr.	2	Scott	0
Robert Abbott	0	Tobin	2
Morris Dumont	0	Conrow	1
	11		4

The other events of the afternoon were the weekly play for the Golf Committee cup and the regular first play for the Reinhart cup, men's handicap, for active members only. The same scores counted in each event. Olaf Saugstad won first honors in the weekly competition and scored the first win for the Reinhart cup with a net score of 80. There were three contestants tie for second honors for the Golf Committee cup, W. L. Glenney, Robert Abbott and Howard deF. Wright. Each one made an 82 net. This does not change the standing for the Golf Committee cup. H. F. Baker still holds the lead with 8 1-2 points, while Glenney and Abbott improve their position with an additional one point and Wright receives his first point.

The scores for the cups are as follows:

	G	H	N
Olaf Saugstad	95	15	80
Howard Wright	82	0	82
Robert Abbott	82	0	82
W. L. Glenney	84	2	82
Evarts Tracy	105	20	85
R. F. Murray	94	7	87
H. F. Baker	95	6	89
F. A. Clark	104	14	90
Walter Peterson	102	12	90

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	8½
Evarts Tracy	4
W. L. Glenney	4
Robert Abbott	4
D. H. Barrows	3½
Charles Stover	3
Frank O. Reinhart	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
Olaf Saugstad	3
E. T. Newkirk	2½
G. H. Squires	2
R. F. Murray	2
Dr. W. R. Richards	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
F. A. Clark	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
Howard deF. Wright	1
C. W. Abbott	½
B. VanD. Hedges	½

JUSTICE HAND TIED KNOT

PERFORMED FIRST MARRIAGE CEREMONY SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Young Couple Came From Newark—Trip Was Too Long, So They Stopped Here.

Saturday afternoon's heavy downpour of rain presented an opportunity to Justice Hand to perform his first marriage ceremony since assuming the office and securing the privilege

The justice was seated in his office engaged in legal matters with Lawyers William G. DeMeza and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., when a bashful young man and blushing young woman timidly entered and advanced to his desk. On receiving an assuring smile they announced themselves as Clifford S. Bradford, aged twenty-seven, and *Miss Margaret Denlap, aged twenty-*two, both of South River. They were on their way to Newark by trolley, they said, to be married but the rain induced them to drop off at Plainfield. Their query as to whether the court could act as a substitute for the Newark minister met with a ready "yes."

They took their places before the desk and while the lawyers acted as witnesses the knot was tied hard and fast. The groom's proffered fee was ignored but exercising his judicial prerogative, the Justice exacted double payment from the bride's lips. With hearty congratulations and nothing but best wishes for the future accompanying their departure, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford left to commence their journey home. They will reside at South River where the groom has a lucrative position.

HEARD ABOUT CAMP.

Special Service of Endeavorers of Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held an interesting meeting Saturday afternoon when a special programme, prepared by the managers of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, was presented. Orra Rogers presided at the meeting and made an address telling of the work at this camp. The rest of the programme consisted of recitations and special music. At the close of the meeting a collection was taken for the work.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oakes, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheefully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. L. W. Randolph.

Junior Day.

August 14 will be Junior Day at Asbury Park, at which time the various Jr. O. U. A. M. Councils of New Jersey will congregate according to the annual custom.

The Ubiquitous Microbe.

Ruthless bacteriologists destroy, one by one, our fondest illusions. Now they tell us that our drinking waters must go the way of other popular fallacies. Hitherto the man in the street had imagined that were all the waters of every city and plain polluted he would still find immaculate springs in the Alps. But M. Binst, who presides over a chemical laboratory at the Pasteur institute, having no such faith, obtained some ice from the glaciers of Mont Blanc itself and placed it under his pitilless microscope. His verdict shatters the dreams of mountaineers. It appears that even the summit, which so long remained untrodden by human feet, has lost its purity, if it ever had any. The ice in question, and water melted therefrom, were found, on bacteriological analysis, to be "peopled with colonies of microbes." The statement which follows is particularly terrifying. It appears that the germs in question were found to belong to the most varied families of bacteria." M. Binst accounts for the pollution of the Mont Blanc glaciers by surmising that the microbes have been conveyed to the mountain peaks by the winds sweeping the cities in the valleys.—London Telegraph.

The Cigar of Peace.

"Every attention is being paid to the Boer leaders, whose comfort in the matter of lodging has been well looked after." Thus the report from Pretoria, and in the interests of peace it is to be hoped that the efforts to include some reasonably choice cigars, the reduction of which to ashes forms the best basis for an agreement between men who differ and smoke. By much tobacco Bismarck reduced Thiers to acceptance of the German terms, and the Spanish-American peace commission after the war of 1898 proceeded but lamely until the delegates kindled the pipe of peace. At the fifth meeting, little progress having been made, Senor Rios, on behalf of his colleagues, proposed an escape from the formal atmosphere. "I have observed," he said, "that the American commissioners are accustomed to smoking. May I suggest that we join together in our one bond of sympathy and light our cigars and cigarettes?" This being done, the negotiations speeded happily, thereby proving that a smoke at time saves much firing.—London Chronicle.

The Effects of Artillery.

It has long been a commonplace that the effects of artillery are mainly "moral," but for all that the introduction of the new explosive—lyddite, especially—and of quick-firing guns had insensibly revived the belief in the great material value of artillery. It would be pernicious to say that artillery has had a great downfall in general estimation—among those who have always taken a sane view of its uses we do not think it has—but we may fairly say that relative, not absolute value it has gained in reputation. We know now that lyddite, although it may make short work of the mahdi's tomb, is of little use against earthworks, especially when it falls on soft ground, and that the stories of men whose senses left them and whose teeth shook in their heads because they happened to be within a quarter of mile of an explosion of lyddite were mere moonshine.—London Spectator.

Wrong Diagnosis.

"What seems to be the matter, doctor?" asked the sick man's wife as she waylaid him in the hall.

"Stomach trouble," replied the pill dispenser. "What he needs is a change. I don't believe the water here agrees with him."

"Water nothing!" exclaimed the wife, in a tone that was calculated to choke off any further argument. "I don't believe he has tasted a drop of water in ten years."—Chicago Daily News.

Wanted All Good People Nice.

Those who have complained that virtue is uninteresting have usually been branded as cynics, or, worse, as people trying to be clever. To all such this true story of a little girl may come as consolation, for "out of the mouths," etc.

Little Alice had been put to bed, and told to say her prayers. "O God," she prayed, "make all the bad people good, and make all the good people, all the good people—and all the good people—nice!"—N. Y. Tribune.

A Sore Sign.

Hotelman—Why didn't you demand payment in advance from that couple? They didn't have any baggage.

Clerk—Oh! he's got barrels of money.

"How do you know?"

"Because he's old and ugly and his wife is young and pretty."—Philadelphia Press.

It Was Up to Him.

Mr. Williams (Fanny's admirer)—Is your sistah going to the seaside this summah, Tommy?

Tommy—That all depends on you. I heard ma say if you and Fanny were engaged before the season opened there wouldn't be any sense in her going.—Stray Stories.

Oldest of Known Writings.

The oldest piece of writing in the world is on a fragment of a vase found at Nippur. It is an inscription in picture writing and dates 4,500 years before Christ. The University of Pennsylvania has secured it.

Flattery Taking Effect.

When folks say they cannot be flattered it is the first sign that it is beginning to take effect.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

The One Essential.

Some men would be all right if they did not talk.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

DEATH BY GARROTE.

How Four Criminals Were Executed Recently at Ponce, Island of Porto Rico.

Four men were garroted at Ponce, Porto Rico, recently, for one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed in Porto Rico, the murder of Antonio Delgado de Pino, at Guayo, near Adjuntas, and the robbery and ill treatment of his family and servants, on the night of September 30, 1898.

The scaffold was erected during the night in the court yard of the prison, a few feet from the cells in which the four men—Bernabe, Acevedo, Jose Torres, Ramon Troche Cadeno and Juan Torres—were confined.

Priests were with each of the condemned men until the end, leading

DEATH BY GAROTTE.
(How Criminals Are Executed in the Island of Porto Rico.)

them to the scaffold. When the instrument had been adjusted to their necks, all of the prisoners, who had previously denied their crimes, made confessions.

Jose Torres, who had become a fanatical spiritualist, violently resisted attempts to adjust the garrote, and insisted that he should die with his face uncovered. It was 13 minutes before he was subdued.

They were all put to death within 50 minutes, and the average time taken to kill each man was two minutes. None, is is thought, suffered pain, as death was practically instantaneous, though violent twitchings of the limbs continued for a minute or two afterward.

Evidence at the trial of the men showed that a band of about 25 went to the home of Delgado and called upon him to open the door in the name of the American police and municipal judge. When Delgado opened the door the outlaws rushed into the house and seized Delgado and shot six others.

The men were tied to the stairs leading to the roof. The women were locked up in a room, while two of the bandits took Delgado into a shed adjoining the house, and, after tying him hand and foot, hung him up by the feet.

They then beat him and cut off his ears, afterward putting a rope around his neck and hanging him to one of the beams. He died in the morning of October 1, of strangulation.

In the meantime the other bandits were ransacking the house. After several attacks upon the women, the band departed with their stolen goods.

DR. WOODROW WILSON.

Well-Known Jurist and Historian Who Has Just Been Chosen President of Princeton.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson, who has just been chosen president of Princeton university, in the place of Dr. Francis L. Patton, is a well-known jurist, historian and man of letters, and at present professor of jurisprudence and politics in Princeton. He was born at Staunton, Va., December 28, 1856. His father, Joseph R. Wilson, was a prominent divine of the Southern Presbyterian church, and was himself a native of Ohio. Woodrow Wilson studied in the primary schools of Atlanta, Ga., and was later a student in Princeton, from which he was graduated in 1879. He next entered the law department of the University of Virginia, and subsequently began practice, but abandoned it to take up general study in Johns Hopkins. There he began his work in history and politics, and in 1885 took a position as instructor in these branches in Bryn Mawr. Johns Hopkins gave him Ph. D. in 1886. In 1888 he became a member of the faculty of Wesleyan university, of Middletown, Conn., and 12 years ago was called to the chair of jurisprudence at Princeton. Dr. Wilson has published "The State Elements of Historical and Practical Politics," "An Old Master and Other Political Essays," "Mere Literature," and "George Washington," a historical and biographical study of the first American president. The new head of Princeton is a fine scholar and eminently qualified for the position he is about to assume.

DR. WOODROW WILSON.
(Just Chosen President of Princeton University.)

Fenced Disgrace in Next World.

Recently a Chinese boy was brought into the Peking hospital terribly injured by a heavy log falling upon him. The doctors, to save his life, decided to cut off his leg. The mother came, apparently to help to nurse the lad. The patient, however, almost immediately afterward died, and expert examination showed that his mother had given him arsenic. Her reason, it is supposed, was to prevent her son from the disgrace of reaching the next world in a maimed condition.

This is a very strong point with the Chinese, who always pickle an amputated member to have it buried with them when they eventually die. In this instance, the family being poor and a whole leg being difficult to pickle, the simpler course was taken of poisoning the boy, so that he and his leg might go together.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Green Tea and Black Tea.

The difference in color between green and black tea has been ascribed to various causes. Recently Mr. Aso, of the agricultural college at Tokyo, has investigated the subject, and he offers, in substance, the following explanation: In making green tea the leaves are steamed as soon as gathered; in the case of black tea the leaves are allowed to ferment before drying. The result is that the finished black tea contains much less tannin than the green contains. The original tea-leaf possesses an oxidizing enzymne which is destroyed in the green tea by steaming. In black tea, during fermentation, the enzyme oxidizes the tannin and gives rise to a brownish-colored product.—Youth's Companion.

In Memoriam.

"This is the first time I ever saw black chips in a game of poker."

"Well," said Broncho Bob, "there was two of the best fellers you ever saw got the drop on each other sorter simultaneous the other day. They both arrived over a year ago an' they got into a dispute about which was the oldest inhabitant of Crimson Gulch, an' the first thing an innocent bystanders knew, we had to send east fur bullet proof shirts. But finally they met, face to face."

"But the black poker chips?"

"The black poker chips! Oh, yes. They both stood mighty high in this community, an' us fellers thought it was only proper to do somethin' in the mournin' line."—Washington Star.

Then He Ran.

The other day, just as a train was about to go out of Broad street station, a boy ran up to a ticket inspector, and whispered:

"Sir, there's two men travelling in this train, and neither one of them has got any tickets!"

Then, seeing his informer standing near the entrance to the station, he shouted:

"Where are the two men without tickets?"

"On the engine!" shouted the boy.—N. Y. Herald.

An Evilly-Disposed Roof.

The Tartar general of Canton has been troubled by an evil influence in his yamen which in one month caused the death of his wife and daughter, as well as of a former Tartar general. A feng shui professor was finally called in. He looked over the city, and decided the evil influence was the roof of the library of the government school for foreign languages. The roof, which was a pea-green, was at once removed, and is now being replaced by a flat one.—Hong-Kong Press.

An Artificial Island.

A scheme is on foot to create an island in the center of the Lake of Neuchatel, in Switzerland. In the middle of the lake there is a submerged mountain six or seven feet below the water, and it is on this mountain that the island will be constructed. A large hotel will be erected on the island. The capital, which is already subscribed, will come from England and America.—N. Y. Sun.

Not Afraid of Automobiles.

"Is he afraid of automobiles?" the elderly lady asked the liveryman who had the only horse that could be found in town. It was the year 1916.

"Not a bit!" responded the liveryman, reassuringly. "The only thing that might make him shy a little would be to come suddenly upon some vehicle being drawn by a horse, but that isn't at all likely."—Chicago Tribune.

Customs Duties on Teas.

The customs duties on the $11,000,000 of tea imported into this country amount to $5,500,000. All adulterated and impure teas are excluded from coming into this country by the tea inspection law, which was passed in 1897. If tea is adulterated the adulterations are added in this country. —Washington Star.

The Old Style.

Mr. Kouscet—I expect to be famous some day because I am industrious.

Mr. Tweedle—So do I, but I don't base my claim on being industrious.

"On what, then, pray?"

"I was born in a log house."—Ohio State Journal.

Painful Complaint.

Hicks—What makes Bjenkins look so blue?

Wicks—Oh, he heard that a woman said about him yesterday: "What a pretty man he is!"—Somerville Journal.

Letting Him Down Easy.

She—Now, dear, break the news of our engagement gently to papa.

He—How shall I start in?

"Oh! You might begin by saying that I have just died!"—Puck.

HEARD ABOUT STATE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Speakers Addressed Local Congregations on Work of League in New Jersey.

WHAT IT HAS DONE.

PLANS TO INTRODUCE BILL IN LEGISLATURE THIS COMING WINTER.

Addresses Were Made at Monroe Avenue M. E., Trinity Reformed, First Baptist and Grace M. E. Churches—What Was Said.

As a result of the crusade inaugurated by the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, many of the local churches on Sunday's services devoted [the usual time to temperance addresses lead by members of that organization. All were well attended and from the interest taken like services will be held in the near future.

One of the strongest addresses was made by Rev. C. R. Berger, of Trenton, at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, in the morning. After enumerating liquor traffic figures to shew the hold it has upon the country, he declared the temperance question to be of equal importance to the church as home missions. He deplored the lack of temperance sermons in the churches and stated that they should be given at frequent intervals.

In the United States, he said, there are 240,000 licensed drinking places and the only way to root out the evil is through the church and Jesus Christ. The church is a saloon's recognized and most formidable enemy and the former, he said, could not afford to relax one moment in the struggle for supremacy.

Rev. J. R. Brittain, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning and gave a strong talk on the work of the league.

Mr. Brittain related interesting incidents of the work in New Jersey, especially in New Brunswick and Newark, where an aggressive campaign against the saloons is now being prosecuted. He told of the league and of its organization in every State in the Union, the idea being to combine a strong force of temperance workers for the purpose of securing local option in every place.

The speaker stated that it was intended to present a local option bill before the last Legislature, but this was prevented for good reasons. It is proposed to work earnestly during the coming year and when the Legislature convenes next winter have everything in readiness to present the bill. At the close of the service Mr. Brittain made a plea for subscriptions to the work. Cards were distributed through the congregation and those present were asked to give something toward supporting the league.

Similar sermons, varying but little in their general import, were heard at the First Baptist church, where Rev. Dr. Clark spoke, and Grace M. E. church where Rev. C. L. Boothby, of New York, made the address.

NOAH DOVE'S OFFICERS

Were Elected at Meeting of the Encampment Last Week.

At the meeting of Noah Dove Encampment, No. 46, I. O. O. F., last week the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Chief Patriarch, Edward Bowman; high priest, Joseph Perry; senior warden, Edward Sebring; scribe, John Williams; financial scribe, William Wyckoff; junior warden, Albert Pagborn. The installation will take place the first meeting in July.

The new paraphernalia was received and accepted. It is considered to be the finest of any in the State. It will be used at the next meeting for the first.

No Longer Than Your Hand

is the spot in your back directly affected by lumbago. But that is big enough to prostrate you until a kind friend rubs Perry Davis' Painkiller into your aching flesh. Then the throbbing pain, which has been as bad as toothache, dies away. Painkiller is equally good in relieving sciatica and the various forms of rheumatism. 25 and 50 ct. bottles.

Nine Lives Lost.

Nine lives were ground out of existence by a trolley car on Watchung avenue, Friday evening. They belonged to a large Maltese cat owned by Mrs. Lewis Leonard, of North avenue, who valued the feline highly.

Looking at Material.

Mayor Smalley, of the borough, and Architect C. H. Smith were in Woodbridge Friday afternoon, inspecting qualities of brick to be used in the casement construction of the new fire engine house.

Small-Pox at Metuchen.

There is a slight epidemic of small-pox at Metuchen, where one death is reported. There are still two cases of the disease in the same family.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., HURSDAY, J LY 3, 1902. NO. 27.

"Support the Constituton Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

TINY ADVOCATES OF TEMPERANCE AT RALLY

Closing Exercises of Loyal Temperance Legion Were Held Tuesday Afternoon.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

AN ADDRESS WAS MADE BY MRS. T. H. TOMLINSON.

Given Under Direction of Miss May E. Howlett, Superintendent of the Legion, and Her Assistants —Recitations by the Children.

Without doubt the closing exercises of the Loyal Temperance Legion held Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church were the most successful in the history of the temperance organization. There was a large attendance of members, including members of the W. C. T. U. and friends. The parlors were attractively decorated with flowers, ferns and flags, presenting an patriotic appearance. Miss Mary E. Howlett, superintendent of the legion, who arranged the programme, and her assistants, Mrs. Ira West, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller and Mrs. R. K. Case, were in charge.

The programme opened with the singing of the State rally cry, "We'll All Rise Up," there were recitations as follows: "Trifles," Miss Mildred Dennis; "Give Thanks," Miss Cora Gray; "Only One," Walter Weber; "Missions," Miss Lizzie Frantz; "For a Girl," Miss Ethel Vail; "Just a Little Baby," Miss Clara Weber; "The Harvest," Miss Anna Vail; "Pure Cold Water," Miss Helen Woolley; "Never Begin to Sin," Miss Leanna Satterlee. Interspersing these recitations there were several temperance songs.

A feature of the programme was an address by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., who told the young folks in an interesting way how to be temperate and how to have an influence for good. Her talk was called "Summer Gloges," and for each finger she had an appropriate name and from which she drew a helpful lesson. After this address Mrs. M. C. Dobbins read a pathetic temperance selection and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse gave a brief talk on the pledge. Mrs. R. K. Case also spoke of a contest among the members to secure new members for which a prize will be offered.

A pretty exercises consisted of a march by the members of the legion and the placing of white ribbon bows on each one by the superintendent. After all saluted the flag there was a distribution of gifts, including fancy work baskets for the girls and books for the boys. Each member also received a copy of the group picture taken last week at the picnic. At the conclusion of other pleasing features, all joined in singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and the session closed.

The legion will not meet again until next fall. Before the meeting adjourned a rising vote of thanks was given to the superintendent and her assistants for the excellent work accomplished during the past year.

WANTS MORE ROOM.

So I. H. Boehm is Building to Connect His Stores on Front Street and Park Avenue.

I. H. Boehm is about to make extensive additions and alterations to his store on West Front street. A one-story brick building will be erected on the small vacant lot at the rear of the double store on Front street, connecting that building with the vacant store at 136 Park avenue, formerly occupied by James R. Blair. Mr. Boehm's growing business necessitates the utilization of both stores. There will be commodious basements between the two buildings, and extensive accommodations for the storage of goods on the upper floors.

The new structure will be of brick, 20x76 feet. Ground was broken yesterday morning. The masonry work will be done by Titus H. Lanry, and Walter Apgar has the contract for the carpentering. The architect is E. V. French.

Invited to Parade.

At the regular meeting of Warren Engine Company Tuesday night an invitation was received from the New Brunswick fire department to participate in the biennial parade at that place October 7. The invitation has been accepted.

—Buy the high-grade olive oil, which Neuman Brothers import, and you may rest assured you have the best quality.

WANTS HIS COAT.

Refuses to Pay Pawnbroker and Intends to Sue for It.

Rev. H. J. Johnston, formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church, but now pastor of the First M. E. church at Bayonne, and who recently had his overcoat stolen from his home intends to bring suit against a New York pawnbroker to recover his coat. The police of Bayonne found the coat, which had been pledged for $8. Mr. Johnston refused to pay the money to redeem the coat and has decided to sue for it.

CAMP WOOLFE HAS OPENED

GUESTS AT THE WESTFIELD FRESH AIR CAMP ARRIVED THERE YESTERDAY.

Camp is Under the Charge of Miss Diehl, as Matron, and Assistants —Three Volunteer Workers.

The Westfield Fresh Air Camp known as "Camp Woolfe" had its formal opening, Tuesday, the guests arriving on the 2:20 train from New York. The grounds were never more attractive, trees and the buildings having been given a coat of white wash.

The work this year will be under the following corps of workers: Mrs. Diehl, who will be the matron of the camp, is a graduate of the City Training School for Christian Workers; she has also had experience in school teaching and practical city mission work and comes highly recommended by Dr. Schauffler. The members of the association believe that they have found a matron of unusual ability and qualifications for the work. Mrs. Diehl will be assisted in the work by two associate matrons, Miss Henrietta De Gore who will have direct supervision of the nursery department. She is a Moody School graduate and has attended Pratt Institute classes in domestic science for several years.

Miss E. B. Morgan, who has done considerable city mission work and has had wide experience in housekeeping and cooking will have charge of the work in the culinary department, and under her direction the association hopes to place this most important and difficult portion of the work on a high plane.

The camp will have the services of three volunteer workers: Mrs. Nesbeth and Miss Techler, who will assist Miss De Gore in the nursery and Miss Noon, who will have direct charge of the dormitory.

Dr. Kinch, who has so faithfully served the association for the past few years as camp physician, will look after the health of the campers again this year.

With this corps of workers, the executive committee of the association feels that the work is exceptionally well equipped this year.

OLD BARN GONE.

Century Old Structure Over French's Mill Race Being Torn Down to Make Way for a New Building.

The old barn overhanging French's mill race in the rear of the Gardner property, on East Front street, was torn down by workmen, yesterday. It was removed to make way for the preliminary improvements to the place previous to the erection of Woodbull & Martin's building.

The razed structure was over 100 years old, having been erected in the latter part of the eighteenth century. It was originally used as a storeroom for one of the hat factories which were formerly numerous in that section of that city, and afterward as a slaughter-house by John H. Tier, Sr., and Alvah Gardner, when they conducted a wholesale and retail butcher business.

Of late years it has remained idle and was the scene of numerous prize fights and cocking mains until the police watched the place too closely and kept the sports away.

Pensions for Plainfielders.

Among the pensions allowed to New Jerseymen during the past month are the following: Mrs. Mary T. Dunham, Plainfield, original widow's, $8; Jacob Manning, Plainfield, increase, restoration, reissue, etc., $12; Mrs. Delia Downes, Plainfield, reissue, widow's, $12; Edward Willis, Plainfield, increase, restoration, reissue, etc., $16; Rev. Frank Fletcher, Dunellen, original, $8.

Back to Duty.

Edward Golden, formerly night operator at the North Avenue station, has returned to his old position from Bound Brook, where he was temporarily.

Special Musical Service.

The choir of the First Baptist church will rehearse this week for the special musical service to be given at the church Sunday evening.

THOSE WHO ENFORCE THE LAW IN PLAINFIELD

Sketch of Plainfield's Police Department and the Men Who, As Members of It, Are Looking After the Good Order of the City.

It has long been Plainfield's boast that it is one of the best governed cities of the State, has one of the most complete and thoroughly up-to-date fire departments and it now lays claim to another superiority over many of its sister cities of corresponding size in the commonwealth of New Jersey. It is in reference to its police department which in a comparatively short time has risen to be one of the municipality's foremost possessions at which to point the finger of pride.

Though small in numbers the police force comprises a set of men which for honesty, trustworthiness and performance of duty, will remain superlative in a comparison with any similar body. At the recent annual inspection, the councilmanic body and Mayor Jenkins had nothing but the warmest words of praise for the officers while the city's chief executive took occasion to personally commend every man for his department and the thorough manner in which all had lived up to the precepts laid before them.

PLAINFIELD'S POLICE FORCE.

In the back row, beginning from left to right, the men are Patrolmen Higgins, Totten, Gano, McGinley. Doorman McCue, Chief Kiely, Patrolman Saunders, Mayor Jenkins, Patrolman Saffron, Detective McCarthy, Roundsman John Flynn, Patrolman Lenger and Roundsman Mattox. In the front row, from left to right, the men are Patrolmen Vanderweg, Myers, Chas. Flynn, Quass and Overbaugh.

The department is much younger than is generally supposed. It really did not exist as an organized body until 1895, in the latter part of Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert's term of office. Through his efforts and those of former Councilman Elliot T. Barrows, the handful of bluecoats then existing was banded firmly together and with a proper head to preserve discipline, began to guard the city in a more systematic manner. More men were speedily added, the posts were lengthened until the most remote sections were as carefully protected as the business center and the citizens instead of protesting against the innovations, fell in line and gave their approval of all that was being done for their own benefit. Today the city is carefully patrolled during every one of the twenty-four hours, the percentage of crime is remarkably low while the comparative cost with the sense of safety incurred is beyond calculation.

Back in the early sixties and seventies, the heart of the city was watched at night by numerous private watchmen but it was not until as late as twenty-five years ago that paid policemen were introduced. Among some of the earliest bluecoats who will be remembered by the older residents were late W. R. Mattox, Nicholas Kelley, the late Captain Grant, Patrick Lynch and Union county Jail Warden Charles Dodd. A captain was always in charge and these from the first until the office was abolished were the late Theodore J. Gillies, Philip Breen, Charles Dodd, W. S. Chase, Tunis J. Carey, the late George W. Grant and Chief P. S. Kiely.

At the present time the department consists of nineteen regular men and twenty-five specials with the former ranked as follows: Chief Patrick S. Kiely, Sergeant Christian Frederickson, Roundsmen William Mattox and John Flynn, Doorman Thomas McCue and Patrick Flannigan and Patrolmen James Totten, James Saunders, Martin Vanderweg, George W. Langer, Nicholas Meyers, Andrew Saffron, F. S. McCarthy, Morris Higgins, Charles P. Gano, Charles Flynn, Herbert Overbaugh, Arthur McGinley and Moses Quass.

Chief Patrick S. Kiely.

The oldest member in age is Doorman Flannigan who has for some time past been confined to his home by illness, and the youngest is Arthur McGinley. In point of service Thomas McCue ranks highest having completed his eighteenth year the first of this month.

When Chief Kiely was appointed to the force in 1899, it then consisted of seven men, Messrs. Grant, Lynch, Charles Gioss, McCue, Flannigan, Joseph Cooney and Frederickson. He was assigned to duty at the corner of Park and North avenues and adjacent streets. Within a very short time his attention to duty and courteous manner to all with whom he came in contact brought him to the notice of several leading citizens and in 1895 when the force was permanently organized he was honored with the rank of sergeant. This he retained until two years ago Monday evening, when the Common Council appointed him captain to succeed George W. Grant, resigned. The office of chief existed in name only and was not made an office until three months ago at Mayor Jenkins' behest.

Since he assumed command Chief Kiely's constant aim has been to maintain discipline and harmony among his men and that he has succeeded is attested by the splendid work which he has secured from them. It was he who first originated a bicycle squad and through it Plainfield has the honor of having one of the first in the United States. The bicycle "cop" is now a feature of every up-to-date force in the country and its efficiency, especially for suburban patrol service, has proven invaluable. He has lengthened the beats and by securing more men from time to time has now established eleven posts embracing seventy-seven miles of streets which are fully protected day and night.

For the past few years no great improvement has been introduced in the department and there is now only one that is needed and for which the chief is striving, that is, the establishment of the Gamewell police telegraph system with the accompanying patrol wagon service. This obviates the necessity of a patrolman dragging a prisoner through the streets, some times a distance of two miles and also leaving his beat "uncovered" to use the department's parlance, which means unprotected. The matter has been under considerations for some time and another year will undoubtedly witness its installation. The chief has also introduced the Bertillon system for taking the measurement of prison criminals, a simple method for securing prisoners' photographs and has one of the most complete Rogues Galleries in the State.

As an officer Patrolman Kiely won the approval of his superiors and as the head of the department he has secured the confidence of the people and has served and is still serving them better than any one who has held the office. He is still a young man and has many more years of usefulness and activity before him as the enemy of the evil element, which is the bane of every law abiding community.

Christian Frederickson was also appointed to the force in 1899 and succeeded Chief Kiely as sergeant in 1895. He has distinguished himself in many ways, the foremost being his bravery in the capture of John Wichers, a burglar, after a desperate struggle in the home of C. C. Cokefair, of Crescent avenue. He was assisted by Patrolman Saunders and both narrowly escaped being shot by the man. In his struggles to escape the burglar drew a pistol and attempted to kill both the policemen but instead shot himself through the hand. He was sentenced to fifteen years in State prison but died soon after beginning his term.

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

MAY LOSE EYE.

Piece of Steel is Causing Trouble for Arthur Drake.

From the effects of a piece of steel which entered his left eye while at work in the Scott Press Works, last week, Arthur Drake, of West Third street, is in danger of losing that optic. For want of immediate medical attendance inflammation set in and he is now experiencing much pain, besides apprehension as to whether an operation will be necessary. He has placed himself in the care of Dr. Ard.

Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA PLAYED

FOURTH PUBLIC REHEARSAL HELD AT Y. M. C. A. HALL TUESDAY.

New Descriptive Piece of a Saturday Night in Plainfield Was Given by the Orchestra.

A large audience was present in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last Tuesday to hear the fourth public rehearsal by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. An excellent programme was carried out, drawing frequent rounds of applause from the house. The orchestra was assisted by Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, who delivered two recitations, which were highly enjoyed by the assembly.

A piece that especially caught the fancy of the audience was the "Capture of Santiago," a fantasy, illustrative of American soldiers at Tampa bay awaiting orders, the bugle call, falling in line, marching on board transports, the voyage, the landing, American gunboats firing, the battle, the victory, "America" and "Star Spangled Banner," celebrating the victory, "Yankee Doodle."

The new descriptive piece of a Saturday night in Plainfield was also presented, representing a band concert going on, and interspersed therewith the town clock striking 8 p. m., a Central train arriving and departing, a trombone solo, at the trolley depot, choir rehearsing, a street piano, a cornet solo, Company K on drill, fire-alarm box 31, hitching up—all ready—go—fighting fire; recall, fire out.

The other numbers on the programme consisted of a march, "Blaze Away," Holman; overture, "Merry-maker." DeWitt; "Fairy Tales," Ellenberg; "Return of the Troops," Ellenberg; "Vision," Orth; "Attack of the Cuirassiers," Ellenberg; Novellete, "In a Cosy Corner," Kimball-Bratton; "Lizard and the Frog," Morse; "Bridal Procession," Ellenberg.

NEW ROUTE.

Jersey Central Railroad Will Connect Direct at Phillipsburg for Water Gap and Mt. Pocono.

Following out the idea of wishing to please the patrons of the New Jersey Central, General Manager W. G. Besler has inaugurated a new and quick route to Delaware Water Gap and Pocono Mountains, which will give better service with less trouble in reaching the mountains in Pennsylvania.

The new route is from Plainfield to Phillipsburg, where connections are made for a train on the Lackawanna road for Water Gap and intermediate stations to Pocono. The train making this connection leaves Plainfield at 9:54 in the morning, arriving at Water Gap at 12:35 and Pocono at 1:22 in the afternoon. Returning the train leaves Pocono at 8:51 in the morning and Water Gap at 9:38 and connects at Phillipsburg with the Harrisburg flyer which arrives in this city at 11:54 in the morning. This train makes no stops between Phillipsburg and Plainfield and there is only a ten minute wait in either direction at Phillipsburg. Tickets were put on sale yesterday by this route.

In making the trip by way of Junction and Washington several changes are necessary and in some cases a wait of a couple of hours makes the journey tedious. The above change was made in the interest of the people living at this end of the road who wish a quick and pleasant trip.

Guests to Wed.

Miss Norton, who has been a regular guest at the Hotel Netherwood for several seasons, will be married tomorrow to Captain E. C. Sarratt, U. S. A. The wedding will take place in New York. Captain Sarratt, who has also been a guest at the Netherwood this season, was recently ordered to California to join his regiment there.

No More War Taxes.

The war taxes imposed by the Government in 1898 to provide revenue for the Spanish-American War ceased to exist yesterday, when the act of Congress repealing the war taxes went into effect.

A PATRIOTIC SERVICE HELD BY ENDEAVORERS

Other Societies Were Invited to Service Arranged by the First Baptist Society.

APPROPRIATE ADDRESS.

SPEAKER OF THE EVENING WAS REV. J. L. SULLIVAN, OF PATERSON.

Talked on Patriotism and Drew Lessons From the American Wars —Dr. N. H. Probasco, President of the Society, Was in Charge.

Very appropriate and enthusiastic was the service held last Tuesday in the First Baptist church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. It was a patriotic service and all of the local Endeavor Societies were invited to attend. There was a good representation from the societies and all fully enjoyed the programme. The service was held in the Sunday-school room where attractive decorations of flowers and flags were arranged.

Dr. Norman H. Probasco, president of the church society, was in charge of the programme. After the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and prayer offered by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, the president extended a few hearty words of welcome to all. Then followed a recitation, "The Independence Bell," by Miss Laura VanCampen. A soprano solo by Miss Florence Ackor, accompanied by Miss Sadie Conover, of Trenton, preceded the address of the evening by Rev. Joseph L. Sullivan, pastor of the Baptist church at Paterson.

Mr. Sullivan was greatly at a disadvantage for he recently underwent an operation for the removal of a bone from the nose. He stated in the beginning that he never broke an engagement unless absolutely necessary, else he would have been tempted to remain at home last evening. The speaker gave a short, but very interesting talk on patriotism, reciting briefly the deeds whereby this country was made free. He said that he was born under another flag, but he got under the American flag as soon as possible.

He asked why a person loved his country and then answered the question by saying that by reason of the fact that it is the country of his birth there is every reason why he should love it. He spoke of this country as being the place of many true nobles. He referred to the facts which lead to the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War and drew helpful lessons from each. He also paid rich tribute to the American school system and said that he has two sons and he wanted them to get a public school education and he wanted them to get it under less difficulties than he received his.

In closing Mr. Sullivan cited three points, essential to true patriotism, namely, reverence for authority, the maintenance of the public schools and the right kind of government under God's leadership.

Following the address a recitation, "The Ensign," by Miss Hazel Grant and a piano solo by Miss Mae Batchelor, closed the programme. Then there was a social time and refreshments were served by a committee as follows: Miss May E. Sorrell, Miss Grace S. Yerkes, Miss Ida Yerkes, Miss Hattie Mattison, Miss Grace TenEyck, Miss Beasie TenEyck, Miss Mabel Smith and George F. Brown and N. Douglas Drake. Miss Sorrell was chairman of the affair and planned the programme. During the social hour many had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Sullivan and getting better acquainted.

PRAISE FOR DR. YERKES.

Sketch of Retiring Pastor in the New York Examiner.

A picture of Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes graces the front cover of the New York Examiner dated June 26, and an article entitled "Dr. Yerkes's Resignation" gives a very interesting account of his pastorate of thirty-nine years over the First Baptist church, of this place. His preaching is spoken of as "steadfastly orthodox and in demonstration of the Spirit." The accessions by baptism to the First Baptist church during these years numbered 977.

A well deserved tribute to the merits of the wife of Dr. Yerkes is given in the article, of whom it is said she is "one of the most valuable help mates any minister was ever blessed with."

Gen. Lord Kitchener---England's Hero of the Hour

Something of the Man and the Work He Has Done in Egypt and South Africa.

SHOULD you ask any patriotic Englishman, during these days of British jubilation, who he considered the greatest soldier in the king's army and he might answer "Bobs," but if he did, he would unquestionably add, "and Kitchener."

Lord Roberts, or, as his soldiers have always called him, "Little Bobs," has a place in the hearts of the English people that can scarcely be filled by any other as long as he lives, or for that matter, years after his death, but, for a time at least, he must share that place with Gen. Kitchener—Kitchener, the avenger of the beloved Gordon; Kitchener, the conqueror of the valiant burghers of South Africa; Kitchener, who has brought to England a long-sought peace.

When this same Gen. Lord Herbert Kitchener, first baron of Khartum, was ordered to South Africa as chief of staff to Lord Roberts, after having but just completed an arduous task in the Soudan, the world had almost to stop and ask, "Who is this Kitchener?" To-day the world knows who he is; the world has become familiar with every detail of his life; his name and history are known wherever newspapers are printed. It is not my purpose to merely relate historical facts in the life of this man who is the hero of the hour in England; even though I so desired I could tell nothing that is not already widely known, but I wish rather to present a study as far as my ability—the ability of an admirer —will permit of his methods and personality. Such a study is not the result of either a personal acquaintance or personal observation, but must be taken from a close study of his accomplishments and traits as given in current history, following such fragmentary history as it is possible to secure back to his younger days at the English military school at Woolrich.

LORD K.TCHENER.

It would not be doing full justice to either Kitchener's natural ability nor his soldier ancestors, to attribute his soldierly qualifications entirely to his alma mater. Some of it he inherited from his father, Lieut. Col. H. H. Kitchener, in his day a valued officer in the English army. From his father it attributed the inheritance of that reticence that has made of him a spectral sphynx to the newspaper correspondent anxious to send his paper every detail of plans and accomplishment. His strict censorship of press dispatches have been the cause of many a condemnation upon his head, but—he never talked, save officially.

To Kitchener's ability as an organizer must be credited much of his success as a soldier. Had circumstances placed the same man in commercial life, it is easy to see in him a rival to our own Morgan, but being a soldier we must rather compare him to Grant. His genius as an organizer was never shown to better advantage than when on March 12, 1896, he received orders from England to begin the operations against the Mahdists that resulted in the reconquest of the Egyptian Soudan and the avenging of the death of Gen. Gordon. At that time everything was against him, every obstacle that nature and circumstances could throw in his way to block progress was there. But he had received orders to advance, and advance he did with a speed that astonished the world. The hottest season of the Egyptian year was close at hand, and the Nile, which must furnish much of the means of transportation, was at its lowest. Not an English regiment was numbered among the garrisons of the frontier posts. Under such conditions an organizer was necessary, and he was at hand.

Kitchener was familiar with all the conditions of Soudan warfare. He knew the resources at his command; he knew the transportation facilities that he could utilize, meager as they were; and he knew the qualities of the troops he was to command, and he knew the enemy. Every available boat that could navigate the lower Nile as far as Assuan was pressed into the service of the army, and on them he transported the available English troops at Cairo, as well as supplies for the Soudanese troops already at the frontier posts. He utilized existing railroads as far as they went, and seized material then in Egypt for the building of a new line between Girgeh and Luxor, and carried it by railway, boat and caravan to Sarras, 900 miles south of Cairo. In this way he began the building of the railway that was to become the connecting link between the army in the field and the base of supplies at Cairo. With a rapidity that was astonishing, considering the difficulties to be overcome, the advance guard of his army was pushed forward into the enemy's country. Close behind them came the railway battalion, splicing together the steel rails that connected them with the necessities of a campaign in such a country.

To follow all the details of organization that resulted in the downfall of the Mahdi in the Soudan would fill many columns. It was a campaign of details, a campaign in which thorough organization and preparation meant more toward ultimate success than did bravery on the line of battle, though of the latter there were hundreds upon hundreds of remarkable instances. Probably in no other modern war has a commanding officer been called upon to solve more serious difficulties than was Kitchener in the campaign that ended with the bloody battle of Omdurman and the complete destruction of Dervish rule in the Soudan. But the commanding general seemed to anticipate and prepare for every difficulty before it was reached, and it was only the thorough system of organization and arrangement of detail that made the end possible.

Fresh from the conquests of the Soudan Kitchener was hurried to South Africa, where England was then losing ground rapidly. As chief of staff to Lord Roberts it fell to him to master the details. What he found was a disorganized, widely scattered and practically defeated army. The scene of operations hundreds of miles from any possible base of supplies; the railroads crippled by the Boer forces; reinforcements, remounts, provisions and equipments of all kinds needed at once. Gen. Roberts had scarcely reached the front before all that was needed was being gathered rapidly forward to him. Under the hand of this master soldier organizer the railroads were put into shape to handle trains for the conveyance of men and munitions of war to the front, and both were being sent forward without delay. Lord Roberts fought the battle that sent Gen. Cronje to St. Helena; he pushed on to Bloemfontein, to Johannesburg, to Pretoria; he retrieved the failing fortunes of England; but Kitchener was there was the perfected details of organization and equipment as mastered by his chief of staff.

With the fall of Pretoria, and the great battle over, but with the Boer army yet to be conquered, Gen. Roberts returned to England and left to Kitchener the task of dealing with the hard problem yet before the nation, and it is to Kitchener's organizing abilities that must be credited the attainment of England's desired end—peace with British victory. Like Grant, he laid down a line of action, and along that line he determined to fight it out if it took not only one summer, but a dozen summers, and he followed that line to the end.

WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

The American Girl of the Hour

MISS ALICE HAY, WHO IS TO WED YOUNG MR. WADSWORTH.

THE announcement of the engagement of Miss Alice Hay, youngest daughter of Secretary of State and Mrs. Hay, to Mr. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., son of Congressman Wadsworth, of Geneseo, N. Y., has created considerable stir in Washington society. The Hay girls are lucky, considered from a matrimonial point of view. The older sister, Helen, was married a short time ago to Payne Whitney, one of the richest young men of the country. The social and financial standing of the Wadsworths is quite as solid as that of the Whitneys, hence Miss Alice will never have to play second fiddle to Mrs. Whitney's first.

MISS ALICE HAY.

All brides-to-be are beautiful, of course; and Alice Hay is no exception to the rule. She is what envious old maids call "quite a young thing," having been in society less than three years. Unlike her sister, who is both a poet and an artist, she does not care for literary pursuits, but is an enthusiastic devotee of athletic sports and excels as an equestrienne and at tennis and golf. Her attachment to young Wadsworth is of long standing, and has been the subject of pleasant gossip for several seasons. Her friends go so far as to assert that Miss Alice was be spoken while still wearing short skirts.

Mr. Wadsworth was a close personal friend of the late Adelbert Hay, whose tragic death by falling out of a hotel window gave rise to considerable talk last year. His mother is a daughter of the late William R. Travers, of New York. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1899, and achieved some fame as a baseball player, being captain of the Yale nine. At present he is studying law. It is possible that he will go to Europe this summer, to be near his bride-elect, who intends to spend most of the year on the continent, where she will make many purchases for her trousseau. The wedding will take place in December.

Miss Hay's marriage will promote the daughter of Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Shaw to the leadership of the young women of the cabinet circle. It may not be generally known that the cabinet girls maintain an etiquette of their own—quite as rigid as that observed by any court of Europe. The oldest daughter of the ranking member of the president's official family is ex-officio head of this circle of wit, beauty and jealousy; and some of the girls are quite put out because the high honor is to fall to Miss Shaw, who is a newcomer and a product of the "woolly west" as well, two defects which our proud eastern and southern society dames consider almost unpardonable, no matter how cheerfully we on the outside may view the situation.

The "Grand Old Woman" of the Day

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS, WIDOW OF THE CONFEDERACY'S PRESIDENT.

WHEN we speak of typically American women of the older generation the name of Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the confederate president, suggests itself at once. Although sorely tried by fate and circumstance she is the same kind-hearted woman she was almost half a century ago. The gentleness and dignity with which she was wont to greet people still are her chief characteristics, and she accepts the results of the war between the states with resignation her thoughts are more active for the welfare of the veterans of the "lost cause."

Some time ago a syndicate of northern capitalists offered her $90,000 for Beauvoir, the historic Davis homestead. They wanted the property for hotel purposes. Mrs. Davis promptly declined the offer. The United Daughters of the Confederacy then inaugurated a movement to purchase Beauvoir not only as a home for veterans, but as a memorial of the struggle of 1861-65. Mrs. Davis was consulted and consented to sell the property for $10,000, provided that the estate should be considered as a memorial to her husband and retained forever in his memory.

This proposition was brought before the Mississippi state legislature, the senate at once passing a bill for the purchase of the property. In the house the matter has dragged along, because some fear has been expressed that the establishment of a veterans' home at Beauvoir might interfere with the state system of pensions in vogue for the same veterans. That the offer will eventually be accepted, however, is the opinion of the best informed legislative leaders.

Mrs. Davis makes her permanent residence in the north, by the direction of her physicians. She has a heart trouble which might prove disastrous if she should remain in the south. Recently, however, she went to Mississippi to confer with the legislature in regard to the sale of Beauvoir. Wherever she went she was received with genuine enthusiasm and at Birmingham and other points of importance she had to submit to the ordeal of public receptions. She was greeted by hundreds of veterans with the highest sentiments, cheered by the younger generation, and press and public united in convincing her that to southerners at least she is "the grand old woman of America," reversal as the widow of the man who represented the aspirations of the old south and as a typical American woman who bore defeat without losing faith in mankind or her country.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The Prettiest of British Princesses

ALICE OF ALBANY, WHO MAY BE WOOED BY GERMAN CROWN PRINCE.

THIS is the season for matrimonial gossip at home and abroad. Princes and princesses are married off by the newspaper writers of the European press at wholesale, one might say. The only bit of talk, however, which seems to have a substantial foundation is the rumored engagement of Princess Alice of Albany to her cousin, the crown prince of Prussia and heir presumptive to the German throne.

PRINCESS ALICE OF ALBANY.

Princess Alice is a pretty girl, just 19 years old and full of spirits. She is the eldest of the two children of the duke of Albany, Queen Victoria's youngest son, who died in 1884, after a long illness. He left his family in what royalty calls "straightened circumstances," his widow and her two children being compelled to get along on an annual pension of $30,000, which trifling amount was doubled by the personal income of the mother, who was a Russian grand duchess before her marriage. Things looked blue for the Albanys until a year or two ago, when, through the decision of the duke of Connaught to renounce for himself and his son all claims to the throne of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, young Leopold of Albany succeeded to the sovereignty of the German state. The revenues of the grand duchy are immense, and as Leopold will be reigning grand duke in three years—when he shall have attained his majority—the future of his family may be said to be assured.

Princess Alice was seen for the first time this year at the royal drawing-rooms and will be one of the belles of the coronation season. She has repeatedly visited Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who is her cousin and personal friend, and recently was a guest of the German emperor, who, it is said, likes his "little English cousin" very much. How her personality impressed the crown prince, who may be called upon to woo and win her, gossip sayeth not.

ODOR FOR CHRYSANTHEMUM.

Florists Are Now Seeking a Means to Add to the Flower's Attractions.

How to impart perfume to the chrysanthemum is a feat the accomplishment of which is just now earnestly being sought by florists, both professional and amateur, in all sections of the country. The development of the chrysanthemum within the last few years from an unattractive flower to its present high state of perfection, beauty and commercial value is one of the wonders of horticultural history. To English florists is due the credit of this development, but this country has not been slow in cultivating that flower, and the correctness of the commercial instinct of the professional florists in this direction can be realized when it is known that their revenue from this flower alone was $500,000 last year.

More flowers are said to be bought in New York than in any other city in the world, and the prices paid are higher. In this connection it is not uninteresting to note that the flower industry of the whole country, says the Washington Star, is assuming large proportions and is increasing in perhaps a more rapid ratio than other commercial enterprises. The government figures are available for the year 1899, and show that during that year $2,738,426 was expended for the labor in the flower industry in this country. The value of the whole product is placed at $11,928,822, which commercial florists have thought too low an estimate. The land on which the flowers were raised and the value of the buildings in use is estimated at $35,469,487.

UNCLE SAM'S RAILROAD.

A Six-Mile Line That Is Used to Transport Ordnance Up and Down Sandy Hook.

The United States is operating a railroad of its own, and does not make a cent out of it from one year's end to the other. Only a few miles from New York, on the Sandy Hook peninsula, is a six-mile steam railroad, with Fort Hancock as one terminal and Highland Beach as the other. This road, says the Express Gazette, while limited in its rolling stock to one locomotive, one combination baggage and passenger car and several freight cars, is in touch with the whole country, as it connects at Highland Beach with the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Large operations in the line of ordnance tests are secretly conducted at the Sandy Hook proving grounds by the ordnance department at Sandy Hook, and it is the transportation of this ordnance, together with ammunition and supplies, that furnishes the bulk of business of this railroad. The passenger traffic is small, as it is limited to those having passes issued by the military authorities of the United States. Aside from the inscription "Sandy Hook Proving Grounds," which appears on the cars and locomotive, there is nothing about the train to suggest the ownership of the road. Nevertheless, it is Uncle Sam's own railroad, with an artillery sergeant as conductor, and a traffic manager, Col. J. B. Burbank, who is at present in command at Fort Hancock.

NEEDLEWORK OF THE NUNS.

The Art of Embroidery Has Reached Perfection in Some of the Convents.

The most beautiful needlework in the world comes from the convents. The fact is unquestionably due to the training the young apprentice receives, less than a quarter of a yard of cloth all the fundamental rules of sewing. Industriously she plies her needle on this bit of cloth, mastering inch by inch all the finer arts of the delicate needlework; one by one these are mastered and the mothers with growing daughters, who are permitted to destroy valuable silks and linen, ruining both temper and goods over something that is pure Greek to the crude beginner. How often is mastered outright, a thimble fitting perfectly, not too heavy, a needle in size to carry 70 or 80 thread, are the implements of practice. The young women who learn the sewing are the consecrated women, so called because they have consecrated their lives and daily labor to God.

The Home of Kisses.

As many kisses as shots are exchanged on a big field-day with the Russian army. The emperor kisses his officers, the officers kiss each other, men embrace lovingly; old generals kiss; in fact, everybody is kissing and being kissed when the czar reviews his troops. On public holidays the mistress of the house salutes all her servants, both male and female, with a morning kiss, while her lord and master scarcely enters or leaves the room that day without administering a kiss on the forehead, cheek or hand of his spouse.

A Liner's Metal Works.

The boiler tubes on a liner, if placed in a straight line, would reach nearly ten miles, and the condenser tubes more than 25 miles. The total number of separate pieces of steel in the main structure of the ship is not less than 40,000.

America's Place as a Ship-Building Nation

A New Impetus Given the Industry Because of the Recent Steamship Merger.

THE shipping interests of the United States, and in fact those of the whole world, are undergoing such a change at the present time and so much uncertainty previals as to where controlling interests will be centered when affairs have steadied down and the new order of things under the plans of the merger have become established certainties, that to attempt to write of shipbuilding and shipping interests of the United States is a perplexing task, and while stating a condition and position which exists at the time of writing, before the ink has had time to become dry other changes may have taken place which will put an entirely different aspect upon the question. Things are moving so rapidly these days, and the commercial and business world seems to be so largely in a transition stage that the future is full of uncertainties and untold possibilities.

The man who went to bed an ordinary and unknown citizen and awoke in the morning to find himself famous may yet find a counterpart in the United States as a shipping and shipbuilding nation, and the $1,894,445,461 of foreign trade carried in foreign ships in 1900, or 90.7 per cent. of the total, may, under the manipulation of a Morgan

A SEVEN MASTED SCHOONER.

The Largest Sailing Vessel Ever Built Now Being Completed at an Eastern Shipyard.

and the stroke of a pen, come suddenly under the control of the Stars and Stripes and the indomitable spirit of American energy. And with the capturing at one fell swoop of a large part of the shipping interests of the world will undoubtedly come such impetus to the shipbuilding industry of the country as to soon place the United States in the foreground, if not the lead, of the shipbuilding nations of the world.

To-day Great Britain probably builds four-fifths of the world's ocean-going tonnage, while the production of the substantial number of establishments in the United States, equipped with every essential for the construction of ocean-going ships of every type, is strangely limited to the construction of warships and of vessels for our domestic trade, except for the infrequent and spasmodic requirements of a few courageous shipowners who persist in operating American-built ships in foreign trade. All this may soon be changed, and "the Ships that Pass in the Night" may be of American construction.

This anomalous condition of American shipyards, in respect of equipment for and output of ocean-going shipping, has attracted widespread attention and provoked world-wide comment. The demand for vessels in the foreign trade is so great that if it were supplied by American shipyards the average annual construction of these yards would be increased, fully one-third in tonnage and probably doubled in value, for the types of vessels engaged in the foreign trade are much more costly than those employed in domestic trade. Precisely what should be done to increase United States shipping in foreign trade is the most discussed and still unsolved American maritime problem.

As we have just intimated the vessels constructed for foreign trade represents but a small proportion of the entire output of the shipyards, for the ability of the industry in the United States has reated almost wholly upon the domestic or coastwise trade, and one remarkable feature of the growth of the industry during the past decade is the fact that the product of vessels in this line has been so largely absorbed and employed in the domestic commerce of the country.

The completeness of the decline of American shipping in the foreign trade may be briefly illustrated by quotations from the statistical history of the growth of the foreign commerce of the United States, showing the share in its carriage taken by American ships in the earlier years compared with the present time. In 1830 American vessels carried 92.5 per cent. of the foreign commerce of the United States, the value of which was $150,331,636, while in 1900 they carried 9.3 per cent., the value of which was $195,063,155, an increase in value of only 29.5 per cent. in 74 years. In 1826 foreign vessels carried 7.5 per cent. of our foreign commerce, valued at $12,228,163, while in 1900 they carried 90.7 per cent., valued at $1,894,445,461, an increase of 15,379.8 per cent. in 74 years. Thus the shipping interests of the country have not kept pace with growth in other directions, and the nation is just beginning to wake up to its needs in this respect.

The domestic, water-borne traffic of the United States is confined to vessels constructed and owned in the United States, and the growth of shipping in the domestic trade seems to be all that can be desired. The recent territorial acquisitions of the United States, extending to the West Indies and the islands of the Pacific, our trade with which must be confined to vessels built in the United States, holds promise to shipbuilders of a demand for ocean-going vessels adapted to the trade requirements and harbor facilities of the ports of these possessions. Moreover, it is likely that the future growth of the navy will afford employment for many shipyards.

During the past decade, 806,771 tons of ships for foreign trade were built in the United States. During the same period 12,077,359 tons of steel steamships were built in the world's shipyards, of which Great Britain built 9,795,626 tons, or 81.1 per cent. In the United States only 742,830 tons of steel vessels were built during the past ten years, 450,089 tons of which were constructed upon the Great Lakes. The remainder, 292,741 tons, or 39.4 per cent. of the total, represents the constructions of the Atlantic and Pacific shipyards for the coastwise and ocean traffic.

The number of establishments engaged in the building and repairing of vessels, boats, masts and spars increased from 953 in 1850 to 1,736 in 1900, or 17.1 per cent., while the capital invested increased from $5,373,139 to $27,362,701, or 1,329.8 per cent. Shipbuilding is carried on in 33 states of the union, of which the following 17 reported either a capital or products of more than $1,000,000 each: California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin. Of these states, three are located on the Pacific coast, four on the Great Lakes and ten on the Atlantic, although both the Virginia and Pennsylvania have ports on the Great Lakes.

Summarizing the new construction of vessels of all kinds—steam, sailing, barges, and canal boats, both iron and steel and wooden—there were constructed in American shipyards during the year ending May 31, 1900, 2,087 vessels of a total of 687,681 gross tons. Of these, 519, of a total of 286,311 gross tons, were steam; 652, of a total of 80,376 gross tons, were sailing vessels; 844, of a total of 229,059 gross tons, were barges; and 72, of a total of 21,434 gross tons, were canal boats. Of the 2,087 vessels built, 134, of a total of 262,516 gross tons, were of iron and steel, divided as follows: One hundred and twenty-three steam vessels of a total of 237,379 gross tons, six sailing vessels of a total of 21,085 gross tons, and five canal boats of a total of 4,052 gross tons. The wooden vessels numbered 1,958, of a total of 425,165 gross tons, divided as follows: Three hundred and ninety-six steam vessels of a total of 48,932 gross tons, 646 sailing vessels of a total of 59,291 gross tons, 839 barges of a total of 296,508 gross tons, and 72 canal boats of a total of 21,434 gross tons.

What Alligators Eat.

More than once curious things have been found in the stomach of a shark, but seventy-two cakes of Pears' laundry collection been found as was discovered recently in the stomach of an alligator. This alligator was killed in the Soudan and was more than 12 feet in length. In its stomach were discovered 83 silver coins, a number of two human finger nails and three hoofs of a donkey, to one of which a piece of rope was attached.—St. Louis Republic.

That "Western Senator."

That "western senator" who got drunk at a distance in Washington and destroyed $300 worth of his host's property, says the Chicago Record-Herald, must have been very western.

WOMEN'S CLUB-HOUSES

THE greatest benefit the woman's club has conferred on the sex is one seldom mentioned. It is the knowledge, to some extent at least, of financiering and the economics of organized bodies. At first the idea of quitting themselves like clubmen and getting permanent headquarters of their own was terrifying to women club members, and they were content with the hired hospitality of men's lodgerooms. After some years of this a few of the bravest in the west and middle west, of course, walked out from under the fixed glare of the painted Masonic eye and bought or built club homes.

The first clubhouse for women in this country is the Athenæum of Milwaukee, opened in December, 1887. It is a handsome stone house. But the same month the Ladies' Literary club of Grand Rapids, Mich., dedicated a house which still remains one of the prettiest buildings of its kind. The Grand Rapids society grew out of a small but enthusiastic history class into a powerful organization with several hundred members.

TWO HOMES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Women will become excellent financiers when they wake up to it. They have learned as they went along. The money to build or buy the club homes has been procured in various ways. For the construction of the Milwaukee Athenæum a stock company was formed, which paid the money, took shares in the concern and controls and manages all financial affairs. The Grand Rapids house was built from club dues and from subscriptions. Sometimes wealthy men who do not fear that women's clubs will break up the home life have donated noble sums toward building a house for a ladies' organization. In Denison, Tex., where the only women's clubhouse in the south is situate, a rich bachelor, who did not have any home life to break up and consequently was not afraid, gave the ladies of the XXL club $4,000 and a plot of ground, on which they erected a twelve thousand dollar home. Its appurtenances include a public library. In consequence of which Andrew Carnegie donated $1,700 to lift the last mortgage from the XXL's.

The true and real clubhouse with restaurant, studios and living apartments that may be rented to members is not yet many years among women's organizations. The nearest to it is the home of the women's Twentieth Century club of Buffalo, erected at a cost of $150,000. Its general assembly hall contains a stage and scenery for theatrical performances and entertainments. Attractive wall decorations are part of its adornment, and a noble marble staircase leads from the front entrance to the second floor. The Buffalo Twentieth Century appears to be the first woman's club that has had enterprise enough to provide some sleeping rooms for members. Buffalo is undoubtedly the banner city of women's clubhouses. The Women's Educational and Industrial union there has been from the beginning so strong in good works that large sums of money have been given to it from time to time by philanthropists, so that it, too, has a home of its own, worth $100,000.

The ladies of the New Century club of Wilmington, Del., have a neat home which they constructed on the plan of having each member take one share of stock or quit. Then there is the beautiful Propylæum of Indianapolis, a mutual home for various feminine organizations. It cost $30,000 and was erected largely through the efforts of that energetic clubwoman, May Wright Sewall. The great city of New York has no woman's clubhouse, while little Peoria and Decatur, Ill., have each one that cost $40,000. Los Angeles has two—one the Ebell club home, patterned after a Greek temple and the gift of Mrs. Robert Burdette; the other the home of the Friday Morning club, of old Spanish mission style in its architecture. The Friday Morning club has 500 members. The Arundel club of Baltimore has a pretty home.

Finally, Boston women are going to erect a two hundred thousand dollar clubhouse, eclipsing anything of the kind in the land, so it is said.

KATE SHARP.

FASHIONABLE MATERIALS.

Voile and Etamine Are Popular For Dressy Wear.

Serge cloth and the lighter makes of frieze are popular for summer tailor mades, and as the warmer days arrive more and more gowns of veiling and eolienne will be worn. Voile will be one of if not the most fashionable materials for the summer season, and those who only know it as the coarse woolen type have no idea of its charm in a combination of silk and wool, while all silk voile is really exquisite.

Fashionable modistes are making a good many skirts without lining to wear over slips of taffeta and satin. The bands are made separately, too, in order that more than one skirt may be worn over the same slip. This is a most convenient fashion and one commendable in the score of economy. There are many smart ways of trimming these overskirts, as they are called. The newest have inlets of lace in medallion form alternated with velvet or silk. Others quite as effective, but less elaborate, have bands or pointed trimmings of lace insertion, and the voile is cut away from the back of the lace so that a colored or white slip shows prettily through the openings.

PICTURE HAT.

The picture hat shown is of black satin straw, trimmed with pale pink roses and black velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THIN GOWNS.

Medallion Trimmings—Red Wash Dresses.

A series of medallions of graduated size running upward, tunic fashion, is smart and uncommon, and these are linked together by means of strappings of silk or velvet, which wander side by side and then part to outline the medallion and so to make a graceful border.

A particular shade of scarlet, better known as brick red, is forming many wash waists and skirts which are often toned down by a tie and deep belt of black and an all black hat. Whatever vagaries fashion takes, it always demands that we should possess at least one all black hat. It is certainly far smarter to have a toning down touch of black on a bright colored frock than to have a touch of color on an all black costume.

OF ECRU NET.

All black and all white costumes are to be all the rage this summer.

This pretty evening gown can be worn either with or without a transparent yoke. It is made of tinted net over white taffeta, and it is trimmed with perpendicular bands of heavy ecru lace. Starting a little below the knees to the bottom of the skirt there are several rows of ruffles cut so as to simulate petals and edged with the tiniest white satin ribbon. The sleeves are particularly stylish, being full and transparent. They are gathered into a cuff of the lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

An Imperfect One.

Stinger—Oh, well, I suppose you regard me as a perfect fool?

Beck—My dear fellow, I have long ago given up looking for perfection in this imperfect world.—Boston Transcript.

SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Coats and Skirts of Lace—The New Sleeve—A Fashionable Veil.

Sack coats and skirts made of heavy white lace are among the summer novelties.

Many of the new sleeves are immensely big between the elbow and wrist. This pouch is nearly always of some thin material—mousseline over mousseline of another color, lace, etc. The upper part of the sleeve is in the form of a close fitting cap.

Smart negligees are made of three accordion plaited flounces of white nun's veiling. The hems are cut into deep points and edged with narrow chiffon embroidery.

The fashionable veil of the present has a white mesh lightly plaided with black and is decorated with velvet dots which are white on one side and black on the other, so that when turned the veil presents quite a different appearance.

WHITE MUSLIN GOWN.

A smart muslin evening gown is shown in the picture. The material is sheer white, and it is figured with a little black dot. The waist has a fichu of plain white organdie, which fastens in front with a big rosette. This fichu is edged with fine black lace, and black lace figures also appear appliqued on the blouse part of the waist. The sleeves are mere pretenses, consisting of latticework made of white ribbon. The belt is of narrow white ribbon. The skirt has a full flounce of the plain white muslin banded with straps of white ribbon. The overskirt has irregular applications of black lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHANGES IN FASHION.

Plain Coats Are No Longer as Smart as Formerly.

The Eton, the bolero and the Russian coat appear to be a long way ahead of all other coats for general wear, although some dressy sack models are being shown, and the Louis coat has its votaries. The plain coat, however, has had its day, and fashionable women pass it by. The large, loose fitting coats are accepted for carriage and evening wear, but capes are almost entirely ignored except by those who require elderly fashions.

The blouse is still in request, though it is by no means as universal as formerly, but bodices are still made blouse fashion.

There is undoubtedly a tendency to return to plain skirts this spring. Many,

NET BLOUSE.

however, which cannot be termed plain have still the long, unbroken line from waist to hem. Tiny tucks run in horizontal groups and are alternated with lines of baby velvet, braid or lace, and this is a popular fashion for voile.

The pretty summer blouse in the illustration is made of net, with a yoke and insertion of guipure lace. The full sons below the waist is held in fine tucks. The sleeves have an insertion running through their centers and a cluster of fine tucks. The waist buttons down the back with tiny silk buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"THINK On THESE THINGS"

A NEWSPAPER girl was sent to obtain an interview from a woman who could draw her check for $1,000,000 and have it honored without having much of a scoop taken out of her pile of pocket money. The interview was by appointment at 12 o'clock. The day was very cold. The reporter was obliged to walk a considerable distance over a snowy, icy road in the wind's teeth. She was chilled through. It was exactly luncheon time when the interview was finished. Then the rich woman rose immediately and in a manner more chilling than the winter wind dismissed the girl reporter, who had a two hours' journey before she could reach her home, without so much as the tender of a cup of tea or even a wafer biscuit.

HE LIFTS HIS HAT TO HIS SISTER.

To the end of her days the girl writer will have a dislike of the ungracious millionaire woman.

The same girl was sent to get a sketch of another lady, a woman far more brilliant and distinguished than the impolite millionairess. The girl wrote the sketch as she did everything else, the best she could, and she herself thought it was really not so bad. When it was printed, she sent copies to the brilliant and distinguished subject of it. Immediately there came back a gracious letter written in that admirable English well bred persons know how to use, thanking the girl sincerely for her story and asking her to appoint an evening when she could dine with the lady. The girl had not time to go and could only send regrets, but to the day of her death this second woman will have a warm friend and newspaper advocate.

The second woman made a faithful friend for life simply through observance of the small and kindly courtesies of common life, in which she had been trained. The other through ignorance and perhaps ill bred snobbishness turned against herself permanently one whose good will would have been well worth having. Human nature is much the same in a newspaper girl as in her millionaire sister. And women reporters no more than men in their profession have things too easy and pleasant in their experiences.

The old world is surely sweeping on toward the kindlier, gentler day. Reciprocity treaties, the great movement among civilized nations to decide differences by international arbitration conferences instead of by armies and navies, is proof of this in the political world. But international harmony must take its root in harmony in the individual family. Each young woman or man that goes from a household whose members were always polite, harmonious and kindly among themselves will go out as the apostle of peace and good will to the great world. The trained, polished courtesy that distinguishes the high bred person from the boor takes its rise in habitual kindly thoughtfulness of others. Lately I heard a woman noted for her high bred manner and bearing say to another:

"Not one of my family would say an unkind or impolite thing to me, nor would I to one of them."

"There isn't one of my family who wouldn't say impolite and unkind things to me," answered the other, but she did not tell whether she ever made ugly remarks to them.

The boy who is trained to open or shut a door for his own sister when she enters or leaves a room, to let her precede him wherever they cannot walk side by side, to raise his hat to her when he meets her on the street, will never be discourteous or brutal to women when he becomes a man. The girl whose mother diagnosed her in childhood to abide by the Golden Rule will never in after life be rude, deceitful or grabbingly selfish toward a sister woman.

After people die and kind words or spiteful ones are all the same to them immediately their acquaintances scour the earth to find praises to sound concerning them, how noble they were, how gifted and useful, when perhaps those who are gone actually pined to death because of lack of that sympathy and appreciation that were withheld just a little too long. There is a monstrous old doctrine that it is flattery to tell a person to his face of his good qualities or good looks. Away with such ghastly, wicked teaching! We suffer because pleasant things are not said to us half often enough, the actual pleasant things that may be uttered with perfect truth. You can strew your path with joy to yourself and others by doing as you go little acts of kindness. Rub your eyes open. See what good you can do.

Think of the handsome points in the personal appearance of your sister clubwomen, of the gentle, strong and worthy traits in their characters, and they will respond exactly to your persistent thought of them. It is a positive command to us that we think no evil. On the contrary, "Whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely and of good report, think on these things."

JANE STORY.

THE SEPARATE WAISTS.

How They May Be Made Triumphs of Dress.

While shirt waists pure and simple are so much worn it would seem almost unnecessary to speak of anything which might come under that heading, but there are ladies who cannot learn to feel really well dressed in a shirt waist of whatever kind it may be. For them we find a number of extremely pretty garments made in such a way as to suggest that they were never intended to be called shirt waists.

Among these waists, then, the first choice is the tan colored or natural shade pongee and some of the lighter silks. They are made in a manner suggestive of both the negligee shirt waists and the trimmer dress corsage. These last mentioned are mostly all made with a snug boned lining and the outside drawn tightly to the figure at the back with not more than two or four small plaits, and these "run out" at the distance of two inches. The fronts are sometimes simply drawn down snugly to a point and the whole finished with a draped belt of the same material or a folded ribbon to match. The waist generally is trimmed with applications of lace.

Pongee waists are quite the prettiest and most refined of all that I have seen. The back is as I have described, but the front is made in rather more of a blouse effect than is seen in the other kinds of silk, which are mostly figured. There are so many dainty designs in self colored silk embroidery arranged along one side of the pongee in the piece that no one need fail to have a rich and elegant waist if the embroidery is suitably applied. One favorite way is to have the straight edge open from the joining of the shoulders down to the bottom of the waist. This leaves the top open about six inches and brings it to a point at the bottom. There is in this case a vest front of something different from the outside waist, and by this one may achieve actual triumphs.

For instance, a green silk lining with a covering of handsome lace or, in fact, a lining of any preferred color can be used. But until one has seen the deliciously cool and tasteful effect of a tan waist with the green vest covered with lace one should not cry out against it. Green anyhow is so very fashionable this season that it is well worth one's while to have something in that restful color. Green parasols are very much liked. They are summery and certainly beneficial to the eyes, though we will leave the question of complexion out. It is generally conceded that she who can wear anything green next her skin is possessed of a faultless complexion.

THE DRESSY SEPARATE WAIST.

To return to our pongee waists. Pongee will wash like calico and is therefore desirable. When there is no embroidered edge to the silk, any arrangement of lace can be made, so that the points of the bertha come to the bottom of the waist. In the illustration I show a very handsome waist, which can be transformed from a street waist to a home dress by the addition of a belt and bow, with ends of ribbon to match the color in the vest front. When it is desired that this shall be a street waist, the ribbon is removed and the self belt is left only. This waist is made in pongee and also in black china silk. It is difficult to say which is the handsomer. The pongee in this instance had the vest of the same silk, but the lace over it was pure white. When the vest is of a suitable color, the lace is generally ecru or flax.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

UP TO DATE HATS.

Fashionable Tricorne Shapes—Hats Made of Taffeta.

Hats are crazier in outline this season than ever before. The tricorne undoubtedly leads for everyday wear; next follow the walking shapes turned up at both sides and trimmed with ruches of ribbon or flowers. All white ribbon trimmings on black hats are considered extremely smart.

Chiffon hats are not so stylish as last season. Fine straw shapes are taking their place. The wide brims of these straw hats are inset with lace figures, from underneath which the straw is cut out so as to give a transparent effect.

TUSCAN STRAW HAT.

Hats made of rose or violet leaves are trimmed with huge bows of pale colored ribbon. The favorite ribbons for trimming hats are moire and soft louisine.

Transparent striped straws are in great demand for picture hats. They are trimmed with rosettes of tulle and narrow velvet ribbons. Many trimmings are appliqued flat on the hat.

The illustration shows a hat of tuscan straw lined with tucked pale blue chiffon. Under the brim are a single pale pink rose and two narrow velvet straps held down with jeweled buttons. The upper part of the hat is very simply trimmed with a softly draped scarf of black and white net.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A SEASON OF COLOR.

But the All Black Gown Still Holds Its Own.

Although this will be a season of color, yet the smart black dress is indispensable to every woman's wardrobe. It is a sort of general utility gown and fills up many gaps. It can be made more or less smart or bright according to the accessories and finishing touches. Crepe de chine is an ideal fabric for a dressy gown, as it tucks, plaits or gathers equally well and can be worn over silk, satin or moire silk.

Taffeta will be used for complete gowns, and a taffeta skirt is useful with a black blouse and a silk or cloth coat. It forms either a day or evening toilet if judiciously selected. Taffeta is very smart when inlet with insertions left transparent. It can then be worn over a white or colored slip or again over black, with the accessories following the same line of color as the slip or arranged to contrast. Several quite distinct effects may be produced in this way.

BLUE BATISTE GOWN.

A pretty pale blue batiste gown is shown in the illustration. The bolero and upper part of the skirt as well as the upper part of the sleeves are enriched with buttonhole embroidery. The ruffles also carry out this style of ornamentation. The vest of the gown is of the plain material trimmed with tiny tucks and white insertion.

The hat is of black straw and chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Preacher's Forethought.

"Mr. Grimes," said the rector to the vestryman, "we had better take up the collection before the sermon this morning."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. I'm going to preach on 'Economy.'"—Philadelphia Press.

POPULAR LINEN DRESSES.

They Are Made With Strapped Seams and Trimmed With Coarse Lace.

Linen dresses are to be very smart this summer. There is a new shade of reseda green much used for dresses of this kind. It is trimmed with heavy white lace and touches of black velvet.

Linen dresses are made with fairly long skirts heavily strapped and are worn with Russian blouses decorated with lace or the smartest of coats with Irish crochet collars. Scarlet and navy blue are perhaps the most useful shades, but there is just now a demand for purple and mauve, which make up charmingly with ecru lace.

A linen dress is harder to make than one thinks, and many a beautiful piece of material has been spoiled by a sagging skirt and a sloppy looking waist. Linen requires careful fitting and accurately stitched seams to look at all well after even a couple of wearings.

LINEN SUIT.

A very smart linen suit is shown in the illustration. The material is striped ecru and white, and it is trimmed with strapped applications of plain ecru linen. The blouse has a collar of all over lace over a pale blue foundation. With this is worn a waist of tucked batiste, a pale blue sunshade and a hat of black and white straw trimmed with a pale blue and a tan ostrich feather.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THIN DRESSES.

They Are Much Tucked and Inlet With Insertions.

Gowns of soft texture are much tucked and inlet with insertions and medallions of lace, and so popular are flounces that many net and gauze skirts are covered almost to the waist with tiny frills. Tunic draperies are entirely tucked or alternately tucked and inserted from the top of the skirt, and flounces or frills of varying dimensions surround the hem.

MUSLIN GOWN.

Glace or satin slips are usually made with a separate flounce, but so arranged with a stitched strapping over the seam that the effect is almost that of a plain skirt, but the edge is extremely full, and the back spreads out well. The heavier makes of Roman satin form delightful slips for the present limp trailing fashion of skirts, and with one to match or cream and another in black several variations can be effected with transparent robes.

This dainty muslin gown has both waist and skirt tucked in a down point. The sleeves end at the elbow and are supplemented by undersleeves of tucked white muslin. The neck is collarless, and the wide flounce at the bottom of the skirt is headed and edged by two narrow flounces. The costume is trimmed with perpendicular bands of lace insertion.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force ... Proprietor

NOT TOLD TRULY.

Among the stories which have been trotted out by some of the Somerset county papers as arguments against the Greater Plainfield scheme is one concerning the local silk mill and why its new home was built in the borough instead of the city. The facts have been so perverted that it might be well to tell what the real ones are.

To begin with, the owners of the silk mill did not own any property in Plainfield, having leased their quarters, and therefore it was manifestly impossible for them to have been excessively taxed. The location, which they desired, was on the city side of the brook but a restriction made in the deed of the property when it was disposed of made it impossible to secure the land for manufacturing purposes and the silk mill people had to look elsewhere.

It was particularly desired that the silk mill should be located not far from the centre of town and there was no other site available in the city. So the borough was next considered and the location selected on Brook avenue.

All this talk about the silk mill going into the borough to escape the heavy taxes of the city is nonsense. There's not a word of truth to it. Every manufacturer prefers the city when he can get it on account of the superior advantages which come from residence here. Police and fire protection are taken into consideration as are also the city sewer system. The glove factory on Washington avenue would have had no trouble in securing a site in the borough but the owners thereof much preferred to be located within the city limits.

WILL VACANCY BE FILLED?

The death of Assemblyman Frederick Miller has not only left a vacancy in the Union county delegation to the lower house of the State Legislature but one as well in the Union county Board of Freeholders. As the Legislature will not meet again until next year, unless Governor Murphy should find some need for a special session which is not at all likely, there will be no attempt to select any one to take his place in the Assembly. As the Freeholders are meeting several times every month, however, it is quite likely that something will be done to fill the vacancy in that board.

Mr. Miller was a member of the Board of Freeholders from the city of Elizabeth and the charter of that city provides that its City Council may fill vacancies in their discretion" "by the appointment of a suitable person." It is therefore entirely within the province of the Elizabeth Council to select a successor.

It so happens that the political complexion of the Elizabeth Council is Democratic while Mr. Miller was a Republican. The question now arises as to whether the Democratic members of the City Council will insist on selecting one of their own political faith to fill the place or whether they will elect a Republican to succeed a Republican. Mr. Miller's term would have expired with the close of this year. There are now in the board ten Republicans and seven Democrats. An additional Democrat would not change the balance of power but it would make the working majority somewhat smaller than it has been.

Mr. Hall was the chairman of the Elizabeth drawbridge and lunacy committees of the board and also a member of the committee on the collector's bond. His death will make it necessary to appoint his successors at the head of the two committees.

SUING EMPLOYERS.

John W. Turner Has Started Suit Against the Ball & Wood Engine Company.

Suit for $5,000 damages was commenced in the Union County Circuit Court yesterday against the Ball & Wood Engine Company, of Elizabeth, by John W. Turner, of Somerset street, a former employe of the company. He seeks to recover for injuries sustained April 11. While at work he was hit on the head with a sledge hammer by Peter Meyer, a fellow-workman.

Turner alleges that the accident was occasioned by the gross carelessness, negligence and incompetency of Meyer, and that the defendant company is responsible for keeping in its employ a man incompetent for the work required, and was a menace to the safety of other employes. Lawyer Robert M. Clark represents Mr. Turner.

For Shooting on the Fourth.

A committee, consisting of Adolph Bohren, Adolph Barry, Reuben Dyke, Jack Lloyd and Charles Kellar, have recently made all preparations at the Maple avenue range for the Fourth of July shooting tournament.

ONE OF SOMERSET'S FARMS

IT ABOUNDS IN ANCIENT LANDMARKS AND STRANGE FEATURES.

Located Near Martinsville—An Old Revolutionary Fort is Located in Its Borders.

The farm of Harvey L. Schmeyer, near Martinsville, abounds in ancient landmarks that make it an exceedingly interesting place to visit. In fact, so well known among people who study the archaic has the farm become that seldom a week passes that a visit is not made to it by strangers from the city.

Probably the most attractive feature of the farm is an old fort which was constructed and used by the patriots in the Revolutionary War. This was built on a hillside, to command the road then running from Bound Brook to Basking Ridge, over which the British were wont to convey supplies. The breastworks of the fort are as high as a man's head, and on the outside the ditch is still prominent. In the summer, when Mr. Schmeyer grows peas, beans, corn and cabbage in the old fort, it does not present a very warlike aspect.

A New York millionaire has made a liberal offer for the fort and an acre of ground around it. It is probable he may secure it. If he does, it will be preserved. There was another fort on the farm, but it was torn down by a former owner, who thought it marred his pasture fields.

Another curious feature of this remarkable farm is a cemetery that has been in use for over a century and a half. It was a private burying ground, and was overgrown with underbrush until a few weeks ago, when it was cleared up. Some of the inscriptions on the tombstones to be found are: "William Bishop, May 9, 1792;" "F. B., 1749;" "R. Bell, 1755;" "Mary Bolmer, May 15, 1771;" "C. D. Tunison, Jan. 19, 1824." It is said that a stone bearing a date of 1734 has been carried away by a gatherer of curios.

In the orchard, near this cemetery, is an apple tree, the trunk of which it takes three men to span. The trunk has stood there for over 300 years, but branches have grown out of it within the past decade. The fruit is of a sour, red variety, and the yield is always very abundant.

The farm presents several other curiosities of a lesser nature, which add to its attractiveness to lovers of the ancient. Those who visit it always feel well repaid for the journey.

NEW BRIDGES.

One Completed for Reading Tracks, Now Working on the Central's.

The bridge over Middle brook to accommodate the two tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, has been completed and trains are now running over it. During the past few days the workmen have been engaged in removing that portion of the old bridge used by the New Jersey Central trains, and when this is out of the way will install there a platform structure similar to the one just finished for the Reading tracks. The new bridge is some three feet higher than the old one, and this elevation necessitated the raising of the tracks to meet it. As yet nothing has been heard of the underground crossing at Middlebrook.

TO CAMP OUT.

Plainfield Young Men Are Going to Spend Several Weeks in This State.

A party of Plainfield young men with a few out of town friends are making preparations to spend part of next month in camp near Newfoundland, this State. The spot where they intend locating is one of the wildest in New Jersey and offers every advantage for outdoor life. Among those who will go are Percy McVey, Charles Davies and Clarence Thorn, of this city, Hayes Keller, of New York, George Hand, of Hoboken, and J. W. Linberger, of Brooklyn.

ABANDONED FAMILY.

Wife Finally Compelled to Appeal to the City for Aid.

A well known man about town willfully abandoned his family a few days ago, leaving them in destitute circumstances. The mother battled against fate until Saturday last, when unable to hear her children's cries for bread any longer, she applied to the city for help. The police have taken the matter in hand and the inhuman father will be brought to a realization of his duty.

After Horse Thieves.

In consequence of the numerous depredations by horse thieves in Warren township, the Township Committee has offered a reward of $200 for the apprehension of those who have been so active appropriating the equines in that vicinity recently.

Non-Union Men Have Left.

The non-union plumbers who were working in Plainfield recently have all left the city. They were blackballed when they made application to join the union.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to wait hard for light, or to turn down when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good" —they may be, in some respects, but for all-round goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every

New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

MARRIED TO A PHYSICIAN FIFTEEN YEARS AS PASTOR

WEDDING OF MISS ALTHEA L. DE CAMP, FORMERLY OF THIS CITY.

Groom Was Dr. Frank M. Stagg, of Passaic—At Bride's Home in Chester, Morris County.

The marriage of Miss Althea L. De Camp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo DeCamp, formerly of Maple avenue, near Greenbrook road, but now of Chester, Morris county, to Dr. Frank Munson Stagg, of Passaic, was a quiet, but charming event Monday noon. The wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents in Chester in the presence of the immediate relatives and close friends. Rev. C. S. Osborne, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Chester, of which the bride is a member and active worker, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth DeCamp, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Lillian A. Force, of Plainfield, as bridesmaid. Fletcher Kilgore, of Passaic, was the best man, and the ushers were C. VanAken DeCamp and Robert L. De Camp, brothers of the bride. Following the ceremony, the happy couple received the best wishes and hearty congratulations of the guests. After a wedding luncheon, they left for a short honeymoon, at the end of which they will go to housekeeping at Passaic.

Mrs. Stagg is a very popular and highly-esteemed young woman. She is well-known both in Chester and in this city, where she has a host of friends who will wish her success and happiness in her married life. Dr. Stagg, who has an established practice in Passaic, stands very high in his profession and his friends are congratulating him in securing such a worthy help-mate, who will undoubtedly win for him as well as herself a great many friends in the new home at Passaic.

The bride was the recipient of a choice collection of valuable and useful presents.

PULPIT SUPPLIES.

Who Will Take Pastor's Place at Trinity Church During August.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck will spend the month of August at Spreeston in the Adirondacks and announcement was made Sunday of the pulpit supplies at Trinity Reformed church during Mr. Schenck's absence. They are as follows: August 3—Rev. John Morris, of Newark; August 10—M. Seymour Peardy, of Marconnier chapel; August 17—John Morris, of Newark; August 24—Rev. John Hart, of Heshanic. On August 31 the church will be closed for cleaning and repairs. There will be no evening service during August.

LAWN PARTY.

Given Under Auspices of the Willing Workers of Trinity Church.

Under the auspices of the Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed church, a successful lawn party was given on the grounds of the Misses Lindsey, Mountain avenue, Friday evening. The affair was in charge of Miss Lottie Wilson, chairman of the social committee, assisted by the Misses Lindsey.

There were piano solos by Miss Jean Lindsey and Mrs. Coddington and short addresses by Rev. Dr. Schenck and Horace J. Martin. The grounds were illuminated with Chinese lanterns.

Change in Exchange Firm.

The firm of Rolston & Hooley, of Wall street, New York, expired yesterday by limitation, and the business of the firm will be continued by Edwin S. Hooley, Frank E. Bromley and Norbert Heinsheimer, under the firm name of Edwin S. Hooley & Co. Mr. Hooley has been associated with Mr. Bromley in Wall street for twenty-five years. He was the managing partner of the old firm for the past fourteen years.

Prize Winner Unknown.

The members of St. Patrick's Alliance held a drawing for a Morris chair, Wednesday evening, last. No. 355 secured the prize but so far the owner of this ticket has not been found. The possessor may have the chair by referring to Partick Harrington, of 670 West Fourth street.

REV. DR. SCHENCK GAVE HIS CONGREGATION SOME FACTS ABOUT IT.

Reviewed the Work of the Past Fifteen Years, and Told of the Progress.

At Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, at the close of an excellent sermon on the "Office of the Church," gave his people a pleasant surprise, when incidentally he made reference to the fact that the service marked the fifteenth anniversary of his pastorate.

In this connection he gave a few statistics which were very encouraging to the friends and members of the church. There had been contributed during the fifteen years $18,518 for religious and benevolent objects and $104,343 for congregational purposes, the latter amount including the wiping out of the church debt and the cost of elevating and rebuilding the church a few years ago.

There was received into the membership of the church 350 on confession of faith and 343 by letter, making a total of 693. There were baptized 179 infants and 164 adults. During the fifteen years ninety-seven communicant members died, while the total number of funerals attended by Dr. Schenck was 319.

These figures give one an adequate idea of the work of this church during the fifteen years, under the faithful and efficient leadership of Pastor Schenck. After the service there was a season of congratulation to Dr. Schenck, while the members rejoiced to know that the church is in such an excellent spiritual and financial condition.

THEATRICAL.

That the coolest place in New York is Keith's Theatre is an universally admitted fact, and during these torrid days of mid-summer, that is no small factor in its phenomenal success. While one by one, the other theatres of the city have found business so bad as to make it necessary to close their doors until but a scant half dozen are left open, the attendance at Keith's is still measured only by the capacity of the house.

Heading the excellent bill for the coming week are Chas. Dickson & Co., in a revival of their original vaudeville success "The Salt Cellar." Mr. Dickson after creating an important role in the dramatization of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" was engaged for the new "yachtical" musical comedy "The Defender" in which he created the part of "Sir Thomas Teaton" and in which he was remarkably successful, leaving the cast of this production for a short vaudeville season on the Keith circuit. "The Salt Cellar" was the first of the one-act domestic comedies to react the vaudeville stage and was used by Mr. Dickson and Miss Lillian Burkhart as the vehicle for their first venture as co-stars.

The Three Navarros, in their wonderful acrobatic feats; the Leslie Brothers, musical comedians; Belmont and O'Brien, travesty comedians; Rastus and Banks, colored entertainers; Emerson and Youngs in Dutch comedy of Joe and Nellie Doern, in an eccentric acrobatic comedy sketch; John Barker, America's Champion Bone Soloist and Character comedian, with twenty-two features, including six distinct European novelties, and new pictures for the biograph and stereopticon, complete the bill at the Union Square.

LITERARY.

The Century has made elaborate preparations for treating the subject of the West Indian disasters. Before sailing for Martinique on the Dixie, Prof. Robt. T. Hill, of the U. S. Geological Survey, contributed to the magazine a paper on "The Volcano Systems of the Western Hemisphere," which, with numerous illustrations, will appear in the July number. The August Century will also have an illustrated general paper on "Earthquakes and Volcanoes," by James F. Kemp, professor of geology in Columbia University. There will be other notable material on the subject in the August number.

Mrs. William Scribner, of East Front street, has gone to Amherst, Mass.

JUNE BROKE RECORDS FOR COLD AND RAIN

Rainfall Was Far Over Normal While Average Temperature Was Much Below.

LIKE THE YEAR OF 1897.

THAT WAS EVEN COLDER THAN THE MONTH THAT ENDED SUNDAY.

For Thirteen Days of Last Month It Rained and Six Thunder Storms Wandered By—Mean Temperature Was 67 Degrees.

July opened up Tuesday dark and cloudy, apparently threatening to follow in the footsteps of June, with its conspicuous absence of Old Sol. The report from the weather bureau said that the day would be parsly cloudy, clearing up in the afternoon, probably warmer, with a prospect of a more summer-like atmosphere immediately.

During the month of June it rained on thirteen days, a total fall of 5.67 inches having been recorded. There were six thunder-storms, none of them unusually severe. In June, 1897, when June had another off year, there were twelve rainy days and four thunder storms, with a total rainfall of 2.79 inches. June of that year held the record within the memory of that oldest inhabitant until superseded by the month just passed.

The heaviest rainfall was on June 21, this fall on that date being 1.20 inches; on June 23 the fall measured 1.20 inches. The prevailing wind for the month was northwest. The Sun Dog, or Parhelia, appeared on June 18 and 28. There was fog on June 14 and June 21, and a rainbow made its appearance on the afternoon of June 23.

The mean temperature was below the normal for the month, with the precipitation above the normal, the normal being found from a ten-year average. Although the weather of the past thirty days was of a northern variety, that of the same month five years ago was even colder. Thus, in June 1897, the mean temperature was 65.5 degrees while in 1900 it was 67. At one time during the past month the mercury hovered in the vicinity of 93 degrees while the warmest day in June, 1897, the thermometer registered but 89. One day last month, citizens shivered with the thermometer at 45, but consoled themselves with the knowledge that five years previously they had withstood 89 degrees.

ENTERTAINED IN NEWARK.

Luncheon Given in Honor of Miss Sadie Thein Foster, of Borough.

"Mrs Henry J. Thein gave a luncheon in honor of her namesake, Miss Sadie Thein Foster," says the Newark Sunday Call in its last issue, "prior to her departure for Plainfield today. Daisies constituted the floral scheme. Intermingled with delicate blue ribbons, they filled in every corner of the pretty rooms, and decorated the refreshment table, where a fine spread was served. The favors were a button minature photograph of the little hostess, attached to a bunch of daisies."

In connection with this another item in the same paper speaks of Miss Foster carrying off the honors at a musicale given by her associates, pupils of Miss Charlotte E. Bachus, of Newark, last week.

Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster, who have taken up their residence in North Plainfield for the summer.

Trolley Ride to Boynton.

The members of the Plainfield Retail Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association have planned for a trolley ride to Boynton Beach and a dance next week, Thursday evening. They will leave on the 6:45 o'clock trolley. Anyone desiring tickets or further information can get the same from the following persons: Caspar Waglow, Louis Bruker, James McLean, Chas. Greer and Griffin Jenkins.

Dr. Hu[illegible]ys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1—	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2—	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic.	.25
3—	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness.	.25
4—	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.	.25
5—	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic.	.25
6—	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting.	.25
7—	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.	.25
8—	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.	.25
9—	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo.	.25
10—	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
11—	Suppressed or Painful Periods.	.25
12—	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.	.25
13—	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.	.25
14—	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.	.25
15—	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.	.25
16—	Fever and Ague.	.25
17—	Piles, Blind or Bleeding.	.50
19—	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head.	.25
20—	Whooping-Cough.	.25
27—	Kidney Diseases.	.25
28—	Nervous Debility.	1.00
30—	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed.	.25
77—	Grip, Hay Fever.	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of Diseases at your Druggist or sent free. Sold by druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER JUNE 30, 1901.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—7 58 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, Dining Car, for Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

1 07 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

5 07 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville via Shenandoah Valley Route, daily, except Saturday, for Cleveland.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 05, 3 32, 7 58, 10 32 a. m., 1 07, 5 07 p. m. On Sunday at 1 05, 7 58, 10 32 a. m., 1 56, 1 07, 5 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—6 55 a. m., 2 55 p. m. 6 55, 7 58, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 15, 7 45, 8 45, 10 00 p. m. Sundays—6 55, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 15, 7 45, 8 45, 10 00 p. m. Express for New York, 7 58, 10 32 a. m., 1 07, 5 07 p. m. Sundays—1 56, 1 07, 5 07

Y. M. C. A. WON FROM HOPES, NOW TIED FOR FIRST PLACE

Two Exciting Games in the City Baseball League Leave the Four Clubs All Well Bunched.

SAFE WORKS DEFEATED ST. MARYS.

FINE WEATHER AND GOOD BASEBALL ATTRACTED THOUSANDS TO SEE THE LOCAL LEAGUE GAMES SATURDAY.

Hope Boys Lost Their Game at the Start and Made a Plucky, But Unsuccessful Attempt to Recover It—Great Playing by the Y. M. C. A. Players—Safe Works Did the Trick by Making Four Runs in the Eighth Inning—Some of the Clever Players—Games in Detail.

STANDING IN CITY LEAGUE.

	Won	Lost	Ave.
Hope Y. M. A.	3	2	.600
Y. M. C. A.	3	2	.600
St. Marys	2	3	.400
Safe Works	2	3	.400

RESULTS OF LEAGUE GAMES.

Y. M. C. A., 5; Hope Y. M. A., 3.
Safe Works, 7; St. Marys, 6.

After taking the lead in the City Baseball League two weeks ago by defeating the St. Marys nine in a hard fought game, the Hope Y. M. A. has been forced to share the honor with the Y. M. C. A. aggregation, which defeated the Hope boys Saturday afternoon in a prettily played contest. The Safe Works contingent won a victory from the St. Marys by a single run and has now tied the latter team for third place.

Both of Saturday afternoon's games were well played and full of those exciting moments that roused the crowd to a high pitch of excitement. The Hope-Y. M. C. A. game attracted a crowd estimated at nearly two thousand while the Safe Works-St. Marys contest was witnessed by a thousand people.

Y. M. C. A.'S VICTORY.

Y. M. C. A. bested the Hope team for the second time, Saturday afternoon. The association men bunched hits, played in good shape, collectively and individually, while the Hope men seemed a trifle bewildered. That was the key to the game. The score was 5 to 3.

Montross was in the box and pitched a better game than his adversary, Dupee, but his support was visibly weak, even his standby backstop, Hartfelder, playing as if he had sand in his eyes and dope in his brain. Shortman, the Hope's new third baseman, was also erratic and several bad plays by the hitherto steady Gordon revealed the fact that he was sick when Magee was substituted in the seventh. Schoonmaker,* Moore and Bolsterli played beautifully.

Neither side scored in the first two innings but in the third C. Dupee reached first on Shortman's fumble of a grounder, stole second and crossed the plate on G. Dupee's single. Smith and Schoonmaker flied out while Dupee worked his way to third and made the second run on Bolsterli's hit. The latter also reached home on successive hits by Egan and Moore. The side was retired through a pop fly of Hand's.

The Hopes continued to get ciphers and in the fifth the Y. M. C. A's sent two more men home, Schoonmaker walked, stole second and galloped home on Bolsterli's hit. Egan flied out. Bolsterli made a steal apd scored on Moore's grounder. Moore was caught stealing third and Pond fanned. The side was shut out for the remainder of the game.

A single by Overton and double by Martin in the sixth sent the former round the bases and gave Hope's their first run. In the seventh Feiring scored through his own single and Hartfelder's beautiful triple, while the latter crossed the plate shortly after on Martin's hit. The Hopes had several chances after that to tie the score but lost them all through foolish moves, one of which was made by Gordon after Martin has sacrificed himself between second and third to advance him. A little headwork then would undoubtedly have at least tied the score.

The summary and line-up:

Y. M. C. A.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Schoonmaker, ss.	1	0	2	3	0
Bolsterli, 2b.	2	1	3	1	1
Egan, 1b.	0	1	6	1	1
Moore, c.	0	2	10	1	1
Hand, lf.	0	0	1	0	0
Pond, cf.	0	1	2	0	0
C. Dupee, p,rf.	1	1	0	0	1
G. Dupee, p.	1	0	1	4	0
Smith, 3b.	0	1	2	0	0
	5	7	27	10	4

HOPES.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Roseberry, lf.	0	0	1	0	0
Overton, rf.	1	1	1	0	0
Martin, ss.	0	2	1	3	0
Shortman, 3b.	0	1	2	2	2
Gordon, cf.	0	0	0	0	0
Magee, cf.	0	0	0	0	0
Montross, p.	0	1	1	2	1
Feiring, 1b.	1	0	8	0	0
Hartfelder, c.	1	2	9	0	1
Hewitt, 2b.	0	1	1	4	0
*Munro.	0	1	0	0	0
	3	10	24	11	4

*Batted for Feiring in ninth.

Score by innings.

Y. M. C. A.	0	0	3	0	2	0	0	0	0	x—5
Hope.	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	—3

Stolen bases—Bolsterli, Moore (3), Pond, C. Dupee, Overton (3), Montross, Feiring (3), Munro, Hewitt. Two-base hits—Martin (2). Three-base hit—Hartfelder. Double play—Dupee, Egan, Schoonmaker. Base on balls—Montross, 1. Struck out—By Dupee, 9; by Montross, 9. Passed balls—Moore, 1; Hartfelder, 2. Umpires—Brown and Young. Scorer—Foster. Attendance—1,500.

SAFE WORKS DID IT.

That there was a lot of baseball prowess lying latent in the Safe Works team has along been evident to every observer of the league games. The lurking ability came to the surface Saturday when in the eighth inning a streak of heavy batting, four doubles and a single, gave them a victory over St. Mary's on the latter's grounds. It was a game full of uncertainties, well contested and well played by both nines.

It looked at the beginning as if St. Mary's might win. Up to the fourth inning Safe Works went out in one, two, three order, while their opponents were gradually making a small harvest of runs, and the hope of St. Mary's rooters ran high with a correspondingly frigid feeling in the vicinity of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely benches. But when the latter got the batting nerve of the baseball optic into working trim it was all up with the other side.

St. Mary's was first at the bat. Barry was given a free pass; Keen sacrificed; Scott singled, scoring Barry; Winn sacrificed; Lederer hit out a safe one, bringing in Scott. The inning ended by Taylor going out on Enwright's assist. An error in the field and Winn's single netted another run in the third.

With the score three to nothing Safe Works came to the plate in the last half of the fourth. Enwright led off with a single, was caught on second on a neat double play, Mack's assist off Allen's grounder to Scott, who threw to Winn, catching Allen at first. Franklin walked, Siegfried negotiated a safe bang, advancing Franklin, and Burns followed with a two-bagger, scoring both. Burns reached home, ending the tallying for that inning and leaving the teams tie at three.

Neither side scored in the fifth and sixth. In the seventh Lederer got a base on balls, stole second and came home on Keefe's safe rap. Winn got to first in the eighth, and added another run by scoring on Keefe's two-bagger.

With the score five to three Safe Works came to the benches in the eighth. Enwright went to first, hit by pitched ball; Allen followed with a two-bagger, advancing Enwright to third; Franklin's single scored both. Franklin was caught at second and Siegfried died before reaching the pan. Two out and the score tie once more, Burns advanced to the plate, gave the stick a confident twirl, and then lambasted the sphere away out in lone territory for two clean bases; Symons duplicated the performance, and Fish immediately repeated the same trick. Johnson fanned, ending the fun, leaving Fish on second. St. Mary's could only make a single run in the ninth, and the game ended with Safe Works one in the lead.

Burns for the Safe Works pitched a star game, striking out nine men, and only allowing a few scattered safe hits. His work at the bat practically won the game. In the middle of the seventh inning Keefe relieved Doyle in the box for St. Mary's. Scott at second base and Mack at short base did strong work for their team, the latter making six clean assists, one of them responsible for a double play. Enwright put up good ball and ran bases like a string colt.

The summary and line-up:

ST. MARYS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Barry, c.	1	1	6	1	0
Keene, 3b.	1	0	1	1	0
Scott, 2b.	1	1	4	3	0
Winn, 1b.	1	1	16	0	0
Lederer, cf.	1	2	1	0	0
Taylor, lf.	0	0	1	0	0
Keefe, rf, p.	0	2	0	0	0
Mack, ss.	0	0	1	6	0
Doyle, p, rf.	1	0	0	3	0
	6	7	34	13	0

SAFE WORKS.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Cooney, 3b.	0	0	0	2	1
Enright, 2b.	1	1	4	3	0
Allen, c.	2	2	9	2	2
Franklin, cf.	1	1	1	0	0
Siegfried, ss.	1	0	0	5	1
Burns, p.	1	3	0	1	1
Symons, 1b.	1	1	11	0	1
Fish, lf.	0	1	1	0	0
Jackson, rf.	1	1	1	0	0
	7	10	27	13	5

Score by Innings:

Safe Works.	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	4	x	—7
St. Mary.	2	0	1	0	0	1	0	1	1	—6

Stolen bases—Enright (3), Allen, Jackson, Keene, Winn, Lederer (2), Keefe, Doyle. Two-base hits—Allen, Burns (2), Symons, Fish. Double play—Mack to Scott, to Winn. Bases on balls—Off Burns, 3; off Keefe, 1; off Doyle, 2. Hit by pitched ball—Doyle, Siegfried, Enright. Struck out—By Doyle, 3; by Keefe, 3; by Burns, 9. Passed balls—Barry, 2. Umpires—Bodine and Townley. Scorer—Brose. Attendance—900.

WESTFIELD WANTS TO PLAY

OFFERS SEVERAL OPEN DATES TO TEAM CHOSEN FROM LOCAL LEAGUE.

Management of the Westfield Semi-Professional Team Glad to Meet Plainfield Consolidated.

An item which appeared recently in The Daily Press, was responsible for the following in the last issue of the Westfield Standard:

Cheap Advertising for Westfield.

Local baseball cranks are heartily in favor of selecting the best of the League players to go up against the arrogant Westfield team. With a nine formed by Montross and Allen, for battery, Egan on first, Lederer on second, Keen at third, Martin, short, Roseberry, Taylor and Gordon in the field, the Plainfield boys would give the semi-professionals down the line a "right smart" rab. The various League officials favor the idea and the attempt may be made before the season closes.—Plainfield Press.

Good Enough Clipping.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—I saw your article in Wednesday's Press regarding the team you had picked out to play Westfield. In reply allow me to say that I believe it is not necessary for you to go all the way to Westfield to have the team mentioned beaten as we have a team right here in Scotch Plains that can do the trick to the Queen's taste.

G. Johnston.
Manager Scotch Plains B. B. C.

The ball association recognizes that Plainfield is making an earnest endeavor to recuperate an interest that has long been dormant in that city. Experience here has shown that semi-professional ball secures the best results as to the character of the sport and the financing of the game. Without question Westfield is giving the only substantial ball in the county—the kind the public appreciates and supports. The local schedule is complete up to Aug. 16, with the exception of July 12 and Aug. 9. President Denman has advised City Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, president of their local league, that the home team would be glad to play any of their teams or a picked team comprising their very best on either of these dates. As to the Scotch Plains offer since it is enough to say that the Westfield team plays only teams of reputation.

BETTING ON BASEBALL GAMES WAS DENOUNCED

Rev. Mr. McMurray Preached Strong Sermon on Eighth Commandment Sunday.

THE GAMBLING HABIT.

HOW IT THREATENS THE GOOD NAME OF THE LOCAL BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Many Prominent In Church Work Are Reported to be Openly Betting on the Games—Strongly Condemned the Practice.

The practice of wagering amounts of money on the result of the baseball games played by the Plainfield Amateur League, an organization com*posed of young men identified with* Christian bodies, received severe condemnation from Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, Sunday evening, in a sermon based on the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Steal." Enthusiasm over the National game has led many young men to back their favorite team with sums exceeding belief until at present the matter is assuming serious proportions. Hitherto it has been looked upon with indifference by those not actually engaged in it and it remained for the West End divine to make the first demand for its suppression.

The League is composed of teams representing St. Mary's R. C. church, Hope chapel, the west end mission of the Crescent Avenue church, the Young Men's Christian Association and the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, the latter being made up of young men of Christian characters. The officials of the league are all earnest church workers and wide spread attention was directed to the matter when the clergyman announced through the papers he would preach against the betting habit.

After denouncing the teachings of Prodhon, the French anarchist, regarding the right of property and declaring that "the gambling fever is the cause of more petty larceney and wholesale fraud than any other form of sin." Mr. McMurray said in censuring the local gamblers:

"Baseball in itself is a healthful outdoor sport with no objectionable features. The executive committee of the City League has adopted rules giving clean, honestly played games, but if reports are true, the eighth commandment is being grievously violated and as evil practice has crept in which promises to wear the sport. It is the evil of gambling by betting on results of the series of games. I am informed by reliable persons that there was at least one wager of $100 on the outcome of a recent game between the teams representing Hope chapel and St. Mary's church. The wager was put up by a member of St. Mary's church and was won by a member of Hope chapel. The winner, conscious smitten, afterward returned the money, but the betting was a form of gambling and a direct violation of the law.

"Men are constantly making these wagers on coming games. Bets are now up on the successful winner of the series. It is not uncommon for men with money to go through the crowd of onlookers, seeking those who will place bets on the result of the game. The practice is as reprehensible and illegal as the race track gambling which caused so much agitation a few years ago, or the poolroom or any other form of gambling by play or betting which should be so stigmatized.

"As a baseball enthusiast and lover of all forms of healthy outdoor sports, I protest against the lowering of the tone of this game by the introduction of other elements—financial—than those of pure love of sport and desire to see the best team win the pennant; as a lover of law observance I protest against the open and flagrant infringement of law in this manner so clearly illegal; as a moralist I protest against this form of gambling because it breaks the spirit of the eighth commandment and the canons of sound morality."

In conclusion Mr. McMurray said, "The gambler, whether he wear the broadcloth or corduroy, is a thief in the sight of God and ought therefore to be so in the sight of men. This part of the commandment seems to have practical application at the present time in our own city."

Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, of Richmond street, is visiting at the home of her parents in Elizabeth.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

CONTRACTS FOR NEW HOSPITAL

AWARDED FOR CARPENTER AND MASON WORK MONDAY NIGHT.

Given to Wm. H. Pangborn and Charles M. Wilson by Hospital Board of Governors.

Following a session of two and a half hours, during which there was an exhaustive discussion of the subject of the new hospital, the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital decided Monday evening to authorize the building committee to give out the contracts for the carpenter and mason work for the main building. William H. Pangborn gets the mason work and Charles M. Wilson the carpenter work. The two contracts amount to about $35,000. As soon as the con*tracts can be signed and matters* arranged the work will be started. It is estimated that it will take fully one year to complete the buildings.

The work on the operating room will be arranged for a little later. This building is given by J. Howard Wright and is proceeding with the work will be commenced on this part.

Dr. W. C. Boone, medical director, submitted the following report of the work at the hospital for the past month. There were thirty-eight patients admitted, of which eighteen were discharged cured and one improved, while one died. There are twenty-one patients remaining. In the dispensary there were sixty-eight patients and 217 visits.

THOSE WHO ENFORCE LAW

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

Of the roundsmen, William Mattox is the oldest in service and no man on the force is better known or more popular than he. He was made roundsman in 1895 and has served with distinction since. The remaining roundsmen, John Flynn, became a member of the department in 1895 and one year later was appointed to his present position. He also is very popular by his close application to duty has won the confidence of his superiors.

Of the other men who are in the rank and file, nothing but the highest terms of praise can be applied to any and it is to these men that Plainfielders owe their sense of security when they retire to their homes for the night. 'Mid the stinging blasts of winter or the scorching heat of summer, they continue their lonely vigil while the city is wrapped in slumber, always ready to risk their life in the effort to protect others, and they ask no more save that their efforts be appreciated.

MY CREED.

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead, but fill their lives with sweetness now—speak approving and cheering words while their ears can hear them, and while their hearts can be thrilled and made happier by them. The kind things you will say after they are gone, say before they go. The flowers you mean to send for their coffins bestow now, and so brighten and sweeten their earthly homes before they leave them.

If you have friends that alabaster boxes laid away, full of fragrant perfumes of sympathy and affection, which they intend to break over my dead body, I would rather that you would bring them out in my weary and troubled hours, and open them, that I may be refreshed and cheered by them while I need them. I would rather have a glaring coffin without a flower, and a funeral without an eulogy, than a life without the sweetness of love and sympathy. Let us learn to anoint our friends beforehand for their burial; post-mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit. Flowers upon the coffin shed no fragrance backward over the weary way by which loved ones have traveled.

When You Go Into a Drug Store to get a bottle of Painkiller, examine it carefully to see if it is made by Perry Davis, and don't be persuaded to take something "just as good" because it is a few cents cheaper. There is only one Painkiller, "Perry Davis". Large bottles 25 and 50c.

WANTS AND OFFERS

$10 REWARD—Lost, while driving Friday afternoon, on roads between Plainfield and Manlo Park, a gold hunting-case watch and seal, or black fob seal marked with monogram C. F. L. Ten dollars reward if returned to 1094 Park avenue, Plainfield. 6 21 3 c

DIED.

MOORE—At Plainfield, N. J., on Wednesday, June 25, 1902, John Franklin Moore, aged 48 years, 10 months and 2 days.

TINGLEY—At the residence of his mother, Mrs. Harriett A. Tingley, 13 Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, Robert Tingley.

KOLB—In North Plainfield, June 27, 1902, Pearl D., daughter of Thomas and Margaret Kolb, aged 4 years and 4 days.

TERRY—On June 29, William H. Terry, aged 64 years.

MORSE—David Randolph Morse, suddenly, on Saturday, June 28, 1902, at 113 Fort Greene place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FLYNN—In this city, June 30, 1902, Thomas S. Flynn, in his 81st year.

PARTICULAR MEN are always pleased with the popular
J-BRAND COLLARS
They are Stylish, Comfortable.
GUARANTEED LINEN.
The only collar made with a heavy, 3 ply seam.
RETAIL TWO FOR A QUARTER AND EQUAL ANY TWENTY-FIVE CENT COLLAR MADE
Sold by live, up-to-date merchants everywhere, or two sample collars sent by mail, postage paid, for 25 cents.
Van Zandt, Jacobs & Co.
Troy, N. Y.

TWO NEW STYLES

TARMON Front 2½ Back 2½
TRI-TAB Front 2½ Back 2¼
OTHO Front 2½ Back 2
CLUB-POKE Front 2½ Back 2½
NUPOKE Front 2½ Back 2½
Special inducements to Dealers.

Double Triangle Brand Collars and Cuffs are sold by O. M. Dunham, E. M. Laing, Putnam & DeGraw and M. Weinberger, of Plainfield.

LEWIS S. THOMAS IS SAFE

PROVEN WITHOUT DOUBT THAT MISSING TEACHER IS THE OTHER THOMAS.

The Providence Thomas is at Cebu, While the One From Dunellen, is Quartered on Mindinao.

The latest advices from Manila state that the constabulary at Cebu, capital of the island of the same name, captured a Ladrone leader yesterday, who reported that his gang captured the four American school teachers who disappeared June 10. He says the teachers were imprisoned in the mountains and were alive as late as Thursday last. He believes they are still safe.

Lewis T. Churchill, of Dunellen, a relative of Lewis S. Thomas, received a telegram from the relatives of Louis A. Thomas, of Providence, R. I., this morning informing him that it is the Thomas, of Providence, that was at Cebu and who is missing. Lewis S. Thomas has been on the island of Mindinao, as has since been learned. This makes it certain that the latter is alive and not in the hands of the natives. An effort will be made to get word from him as soon as possible. It is rather strange that there should be two young men of the same name who went to the Philippines as school teachers.

Miss Jennings, daughter of F. C. Jennings, of Rockview avenue, is quite ill with intermittent fever.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?
ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, MD.
BALTIMORE, March 20, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your wonderful invention, I feel it a full discovery of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, under a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that the only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 770 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice FREE. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal expense.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. G. POTZ, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange.
Money to loan on Approved Security

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Shared income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

ACCEPTED HIS RESIGNATION

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes Was Then Made Pastor Emeritus of First Baptist Church.

CHOICE OF SUCCESSOR.

Pulpit Supply Committee Will Fill the Pulpit While Committee Appointed Will Look for a New Pastor — Words of Praise for Pastor—Accepted With Regret.

The interest manifested in the welfare of the First Baptist church was evidence June 25, at a meeting of the members of the church and congregation called for the purpose of considering the resignation of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and transacting other business relative to the pastorate. There was an unusually large attendance.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, a member of the Board of Trustees, presided at the meeting and O. B. Leonard, church clerk, was in his place. Mr. Randolph made some impressive remarks after the opening exercises. He spoke of the solemn occasion and of the necessity of proceeding deliberately. He referred to the service of Dr. Yerkes extending over a period of nearly forty years and said that there is not a man, woman or child in the church that does not love Dr. Yerkes and that there is not a family in that church that does not highly esteem and admire every member of his family. He expressed great pleasure that Dr. Yerkes and his family are to remain in the church and he felt sure that whatever is done will be in the line of his approving love. Mr. Randolph then announced that the resignation would be considered.

As this point Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, also of the Board of Trustees, made a few remarks expressing pleasure in echoing the sentiments of the first speaker. He said that the resignation of Dr. Yerkes may have been anticipated, but nevertheless it came as a great surprise and with feeling of deep regret. It meant the severance of a tie of forty years strength and that covers that part of his life in which he has given his best effort. He referred to the many sacred memories that now loom up of how faithfully the pastor had filled his position. Mr. Gilbert stated that those present were to consider the future of the church as well as the pastor's resignation. He then offered the following resolutions:

Whereas our much beloved pastor, owing to ill health, has felt constrained to tender his resignation after a successful pastorate of nearly forty years, during which time by his upright and consistent life and his faithfailing devotion to his work, he has endeared himself not only to the members of this church and congregation, but also to the whole community, and

Whereas, the severance of the tie which has so long united him to the church brings a feeling of sadness to the church and a desire on its part to make manifest to him the love and affection of its members toward him and their continued interest in his welfare, therefore be it

Resolved, That the resignation of Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D. as pastor of the First Baptist church of Plainfield, N. J., is accepted and that in consideration of his long and faithful service, and as an expression of our love and esteem for him he is hereby appointed the Pastor Emeritus of this church.

Resolved, That his salary as pastor of the church be continued until the appointment of his successor, at which time an appropriate salary shall be fixed for as Pastor Emeritus.

Resolved, That a committee of six, two from the Board of Deacons, two from the Board of Trustees, and two from the church at large be appointed by the chair with power to add to its numbers if deemed necessary, to select and name to the church at as early a date as possible a successor to Dr. Yerkes in the pastorate.

Following the reading of the resolutions, Mr. Leonard spoke briefly of the early years. He said that he was the clerk of the church when Dr. Yerkes first became its pastor and he wrote the official call to him in August 1863. He referred to the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Drake as a living and faithful one and to that of Dr. Yerkes as the same. He said that Dr. Yerkes had been with his people in joy and sadness for a long time and he was always willing to help others.

S. St. John McCutchen added his testimony of tribute to Dr. Yerkes and he spoke most highly of the long and faithful service given. He said that he had never known any other pastor and that Dr. Yerkes always sympathized with him promptly and cordially in his own affairs. He considered the pastorate a remarkable one and referred impressively to the fact that Dr. Yerkes as he now retires can look confidently into the future. Mr. McCutchen spoke of Dr. Yerkes as the dear old pastor and as the tried warrior who had fought a good fight, and concluded by saying that he would always be a pastor to those in the church so long as he lives.

George A. Chapman stated at this time that he would like to amend the resolutions so that the committee mentioned can be enlarged if necessary. This amendment was accepted. The resolutions were then passed by a rising vote given unanimously.

Mr. Randolph appointed the following persons on the committee according to the resolution: Deacons, Henry E. Needham and L. L. Bonney; trustees, Alexander Gilbert, T. S. Armstrong; at large, Charles W. McCutchen, Halstead C. Compton. The meeting then adjourned.

While it was not so stated, it is the intention of the church through its committee on supplies to fill the pulpit with supplies until a pastor is chosen. The committee appointed last evening will undoubtedly hear a number of preachers until the members settle on some one. The one selected will be asked to preach, after a report is submitted to the congregation. There will be no haste in this matter.

SIMPLY WEDDED.

Daughter of Police Sergeant Frederickson Became the Wife of James Stewart June 25.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Police Sergeant Christian Frederickson, of Leland venue, Wednesday June 25, at 5 o'clock, when his daughter, Miss Dorothea M. Frederickson, was made the wife of James Stewart, of this city. Only the immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church, of which the bride is a member.

In the parlor where the nuptial knot was tied, flowers had been used lavishly in decorating and the young couple stood in a pretty bower. They were unattended. Miss Frederickson looked charming in a simple gown of white material and held a cluster of bridal roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held after which Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a week's wedding trip. On returning they will reside on Belvidere avenue, where the groom, who is a builder, has erected a home.

TELLS OF TRUST COMPANY.

A Neat Leaflet Just Issued by the Plainfield Trust Company.

The Plainfield Trust Company has just issued a very handsome and complete little booklet, descriptive of the several branches of the business. The outside cover has a fac simile impression of the official seal of the company, finished in red and gold, and green and gold. They are to be given away to those interested and may be secured by applying to the officers of the company or upon request by mail.

As will be seen by the booklet, this institution is rapidly increasing its business and making many friends in the community. The company executes trusts of all kinds, conducts a general banking business, allowing interest on deposit subject to check, and also operates a savings department, paying three per cent. interest on all funds deposited. The officers are O. T. Waring, president; A. V. Heeley, vice president; Henry A. McGee, second vice president; J. Herbert Case, treasurer.

Livery Business Changes Hands.

Andrew Love has sold his livery and boarding stable business, carried on at 115 East Second street, to L. S. Pocock & Co. The new management has made some necessary improvements and has put the stock in such shape that will enable the new firm to give perfect satisfaction to all its patrons. The horses and carriages are new and up-to-date and will be much appreciated by the driving public.

Fraternal Visit.

At a meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps Friday evening, July 18, the Elizabeth and Bloomfield corps will make a fraternal visit and the department president and staff will also be present. A full attendance of the members is earnestly requested at that time.

Poisoning the System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

Edson Davis has been spending this week at Milltown.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 6, Investment of Stewardship. Text, John xiv, 15-28; Matt. xxviii, 20.

"We will come unto him and make our abode with him."

The deepest of all earthly mysteries lies hidden here. How can God manifest himself to some and others not see or know anything about it? There are many blessings and manifestations which God gives to men that are so open and plain in the sight of all men that no concealment is possible. Vigorous health, ability of body or mind, birth in a worthy family and among favorable surroundings, prosperity in business and a thousand things all show the favor of God and His goodness to men. To any one who will open mind and soul to understand they speak of God most plainly and show to the one who has received them that he owes all to God and reveals the nature, purposes and wishes of God to him.

Multitudes take the benefits and give no thought of gratitude to the Giver and bestow no care on His plans and claims for service. Still less is the relation to Jesus Christ recognized and His service accepted. The invisible is to many the nonexistent, but the real is that which lies back of all the visible and makes it what it is. The true man is back of body and brain and all the physical that is active in and through these, but they are not the man. His essential nature is different from the material form. His pleasures are different in kind from the mere gratification of physical appetites. His pain deeper and more bodily suffering. He does hunger and thirst and grow weary and finds that food, drink and sleep do not reach the need. Hunger and thirst of soul, weariness and anguish of heart, the cry of a soul in distress calling for some other soul, for some father heart and hand, crying in the dark and in the depths of the nature without sound of voice or movement of the lips—this is the need more insistent than all others.

To this soul appetite the Lord gives satisfaction. To one who calls upon Him in this way there is always response. To one who craves the companionship of God, the guidance into truth, the strengthening of right, the purity of penitence and joy of love, He comes and imparts of His own blessedness. These gifts do not carry with them by any manner of necessity new strength of body, brilliancy of mind or business prosperity. They are first of all related to the heart. They give treasure of a different kind. Their blessedness is an endowment of soul. It is an inner possession. No outward sign may be seen except as the face may reflect the inner calm that the deeper step assumes the authority and voice takes on tones of gladness and all bodily powers feel the stimulus of the divine affection. But this is life in all its depth and fullness and highest value.

Whether we have much or little of earthly goods, whether few or many friends among men, whether we are brilliant or dull of mind, if the Father and Jesus have come to us and by the Holy Spirit abide with us and in us we have treasure that makes us rich and happy. Does God dwell with you now?

The Duty Remains.

It is very saddening and astonishing to notice how many good living, well intentioned Christians content themselves with the smallest public acknowledgment to Almighty God by attendance at His house on His own special day. How the best disciples are not ashamed to go but once a day, though they may not have the excuse of duty, distance or delicacy to hold them back. Infinitely more seem to think that an uncertain and far less than fair attendance is quite sufficient. The ingenuity of the apologies made is very wonderful and not a little varied. Nearly all begin and end without the faintest possible conception that the primary object of public service is the worship of God. The accompaniments are merely details, and, though they should receive all due attention by those responsible for them and be conducted with reverence and in order, with a fitting sense of the people's needs, still their failure, if it exists, is no excuse. Music and preaching are two favorite pegs whereon to hang objections and deprecation. Granted that the first be poor and the second feeble, yet the duty of common prayer and public worship still remains.—Churchman.

Self Restraint.

Self restraint is a good discipline, and it is only one who has learned to submit who is able to control others. It enables one to overcome the desire to speak rash words and commit rash acts. The tongue, that unruly member, has set afire many a home. It has destroyed happiness, hopes and homes all because so few have learned to restrain its fatal liberty, and yet this, too, may be accomplished. That law of the members which wars against the law of the mind can be conquered, and there is no greater victory than one who ruleth his own spirit than for him that taketh a city.—Presbyterian Banner.

Do What Lies at Hand.

Our grand business undoubtedly is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand.—Carlyle.

Compensation.

God's consolations cannot come
Till pain has come before;
God's peace is only fully known
After the tempest's roar;
God's love is sweetest when it fills
The heart that aches with loss;
God's crown for us waits still beyond
The pathway of the cross.

—Forward.

QUARTER CENTURY FOR TEMPERANCE WORKERS

Woman's Christian Temperance Union Celebrated Its Anniversary Thursday.

AT VINCENT CHAPEL.

CHIEF SPEAKER WAS MRS. ELLA BOOLE, PRESIDENT OF N. Y. STATE UNION.

Mrs. John French Read a Brief Sketch of Union's Career in Plainfield—Mrs. Bourne, State President, Also Made a Speech.

The completion of its twenty-fifth year as an organization was signalized by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Thursday, with appropriate exercises in Vincent chapel. Many prominent people were among the large assemblage which filled the building and much enthusiasm in the proceedings was manifested.

On the platform were Mrs. E. A. Parse, president of the Union, Honorary Vice President Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, president of the New Jersey State Union, and Mrs. Ella Boole, of Brooklyn, president of the New York State Union, following scripture reading by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and prayer by Rev. John McMurray, the exercises were opened by a brief resume of the Union's career read by Mrs. John French, the present secretary. In this it was stated the women organized first to combat the liquor evil in 1877. The meeting was held in the lecture room of the First Baptist church and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Dr. Stockbridge; vice president, Mrs. William Scribner; recording secretary, Mrs. H. M. Conroy; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James Hayes. The Union continued to grow steadily and at the close of the first year boasted of eighty members. It now has 202. This organization has as various times conducted juvenile temperance organizations such as the Band of Hope and the at present Loyal Temperance Legion which, under the guidance of Miss May Howlett, has become an important institution, and was instrumental in the formation of the Plainfield Reform Club in 1884.

Following Mrs. French's most interesting sketch, Mrs. Bourne was introduced and addressed the members at some length in congratulatory terms. She reviewed briefly the work of the State branch and in closing asserted there were three reasons why the saloons, the W. C. T. U's. greatest enemies, continued to exist. These she declared to be; first, the appetite of the drinker; second, the greed and avarice of the manufacturers and retailers of spirituous liquors; and third, the vast amount of indifference displayed by the greatest majority of people in every community. When this was realized more fully by the members of the local unions, said she, and their campaign conducted on these lines, the White Ribbonners would make much more rapid progress. In closing she pleaded for an increased interest in the cause as it needed but activity to succeed.

Following a solo, "I'll Do What You Want Me to Do" by Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Mrs. Boole began her address on the subject, "The Woman in the [Case" which dealt with the wives and mothers who had to suffer from the drink curse through the thoughtless folly of men and boys. Referring to the occasion, Mrs. Boole said the cause advocated by the W. C. T. U. was to be congratulated in possessing such a strong local union as that of Plainfield and the community itself was fortunate in being able to lay claim to such an organization. She predicted a still greater growth in proportion for twenty-five years to come than the quarter century just rounded out. Her address in the main was a most convincing argument, well worded and aptly illustrated by means of numerous touching anecdotes.

Before the meeting closed an earnest appeal for recruits in the work was made by Mrs. Tomlinson and the request was not without good results. The exercises closed with benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. Shaw.

Vacation Days.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds. "I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores, cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 6—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The Father's care.—Matt. vi. 25-34; Ps. cxl. 12, 13.

God is revealed unto us under many different names and titles in His word, but none of these is so precious as the special revelation of Christ that He is our Father, carrying with it as He declares a father's love and care. The Fatherhood of God is no nominal relationship. Its reality is as sure as its preciousness. As our Father, God loves us, is specially interested in us and provides for us. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him." "Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat and body than raiment? Behold the fowls of the air, for they sow not, neither do they reap or gather into barns; yet your Heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?" God is our Father does care for us.

God's fatherly care does not mean exemption from trials and afflictions in this life. Though many draw this conclusion, such a doctrine is not taught in the word of God or in Christian experience. The Bible clearly teaches that "in the world we shall have tribulation" and that "whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as sons, for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?" On the basis of God's fatherly care many illogically assumed that no afflictions and trials should come, and when they do they doubt God's love and His loving care. Such doubts, however, are childish and foolish. God's care does not exempt us from the troubles of life. It does, however, guarantee that no troubles will come but what are for our good and that he will sustain us in them. What seems good to us is ofttimes ill, and what seems the worst is often for the best. God sees the end as well as the beginning and is therefore better able to judge what is best for us. We do not understand all His dealings with us, but when we cannot understand we can trust, and what we do not know now we shall know hereafter.

God's fatherly care should make us calm and confident amid all the diversities of our present life. Our Father can and He will take care of us. "Therefore take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or What shall we drink? or Wherewithal shall we be clothed? For after all these things do the gentiles seek; for your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you. Wherefore take no thought for the morrow, for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Thus spoke the Master Himself, who considered the loving care of a heavenly Father as did no one else, and hence we can rely upon what He says. "God will take care of you. Be not afraid."

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 10-22; Job xxxviii, 39-41; Ps. xxiii, 1-6; xxxvii, 5; iv, 22; cxlvii, 1-9; Isa. xl, 25-31; Luke xii, 13-32; Phil. iv, 1-6; Heb. xiii, 5, 6; I Pet. v, 6-9.

Roll the Stone You Cannot Drag.

I saw some men building a stone wall the other day, and they were putting into it some enormous stones that they wanted to get out of the driveway to the house. Some of them were so large that a pair of strong horses were unable to drag them away. If they can't drag their stones of difficulty, then they leave them and give up as defeated. But that is not wise, for among our daily trials and burdens of life, as well as among the rocks on the New England side hills, there is many a stone too big to drag that can be rolled into a place of service.—Rev. Louis Albert Banks, D. D., in Christian Endeavor World.

Teaching Children Religion.

Some think that children should not be biased in their religious ideas, but left to choose for themselves. It is a nice but impracticable theory. The truth is that the world and their own minds are full of the things which bias in the direction of evil, and as between a bias toward evil and a bias toward good we must decide, and decide very early. Anyhow, God seeks the opening bud rather than withering leaf.—Presbyterian Banner.

Thoroughgoing Faith.

Thoroughgoing faith is neither daring nor joyous. It is unconscious of itself. Self is the background whence proceed happy energies seeking the ends for which they were wrought into the soul of man.—Christian Register.

Infidelity and Belief.

Infidelity expends its strength in fighting and trying to destroy Christianity. Christianity expends its strength in reforming, ennobling and elevating the human race.—Religious Telescope.

Fair Weather Friends.

The friendship that does not reach you in your hour of adversity is little worthy of the name. Fair weather friends are, after all, enemies in disguise.—Presbyterian Journal.

NEXT SEASON'S STAFF AT BOROUGH SCHOOLS

Corps of Instructors Who Will be at North Plainfield Public Schools Next Fall.

ARE SEVERAL CHANGES.

THREE OF LAST YEAR'S TEACHERS HAVE RESIGNED THEIR POSITIONS.

Almond E. Clarke, of Amherst, Will Take Charge of Departments of Mathematics and Science in the High School.

There are few changes in the personel of the teaching staffs of the North Plainfield public schools for the coming year. But three of last year's instructors have resigned their positions. Arthur P. D. Tobien, professor of mathematics and the sciences in the High School department, goes to Somerville High School, where he will be instructor in mathematics alone. Miss Paulding, in the primary department, has accepted a more lucrative and advanced position in the public schools of Oceanic, N. J. Charles L. Lewis, of Plainfield, who has taught vocal music in the borough school, will be superseded in that duty by Miss Ethel Whelen, who comes here highly recommended for the work.

Mr. Tobien's place will be filled by Almond E. Clark, who has this year been graduated from Amherst College. Mr. Clark is a graduate of Cortland Normal School, Cortland, N. Y., and before entering Amherst spent four years in the active duties of his profession in New York State. In addition to his pedagogic abilities Mr. Clark is an athlete of some note and a star baseball player. This year he was on the first nine of Amherst College, and in several games did the pitching for his team, which ranks high among college clubs. In Mr. Clark the Board of Education has secured an efficient and able teacher, and the athletic association of the school will have a man to put vim and energy into life on the campus.

Miss Whelen, who will be the instructor in vocal music, belongs to South Hedley, Mass. Of large experience she has been associated with the public schools and in the Boston public schools, and last year taught music in Barnard College, New York.

Miss Whelen intends to take up her residence in Plainfield, and while still retaining her position at Barnard, will devote the earlier part of each week to the North Plainfield school. Miss Abbie Hanna, who replaces Miss Paulding, was graduated from Cortland Normal School this afternoon. She has had the advantage of considerable experience in the teaching line, before entering on the course just concluded at the Cortland Normal.

The names of those who will compose the entire teaching staff of the borough schools during the next year are as follows:

High School Department—Homer J. Wightman, principal; Almond E. Clark, Misses Susie E. Glass, Gertrude Snodgrass, Myrtle E. Montague, Marion Bush and Robert Lander.

Grammar School Department — Misses Alberta E. Waterbury, Laura M. Sydenham, Mary Yorke, Mary Gillette, Mary Weller, Minnie Green, Della Filkins, Jessie M. Hill, Ruth C. Hill.

Primary and Kindergarten Department—Misses Elizabeth Kiernan, Rebecca Tracy, Sarah Mackey, Grace Anderson, Minnie Filkins, Mary Hart, Abbie Hanna, Lizzie Southworth, Mary Ege, Florence Macdonald, Emma Tantum, Elizabeth Claypoole, Clara Atheton, Mabel Hare, Enid Walker, Elsie Horton, Edna French.

Miss Bessie Taylor will have charge of the cooking school and Miss Clara VanFleet will be the teacher of instrumental music.

MEMORIAL AT AMHERST.

Presented by Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh Street, This City.

President Harris, of Amherst College, has announced the gift to the library of $35,000 by Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, as a memorial to his father, the late Professor William S. Tyler, for many years professor of Greek at Amherst. The college is to have a new observatory to cost $65,000 and will have four telescopes, one of which will be the largest in New England, having a glass with a diameter of eighteen inches and a tube twenty-five feet long.

Acts Immediately.

Colds are sometimes more troublesome in summer than in winter, it's so hard to keep from adding to them while cooling off after exercise. One Minute Cough Cure cures at once. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, throat and lung troubles. L. W. Randolph.

ROSE TEA AT HILLSIDE CLUB

Successful Social Affair Given on Lawn and in Clubhouse Wednesday June 25.

A MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

Chief Feature Was the Production of the "Florodora Sextette" by Twelve Young Society People—Given on Lawn—Rain Caused Adjournment to Clubhouse.

Without doubt the social success of the season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was the rose tea and musicale given Wednesday, June 25 from 4 to 7 o'clock. The clubhouse was made attractive through pretty decorations consisting of roses and other flowers. The weather for the afternoon was perfect for the affair, a delightful breeze adding comfort to the guests. There were nearly three hundred people present. Rain came in the evening but the guests found the clubhouse equally as pleasant.

The first part of the programme was devoted to the musicale, which opened with a piano solo by Mrs. A. H. Atterbury. She rendered a pleasing selection and received hearty applause. The next number consisted of two soprano solos by Mrs. E. T. Newkirk, who sang in good voice. Her first number, "Happy Days," was given with violin obligato by Fullerton Waldo. The other number was "Tale of a Bumble Bee."

"The Golden Ring," and "Nymphs and Sheperds," were the titles of two soprano solos by Miss Rosabel Schroeder, which were much commended. A violin solo given with much expression by Fullerton Waldo preceded two soprano solos, "May Morning" and "A Memory," by Mrs. George S. Ring which were given to the delight of all. The two bass solos, "Creole Love Song," and "My Little Love," by Raymond A. McGee, were most cordially received. The programme was concluded with two soprano solos "I Love and the World is Mine," and "Spring Song," well rendered by Mrs. Roy Mack, with violin obligato by Fullerton Waldo. The whole programme was excellently rendered and unstinted praise was accorded those taking part.

Following this programme, all adjourned to the lawn back of the clubhouse where the "Florodora Sextette" was given in true style. There was a sudden change in the orchestra, by reason of the fact that those engaged to play were unable to play by note and it was necessary for the male members of the sextette to carry the piano from the clubhouse to the lawn, where Mrs. A. H. Atterbury presided, and Fullerton Waldo assisted on the violin. A tent served the purpose of a place for the performers to conceal themselves until they appeared before the audience.

The pretty and attractive dance was given in a charming manner and so well did it take an encore was given. Those taking part went through the dance in graceful style and the singing was a decided hit. The whole affair was effectively given by the following: Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Miss Rosabel Schroeder, Miss Daisy Elsberg, Mrs. Roy Mack, Miss Edith L. Burt, Miss Scott and Irving Stewart, W. de la R. Anderson, Roy Mack, F. W. Goddard, A. Willis West and Raymond A. McGee.

During the afternoon there was a decidedly pleasant social feature to the affair, while home-made candy and lemonade was offered for sale and light refreshments were served. Those in charge of the candy table were Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Mrs. James R. Blake and the Misses Holly. At the lemonade table were Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, assisted by Miss Lucy Smith. The refreshments were served by several young women.

Hartley Mellick, Robert Abbott and Dudley H. Barrows assisted by receiving tickets and the money for admission. That the affair was a success financially can be judged by the number of people present. The majority were women, but later in the afternoon many men arrived.

In the evening the "Florodora Sextette" was repeated in the clubhouse for the benefit of those who did not see it in the afternoon, the rain preventing its production on the lawn as had been planned.

The purpose for which the affair was given was to raise funds for the installation of a women's locker-room at the clubhouse.

The Fourth at Liberty Corner.

The residents of Liberty Corner are planning to celebrate July 4 in the old-fashioned way. There will be a concert, fireworks and other attractions.

Miss Alexander, of East Fifth street, who has been quite ill, is improving slowly.

HOW GRETHER WAS CAUGHT

Details of the Capture of the Murderer Who Escaped From Stroudsburg Jail.

CAUGHT AT BELVIDERE.

Grether's Italian Companion Was First Run to Earth—Then Grether Was Found on Hill in Warren County in an Exhausted Condition—Neither Man Resisted.

The local police have just received complete and full details of the recapture of Charles Grether, the murderer who escaped from the Stroudsburg, Pa., jail, with Benny Aiello, another murderer, last week. The department has always been interested in the former's case as it was he who planned and participated in the Demko assault and robbery, claimed to be the most cruel that has been committed in this city in many years. Both men were found in Warren county, this State, and were taken only a few hours apart. Neither put up any fight and simply surrendered when they found the game was up.

The first clue to the whereabouts of the pair was on the Monday following the escape when they stopped at the home of Peter Hunt, a farmer living near Dunfield. They were hungry and asked for something to eat. As Mr. Hunt was entirely alone he did not take the risk of attempting to capture the men unaided. Instead he fed them and later drove to Portland where he asked the operator to notify the sheriff of Monroe county that he believed the men had been at his home. Sheriff Mervine went at once to Warren county and after following the trail for twenty-four hours finally located the men on the Manunkachunk mountain, three miles from Belvidere.

With his posse the sheriff slowly began the work of closing in on the wily Grether and his Italian companion, but because of the small force and the difficult character of the land they found it no easy matter to corral the murderers. About 9 o'clock Thursday morning, however, Aiello was sighted hiding in a clump of bushes on top of the mountain and was taken a prisoner. He was worn out by hard traveling and want of food and made no resistance. He stated that Grether had left him only about an hour before and had started toward Belvidere. The Italian was sent back to the Stroudsburg jail, while the sheriff and a part of his force continued to search the mountain for Grether. The officers at Belvidere were notified to look out for the murderer.

It was about 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Frank C. Shay saw a man seated on the bank of the Pequest creek about five hundred yards from McMurtrie's mill. When the fellow saw that he was observed he held his hat in front of his face but made no effort to move. Mrs. Shay suspected that the man might be the one wanted and she hurried to the mill, where her husband is employed, and told him of what she had seen. He and Mr. McMurtrie started at once up the creek and soon came in sight of the stranger whom Shay recognized as Grether. As they came near, it was seen that the murdered was spreading strips of sticking plaster on his feet which were badly swollen and blistered. Shay asked for a match but Grether made no reply. He then addressed him as "Charley" and the fellow looked up. As he did so both Shay and McMurtrie grabbed him.

He made no effort to fight and told his captors that they need not worry themselves as he was too weak to make any effort to escape. Outside of some berries he had had nothing to eat since leaving the Stroudsburg jail, except the meal he got at Dunfield, and as a result he was thoroughly exhausted. Moreover his feet were so sore and swollen from long tramping that he was hardly able to stand on them. He had no firearms and was penniless.

The captive was taken to the Belvidere jail where he was placed in a strong cell. Sheriff Mervine was notified and he hurried to the county-seat where he had a talk with Grether. The latter refused to return to Pennsylvania without a requisition and application was made for this the next day.

Mrs. Delevan, of Brooklyn, spent yesterday with friends in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Newhall, of this city, will spend the summer at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Councilman George P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue, has recovered from his recent illness.

Mrs. Joseph S. Martin and children, of Duer street, have returned from a visit to Bangor, Pa.

JUNIORS AT GRAVE.

Assisted in Conducting the Funeral Services of Henry L. Kilner Held Friday Afternoon.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Henry L. Kilner were conducted at his late residence on Somerset street Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were afterwards held at the Wilson Memorial chapel, of which Mr. Kilner was a member. Benjamin W. Hand officiating on both occasions.

At the chapel Mr. Hand preached a short sermon, choosing for his text, "I am the resurrection and the life," and dwelling impressively on the uncertainty of life. At the grave the rites of the Jr. O. U. A. M. were conducted under the direction of H. R. Thorn.

Members of Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., Fairview Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Gallia, and Franklin Council, of Plainfield, attended the funeral in a body. There was a profusion of floral wreaths and emblems from relatives, including three large pillows, one from each of the societies named.

The pall-bearers were William Kriney, Willias Demler, John Mobus, Frank Titus, H. R. Thorn and B. Compton.

VISITORS APPOINTED.

At Meeting of Woman's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital held its regular meeting Friday, when visitors for July, August and September were appointed, also the purchasers. Mrs. Hugh Hastings will be the purchaser for July, Mrs. W. T. Pelletier for August and Mrs. M. B. Long for September.

The visitors are as follows: July—Mrs. Hugh Hastings, Miss Schipper, Mrs. Edward Love, Mrs. Emil Woltmann, Mrs. D. T. VanBuren and Miss Elizabeth Cock; August—Mrs. W. T. Pelletier, Mrs. W. M. Stillman, Mrs. Abram G. Hooley, Mrs. Daniel T. Ginna, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. Rowland Stover; September—Mrs. W. A. Wheeler, Mrs. W. H. Clark, Mrs. M. B. Long, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mrs. R. W. Ware, Mrs. A. T. Slauson.

OLD OFFICERS REMAIN.

Perseverance Lodge Kept the Old Officers in for the First Time.

For the first time in the history of the organization, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., re-elected its present officers, last Friday, by so doing retaining City Judge William N. Runyon at its head. The past six months have been most successful ones for the lodge and the members were reluctant to part with the administration.

As elected the officers will remain as follows: Chancellor commander, William N. Runyon; vice chancellor commander, Charles M. Ulrich; prelate, Harvey L. Patterson; master of work, James Armstrong; master at arms, James J. McGinley; inside guard, Samuel Clouston; outside guard, Peter Strem.

THOMAS KILLED.

Despatch From Manila That Dunellen Boy Teaching School There Was Murdered by Natives.

A despatch from Manila states that the four American school teachers at Cebu, who disappeared after an outing on June 10, were undoubtedly murdered. Among these is named Lewis S. Thomas, who formerly lived in Dunellen and was engaged in newspaper work here. The Ladrone leader, who wore the watch and revolver of Mr. Thomas, was killed.

The latter was a graduate of Leal's School and of Princeton University in 1899.

DEATH OF ROBT. TINGLEY.

Well-Known Letter-Carrier Passed Away Friday Afternoon.

Robert Tingley, favorably known in the borough, as a letter carrier for a number of years, died at his home on Grandview avenue Friday afternoon. Mr. Tingley had been ill with consumption, and for the past five months was unable to attend to his duties.

Mr. Tingley was married a little over a year ago, but his wife has since passed away. He leaves a mother, a brother, Leslie, and two sisters.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-six, eats any thing she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic. L. W. Randolph.

No Meeting Until Fall.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will not meet again until fall.

POCKET HANDKERCHIEFS.

The Reason They Are Made Square Instead of Oblong Is of Interest.

It is not generally known why pocket handkerchiefs are always made square. The reason is interesting. In the year 1784, on September 22, a decree was issued by the king of France ordering that the length of all the pocket handkerchiefs made in the kingdom must be equal to the breadth and also that time pocket handkerchiefs have been made in the shape of a square all over Europe, says the New York Commercial-Advertiser.

Apropos of linen lore, a most instructive little booklet, just brought out, gives a comprehensive history of linen, ancient and modern. More than 4,000 years ago the cultivation, spinning and weaving of flax gave employment to many of the world's inhabitants. Until the establishment of spinning mills in 1828 the scutched flax was spun into yarn by the farmers' wives and daughters, originally by a distaff and spindle, which waf afterward replaced by a spinning-wheel worked by the foot. Now these are employed more for ornament than use and have been superseded by new methods. The German linen trade dates back to A. D. 600, and Russia, Norway and Sweden have not been neglectful of their linen manufactures. Ireland, being able to grow flax and spin the yarn and weave and bleach the linen, has always taken a first place in this industry, even as far back as Henry III., in William the Third's reign an act was passed to permit its import into England, and the trade has gone on and prospered ever since.

WHOOPING-COUGH EPIDEMIC.

Introduced by Two White Children, the Malady Ravages British New Guinea.

Mr. G. F. Le Hunt, in his annual report on British New Guinea for 1900, according to the London Express, says:

"Owing to the introduction into Samara from Cooktown of the whooping cough by two white children, the vessel having a clean bill of health, though the sickness was rife at Cooktown at the time, lives innumerable have been and are now sacrificed on a blunder, which may be compared to the fatal introduction of measles—a child's complaint—into Fiji, resulting in an estimated loss of 40,000 natives.

"In this case, unfortunately, there was no medical officer at Samara, and no one realized the danger from that center of traffic. The malady spread with frightful rapidity, and swept first the coasts, and is now ravaging the interior.

"But the mischief does not end there, for, as each village is attacked and as no death can in the belief of the natives be the result of any natural cause, but must have been brought by some unknown enemy, who can only be discovered by witchcraft, the sorcerer is at once consulted, and some unfortunate village or some other tribe is designated as the culprit, and a midnight massacre of innocent people is the result."

QUEERLY ACQUIRED RANCH.

Immense Tract Granted to Syndicate for Building Texas' State House.

Texas is noted for the number and extent of its ranches. Of a total of several thousand, ranging in size *from a few thousand to several mil*lion acres, the large ones averaging 50,000 acres. The greatest is the "X. I. T." in the Panhandle, which embraces half a dozen counties and contains nearly 3,000,000 acres.

It belongs to the "Capitol syndicate," a company of men who received this vast territory some 20 years ago in return for providing the magnificent state house at Austin. The range is divided into seven sections, each managed by a foreman and each connected with the headquarters by means of telephones. The whole is run with the system and dispatch which characterizes all great industries, says the Review of Reviews.

On this ranch now run considerably over 100,000 head of cattle, and an idea of its size may be gained from the fact that the pasture fence extends 50 miles in one direction and 25 miles in another, making a total of about 5,000 square miles. From time to time small parcels of land have been sold, and meanwhile valuations have appreciated from 50 cents an acre to four times that amount.

Siamese King's Mistake.

The king of Siam is not as yet a Shakespearean scholar. On the recent occasion of his visit to Denmark he accompanied the crown prince to Helsingfors, and was duly conducted to the grave of Hamlet, prince of Denmark. Here he took off his hat and stood for a moment in reverential silence. Then he turned to the crown prince, he said, with deep sympathy: "A relation of your royal highness, I presume. Has it been long dead?"

Dairying in New York.

Outside of the business of supplying New York city with milk, the farmers of New York state have an investment of $42,450,600 in cows, and a corresponding amount in dairy farms and fixtures, the total being not less than $150,000,000.

Sultan's Pet Lions.

Among the pets of the sultan of Morocco are seven lions. These he permits to range the courtyards of the palace at night, to act as guards to the royal harem.

A Squirrel Affair.

That gray squirrels are fast and long-distance swimmers was proved one day last fall to the entire satisfaction of a ferryman at Middle Haddam, Conn. He heard two gray squarrels scolding on a tree near the bank of the river. Suddenly a fierce fight began, which was terminated by the larger squirrel leaping from the tree into the river. The ferryman saw the dive taken, and watched for the squirrel's reappearance with great interest. The squirrel, instead of striking out for the near-by shore, started for the opposite side. A strong current was running, and although the waves ran high, the little animal breasted them like a veteran. The man followed in his boat. When the middle of the river was reached and he had gained on the squirrel he quickened his stroke, but the squirrel forged ahead, and gained the shore 15 or 20 feet ahead of his would-be captor.—Youth's Companion.

The Pressure of Light.

The idea that the waves of light produce a mechanical push, or pressure, was advanced years ago by Clerk Maxwell, but he could only offer a theoretical proof. Recently Prof. Lebedieff, of Moscow, has made an experimental demonstration of the "pressure of light." He employs a radiometer resembling the familiar Crookes radiometers with their revolving vanes, but uses a larger and more completely exhausted bulb, from which the heating effect that is the principal agent in moving the Crookes vanes is excluded. When the light falls upon the vanes they are driven before it, and the intensity of the pressure thus revealed comes within ten per cent. of that calculated by Maxwell. The effect is independent of the color of the light, and directly proportional to its energy.—Science.

Winter Swimmers in Boston.

No matter what the temperature of the Atlantic ocean, or how full Boston harbor be of ice, the faithful few who for years have bathed right through the calendar at L street go to the city bathhouse for their dip and after warming in their glass sunhouse on the beach one day lately ten bathers took the plunge in water 35 degrees above zero, and it is a good average number for any week day of the winter season. A pleasant Sunday or holiday, of course, brings crowds to the beach, as many as 1,000 in one instance, went in last Sunday. This represents pretty well the winter bathers of Boston and its surrounding towns.—Boston Journal.

What's in a Name.

Bobbie was wearing his first trousers and was as proud as a boy has the right to be under such circumstances. He felt himself a man indeed and was very anxious to be acknowledged as such. But his elders were unappreciative. Uncle Harry had poked fun at him in a quiet way, even going so far as to inquire what "those things" were. So Bobbie went to Aunt Helen for consolation.

"Why, Bobbie," she exclaimed when she caught sight of him, "how grand you look! I never saw you dressed like that before."

"I ain't dressed," retorted the boy indignantly. "Vese are pants."—Brooklyn Life.

Rush for Public Office.

The people of New York are not, as a rule, have to be dragged into public office. The municipal civil service records prove this. There are at present on the various eligible lists for positions in the competitive schedules there 4,500 names and on the registration lists for positions in the labor schedule, 3,542 names. In addition to the above the commission has on hand the applications of 13,194 persons who have applied for positions in the competitive class, and 26,879 of the labor class. Over 10,000 of these latter applications are for jobs in the street cleaning department.—N. Y. Sun.

Women Physicians in India.

In the memory of people not yet venerable great changes have taken place in the status of Oriental women, and not the least important are to be found in India. Hospitals for women have been built by native princes, while subscriptions of well-to-do Hindoos, Mahometans and Parsees have made such institutions possible in many centers of population. Women physicians are officially appointed and maintained, and the number is steadily increasing.—N. Y. Tribune.

King Edward as Brewer.

King Edward lately paid a visit to Bass' brewery at Burton-on-Trent. Accompanied by Lord Burton the party of guests inspected the process of brewing, and the king himself mashed a brew of strong ale, which will be stored for 20 or 30 years and used on some royal occasion.—N. Y. Sun.

One or the Other.

Professor—From your experience in life how would you analyze amiability, Miss Katherine?

Miss Katharine (briskly)—Oh, amiability, professor, is always a sign of great weakness. It is the virtue of great strength.—Detroit Free Press.

As Suggested.

Boren—Now, what would you do if you were in my shoes, Miss Cutting?

Miss Cutting—I'd point the toes toward the front door and give them a start.—Chicago Daily News.

Medical Student at Hospital.

I. W. Voorhees, a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1901, and now studying at the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, has taken a position at Muhlenberg hospital for the summer.

Miss Symons, of East Third street, is spending the summer in Vermont.

MORE DETAILS ABOUT HOPE'S COUNTY FAIR

Fun Will Commence Independence Day Morning at 9 o'Clock and Last All Day.

ATHLETIC SPORTS TOO.

GREAT TIME PLANNED BY YOUNG MEN OF HOPE CHAPEL Y. M. A.

